MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE LAUREL-LEAF.

BY PERCY B. ST. JOHN.

CONTINUED

"If you are of this country, monsieur," he said, addressing the general, who was in private clothes, "can you inform me whose chateau that is yonder?"

"The Chateau de Morlaix, belonging to Madame Froment," replied the general, with extreme politeness.

"Oh!" said the other, almost sardonically, "that is the Chateau de Morlaix, and it belongs to Madame Froment! And these neat farms, these smiling prairies ——"

"All belong to Madame Froment," replied the general, a little more distantly, "whose daughter I have the honour to present to you."

The other looked curiously at the blushing girl, and then, with a flashing eye, bowed most respectfully to her.

"The whole of the estates of the Morlaix seem to belong to Madame Froment," said the other, with a quivering lip.

"All," replied Louise gently, while Edouard began to frown.

"And will shortly belong to monsieur, I suppose?" continued the other, bitterly.

"Monsieur, this cross-questioning is beyond the bounds of ordinary curiosity. If monsieur has anything to say to me, my name is the General Count de Bolfort," said Edouard, impatiently, for the first time betraying a secret which the fate of the Empire made him rather anxious to conceal.

"Sir," said the other, unable to restrain his emotion, and even vainly checking a tear, "I seem, no doubt, to you very impertinent. If you have any satisfaction to ask of me, my name is the General Count de Morlaix."

"Ah monsieur!" cried all; while Edouard added, "It is not the son of Gaston Bonas would wish to offend Monsieur le Comte."

"Can I believe my ears?" cried the other, completely bewildered; "the more I hear, the more I lose my senses. Little Edouard Bonas is the distinguished general, Count de Belfort, whose conduct at Quatre Bras was the talk of all Europe."

"Monsieur le Comte, my name is Edouard Bonas; my title was never known to my friends; I had intended to have kept it a secret, but my impatience betrayed me."

"Your hand, my friend," said the count, mournfully; "but having left France in 1790, all I see astounds me."

"If Monsieur le Comte will do us the honour to come down to the chateau——"

"No, my friend. I shall return to Russia to my pupils. My title, my castle, my estates, have become the property of a stranger."

"Alfred de Morlaix, they are your own," said a deeply moved voice behind.

"Madame Froment!" said Edouard.

"Madame Froment," exclaimed the count, turning pale as death.

"Estelle, Countess de Morlaix, and the Viscountess Louise, your daughter. But why have you been twenty years away," said the ex-madame Froment, mournfully.

"General, support me!" replied the poor count, tottering and trembling. "What is the meaning of all this?"

"My dear Edourd, go forward and bid the servants be ready to receive their master: we will follow slowly."

Estelle then took her husband's arm and walked slowly down the hill towards the chateau. In 1789 Alfred, Count de Morlaix, had contracted a secret, but well-attested marriage with Estelle Davand, the daughter of a rich receveur general, who was, however, a commoner. In 1792 was born a daughter, Louise; and in the same year Alfred, whose life was forfeited, emigrated. On parting with his wife it was agreed that she should follow him as soon as possible. Correspondence was difficult and dangerous; but it was agreed that a laurel-leaf—plucked by Estelle's hand and given to her husband—was to be the signal for her going to England. The laurel leaf never came; and some years after the receveur general and great army-contractor dying, Estelle inherited a large fortune. With this she went down to her husband's commune, repurchased his property, and improved it, in the hope that he would one day come and claim it. Until, however, he owned her before the world as his wife, she determined to pass for a commoner's widow, and had, with all save the priest, kept the secret. When taking his leave of her, her husband had said, "My Estelle, if I die, let my daughter marry a soldier and a gentleman." To this also she determined to adhere.

"And the laurel-leaf?" whispered Estelle as they went.

"My dear wife, I am ashamed to say it is here next my heart. I never sent it. Certain of my proud relatives, who were ashamed of what they called my mesalliance, brought me word that you were dead. I too readily believed them. I placed the laurel-leaf next my heart, and remained faithful to your memory. Providence has rewarded me for it."

"You are not, then, ashamed of your mesalliance?" said Estelle, anxiously.

"Estelle, candidly, at my age one has prejudices very difficult to overcome, especially after twenty-three years of poverty and exile; but when I witness your devotion, your generosity—when I gaze around me and admire your noble heart—when I think," and the count wept tears of joy as he spoke—"that you have preserved unto me the inheritance of my fathers, I think the mesalliance is on your side, for you have been the nobler of the two. Yes, my Estelle, here is my answer: I consent to the marriage of my child, the Viscountess de Morlaix, with the miller's son."

"Alfred!" cried Estelle, radiant with joy, "I am fully rewarded. My affection for you, which has never swerved, is greater than ever, and we shall have many happy days yet; and be assured the happiest hours will be those caused by the happiness of our children."

The count pressed her hand and was silent.

The astonishment of the villagers we could not attempt to paint, but their joy was even greater than their surprise. They were—so is human nature—doubly proud of the kindness shown them by Madame Froment when they found she was the Countess de Morlaix. There were, it is true, old people who murmured at the marriage of the son of the miller with the viscountess: but then they had, since the revolution, seen so many strange things, that they even got used to the introduction into the coat-of-arms of the Morlaix of a Laurel-leaf.

THE END.

GENERAL BURROW'S RETREAT.

A Graphic Description of the Sufferings of the British Troops After Their Defeat by Ayoob Khan.

A correspondent of the London Morning Advertiser gives the following description of the retreat of the remnant of General Burrows' brigade after the disaster of Kuhan-i Nakud:—"Not until two hours after we had started from our intrenchment did we commence to realize the helpless nature of our condition. We had been under arms since daylight, about 4 a. m., and it was 6 p. m. We had been marching and fighting against an overwhelming enemy since 9 a. m., and had been thoroughly beaten, leaving about one half of our force killed upon the field, with two guns lost and the colors of the Sixty-sixth and Bombay taken. Nearly all our ammunition was captured—infact, all that was saved was what the men were enabled to carry away with them from the field. We had been savagely attacked upon leaving our intrenchments, and how we escaped annihilation is yet a mystery. In two hours we had only accomplished about six miles of our wretched journey, as we had to face about and defend ourselves at every bend or turn of the road, and it was impossible not to see and foretell in the horrors that we saw around us the fate that might yet be in store for ourselves. In the front, most of the horses bleeding and wounded, rode Col. Mainwaring, commanding the advanced guard, and Col. Griffith, while in the centre was Gen. Burrows, doing all he could to cheer and keep up the courage of the men. With him were Lieutenant Lynch, wounded; Captain Grant, wounded; Major Vench, and Drs. Burrows and Eaton, while Col. St. John overtook us later on. With the rear guard, if such it could be called, were Brigadier Nuttall and the remnants of his cavalry, Lieut. Wittuck, Lieut. Geoghegan and Majors Rivers. Finding it impossible to turn back the confused mass of fugitives from the road they had chosen, General Burrows decided that it was better to stay with them than to divide the force, although he knew that the want of water would add terribly to the pitiable position on the march. As we moved silently and sadly along, the road soon became strewn with dying wretches, worn out with fatigue and devoured by a burning thirst that added frenzy to their sufferings. Strong men and weak lads alike abandoned themselves to despair, and lay themselves down rather than attempt a further struggle with a ruthless foe. Had we known more of the locality, it would have been better to have kept more to our right and in a few miles we should have struck across the Argandab River, where we could, perhaps, have crossed and obtained refuge from the enemy, and water for our people and cattle. But it was fated otherwise, and we were obliged to follow the stream. Meanwhile we longed for safety and the darkness of the night, but when it came it was one of suffering and horror. Order and method became less and less as we advanced through the gloom. Corps and regiments were mixed up hyphow and anywhere. Soldiers and camp followers were huddled together, when, for a few uneasy moments, we halted in one inextricable mass of moaning and agonized humanity. Horses, mostly wounded, came lame, with their tongues fevered and blistering with thirst; camels, baggage ponies and mules were mixed up confusedly together. Nothing could be done to restore order or arrangement, and the wounded and weary wretches, man and brute, lay down to sleep, never, in most cases, to rise again. After two very brief halts during the night, on both of which we were certaken and attacked by the Afghan horse, we reached Hoaz-i-Madadd Khan, a distance little short of 16 miles from our fatal battle ground at Khushk-i-Nakhud. As we marched, or rather dragged, through the villages of this district, the enemy, taking advantage of the dawn just breaking again, pressed down upon our rear and flanks, and here Nuttall delivered splendid charge with the few sabres he had left. Hearing the sounds of hoofs along the road in our rear, he took advantage of some friendly vineyards skirting the path, and posted 50 of his best men, on the least tired horses, in ambush, to fall upon our pursuers. The plot answered capitally, for, as the Afghans sighted our last retreating file and a lagging camel or two laden with baggage, they quickened the pace to a gallop and came at us. To their utter astonishment, our files opened and let them pass, and then, as the last horseman went through, we drew up, front rank kneeling across the road, which was bounded on either side by high rocks impassable for cavalry, and, having fixed bayonets, gave them a volley. As they attempted to get away by the flank toward the vineyards they were suddenly charged by Nuttall and his 50 horsemen, and cut down almost to a man. But this was only a temporary success, as five miles further on, where we debouched into a plain, the enemy again overtook us in the open, and pressed hard upon our rear, seizing most of our baggage and cutting up the wretched camp followers, who were too overcome with fatigue and thirst to fly. Our soldiers, however, even now weary unto death—feeble, wounded, famished, and almost driven mad with thirst—still made a gallant stand against the fierce charge of the Afghan horsemen. Still the pursuit continued, and as our people became more enfeebled and despondent, the confusion around far exceed that of the previous night—men, horses, camels and ponies without shelter from the guns and tulwars of the enemy, without water, without food, without ammunition! The road over which we passed was covered with plundered and torn baggage, with dead cattle and with stiffened corpses. My spirit of discipline was indeed shocked to see our men were becoming more like wild beasts than human beings. Worn out myself with fatigue, covered with blood, and suffering severe pain from my wound received early in the day, I should have fallen from my horse had not the wounded man I was carrying en croupe caught me in his arms. Ten miles from Candahar, the General, with two of the staff, rode on to report the disaster to Gen. Primrose, and from the time he started we suffered no further molestation from our pursuers, who probably thought that a force might be sent from Candahar to help us on our way.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1.

Trade with France and Brazil.

The efforts of the present Government to secure a reduction of the French duty on vessels built in Canada and to open up direct trade with Brazil were scouted at and sneered at by the opposition and derided as failures. But, as in the case of the Pacific Railway, the Grit seers appear to have been altogether astray. The following cheering telegram from Quebec on Sept. 29th, shows that the French Government will in all probability yield to the representations of our delegates, and thus a highly profitable trade will as a natural consequence spring up between the Dominion and France :

M. Foursene Escande, of France, writes to the French press in this city expressing the belief that by next season the duty on Canadian built ships in France will be reduced to 40c per ton. He anticipates a revival in Quebec of ship building, especially of vessels destined for the French fisheries. He also states it is his present intention, in connection with Messrs. Dion Bros. of Granville, to commence next year running a new line of steamers between that port and Quebec. He believes it can be supported by the subsidies of $50,000 promised by the Canadian Government and $100'000 by the Government of France, and by the trade in exporting Canadian live stock and phosphates to France.

So far as trade with Brazil is concerned the Dominion Parliament appropriated $50,000 to be given to a line of steamers to trade between Canada and Brazil, provided that country should do likewise. It is probable that at the coming meeting of the Brazilian Chambers the offer of the Canadian Government will be accepted, and in such case a line of steamers will at once be established. Thus do the Grit prophecies of woe and ill to the country prove to have been founded in the imaginations of their authors.

Civic Committees.

Three of the Civic Committees were summoned to meet last night, namely the Water and Gas, Market and Public Works Committees. But two of these held sessions, the Water and Gas Committee adjourning for lack of a quorum, the members present being Ald. Hambly (Chairman), Petrie and McInnich, in addition to those engaged in the other meetings. The proceedings were as follows :

PUBLIC WORKS.

There were present : Ald. Lingham (Chairman), Jas. Smith, Farley and Costello.

The Street Surveyor, in answer to the Chairman, said the work at Downey & Preston's siding is not finished. The gravel is, however, packing nicely, but more gravel will be required on the west side before the roller is run over it.

The Chairman said Mr. Downey had promised, if the siding were left as it was until New Year's, he would remove it nearer to his building and make it satisfactory to the Council,

It was resolved to report to this effect.

The offer of H. A. Thompson to sell his quarry on Cedar Street and allow the same to be valued by Mr. Ockerman and the Street Surveyor, and to let the purchase money to apply on his taxes, was next taken up.

The Street Surveyor said the quarry was not a large one, and would probably last for two or three years. He thought stone enough could be got from the street for this year's purposes.

It was resolved to have the Street Surveyor examine the property and report to the Council at its next meeting.

The following accounts were recommended to the Finance Committee for payment:—

John Farrell, for cutting thistles	8 2 00
Thos Macdonald. 5 cords of stove wood.	10 00
H. B. Rathbun & Son, 20 cords paving blocks	69 00
H. B. Rathbun & Son, 100 ft. lumber	1 00
Robt. McCoy, sr., gravel for Catherine Street	132 34
Jas. Orr, stone on Catherine Street	81 48
R. McCoy, jr., gravel on Bridge Street, north	99 36
P. Weims, stone	47 00
Jas. Manley, stone on Grier and Ridley Streets	69 30
Flint & Holton, lumber	91 49
Flint & Holton, another account	376 98
J. W. Walker, hardware, &c	112 51

The Committee then adjourned.

MARKET.

PRESENT.—Ald. Farley (Chairman), Holden, Costello, Jas. Smith, Lingham, Frost.

The Chairman said the meeting was called to see about getting wood and coal for use in the market buildings.

Ald. Costello suggested that the Chairman ask the two firms of the city for sealed tenders for the coal.

Ald. Lingham said that last year tenders for all the coal required by the city were asked for at once.

The Chairman was instructed to ask for tenders for coal and wood for the market buildings, the understanding being that he would see the Chairman of the Fire Committee with reference to the carrying out of Ald. Lingham's suggestion.

It was decided to recommend the purchase of a stove for the Mayor's office.

Committee adjourned.

Sporting Notes.

A special trotting meeting will be held on the Bay Side Track on Thursday, Oct. 7th, when a purse of $70, divided, will be offered for competition among eight local horses that have not previously contested for money. The several horses entered for this event are undergoing daily training on the track, and an exciting and very interesting race may therefore be looked for.

Quoiting hereabouts is again coming into popularity, and frequently during the week friendly contests take place between those who take an interest in this pleasing and popular pastime.

A lacrosse tournament is being arranged amongst the printers of Montreal.

The Kingston News states that Captain Colbert says of the Bloodhound:—In regard to her sailing qualities, she is one of the fastest and stiffest crafts on the lake. She has never been down to her running board yet, although she has been out in some pretty heavy gales, in one of which her main traveller was wrenched from her, taking away part of the deck with it. She will be fitted up by Messrs. Oldrieve and Horn.

The Mail's special from London on the 29th says :—" Hanlan made his appearance on the Thames at 11 o'clock this forenoon. He has had a good night's rest, and looked fresh and hearty. An enormous crowd had gathered to see him. George Hawthorne had his boat in good fix, and when the champion walked out of the Bull's Head and took his seat in her, he was loudly cheered. He had a long row, putting in excellent work, and showing up quite fresh at the finish. On his way up the river he met Trickett, and the latter courteously welcomed the Canadian. The meeting of the two men was the signal for another round of cheering from the crowd on the bank. In the afternoon Hanlan came out again and had another long pull, rowing in splendid form. Trickett and Laycock were also out twice during the day, but public attention was quite monopolized by Hanlan."

A professional race for single and double sculls took place at Lake Maranock, Maine, on Sept. 20th. In the single sculls the following started : Stevens, Maine ; Ten Eyck, Peekskill, N. Y.; Plaisted, New York ; Lee, Newark ; Riley, Saratoga ; Hamilton, Maine ; and Gaudaur, Toronto. The race was very close between Gaudaur and Ten Eyck, but the former won. Ten Eyck was second, Riley third, Lee fourth, Plaisted fifth, Hamilton sixth, and Stevens seventh. Time—Gaudaur, 22.30 ; Ten Eyck, 22.35 ; Riley, 23.15. Lee, 23.30. In the professional double scull race the following started :—Kennedy and Ten Eyck, Lee and Gaudaur, Ross and Davis, Kennedy and Ten Eyck won in 20 minutes, the fastest on record.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY RECEIPTS.—The Grand Trunk Railway receipts for the week ending Sept. 25th, 1880, were $217,780, as against $200,069 at the corresponding period last year—an increase in 1880 of $17,711. The aggregate increase for 39 weeks has been $1,429,636.

THE LUMBER BUSINESS.—Ottawa lumbermen say that all the lumber fit to handle will be shipped this year, but the cut will be carried over. Some 75,000,000 feet was carried over from last year and disposed of. Prices have advanced about 20 per cent, but if wages continue to increase the lumbermen will receive no benefit. They are now paying the men who are sent to the shanties from $10 to $18 per month, instead of from $8 to $12, as formerly. There are a large number of men being sent to the shanties at present, but the increase is principally in the square timber line, only some twenty-five rafts having been got out last year.

Marine.

The Kingston papers of the 30th contain further particulars of the loss of a schooner near the Ducks Islands, Lake Ontario, on the previous day. The masters of the schooners Huron, Pinkurb and Augusta saw the vessel disappear, and the captain of the Dudley saw the topmast of a vessel above the water. The lost craft was supposed to have been either the A. G. Ryan, or the Ben Folger, but the latter had arrived safely at Oswego. The Whig adds : The purser of the prop. Lake Michigan, who passed the Ducks this morning at 7 o'clock, reports having seen a vessel, bottom up. He could not describe it."

The schooner Ontario, loaded with lumber, was driven aground at Kincardine during the storm of Wednesday evening. The crew were saved with great difficulty, and soon afterwards the vessel went to pieces.

A telegram from Amherstburg on the 98th gives the following further details of the collision between the U. S. steamer R. B. Hayes and the schr. J. N. Carter, of Picton :—" At ten o'clock on Saturday night the Government supply boat R. B. Hayes, bound up, collided below the lime kilns with the schr. J. N. Carter. The Hayes struck the Carter on her starboard bow, carrying away the schooner's bowsprit and jibboom. The steamer was also damaged, but the amount is not known, as she continued up, but is supposed to be about $100. The schooner's loss will amount to $600. The collision was caused by the Hayes not answering the tug's whistle."

The schr. Florence, with lumber from Trenton for Oswego, passed down this morning. The steam barge Indian, another steam barge and three schooners have passed up for Trenton since yesterday.

No vessels arrived and none sailed to-day.

A WIND-BOUND FLEET.—A telegram from South Bay on Sept. 26th says: "Propsi Cuba, general cargo, from Ogdensburg to Toronto ; Zealand and tow, and schrs. C. Gearing, O. S. Storrs, and Picton, Flora, Proctor, Suffel, Enterprise, Delaware, Western, are lying sheltered under South Bay Point. Wind—High, from west ; weather cool." Were the Murray Canal constructed, the portion of this fleet bound west would either have been sheltered in Weller's Bay, or proceeding on their journey to their destination.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Would you kindly allow me, through your columns, to make an explanation in connection with my strictures in the Free Press on members of the Organ Committee of Bridge St. Church? The explanation I wish to make is, that nothing which appeared in the Free Press on this subject had any reference to Mr. C. P. Holton. I believe that gentleman to be incapable of the meanness and inhumanity which I considered (and consider) have been displayed in the conduct of other members of the Committee in question, and which I thought justice demanded should be exposed. Mr. Holton being a prominent member of the Organ Committee, the impression that he was included among those to whom the Paragraph headed "An Explanation" had reference would be quite natural, and I am anxious to correct that impression. It was only through an oversight that I failed to do so in the late Free Press.

Yours, &c.,
J. L. LEWIS.

Station Notes.

Mr. Watkin shipped five cars of cheese yesterday and three more to-day.

The noon train was 45 minutes late to-day.

A new car of the Lehigh Valley road attracted some notice at the station to-day. Its peculiarities are, a platform at each end, for the brakesman, an invention for preventing the loss of coupling pins and an iron roof covered with wood. None of these features are new, all having been tried and found wanting on the Grand Trunk.

Sixteen six-wheeled locomotives have of late been added to the rolling stock of the Grand Trunk, of which ten are stationed at Toronto and six at Belleville. All were built at the Company's own works. There are more in process of construction.

Tweed Notes.

Thos. McMurray, agent of the "Ontario Prohibitory League," held a very successful meeting in the M. E Church, Tweed, on Thursday evening last. His argument was given with force and very convincing. The contributions amounted to $5.05. A number joined the "Alliance." Mr. McMurray intends to return in the course of the winter to this part of the country to give a series of lectures. He goes from here to Madoc. We bespeak a good hearing for him through the country.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

OMAHA, Oct. 1.—The officers of the Wabash Railroad now here have arranged for an extension of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway to a connection with the Omaha extension of the Wabash, to be made near Shenandoah, Ia., within a few months. This will give the Wabash an air line between Omaha and Chicago. The principal object of the visit to Omaha is to arrange for running the trains of the Wabash across the Union Pacific bridge into Omaha and select grounds for depot buildings. When the Wabash enters Omaha proper it will force the C., B. & Q., the C., R., I. & P. and C. & N. W. to follow suit and cross the Missouri river, abandoning their depots and yards at Council Bluffs. The movement will revolutionize the railroad situation at Omaha.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Herald's Paris special reports an interview with Admiral Nowry concerning Schwatka's polar expedition. Nowry has been in the Arctic regions and he states that he does not believe Schwatka could have lived in 100 degrees of cold, as he claims. Nowry also doubts whether Schwatka found any Franklin relics.

John Spiefial, a tailor, was found sick of small pox in Brooklyn yesterday and it is feared that clothing which he has been making for large dealers during his illness will spread the contagion.

Chas. T. Parker, of the firm of Parker & Hayes, grain merchants, was arrested yesterday. The firm is charged with obtaining large loans upon warehouse receipts for flaxseed which proved to be of less value than the money loaned. It is reported Hayes has lost heavily by recent speculations in wheat, flour and flaxseed, and that his liabilities are $200,000.

The unveiling of the Burns statue at the Central Park to-morrow takes place at 3 o'clock. Geo. Wm Curtis will deliver an address.

The Tribune says the Mexican Government has granted a concession to the Mexican Central Railroad, which has been taken by the Atcheson, Topeka and Santa Fe and Chicago, Burlington and Quincey Railways and by American and foreign bankers. The concession gives them the right to extend their line, already projected from the city of Mexico to Leon, northward to Elpaso Delnorte on the Rio Grande frontier of New Mexico, where a connection will be made with the Southern Pacific of California and other roads. A subsidy of $15,200 per mile is granted.

The second concession has been granted to the Mexican Railway Construction Co., represented by the President of the Denver and Rio Grande R R. It gives the right to build a narrow gauge road from the city of Mexico westward to Manzanville on the Pacific coast, also northward to the Texas frontier, where connections will be made. A subsidy of $7,000 a kilometre for the Pacific line, and $6,500 for the Texas line, is granted. In the concessions to both companies, the government agrees that it will not grant subsidies to any other lines within a belt of territory 65 miles wide on each side of the proposed lines.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Neither tramps nor prisoners were in the cells last night.

CURLING.—It will be seen by advertisement that the annual meeting of the Belleville Curling Club will be held at Hambly's on Tuesday evening next, the 5th inst.

HORSE BUYING.—A horse buyer from the United States is at present visiting this locality, but so far has met with poor success, as there are but few of the class of horses that he requires to be had hereabouts.

A HEALTHY TOWN.—The town of Paris, Ontario, owes no debts, and at the close of the year, taxed at the rate of eleven mills on the dollar, will have $1,500 in the treasury to begin the new year with. That's the kind of a town Paris is.

STANDARD FIRE INSURANCE CO.—The advertisement of this Company, whose headquarters is in Hamilton, will be found in another column. The exhibit of the business done since its establishment, is very satisfactory. Mr. F. M. Clarke, Belleville, is general agent for this district.

A CHANGE.—The weather during yesterday and last night was cold enough for overcoats, and not a few persons started their coal fires for the first time. But this early appearance of the advance guard of winter proved to be but a feint, the wind having veered from north-west to south-west, and to-day a more genial temperature prevailed.

SURGICAL MACHINIST.—Those wanting anything in the shape of mechanical or surgical treatment for remedying deformities, will do well to read the announcement of Mr. Charles Cluthe, Surgical Machinist, Toronto. His cures, as will be seen by the testimonials, have been very remarkable. Illustrated circulars and information will be forwarded to those desiring, by addressing Mr. Cluthe, 38 Adelaide street west.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Campbellford Herald says: "The ballast party began work at Hastings on Monday, gravel being obtained at the boundary line between the townships of Dummer and Asphodel. Ballasting will be completed sometime in the fall; and then will be verified the dream of railway communication with east and west which commenced some 29 years ago."

ORDERED CLOTHING.—The reader's attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Petley & Co., the "Golden Griffin," Toronto. Their establishment is the largest in that line in that city, and is noted for the excellence of its wares and their cheapness. This house took prizes at the Toronto and Provincial Exhibitions. People visiting Toronto would do well to call at this house.

THE IRON ORE TRADE.—We are informed that Mr. Munson has forty-four men employed at the Sexsmith mine, and that 30 car loads of ore are shipped from this mine per week. Messrs. Coe & Mitchell have a large force engaged at the hematite mine, and their weekly shipments amount to 25 cars, which they will increase within a short time to fifty cars per week. The output of the Seymour mine is also large. This is most encouraging news.

THE KINGSTON NEWS.—Yesterday's issue of the Kingston Daily News contains the valedictory of Mr. James Johnson, who for the past seven years has been the editor of that journal, and who has closed his connection with it. Mr. Johnson is an able writer and a good speaker, and as he has always dealt in the most honorable manner with political friends and opponents, the good wishes of his brother journalists, irrespective of party, will go with him in his future career.

TURLEY vs. BENEDICT, et al.—This case was tried at the Assizes in Cobourg. It was an action of ejectment from the Township of Murray. Plaintiff claimed title under and by virtue of a deed from the Sheriff of Northumberland and Durham. The defendants denied title of plaintiff and asserted title in themselves under and by virtue of a grant in the fee simple from one David Benedict to the defendant Andrew Benedict, and under and by virtue of the terms and conditions contained in a lease of the said lands from the said Andrew Benedict to the said David Benedict. Verdict for the defendants. Mr. Clute, Belleville, for the plaintiff; Mr. G. D. Dickson, Belleville, for the defendants.

WEDDING BELLS.—Last evening, Christ Church was filled by a large assemblage, attracted thither by the marriage of Mr. Thomas Drinkwater, of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Kathleen L. Sisson, daughter of our esteemed citizen, E. J. Sisson, Esq. The ceremony was performed by the Rector, Dr. Clarke, and at the conclusion of the service, Mr. Stanistreet, who presided at the organ, played in a most artistic manner the Wedding March. The bride wore a dress of white corded silk, court train over quilted satin petticoat, Limerick lace trimmings, ruby ornaments, with orange wreath and veil. The following were the bridesmaids: Misses Mary Wallbridge, Edith Coleman, Hettie Sisson, Bessie Sisson, Ethel Robertson, and Hattie Wilson, of St. Catharines. After the usual congratulations, the happy couple left on their wedding trip. The good wishes of many friends go with them.

CRICKET.—A local match will be played on Monday afternoon, when the Grits will encounter the Tories.

THE ASSIZES.—The long land case, in which the parties are Messrs. Norman and Vye, was still going on to-day.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics for the city for the month of September were as follows: Births 20; Marriages 16; Deaths 15.

CRICKET.—The Belleville Cricket Club did not go to Kingston to-day, as was expected, they having been unable to muster more than seven men.

LONG CARROT.—We are informed by Mr. John Sparrow, of Hungerford, that he pulled a carrot out of the ground on his farm on the 30th Sept., which measured 3 feet 2 inches in length.

TRENTON BRIDGE.—The Courier states that the work of building the pier is being carried on day and night, and that the contractor expects to have it completed by the end of next week.

PACIFIC JUNCTION RAILWAY.—The loca Board of Trade have petitioned the Ontario Government to render available the $8,000 per mile subsidy granted four years ago for the building of the above named railway.

BARNS BURNED.—The Picton Times says: "The barns of Peter Ruttan and J. H. Rowe of the High Shore, were burned with their contents, last week. They were both insured, the former for $550 and the latter for $300 in the Prince Edward Mutual.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly south-westerly to southerly and fair weather with showers in some localities; slightly higher temperature.

INLAND REVENUE.—The inland revenue duties collected in the Belleville Division during the month of September were: Spirits $4,889.33; Tobacco $1,430.20; Malt $96.07; Other revenue $200; total $6,615.60; same month last year $5,046.42; increase $1,569.18.

RESIGNED.—Dr. R. V. Pierce, consulting Physician to the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., has resigned his seat in Congress that he may hereafter devote his whole time and attention to those applying to the World's Dispensary Medical Association for the treatment of Chronic Diseases.

HOP VINES.—Hop growers are in the habit of burning the vines to get rid of them. Mr. Sprague, of Sophiasburg, tells us says the Picton Times, he has adopted a new plan. He chops them up in his cutting box and adds them to the compost heap where they become a valuable fertilizer. Others might do the same with advantage.

POLICE RECORD.—During the month ending September 30th 1880, the Police made a total number of 39 arrests of persons charged as follows:—Attempted robbery 1; drunk 7; drunk and disorderly 7; disorderly conduct in street 1; disorderly conduct in Metropolitan Hall 1; forgery 1; fighting on street 1; inmates of disorderly house 4; inmate of bawdy house 1; frequenting bawdy house 3; keeping disorderly house 1; keeping bawdy house 1; loitering on street corner and sidewalk 1; larceny 1; indecent assault 1; vagrancy 3; stealing fruit 4.

SHOW CASES.—Those in want of Show-cases will do well to consult the advertisement of W. Millichamp & Co., Toronto, who are the largest manufacturers of Show-cases in the Dominion. They also carry on the business of Gold, Silver and Nickel Plating, and their work is noted all over the Dominion for its excellence. Their establishment is well worth a visit and persons wanting anything in their line will find it to their advantage to give them a call. All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

NORMAN'S ELECTRIC BELT INSTITUTION.—The Toronto Mail, thus refers to an Institution, which will be found advertised in another column. For years Mr. Norman's name has been familiar to the public as connected with electro-curative appliances, and he is now making and selling a great variety of these articles in various shapes, sizes, and styles. Acting upon the theory that electricity always does some good and never any harm, he seeks to apply it directly and constantly to the seats of diseases, and the many letters he has received from his customers testify to the very beneficial effects resulting from the applications. The principal shapes in which appliances are made are body-belts, body-girdles, chest-protectors, head-bands, arm-bands, wrist-bands, leg-bands, back-belts, insoles, etc., the various uses of which are described in his circulars. He makes magnetic-electric teething necklaces, to be tied around the necks of children when teething; also magneto-electric waist-belts for ladies and gentlemen. The throat-protectors designed for throat and bronchial affections are spoken of very highly. In the same building as his factory and offices Mr. Norman has baths of six different kinds, including electric, vapor, and sulphur baths, which are taken in connection with the other appliances. He has also in stock trusses of a most durable and convenient style, Faradic batteries, &c., &c. Circulars giving full information may be had upon application to Mr. Norman, personally or by letter. His factory, offices, and baths are situated at No. 4 Queen street east, in Toronto.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Customs Returns.

Goods entered for consumption during the month of September, 1879 and 1880:

THE "GALLEY SLAVE."—The Globe thus notices this play, which is to be presented at the Metropolitan Hall, on Monday evening next: "The play is one of no mean merit, and is undoubtedly the best production which has come from its talented author's pen. The plot turns on the misapprehension of the heroine Cicely Blaine (Miss Ida Lewis) in believing her lover to have been already married to a young Italian girl. Francesca's husband was really another aspirant to Cicely's hand, a young painter, who had become Baron Le Bois (Mr. W. H. Cooper.) The complications arising out of this mistake, and the subsequent settling of matters to the satisfaction of all concerned except the Baron, make up the story. The incidents and situations of the main plot are not new but they are dealt with so cleverly and are so interspersed with absurd or touching situations, which are not only new but surprising, that the result is a really effective and interesting play. A freshness is lent to the incidents by the scene being laid in Italy, although the principal characters are nearly all Americans. The dialogue is natural except in one or two instances, which, for the sake of Mr. Campbell's reputation, it is to be hoped are gaps. The credulity of the audience is somewhat drawn upon in some of the scenes, but that is done perhaps by authority of 'poetic license.' The acting last night was on the whole good, and the audience were evidently very well satisfied."

THE MURCHISON CLUB.—At the meeting of the Murchison Club, on the 29th inst. the Rev. Dr. Clarke read a paper on the "Approaching Perihelia of the Planets." In giving an account of this phenomenon, he said it was the first that had occurred in historical times in which all the major planets arrived at their perihelia about the same time, viz., during the next five years. In treating upon his subject the Rev. Dr. remarked that in ancient times the stars were supposed to have some malign influence over nations and individuals in the shape of earthquakes, pestilences and other scourges. To show that there was some truth in this belief, he gave a short account of the plagues and the dates which they had ravaged the earth during the last three hundred years; this showed a singular fact that these had been most virulent at the time when Jupiter or one of the major planets had reached their perihelion. This must either show a most remarkable coincidence or a concurrence of cause and effect, he believed the latter. He thought, therefore, that during the next five years we might expect considerable disturbances, both atmospherical and cosmical, which would have an injurious effect upon mankind. Scientists explained the matter by saying that when these planets attained their perihelia at the same time they had an effect upon the sun by disturbing the equilibrium of forces, this again reacted upon the earth and produced violent storms, earthquakes, pestilences and other scourges to human and animal life. He concluded by saying that we might avert many pestilences by greater attention to sanitary and others matter pertaining to health.

FROM NAPANEE.

NAPANEE, Oct. 1.—Last night about midnight the barn and sheds, owned by James Wilson, on the boundary line near Mill Point, were destroyed by fire, together with the season's crop. One team was destroyed, also three cows enclosed in the yard. The team belonged to Mr. B. J. Allison. No insurance on any of the property. Loss about $2,000.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—The Albion Print Works, established at Conshohocken twelve years ago with a capital of a quarter million for printing calicop, has failed.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 1.—Arrived, the Nevada.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Times says the aspect of affairs in the east gives reasonable ground to hope that the pacific execution will be found in an united action of the powers. The pressure upon Turkey will now cease and be merely local. It will be an object of the united cabinets, through their representatives at Constantinople, to extort from the Porte the concessions granted by the Treaty. Meanwhile it is a matter of full significance that the present alliance of the powers has probably acquired a new force from trial.

Public debt reduced for Sept., $8,974,891 68.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—It is semi-officially declared that the French Government, while adhering to its present reserved attitude with reference to the action of the powers in the East, is perfectly resolved not to separate from European concert.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 1st.—The international exhibition opened to-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The sale of subscription tickets for the Sara Bernhardt season commenced at Booth's theatre, commenced this morning. The receipts before noon amounted to $25,000, the tickets being $60 for the entire season.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 1.—Arrived, the England.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 1.—During an altercation last night Edward Powers wounded John Blanchard fatally.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 1.—At Trenton Basin to-day, the property belonging to the Merchants' Transportation Co., and others, value $30,000 was burned; supposed incendiary.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Indications: lower lakes, slight rise in temperature; light rains.

SCOTLAND.

Captain Adams, who has just returned to Dundee in an Arctic whaler, is said to be the most enterprising whaler captain that Scotland possesses. He has gone further north than any other man, and knows more about arctic work than any sailor living.

An unsuccessful search has been made for the body of the tourist, Samuel Hurren, of London, who was drowned in the Loch Lomond on the 27th Aug. Sixteen boats from the Vale of Leven, three from Rowardennan, and two from Inveruaid were engaged in the task.

The yacht Madge has arrived at Greenock from the English Channel, where she has been attracting more than usual attention from the fact that she came home with racing flags flying, 20 of which were for first prizes. Last year she returned with 24 prizes, only two of which were second prizes.

Last year the Rev. Dr. Burns and his family presented to the Cathedral the largest and finest organ ever erected in any ecclesiastical building in Scotland, and they have just added to the generous gift two large and powerful hydraulic blowing engines, which were used for the first time in public worship on Sunday, August 29th.

Queen Victoria drove out and visited her pensioners as soon as she reached her Scotch estate, and was received with exclamations and tears by the old men and women. Crathie church, where the Queen went on the following day, was crammed to suffocation, for not only the natives but the tourists within ten miles, came to gaze upon their ruler.

A distressing case has occurred at Olriga. Two children went into a large empty meat barrel, and as the lid was provided with hinges and a catch for a padlock, they accidentally brought down the lid, when the catch starting into its place, sealed the fate of the children. When found after a prolonged search in every likely place, both the children were sitting upright in the barrel quite dead.

On Sunday, August 28th, says the Galloway Gazette, a reverend gentleman in Wigtownshire, after speaking for an hour, said: —"After these few preliminary observations, we will proceed to consider," and then he announced his three divisions, the extending of which occupied another half hour. Then as a striking piece of satire on his prolonged and weary oratory, he addressed his congregation in the words of the well known hymn, "Art thou weary?" The congregation felt more than they uttered.

Building up a Dairy Breed.

It is greatly to be regretted, because it is a great loss, not only to the farmers individually but to the country, that so little attention is paid to the breeding of a superior class of dairy cows. Go where you will throughout our land and you will find it impossible to pick up a good herd of these. You will see plenty of cows which are recommended by their owners as first rate for the dairy, and undoubtedly they honestly believe it, but come to put these to the test of the quantity of milk given, and the weight of butter or cheese made from it, and very few out of all will prove profitable cows—that is to say, that will pay the interest on their cost, gradual depreciation in value by increasing age, for food consumed, and fair wages for the labor bestowed in taking care of them, and manufacturing and marketing their milk product. All this I have proved from my own experience.

Arranging to go into the dairy business some years ago, I determined on purchasing about thirty first-class cows to begin with. I accordingly visited for this purpose those districts which had the highest reputation for breeding such. After keeping these, thoroughly testing them with extra care and keep for one season, I found that not more than half of them would leave me any profit, and the other half came considerably short of reasonable expectation. I then determined to breed up a herd myself. My first move was to get a fine compact Shorthorn bull of a milking family to cross on these cows. The heifers of this cross gave a considerably increased quantity of milk, and kept up its quality. Wishing then to make butter entirely from it, I found it would be necessary to obtain richer milk, and such as would give a good color in winter as well as summer. In order to breed cows to do this, I purchased a Guernsey bull of golden colored skin and hair, and put him to my best selected grade Shorthorn heifers. From this cross I have got exactly what I wanted, which is a large quantity of milk of extra rich quality, from each animal I now keep in my herd. This pays handsomely; for such cows do not consume any more food than the first I bought elsewhere, and I get a largely increased amount of butter annually from them; and this being a superior quality, I obtain a higher price for it in the market. Another advantage, it is always of a quick sale; in fact I can scarcely make enough of it to supply my customers.

Most of these cross-bred cows are nearly as large as full-bred Shorthorns, and a few almost as fine of form, as in choosing my Guernsey bull I had regard to his make-up as well as to dairy qualities of both sire and dam from which he was descended. This is important to do, whatever may be the breed from which we select. There are good and poor animals among all these, and if we wish to have a choice herd, we must invariably select from the former for our own breeding, and discard the latter. In this way one may invariably grow up a valuable herd, every animal of which when we may wish to sell, we can do so at once, and at a well paying price for the breeding and rearing.—G., in N. Y. Tribune.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only natures simple remedies for all your ailments you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of the rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before nightfall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be a child, a bright eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heart-rending details of these savages' depredations, we are apt to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption oftenest comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddenly finds himself hopelessly ensnared, and death's fatal arrows end the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerful alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its remedial powers.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of HOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents, Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

SUBSTITUTES!

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients im prove on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own fam and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia. Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite. Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effects from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

RAVENNA, MERCER Co., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in same. Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anæmia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epelepic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is unquestionably the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, it would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial at this date and her heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

IS IT ALL THERE STILL?

[Among the poor children who were sent to the country last year by the Children's Week Association was one little waif who in all her life before had never seen anything pleasanter than the noisy, dirty streets of the lower portion of the city. Sickening of a fatal disease, the scenes of that one bright week haunted her, and she begged to see the farmer's wife in whose care she had been ; and when the good woman entered the bare garret where the little sufferer lay, the child cried out feverishly, "Is it all there still?" and I wanted to hear about every place and creature she had there seen. The kind woman took the child back with her into the country, where, in the midst of loving care, surrounded by the beauty of early summer, she peacefully died.]

She sat where the great elm's shadow
Across the doorway fell ;
She heard the drip of the bucket
In the hollow of the well,

The pleasant rasp from the garden
Of busy spade and hoe,
Beyond, in the sunny meadows,
Her mates run to and fro.

The chirping robin on the bough
Was for one moment still,
Deep dipping into cherries' wine
His thirsting yellow bill.

A whirl of pale gold butterflies
Alighting on the stone,
With flicker of their filmy wings,
In quivering silence shone.

Thousands of them in the meadows
Before her mates had flown ;
I know not if she understood
These were for her alone.

At eve, when the cows and children
Came home from field and yale,
In the wonder of the sunset,
The child sat dumb and pale.

They clamored for the evening meal ;
She neither asked nor stirred,
But took what the housewife gave her,
And ate without a word.

The morns and noons and nights were hers
For six glad summer days ;
Then back to the city's groping life
Of dearth and fret and frays.

Six breathless days of mute delight,
And then—the blinding pall !
Six days !—and just to think for whom
The good God made it all !

* * * * * *

She lay where the dull wall's shadow
Fell on her bed of straw,
With the largest eyes in the thinnest
Face that you ever saw.

"Is it all there still ?" she murmured,
And wrung her feeble hands—
"The woods, and the long bright meadows,
The door where the elm-tree stands ?

"Do the cows come home when the sunset
Makes that great fire at night ?
Do they give you pails and pails of milk ?
Is it just as sweet and white ?

"When I've been selling my papers,
I've tried to see it all ;
But I couldn't for the dirty street,
The noise, the dingy wall—

"They staid with me always—always ;
They shut out field and sky.
Tell me, those things you planted,
Did they come up by-and-by ?

"The stream that ran by the road-side,
The lambs asleep on the hill,
I want so much—so much—to know
If it is all there still."

"Why shouldn't you come to it, my child ?"
The kindly housewife said :
And soon the shadow of the elm
Fell on that patient head.

The farmer took the wasted hand
Upon his own broad palm,
And cleared his throat ere he could say,
"You're welcome to the farm."

He held her while the goodwife milked
The sleek and healthy kine,
He made her pleasant meals beneath
The oak and fragrant pine,

And carried her from place to place.
She seldom spoke a word,
But smiled and gazed, and grew, he said,
"No heftier'n a bird."

Of summer's scents and sights and sounds
The child's soul drank its fill,
Till berries darkened on their vine
By field and wood and hill.

And then, one night—the sun had built
Its great fire in the west—
"Yes, I have seen it all," she sighed,
"And now I want to rest."

O Life, so bright when thou art, free !
In bonds, so drear and dim !
Who frees thee to one little child
Hath loosed its bonds for Him !

—Z. B. GUSTAFSON, in Harper's Magazine for October.

Sunday Reading.

TOUCHING STORY OF CARLETTA.

Two gentlemen were conversing together. One of them, John H., did not believe in the religion of the Lord Jesus. As they walked along in the city, on a dark, rainy night, returning from their business, for they were merchants, their conversation turned upon religious subjects.

Mr. H. remarked :

"If I could have your faith, friend B., I should be glad ; but I was born a sceptic. I can not help doubting. I can not look upon God and the future as you do. Prayer is but the result of superstition. I have been hardened in unbelief for thirty years, and expect to die as I have lived."

"But," replied his Christian friend, "God can change a sceptic's heart. He has more power over your heart than you have, and I mean still to pray for you."

Just then they stepped into an elegant dining room to get some supper, having been detained from dinner by their business.

It was one of those splendid eating-houses, such as are only found in our large cities.

They had nearly finished their supper, when a strain of sweet music came through the open door.

It was a child's voice.

"Upon my word, that's pretty," said H. "There is great purity in those tones."

Just then, they saw outside the street door the shadow of a child, and, at the same moment, they heard the waiter of the saloon say, "Out of here, you little baggage," in a coarse, angry tone.

Said H., "Let her come in, I want to see her." They drew her into one corner of the long dining hall. On her slight figure she had a thin dress, and a wretched, patched, old cloak. Her head was covered with a ragged hood, and on her feet were a pair of shoes from which her little toes peeped out. She looked timidly up when asked to sing again.

Her cheek was of olive darkness, but a flush rested there; and out of the thinnest face under the arch of broad temples, deepened by masses of the blackest hair, looked two little eyes, whose softness and tender pleading would have touched the hardest heart.

"The little thing is sick, I believe," said H compassionately, "What do you sing, child," he added.

"I sing you Italian, or little English," she said softly.

H had been looking at her shoes, "Why," he exclaimed, and his lips quivered, "her feet are wet to her ankles; her shoes are full of holes."

By this time the child had begun to sing, pushing back her hood and holding up her thin little fingers. Her voice was wonderful; and simple and common as were both air and words, the power and pathos of the tones drew together several other persons in the reading room. The little song commenced thus :

"There is a happy land,
Far, far, away,
Where saints in glory stand,
Bright, bright as day."

Never could the voice, or the manner, of that child be forgotten. There almost seemed a halo around her head; and when she finished her great speaking eyes turned towards H.

"Look here, child, where did you learn that song ?" he asked.

"In Sabbath-school, sir," was the simple answer.

"And you don't suppose there is a happy land ?" he continued, heedless of many eyes upon him.

"I know there is; I'M GOING TO SING THERE," she said, so quietly, so decidedly, that the men looked at each other.

"Going to sing there !"

"Yes, sir. My mother said so. She used to sing to me until she was sick. Then she would say she wasn't going to sing any more on earth, but in heaven."

"Well—and what then ?"

"And then she died, sir," said the child, tears brimming up and over on the dark cheek, now flushed scarlet.

John H. was silent for a few moments. Presently he said :

"Well, if she died, my little girl, you may live, you know."

"O no, sir ! no, sir !" very quickly ; "I'd rather go there, and be with mother. Sometimes I have a dreadful pain in my side, and cough as she did. There won't be any pain up there, sir ; it's a beautiful world !"

"How do you know ?" faltered on the lips of the sceptic.

"My mother told me so."

Words how impressive ! manner how childlike, and yet how wise ! John H., too, once had a praying mother. His chest labored for a moment—the sobs that struggled for utterance could be heard even in their deeps—and still those large, soft, lustrous eyes, like magnets, impelled his glance towards them.

"Child, you must have a pair of shoes."

His voice was husky.

Several hands were thrust in pockets, purses were pulled out, and the astonished child held in her little palm more money than she had ever seen before.

"Her father is a poor, consumptive organ-grinder," whispered one. "I suppose he's too sick to be out to-night."

Along the sloppy street went the child under the protection of H., but not with shoes that drank the water at every step. She had on good new shoes now. Warmth and comfort were hers. Down in the deep, den like lanes of the city walked the man, a little cold, child-hand in his. At an open, broken door they stopped ; up broken and sweeping stairs they climbed. At last another doorway opened, a wheezing voice called out of the dim arch—"Carletta,"

"O father ! father ! see what I have brought you ! Look at me ! look at me !" and down went the hoarded silver, and, venting her excessive joy, the child fell, crying and laughing together, into the man's arms.

"Was he a man ?"

A face dark and hollow, all overgrown with hair, black as night, and uncombed—a pair of wild eyes—a body bent nearly double—hands like claws.

"Did he give you all this, Carletta ?"

"They all did, father ; now you shall have soup and oranges."

"Thank you, sir," said the father addressing himself to H. who had entered just behind the child. "I'm sick, you see—all gone, sir —had to send the poor child out, or we'd starve, sir. God bless you, sir ! I wish I was well enough to play you a tune ;" and he looked wistfully toward the corner where stood the old organ, baize covered—the baize in tatters.

"It's no matter," said H. with difficulty. "I'll come and see you some other time," and he groped his way down-stairs.

These gentlemen kindly provided for little Carletta, and frequently visited them. One day, a month after, they met again by agreement and walked slowly down town. Treading innumerable passages, they came to the gloomy building where lived Carletta's father.

No—not lived there ; for as they paused a moment, out came two or three men bearing a pine coffin, the top nailed down so that no mourner might open, provided there had been any such, slept the old organ-grinder.

"It was very sudden, sir," said a woman who recognized his benefactor. "Yesterday the little girl was took sick, and it seemed as if he dropped right away. He died at six last night."

The two men went silently upstairs. The room was empty of every thing save a bed, a chair, and a nurse, provided by H. The child lay there, not white, but pale as marble, with a strange polish on her brow. Oh, how those dark eyes on the instant became eloquent, as H. sat on the side of the bed !

"Well my little one, so you are no better ?

"Oh no, sir ! father is gone up there, and I'm going."

Up there ! H. turned unconsciously towards his friend.

"I wish I could sing for you," she said, and her little hands flew together.

"Do you wish to sing ?"

"Oh, so much ! but it hurts me. It won't hurt me up there, will it ? Where was the child looking, that there seemed such wonder in her eyes ?

"Did you ever hear of Jesus ?" asked B.

"Oh yes !"

"Do you know who he was ?"

"Good Jesus," murmured the child, with a rare smile.

"B. this breaks me down," said H., and he placed his handkerchief to his eyes.

"Don't cry, don't cry ; I can't cry. I'm so glad ?" said the child exultingly ; and she looked up as if heaven's light were already dawning on her.

"What are you glad for, my dear" asked B. ?

"To get away from here," she said deliberately. "I used to be so cold in the long winters, for we didn't have fire sometimes ; but mother used to hug me close, and sing about heaven. But I did have to go out, because they were sick, and people looked cross at me, and told me I was in the way ; but some was kind to me. Mother told me never to mind, when I came home crying, and kissed me, and told me if I trusted in Jesus, who had died on the cross for me, He would save me, and one of these days would give me a better home ; so I gave myself to Him, for I wanted a better home. And oh, I shall sing there, and be so happy ? Christ sent a little angel in my dream—mother told me He would, and that angels would carry me up there. Oh, I feel so sleepy !"

With a little sigh she closed her eyes.

"H., are faith and hope nothing?" asked B. pointing to the little face taking on such strange beauty, as death breathed idly over it.

"Don't speak to me, B.; to be as that little child I would give all I am worth," was the broken response.

"And to be like her you need give nothing —only your stubborn will, your sceptical doubts, and the heart that will never know rest till it finds it at the feet of Christ. O my friend, resolve, by the side of this little child, who is soon to be 'singing in heaven,' that you will be a follower of my Saviour. Let reason bow here before simple, trusting faith."

There was no answer. Quietly they sat there in the deepening shadows. The hospital doctor came in, stood off a little way, shook his head. It needed no close inspection to see what was going on.

Presently the hands moved, the arms were raised, the eyes opened—yet, glazed though they were, they turned still upward.

"See ! see !" she cried, "Oh there is mother, and there are the angels, and they are all singing—singing !"

Her voice faltered, her arms fell, but the celestial brightness lingered yet on her face Feebly she turned to those who had ministered to her, feebly smiled—it was a mute return of thanks for all their kindness.

"There is no doubting the soul triumph there," whispered B.

"It is wonderful, replied H., looking on, both with awe and tenderness. "Is she gone ?"

He sprang from his chair as if he would detain her, but the chest and forehead were marble now, and the eyes had lost the fire of life; she must have died as she lay looking at them.

"She was always a sweet little thing," said the nurse softly.

H. stood as if spell bound, there was a touch on his arm; he started, and turned.

Said his friend B., with an impressive look- "Shall we pray ?"

For a minute there was no answer—then came tears; the whole frame of the man shook, as he said—it was almost a cry—"Yes, pray ! pray !"

And from the side of the dead child went up agonizing pleadings to the throne of God That prayer was answered—the miracle is wrought—the lion is a lamb—the doubter a believer—the sceptic a Christian.

This little Carletta had drawn the stout hearted skeptic to the Saviour. She had preached a more effective sermon to him than he had ever before heard. He had interpreted the child's faith and had seen it bear her safely through the last hour. He felt he needed Carletta's faith—he sought and found Carletta's Saviour.

Does not a touching story like this, which I have no reason to believe is true, as I learned from a New York gentleman, impress every reader with the power of child influence when sanctified by the grace of God,

May the Lord help us with redoubled earnestness and faith to labor for the salvation of the little ones, whether living in lanes or palaces.—From the "Conversion of Children," by E. Payson Hammond.

Gems of Thought.

Some persons are chronically sour ; you feel every time you meet them as if you'd been eating lemons without sugar ; they stamp a scowl on you inside and out.

A zealous soul without meekness is like a ship in a storm, in danger of wrecks. A meek soul without zeal is like a ship in a calm, that moves not as fast as it ought.

When we are out of sympathy with the young, then we think our work in this world is over. That is a sign that the heart has begun to wither—and that is a dreadful kind of old age

Do little hopeful things and speak hopeful words wherever you can. They are better than pearls or diamonds to strew along the roadside of life, and will yield far more valuable harvests.

Judge not thy neighbor. Thou shalt not calumniate. Thou shalt not excite quarrels by repeating the words of others. Indulge not in idle vain talk. Speak not the words which are to no purpose, but much harm.

Now-a-days men investigate all things inward and outward. Truth, cause this thou escape from the furious hunt ! They go forth with nets and poles to catch the bee ; but with spirits and from thy gildest away from their midst, Ceeerfulness is just as natural to the heart of a man is strong health as color to his cheek ; and whenever there is habitual gloom there must be either bad air, unwholesome food, improperly severe labor, or erring habits in life.

Words are nothing to paint a mother's love, a mother's consolations. A baby's smile contains the divinest essence of all earthly solacement ; a child's love soothes without weakening ; it demands so much that in blessing it, one is blessed by it unawares.

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of the rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before night-fall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be a child, a bright-eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heart-rending details of these savages' depredations, we are apt to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption oftenest comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddenly finds himself hopelessly consumed, and death's fatal arrows end the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerful alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its remedial powers.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst ; took away the appetite for liquor ; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

The Pacific Junction Railway.

It is now certain that that section of the Pacific Railway which extends from Fort William to the terminus at Lake Nipissing is to be built, and that the Canada Central is to be completed to a junction with the Canada Pacific. Therefore the people of Ontario are asking that the Provincial Government carry out their agreement to give a bonus of $8,000 per mile towards the construction of the Pacific Junction Railway from Gravenhurst to Lake Nipissing. The following petition, which was adopted by the Belleville Board of Trade at a meeting on the 29th ult., sets forth so clearly the reasons why the bonus should be made available, that further comment is unnecessary:

"To his Honor the Hon. John Beverly Robinson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, &c., in Council assembled:

"The memorial of the Board of Trade of the City of Belleville respectfully showeth:—

"1. That in view of the construction of the Canada Central Railway by the aid of the Dominion Government as far as the eastern terminus of the Canada Pacific Railway at Lake Nipissing, it has become of the highest importance to the commercial, manufacturing, and agricultural interests of this district that they should also be afforded a means of reaching the same point by rail, in order to obtain a fair share of the local trade of that region, and also enjoy the advantages of direct access to the Canada Pacific and the proposed Sault Ste. Marie railway.

"2. That the proposed line of the Ontario and Pacific Junction railway from Gravenhurst to Lake Nipissing constitutes the necessary link to enable the traffic of this section of country to reach the terminus of the Canada Pacific railway.

"3. Your memorialists would therefore strongly urge upon the Ontario Government that they should at once take such action as will render available $8,000 per mile provincial subsidy voted some four years ago to build this railway, subject to all proper conditions and stipulations as to running powers for connecting lines.

"And your memorialists will ever pray.

Dairy Products at the Provincial Exhibition.

The result of the competition in dairy products at the Provincial Exhibition is that the West has made a clean sweep in butter, and that in cheese the East is very, very far behind. The complete triumph of the West in butter is accounted for by the fact that in that part of the Province much more attention is paid to the creamery system of manufacture than in the East, but why there should be so great a difference in cheese is not so clear. Perhaps had the exhibition been held in the Eastern District this part of the country would have been more fully represented and have gained a greater number of prizes. If so, that is a state of affairs which exhibits an apathy that is to be regretted, and which we fear extends to the process of manufacture and its surroundings, as well as to the mere exhibition of the goods. There is but one cure for this, and that is that all slip-shod methods and carelessness be abandoned and the strictest attention be paid by all concerned to the production of an article of cheese which shall be of the very best quality. There is no good reason why the Eastern section should not compete at least on equal terms with the Western section, and we hope that this will be done at next year's exhibition, not only in cheese but in butter as well.

For the information of all concerned, and with the hope that the record will spur up the dairymen of the East to greater exertions in the future, we herewith append the result of the competition:

Three firkins of butter, fitted for exportation, not less than 50 lbs. in each firkin, made at any butter factory or creamery, working capacity not less than 100 cows' milk, exhibitors to furnish mode of manufacture, including breed and number of cows, description of factory, treatment of milk, quantity, brand, and make of salt used, and any other practical information that they may be able to afford, before being paid the amount of premium. For exportation:

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Though I had not intended to use the press in correcting the statements lately made concerning myself by the Free Press, for reasons I may state, I ask the favor of the insertion of this letter.

It may not be improper to mention that the late Dr. Deval, when negotiating for the post of organist in Bridge St. Methodist Church, asked for sufficient advance to pay his and Mrs. Deval's passage out. At first it was thought unadvisable to make any advance whatever in the way requested; however, after considering his very pressing request and his explanation of his unfortunate position, it was decided to offer him enough for his own passage. In reply to this further correspondence was received, and his urgent request, supported by testimonials of the highest character, was sufficient to induce the advance of £24 stg., which was sent him for his own and Mrs. Deval's passage out.

After Dr. Deval's melancholy death it was found necessary to provide for expenses of various kinds connected with his trip out and residence here. After discussing several plans the proposition to solicit subscriptions among the members of Bridge Street Congregation was adopted. Mrs. Deval having £20 stg. in her possession, this was deemed a sufficient provision for her safe return and the decision arrived at was to defray all her other expenses.

So far as I am aware the church never contemplated more than this.

Mr. C. P. Holton and myself proceeded to solicit subscriptions and were the only ones who did so, and I positively assert that neither of us either represented or gave any one to suppose that the money would be applied to purchasing Mrs. Deval's passage back, but that it would be applied to the expense of their passage out, funeral expenses, doctor's and board bills.

I may also add that we only applied to the members of Bridge Street Congregation except perhaps in two cases where, if they could not be counted members, the circumstance were such as to lead us to accept the subscription.

Mr. Holton received all the money that has been paid in, and applied it for the purposes named as far as it would go. Immediately after the appearance of the article entitled "An Explanation" in Saturday's issue of the Free Press, I decided to establish the fact as above stated in a court of law, and retained B. M. Britton, Esq., Q.C., for that purpose; and should certainly have not interfered to stop proceedings but for a request from my Pastor, the Rev. Dr. Jeffers, so urgent in its character that I felt compelled to comply.

Having thus abandoned the course that at first appeared necessary, I felt it desirable to say what I have done, and shall not take any further notice of this gratuitous slander.

Yours, &c,

L. W. YEOMANS.

I entirely concur in the above statement of facts, and assert positively that nothing was said by Mr. Yeomans or myself that could bear the construction put upon it by the Free Press.

As Mr. Yeomans and myself went together when soliciting the subscriptions, no representation could have been made without my being equally to blame.

C. P. HOLTON.

Belleville, Oct. 1st, 1880.

Bellevil le, Sept 30th, 1880.

DEAR BRO. YEOMANS,

Will you allow me to suggest, that however wronged by the public attack on the Music Committee, it may be as well not to take legal steps to have redress in the courts. I feel that the members of the Committee have taken a great deal of pains, and have acted most generously; and, after the entire disappointment of their hopes, have done all that any reasonable person could require. It is natural that there should be on the part of one or more some imperfect recollection of what was said as to the object of the subscription; but I am satisfied that all has been done by your Committee in good faith, and that you have managed the whole matter in a disinterested and honorable spirit.

The attack is not of sufficient importance to cause you to give it a serious notoriety; but it is of much importance that we should endeavor to let any cause of irritation be forgotten as soon as possible.

I shall take it as a great favor if the Committee will acquiesce in the above suggestion, which I take the liberty to offer, and which I think points to what would on the whole be the best course.

Assuring you of my sympathy and confidence, in reference to this whole matter,

I am, very sincerely yours,

W. JEFFERS.

L. W. YEOMANS,
Chairman Music Com., Bridge St. Church.

CIVIC COMMITTEES.

Three More Meetings.

The Taxes Petitions Thrown Out

Three more of the Civic Committees were called for last night, and all obtained a quorum. Their proceedings were as follows:

FINANCE.

The members present were: Ald. Jellett (Chairman), Dickson, Costello, Lingham, St. Charles, Niles, Hambly, Geen, Petrie and the Mayor. Absent—Ald. McInnch.

The petition of the Trustees of the Masonic body was read, asking for reduction of taxes due since 1875 (amounting to $585) on the Masonic Hall, on the ground that the premises had frequently been in part vacant.

Ald. Dickson moved that the petition be not entertained. He contended that they were not in a position to grant such a request unless they were prepared to give up half the back taxes due to the city. If the premises had been over-assessed, the parties interested had their remedy. He was a prominent member of the Masonic body, but spoke now as a representative of the people and not as a Mason.

The Chairman said the stand taken by Ald. Dickson was a credit to him. The Masonic body were wealthy and able to pay their taxes, and if they were relieved of part of their taxes, what would they do with poor people? He supported the motion.

The motion was then passed without dissent.

The report of the Poor and Sanitary Committee, as presented to the Council at the last meeting, also the report of this night's proceedings, were taken up, and passed.

The report of the Public Works Committee was next considered.

The account for cutting thistles was laid over, as it had not been ascertained whether the work had been done on city property or on private property.

Ald. Farley came in.

The accounts were all passed down to Flint & Holton's, when

Ald. Lingham said all the bad lumber had been sent back.

The Solicitor stated that he had drawn up a contract for the supply of lumber, defining that it should be good merchantable lumber, free from wane and sap, but Mr. Holton refused to sign it, saying he had not so understood the specification when he tendered.

Ald. Lingham said it would be best for all to continue to get the lumber as required, irrespective of a contract, as they would not, probably, require so large an amount of lumber as tenders were asked for.

The account, which was the final one, was passed.

Ald Lingham asked regarding an account of Wm. Powell, for hospital.

Ald. Petrie thought that some of the accounts were in the hands of the clerk. He also said, in answer to Ald. Dickson, that all the hospital accounts have not yet been paid, and that the hospital had been insured.

The following accounts were passed:

E. Harrison, stationery	$32.85
Wm. Hale, drawing hook and ladder waggon to fires	$17.50
J. P. Reeves, repairing hose	$1.50
John Shea, posting bills	$2.00

Ald. Hambly asked as to the balance of Wm. Connors' account for lighting lamps.

The balance of the account was ordered to be paid.

The petition from the Pembroke Council to the Legislature, proposing to ask that the appointment of License Inspectors be returned to the muncipalities and that the number of licenses to be issued should be unlimited, was taken up.

Ald. Jellett said it was of no use to do anything, as the Government would take their own course in any case,

Ald. Niles thought the petition should be adopted.

Ald. Dickson said every municipality ought to control its own licensing, but there were clauses in the petition with which he did not agree. However, he felt as the Chairman did, as it would take up a great deal of time to consider the matter and would lead to no result.

Ald. McInnch came in.

It was agreed that the Clerk should be instructed to acknowledge the receipt of the petition and state that it was under consideration.

A petition of Wm. Dafoe, regarding the opening of a gangway in the Dafoe House, on which acount he asks a reduction of taxes, was ordered to be read in Council.

The petition of Mrs. Small, setting forth that taxes for 1875 and 1776 charged against a part of her property, which she is about to sell, and which were assessed to and payable by Stephen Garratt, be either remitted or collected from Garratt.

Ald. Dickson said it was a grevious wrong to property holders, that the taxes were not collected from the persons who were liable, but charged against the land. The Collector persistently neglected to do his duty.

Ald. Jellett said much as he sympathized with Mrs. Small he could not support the petition, because the City should not lose the taxes.

Ald. Lingham said Garratt stated that he had lived in the house one year and paid one year's taxes which had been due by other parties, and did not consider that he should pay taxes for two years.

Ald. Dickson said they could not direct the Collector as to what action to take in particular cases, but the Committee ought to censure him for not doing his duty, in not collecting the taxes.

Ald. McInnich moved to remit $30 on the taxes due by Mrs. Small.

Ald. Lingham moved in amendment that the petition be not entertained.—Carried.

Mrs. Dolan's petition, for remission of taxes on her property for 1879, was next considered.

Ald Hambly moved to grant the petition.

Ald. McInnch moved in amendment that the petition be not entertained,

Ald. Hambly said the petitioner is over 80 years of age, in indigent circumstances, and is an object of charity.

The amendment was carried.

The petition of George Brooker, charged with $12 03 taxes on lands he never owned, for correction of the same, was not entertained, the Mayor saying that Mr. Brooker has been under a misapprehension in the matter.

The petition of W. Y. Mikel for remission of part of the taxes on stores vacant a part of the past year, was not entertained.

The petition of the Cricket Club, for remission of taxes for 1879 on the field owned by Mr. Thomas Holden, next came up.

Ald. McInnch moved to grant the petition.

Ald. Geen moved that it be not entertained.—Carried.

An account of Dr. Curlett, for $10 for attendance on various persons, by order of the Chairman of the Poor and Sanitary and others, was presented.

The Chairman said Dr. Curlett was employed to attend the police force only, and they were not liable for any part of the account.

Ald. Petrie moved to have the account paid.—Lost.

The resolution of the public meeting asking for an appropriation of $300 to have a survey of the river made, was brought up, but no action was taken.

The Solicitor asked instructions as to the judgment obtained by the Grand Junction against the city.

It was resolved to have the matter brought up in the Council, also the subject of the grant of $200 for the deputation regarding manufactures.

The Committee adjourned.

Lake Disasters.

PICTON, Oct. 1.—The schooner report ed capsized near the Ducks on Wednesday is supposed to be the Ocean Wave. She left Oswego on Tuesday night for Picton, since which nothing has been heard from her. The description given of the vessel capsized by the captains who saw it would answer for the Ocean Wave, except the size. The Ocean Wave was of 5,000 bushels capacity, owned by McDonald & Merrill, of Picton. She carried five men, all told. All hands are supposed to have been lost. John Brown was captain, Shannon mate, and the crew were James Kage, George Flake, and —Shearer.

A WARNING LETTER.—A cablegram says: "A letter has been picked up at Ballin Collig addressed to the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, in which it cautions him that he and his retinue are to have a care as to the steps they take for the next two months. It threatens the lives of several prominent landowners, as well as the destruction of Dublin Castle. The police are keeping the matter as secret as possible, as they assert the handwriting is well known to them.

HANDFORD AGAIN.—A Toronto despatch says:—"Rev. T. W. Handford was found in Mr. Leslie's house, on Jarvis street in company with the latter's wife. The wronged husband gave him a sound thrashing, and it is doubtful whether the lecturer will be able to deliver his lecture on Horace Greeley to-morrow night."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 2.—All editors of the chief journals here have been summoned before Gen. Melikoff, and told that their continual discussion of the constitution for Russia has highly displeased the Czar; that nothing more on the subject would be allowed to appear, and that during the present reign it would be premature to discuss a constitution.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Washington specials:

The Times says the demand for silver dollars during September almost equalled the production. The customs receipts showed an increase of nearly two millions during September over the same month of the previous year, and the internal revenue receipts increased $1,325,000. The total receipts for the three months ending yesterday show an increase of nearly twenty million dollars compared with the same three months of 1879.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Of 20,000 horses in this city employed by stages and cabs, 6,000 or 7,000 are suffering from epizootic There were 309 fresh cases yesterday.

Much excitement was caused yesterday by the announcement of the failure of several well known houses. Robinson, Lord & Co., wholesale dealers in wood and willow ware, Chambers Street, the leading house in the trade, have announced suspension, occasioned by the failure of Lord & Robinson of Baltimore, with which firm they were identical.

A Baltimore house was forced to suspend by the sudden failure of the tobacco firm of Olivier Robinson, of Richmond and Warren Street in this city. These failures are entirely unexpected. The liabilities of Robinson, Lord & Co. are reported at half a million. Moss & Herman, clothiers, Broadway, have failed. Liabilities $30,000.

The World says Edison has been compelled to postpone the promised lighting of Menlo Park by electricity until next month, on account of delay in completing the necessary engine.

The Herald says the net earnings of the Lake Shore Railway for July, Aug. and Sep., after paying all fixed charges and running expenses, are something more than double the amount of last year.

Delicate Women.

Cases of female weakness, delicate and enfeebled constitutions, and those suffering with Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, will find Electric Bitters a speedy and certain cure. The sick and prostrated should rejoice that such a reliable remedy is placed within their reach. Health and happiness will surely follow where Electric Bitters are used. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co.; price only fifty cents.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customes the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

ABSORPTION V. DISEASE.

STARTA, Ont., October 23rd, 1879.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO., 301 Notre Dame-street, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—Find enclosed $2.50, for which please send a LIVER PAD and one of your PLASTERS to Rev. D. Laing, Sparta, Ont., This is the third PAD I have gotten. I am thankful to be able to say that by its use I enjoy perfect health. I take pleasure in recommending it to others. I want one of your PLASTERS to apply across the Kidneys. I may be permitted to further add that I have induced several to try your LIVER PAD, and have NEVER KNOWN a case where it has not proved beneficial.

I am, Gentlemen, yours respectfully,

REV. D. LAING.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD COMPANY, GRATE BEND, Ont., Feb. 3, 1879.

71 King Street West, Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—You will doubtless remember I called on you about the 16th ultimo, and purchased a Holman Pad for my daughter, who had been suffering from inaction of the Liver and billiousness, she has worn the Pad since the 17th of last month, and I am happy to say that it has improved her very much. She has now a good appetite and is gaining strength rapidly.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN DALZIEL.

Goulding Street, Toronto, 5th Feb., 1879.

TO THE HOLMAN LIVER PAD COMPANY;

Gentlemen.—Suffering as I have been for four years or more, with terrific pains in my head whenever I have eaten anything, and at least two days every week disabled from work, in fact my life was such a burden to me, that I could hardly have stood it any longer, and after trying many doctors, I was at last induced to purchase one of the "Holman Liver Pads," and two hours after putting it on I thought my very head would have split, but I kept it on, the water pouring from my left eye, over which the pain was most intense. The second day I felt the pain subsiding, and the taste of the Pad was quite plain in my mouth. The headaches gradually decreased. I have had the Pad on now for three weeks, this last week no headaches at all. I feel like I have never felt before in my memory, and a feeling of the very deepest gratitude for the benefit I have received, and from the expense I shall in future be saved, bids me write this letter of thanks to the proprietors. It is needless to say I shall take every opportunity of recommending it, and shall take personal interest in endeavoring to appease suffering humanity by the very strongest recommendation of it.

I remain, Gentlemen, Yours Obediently,

J. GORDON BENNETT.

MARKHAM, Ont., July 18, 1879.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.

SIRS,—It is with pleasure I express the great benefit I have received from the Holman Liver Pad I bought from you. For upwards of two years I have been a great sufferer from general debility of the system, with pain in the side and back, palpitation of the heart, with severe pains around the heart. I have taken a great deal of medicine from different physicians (among others R. V. PIERCE, of Buffalo, N.Y.,) but without receiving any very great benefit. I commenced the use of the Pad on the 12th of May, and since then the palpitation of the heart has entirely ceased. I am very seldom troubled with any pain, and can do my work or walk a good distance with ease, whereas before I could not. I am now using the second one I got from you, and can recommend the Holman Pad to any one suffering as I have, knowing it has been a great benefit to me.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. JOHN B. ORMEROD.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

Assizes.—That terribly long land case was still going on this morning.

City Council.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held on Tuesday night.

Arrived.—The Allan steamship Peruvian arrived inwards at Rimouski, at 6.40 this morning.

Visitors. — An excursion under the auspices of the Picton band will arrive here per steamer Armenia on Tuesday next.

Barley.—In our report of the barley market to-day will be found the Rules of the Oswego Board of Trade, which will be of interest to grain dealers.

Date Changed.—The date of the Lennox Agricultural Show has been changed to the 12th and 13th inst., in order to avoid collision with fairs in other places.

Monotonous.—Matters in police circles present an unbroken monotony of quiet. No arrests were made last night and no tramps lodged in the cells.

Omission.—The name of Ald. Ostrom was accidentally omitted from the list of those present at the meeting of the Public Works Committee on Thursday night.

Fall Opening.—Messrs. A. E. Fish & Co., gents' furnishers, announce that their fall opening will take place on Tuesday next, the 5th inst. See the advertisment for particulars.

Large Fruit.—Mr. Edward Bennett, of the 1st con. of Rawdon, has a pear tree in his yard, of the Flemish Beauty variety, four years old, which this season bore seven pears, one of which weighed twelve ounces.

Metropolitan Hall.—The "Galley Slave," Bartley Campbell's masterpiece, which enjoyed a run of 300 nights in New York, and which was received with the greatest favor in Toronto two weeks ago, is to be given in the Metropolitan Hall on Monday night by a first-class company.

Sugar Corn.—Mr. Joseph P. Huyck has grown this season some wonderfully large sugar corn in his garden on Church Street, the corn having obtained the remarkable height of 11 feet, and the heads being correspondingly large. The seed was sent to Mr. Huyck by a friend in St. Paul. Minnesota.

Fine Arts.—Mr. Lawson, an artist, of established reputation, announces that he is about to open a class here, particulars concerning which will be found in the advertisement in another column. A very fine picture repesenting Indian Summer, which is now on view in the window of Robinson's book store, gives an idea of Mr. Lawson's skill.

The Coming Fair.—The annual exhibition of the West Hastings Agricultural Society and the Belleville Horticultural Society will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday next. It is probable that the exhibition will be more successful than those held for the last few years, a general interest having been evinced in the matter, and a large number of entries having already been received.

The Railway Dispute.—All is quiet at the seat of the railway war in Peterborough. The Midland men continue the work of track laying and grading, which is expected to be finished by to-night. The Grand Junction authorities continue to take the matter with perfect coolness, and are of opinion that the Midland people "have not a leg to stand on" in a legal sense. The trouble will be decided by the Courts.

About Geraniums. — At this season, when our lady friends are making preparations for their usual winter show of household beauties, the following from an exchange may not be considered untimely: —"If any of our fair readers find difficulty in slipping geraniums or other plants for winter flowering, let them cut the slips diagonally partly off, then let them remain some ten days to callous or harden, when they can be put into the wet sand with almost a certainty of making root.

Like Old Times.—The vicinity of the elevators presented the appearance of old times to-day, owing to the long lines of grain laden waggons awaiting their turn to be unloaded.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities :—Lakes, moderate to fresh, south-easterly to south-westerly winds, fine and warmer weather to-day, possibly showers in some localities to-night.

Personal.— Mr. Lewis Hyman, of this city, who has for a number of years travelled for different firms in the boot and shoe trade, has been appointed to the position of manager of the Dominion Tobacco Works, Montreal, which concern he will represent on the road. We congratulate Mr. Hyman on his appointment, and wish him every success in his new business connection. The Journal of Commerce says of the display made by this establishment at the Dominion Exhibition : "Mr. D. Ritchie, of the Dominion Tobacco works, made an elegant display and took first prize for general assortment of cut plug tobacco, the Globe Tobacco Works, taking second. This exhibit is worthy of a longer notice, and we shall refer to the Dominion Tobacco Works in our next issue."

Enforce the Law.—It is a notoriou fact that in many drinking places in this City, boys can go and purchase as much liquor as they choose, and many of them are allowed to stay in these houses of entertainment until they are besotted with drink. Now there is only one way of putting a stop to this nefarious business' and that is for the police authorities to enforce the law. Tavern keepers, as is well known, are prohibited from allowing minors and apprentices from frequenting and drinking in bar-rooms, under a heavy penalty, and if there are such soulless men as will sell strong drink to mere boys and make them drunken, then they should be punished as the law provides. It is the duty of the police authorities to see that the provisions of the law are carried out. Will they do it, and thereby save many a household from the terrible results which follow the degradation of its loved ones?

A New Manufactory.—Hamilton is becoming the great manufacturing centre of the Dominion. It has for years been the seat of immense foundries, steel works, rolling mills, nail works, sewing machine factories, engine works, agricultural implement factories, &c., and latterly extensive cotton mills and other branches of industry have been established, giving employment to an army of skilled artizans and mechanics. Amongst the new manufactures recently established is one, the announcement of which will be found in our advertising columns. Messrs. Young & Bro., one of the oldest and most reliable firms in the "Ambitious City," have long carried on an extensive trade, wholesale and retail. in plumbing, gas fitting, Kerosene fixtures, Bronze stand lamps, globes, shades, &c., &c., and under the favorable influence of the protective policy of the Government, with commendable enterprise decided to manufacture the articles hither to purchased in other markets, and in July commenced the manufacture of kerosene fixtures and bronze stand lamps on an extensive scale. This manufactory is on King William Street, and joins their large warehouse on John Street, is fitted up especially for this business, and is supplied with all the appliances and machinery for the manufacture of every description of kerosene fixtures, brackets, pendants, chandeliers of the finest and most modern styles, and bronze stand lamps of the most exquisite designs. A glance at their illustrated catalogue of these fixtures will give an idea of the styles and designs of their manufactures, which are equal in point of beauty and workmanship to the finest seen anywhere. Already their orders have been far beyond their anticipations, and at the Provincial Exhibition which closed yesterday at Hamilton, they had a magnificent exhibit of their wares which attracted great attention. In addition to prizes, they were awarded diplomas for their manufactures. Messrs. Young & Bros., are both practical men, have grown up with Hamilton's growth, prospered with its prosperity, and in embarking in this new enterprise, we have no doubt they will add very largely to their already extensive trade.

Jurymen and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy. 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

Saturday, Oct. 2, 1880.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

The case against Patrick Fitzpatick was concluded, the result being that the complaint was dismissed.

Another Schooner Lost.—The Kingston Whig says :—Yesterday afternoon the purser of the propeller " Lake Michigan" reported having seen a vessel bottom up, on the Ducks he thought. To-day's revelations show that it is the schooner "Great Western," of Port Hope, ashore on Simcoe Island. She is supposed to have been capsized and then washed ashore. No tidings have been heard of the captain or crew. She is a B 2 vessel.

Immense Increase. — The custom receipts at Montreal for the month just closed were $615,061,62 as against $390,789,61 the corresponding period last year—an increase of $224,272,01. The Inland Revenue receipts for September were $121,352,76 as against $59,922,62 the corresponding period last year—an increase of $71,430,14. The increase in Inland Revenue receipts, it will be thus seen, was considerably over one hundred per cent.

The Capsized Vessel.—The Kingston News says :—The latest rumor about the above is that it is the schooner Eureka, Captain Saunders and three men are supposed to have been lost. She is the property of Folger Bros.

"Teaberry," the newest wonder for whitening the teeth, delightfully refreshing to the mouth. To try is is to become a friend to the piquant, irresistible, popular Dentifrice of the day. d&wly

Campbellford Correspondence.

Campbellford, Sept. 29.

We have had but very little frost here yet. The cucumbers and melon vines are still green, and the annual flowers are look ing fresh and sending forth their fragrance "to the desert air."

Our sportsmen have had a good time on the river lately, one party brought home 57 ducks another 60. Fall ducks are also making their appearance. Old hunters are expecting extra sport on our river the rest of the season.

Mr. J. Keeler, M. P. for East Northumberland, and son, were to-day, we believe on business which will be a great benefit to our village if carried out.

Mr. Kellahan, Messrs. Rathbun's foreman, has been very busy to-day sending off men to the shanties. Thirty were despatched this morning for the back woods and several gangs were forwarded before. The timber trade seems to be flourishing by the movements in this locality.

The Seymour Agricultural show will take place at Campbellford on Saturday, Oct. 9th.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, Oct. 2.—A Vienna despatch says Goschen, British ambassador to Turkey, will leave Constantinople in November and shortly after his arrival in England will be appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer. The above statement is regarded here as sensational.

There was a meeting of many well known oarsmen last night to witness the final deposit in the Laycock Blackman match, to come off Oct. 5th. Hanlan and Trickett were present and shook hands amidst enthusiastic applause. Trickett offered to take two to one that he will be victorious in his match with Hanlan. The latter refused to accept this as well as two other bets offered by Trickett. Boyd has entered for the American prizes in the International match.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS

Intelligencer Office, Belleville, Oct. 2, 1880.
Belleville Market, Oct. 2nd, 1880.

The receipts of Barley in the market here today was not large but considerable was left at the mills in the country and paid for here. The rulling price in the street was 60 cents per bus. but for a strictly bright quality 65 cents can scarce be quoted as a market price. The outlook for a high price for Barley this season is decidedly poor. A private letter from Oswego dated 24th September, says : "our Eastern letters as well as advices from all our customers are very discouraging, and the tendancy is decidedly downward. * * * They are now taking 80 cents for No. 1 Canada, and 85 cents for No. 1 bright in New York. The unfortunate thing is that even Eastern Commission men are down in prices. One house predicts that No. 1 will go to 75 cents in New York before October 15th." The total receipts of new Barley in Oswego to 30th September this year, has been 727,421 bushels, against 77,746 bushels for the corresponding period last year. The reported sales in Oswego comprise 10,000 bushels No. 1 bright Canada at 90 cents, 10,000 bushels do, at 90 cents, 10,000 bushels do at 90 cents, 10,000 bushels No. 1 Canada at 85 cents, 20,000 bushels do above grade at 85c 10,000 bus. No. 2 Canada at 80c, and 5,000 bus. do at 80c.

The following is the rules of the Oswego Board of Trade for the inspection of Canadian barley for the present year :

No 1. Bright Canada—Shall be of bright, natural color, sound, well cleaned, and weigh not less than forty-eight pounds to the measured bushel.

Ni. 1 Canada—Shall be sound, well cleaned, but under "No. 1 Bright" in color, and weigh not less than forty-eight pounds to the measured bushel.

No. 2 Canada—Shall be sound, well cleaned, and weigh not less than forty-six and one-half pounds to the measured bushel.

Rye was firm at 75c. and sold later in the day at 78c. In Oswego Rye is quoted scarce at 86c. in bond.

Peas are scarce, for what is offered 60c. is paid. In Montreal car lots of Peas are quoted at 80c. and cargoes at 83c. per 66 lbs.

The North-West.—Rev. Alex. Sutherland, General Missionary Secretary of the Methodist Church of Canada, reached Winnipeg last Tuesday from a tour on Missions in the Far West. He left Toronto on the 21st of June in company with Rev. John McLean and other Methodist missionaries for the North-West. They went to Bismark, on the Missouri, thence by steamer to Fort Benton; thence they took horses and waggons across the country by Fort McLeod and Calgary, and up Bow River to Marleyville, near the Rocky Mountains, whence the doctor and a portion of the party continued northwards to Fort Edmonton. Dr. Sutherland expresses himself greatly pleased with the appearance and character of the country in the far west, especially with that of the Bow River country and the country lying between Elk River and the North Saskatchewan. The doctor found the missions visited in a hopeful and prosperous condition. Considerable destitution was stated to have existed among the Indians of the western country during the past year, owing to the disappearance of buffalo southwards, but far as he could learn all had been peaceable, and no serious difficulties occurred. He is decidely of opinion that no difficulties will occur if Government agents carry out the promises that have been made and the stipulations of the treaties.

The Professor's Magnet.

Professor Smythe was lecturing in Ossipee, on natural philosophy, and in the course of his experiments he introduced one of Carrington's most powerful magnets, with which he attracted a block of iron from a distance of two feet.

"Can any of you conceive a greater attractive power?" the lecturer demanded.

"I ken," answered a voice from the audience.

"Not a natural, terrestrial object, I opine."

"Yaas, sir!"

The Professor challenged the man who had spoken to name the thing.

Then up rose old Seth Wimlet. He was a genius in his way, and original. Said he:

"I ken give ye the facts, squire, an' ye ken judge for yerself. When I were a young man, there were a little piece of material magnet, done up in kaliker and dimity, as was called Batsy Jane. She could draw me fourteen miles every Sunday. Snakes alive, it were jest as nateral as slidin' down hill! There wasn't no resistin' her. That 'ere magnet of yourn is pooty good, but 'tisn't a circumstance to the one that draw'd me. No sir!"

Hypocrite Gold in Kentucky.

"Say, mister," as he walked up to the proprietor of a jewellery store who stood behind the counter, "have you got any of these here finger rings—those here—these—oh, I forgit what you call 'em?"

"Gold rings?" asked the proprietor.

"No, not quite gold rings—oh, yes; hypocrite gold rings; that's it."

"I can't understand what you mean by that," said the proprietor, with a stare.

"I mean," said the young man, "this kind of gold that looks like gold and isn't gold; this here kind that most everybody is wearin' nowadays. I want a ring for my girl, and I want you to scratch on the inside 'Jim Brown to Sallie Jones.' Don't care what it costs. You can go as high as half a dollar for it if you want to. It's a begagement ring."

The boss took it all in, and soon fixed him off with a "hypocrite" gold ring, done up in the softest cotton.

Science in Court.

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" asked the Judge, addressing Simms.

"I has de honor to state dat I is not guilty."

"Yis he is, Jedge," exclaimed Cobb. "He hit me in de mouf wid his fist."

"I neber totch de man."

"Didn't you hit him in the mouth?" asked the Judge.

"No, sah, I didn't put my han' on him. In fack, neber totch him."

"Judge, I swar on de bigges' bible in de lan' dat he hit me."

"Now, look a heah," said Simmons, "is my han' tetchin' dis table, Jedge?" and he placed his hand on the desk.

"Yes sir."

"Dar's whar yer's off. Case why? Cordin' ter de flosofy whot I'se been studsin'yer can't tetch nothin', Dat is air twixt my han' de table. Ef my han' totch de table hit would stick dar. Now look ahead Ant'ny," and the prisoner turned to Cobb, "is yer gwine to put yerself in such an ignorent light? Yer's been a stugent too long not ter know better den dis. Is yer goin' roun' town branded wid ignorence? Is yer gwine to add yer weight to holin' de cullud people ob Little Rock to de groun'? Now, ez a stugent an' a man what underston's flosofy, did I tetch yer?

"Come to think ob hit," aswered Cobb, "I doan believe yer did."

"Now, Ant'ny, ez a stugent an' a man ob science, didn't you run inter a post an knock dem teef out?"

"Viewin' dis subjeck in a scientific light, I believe I did."

"An' now, Ant'ny, as a stugent and a learned man, won't yer widdraw dis case pendin' agin me, in which yerself is de scientific 'fendant?"

"Yes I will. Jedge, dis man neber hit me and I hereby widdraws de mistake."

"Dat was zackly right," said Simms, at the two men went down together. "Ef all de men ob science would hang tergedder dis way, dar wouldn't be half de trouble an' oneasness in de worl'."—Little Rock Gazette.

The Boy who was Left,

At a late hour Friday night the police found a boy about ten years old sitting on the steps of the City Hall, and when he had been stirred up he explained:

"My name's Johny Stewart, and I live near Grass Lake. The folks went home lass night and left me on the Fair ground without a cent. That's just the sort of a man dad is. If we don't keep tight to his heels all the time he'll leave us in a strange town dead-broke."

"And now what will you do?"

"I'll make the old man sick."

"How?"

"Never you mind. I've got a plan laid to fix him for going back on me."

He walked down to the Central Station and slept in an arm chair the rest of the night. At an early hour in the morning he walked into the American Express office and asked:

"Do you run to Grass Lake?"

"Yes."

"Then ship me there C. O. D."

After a few inquiries he was accepted and dluy tagged, and when the waggons went down he was among the parcels to be carefully handled. To an enquirer at the depot he answered:

"Dad is counted sharpest man in our county on a horse trade, but I guess he isn't a great ways ahead of me on this transaction."

Why He Got a Receipt.

The following story is told of a crafty lawyer, subtle as a fox, who lived in Halifax:

An Indian of the Miami tribe named Simon, owed some money. The lawyer had waited long. His patience at last gave out, and threatened the Indian with law-suit process and execution. The poor red man got scared and brought the money to his creditor. The Indian waited, expecting the lawyer would write a receipt.

"What are you waiting for?" asked the lawyer.

"Receipt," said the Indian.

"A receipt," said the lawyer, "a receipt—what do you know about a receipt? Can you understand the nature of a receipt? Tell me the use of one and I will give it to you."

The Indian looked at him a moment, and then replied:

"S'pose maybe me die; me go to heben; me find the gate locked; me see the 'Postel Peter; he say, 'Simon, what you want?' Me say, 'Want to get in.' He say, 'You pay Mr. J—— dat money?' What me do? Me hab no receipt. Hab to hunt all ober the other place to find you."

He got a receipt.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents, Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

SUBSTITUTES!

SYR: HYPOPHOS. FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES. COMP: FELLOWS.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Valedictory Address.

We clip the following address from the Burlington, Vt., Sunday Crucible, delivered before the class of 1879, Medical Department of the U. V. N., by James T. Walker, of West Tisbury, Mass, brother of the Rev. Robt. Walker, of Tweed:

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is repeatedly and truly stated that we live in an age of progress; and that we may more clearly see the force of this remark, let us briefly sketch a few of the leading improvements of the present century. Our time being limited we must of necessity make very brief allusion to those improvements, simply suggesting thoughts for your future meditation. The period we have taken, besides being lengthy and pregnant with great events, is well calculated to stimulate us to advancement. During the period to which we have called your attention, the application of steam to the propulsion of vessels has effected a most important revolution in the commerce of the world. Railroads have brought remote regions into close proximity, and the electric telegraph has brought into instantaneous communication with each other the dwellers on the shores of the Atlantic and Pacific, while the photographic art has been so perfected that visible objects are capable of being delineated in a few seconds with a fidelity and accuracy with which no artist's pencil ever could compete. In every department of science as well as of art progress has been made. Popular education has been extended much more widely during this period than in any preceding age. The introduction of machinery to take the place of manual labor and the improvements which have been introduced into the printing press are worthy of note. The practical knowledge of medicine has multiplied rapidly through the faithful, persevering and persistent labors of the workers in this field.

In 1738, Schwann announces that the source of animal life is to be found in a cell; and one year later, Sir Humphrey Davy gives us the theory of respiration. In 1842, Pouchet upset over 200 theories of generation by advancing the ovular theory, and two years later, Horace Wells, by the introduction of anæsthesia in surgical operations, places at the service of suffering humanity one of its greatest boons. In 1849 Bernard discovers the glycogenic junction of the liver, and in 1892 Flint demonstrates the origin of cholesterine. In 1865, Prof. Lister, of Glasgow, introduces to the profession the anti-septic treatment of wounds, thereby greatly reducing the mortality in operative surgery. Chemistry and materia medica have kept place with physiological research, and the cumbersome remedies of by-gone days have been replaced by the extracts and alkaloids, which from the smaller space they occupy, are more more convenient, and from their uniformality of strength, more certain in their results.

Therapeutics has made steady advances since the study of physiology has opened up for us a knowledge of the normal processes of the body, and in doing so has given direction to pathological research and a form and order to the facts of morbid anatomy, as well as permitted the investigation of the action of remedies by the more precise method of experimental research Our predecessors, with a most commendable zeal and success, have ransacked earth, air and ocean for material agents with which to minister to the afflicted in their sufferings; and, did time permit, we might have given more of the results of their labors; but it does not, and we will proceed to address the

Honored Gentlemen of the Faculty:

Another year, with its duties, its responsibilities and its labors, has come and gone, and another class of graduates are about to take their leave of you, and launch their frail barks on the turbulent sea of professional life. What recollections throng upon the memory as the mind is allowed to scan our past associations as we come to bid farewell to those who have ever expressed interest in our welfare. Your several courses of lectures have demonstrated the fact that you have gathered the practical knowledge of which the profession is possessed, and ever with an enthusiasm worthy of your honorable position, endeavored by counsel, by instruction, by the lively quiz and by practical demonstration to fully prepare us for the struggle with disease.

Brother Graduates and Fellow Students:

We have met to-night to commemorate the 26th Annual Commencement of the Medical department of the University of Vermont, and to receive from our Alma Mater the highest honors which she can bestow upon us. By her we are sent forth to the world to minister the healing balm to suffering humanity, and, I have no doubt, with the aspiring hope that we may faithfully perform our duty and reflect credit upon the institution from which we have the honor of graduating.

To-night, gentlemen, we take our first step on an inclined plane, the other end of which rests on the acme of our profession; and let it be ours ever, with the perserving ambition of an Alexander, to press forward from victory to victory, having as the inscription on our baner, "Excelsior." The parchment we hold gives us the right to work in the noblest as well as the most ancient of professions, and to garner the fruits of our toil. Our armies, whose material tread comes sounding down the ages, were first recruited at the very gates of Eden. Our profession dates,

"From that first disobedience and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste brought Death into the world, and all our woe."

But the march of medical science has not been an unbroken triumph, for ever and anon usurped authority has led it into dangerous ambuscades; ignorance and fanaticism have trailed its banner in the dust, while unscrupulous camp-followers have hung upon its march, stealing the fragments of our armor, and under some specious guise of ism or pathy claimed to be the true soldiers of humanity.

Our profession is the soul of catholicity; everything material or immaterial, from the highest heavens to the profoundest depths of the earth, which may contribute to the relief of human suffering, belongs to us; therefore let us assert our right to every therapeutic truth, whether found in the walks of science or in the possession of beldame or quack.

The profession of medicine is the happy union of science and art, science points the way which art pursues, with noiseless step and gentle touch, and voice of love; therefore that God has joined together let no man put asunder.

Though man has spanned the ocean with pulsating chords of thought, and covered all seas with the white wings of commerce; though he has harnessed steam and lightning to his triumphal car of progress, and by the aid of spectrum analysis has compelled the sunbeams to write the flaming history of the solar system, yet how little he knows of the influence of his own mind upon the functions of his own body. It is this ignorance, shared alike by wise men and fools, that makes even the most cultivated easy dupes to the shallow pretenders of quacks, nostrums, Spiritualists, seers and strolling Indians, and [illegible] of superstition across our beautiful temple of science. Let it be rent as was the veil of the temple, when the Son of Man suffered, that truth may be made manifest. For the accomplishment of this purpose, it becomes our duty ever to be faithful students in our profession; particularly in that department so much neglected, namely, psycho-therapeutics.

The evidences of the powers of the mind to induce, as well as heal disease, are too abundant, and too well attested to admit of doubt. Grief and fear—those thunderbolts of the passions—have often crushed out a life in an instant; and even too great joy has not been without its victims; while dreams—those prophets of the night—have pointed thousands with shadowy finger to the grave. But these passions may be curative as well as causative. When faith can be aroused to the therapeutic point it is irresistible, and disease, drug defying and of the gravest type, yield, like magic.

It is this power that energizes the worthless trash sold, under pretentious titles, heralded by flaming advertisements of wonderful cures, and backed up by a stunning array of certificates of governors, judges and ministers of the gospel. Did time permit us we might multiply proofs to justify the assertion, that psycho-therapeutic should be advanced in the healing art, and made to cooperate with somatical remedies in the treatment of all diseases. To attain this end, we must win the confidence of the community in which we reside, and especially of the ladies, who are ever forward in good works, though they are liable to give you a piece of their minds if your treatment does not accord with their views. But here you must ever be deferential, polite, assiduous and gentlemanly, for I covet for you all that grand old name of gentlemen—manhood and gentleness—inborn and influencing energy, but with affability and courtesy to temper it.

Make the clergy your allies in every critical case, for there is no febrifuge like prayer, or anodyne like the loving tones of some good old hymn, and no tonic like hope, born of the promise of God.

Cultivate with your professional brethren the most friendly relations, and let your code of ethics be, "Do unto others as you would haye them do unto you;" remembering at the same time, that we are not less bound to maintain our own rights, than to be tolerant of the feelings and opinions of others.

In the practice of our profession we should be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves;" ever regarding the interests and comforts of our patients, and not overlooking the apparent trifles, for they are become lights, pointnig to some underlying fact, worthy of our attention, the regarding of which may guide us clear of a rock on which our reputation might otherwise be riven.

We are now at the strength of our manhood, at an age when the susceptibilities are the keenest—when the visions of former times have not faded from the fancy, and when the future stretches brightly before us. It is not my purpose to paint that future in roseate hues, as a pathway strewn with flowers, along which you can leisurely glide, thereby losing the toil, as well as the nobility of labor. I know full well that life is not all sunshine, and that yours will not be "primrose paths of pleasure," but you can depend upon it, the way to rise in life is neither to repine, and so add to the troubles of misfortune the sorer troubles of passion and envy; nor to waste in dreams the plodding energy which would go far to the accomplishment of the dreamer's wealthiest desire. Do not aim at any impossible heroism, but strive rather to be quiet [illegible] sity come, you have the consolation of knowing that a reputation built up by the wise masonry of years, does not fail at the blast of a persecutor's trumpet.

We have, to-night, reached that resting place on the rugged hill of medical science to which we have looked forward with so much anxiety during our three years' study, but we must not stop here, for medical science is constantly progressing and our study is but begun.

From the eminence of the proud to day, as from an Alp of clear searching vision, I have looked back upon the past, and forward upon the illimitable future, from whence I hear the terrible crash of exploding theories as they fall before advancing science. I behold deception as it shudders at the sunlight of scientific truth, and affection clinging to some pet theory, with broken voice and imploring hands, cries, "woodman spare that tree." It is ours to assist the coming of this house by thorough investigation in our practical lives, Be studious; be knowing that, through the heavy night, and beyond the embattled hosts, there gleams the victor's recompense.

And now, brother graduates, it only remains for me to wish you that measure of success which waits on merit; that wealth of health and happiness, the fruits of temperance, industry and virtue; and, when your labors of love are done, the memory of your God.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permament cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. SHERAR. 149 Powers' Bloc Rochester, N. Y. 42-3m

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of the rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before nightfall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be a child, a bright-eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heart-rending details of these savages' depredations, we are apt to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption oftenest comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddendly finds himself hopelessly ensnared, and death's fatal arrows end the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerful alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its remedial powers.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only natures simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

The Coming Census.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe gives some interesting particulars with regard to the preparations which are being made for the taking of the next census of the Dominion.

When the census of 1871 was taken, says the correspondent, the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada only comprised four Provinces—Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia. Since that time Prince Edward Island and British Columbia have been admitted into the Union, Manitoba created, and the North-West Territories and Keewatin organized. The result of the census of 1871 was made known in five volumes. The last volume contained some valuable statistics called forth by Dr. Tache, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, from the obscurity of old records, and relating to the growth of population in and development of the four Provinces when in colonial tutelage, or even attached to the Kingdom of France. Although the Dominion has grown considerably since 1871 and new Provinces have been added, it is not expected that the bulk of the census volumes will be increased by more than twenty pages each.

The census of 1871 was taken on April 2nd of that year, whilst the census of 1881 will be taken on Monday, April 3rd. This latter date is also that on which the census of Great Britain and Ireland will be taken, and the Imperial Government have issued a circular to the colonies suggesting that the census be taken simultaneously with that of the mother land. The Dominion Government have acceded to the requisition, and it is also believed the other colonies have already done or will do so. Thus the census of April next will be taken simultaneously throughout the British Empire.

The system of census taking adopted in 1871 was that known as the population de droit or de jure. This is not the system favored in England, which adopts the de facto system. Each system possesses its relative merits. Under the de facto system in England the number of persons in the house at a specified hour, say midnight are given. Should a visitor be present the visitor is included. Should a member of the family be absent he or she will be excluded from the list. The number of travellers on railroad, highway, and water is approximated. In 1871 in Canada under the de jure system the number of normal residents in a specified place was given as the residents, but the visitors were not included. Dr. Tache, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Statistics, who will be in practical charge of the work, when asked whether it was contemplated to change the de jure for the de facto system in Canada next year could not speak positively, as the arrangements have not been formally adopted in Council, but judging from the tenor of his remarks it would not appear that such a change was contemplated. He referred to the de jure system, because it is better adapted to the wants and requirements, to the special difficulties as to organization and extent of territory, to the legislative and political peculiarities of the federal union. In a compact country like England, under one central Parliament, he thought the de facto system might work very well, but experience had shown that under a Federal Government the de jure system was preferable. For instance, in the Kingdom of Prussia the de facto system was enforced, but as soon as the German States were confederated in one Empire, and ever subsequently, the de jure system was adopted and continued. With this conclusion of Dr. Tache we are inclined to agree, as otherwise larger centres of population, such as Montreal, Toronto, Quebec, Hamilton, Ottawa, etc., would be made to appear as possessing a greater number of inhabitants than they really do.

In the census taking of 1871 there were 13 chief Census Commissioners, 206 district Commissioners, and 2,799 Enumerators. The duty of the Chief Commissioners was to assist the Department in imparting to the local officers a knowledge of their work. The schedules then were nine in number, and solicited information under the following heads :(1) Normal returns of the living; (2) of deaths; (3) of public institutions, real and personal estates; (4) of cultivated lands and products ; (5) live stock, animal products, home-made fabrics, and furs ; (6) o industrial establishments; (7) of forest products ; (8) of shipping and fisheries ; and (9) of mineral products. Next year, owing to a better system of grouping, based upon the experience of the last census taking, it is understood that there will only be seven schedules, but the details of the headings cannot be given at the present time, except to state that they are principally like those of 1871.

A rumor has been prevalent that under the heading of "Religious" a change has been made which might lead to confusing the enumeration of the adherents of the Church of England and the Roman Catholic Church. On enquiry it is found that no change has been made. The headings remain as in 1871, Catholics and Church of England. Many of those who are styled in ordinary parlance "Freethinkers" object to being characterized in the census returns as without religion because they were not Christians. Even the division under the words "Without Religion" are not comprehensive enough. Columns for Atheists, Deists, and "No Religion" alone are given. Now, it is claimed to be possible that the majority of modern Freethinkers are neither atheists, deists or of no religion, but are not Christian "Theists" and that the use of the word "agnostic" would meet this difficulty to some extent, and satisfy the conscientious objections of those who decline to be enumerated under either of the headings in the accepted form.

When the census was taken in 1871 the four Provinces were divided into 206 census districts and 1,701 sub-districts. This number will be increased next year, as the extent of settled country is larger and the number of Provinces increased. In the old settled districts the principal divisions will remain the same, although there are important changes, and especially in Quebec, respecting the sub-divisions. The Province of Manitoba will be divided into twenty-five districts. At the present time the staff is employed in preparing schedules and examining the returns of previous years. As soon as the Government have definitely adopted the schedules they will be printed, and will take, it is estimated, thirty tons of paper. Twenty-five clerks are to act as enumerators in the Census Department, for the use of whom a large room has been fitted up with countless shelves and several long tables with myriads of pigeon holes. Five thousand portfolios for filing the returned schedules have been obtained.

The arrangements, as outlined, appear to be perfectly satisfactory so far as they go, but we hope to see provision made for the gathering of full and satisfactory statistics of the manufacturing industries of the country, the performance of which branch of the work has not hitherto been satisfactory. No doubt some extra expense would thereby be necessitated, but this, in view of the importance of the result to be attained, Parliament and the people would willingly sanction.

Revenue Returns.

The revenue returns for September for the principal ports show, so far as received, a highly gratifying increase over the returns for the same month last year, and demonstrate that the N. P. is effectually performing its appointed task of restoring [illegible] and expending ture. The following are the returns, so far as they have come to hand :

Railway Notes.

A Peterborough Review reporter on Saturday interviewed Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Manager of the Midland Railway, in regard to the disputed right of way in Peterborough. Mr. Cox said the Midland is "not trying to take any advantage of the Grand Junction Company, but that they are only claiming that which they are justly entitled to. He also says the rival companies will have to fight the matter out in the Court of Chancery, and the Midland is perfectly willing to do this to maintain their rights. Mr. Bickford declares that he is going to use the road and build a switch to Hilliard's mill and carry the lumber at a cheap rate, and thus matters stand at present. Both companies have had the best legal advice that can be obtained, and both are determined not to give in."

The same paper says :—"A gentleman from the neighborhood informed us to-day that the tracklayers have almost reached Mr. Joseph Redmond's farm in Otonabee. A locomotive ran up nearly that far yesterday. As this is only about five miles from town by the road, and even less by the railway track, it is altogether probable that a train will reach town, if the difficulty with the Midland is settled, by the time stipulated. As soon as they reach Downer's Corners all will be plain sailing, as the track was laid from that place to Asburnham before, and the roadbed is in good condition."

THE PATCH WORK MONEY.—The Montreal Witness says:—"During the past week a clever fraud has been perpetrated on at least two of our Banks by the passing of a bogus $10 bill apparently of the same Bank's issue. The fraud is very ingenious. It is done by neatly scratching or slitting away one half of the thickness of the bill covering the words and figures "five" on the obverse and reverse sides and letting in (so to speak) very neatly with mucilage the words and figures ten from useless Consolidated or other Bank bills. This patchwork fraud can be detected by holding the bill up to the light and by the small imprints of the figure "five" or what over the actual denomination of the Bill may be, on various parts of the bill. The public should carefully examine their money, as numerous frauds are being perpetrated.

Marine.

The schr. Wanderer is at Foster's wharf, discharging coal from Oswego.

The schr. J. Walters has arrived from Fair Haven, with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The schr. Annie Falconer is taking a cargo of rye at J. D. Macaulay's storehouse. She will go to Windsor.

The schr. D. Freeman, which has had a rebuild at Mill Point, and was supplied with a new mainmast, arrived here yesterday afternoon in tow of the tug E. Bonar. As the wind was fresh from the south-west the tug stood well over to the west bank with her tow and then endeavored to make the harbor, but the drift of the light schooner was so great that she floated to the eastward of the Grand Junction wharf, and both craft grounded on the flat there. In working off, the tug had two narrow escapes from upsetting, by striking boulders. She, however, got off safely, released the schooner and brought her into port.

The schooner Wanderer, the arrival of which is noted above, left Oswego on Friday and had a very rough passage across the lake. The crew report that they saw the topmasts of a schooner above the water on Hennessy's shoal, near the Ducks Islands. The sunken vessel, judging from the fact that she stood upright, was believed to be loaded, she was heading to the north, and from the distance between her spars she was thought to be larger than the Olive Branch, which it was believed was the craft that had sunk. The Ocean Wave was met in the Reach. There were eighteen vessels at South Bay Point and sixteen at McDonald's cove, waiting for the wind and sea to moderate when the Wanderer crossed.

THE MISSING VESSEL.—Respecting the reports of the foundering of an unknown schooner near the Main Ducks on Wednesday last, the Kingston News says :—"The schooner Olive Brauch, Capt. Awle, left Oswego on Wednesday morning last with a cargo of coal for McFarlane & Co , Portsmouth, since which time no tidings have been heard of her. With a fair wind she would have reached the Main Ducks in about four hours, which would tally pretty closely with the time the vessel was first reported. She have been seen capsized. The Olive Branch is owned by Oldreive & Horne and Captain Awle. All the circumstances considered, more reliance can be placed on this than on any of the previous reports, still there is no knowing what a day may bring forth As soon as the res goes down and the wind shifts more northerly, a search no doubt will be instituted in the vicinity of the Ducks, when the name and fate of the wrecked vessel and her crew may possibly be revealed. The continued absence of the Olive Branch gives confirmation to the belief that she is the lost vessel."

Sporting Notes.

The yacht Bloodhound arrived yesterday morning from Kingston, where she has received the necessary fittings. The topmast has been set up, and now the yacht presents a fine appearance. On the way up she did some remarkably fast sailing, having worked from Kingston to Bath under double reefed canvas in one hour and thirty-five minutes.

The Halifax people have raised $600 towards paying the expenses of Warren Smith, who will go to England and compete in the Hop Bitters race, for single scullers on Nov. 22nd. Wallace Ross, J. H. Riley and J. A. Kennedy will leave for England next week.

Gilbert Frederick Grace, whose death was announced of inflammation of the lungs on the 22nd ult., was the third member of the wonderful Grace family to distinguish himself on the cricket field. He was born at Downend, near Bristol, on Dec. 13th, 1850, and his name has been connected with first-class cricket during the past eleven seasons. His best scores were :—213, 206, not out ; 192, not out ; 189, not out ; 180, not out ; 166, 165, not out ; 147, not out ; 134, 120, 112, and 103, making a total of 1,927 runs. His score of 213 was made on August 11th, 12th, 1876, the same days that his brother W. G. was playing at Canterbury his 344, the highest innings yet recorded in a first-class match. His innings of 166 was played with twenty-two in the field, and in playing 165, not out, he was opposed to the best bowling in England. He hit 180, not out, on August 26th, 27th, 1865, and thereby scored more runs than did the whole Surrey eleven with the batsin either innings. He was a splendid all-round exponent of the game; a fine, free bat, with pleuty of hitting power; a splendid fast round arm bowler; and one of the best fielders in England, being a sure catch and a long and accurate thrower. He had played in many of the great matches since 1870, and had formed one of the English eleven that visited Australia in 1873-74. His probably last appearance on the cricket-field was in the great match between England and Australia, on September 6th, 7th and 8th, when he was twice retired without scoring.

Chilian Destruction of Property—A Vessel Sunk.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A Panama despatch says the Chilians have plundered and burned haciendas, houses, and stores, many of them belonging to foreigners, in and near Chibot Supe Payta, and proceeded to Libertad and Lambageque. A cavadonga was sunk by Peruvian torpedoes in Chaneay.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—A fire broke out on Saturday night in the Pavilion de Flore, and for a moment threatened to destroy the Tuilleries, the second time within one decade. For hours Paris, trembled for the restored palace and for the priceless treasures stored up in the adjoining museum of the Louvre. As it is some damage was done, which is unfortunately irreparable. The statuary of Carpeaux, which adorned the side of the Pavilie n, has been terribly injured. The fire broke out in the bedroom of the wife of the Pretect of the Seine. Nothing is proven to justify a suspicion that it was set fire by Communists. It is probable the misfortune was due originally to a domestic's fire. It was terribly aggravated by the slowness of the firemen. The principal loss was sustained by the Prefect of the Seine The archives of Paris were in the destroyed building, but were saved.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—The Parnell demonstrat at Cork yesterday was the largest ever seen in that section of Ireland since the days of Daniel O'Connell. Parnell, who travelled from Thurles by the American mail train, left the train at Blarney, six miles from Cork. He was accompanied thence by a large escort of tenant farmers on horseback. An address of welcome was presented and an enormous procession with bands and banners proceeded to Cork. At the Wellington bridge Parnell was met by the Mayor and Corporation, who presented him an address. It is stated that the trade societies never turned out so imposingly since 1843. The procession took three-quarters of an hour to pass. When the proceedings commenced in the park, over fifty thousand persons were present

During the formation of the procession at Blarney, a body of Fenians armed with revolvers compelled two members of the Land League, Cronin and O'Brien, to leave the carriage and kept them in custody till the proceedings were over. They intended to arrest the President of the League, but as he was in Parnell's carriage they could not. O'Brien and Cronin attempted to enter five different carriages, but were violently ejected by the Fenians, who levelled revolvers at the obnexious leaguers, with cries of "We have better men than you to sit beside Parnell." It appears the pure revolutionists of Cork are willing to accede the measure of toleration to Parnell in recognition of his services during the late distress, but are not prepared to extend similar favors to his followers who repudiate recourse to arms for the redress of their grievances. Parnell, in his speech, declared that landlordism, which was created for maintaining English rule in Ireland, and for the interest of a few against many, must fall. Voices called out, "And Lord Mountmorris fell."

PARIS, Oct. 4 —The syndicate for the construction of the Panama Canal was definitively formed yesterday. Seligman and Messrs. Loubeyran and Denier are at the head of it. The cost will be much less than at first estimated. The emission of a loan for 400,000,000 francs will be made about October 20th. The American committee will consist of J. and J. W. Seligman & Co., Drexel, Morgan & Co. and Winslow, Lanier & Co.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, OCT. 4.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

City Council.—The Council will hold a regular meeting to-night.

Emigration.—A train load of emigrants, between two and three hundred, passed west last night. They were only three hours on the road between Brockville and here.

Dogs.—The effect of the citation before the Police Magistrate of persons who neglected to register their dogs has been excellent. The number of dogs now registered is 349.

The Lost Vessel.—The Kingston Whig states that the persons composing the crew o the schooner Olive Branch, supposed to be lost are:—Capt. Aull, of Kingston; Mrs Minnie Jarvis, Belleville, cook; two Frenchmen, and an Oswego sailor.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, moderate to fresh winds gradually shifting towards the west, cloudy with rain, followed by clearing weather this evening. Lower temperature.

The "Galley Slave."—This new and highly popular drama is to be produced to night at the Metropolitan Hall. Both play and company have received the highly favorable notice of the press in Toronto, where the public also endorsed them by crowding the Royal Opera House nightly during the run of the piece.

More Big Pears.—Mr. Bennett, of Rawdon, will now take a back seat on the question of Flemish Beauty pears. Mr. J. W. London, of this office, has grown some pears of that variety, three of which have attained the enormous weight of 14 ounces each. Mr. London's tree, like Mr. Bennett's, is but four years old.

Curling Club.—All admirers of "the roaring game" are reminded that the annual meeting of the Belleville Curling Club is to be held at Hambly's to-morrow night, at 8 o'clock, when officers will be elected and other business transacted. Those curlers who are not members of the Club ought to ake the opportunity to become such.

Pig and Bulldog.—A small pig which was being driven along McAnnany Street this morning was attacked by a large bull terrier, which seized piggie by one of its ears and shook and worried it until driven off by a boy, but again returned to the charge and would probably have killed the unoffending porcine, but for the boy before mentioned. Such savage brutes as the dog referred to should he shot when caught in mischief of the kind noticed.

The Show.—The annual show of the West Hastings Agricultural Society and the Belleville Horticultural Society will be held on to-morrow and Wednesday, and judging from the unusually large number of entries there will be an excellent show and a keen competition in the various departments. The special prizes for horses, will be competed for to-morrow afternoon, and the Hall will be thrown open to the public at night, whilst Wednesday will be the chief day for the exhibition of live stock, implements, fowls, etc. Should the weather prove favorable there will no doubt be a large attendance.

Important Purchase. — The Peterborough Review of the 1st inst says:—"The rumor that was current around town some days ago that the Messrs. Rathbun & Son, of Millpoint, had purchased the old Scott timber limits from Benedict, of Albany, turns out to be correct. Messrs. Matthew Wright, well known here as foreman for W. A. Scott, and Cecil Wright, of Michigan, are now in town for the purpose of engaging men to work at the limits. Messrs. Rathbun do not intend to go very extensively into the work this winter, but want to get things in shape for future operations. They intend to cut both square timber and logs. It is a good thing for both the town and country that these splendid limits, which have been caged up for years, are once more to be made use of, and we have no doubt the enterprising firm that have purchased them will have no cause to regret their bargain."

Meeting.—The 49th Battalion Rifle Club will hold a meeting at Hambly's to-morrow night for the consideration of important business.

The Governor General.—His Excellency the Governor-General, who has been enjoying a few days duck shooting at Long Point, passed east on the noon express today. The train was one hour late.

Personal.—Our genial friend Geo. H. Pope has taken the opportunity afforded by a lull in the trade of shipping cattle from Boston and other ports, to pay a week's visit to his home here. He reports a very large season's business up to date.

An Important Market Fees Case.—A despatch from Kingston, Oct. 20, gives the following particulars of a case of considerable importance affecting the collecting of market due: In the case of Keyes v. Walker, the acting Police Magistrate to-day gave judgment, dismissing the summons with costs. The facts of the case, which are interesting to farmers, are that Stewart Walker was charged by Robert Keyes, the lessee of the market tolls, with haying on the 23rd of September offered or exposed grain for sale off the proper market without having paid the legal market toll therefor. Walker on the 23rd of September brought in a car load of grain by the Kingston and Pembroke Railway in pursuance of a prior agreement for its sale to Mr. James Richardson. The grain was taken out of the car on its arrival and transferred to Mr. Richardson's warehouse. Keyes, the market lessee, demanded toll of Walker, which the latter refused to pay. Hence the information. The judgment of the Magistrate was looked for with some interest by the farmers and sellers of grain, and it is now established beyond doubt that unless grain be offered publicly for sale it is not rendered liable to payment of toll. The Magistrate likewise held that the by-law was not authorized by the municipal statute, under which it purported to have been passed.

Cider.—As a matter of some interest to our farmers and others interested in the manufacture of cider, we give the following as the experience of an expert: I have been engaged in the manufacture of cider and cider vinegar for many years, and have kept cider for two years so that when drawn at that time it was bright, sparkling, sweet and delicious. The process is very simple. All the early fruit should be made into vinegar. When the weather is sufficiently cool, say by the first or middle of October, make the cider of sound, but mellow apples; put the cider in sweet liquor barrels, with a three-quarter inch tap-hole in the head of the barrel, about an inch and a half from the chine, and in a straight line from the bunghole. Then place the cider in a cool, dry cellar. After it is worked sufficiently, which will probably be in a week or less, draw it off carefully, so as not to disturb the sediment at the bottom, in perfectly clean barrels, and place back upon the skids as before. If the temperature of the cellar is very cool, it may not require drawing again in a month or longer. Then repeat the process, and after a few days bung up the barrels. Then about the latter part of March draw again, when, if properly managed before, there will be but a very little sediment. Fill the barrels full, bung up tight, and cider can be kept sweet and good for two years if thus treated.

Jurymen and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

Monday, Oct. 4.

ASSAULT

Robert Fisher was remanded until Wednesday.

DOG BY-LAW

The various parties summoned were given another week in which to register, their cases being adjourned till that time.

Stirling Correspondence.

The elevator proprietors are complaining of the want of enterprise on the part of the Belleville grain buyers. It appears that nine-tenths of the grain in these parts goes to Trenton, the buyers there paying from 5 to 10c more than Belleville figures, and our buyers can't ship to Trenton for sale as they have to go over two extra railroads, the Grand Trunk Railway and Prince Edward. There must be something wrong somewhere. It is talked here of bonusing the Trent Valley Railway.

Great numbers of travellers just now are driving to Belleville, as the train is so very irregular.

Trenton Correspondence.

Trenton Oct. 4th 1880.

The office for the use of Molson's Bank is completed, and the Bank will be ready for business on Wednesday, 6th inst. Mr. Frazer, the popular manager of the bank in Morrisburg, is in town and will take charge of the business here.

A very large quantity of barley and rye is being purchased by the grain buyers here. Prices range for barley 60 to 65 cts, rye 80 to 83.

The election fever for the first council of the new town is commencing early. The following gentlemen are mentioned for Mayor: Messrs. J. F. Flindall, C. Francis, J. D. Macaulay, Dr. Day, and L. U. C. Titus. For Reeve, Messrs. G. H. Gordon and J. N. Lee no doubt will be the only contestants. For Deputy Reeve G. W. Ostrom is the only one spoken of. For Councillors: Messrs. P. J. O'Rourke, G. A. White, Dr. McLellan, S. S. Bonter, J. Richardson and a host of others. As there will be twelve members in the new council a lively time is expected.

The pier for the new iron swing is progressing slowly. It will be three or four weeks before the bridge will be completed.

A scheme for the development of the water power on the river Trent, near the town, is under consideration. A number of citizens have purchased the island near the G. T. R. depot, built a dam and let the sites for a factory. Messrs. Gilmour & Co. came forward to the Town Council with a scheme, that if the town build a dam above the railway bridge, they will give them every other lot.

THE ASSIZES.

Vye vs. Norman.—Action of trespass, to decide side line between lots 20 and 21, in 7th concession of Madoc. Plaintiff owns lot 21, defendant lot 20. A dispute having arisen between them as to their respective boundaries, this action is brought to settle the difficulty. The land does not seem to have been of great value, but the respective claimants felt bound to contend for his supposed rights. The case has occupied the Court since Wednesday last. The usual discrepancy in such cases, through depending upon other memories to speak of old posts, and particular marks on them, also difference in surveys by land surveyors; a case difficult for a jury to decide—evidence conflicting and lasting so long, it is quite impossible for them to carry it in their minds. Verdict for defendant.—Dickson and Burdett for plt'ff; Wallbridge, Dougall and Fraleck for deft.

Western Loan Company vs. Orr.—Action on mortgage. Record withdrawn.—Denmark & Northrup for plff; Bell & Ponton for deft.

The Northern Railway Strike.—The strike of the Northern Railway employees still continues, and not satisfied with refusing to work and intimidating others from work, outrages have been committed, it is alleged by the strikers. The following attempts at violence have occurred, and for which acts they are blamed: The rails near Parkdale were greased, the effect being to seriously impede the progress of the afternoon passenger train; a switch was opened near the King-street crossing, which might have led to a great loss of life; and the train was stoned and its coupling pins tampered with at Allandale Luckily through the vigilance of the company all these outrages were discovered in time to render them harmless. A reward of $1,500 has been offered for the discovery of the perpetrators.

Mining at Lake Superior.—Numerous parties from the States are up inspecting the Lake Superior north shore mines, with a view of opening them up at once. McKellar's Island has been sold to an American firm, and work will be commenced immediately. Rich specimens have been also taken on Pie Island. A very large quantity of silver from Silver Islet is ready for shipment, and the Company have great difficulty in securing sufficient men to push the work. About 150 men are busy on the Islet, and it never showed such excellent prospects since it has been opened out.

CANDAHAR.

AYOUB KHAN THREATENING REVENGE.

A Candahar despatch says:—The female relatives of Abdurrahman Khan have been refused permission to go to Cabul. The Ameer is about to send Shere Ali's brother to Candahar as Governor. The Viceroy of India telegraphs that Ayoub Khan passed through Farrah, leaving a Sirdar as governor. He declared his intention of going to Herat and settling affairs, and then returning to attack Candahar.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Athens, Oct. 4.—The leaders of the Opposition in Parliament have decided to support the national armaments. There are now 40,000 men under arms, and recruits arriving.

Rome, Oct. 4.—Cairoli's letter to Garibaldi is intended to allay the General's resentment. Vigorous measures are taken to guard the Genoa prison, where Garibaldi's son-in-law is confined. Two regiments have been ordered to Genoa.

New York, Oct. 4.—Arrived, the Gallia, from Liverpool.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The Health Officer at Key West reports one yellow fever case and a death last night.

New York, Oct. 4.—The regular sale of tickets for the Bernhardt season begun to-day and by noon all the seats on the ground floor and the first balcony were disposed of at three dollars each, and seats in the family circle sold for $2.50.

Of one hundred carrier pigeons which started in a race from Pine Grove, Pa., at 3.30 a.m. yesterday, 95 arrived home before 5 p.m. The flock was the largest ever started in a race in this country. The distance is 122 miles; the average time a mile of the pet bird was 1 minute 3 seconds.

Arrived, New York City, from Bristol.

The epizootic has reached Jersey City about a week later than it appeared here. Many surgeons believe that should the weather continue mild a short time longer, the animals will recover without passing through the several stages of the disease. A cold change, in their opinion, would prove disastrous.

The pedestrians Dan O'Leary, Frank H. Hart, Geo. Guyon, Jno. Dobler and Chas. E. Davies, sail for Liverpool to-morrow.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A fire last night destroyed Heaghany's wholesale drug store, McLoud & Reardon's hardware store and Bolton & Hartley's coal sheds. Loss $10,000.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Indications: lower lakes, threatening rain, followed by cooler, partly cloudy.

MAYNOOTH, Sept. 25, 1880.

MR. EDITOR,—Under the above heading the Hon. Billa Flint has been exercising his talents for sarcasm on your humble servant, Charles McDavitt. In the first place, the Hon. Billa saw fit to publish a statement to the effect that he had driven to Maynooth for purposes which have been already stated, and had a chat with the Reeve, not as Charles McDavitt, but as Reeve, of whom he states as one needing a lady to perform the duties of wife and housekeeper; also as having a very fine house, which thoroughly shows the want of a woman's handiwork; and now excuses himself by saying that he will call a jury of twelve ladies to decide whether or not he has done wrong, and if the verdict is that he has done wrong, then he will doff his cap or apologize through the press.

Surely the truth of the trite old saying "Once a man twice a child," cannot be shown to better advantage than in the above offer. Now your humble servant, not being in quite such good favor as the Hon. Billa is known to be with young ladies, will ask the hon. gentleman to choose 12 gentlemen, and if the gentlemen do not agree with me that he has been guilty of one of the gravest breaches of hospitality, then I will look around to see who will be so unfortunate and willing as to share my miserable state of existence. Again the hon. gentleman strives to make me appear ridiculous. For why? Simply because having had slurs cast upon me as Reeve I have had the audacity to reply and sign myself as Reeve. Now, Mr. Editor, I have not the title of hon. tacked to my name, but of the position which I do hold I am justly proud.

To understand the ground for this controversy you must know that the Hon. Billa drove to Maynooth, a distance of 15 miles, as he states, to perform a piece of duty. Be it so. Said duty consisted in presenting me, as Reeve, to sign and circulate, a petition praying for the removal of No. 12 division court, (now situate at L'Amable) to Bancroft. At my suggestion, he states, he inserted the word Maynooth before Bancroft. Now to show the consistency of this would be Reeve, I may state that L'Amable, where the court is now situated, is 4 or 5 miles nearer Belleville than Bancroft, and as such Bancroft would be more benefitted, the Court being held at L'Amable than it would if held at Maynooth. He also states that the word Bancroft was left out by me, no doubt designedly, which I do not deny, but I do deny that I promised to circulate his petition as it stood. But be that as it may, surely the Hon. Billa Flint does not make that an excuse for having stooped so low as to give me a dig in the ribs in such an ungentlemanly manner.

In conclusion, like him I will say that if that is the manner Benedicts act when anything is done which does not please them, then I have no wish to become a Benedict, and that as far as I am concerned this controversy must cease. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for having allowed me so much space in your valuable paper, I remain

Yours,

Bangor, Wicklow and McClure.

The Municipal Council of Bangor, et al, at their last sitting passed a By-law authorizing the levy and collection of the following sums, viz:

On School Section No. 1 for the purpose of paying the trustees requisition for said section, four cents on the dollar.

In School Section No. 2, for paying trustees requisition 1 8-10 cents; and for paying debentures one cent on the dollar; total tax 2 8-10 cents.

In School Section No. 4, one cent and 7½-10 on the dollar to pay trustees requisition in said section,

School Section No. 5 two cents on the dollar to pay trustees requisition of said section.

And the sum of six mills on the dollar to pay local municipal expenses, and a further sum of nine mills on the dollar to pay county tax, making total taxes levied for the present year.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

Rev. ——, Washingtn, D. C.

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick head ache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents, Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

No good preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt it such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

SUBSTITUTES!

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well, I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA.

XXXVI.

In addition to the cities and towns described in our correspondence, we visited some of the "health resorts" in quiet villages, where we had an opportunity of seeing something of what may be termed

GERMAN BATH LIFE.

These health resorts are always a few miles from business centres, and Nature is so prodigal in this country that some kind of a mineral spring is sure to bubble up to the surface just where it is wanted. At Weisbaden, Baden-Baden, or any of the fashionable resorts that have not yet escaped the notice and patronage of Englishmen and Americans, there is not an opportunity of seeing true German life. The Germans claim that as soon as English and American people begin to patronize a resort they raise prices so high that natives are driven from their own ground. The true German life can therefore only be seen at the smaller places, where the Anglo-Saxon element has not yet introduced its disturbing influence.

Near Frankfort, near Friaburg, near Stutgart, there are plenty of these resorts, happy yet in having escaped the notice of the pervasive Briton and his American cousin. The programme is in all cases the same—music, mineral water, and mild exercise when the sun is yet low and the morning air fresh. It is then, in the alleys so beautifully kept, and along the promenades under the shade of the lindens or the pines, that you may get a glimpse of the home life of a great people. It is strange to see combined so much simplicity and so much pomp. You move in an atmosphere of cumbruous verbosity. There is as much salutation, doffing of the hat, inclining of the figure, as if royalty was abroad amidst its loyal subjects. The German women join their husbands in those early walks. It is delightful to witness so much affection, and perhaps difficult to account for it. The little orchestra, stationed in what looks like a section of a gigantic bandbox, tunes up as the minute hand of the clock shows the hour to be seven. There are a dozen musicians, led by the first violin, who conducts at certain stages of the performance, and looks inspired when he is satisfied and volcanic when he is displeased. Then through the pines and the lindens floats the stately melancholy of Schubert's "Am Meer" or some melodious movement from Beethoven or Haydn.

You glance at the crowd of promenaders, the hats are waving, compliments are floating about; music inspires enthusiasm, amongst even Germans. The water in the little fountains bubbles and sparkles, and air is bright and clear. At eight the promenade ground is as desolate as the great desert, and all the Germans who have not finished breakfast are at it. After oreakfast they take a nap, or lounge about their rooms, so that from 8 till 12 there is not a soul stirring about the quiet village. But at noon the bells peal out, the German dinner hour; the fare is plain, ample and sufficiently varied, we presume, for a "health resort." After 1 o'clock there is a little desultory music, which seems to do no one much harm or good, and a fog of tobacco wreaths rises on the atmosphere. The young men lounge, the maidens knit, the fathers read the local papers. In our country there would be boating, croquet or some other amusement; but here the programme of the day seems to be concentrated in digestion. Supper relieves the monotony at half-past six, and then the band relieves the public. At eight o'clock the great room for the occasion is lighted up and the musicians are in the musician's gallery, and all the seats are full, and the parquette floor fresh and slippery. The ball is about commencing, and the band strikes up one of Strauss' tunes. Here the German waltz is danced by a native population to their own music. Ugly couples, stout couples, fathers, mothers, and children all dance, and all seem to enjoy it. It is not here that the pretty young girls and eligible single gentlemen waltz to amuse themselves and the lookers-on, and flirt with a view to present pleasure and possible prospect. The German idea seems less complex. The idea of youth, or beauty, or bulk, or the accident of being married or engaged, has no more to do with waltzing in the German mind than with crochet, or smoking, or carriage exercise. The hours are early, and the dress is of the very simplest kind. A corpulent uncle with a bald head and a bow-window of a waistcoat, festooned with a watch chain, will be seen dancing with a niece whose figure is as near to being elegant as a German can well be. He trips it on a toe which perhaps never was light, and has long since ceased to be fantastic; but both are amused and delighted. The German waltz, as performed by this couple, scarcely illustrates the definition of dancing as the poetry of motion. Their wrists are on their hips, their elbows are thrust out, their arms are anywhere, their feet are everywhere. They rock from heel to heel, with apparently each a third leg to spare, and the dreamy Strauss music is the accompaniment of the most violent and unnecessary exertion. There are a dozen such couples and they all dance the same steps. It is easy to laugh—indeed it is very difficult to avoid laughing—but in this aspect of German bath life other things are to be remembered. The people who seem so prosy, so stupid, so heavy, are a nation of soldiers, who, in time of peace, can take simple pleasures, and are frugal, innocent and contented.

Were it not for their frugality, the Germans would be a poverty stricken people, as the men are compelled to serve three years in the army and the women to do most of the outside labor. Aside from the disadvantage of the state of the men living so long upon it, three years of the best of their lives thus spent tends to fix their tastes and habits, and no doubt disqualifies them, to a great extent, for energetic business industries.

After leaving Germany we crossed the line into the bold and mountainous little country of SWITZERLAND.

The legislative authority of the Swiss Confederation is exercised by a National Council composed of 135 deputies, elected by the people, one for every 20,000 of the population; and a Council of the Estates, composed of 44 members, two from each Canton. The highest judicial authority is vested in the Federal Tribunal, consisting of 9 members. Switzerland has no President; the duties of such an officer are discharged by a Federal Council of 7 members, elected for 3 years by the Federal Assembly. Each member has special charge of a department of the government, military, finance, interior, etc. The President of the Federal Council receives the magnificent salary of $600 a year.

The following extract, respecting the topography of the country may be found interesting:

"Switzerland has been divided by naturalists into seven regions, each successfully rising above the other; the first, or lowest of which terminates at the height of 1,700 feet above the level of the sea; the second, or region of oaks, reaches the height of 2,800 feet, and is succeeded by the region of the fir, which rises to 4,000 feet. The higher Alpine regions commence at an elevation of 6,500 feet; and above 8,000 feet is the region of glaciers, and of eternal snows. Along the chain of the Alps, from Mont Blanc to the frontiers of the Tyrol, there are reckoned to be above 4,000 glaciers, many of which are 18 or 21 miles long, 14 to 24 miles wide, and from 100 to 600 feet thick. Altogether, the glaciers of Switzerland are presumed to form a sea of ice more than 1,000 miles in extent, and from its inexhaustible sources flow the waters of the Rhine, the Rhone, and the Po. Switzerland is also intersected by mountains, the greater part of which are ramifications of the Alps, whilst the remainder belong to the chain of the Jura. From Mount St. Gothard—the Central Alps—extend two ranges, which form a mass of the highest mountains in Europe. In winter and spring the snows accumulated on the top of the Alps and falls down their precipitous sides into the lower regions, where they often produce serious injury. The chain of the Jura presents to the eye of the traveller a deep contrast to that of the Alps. It stretches in several parallel ridges for about 240 miles along the western and northwestern frontiers of Switzerland from the bend of the Rhone, below Geneva, to the banks of the Rhine, eastward of Basle, and is clothed from top to bottom with luxuriant pine-forests. Switzerland is also pre-eminently a land of lakes, the principal of which are the Lake of Constance, the Lake of Geneva (or Lake Leman), the Lake of Zurich, the Lake of Lucerne, and the Lake of Neuchatel, with some minor ones."

BASTLE

was the first town we visited in Switzerland. It is a quaint old place of Roman origin, is situated on the Rhine and has a population of 46,000.

We spent a few hours in visiting the Museum, the Public Library, the Arsenal and a church called the Munster, said to be one of the finest Protestant churches in the world, and then walked about threequarters of a mile into the environs of the town, to the battle-field of St. Jacob's, a gorge where in 1444, only 1300 Swiss soldiers withstood an army of 40,000 French, under the command of the Dauphin of France. It is said that only ten of the French army escaped alive, and the battle of St. Jacob is still referred to as the Thermopylæ of Swiss history. A vineyard near by produces an excellent wine called Schweitzer Blut (Swiss Blood). In order to show that no animosity existed, we drank success to the Swiss arms while sampling a bottle for the proprietor of the vineyard.

Some Results of Protection and Free Trade.

The following statistics, prepared by Mr. John Frazier, of the Customs Service, supply a strong argument against the cry of "Free Trade" and Congress that are pledged to enact a "tariff for revenue only." They show that under the present tariff, maintained by the Republican party against Democratic attempts to destroy it, our imports have steadily declined, as we have made at home larger and larger quantities of the goods we require, and that our exports have increased year by year. The following are the values of the exports from the leading cities of the United Kingdom of Great Britain to the United States for the years ending September 30th, 1873 and 1877 :—

Belfast, 1873	$ 7,460,197 10
1874	6,640,559 19
Birmingham, 1873	7,463,135 72
1877	2,842,871 05
Cardiff, 1873	4,411,124 39
1877	102,271 79
Cork, 1873	147,571 32
1877	40,845 71
Dublin, 1873	1,164,029 68
1877	250,311 80
Glasgow, 1873	8,262,423 88
1877	4,589,156 85
Leeds, 1873	4,868,277 08
1877	1,704,327 58
Liverpool, 1873	36,095,933 86
1877	22,585,056 66
Loudon, 1873	36,383,557 37
1877	22,738,837 83
Manchester, 1873	21,978,696 48
1877	9,876,768 09

The following are the gross total values of merchandise exported from the United Kingdom of Great Britain to the United States, under the English system of free trade for the years 1872 and 1876 :—

1872—Total exports to U. S.	$177,066,483 72
1876 " " "	94,552,132 21
Decrease in five years	$ 82,454,356 51

The total value of the exports from the United States under the system of "tariff for protection," to the United Kingdom for the years 1872 and 1876 were :—

1872—Total exports to United Kingdom	$264,573,508
1876—Total exports to United Kingdom	367,351,198
Increase in five years	$102,777,600

The total value of exports from the countries of Germany, Belgium, Russia, Spain and Italy into the United Kingdom for the years of 1872 and 1876 were :

Germany, 1872—Total exports U. K.	$ 93,292,125
1876 " "	102,197,514
Increase in five years	$ 8,705,389
Belgium, 1872	$63,941,452
1876	67,025,738
Increase in five years	$ 3,084,286
Russia, 1872	$117,710,011
1876	85,060,521

Italy, 1872	$20,130,359
1876	20,096,852
Decrease in five years	$33,687

With regard to the question of wages under the system of free trade in England, Mr. Frazier cites the case of a factory in Lancashire that, having 63,900 spindles, employs 202 workpeople at a total outlay each week of $880, or, on an average, $4.40 a week to each operative. The prices for provisions were as follows: Beef, rump steak, 26c per pound; veal, forequarter, 16c.; hindquarter, 20c.; mutton forequarter, (shoulder), 20c.; mutton, neck, 13c.; leg, 24c.; chops, 28c.; pork, fresh dairy fed, 20c.; bacon 24c.; hams, 28c.; lard, 20.; butter, best, 48c. per pound; eggs, 48c. per dozen; tea, 40c. to $1 per pound; coffee, 25 to 40c.; board for mechanics, $4 per week.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 5.

"Harrying Importers."

The chief organ of the Opposition has resumed its war on the Customs Department, which it charges with "harrying importers," by enforcing the very provision of the law which the Mackenzie Government re-enacted; which the members of that administration stated in Parliament ought to be carried out; and which Mr. Mackenzie's Minister of Customs by several circulars to Collectors of Customs, required to be stringently enforced. Despite, however, of their apparent determination to prevent the "slaughtering" of Yankee goods in our markets—despite the Globe's approval of the same—the law was never put into effective operation by the Mackenzie Government, and the consequence was that many Canadian manufacturers had to succumb to the competition which the Government of that time, in the face of their public declarations, either allowed or were too stupid to prevent being conducted in an illegitimate and dishonorable manner. By these means thousands of Canadian mechanics were thrown out of employment, and many additional thousands were placed in a state of semi-starvation by being placed on half or three-quarters time, and at a reduced rate of pay at that. Now that the present head of the Customs Department is honestly endeavoring to enforce the law as he found it—now that, by calling to his aid experts in the principal branches of trade, who know and are able to fix the fair market value of goods at the place of production—and thus to give fair play to Canadian manufacturers and working men, he is assailed with a virulence which, under the circumstances, is on the face of it inexplicable, but can probably be attributed to the excess of party spleen, with which the chief organ is so liberally endowed. The Mail takes up the matter on behalf of the Government, and shows that satisfactory evidence of systematic undervaluation on the part of Yankee exporters was presented to the late Government.

Our contemporary says :—"For instance, here is a case of jewellery which showed, in 1876, an undervaluation of fifty per cent. —an interesting fact for local jewellers and tradesmen. Again, perambulators, manufactured also in Canada, were invoiced at 25 per cent. less than their value, and the Collector of Customs was instructed to bring the invoice price up to the fair market value. Again, a lot of show cases showed an undervaluation of 30 per cent., and the consignees were thenceforth placed under official surveillance. Again, a lot of "pegwood in rolls" showed an undervaluation of 75 per cent., and the importer's soul was harrowed up in consequence by the Collector, who broached the "monstrous" doctrine that one man should not be allowed to undersell his neighbor by defrauding the revenue. Again, a lot of hair-cloth shows an undervaluation of 50 per cent., and the Collector of Customs is instructed to make the importer do penance in haircloth and ashes. Again, a lot of fancy goods are put in at a fancy price, 50 per cent. below their real value, and the 'monstrous' law was put in motion to make the consignee pay duty on the real value. Glassware and lamps entered at 50 per cent. less than value were also made to pay former duty. Willow ware put in at half its value was the cause of grief to another innocent importer. We have before us some specimens of fraudulent invoices, invoices to be filled up to the good will of the importer, and of most of the fraudulent devices, involving perjury in some cases, by which the revenue is cheated, and fair trade disturbed, by practices against which the law is now, as it has always been, directed, but of which the Globe and some of its contemporaries seem determined to be the champions."

The result of these disclosures, as we have seen, was that the Government made a great fuss over the matter, but in reality did nothing, thus shamefully deceiving the public and neglecting their duty. The Globe itself makes plain another effect, in addition to those above noted, of this neglect of its political friends. In an article in its issue of the 2nd inst., on the subject of the revenue returns for September, it endeavors to account for the failure of the Cartwright tariff as a revenue producer by saying that this was because of "the falling off in the value of imports." That the value of imports in 1876-77 78 was in reality much less than at the present time, we flatly deny; but by means of fraudulent invoices a large decline in the value for duty was made to appear, and this dishonestly being unchecked by the Government, the country was robbed of a large part of the revenue which ought to have been collected, many of our manufacturers were ruined, thousands of our workingmen were either reduced to a state bordering on beggary or driven out of the country; and the Government, with all the facts in their possession, looked on with folded hands, doing nothing and declaring that they were helpless—as powerless to effect a beneficial change as a fly on a wheel would be to set it in motion. Under the present vigorous administration of the Customs Department, these grievances have been remedied, so that our people have fair play in the matter and the revenue is no longer cheated. The only persons who can feel aggrieved are the few dishonest importers who formerly carried on a species of smuggling by entering goods much under their value, and the manufacturers in the United States who furnished the false invoices. For such sharpers as these we have no sympathy, nor will any one who has a regard for honesty. The Globe, in order to have something to urge against the Government, may constitute itself their organ, but the job is a disreputable one, and our contemporary will probably wish to be well rid of it before its task is ended.

The importer who conducts his business honestly need not fear being "harried." It may be that errors will at times occur on the part of the Customs officers, but those who happen to be aggrieved thereby can feel assured of being justly and fairly dealt with in the end.

County Debentures.

A GOOD SALE.

A few weeks ago the County of Hastings offered $40,000 County Debentures for sale to the highest bidder. The Debentures are issued by the Corporation of the County in payment of Railway Aid, and are redeemable one-half in eighteen and the other half in twenty years, from the first day of July, 1880, and bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum. Thirteen tenders were received from the following parties :

Mrs. J. H. Hambly, Belleville, $5,060, offered 100.

Home Savings and Loan Company, Toronto, $40,000, offered 101¼.

J. L. Burrows, Oswego, $4,000, at 102½.

British Canadian Loan and Investment Company, Toronto, $40,000, at 103½.

B. M. Britton, Kingston, $40,000, at 105.

Imperial Bank, Toronto, $40,000, at 105 5-100.

E. Cox, Toronto, $40,000, at 105 26-100.

Pellatt & Osler, Toronto, $40,000, at 105 55-100.

Dominion Bank, Toronto, $40,000, at 105 86-100.

Quebec Church Society, Quebec, $20,000, at 106.

C. J. Campbell, Toronto, $40,000, at 106 2-100.

Cassels, Son & Co., Toronto. $20,000, having 18 years to run, at 106⅞, and for $20,000 having 20 years to run, at 107 3-16.

A. T. McCord, Toronto. $9,000, at 107¼.

Mr. Cord got the $9,000, and Messrs. Cassels, Son & Co., the balance of the $40,000, thus making the sale average 107⅞. Considering the fact that the highest price quoted for the best of Ontario County Debentures has been 106, and that until very recently the rate ranged from 104 to 105, this may be considered an exceptionally good sale. The competition for these debentures shows that there is an abundance of money in the country, and the price obtained shows that the credit of the County of Hastings stands as high as if not higher than that of any other municipality in Ontario, and also speaks volumes for the excellent management of the County's finances by its Treasurer, Thomas Wills, Esq. We congratulate Mr. Wills and the County on the remarkably successful sale of their debentures.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Oct. 4.

The Council met at the usual hour.

PRESENT.—The Mayor; Ald. Farley, Lingham, St. Charles, Robertson, McIninch, Vandusen, Hambly, Wallbridge, Jellett, Brennan, Niles, Frost, Holden, Dickson, Costello, Geen, A. L. Smith, Ostrom, Jas. Smith.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Clerk announced that the statement of receipts and expenditures for 1879 was printed, and laid before the members.

PETITIONS.

A petition from Alex. Robertson, asking that, as while he was building his new block he derived no benefit from the property on which it is situated, the taxes for that time be remitted.

REPORTS

Ald. Hambly, chairman of the Water and Gas Committee, and Ald. Robertson, Chairman of the Harbor and City property Committee, reported that they had called their Committees together, and obtained no quorum.

The reports of the Finance, Poor and Sanitary, Market, Public Works, and Printing Committees were read.

NOTICES

Ald. Dickson renewed his notice of motion, regarding the frontage tax.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Robertson, in answer to Ald. Jellett, said he had received a communication from the Government, saying the new light-house would be built and attended to by them, but not this season.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Jellett introduced a new By-law to raise a loan of $90,000.—Read a first time.

Ald. Dickson's notice of a By-law respecting the salaries of officials was allowed to stand.

MOTIONS.

Ald. A. L. Smith moved that the Mayor be instructed to open correspondence with the Grand Trunk Railway Company respecting their contract with the city.—Carried.

The Council went into Committee on By-laws, the rules being suspended to allow the second reading of the By-law to raise the loan, Ald. Dickson in the chair.

The By-law to raise the loan and provide a sinking fund, was considered.

Ald. A. L. Smith thought the City of Belleville could borrow money in England at 4 per cent. The Minister of Customs had said he would do all in his power to assist us and would secure the assistance of Sir John Rose. He moved in amendment that the debentures be issued for two years.

Ald. Jellett said Ald. Smith didn't know what he was talking about. Could Mr. Bowell do anything for us?

Ald. Smith—Yes.

Ald. Jellett said that people holding debentures would not give them up till they had expired, and some of them run for years yet, and the debt could not be wholly consolidated till then. This By-law would save the City a large amount of interest. The matter had been fully discussed. Hereafter we could pay off debentures as they came due and consolidate our debt.

Ald. A. L. Smith said this By law would lock up this amount for 20 years.

Ald. Dickson thought no one would invest in two year debentures.

Ald. Jellett said Ald. Smith's motion was absurd. Now is the time to sell our debentures, as money is plenty.

Ald. Robertson said if Ald. Smith had no more definite scheme, he would support the By-law. Every day lost was money lost.

Ald. A. L. Smith said if we could get on for two years, he believed we could get the money in England for 4 per cent.

Ald. Vandusen thought 20 years a long time, but two years was altogether too short. Arrange the debentures so that a number of them would mature at the same time, and then take a step towards consolidating the whole debt.

Ald. Dickson said if we could float these debentures at less than 6 per cent. it would be better, but he would not oppose the Chairman of Finance on this, as he had made thorough enquiries.

Ald. Jellett said the largest cities in the Dominion paid more than Ald. Smith thought we could get the money for.

Ald. Geen said there were other points to be discussed, and the By-law should go to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Jellet said the matter had been fully considered by the Committee and the Council.

Ald. Holden thought Ald. Smith's views were worthy of consideration. $90,000 was more than we really need. He would like to see the By-law go to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Jellett said we must have a sinking fund, and we had none now. The matter had been fully discussed in the city papers, and the members must understand it.

Ald. A. L. Smith said he had heard that Ald. Jellett had been offered the money at 5 per cent.

Ald. Jellett said that was for the whole debt.

Ald. Frost said the longest debenture falls due in 17 years. It would be better to issue these debentures for 15 years.

Ald. Smith's amendment was lost.

Ald. Geen asked if the By-law must not go to the Finance Committee. No notice had been given.

Ald. Jellett said he had given notice. If Ald. Geen had been in his place in the Council when the matter was discussed he would know all about it.

Ald. Geen raised the point of order that the By-law must go to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Dickson ruled the point was not well taken.

Ald. Geen asked the Mayor to rule.

Ald. Dickson—I'm in the chair now.

Ald. Geen appealed to the Mayor and said the conduct of Ald. Dickson was outrageous. He contended that the Mayor should rule.

Ald. Dickson said Ald. Geen could appeal to the Committee. The Mayor was a member of this Committee.

A scene of disorder here ensued, Ald. Dickson trying to go on with the By-law and Ald. Geen loudly objecting.

Ald. St. Charles said Ald. Geen's proper course was to appeal to the Council. The rules were suspended.

Ald. Jellett moved that the Committee raise and ask leave to sit again.—Carried.

Council resumed.

Ald. Jellett stated the object of going into Council again now, namely, to get the Mayor's decision as to the power of the Chairman of the Committee to decide on points of order.

Some discussion followed and

The Mayor said as the By-law had been put through some stages it need not go to the Finance Committee.

Committee of the Whole resumed and proceeded to consider the By-law.

Ald. Geen objected that a two-thirds vote was necessary.

The first clause was put and carried by a two-thirds vote.

The remaining clauses of the By-law were carried.

Committee rose and reported.

Ald. Jellett moved that the report be adopted.

Ald. Geen moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Holden, that it be referred back and the Committee instructed to report that the By-law be referred to the Finance Committee. The By-law should be thoroughly examined.

The amendment was lost, and the report was then adopted.

Ald. Jellett moved that the Clerk take the necessary steps to have the vote of the ratepayers taken on the By-law.—Carried.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means, Ald. Robertson in the chair.

On the report of the Finance Committee being considered,

Ald. Brennan moved in amendment that the petitions relating to remission of taxes be referred back for further consideration.

Ald. Jellett said the petitions had been considered by the full Committee and he would oppose the amendment.

The amendment was lost.

Ald. Farley moved in amendment that Mrs. Dolan's petition be referred back for further consideration.

Ald. Hambly supported the amendment.

Ald. Jellett said he opposed the petition on principle, but if Mrs. Dolan could not pay her taxes, he would give his quota.

This amendment was also lost.

The remainder of the Finance Committee's report was adopted.

The report of the Public Works Committee was considered.

Ald. Dickson moved in amendment to the first clause, that it be added that Downey & Preston assume all responsibility in regard to the siding. It might interfere with the ferry lease. He was going to move for a committee to consider the grain trade of this city. If a monopoly of this trade exists, the Council should try to do away with it.

The amendment was carried, and the report as amended adopted.

The Market Committee's report was adopted —also the report of the Printing Committee.

Ald. Brennan moved, seconded by Ald. Wallbridge, that $500 be appropriated for securing water in Foster Ward.

Ald. Hambly said the matter was under the consideration of the Water and Gas Committee, and would be reported on at the next meeting of the Council.

The motion was withdrawn.

Ald. Farley moved, as the Grand Trunk Railway Company was treating the residents of the city unfairly, as an order was issued to foremen to employ no additional men from this city, that the Mayor be instructed to correspond with Mr. Hickson to secure a relaxation of the order.—Carried.

Ald. Dickson moved that the Solicitor be asked to report as to whether the Grand Junction Railway Company had fulfilled the conditions of the bonus By-law.—Carried.

THE DELEGATION.

Ald. Dickson moved that $250 be placed to the credit of the Industrial Committee. The delegation would be chosen by the Industrial Committee.

Ald. St. Charles thought the Chairman of the Industrial Committee should be on the delegation.

Ald. Dickson said he could not possibly go.

Ald. Jas. Smith would favor the sending of the Mayor alone, but no larger delegation should go.

Ald. Dickson said that would be decided by the Committee.

Ald. Lingham thought $200 sufficient.

Ald. Dickson explained that it might not be sufficient, and no more would be used than was necessary.

Ald. Hambly thought the people would not support an appropriation for two men to go on a pleasure trip. It was too late in the season to be useful.

Ald. Dickson said he had done all that could be done without an appropriation. If those who oppose this could do better they should take the matter up.

Ald. Robertson said this was the best step we could take. Let us make an effort.

The motion was altered to $200 and carried.

THE GRAIN TRADE.

Ald Dickson moved the appointment of a Special Committee to consist of Ald. Holden, Jas. Smith, Frost and Ostrom, to consider the grain trade. He did not know that the rumors current concerning rings being formed by those engaged in the trade were true, but the matter should be investigated.—Carried.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.

The Mayor said a mandamus had been served on him in reference to the suit of the Grand Junction, and something should be done.

Ald. Jellett moved that the matter be left in the hands of the Solicitor to take such steps as he thinks advisable.

The Solicitor said the judgment ordered us to place the debentures in the hands of the trustees of the railway in strict accordance with the terms of the By-law.

Ald. Dickson advocated appealing to the Court of Appeal.

The motion was carried.

John Farrell's account for $2 was passed.

Committee rose and reported. The report was adopted and the Council adjourned.

THE ASSIZES.

Sad Drowning Calamity.

Four Persons Drowned.

LAKE MEGANTIC, Oct. 4—After church meeting held in the Prince of Wales Hotel last night, twelve persons entered a small boat to cross to Victoria Bay. When near the end of their journey four of their party were drowned, named Mrs. John Murray and her son, Angus Murray, Miss McKenzie and Miss McDonald. The cause of the accident was overloading the boat.

THE APPLE TRADE.—Apple shipments from Montreal are increasing weekly, the Canadian contributors being supplemented by consignments from New York State. It is expected that the shipments to England this year will aggregate half a million barrels. Apples which sell in this market for $1 to $1.25 a barrel fetch from $1.50 $2.50 in British markets. Liverpool and Glasgow are now the principal markets, though Bremen and Hamburg are taking some shipments. Although prices are low, the foreign market this year is unusually active, owing to the failure of the crop all over England and the continent.

CONTEMPT OF COURT CASE.—A Winnipeg despatch says :—In the case of the Queen v. Rowe for contempt of court, the Chief Justice gave judgment on Saturday, making the rule of attachment absolute. Sentence was deferred. Justice Dubuc concurred in the decision. The Times, Mr. Rowes' paper, commenting on the judgment says :—"We admit that this is not the first instance in a British court of justice where the court on its own motion and at the investigation of the judge who feels that he has been maligned, has instituted proceedings for a contempt of court committed, nor is it the first instance where a judge who has claimed to have been thus slandered has adjudicated upon his own case, but we believe that this practice is solely confined to courts in the Province of Manitoba. Under these circumstances no one will be surprised at the ruling of the court."

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 5.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

MEETINGS TO-NIGHT.—The meetings arranged for to-night are those of the Curling Club and of the 49th Battalion Rifle Club.

CHALLENGE.—The Tory members of the Cricket Club challenge the Grit members of the same Club to a one innings match at one o'clock to-morrow, the 6th inst.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities :—Lakes, brisk to high westerly to southerly winds, fair to cloudy warmer weather, followed by rain areas toward evening.

PERSONAL.—Mr. John J. Harrison, of Ottawa, has paid a brief visit to his relatives and left for home on the noon train.—Mr. John M. Taylor, of Springfield, Missouri, formerly an employee of Messrs. James Clarke & Co., is in town.—Mr. Charles Corby has returned from St. John, New Brunswick, where he has been carrying on business for the firm of H. Corby & Sons. He will reside in Belleville hereafter.

A GOOD MOVE.—The City Council have at length assented to the request of the Committee on Manufactures, by appropriating $200 to pay the expenses of a delegation to visit other places and view manufactories of various kinds. Immediately after the adjournment of the Council, the Industrial Committee met and appointed His Worship the Mayor, on behalf of the Council, and Mr. C. J. Starling, on behalf of the citizens, as the delegation.

THE GALLEY SLAVE.—This excellent new society drama was produced last night before a very large audience. The play is an interesting one, and was on the whole fairly performed, the exception being Mr. Cooper as Baron le Bois, who gave but a poor rendition of the character. The new experiment in seating the hall is not a success, in fact it would be better to do away with the raised platform in the front portion of the house altogether. Mr. Graham is anxious to have his neat little house made to suit the public, and will doubtless try further experiments.

FALL OPENING.—A. E. Fish & Co., today made their fall exhibit of Gents' furnishings and fashionable innovations; the display was quite in keeping with those heretofore made by this firm, whilst its variety and character made it especially attractive. The show window was trimmed with great taste and neatness, and sufficed to show an endless array of goods necessary for the requirements. Within is a large stock of underwear comprising merino, wools and cotton of the usual sizes and at reasonable prices. There is an excellent display of ties, bows, scarfs, handkerchiefs, socks, braces, cardigan jackets, tweed waterproofs, umbrellas, &c., &c., whilst the general array of shirts, white and colored, make the opening by this firm highly creditable and worthy the attention of all seeking goods in their line.

THE RIFLE.—Our local marksmen are more than usually active this year, and the rivalry which exists between the 15th and 49th Battalions seems likely to be productive of good results. The annual matches of the 15th A. L. I. will take place on Thursday and Friday, when the following matches will be shot : Merchants' Match, ranges 200 and 500 yards ; Association Match, 400 yards ; five shots at each range ; none but the Snider Enfield rifles of the Government issue to be used in each match. There will also be prizes given for the first and second aggregate scores in matches, No's. 1 and 2. On the morning of Friday there will be a Company competition, open to teams of five from each Company, for a silver cup, presented by the Association and a silver badge to each member of the winning team by Capt. J. L. Biggar. Ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards ; five shots at each range. The cup is to become the property of the Company winning it three times. It is to be competed for annually and to remain in the custody of the winning team, until they are defeated in a competition.

THE RAILWAY TROUBLE.—The Peterborough Review of Monday says : "There appears to be no change since Saturday in the position of the two rival Railway Companies engaged in the railway war. On account of the wet weather the Midland men quit work. They have not yet completed the job, but have only about a hundred yards of track to lay. The track is now laid as far as Smith Street, and from Auburn as far as T. M. D. Croly's residence. They commenced to lay the track from the north on account of it being far handier to bring the material upon the train and dump it off where it is required, than to draw it over by teams, now that the work has progressed so near to their main line. The road from Smith Street up has been underbrushed, and all the small cedar bushes cut down, so as to give a clear roadway. There are some remarkably sharp curves on the new line that look as if they were more for ornament, or for something else, than for use. However the train seems to run over the track all right, and we suppose that it is all that is required. The Midland men evidently do not intend to let the grass grow under their feet, for as soon as the weather cleared up this afternoon a long procession of the navvies, armed with picks and shovels, under the command of the roadmaster, proceeded up the front street to the scene of operations, and commenced work anew."

RESULT OF ADVERTISING.—An old gentleman on Saturday advertised at a cost of 50 cents a lost pocket book containing nineteen dollars, and to-day the book with the money in it, was left at this office for the owner. Result of advertising.

VISITORS.—An excursion under the auspices of the Picton Band arrived by the Armenia this morning. The Band is a good one, and being supplied with new instruments they perform very acceptably. Their uniform is also neat and tasty.

THE UNION SHOW.—The doors of the Agricultural Hall will be thrown open tonight at 7 o'clock, and doubtless there will be a crowd of visitors to witness the display of agricultural and horticultural products, manufactures and so forth.

WANTON MISCHIEF.—The practice of marking and scratching the plate glass windows on Front Street, despicable as it is, has once more been resorted to by some party or parties as last night many of the principal stores on the west side of Front Street had their glass fronts disfigured. The marks were evidently made by a diamond which in some cases was drawn across the glass and on others cut in other ways. It is of course a difficult matter to ascertain who the miscreant was, but if he should be discovered it is to be hoped that he will be severely punished.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

THE EXHIBITION.

The union exhibition opened this afternoon with the competition for the special prizes. The attendance was not large, though it increased slowly, but a good deal of interest was manifested in the proceedings. The display of agricultural implements is large, and a good deal of it was on the grounds, whilst articles for exhibition in the Hall were coming slowly forward. The judging was proceeding at 3 p. m.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

TUESDAY, Oct. 5.

ASSAULT.

John Flannery charged with assaulting some of the college students, was remanded till to-morrow.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Thomas Hayland and Alex. Manning were discharged—first offence.

Marine.

The schr. Great Western, which it was reported had capsized and drifted ashore on Simcoe Island, has arrived at Port Hope all right. The schr. Julia, also reported lost, is at Kingston.

The schr. J. G. Worts struck a rock when leaving Fair Haven, and it is to be docked for examination. She lost her foretopmast on Lake Superior.

The steamer Picton has ended her trips for the season, and is to go into dry dock at Chicago.

The propeller Granite State has been sold for $9,000.

The steamer Geneva has been in dry dock at St. Catharines.

The Chicora is the only steamer now running between Toronto and Niagara.

SAD TRAGEDY.—On the 4th inst., two brothers named Fahey, residing in Markham, about two miles from Richmond Hill, had a quarrel about property. The elder brother struck the younger with a mug on the forehead, making a terrible wound, at the sight of which their poor old father fell down dead.

THE INTERNATIONAL PARK.—Operations were commenced on the 4th inst. in connection with the proposed international park at Niagara Falls. A survey will be begun on the land lying between Victoria Point and the rapids, a distance of three miles along the river front, and on its completion the valuation commissioners will set to work on their report, which is expected to be ready in time for submission to Parliament at its next session.

IRISH TROUBLES.—A cable despatch says: A large land meeting was held on Sunday at Mohill, in county Leitrim. Arms are largely bought and freely imported in many quarters. The manager of one establishment in Dublin states that he sold 1,400 rifles in a short period. In Belfast, Remington breech-loaders are advertised for sale for fifteen shillings, and in the small country towns, especially in the west, there is a brisk trade in Sniders.

PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOLS.—A paper read last week at the Pan-Presbyterian Council contains some interesting statistics as to the Sunday school work of the denomination. Their schools employ a million and a half of teachers, and instruct 12,680,267 scholars. During 1879, 124,856 persons were received into the Church from the Sunday schools on making a profession of faith. These statistics embrace twenty nationalities, of which the United States comes first in point of numbers then England, Canada, and Ireland, in the order named.

THE BIDDULPH MURDER.—The first of the great Biddulph murder trials was commenced at the Middlesex assizes on the 4th inst., when James Carroll, the constable and member of the vigilance committee, was arraigned on the charge of murdering Judith Donnelly. From present appearances it would seem that each of the prisoners will be tried separately on each indictment, so that the trials will probably extend over a period embracing three or four weeks.

Spread the Good News.

As a family medicine and tonic, there is no remedy at present giving such universal satisfaction, and effecting so many astonishing cures as Electric Bitters. Our druggists report a lively demand for them at times being unable to supply the many calls. All Billious Attacks, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Diabetes and Gravel, readily yield to their curative qualities. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst ; took away the appetite for liquor ; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

Addendum.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer,

DEAR SIR,—Will you please allow us to add to our letter of Saturday evening, in justice to Dr. Wilson, that besides subscribing the amount of his professional fees $5.00, he gave as liberally as any of the others who contributed.

L. W. YEOMANS.
C. P. HOLTON.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 4th, 1880.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., October 5.—Thos. Goss, of Torbay, who is the only trustworthy witness so far procured of the alleged ill treatment of the Newfoundland fishermen, has made a deposition before the Governor of Newfoundland. Goss testified that he was pilot on the Gloucester schooner Minnesota last June, and that the people on the shore attacked the crew with stones when the latter attempted to fish for bait, compelling the Minnesota to withdraw. Goss' deposition has been transmitted to the Secretary of State for action. Other cases will be brought under the Imperial notice as soon as the evidence is obtained.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Herald's Washington special says it is alleged here that the most potent influence at work to defeat the Panama Canal is the Eastern and Pacific Railway combination.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Tribune's Leadville special says a fire in the shafthouse in the Vulture claim of the chrypolite mine and drove the men out of this and the adjoining mines. The Chrypolite, Little Pittsburg and Little Chief are all shut down.

The Times Cincinnati correspondent prints an account of an interview at Galena, on the 21st Sept. between Gen. Grant and Rev. Dr. Fowler, Missionary Secretary of the Methodist Church. Gen. Grant makes a lengthy statement respecting Hancock's military career and the inner history of Order No. 40, of Congress, and Hancock's connection therewith. He also gives his reasons why he would have have accepted the nomination for President. He said Hancock was "crazy to be President, that he was ambitious, vain and weak, that they will easily control him."

The commander of the United States steamer Alert reports that while on a surveying cruise in the Pacific south of Bovin Island, he saw a general submarine volcano. It gave out quantities of mud and ashes. A reef on the island is forming on the spot.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Jacques Offenbach, a popular French musician and composer, died this morning, aged 61.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A Dublin despatch says : A land meeting will be held at Kildypert, Co. Clare. It has no connection with the land league, but has been called for the immediate settlement of the land question. Parnell addressed a meeting of ten thousand at Kilkenny on Saturday ; there were nine members of Parliament and fifty Catholic priests present. Parnell announced that as soon as sufficient information had been collected, the land league would organize a great strike against paying rent on the estate of every rack renting landlord. On Sunday Parnell was enthusiastically welcomed by the constituents at Cork. The corporation presented him with an address, and a great procession of trades accompanied him through the street. Parnell at an open air meeting in Cork Park, and subsequently at the banquet to his honor enunciated his views on the land question.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The fire on Saturday in the Paviliog de Flore at the western extremity of the Louvre, occupied by the prefect of the Seine, caused damage amounting to one million francs.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The match between Laycock, the Australian sculler, and Blackman of Dulwich, for £200 over the Thames championship course, four and a quarter miles, came off this morning and was won easily by the Australian.

The Sportsman says that after the unsuccessful negotiations for the match between Laycock, Australian oarsman, and Hosmer, of Boston, and Hawdon, of Delaval, Laycock challenged Hosmer to row in four weeks from to-day (Tuesday) for £100 a side over the Thames championship course, or to row Hawdon on the 30th of Nov. over the June course for the same stake. Hosmer replied that he will row with either Laycock or Blackman within a month from signing agreement.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 5.—Heavy rains caused disastrous floods in Rohilcund, Bengal. Many lives were lost, and crops much injured.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, slightly warmer.

Sporting Notes.

The game of foot-ball, which under the English rules is attaining a wide popularity in the western part of this Province, is now played to some extent in Belleville, but chiefly by boys. It is a fine manly sport, and ought to become popular here.

Fred. Archer again heads the list of winning jockeys in England. He had seventy-six successes to his name on the 18th ult., while Fordham had seventy-four, and Cannon sixty-seven.

The fifth race for the Astley belt, representing the six days' pedestrian championship of the world, is definitely fixed to take place at Agricultural Hall, London, during the week commencing Novmebor 1.

The championship lacrosse match at Montreal on Saturday, wherein the Toronto beat the Shamrocks, was the shortest on record, the whole time occupied in play being less than 5 minutes.

Mr. P. Lorillard's two year old chestnut filly Paw-Paw, bred in the United States, has died at Newmarket.

The base ball season closed on September 30th, and the Actives of Woodstock, not accepting the proposal of the Base ball Association to play a game on neutral grounds, without Brown, of the Bostons, with the Maple Leafs, the latter are now the recognized champions. Through professionals being employed in some of the clubs, it is probable the Association will become extinct.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

Bare Pastures in Autumn.

Why should meadows and pastures be brown and bare late in summer and in the autumn ? Lawns can be kept green, and grass plots for late soiling may be made to yield a good cutting in October, " brown October," as it has been called. The reason is that we deal more liberally with our lawns and soiling plots ; it is not that we do not cut them close, for no grass land is cut closer than a well kept lawn. It is not the climate either which we have been so ready to blame for our brown and dry fields, but something in our management. The fact is, we do not give our grass lands a chance to do the best they can. As we write we look out upon a grass field which has been cut the third time, but which has been top-dressed after the first cutting ; and another beside it which has been pastured since it was cut in June. The former is in complete verdure, and the ground is thickly covered ; the latter is a miserable exhibition of bare brown spots, interspersed with masses of ragweed, left uneaten by the cows ; a fair representative of the majority of meadows and pastures. When we have learned that it is possible to make more profit from an acre of grass than from an acre of any other crop, we shall do justice to it and treat our meadow liberally. Just now it is very important to consider what this treatment shall be. A coarse, tufty growth should not be left on the surface, which dies but does not rot, and is in the way of the mower next season; but this cannot now be removed by pasturing, which would only leave it in patches, nor by mowing, which would be a costly way of getting rid of it, unless it is considered that the advantage would over-ride the expense. Perhaps to mow over such a surface, and leave the cuttings on the ground as a mulch and a fertilizer, might be a cheap way of disposing of it. But the most helpful thing to do, is to give a fair top-dressing of manure, fine and well rotted, before the winter. This will be well washed into the soil to nourish the roots, so that an early and rapid growth will be made in the spring, after a smoothing harrow has been run over the surface to break up any lumps that may remain. This early growth is the greatest advantage, because the crop being cut before the usual dry weather occurs, a second growth begins immediately, and is ready to cut very soon after the usual first cutting would have been made under any circumstances. During the hot, dry season, the soil is well shaded and protected, and the roots are uninjured, and when the second crop has been gathered, a third gets under way at once. This exacting treatment of course requires liberal return, and in this case the "liberal soul shall be made fat." In fact, niggardliness in the treatment of the soil is the worst economy, while liberality is returned many fold. This is especially with regard to grass lands, which in America, on the average, can pasture one steer or cow, only, upon seven acres; while in England pastures that will fatten one bullock per acre are common.

The want of manure with which we should be so liberal is the great difficulty. But this may be managed by devoting one special compost heap for this purpose, and enriching this with the addition of bone dust, potash salts, gypsum, or phosphate of lime and wood ashes. If this is prepared in time for use in the fall, and a light dressing of nitrate of soda and gypsum, or grass fertilizer is given after the first cutting, there can be little doubt that the dry brown appearance of the fields will be changed to verdure, and the barns filled with a largely increased product.

Care of Fruit Trees.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune makes the following sensible suggestion upon feeding fruit trees :—

When enriching the soil so as to procure a good crop of corn or potatoes, do not forget to apply a liberal dressing to the too often neglected orchard. Rotation of crop cannot be followed with fruit trees ; hence, the greater necessity of systematically restoring to the soil, so far as may be done, those elements consumed in the production of a crop of fruit. After an orchard comes into bearing, it is commonly considered able thenceforth to take care of itself—the owner seldom failing to expect fair returns, and the orchard seldom failing to disappoint. The reason is obvious. The trees are slowly starved, and the fruit becomes scraggy or small in quantity. Abundant crops may be obtained every year by thorough cultivation, provided frost does not interfere. The barren year is nature's method of aiding the tree to collect from rain and atmosphere material for a productive year. It is just as reasonable to expect that a good crop of corn can be taken annually for a series of years from a field to which nothing has been restored, as to expect fruit to maintain its excellence on soil that is constantly gro wing thinner and poorer in needed material.

—Science and experience both declare mutton to be the best and cheapest of meat, and yet a foolish custom has decided in favor of pork.

—Col. Littler of Davenport, Iowa, estimates the amount of butter now made in creameries in that State at 50,000,000 pounds per annum.

—The too common practice of covering lawns with manure in the Autumn, making them look like barn-yards, in most cases does more harm than good.

—Water slightly acidified with nitric acid is recommended for soaking seeds ; a very little ammonia added to the water greatly accelerates germination.

—We have not only a greater variety of fruits than any other country, but our climate gives them to us in succession, which adds greatly to their value, and to the comfort, health and enjoyment of the people.

—Iowa remits the taxes for five and ten years respectively, on land planted to fruit and fruit trees. It is said to have been the direct means of clothing more than 75,000 acres in that State with orchards and fruit.

—Forty years after the first arrivals of stock in Australia there were 12,497 horses, 262,868 cattle and 537,391 sheep there. In 1861 the number of sheep had increased to 6,119,100, and it is stated that five years afterwards the number was doubled.

—Phosphoric acid is firmly held by the soil and is not subject to loss through drainage, and has a limited diffusibility ; potash is strongly retained and has a greater diffusibility ; nitrogen in its various forms is less strongly retained, and has a ready diffusibility.

—The entire import of wool at the ports of Boston and New York for the first six months of the current year was 73,417,786 pounds more than the whole production of this country in 1860, and 53,000,000 pounds more than were imported in the corresponding time in 1879.

—The Smithsonian Institute has received an announcement of the discovery by Hastings at Stratsburg, on the 29th of September, of a comet with a bright tail in 14 hours 8 minutes right ascension, 29 degrees 45 minutes north declination, with a daily motion of 25 seconds in right ascension.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest ; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint ? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick head ache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No ! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

NOTICE.

I HAVE this day entered into partnership with J. Stanley Hough, Esq., and have removed my Law Office to No. 4 Ashley Block, Front Street, over Canadian Bank of Commerce, and on opposite side of hall from my old office, where the business will be carried on as usual under the firm name of BLAIR & HOUGH, Barristers, etc.

SUBSTITUTES !

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE : 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach ; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D.. Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice ; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks ; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime : and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result : Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well, I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE : LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose ; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this ; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible : I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR ;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name ; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

 This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA

XXXVII.

FROM BASLE TO SCHAFFHAUSEN.

This ride is most enjoyable, the scenery becoming more and more beautiful every mile, and on the banks of the Rhine the whole way immense mountains are on each side, while the pretty Swiss villages we pass, with their lovely chalets give a charm to the scene.

Arriving at Schoffhausen we had a view of the celebrated Rheine Fall. It is certainly a magnificent sight, but for magnitude and bold grandeur, no comparison to Niagara Falls. We give the following extract from a small descriptive pamphlet sold by the guides of the village :—

"Stand for half an hour beside the Fall of Schaffhausen, on the north side, where the rapids are long, and watch how the vault of water first bends, unbroken in pure polished velocity, over the arching rocks at the brow of the stream, covering them with a dome of crystal twenty feet thick, so swift that its motion is unseen except when a foam globe above darts like a falling star; see how the trees are lighted above it under all their leaves at the instant that it breaks into foam; how all the hollows of that foam burn with a green fire like so much shattering chrysoprase; and how, over against, hurling you with its white flash, a jet of spray leaps hissing out of the fall, like a rocket, bursting in the wind and driven away in the dust, filling the air with light, and how through the curdling wreaths of the wrestling, crashing abyss below, and blue of the water, paled by the foam in its body, shows purer than the sky through white rain cloud, while the shadering iris stoops in tremulous stillness over all, fading and flashing alternately through the choking spray and shattered sunshine, hiding itself at last amongst the thick golden leaves which toss to and fro in sympathy with the wild water; their dripping masses lifted at intervals, like sheaves of loaded corn, by some stronger gush from the cataract, and bowed again upon the mossy rocks as its roar dies away, the deer gushing from their thick branches through drooping clusters of emerald herbage, and sparkling in white threads along the dark rocks of the shores feeding the lichens which chase and chequer them with purple and silver."

Immediately after leaving Scoffhausen we crossed the Rhine, right over the falls, and had a splendid view of them from a different standpoint. We arrived at Zurich early in the evening, and having a correspondent and a young Finlander separated from a party of 23, with whom he had been travelling most enjoyably for the past three weeks, under a guide from Cook's Tourist office, London. Fourteen of our party were English people, and the balance Americans. Having lived so long on the road [and in hotels together, we became thoroughly acquainted, and were sorry to part before the end of the tour, but as the rest of the party were not going into Italy, we had to bid them adieu and wish them bon voyage. My fellow traveller is a most interesting and beneficial companion for a journey of this kind, as he speaks nearly all modern European languages fluently. After tea, we found we had a couple of hours to wait for our train, and concluded to view the town. It is charmingly situated on the "Margin of Zurich's fair waters."

After an hour's stroll through the main street and up the shore of this fairy-like lake we returned, and on a balcony of the hotel, overhanging the lake, seated at a small round marble table, we puffed a cigar and discussed a bottle of Johannisberg, admiring at the same time the beauties of the mighty lake, lighted up every now and then by brilliant flashes of lightning.

We met a public school teacher who had just returned from a trip up the mountains with about 20 of his male pupils. The boys were all happy intelligent looking lads and thoroughly equipped for alpine travel. The teacher spoke English quite fluently, as most of the educated Swiss do, and was very courteous and communicative.

In no country in Europe is the real, genuine free school better appreciated than in certain of the cantons of Switzerland. There it is used as an agency to lift up the common people, to give them the power of thinking for themselves. There are cantons in Switzerland where they use the free school to make men; it is often used in Europe to make good subjects, good soldiers, good churchmen—good machines.

Switzerland has given much attention to industrial education. She has one of the largest and best equipped Polytechnic Schools in Europe—that at Zurich. Connected with it are large collections intended to illustrate the best modes of applying art to industry. There are also workshops for modelling, for wood work, and for metal work. In addition, Switzerland has several special schools for teaching watch-making, wood-carving, etc. And what is of even more significance, she has schools for work connected with many of her public schools. In every girl's school in Switzerland are taught sewing, cutting, making patterns, etc., and many of them domestic economy.

Leaving Zurich by the first train for

we had, for the first four or five miles, a fine view of the lake, the whole scenery all the way was most delightful, and increased in grandeur as we proceeded, each mile presenting a fresh picture more charming than the last. At length we reached the wild and craggy shores of Lake Wallenstadt, the train runs on the very edge of its whole length, through a succession of tunnels, and the mountain tops around it are covered with virgin snow.

Immediately upon our arrival at Ragatz we proceeded in a carriage to see the Gorge Baths of Pfaffers, and source of the Tamina. No words can give an idea of this wonderful place; for three miles you wind through the Gorge, on each side the cold, sombre limestone rocks rise five hundred to eight hundred feet in height; the Gorge is so narrow and the mountains so high as to allow so little space for the road that you wonder how the carriages get up or down. The baths and springs are even more wonderful than the Gorge itself. Leaving the baths for the source, you traverse a long gallery, the sides of the Gorge forming a lofty cavern, and touching each other at the top; this part of the Gorge the sun never penetrates. At the end of the gallery you may enter a vaulted chamber so hot that you can only remain a few seconds in it.

The town of Rogatz, like some cities of the Western States, consists of four hotels and the small railway station. We proceeded from here to Chur by train, and thence by stage 25 miles to Tusis, where we remained over night. The next morning we breakfasted at 4 a. m., and immediately set out in a diligence to cross

OVER THE SPLUGEN PASS.

We had not journeyed far before such a sight met our eyes—how shall I describe it! It is impossible to convey an idea of this drive; it becomes wilder at every step and at the second bridge it is fearfully so. At what is called the "Lost Gulf," the chasm is so deep you cannot see the bottom. The air is very cold here, as the sun only penetrates the place from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. We stopped for a time amusing ourselves dropping stones over the bridge into the boiling water below. As nearly as we could ascertain, it took a stone six seconds to reach the water, so you may form an idea as to the depth.

It is a miracle how this road was ever constructed, the winding zigzags seem never to be coming to an end, whilst to ride on a road like a shelf on a wall, with perpendicular mountains seven or eight thousand feet high on the one side, and on the other, within a foot of the carriage wheels, a precipice and the roaring Rhine a thousand feet below, is a little exciting. At one place our drivers pointed out the spot where an English gentleman and his wife and daughter, together with three horses and driver had gone over the precipice a few days before, and were dashed to pieces on the rocks below. It appears they met another diligence on the narrow road, which pulled to the mountain side to allow them to pass and in attempting to do so they all went over.

After a ride of about four hours we arrived at Splugen, where we had some refreshments at the hotel and changed horses. On resuming our journey we crossed a valley and commenced winding up another zigzag road. After ascending for some time, we turned and looked back; what a beautiful panoramic view! Splugen lies like a map below; the chalets seem like little toy houses, and as though a child's hand had placed them here and there. From this point of view the whole of Splugen might be put on a dining room table. We are now nearing the summit of the pass, 6,517 feet, and 3,569 feet below the summit of the precipitous Tambohorn, 10,086 feet, on our left, close to us; while as far as the eye can reach in all directions, for miles distant lie vast fields of snow. What a strange sight!

"All below is summer, with us bleak winter reigns."

The roaring cataract is foaming on its way to the valley with fearful velocity, caused by the melting of the snow above and around us, and yet it feels as solid as if it were freezing. The whole of the summits of the Alps, now in sight, stand out sharp and clear against the blue sky. Large posts stand in the snow, which indicate to the drivers and men whose duty it is to keep the road clear, the line of the zigzags. The track is here cut through the snow, and immense walls of it rise perpendicularly on both sides of the carriage, like pieces of masonry, at least 40 feet high.

A narrow ridge here marks the boundary between Switzerland and Lombardy. Beyond the summit we dash through an immense tunnel, constructed of stone, and of great strength, built over the road as a protection against avalanches. It is about 300 yards long. The floor is of ice and the air while passing through is extremely cold.

Shortly after emerging from this tunnel we came to a place where an avalanche had completely blocked the road, and the men whose duty it is to keep it clear, were hard at work with picks and shovels. We lent them a hand, in order to get our blood in circulation, and passed on to the other side, and we off again on our journey. Soon we passed the first cantonere, or house of refuge; a little further on the Dogano, once the Italian Custom house. Our baggage was here examined, and we passed on to four houses in a fearful situation, completely embedded in snow. Bells are rung here to guide travellers, as the descent on this side of the pass to Campo Dolcino, is more fatiguing than the ascent from the Splugen side. Only imagine driving at a good pace down a mountain, on a road cut on its side, with barely a foot between you and a deep valley where the habitations appear no larger than goat houses. It a wheel came off, all would be over with us; yet the driver (who speaks a little French) assures us such a thing as an accident to a carriage is almost unknown. We passed through numerous tunnels similar to the one described, but each one having less snow as we descended, till at length coming to a considerable stream, called the Madesano, which precipitates itself from a rock 800 feet into the valley below, our driver stopped for us to alight and view it. This magnificent waterfall is seen from a small stone platform erected for the purpose, and which overlooks it, but the best view is obtained when about 500 feet lower down; you see it at every turn of the zigzag, and when about the distance named it is truly grand. The roar caused by it is deafening, and the spray leaps up again several hundred feet on to the road. After innumerable twistings, until you sicken at their sight, the sunny plains of Italy now lie at your feet, and Canyo Doleino bursts upon the view.

RAMBLER.

Italy, Sept., 1880.

Amelisburgh Correspondence.

It is reported that the "Clark Granger" of Sophisaburgh intend clubbing in with the "Quinte Granger" of this place and sell their barley together, which will make over 100,000 Bushels. They are determined not to sell by the "Tester" but by sample. Quite a good many farmers have their grain all cleaned and ready to ship at a moment's warning. There is some being sold throughout the country at 65 cts. but very little in this place. Farmers of course would like to get "that dollar" but don't expect to.

Next to barley business in greatness, might be said that of the buying and shipping of eggs. There is hardly a county in Ontario that exports more than Prince Edward, and of the six townships this furnishes the greatest number of dozens. J. R. Ostrom Esq., of Rednerville, one of the most extensive and successful egg buyers in the County, has since the first of March averaged as a weekly shipment about 12,000 dozen. As this business will last till the end of October, Mr. Ostrom will at that time have shipped some 96,000 dozen. The highest number of eggs bought any one day being 1,000 dozen at 10c. per dozen. Mr. Ostrom's long experience and lively disposition makes him very popular.

The apple trade will be large but on account of the great quantity the price will be low, "The correspondent of the Ontario from this place says there is talk of removing the post offices of Rednerville and Roseboro to Bay Side." There might have been such a talk but there is little danger of it being done. The people would strongly object. It might make a more direct route for the stage and accommodate a few and that is about all the use it would be.

A very sudden death occurred on Friday last at Charles Youngs of this place. His sister who had been making him a short visit was taken on Friday morning last with severe pains in the stomach, Dr. Tiles was sent for but thought there was no danger. During the day the pain shifted to her side and ended in her death in the evening.

A "big show" is expected at Roblin's Mills, on Saturday. The association complains of being in debt. Their fee does not look like it. One would almost think a second centennial was to take place.

Messrs. Nightingale, Anderson and Dempsey have returned from the fairs, the former bringing with him three handsome Cotswolds, and the latter a wreath of laurels won principally on fruit. Mr. Nightingale has done much to improve the stock of this County importing some nearly every year, which Dempsey and Weese have been so successful in the friendly competition that it may well be said of them "By their fruits ye shall know them."

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 6.

N. P. Notes.

The Guelph Herald says the Guelph sewing machine works are so busy manufacturing sewing machines, apple parers lawn mowers and other small articles that the number of employees has been about doubled within the year. The most gratifying feature of all, says our contemporary, is that the consumers are now supplied with these goods at about one half the price paid in past years for the American goods.

Mr. James Gustin has set the wheels in motion in a new flouring mill near Ingersoll. This is one of the industries which the Grit press prophesied would be killed by the N. P. It is a small mill, and small mills were to be swallowed up by big ones, under the system of grinding in bond. Industries specially threatened by the Grit prophets, seem to have generally taken a new lease of life.

The Lindsay Post—a free trade paper—records the success of the Eden woollen mills, which have been doubled in capacity since the N. P. came into force, and are now filling orders for a wholesale house in Toronto.

The new nickel plating works at Guelph are almost completed, and are a large concern. The Herald reporter who describes it, was answered by one of the proprietors, that without the protection afforded by the Tilley tariff Messrs. Wicks, McNaughton & Co., would never have launched their new enterprise. It would have been mere folly to attempt to compete with the established industries of the Americans in this line without the advantage of the National Policy.

The Berlin Daily News says: "Mr. E. Hartman, traveller for Mr. G. Rumpel's Felt Boot and Slipper Factory, has just completed his first trip for the season through the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and says he has in this trip secured orders from between $35 and $36,000 worth of goods. In addition to this, orders for $11,000 worth of goods for Manitoba were received direct at the factory. In the three first days of this week over $8,000 worth of goods have been shipped, and in order to keep up with the orders the whole staff of workmen are obliged to work over time. On Monday next fifteen additional hands will be put to work on the Slipper department. Last year 600 dozen of slippers were sold, and this year, though 800 dozen were made, that is 200 dozen additional, they are all sold by the end of the first nine months, so in order to keep up with the demand a large staff of workmen must be put on in this department."

Centralizing Power.

Our recent strictures on the course of the Ontario Government in seeking by every means to centralize power in their hands, as being dangerous to public liberty, have attracted favorable attention from several of our contemporaries. Amongst other journals that have taken up the subject, we note with special satisfaction the Newmarket Era, which is one of the oldest, most consistent and most ably conducted of Reform newspapers in the Province. Our contemporary says:—

> Some of our contemporaries are agitating a change, having for its end the placing of the Gaol management under the immediate control of the Local Government instead of by County and City Councils as at present. We must enter our protest against these continued encroachments upon the liberties of the people—this ceaseless effort to centralize power in the hands of the Executive authorities. During the last decade the entire patronage of the licensing system has been diverted from the people by being removed from municipal control and placed in the hands of the Administration of the day—Division Court Clerks and Bailiffs have also been made subject to their mandates,—County Attorneys, under their authority, can authorize the disbursement of the people's money, raised by direct taxation from the County treasury,—and other patronage formerly controlled by municipal Councils is now dispensed by the Administration of the day. These encroachments have been gradual, but they have been none the less sure. A little further extension in this direction and we shall have the entire machinery of municipal government in the hands of a commission appointed and controlled by the Local Executive—a sort of municipal oligarchy, independent of the people. We cannot but regard these innovations as dangerous to the liberties of the subject; and any further encroachments in the direction indicated as pregnant with consequences not the most pleasing to contemplate.

Just as sure as preaching the day is coming when the "big chicken" this retrograde legislation incubated will "come home to roost,"—while the attempt to over reach the country by the Act which gives the Government power to nominate partizan Bailiffs and Clerks of Division Courts, will only give additional opportunities to still further thwart the wishes of the electorate in the event of the reins of power falling into the hands of an ambitious or unscrupulous leader. It was to break down this very system of centralising power exercised by an usurping Executive that prompted overt acts of resistance to constituted authority in the days of Compactism; and as free men—as friends of true liberty it becomes us to see to it that we do not leave a legacy to our children which our forefathers found too grevious to bear. Every species of legislation seeking to transfer power from the people and centralizing the same in the hands of the Executive, should be regarded with deep concern—especially where that power may be used to perpetuate the authority of those on whom it is conferred. Crafty politicians do not often show their hands until the end sought to be attained is morally certain of accomplishment; hence infringements upon the rights and liberties of the people are often made under a hidden pretext—and unless vigilantly guarded, the exigencies of the hour, or expediency of party, will be offered for reasons of such pretext, instead of sound principle.

This is about what might be expected from an able and independent man like Mr. Erastus Jackson, who has fought for many years, with pen and tongue, in the cause of the Reform party, but wisely and consistently declines to support dangerous and contemptible tyranny, even though it has been dubbed "Reform." The encroachments of the Ontario Government upon the liberty of the subject have gone too far already, and unless Mr. Mowat and his colleagua be checked in their career of aggrandizement by the united voices of the press and the people, they will seize so much power as to give them a perpetual lease of office and will then rule as they see fit. It is high time that the people began to assert their rights, which Messrs. Mowat & Co. have badly trampled upon.

SMOKE CONSUMER.—It is stated that a Cincinnati manufacturer, Mr. David Sinton, has invented a smoke consumer, which has been found to work very satisfactorily. Experiments upon a boiler used in his manufactory having proved the effectiveness of the discovery, he obtained a patent and put it into operation at a furnace in the city water works. Not only does it consume the smoke, but it effects a saving of 12 per cent. in fuel. The next thing to be done in this direction is to make the consumption of smoke compulsory in all populous places, and prevent the poisoning of the air which takes place in many manufacturing districts.

NOVA SCOTIA EXHIBITION.—The Halifax Exhibition, which was a provincial affair, proved a total failure. The total attendance duriing the four days it was open was barely 11,300, and the gross receipts reached 2,660. There is a deficit of $4,000; which the citizens will be called upon to make up. The cause of failure, as stated by Nova Scotians themselves, was the neglect of the managers to obtain for the Exhibition due prominence in the newspapers; and this again seems to have arisen from the "stiffness" shown the press representatives. This is further evidence of the power of the press, and should be noted by exhibition managers.

THE BIDDULPH MURDER.— The Biddulph murder trial was resumed on the 5th inst. at the Assizes when John N. O'Connor the little boy, who was the visitor at old Donnelly's house, and was an eye witness of the crime was put in the witness stand. He told the same story as at the preliminary trial without any material variation, and the most severe cross examination failed to shake his testimony. He identified Jas. Carroll, the prisoner now under trial, and Tom Rider and J. Puntell, as the three who came to arrest the household, prior to the crowd rushing in to the slaughter His examination lasted all forenoon.

THE UNION EXHIBITION

AN EXHIBIT OE THE USUAL CHARACTER.

A Small Show and a Poor Attendance.

The annual show of the West Hastings Agricultural Society and the Belleville Horticultural Society was opened on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 5th inst., with the competition for the special prizes offered for horses. At the opening the attendance was very small, but gradually the numbers present were swelled considerably, until there was a larger audience present than had attended at the opening last year.

HORSES.

There was a fairly good though not very numerous display of horses, the merits of which were passed upon by Messrs. O. R. Wesee, James McGuire and Geo. Davis, judges. The result of their labor was as follows:

B. Rose, President, best Carriage Horse, $5,—John D. Sharp; three entries.
James Bird, for best two year old Stud Colt, $5,—H. Bird; three competitors.
S. T. Wilmot, best heavy draft Stallion, $5,—S. Tedman; one entry.
R. W. Newton, best Blood Colt with pedigree of sire, $5,—John Hurley; three entries.
James St. Charles, for best Blood Horse to saddle, $5,—R. W. Newton; four entries.
J. M. Walker & Co., for best general purpose Team, Gang Plough, value $20—D. R. Clapp; five entries.
Martin Bro's, for best pair Roadsters, Steel Plough value, $16—Geo. Purdy; two entries.
G. & J. Brown, for best Heavy draft Team, Blake Cultivator, value $9—D. Bradford, jr.; three entries.
Brown & Patterson, for best pair of matched or Cross matched carriage Horses, Cummings Straw Cutter, value $25—W. R. Perry; two entries.
Geo. Hoggard, for best heavy draft Colt, $3—Wm. Harry; two competitors.
W. R. Parry, for best Pony, not exceeding 14½ hands high, driven by a lady, $4—Mrs. W. C. Jones; four entries.
Joseph Nightingale, for best 3 year old Mare Colt, $2—F. Gauthier; eight entries.
John Finnegan, for best general purpose Stallion, Farm Wheelbarrow—Geo. Caldwell; two entries.
John Harry $2, Patrick Fitzpatrick $1, and John Nicholson $1, making $4. for the best Trotting Horse, best 3 out of 3 miles—Dr. Allen; two entries.
Lake & Jenkins, for the best year old Colt, $1—Thos. Sweeny; two entries.
James Cummings, for second best Trotting Horse, best 2 out of 3 miles, horses that never trotted for money, a Russel Halter, value $3, F. Gauthier; four entries.
Messrs. Lake & Jenkins also offered a prize for best pair of matched roadsters, decision in which was postponed till the second day.

As will be seen by the above there was keen competition for some of the prizes, whilst others almost went by default. Perhaps the best competition of the day was that for three year old fillies, of which eight were shown, and the prize was awarded to decidedly the nicest of the lot, though two of the others were very neat and stylish animals. Of yearling colts got by thoroughbred horses three were shown, and the prize was awarded to the biggest and coarsest of the lot. Five prizes were brought forward for competition, but one handsome black was ruled out as being over the required 14½ hands, and a pretty little black driven by Mrs. W. C. Jones got the prize. This award gave general dissatisfaction, as a bay was judged by very many to be the superior animal, not only in speed and for steadiness of gait, but for appearance as well. The awards met with general acceptation.

Mr. Geo. Purdy had an easy victory over Dr. Allan with his team of roadsters, but the Dr. had the best of it in the single trot, in which his grey pony beat Mr. Purdy's black mare after a sharp struggle. In the last heat Mr. Purdy's waggon collided with the Dr.'s sulky and took a spoke out of it, and Mr. Purdy had an upset out of his waggon, but was none the worse for it.

Of second class trotters four started, and Mr. F. Gauthier's sorel mare won two straight heats, the last of which was very close with Mr. Daly's black pony, the sulky attached to which had been badly damaged by a collision in the first heat.

This wound up the day's proceedings.

An incident of rather a startling character occurred during the afternoon. Mrs. Gauthier and Mrs. Borrow were driving at a good pace around the track, when they were met by a horseman proceeding in the opposite direction. Both turned towards the inside of the track, and the wheels of the buggy striking the banks of the gutter, the ladies were thrown five feet into the air and fell on their heads. Assistance was promptly rendered, but it was found that no serious injury had resulted. Mrs. Gauthier was little the worse, and Mrs. Borrow had received a blow on the head which partially stunned her, but from the effect of which she soon rallied.

THE EVENING'S SHOW.

The evening looked clear and pleasant, the temperature having moderated somewhat, but still there was not a large attendance, despite the attraction of the presence of the band of the 15th Battalion. In fact the number present was the smallest that has been noted for many years. All progressed nicely until about 9 o'clock, when a heavy cloud which had been observable to the southward swept over, and a perfect torrent of rain fell, shower succeeding shower for about two hours, so that it was not until 11 o'clock that the spectators, the great majority of whom had come unprovided with umbrellas, had all departed homewards. Of the show in the interior of the building, it may be said in general terms that it was but a poor one, many of the departments having but a slim representation. The Horticultural exhibits, comprising flowers, fruit, and roots and vegetables, alone saved the exhibition, so far as the inside of the building is concerned, from utter failure.

ROOTS AND VEGETABLES.

Entering the building to the left on the ground floor the space is devoted to the show of roots and vegetables, amongst which are the finest display of potatoes ever exhibited in Belleville. There are also large sized squash, cabbages and cauliflowers, mammoth pumpkins, onions, carrots, beets, tomatoes, celery, parsnips, corn, radishes, etc.

The Deaf and Dumb Institute makes a very fine show of their farm products, including all kinds of roots and vegetables, which is a credit to the gardener of that establishment.

A portion to the right of the entrance was also devoted to the display of roots and vegetables.

Amongst the exhibitors we find the names of Messrs. Wm. Connors, Jas. H. Peck, Francis Peck, John G. Peck, Wm. Peck, Geo. A. Wesee, D. R. Ketchenson, S. Blakely, P. O'Meara.

CARRIAGES.

Mr. G. A. Brown makes a fine show of carriages, including a magnificent hearse with gold mountings, and which is very finely finished. This hearse was built for Mr. Goodmurphy, of Mill Point, and is an excellent sample of what Canadian workmen can do. Mr. Brown also shows two top buggies, one of which is made after Brewster's pattern which is plain but very; durable one top phaeton, one platform spring waggon, and one two seated family sleigh.

Mr. St. Charles makes an unusually fine show of carriages and cutters. He has on display a Dexter-Queen top buggy, a top Brewster, top phaeton of superb finish, top democrat waggon, open phaeton, family sleigh, and two cutters. The workmanship and finish of Mr. St. Charles' manufactures, we need scarcely say, are of the most superior kind, fully sustaining the high reputation that that gentleman has achieved in former years.

Mr. Palmer, of Cannifton, shows two top buggies, and one top phaeton, the three of which are equal to any on the ground.

Messrs. W. J. Baker & Sons, Belleville, exhibit an open buggy, a pleasure sleigh and a lumber sleigh, the workmanship of which is of the finest and most substantial character.

Messrs. Ashley & Moorman, of Ross' Corners, Thurlow, show a very fine lot of their manufactures, including a pleasure family sleigh, two top buggies, and a handsome park phaeton.

BUTTER WORKER.

Mr. A. E. Kidd, of Toronto, has on exhibition in the building the famous Walker Butter Worker, which took a diploma at the late Industrial Exhibition at Toronto.

STOVES.

Messrs. McRae & Stocker, of Belleville, show two coal stoves, one box stove and one cooking stove, all of which are of the latest styles.

Messrs. McRae & Stocker also exhibit other articles of their manufacture, comprising a force-pump, sink, and cistern pumps.

GRAIN.

The show of grain of all kinds was very light, the exhibition consisting of clover seed, oats, buckwheat, barley, rye, peas, wheat and corn, of which there were very few samples, but what there was was good. The show of grain all through, although small, was fully equal to anything shown here before.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

The exhibit in this department presented a sorry spectacle, the platform at the south end of the building set apart for the display of dairy produce, being comparatively empty. There were only five lots of butter and five cheese.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There were two panel doors of exquisite design on exhibition. There were also some fine flower pots.

Mr. S. A. Moore shows some very handsome monuments in red granite and marble, which are very tastefully cut and inscribed.

The above comprised most of the exhibits on the ground floor of the building.

HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The Horticultural display under the auspices of the Belleville Horticultural Society, was as usual made in the upper portion of the Hall. The domestic manufactures, fine arts, ladies department and miscellaneous exhibits were also made in this part of the Hall.

BINDING.

Mr. E. Harrison exhibited specimens of ordinary, plain and fancy binding, of a good quality, done at his establishment; also specimens of mercantile and fancy ruling, copy books, pass books, blank books, etc.

SEWING MACHINES.

This department is rather more fully represented than usual. Mr. Wm. Davis, agent for the Williams Singer Company exhibits six machines of different styles, from the heavy manufacturing machine to the finest grade of family sewing machines. Comprised in this exhibit is a half cabinet machine, a fac-simile of that presented by the Company to the Princess Louise, the stand and cover of which are of black walnut beautifully inlaid with pearls. The whole is of Canadian growth and manufacture.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company exhibit a numer of manufacturing and family sewing machines in various styles.

FLOWERS.

The display of flowers is the finest that has been made here for years, particularly the foliage plants, of which there is an infinite and magnificent variety, some of them vieing in beauty and brilliancy with the flowers. All the classes appeared to be well filled. The principal exhibitors are Mr. Kennedy, gardener to John Bell, Esq., Q. C., Mr. Wm. Matthews, Mr. Wm. Conners, Mr. J. W. Loudon, Mr. Wills, gardener at the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and Mr. Henry McInninch.

FRUIT.

The principal feature of the exhibition is the fruit, of which there is a magnificent display, in quality equalling if not surpassing that made at the Provincial Exhibition.

In apples, large and beautiful specimens of all the standard varieties are shown, and samples of several new seedlings, seemingly of much merit. The chief exhibitors of apples are the Messrs. Weese, Messrs. Peck, P. C. Dempsey, John Graham, S. and J. Clarke, John Bell, and others.

There is a comprehensive display of large and elegant hot house grapes. John Bell, Esq., is a chief exhibitor, the principal varieties of his exhibit being Golden Hamburg, Black Hamburg, Raison de Calibre, Muscat Hamburg, West St. Peter and Muscadine. S. and J. Clarke's exhibit comprised the following cut-door varieties of very fine quality: White Sweet Water, Diana, Delaware, Concord, Dayene, Isabella, etc. P. C. Dempsey shows a fine display of hot-house and out-door grapes of standard varieties.

There is a magnificent display of very superior pears, particularly of Flemish Beauties, which excel any shown at the Provincial Exhibition, some of them weighing over 14 ounces. Amongst the exhibitors are Messrs. W. J. Diamond, H'y McInineh, J. W. London, — Goldsmith, and several of those who exhibited apples and grapes.

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

This department was filled to about the usual extent with articles of ordinary merit, including bedding of various descriptions, horse blankets, rag carpeting, stair carpeting, plaid shawls, socks, mitts, yarn, &c.

FINE ARTS.

This department is rather thinly represented. The exhibit comprised pictures in oil, crayon drawing, and water color painting.

In penmanship the Rev. A. Schuster exhibits some very creditable specimens of his ability as an artist with the pen.

Mr. Ford makes a very fine display of photographs, in all the general varieties and sizes. His exhibit of enlarged photographs is particularly good, the pictures being clear, shaded and of life-like expression. He also shows a selection of fine chromos.

LADIE'S DEPARTMENT.

This department presents the usual variety of femenine handiwork, such as raised work, lace work, pillow shams, tidies, wool flowers, feather flowers, wax flowers, embroidery, hair wreath, Berlin wool work, quilting, and such other articles as competition is asked for in the prize list.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The articles which may be classed under this head are a small centre table and lamp-stand of black walnut, neatly inlaid with scroll saw work of the most intricate and beautiful character. A cage of canaries, a set of harness and one or two other small articles comprise all that came under this heading.

SECOND DAY.

The weather was less favorable than on the previous day, a strong north-wester blowing and heavy clouds drifting across the face of the sky, promising rain, relieved by occasional bits of sunshine. All was bustle amongst the officials and exhibitors in the early part of the morning. Entries were being made, goods entered were arriving; cattle, horses, sheep and live stock generally were coming in; but very few visitors were passing the gates. The attendance did not equal that of former years, and there was an apparent lack of interest amongst the spectators. We now proceed to speak of the departments outside of the Hall.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

G. & J. Brown show a single reaper Sprague mower, horse rake, grain drill, gang and other ploughs, 2 Bennett's improved fanning mills, root slicer, straw cutter, and a Baker enlivator.

Brown & Patterson, Whitby, exhibit two Whitby Harvesters, a Young Canada mower and a straw cutter.

The Masson Manufacturing Company of Oshawa have on exhibition Beaver combined drill and broadcast sower, a single broadcast, Johnson corn cultivator, garden weeder and Galloway horse rake.

Mr. Whelply, who represents Messrs. Cockshutt, of Brantford, and Copp Bros. of Hamilton, shows one horse plough, double plough, gang plough with sulkey attached, harrows in wood and iron, straw cutter, corn cultivator and garden roller.

James W. Bradshaw exhibits a horse, hay or grain fork.

J. M. Walker & Co., show 3 ploughs, 3 gang ploughs, cider mill, grain cracker and straw cutter.

P. Finnigan exhibits a lumber waggon and a wheel barrow.

Brown Bros., of Richmond Hill, have on exhibition a reaper and mower, and spring-toothed harrows.

Messrs. Rankins & Stevenson show a number of castings, and other work for repairs to agricultural machinery.

POULTRY.

There is a good show of poultry, particularly of geese, including the China, African, and wild varieties. The principal exhibitors are Messrs. J. L. Clapp and Martin, the former of Sidney, the latter of Tyendinaga.

PIGS AND SHEEP.

There were comparatively few pigs shown, but of sheep, the display was large in number and fine in quality. Mr. Jos. Nightingale shows Cotswold and Leicester, two ewes of the former breed, purchased lately in the west. Mr. A. Terrill exhibits also in Cotswolds and Leicester, as also do Garbutt Bros. John Hagerman and A. N. Dennyes, show Southdown of private quality.

CATTLE.

There is a good, if not very extensive show of cattle. Mr. John Carr shows a very nice heifer calf; Mr. James Row exhibits a good bull calf; and John Hagerman, James Knox, Jas. Bird, Dr. File and others, exhibit a number of choice Ayrshires. In Durhams, the principal exhibitors are Messrs. Nightingale, amongst whose exhibit are a particularly fine 2 year old bull and a heifer calf. A. N. Denyes shows a year old bull, and a cow with twin calves. Harry Bird exhibits a bull. In grades, Mr. Denyes shows two young cows and a calf; Wallbridge Bros. two nice calves; and Jose Bros. 20 head of cattle, including Durham, grades, a Durham bull, and two yoke of oxen.

HORSES.

The display of horses is not large, but comprises some good animals in the various classes. It could hardly be otherwise, for Hastings and Prince Edward have long been noted as "horsey" counties, but there ought to have been many more shown than there were.

Delicate Women.

Cases of female weakness, delicate and enfeebled constitutions, and those suffering with Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, will find Electric Bitters a speedy and certain cure. The sick and prostrated should rejoice that such a reliable remedy is placed within their reach. Health and happiness will surely follow where Electric Bitters are used. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co; price only fifty cents.

By-Law No.

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE RAISING BY WAY OF LOAN OF THE SUM OF NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE PURPOSES THEREIN MENTIONED AND FOR THE ISSUE OF DEBENTURES OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE THEREFOR.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Roll of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held.

In Foster Ward, in the building occupied by John Covert, on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and that John Covert be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

In Samson Ward, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and that Francis Clark be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

In Ketchenson Ward, in the Shop occupied by William Robertson on the South side of Campbell Street, and George Adams be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Ketchenson Ward.

In Baldwin Ward in the No. 2 Fire Engine shed on West Front Street, and Richard Taylor be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Baldwin Ward.

In Bleecker Ward in the shop occupied by Mrs. Eaves, South Mill Street, and John Northcott be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Bleecker Ward.

In Coleman Ward in the house of D. C. Curtis, North Front Street in Coleman Ward, and that D. C. Curtis be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Coleman Ward.

In number seven division Murney Ward, in the house of Edward Deacon, Murney Street in said number seven division, and that J. Jas Ball is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number seven division in Murney Ward.

In number eight division Murney Ward, in the building known as Sponge, South Bridge Street, and Peter Maybee is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number eight division in said Murney Ward.

In number nine division Murney Ward in the building known as Sponge, South Bridge Street, and that Peter Maybee be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number eight division in said Murney Ward.

Be it further enacted, that the Clerk of the Council for the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville, shall attend at the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on Thursday the Fourth day of November, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, to proceed to sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-Law, in accordance with the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

City and Vicinity.

THE RIFLE.—The annual matches of the 15th Battalion Rifle Association will commence to-morrow and will be continued on Friday.

TROTTING.—The trot for horses that have never won public money will take place on the Bayside track to-morrow afternoon.

COUNTY DEBENTURES.—In our account of the sale of the County Debentures, it was stated that the sale averaged 107⅞, it should have read 107⅛.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities :—Lakes, westerly to Northwesterly winds, fresh to brisk, during the day fine cool weather.

CURLING CLUB.—The annual meeting of the Curling Club, which was to have been held last night, did not take place only a few of the members put in an appearance.

PICTON RACES.—A despatch from Picton says that the races to come off at Picton on the 8th and 9th instant, are well filled in each class and it promises to be an excellent meeting.

NORTH HASTINGS FAIR.—The annual exhibition of the North Hastings Agricultural Society, will take place to-morrow at Garner's, in Huntington. As usual, there will be a good many visitors from the city.

A NEW DRESS.—The London Free Press appears in a new dress. The Free Press is written with great ability, is a lively, entertaining sheet, and has long been a great power for the Conservative party in the west. May it be still more useful and prosperous.

RAIN.—There has been a superabundance of rain lately, and those interested in the agricultural exhibitions are hoping that Jupiter Pluvius will be less liberal until after the shows—most of which will be held during the current week—have taken place.

BOSTON QUINTETTE CLUB.—We are informed that the Mechanics' Institute have arranged for a concert by this celebrated troupe on the evening of Friday, October, 15th. It is likely that special trains will be run on the Grand Junction to afford residents of Stirling and Madoc the opportunity of being present. Particulars will be advertised immediately.

A FURIOUS ATTACK.—Yesterday afternoon, about 6 o'clock, a tame deer belonging to Mr. E. Harrison, made a vicious attack on Mr. Brown, Photographer. Mr. Brown, whose rooms are in Mr. Harrison's building, had gone down into the yard, where the deer was running at large. The animal charged him, and one of the long tines of its antlers entered the thigh, passing completely through. Mr. Brown's cries brought Mr. Harrison to his assistance, but not until that gentleman had plunged the tines of a pitchfork into the deer's side did the infuriated buck cease its assault upon its victim. Dr. Murphy's services were secured and he attended to Mr. Brown's injuries, which are very severe. This buck is a dangerous animal, it having previously attacked and injured other persons.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Marmora Correspondence.

Farmers are engaged in digging potatoes which are a good crop and fall plowing, sowing rye, &c.

Mr. Davis of Colborne has been round buying sheep and beef cattle. The farmers stock will soon be getting scarce as this is the second drove this gentleman has taken out lately, besides what Mr. J. Loucks has bought.

It appears owing to the difficulty in passing the Teacher's examinations this county can hardly furnish a sufficient quantity for its wants. Miss Carney from Lindsay, has been just engaged as Teacher in Beaver Creek School house, at $250 per annum.

The Festival of the 19th ult., and concert was a success both numerically and financially. The dinner was all that any epicure should require even Maximan, or Commode should have been satisfied could they have arisen from the silent dust. The Rev. Messrs. W. H. Jamison, M. A. and A. Willson entertained the audience with appropriate and humorous addresses. In the evening an elegant bonnet was contested for by two prepossessing and popular young ladies, Miss Broadworth and Mills, which resulted in victory perching upon the banners of the former; $9.00 was obtained by this means. The social and instrumental music provided by Miss Pearce, Miss Wiggins, Miss Bleecker, Mrs. McCauly, Mrs. B. Beddome, Dr. Payne, Mrs. Rutton, were applauded most heartily. The Norwood brass band continued through the day and evening to pour forth the most delightful strains of music.

Trenton Notes.

The Bishop of Ontario will hold confirmatiton service in St. George's church next Sunday evening. A number of candidates are expected to be confirmed.

The Murray Township show, which is to be held here next Tuesday, the 12th inst., promises to be a very large one. Both the town hall and the drill shed are to be used for the exhibits. The P. E. C. R. R. will run on that day a special train late in the afternoon from Trenton, which will accommodate parties from Prince Edward.

The P. E. C. R. R. will issue return tickets at one fare for the Picton races on the 8th and 9th, and will run a special train from Picton on the 9th. The Company also advertise return tickets for Picton Fair on Oct. 15th.

The annual tea meeting of the C. M. Church will be held on Monday evening the 11th inst.

The usual number of church entertainments are now the order of the day.

The Presbyterian Church is progressing rapidly, the congregation expect to hold service in it before winter sets in.

Marine.

SCHOONER WRECKED.—The Kingston News says:—"Captain Gaskin received a telegram this afternoon, announcing the loss of the schooner Morning Star at North Scriba Point, seven miles east of Oswego. The Morning Star was loaded with barley at Gananoque last week for James Richardson & Son, consigned to Oswego. The barley was uninsured, as was also the vessel. The latter was owned by Capt. Gaskin, and valued at from $1,500 to $2,000. Captain John Donelly left on the Maud this afternoon for the Cape, whence he will proceed to Oswego to see if anything can be done for the recovery of the wrecked ship."

ASHORE.—The Whig says: "There was a very severe storm on the lake last night. The schooners Mary Foster and Seabird, both from Trenton, with lumber, are ashore at Oswego. The crews of both vessels were rescued by crews of the life saving station. Several vessels were obliged to run back to that port on account of the storm."

SUNK.—The Whig says:—"The Rainbow, of Belleville, left the Queen street wharf last night with about 25,000 feet of maple lumber for Mill Point. When opposite the penitentiary the swells caused the vessel to leak. She was headed for Kingston again. Sortly after reaching the slip at the foot of Queen street she sank and now rests upon the bottom. This morning the lumber was taken out of the hold. The vessel will be taken to the shipyard to be caulked. Capt. McCormack is in command."

THE GLOBES PROPRIETORS.—THE "Globe" says it is not true that Mr. George Stephen president of the bank of Montreal, is a stock holder of the Globe Printing Company, and most of the other names in the list lately published are equally erroneous. In addition, it is only necessary to say that no change has taken place in the Glob proprietary which in any way affects the political position of the journal, or causes any change in its management.

CASE ADJOURNED. — Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot on the 5th inst., in the case of the Grand Junction v. the Midland Railroad, adjourned the matter for a week, the Midland Railway Company being meanwhile authorized to go on laying their rails, but without prejudice to the rights of the Grand Junction, which is seeking to restrain them from doing so on a certain piece of land defined in the bill.

Cheese Markets.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 5.—Eight factories offered 6,850 boxes of cheese; 13¼c was offered and refused for September and October make, factory men holding for 13½c. Since last market day one factory sold September and balance of make, 1,200 boxes, at 13c. and another factory sold 800 boxes September and balance of make at 13½c. No change in cable, the past week remaining steady at 46s 6d.

UTICA, N. Y. Oct. 4.—Forty-two hundred boxes of cheese sold; 1,200 boxes commissioned at 12¾ to 13½c; ruling price, 13c.

LITTLE FALLS, Oct 4.—The market to day was very dull; only 3,000 boxes of factory cheese sold at 12¾ to 13½c; 600 boxes farm dairy cheese sold at 11¾ to 12½c; and 300 packages of butter at 24 to 28c.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Oct. 6th.—A Rome despatch says the Holy See formally threatened to recall the Papal Nuncio from Paris if the decrees are enforced.

Henry Brittain, jr., merchant, Birmingham, Bombay and Calcutta, has failed. Liabilities £150,000.

GENOA, Oct. 8th.—It is believed that Garibaldi, owing to the pressure brought to bear upon him, will again become deputy.

ROME, Oct. 6.—It is believed the Government will grant an amnesty to Major Canzio and his companions.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Reports from the high lands state the weather has been very severe. The Grampian Hills are clothed with snow to their base. The snow storm is remarkable for its severity at such an early period. Rain has fallen throughout the midland counties causing tremendous floods. Serious results are anticipated from the heavy gales at Yarmouth. Casualties to vessels are already reported. Eighty feet of the pier works are destroyed. The rivers Don and Rother are overflowing to an alarming extent, hundreds of acres are already submerged. A severe gale raged over Chorley doing much damage. A girl was blow under a carriage and a wheel passing over head and killed her.

AMERICAN.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—Fowler's interview with Grant, published in the Gazette, contained the following in addition to what has been already telegraphed: Grant said we must elect Garfield. He is a great man; he has but few intellectual peers in public life; he is every way worthy. If Hancock should be elected, the North would submit quietly and watch closely as soon as things began to go wrong the northern legislature would be convened and would compel their representatives to resign or resist the solid south. I am hopeful but I expect to witness most gigantic frauds in Indiana and New York City. Pretexts will be sought for throwing out States or parts of States.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Herald's Indianapolis correspondent obtained of Col. Duncan a letter from Hancock dated Oct. 27th, 1879, which says: "I have no part in any programme looking to the future. My name comes up through friends, and foes possibly, yet I know of no machinery in the interest of my nomination; it is about as it always has been in that regard. I seem in public opinion to be put forth as an exponent of certain political available possibilities, and I would be better pleased if permitted to pursue the even tenor of my way, untouched by political excitement. I do not wish to be considered a chronic candidate, for I know what that means when the end comes. So true friends had better let the matter rest, or if not, let it drift."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Arrived, the State of Pennsylvania, from Glasgow. The SS. Gellert, from Hamburg, brought $129,300 gold. The SS. Canada, from Havre, $719,000 gold.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Epizootic has appeared here.

GIBSON, Ill., Oct. 6.—At Spaulding & Eggleston's tile factory yesterday an arch gave way and buried 6 men. Fredrick Hummull did and the others are seriously hurt.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—A Vienna telegram states the Turkish note was not acceptable to all powers. The Powers decide to maintain European concert and await proposals from England. A blockade is now mentioned as a probable measure of coercion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—With reference to Grant's interview with Dr. Fowler, the Truth reports Hancock as saying, "I shall not notice the matter until I learn authentically that Grant is responsible for the article." The General seemed far more annoyed at what he termed a misrepresentation of Grant's words than at a probable effect of the article upon his own candidacy. The whole tenor of his remarks was a desire that Grant might be proven to be misrepresented.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Indications: lower lakes, stationary or slightly higher temperature.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. BELLEVILLE MARKETS

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE, Belleville, Oct. 6, 1880.

The receipts of grain in the market here are beginning to assume large proportions.

Yesterday the deliveries were the largest of the season. The sales on the market yesterday amounted about 3,000 bus. barley and 2,000 bus. rye. Of the 3,000 bus. barley sold, from six to seven hundred bus. sold at 65cts., the balance selling all the way down to 50cts, the average price being about 58 cts. The rye all sold at 80 cts.

To-day the deliveries of grain are again large with no change to note in either Barley or Rye. There is very little Peas delivering, the market remains steady at 60c.

Oats is in better demand, to-day 34c. was paid.

Dressed Hops are in demand at $6.50 to $7, per 100 lbs.

Messrs. Irwin & Sloans, Oswego, circular of the 4th inst., says: "Since the date of our last circular the tendency of the market for barley has been in favor of the buyers. The supply continues to keep ahead of the demand, and with receipts of nearly 200,000 bush., since Saturday we have to note an inactive market.

There are sellers of one bright barley at 88 @ 89, one Canada at 83 @ 84 and one Canada above grade at 85c., two Canada 78 @ 80c., but these prices lead to no increased purchases.

Holders are not pressing sales however, apparently thinking it best to wait for developments. Receipts of barley to date 937,576 bush., and for the same time last year 189,691 bush.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

Daily Intelligencer.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—I am glad to see that our policemen are so ambitious to do their duty and desirous of increasing the revenue of our city as to investigate carefully all the back yard kennels belonging to both rich and poor indiscriminately, to find the number of curs secreted therein, and by so doing bring to book those defaulters who object to pay the very moderate dog tax levied by our City Fathers. No doubt they are also endeavoring by thus raising funds for the treasury to have the reduced salaries reinstated. But while showing their energies why should they not try to see that all by-laws are as carefully watched as the poor dogs. Under the present way in which our by-laws are enforced, it is absolutely necessary for the safety and protection of our property that each and all of us should keep a dog on our premises to ward off the impending danger to our gardens and lawns by the incursions of a herd of cows or pigs with which our streets abound. It is not fair that one man can keep his cattle and pigs pasturing on the streets or in his neighbor's garden without fear of the law, and the poor neighbor have to pay a tax on the dog he keeps to watch his gate or pay a fine at the public court. It would be no more trouble to find out who own the wandering and offensive cattle than it is to find out who has an untaxed dog and I should advise our authorities to at once see that the By-law is enforced and not let remain a dead letter on our books. It is a well known fact that many of our citizens have ceased to improve their places finding it impossible to prevent the encroaches of stray animals which in one night will destroy the labor of weeks. Our city as at present governed is little better than a barnyard, and our sidewalks almost impassible. Let our worthy policemen bestir themselves, and see that all By-laws are enforced and not only one of them.

Yours,

A SUFFERER.

For the Intelligencer,

"Charles McDavitt, Reeve of Bangor ,et al."

MR. EDITOR.—In yesterdays INTELLIGENCER I find a letter from my bachelor friend Charles McDavitt, who I am sorry to say still seems to feel angry at my first as well as second communication about his bachelorhood. I cannot consent to his proposition to "choose twelve gentlemen," as in many cases they might be like himself, but a jury of 12 young ladies would no doubt decide the case fairly, they would in my opinion be the best judges, and if he is afraid (of "the fiery ordeal") he had better say no more about it.

As to my striving to make (him) "appear ridiculous. For why? simply because having slurs cast upon (him) as Reeve, (he) had the audacity to reply and sign himself Reeve."

I once knew an Indian called "Captain John," who when he had taken a glass or two used to say; "Me Captain John, very big man, me Captain John, very big man me," and yet when sober he never took it amiss to be called Captain John, and if the Reeve of Bangor et al, sees fit to rejoice in the honor of a Reeveship given him he ought not to be angry when he signs himself thus, because I honor him with his name and title. I think in both his communications he has shown more of second childhood (if not real babyhood) than I have, and were I to sign myself the "Honorable" simply because I have the position, I should consider myself demented.

As to my allegations about the petition, he admits that part when he left Bancroft out of the one he copied from mine, and here he shows his deception. Why did he not tell me plainly that he would not circulate a petition with the word Bancroft in it? Would it not have been more honorable to have done so than to have left it out of the copy? and his doing so goes to show that he meant to use my petition to deceive me, and that he meant to do so from the first.

He denies that he promised to circulate (my) petition as it stood, I say after my petition had been altered to suit him, he did promise to copy it off and circulate it and as he copied it in part, and left out a part, it was not the petition we then and there agreed on, and he may take whichever horn of the dilemma he chooses to hang himself on.

The Reeve speaks as if what I had done, of my being "gailty of one of the gravest breaches of hospitality." I do not know of what "hospitality" consists according to his meaning. True a thunder shower came up, and my horses were put in his stable by the person I had with me, and I went with the Reeve to the house until the storm was over, and then left for Maynooth, where we got dinner and fed the team. His hospitality puts me in mind of the Irishman who had been in Holland, when asked if the people were hospitable exclaimed, "And its themselves that are, for I was in the hospital all the while I was there." It may be his house is a hospital, if so I certainly received his hospitality for about thirty minutes. I hold him no malice.

Yours, &c., &c.,

BILLA FLINT.

Belleville, Oct. 5, 1880.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

Rev. ——, Washingtn, D. C.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

NOTICE.

I HAVE this day entered into partnership with J. Stanley Hough, Esq., and have removed my Law Office to No. 4 Ashley Block, Front Street, over Canadian Bank of Commerce, and on opposite side of hall from my old office, where the business will be carried on as usual under the firm name of BLAIR & HOUGH, Barristers, etc.

obtained for new inventions, or for improvements in old ones. Caveats, Trade Marks and all patent business promptly attended to Inventions that have been rejected may still, in most cases, be patented by us. Being opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and engaged in Patent business exclusively, we can secure patents in less time than those who are remote from Washington, and who must depend upon the mails in all transactions with the Patent Office.

When Inventors send model or sketch we make search in the Patent Office and advise as to its patentability free of charge. Correspondence confidential, prices low, and no charge unless patent is obtained.

We refer to Hon. Postmaster General D. M. KEY, Rev. F. D. POWER, to officials in the U. S. Patent Office, and especially to our clients in every State of the Union and in Canada. For special references, terms, advice, &c., Address

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS, AND ALL SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS

IS UNEQUALLED.

IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

The Wood Mountain Country

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

WOOD MOUNTAIN,
Sept. 9th, 1880.

I wonder if the time passes everywhere as quickly as it does in this country. To me it scarcely seems credible that it is nine months since I last wrote to you. But a moment's reflection is only necessary to convince me that it is the case. You will say I am not a faithful correspondent to have allowed such a time to elapse between my letters. I can plead in answer that my duties have fully occupied my time and to you I know that will be a sufficient excuse for remissness.

In the meantime what has happened? Nothing of great importance or interest to you in my immediate sphere of action. To be sure we have all been changed about from one post to the other, and in the general shaking up, so to speak, I find myself here.

Wood Mountain in former days was the rendezvous of large numbers of half-breed hunters, and from here large parties, (brigades as they were called) went in all directions in pursuit of the buffalo. During the years the Commission was determining upon and surveying the International boundary line, where this post now is was one of the principal supply depots, and since the passing of the Sioux into British Territory, a detachment of Mounted Police has been stationed here. The fact of the Sioux having made the vicinity of this place their headquarters, as it were, has brought it more prominently into notice than it otherwise would have been. The fort is distant about 18 miles north of the International boundary line, 180 miles east of Fort Walsh, 450 miles slightly South-west from Winnipeg, 160 miles South-west of Qu'Appelle and 250 miles South-east of Battleford. The buffalo remained about these hills after having disappeared from all other parts of the country, and although now in American territory are no great distance from here. The Canadian half-breeds as a consequence still consider this as their most convenient wintering and trading place. A large number now across the line will soon return and remain for the coming winter. Already they have commenced building houses at the site of their intended residence, which being a place suited to their requirements will in all probability become a permanent settlement for them. The spot they have chosen is between 25 and 30 miles from here (South-east), where there is good water, grass, and for this treeless land, considerable wood, among it a good deal of hard wood (oak), a very great desideratum, as you will imagine in a country where it is seldom seen.

The soil in this vicinity is excellent, in fact, unsurpassably rich. There is an abundance of splendid water and the grass and hay are the most nutritious I have known in the country ; wood unfortunately is not plentiful, although the settler has the consolation of knowing that where there are no trees there is no clearing to be made, at once to some extent for the lack of wood. Coal there certainly is, and from appearances any quantity of it. I procured a sample of it a few days ago, but by no means a fair specimen, having been taken from the surface where it had been exposed to the constant action of water, it has never burns well. I intend acquiring further and fuller information about the coal beds. All possible knowledge should be gained about a matter which certainly is of the first importance in this part of the country. As for building material the clay clay for brickmaking is of the very best quality.

There are in the neighborhood several gardens or small farms beside that of the police. All have turned out most satisfactorily. The potato crop is especially fine. Small quantities of wheat and barley sown experimentally show a fine sample of those grains. In the production of the staple and most hardy grains and vegetables this is equal to any portion of the Territory, but it is possible the altitude in parts of the hills may not be favorable to the less hardy grains and plants. As a stock country it cannot be said to be equal to that nearer the Rocky mountains, principally on account of the greater depth of snow. Yet it is by no means inferior as such.

The Police herd always winter out and in the spring are in fair condition, certainly not an unfavorable circumstance as to the qualities of the country for the raising of cattle. Missouri river men say when their "stock" get poor, they send them to the Wood Mountain country "to fatten up." A point for "our side," eh !

But I fancy you will have had quite a sufficiency of the agricultural capabilities of the country, and would prefer my confining any further ideas upon the subject to a "Blue book" or other suitable receptacle for such information. If, however, you will care to hear of something else, I will tell you that.

The Sioux, or rather remnant of those formerly on this side of the line, are camped on the Milk river, between the Porcupine creek and a point on the former stream known as the "Big Bend," about 70 miles southerly from here. They consist of scarcely 100 lodges, including Sitting Bull, and from latest accounts is in the best and most peaceable of humors. In a conversation lately had with an American Agent, he said he wished to "shake hands" with the "Long Knives" (Americans,)—that he was tired of war, but he would prefer not going to live permanently at an Agency until he found it impossible to live by his own exertions. He concluded, however, he would not be long before he accepted the terms of surrender offered by the Americans. He wished also to see how those of his brethren who were gone to surrender were received and treated. He concluded by saying, "Now he had shaken hands with both Governments, and that he never wanted to fight again." Altogether, the old warrior was most profuse in his professions of peace.

The fact is that he, in common with all Indians, would much prefer to lead their natural roving life, owning allegiance to no government or authority. But they have sense enough to see, or if they cannot see their late experience has made them feel, that they must choose between submission to the United States and life with an empty stomach. Not being believers in Dr. Tanner's theory, the majority have wisely chosen the former state of existence as preferable. We cannot yet say we are entirely rid of the Sioux ; it is quite probable a considerable number of those not yet surrendered may winter here or hereabouts, particularly if a good hunt is made this fall, —or even having surrendered, it is only to be expected that parties from time to time would return for a sojourn in the country that afforded them an asylum for so many years. But withal Canada is to be congratulated that it is a question of which the end seemingly is not far. For certainly at one time "the Sioux question" promised to be at least embarrassing.

When it is generally understood that the Sioux have finally taken their departure, the rich valleys of Wood Mountain will doubtless attract a goodly share of immigration.

INTELLECT IN BRUTES.

Several Anecdotes of Unsual Affection Shown by Animals.

From Nature : Instinct apart, cases of intelligence in animals are very numerous, of the affections still more numerous. Compte was of the opinion that the affections were even more highly developed in animals than in men. The dog will lay down his life for the man he loves ; the horse will do so likewise. We have all heard of Greyfriars Bobby, if that be the creature's name. But instances crowd on the memory. A few years back, during a heavy gale, a sweep of the spankerboom drove the master of a Leith and London smack into the sea. Instantly the ship's dog bounded in after, and, sustaining the drowning man, both passed gradually into eternities together.

I have known cats who let themselves into the dwelling house at pleasure, and at least three dogs who were wont to deposit the pennies given them on the counter of some baker or pastry cook in return for values received. I used to meet on the highway a dog who rode behind his master's groom. The hardest trot never seemed to discompose his seat. Even birds—not merely trained birds—sometimes display singular attainments. I knew a lady who had a singing duck, but being one day at a loss for a couple, she sacrificed the songstress to make up a pair. One wishes she had displayed a little mere humanity ; as also a clergyman, not a hundred miles from where I sit, who ordered a goose that had evinced the warmest attachment to be slain by reason of the poor bird having followed him on the occasion of paying a visit into a friend's drawing-room.

When a boy, I used to spend many a holiday at a farmer's house in the county Armagh. I there experienced great kindness, enjoying myself as much as was well possible in the open air, the garden, and the stubble fields. Besides human beings, I had numerous playmates, too, in the kine, swine, dogs, fowl, horned cattle and horses about the place, and indeed was never tired in observing their modes of living and acting. The great house dog often played with a large hog. They alternately chased and faced one another till the hog's chops would froth again actually with the excitement of the sport.

At first I supposed that the pig did not like it, but in this I was mistaken. One day a strange dog, an immense brute, made his appearance, and attacked the house dog, who was evidently getting the worst of it, when who should come to the rescue but the hog, who instantly jumped on the strange dog's back, assailing him at the same time with hoof and teeth. Placed thus between two fires, the stranger beat a speedy retreat, leaving the friends complete masters of the situation.

THE AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION.—The International Exhibition which was opened a few days since at Melbourne, Australia, promises to be a very successful affair. The amount voted towards expenses by the Victorian Government was £330,000. The area reserved for exhibitors was 650,000 square feet, 400,000 square feet being set aside for Europe and America. Great Britain heads the list of exhibiting nations, though the appropriation voted by Parliament was not as large as expected. France sent a ship load of goods, and voted £80,000 to defray expenses. Germany appropriated about half that amount. Austria, Italy, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland also participate, and individual exhibitors are entered from several other European countries, as well as from India, Japan, China, Ceylon, and all the Australian colonies. The United States have a large departmeat. The Exhibition will remain open until March 31st. The awards are to be based on written reports adopted by the jurors, who are said to be experts in the departments to which they have been assigned. In connection with this display of enterprise, on behalf of a city which an American contemporary calls "the Chicago of Australia," it is noted that its site was selected only forty-five years ago.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them. "

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of the rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before nightfall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be a child, a bright eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heart-rending details of these savages' depredations, we are apt to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption oftenest comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddenly finds himself hopelessly ensnared, and death's fatal arrows end the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerfulalterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its remedial powers.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 7.

The New Post Office.

We learn that, upon the report of the Departmental Engineer who visited this city early in the year, for the purpose of examining the various properties offered as the site for a post office and public building, the Government decided to purchase the property of Thomas Wills, Esq., on the south-west corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets. The purchase having been completed, at the next session of Parliament a sum sufficient for the erection of the building will be appropriated, and work on its erection will be commenced as early as possible in the spring.

The site selected by the Government is an excellent one for the purpose, and will be generally approved. The Government are entitled to credit for the attention which they have paid to the requirements of Belleville, whose just claims in this regard now for the first time receive practical recognition.

A Sweet Subject.

The Globe has not had anything to say as to the sugar "monopoly" since the Montreal Journal of Commerce demonstrated in a way to render succesful contradiction impossible, that the effect of the N. P. has been to give our people not only better but cheaper sugar than could have been had under the Cartright tariff, which threw the refining trade into the hands of the refiners in the United States. Neither have the minor organs, which professed to pity the housewife because the N. P. had so increased the price of sugar as to prevent her from making the usual quantity of preserves, dilated on that subject lately. Perhaps the fact that grocers are now selling as high as 13 pounds of sugar for a dollar has something to do with their silence.

Politcal Notes.

WHAT THE REVENUE TARIFF DID.

The Mail says:—"The manufacturers of St. John have formulated and proved a serious charge against the late Dominion Government—that of framing a tariff which, in four years, caused a loss to St. John and Portland manufacturers alone of over two and a quarter millions of dollars capital invested, about two millions of dollars of annual wages paid, and about four thousand people driven out of employment. And this, nothwithstanding the enormous expenditure and the employment afforded during the rebuilding of the burnt district. The St. John Sun publishes statistics which fully substantiate the accusation." There is not a city, town or village in the country that has not suffered to a greater or less extent from the same cause and in a similar way. And yet the Globe and many of its contemporaries sigh for the return to power of the party whose fatuous adherence to an impracticable theory was productive of such lamentable results, and left a series of deficits besides.

A POINT AGAINST THE TARIFF.

Says the Port Hope Times: "An Ottawa paper makes a point against the Tilley tariff. A New York merchant was recently interviewed, we are told, by a reporter, and among other things said business had increased greatly. "Why, it's enormous!" he went on to say; "our sales throughout the West are over a hundred per cent. greater than last year, while the advance in the Southern trade is simply amazing. We have orders ahead that cannot be filled in two months." Says our shrewd contemporary at the capital, ironically, "Of course, t is all owing to the N. P., that business is booming in New York." Of course it is—to the American N. P., which the Canadian resembles somewhat but not sufficiently. And the prosperity which their N. P. has brought on our neighbors, our N. P. is bringing us."

THE BIDDULPH TRAGEDY.—Good progress is being made in the Biddulph trial. A large number of witnesses were examined on Wednesday, the evidence being largely directed towards showing the character of the Vigilance Committee. William Donnelly was placed on the stand, and substantially repeated the evidence given at the inquest. The last witness examined was Martin Hogan, who slept in William Donnelly's house on the night of the murder.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA.—The Globe states that Mr. Gooderham and his colleagues have determined to build the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, the cost of which is estimated at $6,000,000, provided the municipalities interested will give bonuses amounting to $1,200,000. Of this Toronto will be asked to contribute $300,000, and although the Globe favors the giving of this bonus, it is not confident that it will be granted.

DISHONEST TENANTS.—The Colborne Express says:—"During the past week no less than three tenant farmers in this vicinity have mysteriously disappyeared, forgetting to pay the rent due on their farms, and leaving behind them many heavy unpaid 'store bills,' but not leaving behind them anything wherewith to remunerate their sorrowing creditors."

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. THE UNION EXHIBITION

PRIZE LIST.

CLOSING NOTES.

The attendance in the afternoon improved very much, there being probably not less than 2,000 people on the grounds at 2:30 p. m. Amongst the visitors were the pupils of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, who seemed much pleased with what they saw. The school children also attended in large numbers.

The chief centre of attraction was the horse ring, where exhibitions of style and speed were given in the presence of a very large and deeply interested crowd. The show was a good one, and the judges had much difficulty in deciding betweeen so many fine animals.

Mr. O. R. Weese's three year old colt by "Viley," which took first prize, is a beautiful animal. It possesses the clean, powerful, muscular legs, the powerful but perhaps rather fleshy neck, the round deep body, strong hips and the clean neat head of its sire, and is one of the nicest colts seen in the ring here for several years.

At 4 o'clock the exhibitors began to remove their articles, the visitors began to leave the grounds, and in the space of two hours the grounds were clear and the building emptied of its contents, with the exception of a very few articles. The following is the SMITH vs. SOVEREIGN INS. CO.—Action to recover damages for loss by fire of machinery and stock in plff's woollen mills, Warkworth, Co. Northumberland. Defence, fraud in over value at time of burning. Verdict —Clute and Dickson for pl'ff; Mulloch for deft.

MINING MATTERS.—The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says: A gentleman interested in mining matters, recently returned from New York, reports that a discovery has been made in the treatment of gold-bearing quartz by acid, through which the average production of metal will increase from ten to thirty dollars per ton of quartz. If this be true the discovery will give a wonderful impetus to gold mining in the Madoc and Chaudiere districts, and in Canada generally. Ottawa gentlemen are now in New York arranging for the formation of joint stock companies to work Canadian mines. Mr. Pew is on business connected with the Pie Island property. Hon. R. W. Scott, also interested in the Pie Island mines, has gone to New York to assist in forming a syndicate to work the mines of the Dominion of Canada Plumbago Company.

By-Law No.

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE RAISING BY WAY OF LOAN OF THE SUM OF NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE PURPOSES THEREIN MENTIONED AND FOR THE ISSUE OF DEBENTURES OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE THEREFOR.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say:—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Rolls of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held.

In Foster Ward, in the building occupied by John Covert, on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and that John Covert be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

In Samson Ward, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and that Francis Clark be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

In Ketcheson Ward, in the Shop occupied by William Robertson on the South side of Campbell Street, and that George Adams be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Ketcheson Ward.

Clerk's Office, Belleville, Oct. 7, 1880.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming 'n this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 7.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—One prisoner—a drunk—lodged at the police station last night.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, Winds shifting to the south and east, fine weather to-day, followed by rain areas to-morrow.

PERSONAL.—Hon. Mr. Bowell arrived here from the Capital last evening and left this morning to attend the North Hastings exhibition. To-morrow he will attend the fair to be held at Stirling.

YACHTING NOTE.—The yacht Kathleen was taken to Trenton yesterday afternoon by Capt. Cuthbert, Mr. J. R. Cumming, and others. A match between the Kathleen and the Surprise is being talked of.

FROM THE NORTH-WEST.—An interesting letter from Major Crozier, of the Mounted Police, giving some valuable information as to the Wood Mountain country and the Indians, will be found in other columns.

THE HORSE TRADE.—Purchasers are now in the market and are securing horses for use in Michigan. The animals sought after are of the serviceable class, large, strong and fit to work in the lumber limits. Fair prices are being paid for such as are suitable for the purpose.

BIG WORK.—Mr. J. G. Peck informs us that Mr. Vanblaricom's recent exploit in potato digging having been doubted, he set to work in the presence of our informant, and in one hour dug 43½ bushels of potatoes. The soil is loamy and very favorable to rapid work of the kind.

MEETING.—The South Hastings Teachers Institute will meet in the Central School in this city on Thursday and Friday, Oct 28th and 29th, when a programme of matters appertaining to school instruction and school interests will form subjects for discussion.

FROST.—There was a severe frost in this section last night, as was evidenced by the appearance of the sidewalks this morning. Those who were incautious enough to leave their plants outside now regret having done so, while others in dread of such an event made the necessary preparations for the coming of the icy king.

GAME.—Fall ducks are coming in now in considerable numbers, and many are being daily shot. A gentleman who resides on Big Island, states that on Tuesday evening, whilst he was milking a cow, he counted over 50 shots that were discharged from the High Shore. A resident of Huff's Island also gives the information that ducks are becoming numerous in that locality.

LARGE YIELD.—A private letter received from a former resident of Thurlow, who is now located in the 1st con. of the Township of Faraday, states that the writer this season raised 415 bushels of potatoes, the yield of 3 bags of seed. The land on which the potatoes were grown had during the past three seasons been devoted to the growth of wheat. As the above statement can be properly verified, it shows that there is as good land in some localities in the northern portion of this county as in the district along the bay shore.

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.—The pastor of Bridge Street Church said last Sunday evening that when the alterations in the basement were completed, that church was going to have a suite of rooms for Sabbath School purposes which would be as fine as any in the Dominion. Such a statement coming from a gentlemen who has travelled so extensively, led us to go in to see what was going on in the basement, and such a transformation as met our eyes! But here we must stop, for we remember also that Dr. Jeffers said on Sunday evening, "It is not fair to judge anything until it is completed. Wait until the scaffolding is taken down, &c.," and so we take his wise advice and wait a description of the alterations until before the opening, which we now understand is to to be on Sunday, the 23rd inst.

Marine.

There are no arrivals to record to-day.

The schooner Flora Carveth with lumber, left last evening for Oswego.

The schooner A. G. Ryan, which was supposed to have been lost during the gale of Wednesday of last week, left Toronto yesterday for Jordan to load wheat for Kingston.

The schooners Delaware and Mulvey are chartered to load grain here for Oswego, and were expected to arrive to-day.

The tug Metamora ran on the Brothers bar on Monday night. The Lady Franklin took her off yesterday.—Whig, Oct. 6.

The prop. Armenia ran upon a shoal at Gananoque at 2 o'clock this morning. The Steamer Princess Louise pulled her off.—Ib.

The schr. W. W. Grant, from Napanee, with barley for Oswego, had a rough voyage last night. She entered the harbor with her knight heads and the heel of her bowsprit carried away.—Ib.

The schr. Florence had her foresail torn into shreds when near Oswego, on Thursday. She ran back to that port.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

DRUNK.

William Meagher appeared to answer the charge of having been drunk and disorderly on the public streets. As this was the first offence he was allowed to go.

Echoes from the Depot.

A car load of cattle from Trenton, passed down last night, destined for the eastern market. Freight traffic "boomed" to-day, as there was an extra number of freight trains each way.

Six cars of hogs; 5 of cattle; 3 of butter and 5 of apples, for Montreal, and eight cars of refrigerated beef from Chicago, for Worcester, Springfield and Lawrence, Mass., passed eastward this morning. Seven cars of steel rails for the use of the North Western Grand Trunk, went westward this afternoon.

Two special trains with passengers, baggage &c., passed westward this morning. Each train consisted of 16 cars, and their occupants were destined for Manitoba. Their number was augmented by a party from this district.

The mid-day express from the west was an hour behind time to-day.

Thos. Watkin shipped one car of cheese to England to-day via. Montreal.

The Grand Junction train this morntng brought in six cars of grain from Campbellford. One car of cheese came in yesterday from the same point, and a car similarly laden arrived this morning.

Three cars of hematite iron from the Coe & Mitchell mine, Madoc, arrived to-day and will be sent to west Middlesex, Pa., where it will be smelted. This is the first shipment of ore that has been made from this section to Pennsylvania.

A car load of stump machines arrived this morning.

The locomotive offices have been painted and additional light furnished them. These improvements were greatly needed and the change is a very acceptable one.

An enlargement of the present station or the erection of a new building should receive the early attention of G. T. R. authorities here, as the present accommodations are far too limited for the purposes to which they are now devoted.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. Courtney's race with Riley was fixed for Tuesday at Ensenore, but Riley failing to appear, Courtney rowed three miles alone in 20:28½.

Captain Stone claims that Maud S. can trot in 2:10. Hickok claims that St. Julien can do anything that Maud S. can accomplish, and Mr. Balch, who recently purchased Parana, promises that next year she will beat the pair of them.

EVERYBODY uses "Teaberry" to beautify and preserve the teeth. It sweetens and gives fragrance to the breath. Delightfully cooling and refreshing. Testimonials from all over the country of its excellence. Price 50c. 134d&wly.

Tweed Notes.

The meeting of farmers in the Town Hall Hungerford, was well attended on Saturday, the 2nd inst.

The Reeve, Mr. Gordon, was called to the chair and T. Graham, Secretary; they came to the conclusion to send their barley to Crookston Station on the N. H. R. R. and employ Mr. Geo. Easterbrook as their Superintendent to sell grade and weigh for them. A Committee was appointed to select the most advisable time to sell, they are determined they will not draw their grain this fall over the road to Belleville. They will ship about 15,000 bushels of barley, exclusive of other grains.

Wm. Coulter, of Huntingdon, exhibited three large potatoes in Tweed a few days ago, which weighed in the agregate 4lbs 10oz., they were of the Early Vermont variety.

A meeting of the Tweed Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Methodist Church, Tweed, on Monday evening the 4th inst. when addresses were delivered by the following gentlemen: The Rev. Mr. Tredray, R. Gordon, Esq., reeve; Rev. Mr. Walker and Rev. J. G. Manly. The officers chosen for the year are Robt. Gordon, Esq., Pres.; the ministers in charge of the Tweed Circuit, to be Vice Pres.; Wm. Wright, Treas.; Wm. Wray, Sec.: L. Tuttle M. D., Depository. Committee: John Newton, W. J. Bowell, J. T. Reynolds and Joseph Elliott. Collectors: Miss Lydia Way, Mrs. Detlor, Miss M. J. Gordon, Miss Olivia Elliott, Miss Jennie Newton and Miss C. Porter.

Spread the Good News.

As a family medicine and tonic, there is no remedy at present giving such universal satisfaction, and effecting so many astonishing cures as Electric Bitters. Our druggists report a lively demand for them at times being unable to supply the many calls. All Billious Attacks, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Diabetes and Gravel, readily yield to their curative qualities. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

THE EASTERN CRISIS.—No further move has been made in the East. The Sultan is still convinced that the concert of the Powers will yet be broken, although his Ministers have all advised him to submit. The conditions insisted on by him that assurances be given that no naval demonstration be made in the future are regarded as preposterous.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

Serious Accident at the Rifle Range.

A Marker Dangerously Wounded.

About one o'clock this afternoon an accident of a very serious character occurred at the rifle ranges during the progress of the Association match at the 600 yards range.

From the statements of those who were on the ground, it appears that Sergeant George Frizone, of No. 2 Co. of the 15th Battalion, was acting as one of the markers. Sergeant Garratt and Bugler Brown were on the mound and one of them fired a few seconds after the other. A bullet hit the target, and Frizone went to ascertain where it had hit, when the second bullet struck him on the left side. The ball entered the back about the angle of the ninth rib, penetrating about nine inches. After receiving the wound Frizone ran southward toward the marksmen, and after going a short distance sat down. The attention of those present was drawn to him, and his situation being made known, medical attention was summoned and he was taken to his home at Pinnacle and Dundas Streets.

At this writing it has not been ascertained whether or not the injury is of a fatal character, but Drs. Burdett and Eakins will hold a consultation, when the character of the wound will be determined.

Garratt and Brown do not think either particular one the person who fired the unlucky shot, though some of the men assert that the latter was the person who caused the accident.

LATER.—The result of the consultation between Drs. Burdett and Eakins was that they came to the conclusion that the wounded man will probably recover.

Rifle Shooting.

The 15th R. A. at the Ranges.

The annual rifle matches of the 15th Battalion Rifle Association opened this morning over the usual ranges. The weather was pleasant, but a stiff air blew over the ranges from the north west and interfered considerably with the accuracy of the shooting. The officers and men appeared in uniform and as the sun shone brightly, the scarlet coat, the polished buttons and the smooth gun barrel dazzled the eye and made the scene attractive. The average shooting was below mediocrity, as the score atteste, but the figures of some of the marksmen show that there is good material in the Association.

The opening event was the Merchant's Match; ranges 200 and 500 yards; 5 shots at each range; the score of which is hereto appended;

	200 yds.	500 yds.	Total,
Lt. Rowe........	18	20	38
Pte. Donald........	16	15	31
Lt. Hastings........	13	15	28
Pte. Reddick........	15	11	26
Sergt. Soles........	15	11	26

Sergt. Ruttan........	15	8	23
Pte. Masson........	17	5	22
Pte. Vermilyea........	11	11	22
Sergt. Gerow........	15	5	20

NOTE.—The ties in the above record are yet to be decided.

At the conclusion of the above three cheers were called for and given for Lt. Rowe, the winner of the first prize.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

EXPORTS.—The value of the exports to the United States for the last quarter, as finished by the returns of Col. Twitchell, American Counsel at Kingston, presents a total of $156,-614.68 whilst the reports from Napanee, Gananoque, Picton and Mill Point made up an additional total of $170,938,27. The principal articles exported were varnish, grain, iron ore and lumber.

PHOSPHATE.—The Kingston Whig of the 6th says: "During the past week upwards of 80 tons of phosphate has been purchased by one firm here. Over 40 tons of this has been brought in on waggons from the Loborough district. The price has been reduced by 50 cents, to $10.50 per ton, a cablegram announcing the fall being received this morning.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Oct. 7th.—Reports from various parts of the kingdom show that considerable damage was done lately by heavy rains and floods.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—James Stephens, the founder of Fenianism, for whose person the English Government offered a reward of $25,-000, was discovered here yesterday destitute and starving. His immediate needs were supplied by a newspaper reporter.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Warrensburgh shoddy mill, occupied by Ryan & Co, was burned last night. Loss $13,000.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—J. K. Emmet, actor, has delirium tremens at the house of his sister here; his condition is very dangerous. Mrs. Emmet is now in New York, and has been summoned by telegraph to come at once if she wished to see her husband alive.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—A plot to release a large number of prisoners from the state prison at Concord was discovered yesterday and was frustrated.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—Camp & Walker's steam saw mill was burned last evening. Loss $75,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudly, rising temperature.

obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent attorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington; Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims, to the Officials of the U. S. Patent Office, and to Senators and Members of Congress from every State.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

☞ It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only natures simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

The Intelligencer FAMILY ALMANAC

FOR 1881,

Will Shortly be Published.

ANNUAL ILLUSTRATED ALMANAC.

THIS work will contain over sixty pages, handsomely printed on toned paper, with a large and varied budget of interesting and valuable general articles, attractive in style and handsomely illustrated.

In addition to the articles of general interest, it will contain a large amount of local information, of such a character as to make it of special value to every inhabitant of the County.

5,000 Copies

of this Almanac will be published, and gratuitously and judiciously distributed throughout the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, and City of Belleville,—thus rendering it one of the most valuable mediums for advertising ever presented to business men.

Certain pages will be devoted to advertising, at the following rates:

One page	$12.00
One half page	8.00
One third page	6.00
One fourth page	4.00

The attention of our business men is called to the desirability of placing their Business Cards in the family circle, where they will be preserved

THROUGHOUT THE COMING YEAR.

We are confident the shrewdest advertisers will find this Almanac a most valuable and economical medium for extending their business.

Business men who may not be waited upon, desirous of taking advantage of this opportunity of making money, can send their orders to the office of the

SUBSTITUTES!

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D.. Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I haye fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES,

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

OVER THE SEA

XXXVIII.

"What land is this that spreads itself beneath us? Italy! Italy! Land of the Madonna! How beautiful it is! it seems a garden of Paradise."

The descent from the pass, described in our former letter, is very wild and grand. What strange, unhappy looking beings we met on the road—women in deplorable condition — miserable objects imploring charity—men that look daggers at you and remind you of the stories you have read of mountain brigands; how strange, in so beautiful a country to see such poverty; how different from happy Switzerland. After passing a couple of small villages we came to the level road, and made good time from this till we reached the green waters at the head of lake Como. Being nearly dark when we approached Colico, there were millions of lights dancing on their bright sparks about the water, to the tinkling of the bells attached to our horse's collar, and the astonishing cracks of our postillion's long whip. Arriving at last in Colico, we drove up to a large, dismal looking place, more like a jail or fortress. We asked the driver if this was the best hotel in the place, and he answered in the affirmative. We found out afterwards that it was not. The carriage had scarcely stopped before it was surrounded by a lot of brigandish-looking characters who closed in around us, and made retreat impossible. We were about to start in quest of another hotel, when the huge iron gate was slammed to behind us, making retreat impossible. After remaining a few moments alone in a dark subterranean passage, a stout old woman came with a lamp in her hand, very like a cream jug. "Parlo Italiano" I she asked. My friend answered in the affirmative, and they arranged respecting our accommodation, after which she showed us up a dreary staircase with solid stone steps, wide enough for a coach and four to ascend, into a large, cheerless dining hall. After a short time, she brought us some sour bread and musty tea, that we left untouched, and retired to our bedroom, trusting to Providence for the morrow. The bedroom looked like a chamber of the Inquisition, as my friend told the old lady who showed us the way,—walls about three feet thick, large iron bars on the windows, in the middle, fastened by a large crossbar and immense iron lock. Opposite to each other were our stretchers, and in a corner a huge washstand that looked like an instrument of torture. The old lady pointed out a large mark on the uncarpeted door, stained by the blood of a man assassinated on the spot. This, of course, added to the attractions of the place, in our estimation. We were a little dubious of anything happening to us before morning, and on retiring put a stretcher against each of the two doors leading into the room, and were soon in the arms of Morpheus. Thus terminated one of the most exciting day's travel I have yet experienced.

We left Colico by steamer for Lecco, at 6 a. m. next morning. The sail down lake Como—grandest of all lakes—was most delightful. The scenery we should not attempt to describe, suffice it to say it far exceeded in beauty anything we had pictured in our imaginations. All along the lake are picturesque little Italian towns, with the Alps rising up close behind them, forming beautiful background. Changing boats at Bellagio, a most enchanting spot, we sailed down the east arm of the lake of Lecco. Having breakfasted on board the boat we took the train immediately for

VERONA,

A beautiful old city, with its Roman gates still spanning the streets and casting on the sunlight of to-day the shade of fifteen hundred years ago. Its marble-faced churches lofty towers, rich architecture, and quaint old quiet thoroughfares render it an imposing city. Verona still retains the mighty Roman amphitheatre, a spirit of old time among the familiar realities of the passing hour, so well preserved and so carefully maintained that every row of seats is there unbroken. Over certain of the arches the old Roman numerals may yet be seen. There are also corridors, and staircases, and subterranean passes for beasts, and winding ways, above ground and below, as when the fierce thousands hurried in and out, intent upon the bloody shows of the arena. Nestling in some of the shadows and hollow places of the wall, now, are smiths with their forges, and a few small dealers of one kind or other; and there are green weeds and long leaves and grass upon the parapet. But little else is greatly changed.'

At the garden of Orfanotrofio, a short distance off, those interested in the lovers, Romeo and Juliet, may stand over their sepulchre—a disused marble washing trough by the garden wall, placed there in 1850. The previous sepulchres of the unhappy lovers having been removed in chips by confiding relic hunters. North from the Amphitheatre, is the Piazza delle Erbe, the ancient Forum, and now the picturesque MARKET PLACE, with its ancient frescoed houses, its fountain and tall clock tower, both erected in about 1360, and the marble pillar erected by the Venetians for the Lion and St. Mark, which was thrown down at the death of the Venetian Republic, standing above the huge white umbrellas of the market women. One of the beauties of Verona is the Guisti Gardens, which rise terrace upon terrace and contain monstrous cypress trees, said to have been planted three hundred years ago. Leaving Verona, we proceeded by train to

VENICE.

Six hundred years ago this old city, situated at the head of the Adriatic, was the autocrat of commerce; her mart was the great commercial centre, the distributing warehouse from whence the enormous trade of the Orient was distributed over the western world. To-day her piers are all deserted, her warehouses are empty, her merchant fleets are vanished, her armies and navies, of which we all read in history, are but memories of past ages. Her glory is departed; and with her crumbling grandeur of wharves and palaces about her she sits among her stagnant canals, forlorn and beggared, almost forgotten by the world.

She that in her palmy days commanded the commerce of a hemisphere, and made the weal or woe of nations with a beck of her finger, is become the humblest of cities—a peddler of glass beads for women, and trifling toys and trinkets for children.

The city is built upon 72 islands, connected by nearly 400 bridges, and yet is so arranged that nearly all of it may be travelled on foot. Its interests are now centred in the great

ST. MARK'S CATHEDRAL.

Come with us and view the building. We are now on the steps of the piazza, in front of the clock tower, where the signs of the zodiac serve for numerals, a sun is the pointer, and those two bronze Vulcans strike the hour on that big bell.

Before us are the famous columns—that on the right bearing the winged lion, that on the left St. Theodorus with his crocodile, who was the patron saint of Venice before the body of St. Mark was found and the greater claim set up. Above are the four famous bronze horses brought from Constantinople after the first crusade. A door on the left leads into the church. Out of the deep twilight opens a vast cave, hewn out into the form of a cross, and divided into shadowy aisles by many pillars. Round the domes of its roof the light enters only through narrow apertures like large stars; and here and there a ray or two from some far away casement wanders into the darkness, and casts a narrow phosphoric stream upon the waves of marble that heave and fall in a thousand colors along the floor. What else there is of light is from torches or silver lamps, burning ceaselessly in the recesses of the chapels; the roof sheeted with bronze, and the polished walls covered with alabaster, give back at every curve and angle some feeble gleaming of the flames; and the glories round the heads of the sculptured saints flash out upon us as we pass them, and sink again to gloom. Under foot and overhead a continual succession of crowded imagery. The mazes of interwoven lines and changegful figures lead always at last to the Cross, lifted and carved in every place and upon every stone. In the recesses of the aisles and chapels, where the mist of the incense hangs heavily, we may see continually a figure traced in faint lines upon their marble, a woman standing with her eyes raised to heaven; and the inscription above her, "Mother of God."

Under the high altar stand the supposed relics of St. Mark. The Venetians are said to have possessed themselves of this body in the ninth century, which according to tradition was carried off from Alexandra by two sea captains. In the Treasury there are many precious relics and a rich collection of Byzantine work. You cannot stay too long in St. Mark's. Fascinating as it is, it is also overpowering; and the bright sunshine calls you out into the Piazza, where the glossy pigeons flock under your feet, eat out of your hand, perch on your shoulders, fight for a place on your arms, if you will buy a pennyworth of seed to feast among themselves. It is part of the pleasantness of Venetian life to feed the pigeons in the Piazza; and an experience worth recording when the swish of their wings comes cleaving through the stillness, and the whole air is filled by the multitude that fly down every point and corner, from every balcony and wall-band, roof and window, sill and shutter—wherever indeed their little feet can find a resting-place.

From St. Mark's the Doge's Palace is entered by the Porta della Casta at its side. This palace contains a large collection of old school paintings. From the Palace to the gloomy prison is but a step—one might almost jump across the narrow canal that intervenes. The ponderous stone Bridge of Sighs crosses it at the second story—a bridge that is a covered tunnel—you cannot be seen while walking in it. It is partitioned off into narrow cells, each one compartment walked such as bore light sentences in ancient times,—and through the other marched sadly the wretches who were doomed to lingering misery in utter oblivion in the dungeons, or to sudden and mysterious death.

Dickens in his description of it which I cannot do better than quote, says:

"I descended from the cheerful day into two ranges, one below another, of dismal, awful, horrible stone cells. They were quite dark. Each had a loophole in its massive wall, where, in the old time, every day, a torch was placed to light the prisoner within for half an hour. The captives, by the glimmering of these brief rays, had scratched out inscriptions in the blackened vaults. I saw them. For their labor with a rusty nail's point had outlived their agony and them, through generations. One cell and then, through generations. One cell and I saw, in which no man remained for more than four-and-twenty hours; being marked for dead before he entered it. A hard by, another, and a dismal one, whereto, at midnight, the confessor came—a monk brown-robed, and hooked—ghastly in the day and free bright air, but in the middle night of that murky prison, Hope's extinguisher, and Murder's herald. I had my foot upon the spot where, at the same dread hour, the shrivel corner was strangled, and struck my hand up in the guilty door—low-browed and stealthy—through which the lumpish sack was hurled out into the boat, and rowed away, and drowned where it was death to cast a net. Around this dungeon stronghold, and above some part of it (linking the rough walls without, and smearing them with damn and slime within; stuffing dank weeds and rotten stinks and crevices, as if the very stones and bars had mouths to stop; furnishing a smooth road for the removal of the bodies of the street victims of the state—a road so ready that it went along with them and ran before them, like a cruel officer—flowed the water."

The principal street worth special mention is the "Grand Canal." On each side of it rise grand old palaces of the finest architectural perfection. Most of the other streets are dirty and dingy. The most interesting sights as to a stranger are to be seen on the canals and lagoons.

Maine Beet Root Sugar.

The Treasurer of the Portland Beet Sugar Works, writes as follows:—"Last year we worked 9,000 tons of beets into 900 tons of sugar and molasses, which we sold for over $110,000 and realized a moderate profit over and above the State bounty. This year we hope and expect to work more beets and to make more sugar than last year. October 10th, we shall hope to be turning out at least 15 tons or 30,000 pound of sugar daily. The only difficulty we have found here in New England is to get enough beets raised to make an extensive and profitable business. Last year, farmers, who had good land in good order, and who took good care of their beet crops, averaged over $100 cash returns per acre. They did better than any other staple crop. This year we think they will raise larger crops of beets, with less labor and expense. So far from feeling discouraged, therefore, we are going into this year's campaign with the hope and expectation of converting an interesting agricultural experiment into a permanent business."

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 8.

The Revenue.

The returns of the revenue for the first quarter of the current fiscal year have been given to the public with commendable promptitude, and the result proves to be entirely satisfactory. The July returns showed an increase of $599,541.14 over the same month of last year; August followed with an increase of $837,799.28; and September succeeds with $693,165. The whole increase in the first quarter of 1880-1 over the corresponding period of 1879-80 is thus no less than $2,130,505.42. The intrease over the same period of 1878-79 is $1,977,795, a fact which disposes most effectually of the wild assertions of some of the Grit organs that with the increase in the rate of duties there had occurred a decline in revenue.

The figures for the first quarter of the past three years compare as follows:—

	1878.	1879.	1880.
Customs.......	$3,132,745	$3,313,015	$4,732,623
Excise........	1,053,903	812,945	1,238,298
Other sources..	1,001,147	909,128	1,194,669
	$5,187,795	$5,035,086	$7,165,590

It is thus almost certain that the estimate of revenue which was made by the Finance Minister, and which the Opposition professed to consider as being much too sanguine, will be more than realized. Sir Leonard Tilley estimated the revenue of the current fiscal year at $25,517,000, but if the present rate of increase be kept up, it seems probable that the receipts will amonnt to two and a half millions more. With a buoyant revenue, with a great increase in manufacturing and all other branches of industry, with relief from the temporary burden of the construction of the Pacific Railway, there is every reason to look forward to a bright and prosperous future for the country.

Political Notes.

INDEPENDENCE AND ANNEXATION.

The Ottawa Free Press expresses astonishment that "not a single Conservative paper in Canada denounces Mr. Goldwin Smith for preaching Annexation, nor the Toronto Telegram for advocating Independence." The two kinds of folly referred to have so few adherents in Canada—beyond a few malcontents who adhere to the Grit party—that they are scarcely worth powder, otherwise the subject would receive a due share of attention from the Conservative press. But why don't the Grit press debate the subject? It would be quite as profitable as vain assaults on the N. P. and on the Government's policy generally.

PRODUCER AND CONSUMER.

Says the London Advertiser: "It should never be forgotten that the consumer is the person whose interests should be consulted in Canada. Till the whole condition of the country is changed, the vast majority of the people of the Dominion must be consumers rather than producers of manufactured articles." This is true—to a certain extent. But the Advertiser can hardly have failed to note that, by the operation of the N. P., the country is rapidly being converted into a producer as well as a consumer of manufactured articles. And best of all, the consumers—meaning we suppose the classes not engaged in manufacturing—have not suffered by the change in our commercial policy.

CONTRACT BROKERAGE.

The Mail offers the following sensible suggestions:—"The Opposition papers have tried and convicted the Conservatives implicated by the revelations before the Pacific Railway Commission; and are now hard at work defending Mr. Thomas Nixon and other Reformers on whom the evidence bears hard. Would it not be well to wait until the accused have been heard in self-defence, and then to condemn the guilty without respect of persons or politics? The course these journals are pursuing shows that they have no desire to condemn contract brokering and other corruption, except when committed by a political opponent. Let everybody have a chance to speak in his own defence, and then let the guilty suffer alike."

BETTER TIMES.

The Grit papers are every day chronicling the return of better times, but they invariably say that the good times are coming "in spite of the N. P." says the Moncton Times. Now, what kept the "good times" away in the days of Mr. Mackenzie? Was it not the lack of confidence, which deterred people from investing their money, thus shutting off work for the masses, which in turn diminished the market for all classes of goods? The N. P. restored confidence. It has led directly to the investment of some millions of dollars in productive, labor-employing enterprises. And still the N. P. is an affliction, and the people are getting prosperous "in spite of it!" We fancy, however, that the people do not care very much, so long as the prosperity puts in its appearance. They had been going down hill so long that they were in a position to receive small favors in a thankful spirit, and they now acknowledge the efforts of the Government to aid them by expressing satisfaction with their administration of affairs at every available opportuntiy.

NORTH HASTINGS FAIR.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

A GOOD SHOW.

The annual Exhibition of the North Hastings Agricultural Society was held at Garners, Township of Huntingdon, on Thursday, October 7th. It was a bright, beautiful October day, the air balmy, fresh and invigorating, the sun shining out warmly; and the roads being in good condition, the attendance was very numerous. From all parts of Huntingdon, and from Rawdon and Stirling there was a large representation, and Madoc and Marmora furnished a considerable number of visitors. The Show was necessarily somewhat scattered, the Society having no suitable buildings or grounds for its use. The Cattle were in one field, the Horses, Sheep, Swine and Poultry in another—the Roots and Vegetables and Grain were found in an old building not far from the hotel—while the ball room connected with the hotel was utilised for the exhibition of Domestic Manufactures, Dairy produce, and Fruit. As it was, there was not sufficient room to make a proper display of the very large exhibit made in some of the departments, particularly of Domestic Manufactures, aud Roots and Vegetables and Grain, and these were seen at considerable disadvantage. The Show as a whole, however, was a very creditable one,—in many respects far ahead of that of last year, and outrivalling in several of the departments the exhibition of the West Hastings Fair.

In the Domestic Manufactures there was a very large and fine display of home-made flannel, carpets, rugs, quilts, coverlets, mitts, socks, &c., while in the fancy and ornamental department, there was some excellent designs in crochet work, laces, Berlin wool work, capes, raised work, &c., showing rare taste and some very fine and delicate needlework. Indeed it would be difficult to find at any of our County Shows, a great variety or a finer display of work in this department than was exhibited by the fair daughters of the North Riding.

Of Fruit, there was a small display of apples and pears, the specimens of both being, however, very choice, and of grapes and melons, there were a few samples.

The Dairy department was well represented, there being over thirty lots of choice butter, of such even merit as to render it difficult for the judges to decide which should have the preference. Of honey and maple sugar there were several samples.

In Roots and Vegetables the North has generally excelled the productions of the South, and this year the display in this department was far ahead both in quantity and quality of that of the West Hastings Fair. Several varieties of very fine potatoes were exhibited, but the choicest specimens were those of the Early Vermont and the Snow Flake, which seem to have been the favorites with most of the exhibitors. There were some choice table beets and carrots, huge mangels, mammoth squash and pumpkins, large solid cabbage, immense turnips and a great variety of other roots.

In Grain and Seeds there was the largest and finest exhibition ever made at the North Hastings Fair, there being no less than 150 bags of different varieties, while of corn there were no less than 60 lots, some of which would have compared favorably with the best shown at the Provincial Exhibition.

The show of Cattle was comparatively meagre, though there were a few head of Durhams and Ayrshires and a number of grades in good condition.

Poultry was represented by a few turkeys, geese, ducks, and chickens.

Of Sheep there was the largest and finest show of Cotswolds and Leicesters ever seen at a North Hastings Fair, some of the former comprising a number of yearlings brought from the Guelph Model Farm by the Messrs. Taylor. Both as to number and quality the show was far ahead of that at Belleville.

There were only a few lots of Swine, chiefly of the Berkshire breed.

Of Horses, there was a good show, particularly of carriage beasts, and brood mares with foal and yearlings.

A number of lumber wagons, democrats and open and top buggies were exhibited, principally from the manufactories of Mr. Chas. Ashley, of Foxboro, and of Mr. Wm. Hudson, of Roslin.

Mr. John Graham, of the Stirling Foundry, had a number of steel ploughs, which it will be seen by the prize list carried off premiums. Mr. J. G. Foster exhibited a field cultivator, a plough, harrow and corn cultivator, and Mr. John Robinson had on the ground one of Watson's reapers. There were a number of mowers and reapers, rakes and other agricultural implements, but the names of the exhibitors we were unable to learn.

Take it altogether the exhibition was a very creditable one, and one of the most successful ever held by the North Hastings Agricultural Society. It is to be hoped that steps will soon be taken to have suitable buildings erected and grounds secured for the future exhibitions of this Society.

The following is the FISHERIES.—A telegram from Ottawa on the 7th says:—"In the Exchequer Court this morning judgment in the case of Robertson vs. the Queen, the fishery lease case, was given. The main question involved in the case was the right of the Dominion to issue fishery licenses. The judge contended that the Dominion Parliament had full control over the regulation of the sea coast and island fisheries. His Lordship also contended that the owners of the soil had the right of fishing in inland rivers above the ebb and flow of the tide, but that the public had the right of fishing in the sea and in the bays and arms of the sea. His Lordship afterwards went into the merits of the particular case before him and answered several questions which the parties of the case had agreed to submit."

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

DUBLIN, Oct. 8.—The proceedings at the reception of the landlords by the Lord-Lieutenant were strictly private, as the landlords present had statements to make which they would not venture to make in public. Some said they were themselves in danger of assassination in consequence of the Land League agitation, others pointed out persons in the room whose lives were in imminent peril, and still others told the Lord-Lieutenant they might not get home alive.

AMERICAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8th.—J. Evans, who arrived yesterday from Sidney, was arrested for extradition, charged with forgery to the amount of $40,000; $37,000 was recovered.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The through western train for Boston last night, near Littleton collided with some freight cars on a side track. Enos Varny, of Charlestown, master car builder of the road, and Mr. Falconer, of Ayer Junction, were terribly crushed and instantly killed. Tompkins, Charlestown, with his wife and mother-in-law, were seriously injured. Several others were injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Arrived Neckar from Breman, Silesia from Hamburg.

Eliza McBride, aged 13 years, fell into a cistern at Astoria; the mother jumped in to rescue the child. The child was drowned, and the mother is not expected to recover.

In the base-ball match, yesterday, the Metropolitans scored 12; Worcesters 6.

Five seamen suffering from supposed yellow fever, have been admitted to the Quarantine Hospital.

The jury in the inquest on the Hudson River tunnel disaster, at Jersey City, rendered a verdict that the tunnel company are not to blame.

The epizootic is rapidly decreasing here.

The Herald's Indianapolis special says the Republican state committee has published a strong warning to alleged organized gangs of repeaters from other states, that they must leave Indiana or suffer the punishment provided by law.

The World's Charleston, S. C., says the Democratic state committee adopted a resolution endorsing Hancock's letter on war claims.

Ex-Gov. Bullock telegraphs to the Tribune from Atlanta, Ga., that the campaign just closed establishes the fact that a large majority of the voters of Georgia accept in good faith and abide by the results of war, and are opposed to political proscription.

FRANKLIN FURNACE, N. J., Oct. 8.—Malarial diseases are so numerous that there are not enough well people in the village to nurse the sick. Most of the male population is idle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The Tribune prints a private letter purporting to come from an army officer in Hancock's confidence, alleging that Hancock since his nomination has twice exhibited symptoms of apoplexy. The letter is dated Governor's Island, Sept. 28th, but the writer's name is withheld.

DOUBLING THE GRAND TRUNK TRACK.—The question of doubling the Grand Trunk track between Montreal and Toronto is again being mooted. Mr. Joseph Hickson, whose mission to England is supposed to have some connection with this matter, in answer to a communication from the Mayor of Kingston, stated that "the matter is now under consideration, and that the views of the citizens of Kingston will receive attention whenever any action in the matter is decided upon; but if the representatives of the city really desire to see a change brought about they should place themselves in a position definitely to state what conditions they could hold out to the Company in the proposed changes, as a very large expense would be necessary to make the proposed alterations." "We may add," says the Kingston Whig, "that the changes referred to are the proposed removal of work shops from other places to Kingston."

THE REASON WHY!

—o—

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities :—Lakes: Moderate to fresh winds, mostly southerly to easterly, fine warmer weather.

THE CENTRAL FAIR.—The attendance at the Kingston Central Fair on Wednesday was unfavorable affected by frequent showers during the afternoon. Amongst the local exhibitors are Messrs. G. & J. Brown, who show a fanning mill.

A GIANT PEAR.—A specimen of fruit in the shape of a pear of the Duchesse de Angoulem variety has been placed on our table by Mr. William Jones, gardener for Alexander Brown Esq. The pear weighed 16½ ounces, and is a beauty in size and appearance.

THE AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.—Mr. J. W. Johnson, of the Ontario Business College, this morning received a summons to attend before the Agricultural Commission to give evidence in respect of Agricultural education and accounts. The meeting is to be held in the Council Chamber on Monday, the 18th inst., at 10 a. m. This is a notable compliment to Mr. Johnson and to the college as well, as he is the only expert in that line who is to testify before the Commission.

WARNING.—The Picton Times says : "Mr. Hamilton of Belleville, Collector of Inland Revenue for this district, paid a visit to Picton on Tuesday for the purpose of warning dealers against a violation of the law which requires them to remove all traces of revenue stamps from empty or partially empty boxes of cigars or packages of tobacco or snuff. We referred to this provision of the act of last session at the time it came in force and the collector, though only warning dealers on this visit, announces that he will have to see after this that the provisions of the act are strictly enforced. Hotel keepers and others who deal in cigars, tobacco and snuff will do well to take warning."

ASTRONOMICAL.—The sky at night during this month is very beautiful. The planets appear very large. Jupiter is near the earth, and will not appear so large again during our decade. He is almost at his nearest point to our world. The able astronomer of the Providence Journal mentions Western snows, malaria and large meteors as incidents that may have something to do with the nearness of Jupiter to the earth and the sun. Saturn, too, is comparatively near the earth, but his brightness is not quite so conspicuous as it would be if Jupiter were not his great rival. Both planets are moving south. Meteors and Northern Lights may now be looked for.

THE RAILWAY DISPUTE.—The Peterborough Review of the 7th says :—"The Midland Company have completed thel line over the disputed territory, and today the first train backed down from Auburn. They have already taken up to Auburn and switched on to the main line several car loads of Mr. J. Z. Rogers' lumber, which was piled near the track. There is no prospect of a settlement at present between the two companies, and as the Grand Junction Company have to run a train in to Peterborough, before they can claim the Belleville and County bonuses, it is altogether probable that some arrangement will be made between the two. A report has been in circulation throughout the town for some days, to the effect that the Grand Junction was to reach town by building a bridge below the locks, at the place first proposed. Upon making inquiries we could not find out anything that would sustain the rumor, beyond the fact that a G. J. R. engineer had surveyed such a line."

THE CANADIAN MONTHLY.—Our National Magazine, the Canadian Monthly, for October, opens with an historical paper of much interest on 'Annapolis Royal and the Expatriation of the Acadians,' from the pen of Mr. Arthur Harvey, of Toronto. The other papers of importance in the number are Mr. Thomas Hodgins' dissertation on 'The Prerogative of the Crown in Colonial Legislation ;' Mr. Manigault's article entitled 'What is Money ?' and Mr. E. Lafleur's enquiry into 'The Principle of Copyright.' These papers, which form the back-bone of the number, are varied in their interest and thoughtful in their treatment. Of lighter articles, the two stories 'Clinker,' and 'In the Shadow of Death,' will be found exceedingly readable, while the paper on 'Eccentricities of a Boarding-House' will also be found entertaining and amusing. The remaining papers include the fourth series of the report of the meetings of 'The Toronto Girls' Coterie,' and an article on 'The Marvels of Scientific Logic'—the latter a clever arraignment of the so-called triumphs of Materialistic Evolution. The poetical department of the magazine, as usual, is well maintained. 'Remember me,' 'The Return of Aphrodite,' 'A Love Idyl,' The Legend of St. Hilda's Bells,' and 'The Gane-awa'-Land,' being all meritorious productions. 'Round the Table' gossip of a variety of matters of general interest, while the 'Critical Department' has some admirable reviews of books—the only source in Canadian literature in which criticism has done justice to it. 'Literary Notes,' and 'Bric-a-brac' close a capital number of the Magazine, which we heartily commend to our readers.

THE CELLS.—There was but one signature on the register of the police station last night—that of a drunk.

THE ACCIDENT.—George Frizone, the victim of the accident at the rifle range yesterday, passed a restless night, and this morning was reported very weak. His condition is considered by his friends to be critical. Dr. Burdett is still confident that the man will recover.

NEW SIDEWALK.—A sidewalk is now in process of construction, on the south side of the Kingston road, and will extend for a considerable distance east of the city limits. It will doubtless be well appreciated by those living along the road, as it will be of great convenience to them when coming to the city.

BAD SIDEWALKS.—Belleville is not the only place which has bad sidewalks. The Kingston Whig of the 7th says :—"While Mrs. McCarthy was proceeding to the Fair with her husband a loose board in the sidewalk flew up and tripped her. Her arm was fractured by the fall. She was placed in a street car and taken home. Numerous other accidents are reported as the result of defective boardwalks."

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Legal Literary Society.

A well-attended meeting of Barristers and members of the Law Society was held on Wednesday evening, at the office of Blair & Hough, for the purpose of organizing a Society, for the study of the law and for cognate objects. The following officers were elected :

President, Thomas Holden, Esq., P. M.
1st Vice Pres., John J. B. Flint, Esq.
2nd Vice Pres., John W. Williams, Esq.
Secretary, W. R. Riddell, Esq., L. L. B.
Executive Committee, Messrs. Hough, Porter and Carroll.

It is intended to hold meetings every Wednesday evening during the winter, and the prospects are fair that the society will prove a useful and interesting institution. All who are engaged in legal pursuits are invited to become members.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

FRIDAY, Oct. 8.

OBSTRUCTING STREET.

Mr. Jellett, lessee of the ferry, charged Downey & Preston with obstructing the passage of vehicles to and from the ferry by leaving cars standing on the railway siding in front of their elevator. The case was adjourned till Monday next.

Marine.

There were no arrivals and no departures up to noon to-day.

Vessels are needed here for the transportation of grain, the elevators on the east side of the river being now well filled.

Rifle Shooting.

The 15th R. A. at the Ranges.

At the conclusion of the Merchants Match yesterday morning the prizes for the Association Match were competed for. The ranges were 400 and 500 yards, five shots at each range. Lieut. Rowe, the winner of the first prize in the preceding contest—was the victor in this and thus made the highest aggregate score.

Appended are the total scores :—

Lieut. Rowe	33
Pte. Pope	27
Bugl. Brown	25
Pte. Donald	23
Lieut. Hastings	21
Pte, Peck	19
Pte. Masson	18
Sergt. Soules	18

2nd, Pte. Donald, Medal	54

The competition for the Company Challenge Cup of the 15th Batt. opened this morning shortly after nine o'clock and closed at 1:30 p. m. Only three companies of the battalion were represented, and the victory rested with the team of No 1 Co., who led the score at each successive stage of the match. The ranges were 200, 500 and 600 yards, 5 shots at each range. The following is the score :—

NO. 1 COMPANY.

As will be seen by the above, No. 1 Company were the victors by 102 points over No. 2 and 114 over No. 4. At the termination of this match the several members of the winning team were presented by Capt. Biggar with a badge bearing the figures 1880, and with this event the meeting came to a close.

Echoes from the Depot.

The express train from the west, due here at 12:01 p.m., was forty minutes late to-day.

Hodgson & Son shipped seven cars of cheese to Montreal this afternoon for the European market.

One of the large six wheeled engines stationed at this depot brought in 25 loaded cars to this station this morning.

Trotting at the Track.

The race for named horses took place at the bay side track yesterday afternoon and was fairly attended. The trotting of course was not very fast, and what little running was indulged in did not materially benefit any of the contestants.

Of the eight entries four came to the post and the race was won in an equal number of heats. There was as usual a little "jockeying" shown, but it was of little or no avail. The race was won by John Gauthier's roan gelding, which took the first, third and fourth heats ; F. Gauthier's entry was second.

After the above race Dr. Allen's roan, H. Rankins' black, and W. Hunter's sorrel horse had a brush, which was easily won by the last named. At the conclusion of this event Gauthier's roan made an effort to beat 3:10, and the trial resulted in the announcement that the task had been completed in 3:08½. This led to a little unpleasantness, after which all interested returned home.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test ZOPESA, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&wly

Stirling Correspondence.

THURSDAY, Oct. 7th, 1880.

The village the last couple of days somewhat resembled the rush of grain in the days of Mr. Baker, twenty years ago. Tulloch & Haggerty received on Tuesday about 6,000 bushels of grain and Stickles about half this quantity, and on Wednesday the elevator gentlemen received about half their Tuesday's receipts, but I am informed that the bottom has fallen out of the barley market, which has put a damper on its sale. Rye, however, is as good as gold. It is the principal grain marketing just now.

One of our old landmarks, in the person of Mr. Edward Rosebush, died on Wednesday morning at his farm.

A. G. Scott has commenced laying the brick on his new building, which, when finished, will add to the appearance of the old corner, as well also as giving him extra room, which he much needs.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was entirely unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst ; took away the appetite for liquor ; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

Bloomfield Notes.

The first fair of Prince Edward County was held at Bloomfield on Saturday, October 2nd, on behalf of the Township of Hallowell. The day was all that could be desired, and quite a crowd gathered together to celebrate the occasion, and to display their grand turnouts, fine clothes &c. The show was quite meagre (so to speak.) There was a fair display of carriages and horses, the colts were far below the usual display. The exhibit of cows was rather slim. Mr. B. Story showed three blood calves from the Model Farm, which attracted much attention. Mr. Calhoun also exhibited a very fair herd of cows. The sheep and swine were hardly worth commenting upon. The vegetables were very fair, but few in number, and not many varieties, and the display of fruit was rather small.

There was quite a display of fine art in the hall, but not as good as preceding years. Mr. S. Parliament was there with his spring-tooth harrow, which seemed to take with those engaged in the honest work of the soil. Mr. Bowerman also exhibited quite a novelty in the way of a farmer's gate, which can be opened and shut without troubling the occupant of the vehicle to leave the seat. It also attracted much attention.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held a bazaar on the same day, and quite a nice little sum was realized.

The section men are busily engaged levelling the track of the P. E. Co. R. R., which work was very much needed, for you will scarcely hear a person who has been over the road without commenting on the roughness of it.

Some farmers in this vicinity have been saved the trouble of removing their stock of corn from the barn to the crib, for some kind friend done it for them, but they did not stop to the crib, that's all.

Mr. Casey, the well known temperance lecturer, gave a very good discourse on his favorite subject, to a large audience on Monday evening last.

Mr. Platt, our School Inspector, has paid visits to our two schools and reported fair progress in each, which speaks well for the teachers in charge. He advises the trustees of No. 6 to procure some assistance in their school, for he thinks Mr. White can hardly do justice to the number he has in charge. His average is now 55 to 60, and of all grades, which is too many for one teacher.

Spread the Good News.

As a family medicine and tonic, there is no remedy at present giving such universal satisfaction, and effecting so many astonishing cures as Electric Bitters. Our druggists report a lively demand for them at times being unable to supply the many calls. All Billious Attacks, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Diabetes and Gravel, readily yield to their curative qualities. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Tweed Notes.

There was shipped at Crookston Station on Thursday, two thousand five hundred bushels of barley. Under Mr. Easterbrook's superintendence everthing is going on well.

Stop that Cough.

If you are suffering with a Cough, Cold, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Consumption, loss of voice, tickling in the throat, or any affection of the Throat or Lungs, use DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption. This is the great remedy that is causing so much excitement by its wonderful cures, curing thousands of hopeless cases. Over one million bottles of DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY have been used within the last year, and have given perfect satisfaction in every instance. We can unhesitatingly say that this is really the only sure cure for throat and lung affections, and can cheerfully recommend it to all. Call and get a trial bottle for ten cents, or a regular size for $1.00. Jas. Clarke & Co.

MARRIED,

In Belleville, on Thursday, the 7th inst., by the Rev. J. H. Locke, Miss ELIZABETH MCAW, to Mr. J. H. DUFFIELD, all of Belleville.

DIED.

At M doc on Friday, the 8th inst., CHARLES WESLEY, son of JOHN FRANCIS, County Surveyor, aged 8 years, 6 months and 8 days.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Oct. 8. 1880.

Grain buyers are still disagreeing and farmers are reaping the benefit.

The opening of the West Belleville Elevator has caused a keen competition, much to the benefit of the seller.

Barley is brisk to-day with 60c offered for good quality, but with the keen competition considerable sold up to 65c. and in one case for an extra bright sample we saw 67c offered.

In New York, yesterday, barley was quoted heavy, with sales from 83c. to 95c., for No. 1 bright Canada, and in Oswego, yesterday, barley was quoted in fair demand, with sales up to 88½c. for No. 1 bright Canada.

Rye is also in brisk demand to-day, at 85c., in some cases as high as 86c, and for some 87c, has been paid, which is certainly an extreme price, as Rye is only quoted at 80c. in Toronto, and 90c. in bond in Oswego, and 96c. to 98c. in bond at New York. Receipts of grain by the local railways up to the present date, amounts to 152 car loads.

THE ASSIZES.

In the case reported yesterday, "Sovereign Fire Ins. Co."—verdict for plt'ff, $990.

TREADWAY vs. MCCREADY.—Action on an account. Referred to A. G. Northrup.—Clute & McMullen for pl'ff ; Flint & Jellett for deft.

PAVLIS vs. PRINCE EDWARD FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.—Action on an interim receipt for insurance, policy never reached plff. An important question as to effect of contract under the receipt. Deft's contending policy with usual conditions was issued and sent to the plff, and conditions have not been filled by plff. Verdict for plff for $771.25.—Dickson & Clute for plff; Wallbridge and Allison for deft.

BAILEY vs. LEONARD.—Action for damages for malicious arrest. Parties live near each other in Marmora. Dispute arose as to line. Plff. removed rail fence from the line to his own place. Deft. had him arrested for stealing the rails. Verdict for plff. for $75.—Dickson and Clute for plff ; Wallbridge for deft.

Sporting Notes.

Hanlan continues to practice steadily on the Thames. The betting is largely in his favor.

The London Times thinks Laycock, the Australian, showed very poor form in his match with Blackman.

The yatch Dauntless has been stripped and will now be laid up for the rest of the season. She will either be rebuilt or replaced with a new one of about the same tonnage.

The Hop Bitters man is said to want five Englishmen hand five Americans to compete in his race over the Thames on the 22nd prox.

The Longwoods, of Boston Mass., were defeated on Monday last, on their own grounds, by the St. George Club, of New York. The Longwoods made 80 and the New Yorkers 151.

The Picton yachts, both of first and second class, raced on Thursday last for a champion flag in each class. The Mocking Bird and Iris were the starters in the first class and the former won, the latter snapping her bobstay. In the second class there were three starters. The Flora won by three minutes ; Ida second, whilst the Blackbird upset. The day was cold and stormy.

The Picton races take place to-day and Saturday.

St. Julien will trot against time at Prospect Park, New York, on the 14th instant for a purse of $2,000.

The Toronto Lacrosse Club, champions, have commenced practice for the next match with the Shamrocks, which takes place on the 23rd instant. The Shamrocks are also preparing for the fray.

The Chicago base ball club has won the League championship, this year, winning 67 games out of 84 played. Nearly all the other League clubs have lost from $1,000 to $4,000, while the Chicagoes have a balance on hand of $12,000 after paying all expenses.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.— The Mail says: "We understand that the representatives of the French, German and English capitalists interested in the prosecution of the work have left Frankfort, Paris and London for New York and for Ottawa, where they may be expected to arrive in the course of ten days or so. They will remain Ottawa, we believe, till the details of the scheme of railway construction are settled with the Government. The utmost expedition will no doubt be desired by both the Government and the syndicate and the details may there be expected to be settled as speedily as the gravity of the work will permit. Meantime the public will be satisfied with knowing that from day to day the business of the negotiations will be going on under the eyes of the whole cabinet. The business has now reached a point of perfect agreement, wanting little to make it complete and that little will soon be supplied."

THE BIDDULPH TRAGEDY.—In the Biddulph trial yesterday the case for the defence was begun. An endeavor was made to set up an alibi, one Thompson, a Biddulph farmer, and his wife swearing that Carrol slept at their house on the night of the murders, while the boy O'Connor swears he saw him at the Donnelly homestead at the time of the murder ; and Wm. Donnelly testifies that he saw him among the crowd outside his house when his brother John was shot.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

CUSTOM HOUSE BLANKS.

A FULL STOCK constantly on hand this office.

Daily Intelligencer.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only natures simple remedies for all your ailments you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness.

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick headache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

THE BEST PAPER! TRY IT!

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

35th YEAR.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the new inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discount to Agents. Single copies, ten cents. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

Patents.

In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. MUNN & Co., are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 35 years experience, and now have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all Inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained, by writing to MUNN & Co. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints for procuring advances on inventions. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents.

FOR 1881,

Will Shortly be Published.

ANNUAL ILLUSTRATED ALMANAC.

THIS work will contain over sixty pages, handsomely printed on toned paper, with a large and varied budget of interesting and valuable general articles, attractive in style and handsomely illustrated.

In addition to the articles of general interest, it will contain a large amount of local information, of such a character as to make it of special value to every inhabitant of the County.

5,000 Copies

of this Almanac will be published, and gratuitously and judiciously distributed throughout the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, and City of Belleville,—thus rendering it one of the most valuable mediums for advertising ever presented to business men.

Certain pages will be devoted to advertising, at the following rates:

One page	$12.00
One half page	8.00
One third page	6.00
One fourth page	4.00

The attention of our business men is called to the desirability of placing their Business Cards in the family circle, where they will be preserved

THROUGHOUT THE COMING YEAR.

We are confident the shrewdest advertisers will find this Almanac a most valuable and economical medium for extending their business.

Business men who may not be waited upon, desirous of taking advantage of this opportunity of making money, can send their orders to the office of the

SUBSTITUTES!

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough sabsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for ever a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

WISDOM OF SPIDERS.

Two spiders—so the story goes—
Upon a living bent,
Entered a meeting house one day,
And hopefully were heard to say,
"Here we shall have at least fair play,
With nothing to prevent."

Each chose his place and went to work,
The light webs grew apace;
One on the sofa spun his thread,
But shortly came the sexton dread,
And swept him off, and so half dead
He sought another place.

"I'll try the pulpit next," said he,
"There surely is a prize;
The desk appears so neat and clean,
I'm sure no spider there has been;
Besides how often have I seen
The pastor brushing flies."

He tried the pulpit, but alas!
His hopes proved visionary;
With dusting brush the sexton came,
And spoiled his geometric game,
Nor gave him time nor space to claim,
The right of sanctuary.

At length half starved, and weak, and lean,
He sought his former neighbor,
Who now had grown so sleek and round,
He weighed the fraction of a pound,
And looked as if the art he'd found
Of living without labor.

"How is it, friend," he asked, "that I
Endure such thumps and knocks,
While you have grown so very gross?"
"Tis plain," he answered, "not a loss
I've met since first I spun across
The contribution box."

THE HAPPY LIFE.

How happy is he born and taught
That serveth not another's will;
Whose armor is his honest thought,
And simple truth his utmost skill!

Whose passions not his masters are,
Whose soul is still prepared for death,
United to the worldly care
Of public fame or private breath:

Who envies none that chance doth raise,
Or vice, who never understood
How deepest wounds are given by praise,
Nor rules of state, but rules of good.

Who hath his life from rumors freed,
Whose conscience is his strong retreat;
Whose state can neither flatterers feed,
Nor ruin make oppressors great;

This man is freed from servile bands
Of hope to rise, or fear to fall;
Lord of himself, though not of lands;
And having nothing yet hath all.

Impatience as to Our Life Work.

BY REV. WM. M. TAYLOR, D.D.

Let us learn not to be impatient for the discovery of our true life work. Moses was eighty years old before he entered upon that noble career by which he became the emancipator and educator of his nation. Two-thirds of his days were gone before he really touched that which was his great, distinctive, and peculiar labor, and his enterprise was all the more gloriously accomplished by reason of the delay. Nor is this a solitary instance. The Lord Jesus himself lived thirty years, during most of which he was in training for a public ministry which lasted only two-and-forty months. John Knox never entered a pulpit until he was forty years of age; and much of the fire and energy of his preaching was owing to the fact that the flame had been so long pent within his breast. Havelock was for a dreary while a mere lieutenant, held back by the iniquitous system of purchase which was so long in vogue in the English army; but, as it happened, that was only a life-long apprenticeship, by which he was enabled all the more efficiently to become, at length, the saviour of the Indian Empire. So let no one chafe and fret over the delay which seems evermore to keep him from doing anything to purpose for the world and his Lord. The opportunity will come in its own season. It does come sooner or later to every man; and it is well if, when at length he hears the voice calling, "Moses! Moses!" he is ready with the answer, "Here am I."

For while I would comfort you with the assurance that the hour will come, I do not mean that you should be idle until it strikes. No; for if you adopt such a plan, the certainty is that you would not hear its stroke, or that you will not be ready to begin at its call. The true principle is do with your might that which is lying at your hand day by day, in the firm conviction that you are thereby training yourself into fitness for your future vocation. Moses was as observant as a shepherd as he had been diligent as a student; and when at length his higher work opened up before him, he saw how it lifted up into itself and utilized all the knowledge which he had acquired in his lower pursuits. He might not be able to discover, during his forty years' musings in the wilderness, how his sojourn in these wild regions was to be of any after service; yet, as we shall proceed with his history, we shall have cause to remark that as his Egyptian learning stood him often in good stead, his knowledge of the Sinaitic peninsula was of equal value. When he consecrated himself to the great work of his life, he discovered, as many since his day have done, that the energizing flame which marked the acceptance of his sacrifice, infolded and glorified both that which was behind him in the past, and that which was before him in the future. It was because he had been so diligent in the two preparatory stages of his career, that he was so efficient in the latest and ripest more achievements of his life. He was all the able—though in his humility he knew it not—to be the leader of his people from their houses of bondage, because he had been so faithful and so earnest alike in Egypt and Midian.

You see, then, to what my remarks are tending. Be not impatient of delay. Seek not to vault by one sudden leap into the throne of your peculiar power. But prepare yourself for wielding your sceptre when it comes, by doing with all fidelity the duties of your present sphere. Men fail in the world to do anything to the purpose, not because the opportunity never comes to them, but because when it does, they are not able to take advantage of it; inasmuch as they have been trifling when they ought to have been working. Multitudes, when they hear of one being as suddenly called to some post of usefulness, as Moses was to his great work of deliverance, exclaim, "what luck! Oh, if I could only have such a chance!" But there has been neither chance nor luck in the case; for the envied one has been all the while steadily making himself in the lower sphere for efficiency in the higher, and God has only done with him what you do with a diligent clerk in your store, when, seeing his faithfulness and ability, you promote him to a more important office. Here, therefore, is the harmonizing principle between contentment and ambition. The true man is eagerly anxious to do his best in some high calling for God, yet he does what he can where he is, and is content until it is God's time for him to rise; and when that time comes, he is ready. The men who vault at once into greatness, like those who become suddenly rich, very commonly squander their influence, and make themselves ridiculous. But he who waits, and works while he waits, will surely emerge at length, and his work will be worthy of his place. The leap is all the greater because of the race that goes before it; the current becomes all the stronger at the last because it has been so long held back by obstacles; and the noblest work is done by him who has to wait for long before he could get at it.—Illustrated Christian Weekly.

Is It Manly?

Three big men, three big guns, three big dogs—alarming sight! What is their purpose? They advance. They pause. Off go one of the great guns with a great noise and a dreadful smell. The dogs bark, the men roar with joy, and a pretty little bird, that a moment ago was singing a very song of Paradise on a waving bough, falls to the ground torn, bleeding, dying. A little puff of feathers floats up into the air, and the great man who has done the murder crams his victim into his great game bag, whistles to his big dog, shoulders his big gun, and tramps away with his big friends, triumphant and filled with the idea that he is a very fine fellow indeed. And that is "sport"—manly sport. In the name of all the savages, how did it come to be so? How can any man take pleasure in doing those pretty birds to death—pursuing them as though they were panthers, murdering them for no motive whatever. Certainly not for food, for one is not a mouthful, even for those who have the heart to eat them; assuredly not for glory, when one considers their helplessness. I can think of nothing that could prompt one to the act but an evil spirit, a cruel heart, a barbarous nature. Any one who delights in shooting birds, would, in my opinion shoot a bald-headed baby sitting alone at a window, which is the most innocent and helpless thing to look at that I know. Nothing could persuade me that he would not if public opinion did not prevent him.

An Aim in Life.

BY EARLE WHITE.

It was the chance of the writer to overhear recently part of the conversation of two young men, who were walking together down one of our less frequented streets. "I should like to have some aim in life," said one, with a touch of contempt in his tone. "I have already said," the other answered, "that my aim in life is to be a scholar, and for that I will sacrifice everything." "Scholarship—pshaw!" broke in the first, "what is scholarship? As for me, I intend to get money, and I'll get it by any means I can." That was all that was heard, but it was enough to set the involuntary listener thinking.

Nowadays we hear a great deal about the importance of having a definite aim in life. Every young man is advised to set before himself some distinct purpose to which he shall be unflinchingly faithful, if he wishes to save himself from the exceedingly unprofitable exercise of "beating the air." Nor do we object to this advice. We admit its usefulness. It recognizes the fact that every one of us should have in this life something to do. But yet we think it defective; for it suggests, and leaves unanswered, a question of higher importance, this, namely, What shall our aim in life be? It is better to have no aim at all, than to be devoted to a degrading aim.

It is this view that should be insisted upon, that the morality of life will depend to a very great extent upon the nature of the object which a man choses as the goal toward which his efforts are to be directey. If we strive after wealth for the sake alone of wealth, the selfishness of the aim reacts with deadly force upon all sweet and tender heart-blossoms? and a heart that might have blossomed like the rose ends in the arid deadness of the desert. So it is with all aims that are purely selfish. Hence the much vaunted aim, "Culture for its own sake," fails when tried on these principles. The pursuit of culture for its own sake is an outgrowth from the spirit of selfishness,—refined selfishness, if you will, but still selfishness for all that. The selfish pursuit of culture is much more in harmony with the spirit of heathenism than with that of Christianity.

There are aims which we may call good, because they, on the whole, are in harmony with the ordinary requirements of morality. But the highest kind of an aim is that which, while morally pure, is grounded on the unselfish desire of doing good to others. The writer once saw written on the fly-leaf of a Latin dictionary, which had formerly belonged to a theological student, the words "For God and eternity." That student had at least a noble aim. We may not follow his example, and embody our aims in mottoes for our books, but why should we not hold, implicit in our hearts and explicit in our lives, that noblest of all aims and mottoes, "For God and humanity?"

A Remarkable Story.

A remarkable story has just been published by the British and Foreign Bible Society. The story has been related by Sir Bartle Frere and rests entirely upon his authority. Sir Bartle aserts that he met "with an instance, which was carefully investigated, in which all the inhabitants of a remote village in the Deccan had adjured idolatry and caste, removed from their temples the idols which had been worshipped there, time out of mind, and agreed to profess a form of Christianity which they had deduced for themselves from the careful perusal of a single gospel and a few tracts." These books had been left among them, not by a missionary, but by a merchant who had never spoken of Christianity. This is certainly an extraordinary instance, but no man, who believes in the power of the Spirit of Truth will pronounce it impossible.

Trifles.

Straws show which way the wind blows, and trifles indicate the bent of character. I saw Hettie reading the other day in a borrowed book, and when her mother called her she laid it carelessly, open, face downward, on a chair. It happened that Hettie did not return immediately, and before she had done so the baby had pulled the book by one corner to the floor, and Artie, running hastily in, had trampled upon it. Its condition would certainly be unpresentable when it should be sent back to its owner. My own impression of Hettie, who had seemed to be a very amiable young lady, was that she was unfaithful in some things. Had she closed her book and placed it on the table before leaving the room, it would not have been injured. When I see a young girl with a torn dress, slippers down at heel, and a general lack of neatness in her home toilet, I am doubtful of her genuine love and respect for the dear home friends. When I know that Lucia is always late at church, I begin to wonder if she is not tardy everywhere else. When I hear Sarah scolding Mattie for some small fault, I consider her on the road to becoming a termagant. Don't neglect trifles, girls.—Christian at Work.

Vulgar Words.

A distinguished author says: "I resolved, when I was a child, never to use a word which I could not pronounce before my mother without offending her." He kept his resolution and became a pure minded, noble, honored gentleman. His rule and example are worthy of imitation.

Boys really learn a class of low, vulgar words and expressions which are never heard in respectable circles. The utmost care on the part of parents will scarcely prevent it. Of course we cannot think of girls being so much exposed to the peril. We connot imagine a decent girl using words she would not give utterance to before her father or mother.

Such vulgarity is thought by some boys to "be smart," the "next thing to swearing," and yet "not so wicked." But it is a habit which leads to profanity, and fills the mind with evil thoughts. It vulgarizes and degrades the soul, and prepares the way for the many gross and fearful sins which now corrupt society.

Young reader, keep your mouth free from all impurity, and your "tongue from evil," for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh."

Stepping in Father's Footsteps.

One bright winter's morning, after a snowstorm, a farmer took his hat for a walk to attend to some farm affairs requiring his attention. As he started, his little boy of five summers also snatched his hat and followed his father with mock dignity, and an assumed business-like air. When they reached the door, the gentleman noticed that no track or pathway had been made in the snow, and he hesitated about letting his boy follow. But the soft, fleecy snow, looked so tempting, so pearly white, that he concluded to allow the child to walk after him. He took long and rapid strides through the untrodden snow, when suddenly remembering his "little boy," he paused, looked back for him, and exclaimed:

"Well, my son, don't you find it hard work to walk in this deep snow?"

"Oh! no," said the boy. "I'm coming; for, father, I step in all your tracks."

True enough, the dear child was planting his tiny feet just where the parent's had trodden. The child's reply startled the father, as he reflected that thus would his child keep pace with him and follow in his tracks through life. He was not a friend to Jesus, not a man of prayer, and not a Christian; and well might he pause and tremble as he thought of his child, ever striving to "step in all his tracks," onward, onward, through life's mysterious mazes and myths, toward eternity! The little boy's reply brought that strong, stubborn hearted man to think, when even the preached word of God had made no impression upon him. Finally he repented, and sought and found peace in believing in Christ. We believe he is now making such tracks through life that at some day that son may be proud to say: "Father, I step in all your tracks."—British Workman.

Gems of Thought.

To fear the worst oft cures the worst.

The world has not yet learned the riches of frugality.

Woman's tongue is her sword, which she never lets rust.

To be a great man one must know how to profit by the whole of one's fortune.

He that voluntarily continues in ignorance is guilty of all the crimes which ignorance produces.

How many people would remain dumb were it forbidden them to speak good of themselves and ill of others.

Whoever sincerely desires to do all the good he can, will probably do much more than he imagines, or will ever know.

If a woman has a heart, she should never suffer it to lie in her bosom as dead capital; it ought to circulate and pay interest.

It may serve as a comfort to us in all our calamities and afflictions, that he that loses anything, and gets wisdom by it, is a gainer by the loss.

The silent usually accomplish more than the clamorous. The tail of a rattlesnake makes all the noise, but the head does the execution.

The Unknown is an ocean, and conscience is the compass of the Unknown; thought, meditation, prayer, are the great mysterious pointings of the needle.

At thirty we are all trying to cut our names in big letters upon the walls of this tenement of life; twenty years later we have carved it, or shut up our jack-knife.

All the good things of this world are no farther good to us than as they are of use; and whatever we may heap up to others, we enjoy only as much as we can use and no more.

It is the most momentous question a woman is ever called upon to decide, whether the faults of the man she loves will drag her down, or whether she is competent to be his earthly redeemer.

I beg you to take to heart one maxim, which for myself I have ever observed and ever shall; it is, never say more than is necessary. The unspoken word never does harm; what is once uttered can never be recalled, and no man can foresee its consequences.

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of the rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before night may fall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be that a child, a bright eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heart-rending details of these savages' depredations, we are apt to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption oftenest comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddenly finds himself hopelessly ensnared, and death's fatal arrows fill the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerful alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its remedial powers.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

Their Last Protest.

The question of valuation for duty is still being discussed by the Mail and the Globe, and with so much advantage to the former that the latter has been compelled to assume a position which convicts it of gross inconsistency. To give a semblance of reason to its recent attacks on the Customs Department, the organ of the Opposition is driven to say:

"We do not care what Government first put this interpretation upon the word. It was clearly wrong to assess goods for duty at any price beside that for which the goods can be purchased in the open market.

This affords the Mail an excellent opportunity to expose the motives of its antagonist, which it does in the following able manner:—"Without discussing the question of right or wrong just now, let us draw our contemporary's attention to its own unhappy position. Ignorant of the origin and interpretation of the law, it fiercely assailed Mr. Bowell for what it imagined was quite a new regulation. The Globe was determined that the Customs Minister and the National Policy should have a bad time of it, and so it laid on the lash with its customary ferocity; but when it comes to see that it is Mr. Burpee who is being punished and not Mr. Bowell at withdraws its hand, and admits, with pretended liberality, that both the ex-Minister and the Minister are wrong. But if the Globe had known that it was Mr. Burpee's law it was attacking the attack would never have been made, that is clear. This matter of the fair value for Customs duty was discussed in 1877 in Parliament, and the views now stolen by the Globe were urged by some members, but the Globe had not a single word to say on the subject. It was discussed again in 1878, but, so far as we remember, the Globe had not a single word regarding it—in fact, the Globe did not understand the matter, or did not think it worth notice. But when Mr. Bowell puts the law into force, then the Globe waxes wroth, and calls the world to witness that the doctrine which it tolerated so long as eleven years is 'monstrous.'"

It is simply the old story: What was right in Mr. Burpee the Globe holds to be wrong in Mr. Bowell, and that which was a very good law or at least not criticised hostilely when passed by the Mackenzie Government, is a monstrosity when administered by the Tories. This style of political warfare has been too often resorted to of late to prove effectual in doing aught else than drive respectable, thinking men from the ranks of the Reform party into those of the Conservative party. As the Mail very aptly puts it "the slaughterers are making their last dying protest in the columns of the Globe," the effect of which can only be to render the great majority of the people glad that the smuggling and other rascalities perpetuated by them under the late Government have been determinedly opposed by the present Minister of Customs and effectually put a stop to, greatly to the benefit of the country.

STARTING A KNITTING FACTORY.—The Montreal Witness says: "Mr. Landsburg, one of the most extensive merchants in Frelighsburg, and Mr. N. S. Hunter, of the same place, were in the city yesterday making arrangements for the establishment of a new knitting factory there, and also for setting in operation the well known "Baker Tanneries" in that town, at one time famous throughout the Townships, but which through the depression of late years had to close. The capital to be invested in the knnitting factory is considerable, and both it and the tannery will, if preparations can be completed, go into operation during the present winter."

TERRIBLE GRIEF OF PARENTS.—The Witness says: "One of the saddest incidents recorded in Port Neuf for some time past occurred recently, when the parents of a young infant took it to church to be christened. On arriving at the church, and just before the ceremony began, the covering was taken from the child's face. It was dead. The parents, in bringing the infant to the church, had covered it up so closely that it had been smothered to death. Their grief can be imagined."

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Our Interest Laws.

SIR,—One of the leading causes of bankruptcy is that so few persons properly estimate the difference between a high rate and a low rate of interest, and therefore often borrow money at a ruinous rate that no legitimate business can stand. Very few have figured on the difference between six and eight per cent. One hundred dollars loaned for one hundred years at six per cent., with interest collected annually and added to the principal, will amount to $340. At eight per cent. it amounts to $2,203, or nearly seven times as much. At three per cent., the usual rate of interest in England, it amounts to $19.25; whereas at ten per cent., which has been and is a very common rate here, it is $13 809, or about seven hundred times as much; at twelve per cent. it amounts to $84,075, or more than four thousand times as much. At eighteen per cent. it amounts to $16,145,007. At twenty-four per cent. (which we sometimes have to pay our chattel mortgage lawyers in town to discount a note for us) it reaches the enormous sum of $2,551,799,404.

One hundred dollars borrowed at six per cent., with the interest compounded annually, will amount to $1,842 in fifty years, while the same $100 borrowed at eight per cent. will amount to $4,690 in fifty years. One thousand dollars, at ten per cent compounded will run up to $117,390 in fifty years.

Taking nine per cent. as the usual rate of interest paid upon all sums borrowed from the banks on discount and upon mortgage, we have not far to go for the cause of financial stringency, commercial depression, bankruptcy and general ruin, which befalls us about once in every decade.

Our successive administrations in this country have framed Banking laws, Bankruptcy laws, Revenue Tariffs, and National Policy resolutions to avert these financial depressions, which are as sure to "come around" as if by geometrical precision, but without effect. Hitherto our legislators have endeavored to cure the disease by doctoring the effect without prescribing any treatment for the cause of the disease.

I have said that nine per cent is the average rate of interest paid. Of company loans and loans upon mortgages, I shall hereafter speak. I shall direct your readers' attention to our banks in the first place. Bank interest is, by a mere fiction, supposed to be only seven per cent. Those who have experience in banking matters, know that the usual rate is nine per cent, but not only this, it is payable every three months in advance. Let any of our merchants, doing business on Front street, calculate how much of what should be his legitimate profits, during the year, is eaten up by excess of interest paid over and above the rate of six per cent, and he will not be astonished, if he finds himself a bankrupt at the end of five years.

In case you deposit money for a term, you are allowed interest at four per cent. so that one farmer may deposit say $500, upon which he draws only four per cent., while his next neighbor requiring money may procure a discount of the same $500, upon the endorsation of the one who deposited it, and pay nine per cent. in advance.

No one can blame the banking institutions for making all they can, but we must call upon our legislators to give us a fair and reasonable usury law.

In some instances banks become the engines of destruction to the improvident though, perhaps it is quite possible in many cases without the manager ever being aware of it. Certain "birds of prey" deal largely in that class of securities called chattle mortgages. A man who is sued or otherwise hard pressed and must have money, repairs to one of those who has the reputation of loaning money on chattle mortgages, of shaving notes, &c. Perhaps, and it is often the case, the applicant's farm is mortgaged to a Loaning Company. He requires say $200. He is told the money will be forthcoming, but he must sign a note and give a chattle mortgage as collateral security. He must pay ten per cent and a "little bonus" in addition for procuring the money. He finds that little bonus is $50 or so added to this note, and, a chattle mortgage and notes is given for $250, and frequently, with interest at 10 per cent. He receives perhaps $200, and in most cases $195. The note of course is discounted. He objects to the terms, but is told if he pays promptly at the end of three months only the 10 per cent and a little bonus will be charged. Of course the borrower is not prepared to pay; if he re. news, another bonus is charged, and a new chattle mortgage taken. The borrower is perhaps told that the man that furnishes the money is a very hard customer and will not permit the money to remain out any longer, except on the terms offered; there is nothing to be done but submit. Sooner or later, however, the day of reckoning comes, the poor borrower finds that the interest, bonuses and costs far exceeds the amount of money received, and to satisfy which, he is mercilessly sold out. The man, however, in the meantime, who discounts the paper, is not aware of the mischief being done. The above case is put pretty strong, but doubtless many who read the above, will have in his mind a case nearly in point.

Now I will venture to say, that if we should look for any one particular predominating cause for England's wealth to-day, we would find that and would pronounce that cause to be, low rate of interest.

In the reign of William III. in 1694, Charles Montague, afterwards Chancellor of the Exchequer, carried to success his plan for the establishment of the Bank of England. At that time the usual rate of interest was eight per cent. The rate of interest shortly fell to four per cent., and for nearly one hundred years it has been usually less.

The two former will carry barley to Oswego, and the latter, which is a big three and after, will take rye for the same destination. She got a small part of her cargo at Napanee, and will load down to 9 ft. draught here with from 10,000 to 12,000 bushels, completing her load at other ports on the bay.

The schr. Morning Star, which went ashore below Oswego, has proved to be a total loss.

There can now be no doubt that it was the schr. Olive Branch that was lost on Hennessy's shoal. The Kingston News of the 8th says:—"Captain Dix, of the schooner White Oak, who at one time sailed the Olive Branch, gives the following particulars regarding the wreck of the ill-fated schooner: The White Oak, which left Oswego last night, hove to for a couple of hours in the vicinity of the Ducks for the purpose of finding, if possible, some portion of the wreck of the sunken vessel. A yawl boat was lowered and manned for this purpose. After a short search the Olive Branch was discovered between the Main and False Ducks in seventy feet of water at the stern and sixty-three feet at the bow, with her topmast about twenty-five feet out of water; and her mainmast eighteen feet. The mainboom with mainsail and gaff, were found floating on the top of the water, evidently having been stowed away and reefed. The jibboom is carried away, and the halyards and blocks appear to be in the same position as when the vessel went down. Captain Dix sent a man up the topmast of the Olive Branch and brought down her fly, which is now in possession of Messrs. Oldrieve and Horn, of this city. The Olive Branch had a new foretopmast. Capt. Dix, who is familiar with the rigging of the wrecked vessel, at once recognized her by the maintopmast. Had the Olive Branch kept on a course two miles south of her present position she would have been in a direct line for South Bay Point, but until the wreck is brought to the surface, if that be done, it will be impossible to ascertain with any degree of certainty the cause of the misfortune. All doubts as to the fate of the vessel and crew of the Olive Branch may now be set at rest."

The propeller Armenia was disabled off the False Ducks on Thursday and was taken to Kingston by a tug.

The Florence Howard has arrived at Oswego with a cargo of lumber from Mill Point—her first trip since being rebuilt.

THE ASSIZES.

GAVIN V. TURLEY.—Action of trespass for an illegal distress. Plff occupied a farm of deft's. under a lease; got behind with his rent and deft. by his bailiff distrained. W. C. T. U.

This body held its annual meeting in St. Catharines on the 6th and 7th inst., some representatives of the Belleville Union being present.

On Tuesday at 2 p. m., the convention proceeded with the memorial service for Mrs. Dr. Jaques, of Belleville.

Miss Bilbrough said it was wonderful the amount of work the deceased accomplished. She seemed to have a presentiment that she would soon pass away, and during the last year of her life she was laboring abundantly. She worked with all her might to accomplish all her hand found to do, and seemed to move under the divine impulse.

Mrs. Jones, Belleville, was intimate with sister Jaques. She became interested in a young girl who was an inmate of a house of ill-repute; she came to me and asked my co-operation; went with her and this was the commencement of a work among the fallen women of our city. Mr. Hammond was informed of our work. We got some of them to attend meetings; one was soundly converted; Mr. Hammond got her to testify publicly for Christ; some others followed; the last visit sister Jaques made was to a house of this kind. Coming away in her hurry, she forgot some of her customary wraps and took cold. She used to visit the gaol, and commenced the Women's Christian Association, to meet the need of these poor women in gaols or elsewhere. When our sister was taken ill, her first and principal thought was about her work for Jesus. May he raise up others to take her place, that the work which she so nobly began may be still carried on.

The President said that in conversation with Mrs. Jaques, she learned that in nearly every single case these girls were led astray through intoxicating liquors. A lady from Toronto mentioned that a bar tender had sent a message to the women, saying their prayers in his behalf had been answered, and God had changed his heart.

London was selected as the next place of meeting.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.

On Saturday last we took a trip over the road, westward as far as the rails were then laid, which was within four miles of Peterborough. About two hundred men, in four large gangs, are distributed along the line. The track laying gang is composed of 45 men and 14 teams, under the energetic superintendence of Mr. McKeel, being now abundantly supplied with ties, are rapidly pushing the rails forward, and will, weather permitting, reach Peterborough on the 12th; a ballast train with a gang of sixty men is at work ballating east and west from the boundry line, between Otonabee and Asphodel, where an excellent gravel pit has been secured and the necessary switches and siding put in. Another large gang is engaged on the "lift," while a gang under Mr. James Dinwoodie is building a barbed wire fence along the line. A novel feature in connection with the building of the road—inaugurated by Mr. Fauquier—is the adoption of the gipsy style of camping and cooking, the tents, &c., being moved forward as the work progresses; the tracklayers' kitchen is built upon truck wheels, set upon the rails, the interior of the kitchen—into which we were permitted to take a peep—is "fearfully and wonderfully made." The men express themselves as pleased with the arrangement, not so much for its novelty as for its economy.

Messrs. Bickford, Brennan, Fauquier, and H. M. Fowlds went up on the train to select a site for the Keene, or rather the Allandale station—as the road runs within three-quarters of a mile from the former. The site selected is on the east side of, and close to the Indian river, the location being less than a quarter of a mile from the leading road to the above named villages, but the station will be reached by a bridge. Already a quantity of freight for Keene has passed over the road, and considering the facilities which will be thus afforded, the inhabitants of these villages should use every effort to advance the interests of the road.—Hastings Star.

THE RIDDULPH TRAGEDY.—The evidence for the defence in the trial of James Carroll at London, was closed on the 8th. All the prisoners have been brought on the stand contradicting Johnny Connor and William Donnelly, while efforts were made to show that the prisoner bore a good reputation, and Wm. Donnelly was particularly bad.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE.—The chances are that the allied fleet will seize an island in the Ægean Archipelago and practically blockade Constantinople. All the Powers are reported as willing to adopt further coercive measures if England will only take the lead.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—It is reported that the escape of Freeman Pocasset, the child murderer, yesterday, is untrue.

LACROSSE, Wis., Oct. 9.—Yesterday Joseph Maher, when returning home with his wife while under the influence of liquor, carelessly threw a lighted match into the hay in the waggon. Maher was fatally and his wife terribly burned.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Oct. 9.—Jerome West, an ex-convict, shot and killed George Yewell near Anamosa, Yewell having testified against him in a horse stealing case. A vigilance committee is searching for the murderer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Preparations for the Republican parade on Monday night are completed. It is now believed that there will be forty thousand in line. Grant, who will review the column, will be attended by Governor Cornell and staff.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 9.—Beecher made a Republican campaign speech last night before a large audience.

MEXIA, Texas, Oct. 9.—In a difficulty yesterday H. Perayman was shot and killed by one Wells.

In reference to the letter purporting to come from an army officer at Governors' Island intimating that Hancock was liable to apoplexy, the Herald reports Hancock as saying that it is simply a weak invention of the enemy and shows that they are getting out of ammunition. No such letter has been written. Never had any apoplectic symptoms in my life, and barring my slight cold I am enjoying most excellent health. Dr. Janeway, Surgeon in chief on Governor's Island, confirms the above. Hancock being asked if the command of the army of the Potomac was offered him by President Lincoln, said, "Stanton offered me the command and Lincoln was President, and that is all I need say in the matter."

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 9.—The Sentinel announces that it has the highest democratic authority for the statement that the democratic nominees for Congress in this state will next week publish an open letter stating they are in favor of a protective tariff.

TRUTH.

WE take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, as long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our Goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability in the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our DIRECT IMPORTS, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

JUST TO HAND,

A few beautiful patterns of English Floor Oilcloths, and five bales (very choice patterns) Tapestry and Brussels Carpets, which we are selling at extremely moderate prices.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 66 feet wide, and 12 feet deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 rods on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

THE REASON WHY!

—:o:—

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods in such a manner that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And as very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we now sell since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c. per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, OCT. 9.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

The Cells.—Three prisoners and one tramp were registered at the Police Station last night.

The Cattle Trade.—Mr. Walter Fanning is purchasing a car load of cattle for Mr. J. B. Weller.

The Dry Goods Trade.—Messrs. Barber, Brignall & Co., make in our advertising columns an important announcement as to their business. Read it.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities :—Lakes: Moderate to fresh winds, mostly southwesterly and south-easterly, very fine warm weather.

Christ Church.—The Lord Bishop of Ontario will hold a Confirmation in Christ Church on Sunday morning. The services will commence at the usual hour, namely 11 a. m.

The Epizootic.—This horse disease has of late been very prevalent in New York city and throughout most of the State, spreading as far north as Oswego. So far it has not appeared in this district, and it is to be hoped will not.

Still Suffering.—George Frizone, the victim of Thursday's accident, is still suffering severely from the effects of his wound. He passed a bad night, but the doctors are still confident of his recovery.

Coming Again.—The company who successfully proformed the excellent drama "The Galley Slave," will give two more performances in the Metropolitan Hall, on the nights of the 19 and the 20th inst. They will no doubt be warmly welcomed by crowded houses.

Well Deserved.—We learn that the Rev. Dr. Clarke, Rector of Christ Church and St. George's, has been elected a member of Victoria Institute of London, or Philosophi- Society of Great Britain. This is a high honor, and in this instance at least it has been most worthily bestowed.

Forestalling.—The practice of forestalling on the market is still continued, with the result that seasonable dainties are purchased wholesale by dealers before consumers have a chance to buy in open market, so they have to pay a heavy profit to greedy middle-men, who set the By-law at defiance. The police cannot look too sharply after this matter.

At Home Again.—The Winnipeg Times of the 4th inst. says: "Mr. J. D. Elliot, deputy postmaster of this city, returned by train on Saturday, and is a changed man, having enrolled his name among the great army of Benedicts. He has succeeded in capturing one of the fair daughters of Port Hope. We wish the young couple much joy and extend to them a hearty welcome to their future home."

Game.—Sportsmen from the city report that ducks are not at all numerous in the inlets and marshes along the bay shore, and their success is on a par with their statements. Hunters who reside along the bay shore give a more encouraging account of affairs and assert that, though ducks are not abundant, they are yet sufficiently numerous to make it an object to look after them. Twenty-two and a half brace—the result of a two days' hunt near Long Point—were brought to the city this morning and realized eight dollars.

Obituary.—The Madoc Review says: "Another of the old pioneers of this part of the country has been called to his eternal reward, Mr. Thomas Bailey, who died at his residence in this village on Tuesday night last, at the ripe old age of 85 years and 4 months. He had been in declining health for some time past, but only took a serious turn for the worse a few days before he died. Mr. Bailey was born in Kilkenny County, Ireland, and emigrated to Madoc in the year 1832. He built the first saw and grist mills here, also carrying on a mercantile and coopering business, and at one time owned all the land on which the village of Madoc now stands. He was universally respected by all who knew him."

Barley Shipment.—Friday's shipment of barley at Crookston Station amounted to 2,500 bushels, or about the same as Thursday's.

The Rifle.—The annual matches of the Hastings Rifle Association will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday next.

Good Work.—Mr Wm. Perry last Monday threshed on the farm of Hugh Houston & Son, 2nd con. of Sidney, 700 bushels of barley in five hours.

Busy.—An exceedingly brisk business was done at the various grain elevators and storehouses, to-day. Long lines of teams extended from each, and this was particularly the case at the West Belleville elevator, whence the line of waggons extended to the lower bridge.

New Hall in Stirling.—Mr. A. G. Scott, of the Stirling House, is putting up a fine hall on the corner of his lot east of the hotel. It will be 66x33 feet, with 23 feet ceiling, and will have the advantage of being on the ground floor. It will be ready for occupation in about six weeks.

Grand Junction Railway v. Belleville.—In the Court of Queen's Bench and Common Pleas at Toronto on the 8th, McPhillips moved for a mandamus for attachment against Mayor and Treasurer of Belleville for not obeying mandamus to issue debentures. Granted.

Correction.—In the prize list of the West Hastings fair, S. & J. Clark were credited with first prize for hearth rug, which was won by Mrs. John Brenton. The prize for seed sowers were won by Mr. Thomas Masson, instead of by Mr. H. A. Whelpley, as recorded in the prizes list, as published.

To Lay up Here.—Pullman & Co.'s Pavilion Show will make its last stand for the season in this city on Saturday next, and the company will then disband. The paraphernalia and waggons belonging to the establishment will remain here, and the horses will probably winter on the front of Sidney, as the agent of the company is making a contract to that end.

A Rush.—Farmers are now rushing in their grain, and as the receipts by rail are also heavy, the elevators are taxed to their utmost. A block had almost been caused in the elevators on the east side, but the timely arrival of schooners, at the loading of which the men worked day and night, has afforded relief for the present. Should receipts continue large, there will be a lively demand for vessels.

Fishing.—Already the fishermen of this district have set their nets and begun operation on the several limits where the finny tribes most congregate. The catch thus far is encouraging, and gives evidence of improvement, and consists chiefly of yellow bass, bull-heads and pike. A few white fish have also been taken, but that class is not yet numerous, as the season is somewhat too early for them.

Accident.—An accident, which nearly proved fatal, happened to Mr. H. E. Holden about half-past one this afternoon. It appears that Mr. Holden and Mr. W. A. Foster, his father-in-law, were sitting in a buggy in front of Dr. Hope's residence, when the horse became frightened by the steam from the engine in front of the Grand Junction Station, and springing forward Mr. Holden was thrown over the back of the buggy, striking on his head and shoulders. He was picked up and carried to Dr. Hope's office and attended to by him. The Dr. says he is not seriously injured, although narrowly escaping a very serious accident.

Life in the Station.—The officers on duty at the police station last night enjoyed an entertainment, which, however, is not an unusual occurrence there. The arrest of a family consisting of husband, wife and two children, furnished the performers, who gave an exhibition which lasted the greater portion of the night. The programme opened with singing by the female. Then followed dancing in different styles, which was succeeded by whistling; these were followed by recitations from Shakspeare, Burns and others by the woman, after which she gave Gray's Elegy in a manner worthy a first-class elocutionist. Her singing was good, whilst the dancing of herself and boy was equal to that seen in many hall shows. The woman was exceedingly clever and must have been well educated, as was attested by the character of her selections, and her manner of delivery. The other prisoners murmured at the length of the programme, but all in united praise of its quality.

Jurymen and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

Saturday, Oct. 9.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

James, alias Micky, McFarlane was fined $2 and costs for the above offence or 20 days in gaol.

Patrick Murphy was charged with the above offence and being his first appearance was discharged.

RESISTING THE POLICE.

James McFarlane charged with the above offense, was remanded to Monday, Oct. 11th, for sentence.

KEEPING A DISORDERLY HOUSE.

James Herrington and Agnes Herrington were charged with keeping a disorderly house. The case was enlarged until Tuesday, Oct. 12th, to give them a chance to leave the city.

Echoes from the Depot.

Ten cars of iron ore came in by Grand Junction Railway this morning and was shipped via Grand Trunk to Buffalo.

The Grand Junction have put up Car Scales near their engine shed, which will enable them to weigh all loaded cars coming in on their line. Grain dealers and others will find this greatly to their advantage, enabling them to ascertain the actual contents of the car.

The freight business of the Grand Trunk Railway has, within the last few days, shown a decided improvement.

Campbellford Notes.

Campbellford, Oct. 7.

The ladies of Christ Church have an entertainment in the Music Hall on Wednesday next. Tea and refreshments will be supplied in the evening; and there will be a sale of fancy articles from 6 to 8 o'clock. The concert will commence at 8 o'clock and be made very exciting by the exhibiting at intervals of several beautiful tableaux, ably produced for the purpose. The proceeds will be applied for the building of a tower attached to the church.

The grain business has been very brisk here for several days past. The storehouses are completely crammed for the present. Prices have a downward tendency. Dinwoodie Bros. took in on Tuesday last about 2,000 bus. Mr. R. Cockburn will be sending off two or three car loads tomorrow for Boston.

Mr. W. Robley, an old sportman sojourning in our village, was duck shooting yesterday morning. A flock of wood ducks came on, at which Mr. R. fired, bringing down three. One of them fell in a place which could not easily be reached, so a large hawk came on and took up the duck in his claws and was making for land when another shot secured both duck and hawk.

Sporting Notes.

A cricket match was played at Philadelphia on the 6th and 7th between twelves made up of English players resident in the United States and of Native Americans respectively. The Natives, who went first to the bat, scored 98, which the Britons followed with 120. In their second essay the Yankees made 86 and when darkness set in the foreigners had made 15 for five wickets. The game thus resulted in a draw.

The fall meeting of the Picton Driving Association opened there on the 8th. The weather was fine, and the track in good order. Only one race came off—the handicap flat race, a mile and a half dash, for a purse of $150. Islander was first, Macedonicas second, Lord Dufferin third, and Viley distanced.

St. Julien trotted against time at Washington on the 8th, and made 2:13¾.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

The T., G. and B.—The Mail says: "The Grand Trunk Railway Company has entered into an agreement for acquiring and operating the Toronto, Grey, and Bruce road. This will give that great corporation control of another route to the west. The change appears to be gratifying to the people of Owen Sound, who now look confidently forward to acquiring a considerable share of the West and North-west trade."

Proposed Rifle Prize.—Lord Lorne has written to the commanding officers of the several militia regiments in the United Kingdom, asking them to raise a small sum, the intrest of which should be given yearly by the Governor General on the part of the auxiliary forces of Great Britain as a prize at the Dominion Rifle meeting.

James Coull, the sailor who steered the Shannon in her action with the Chesapeake off Boston harbor in 1813, died on Oct. 1st, aged 95. He was buried with military honors.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Queenstown, Oct. 9.—Arrived the Scythia and Spain.

London, Oct. 9.—A Paris despatch says no syndicate has yet been formed for the promotion of the Panama Canal scheme, but if an issue of stock takes place through the Comptire d' Escompto, all the other establishments would receive subscriptions.

Paris, Oct. 9.—It is expected that the new proposals of England regarding the course to be adopted by the Powers in settlement of the Eastern question, will not be considered by the French Cabinet until the return of President Grevy next week.

London, Oct. 9.—The Times says so long as the European concert lasts we may feel comparatively free from anxiety, and for the present there are no signs of it giving way.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—It is now settled that the Prussian Parliament will meet Nov. 28th, for the consideration of Bismarck's economical scheme.

Key West, Oct. 9—Ordnance Sergeant Weaver, at Fort Jefferson, died yesterday of yellow fever. His daughter is now sick with it.

London, Oct. 9.—The Pall Mall Gazette gives especial prominenee to the following announcement:—"We understond that the proposed naval operations in the Ægean sea, by which it is hoped to exert effective pressure on Sultan, are approved by all the powers. The execution of the decision of the European concert will be entrusted to a fleet of at least 30 of the Powers, who will act as mediators of Europe."

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 9.—On the New York and New England Railroad at Hop River last night a passenger accommodation train collided with an extra freight. Engineers Kenyon and Flood and firemen Forsyth and Hurley were killed. Conductor Aldrich of the freight train was badly injured and probably will die. The Conductor of the freight train said he was to blame. Only one passenger injured.

Portsmouth, Oct. 9.—The troopship which sails on the 18th inst., takes 50 tons of ammunition, and 54 Norderfield and Gatling guns, for the Mediterranean. It is rumored that the Admiralty may send the detached squadron now, instead of fitting out to the Mediterranean, instead of sending it on a general cruise, as was expected.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Indications: lower lakes, cloudy with local rains.

Spread the Good News.

As a family medicine and tonic, there is no remedy at present giving such universal satisfaction, and effecting so many astonishing cures as Electric Bitters. Our druggists report a lively demand for them at times being unable to supply the many calls. All Billious Attacks, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Diabetes and Gravel, readily yield to their curative qualities. Sold by Jas. Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Stop that Cough.

If you are suffering with a Cough, Cold, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Consumption, loss of voice, tickling in the throat, or any affection of the Throat or Lungs, use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. This is the great remedy that is causing so much excitement by its wonderful cures, curing thousands of hopeless cases. Over one million bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery have been used within the last year, and have given perfect satisfaction in every instance. We can unhesitatingly say that this is really the only sure cure for throat and lung affections, and can cheerfully recommend it to all. Call and get a trial bottle for ten cents, or a regular size for $1.00. Jas. Clarke & Co.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-billious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test Zopesa, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&w1y

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Inman, Station D, New York City. 4eod&w1y

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

YESTERDAY.

It only seems like yesterday.
Why beats this heart? 'tis over now;
And those bright dreams of love and hope
Are in the far off long ago;
Yet time hath wrought no change in me.
My love is linked to yesterday.

It only seems but yesterday;
How happily those days sped by
At evening I was sure to meet
A sunset smile and starlight eye;
All those sweet smiles died out from me,
With that sweet far-off yesterday.

I sometimes meet a smiling face,
A kindly word of sympathy;
But what are they to my bruised heart?
They only chain my memory
To those fond smiles that cheered my way
In that sweet far-off yesterday.

I wander back to those bright days,
When all was one unbroken sea—
My life a happy golden dream,
No mazes of perplexity!
Those golden dreams have died away,
With that sweet far off yesterday.

Ah! well! the past is over now,
And what there is in store for me
I do not, dare not wish to know,
Nor penetrate futurity;
I know that all things work for good
To those who put their trust in God;
And when I reach yon star-paved sky
The yesterday will be to-day.

—Good Words.

Jim's Bay Mare.

"I've come all the way in from Canaan to get a little law," said a man with a horsewhip under his arm, blue overalls in his boots, and a gray, stubbly beard on his face, as he entered the Elgin House reading room, where a number of the boys were talkin' politics. "Mebbe some o' you fellers kin give me the correct thing without the dickerin' with a lawyer."

The speaker was a well-known farmer of the southern part of the county. He and his son Jim are noted for their sharpness at a bargain, and a readiness to trade horses, cows, waggons, farms, or anything else that belongs to them, at any and all times a customer may present himself. Jim lives on a farm a mile from the old man's.

"Ye see, boys,' continued the speaker, "my boy Jim had a bay mare that he traded a yearlin' bull and a cross-tooth harrow fur. She was a good critter an' no mistake. I wanted that mare the wust kind, and made Jim a heap o' good offers fur her, but he wouldn't bite. Last Wednesday he came to my house kind o' careless like, and sot down on the front stoop. I was choppin' kindlin' wood for mornin'. Jim sot there a-lookin' up an' down the road whistlin' the 'Sweet By-and-By' kind o' to himself. When I carried in my kindlin' I sot down on the stoop by him.

"Jim," I sez, "you'd better let your old father have that bay mare o' yourn," sez I.

Jim had jest started the second verse of the "Sweet By-and-By,' but he whistled her all the way through afore he answered me.

"I ben a thinkin' o' lettin' you have the mare, pap,' sez he, 'seen's you got yer heart sot on her so,' sez he, 'pervidin' we kin git up a dicker,' sez he.

Jim had ben goin' to camp meetin' pooty steady fur a week back, an' I heered he was gettin' serious. He hadn't been whistlin' nothin' but hymn tunes for two or three days, an' when he come around so nice on the mare question I made up my mind that me an' the old woman would see him jinin' the mourners afore long.

'Jim, I kin stand $80 for the mare,' sez I.

Jim looked up the road, and hummed a verse of 'Come ye sinners, poor and needy. Then he sez:

'Pap,' sez he, 'I know I orto let you hev that mare for them figures,' sez he, 'but you know I've refused double that for her,' sez he. An' so he had boys, sure.

'Jim,' sez I again, 'I think I could raise the eighty about twenty more, makin' a hundred,' sez I; 'but that's all I kin do. Remember Jim,' sez I, 'that I'm yer father, and I'm gettin' old, and my heart's sot on that mare,' sez I.

'Plunged in a gulf of dark despair,' hummed Jim, lookin' plump up to the sky. I guess he got away with two verses afore he said anything to me, an' I didn't interrupt his singin'. Then he sez:

'Pap,' sez he, 'I'll tell you what I'll do. Give me a hundred dollars,' sez he, 'and throw in them two Berkshire pigs, an' the mare is yours,' sez he, 'jest as she is.'

'A bargain!' sez I. 'The pigs is yours, an' I'll be down after the mare to-morrow,' sez I.

'I counted out the hundred an' give it to him. He druv the pigs home with him. They was worth $15 apiece, easy. I could hear Jim whistlin' 'Hold the Fort,' till he got half a mile away.

'Jemima,' I sez to the old woman, 'Jemima,' sez I, 'I never thought Jim'd git pious, did you? But I've got the bay mare,' sez I; 'an' what the old boy Jim was thinkin' of I can't see. She's worth two hundred an' fifty any day in the week,' I sez. 'Religion is makin' a fool o' Jim,' sez I.

Well next mornin' early I went down to Jim's to get the mare. Jim had gone to town. I seen his wife.

'I've bought the mare, Nancy,' I sez.

'Yes, I know ye have,' sez Nancy, grinnin' all over her face.

'Where is she?' I sez.

'She's down in the stone lot,' sez Nancy grinnin' mor'n ever.

I thought it was funny that the mare should be down in the stone lot, but I went down to find her. Boys, I found her. She was lyin' behind a big stone heap, deader'n a door nail. I went back to the house:

'Why, Nancy,' sez I, 'the bay mare's dead!

'Oh, yes,' sez Nancy, laughin' as if she'd split, 'she died yesterday morning' with the colic,' sez she.

Boys, for a minute I was mad. Then I come to, and sez to myself, 'I'll be glued if I don't get the mare's shoes, anyhow.' So I went back to the stone lot to draw her shoes off. Boys, I'll divide my farm up between ye if Jim hadn't drawed them shoes hisself, an' the mare's feet were as bare as when she was born.

Now, I ain't no ways mad at Jim, boys, for it was a fair and square dicker, an' it shows there's stuff in him, only he mought a left the shoes on the mare. What I want to know is, can't I git back at the camp meetin' folks some way for damages? If it hadnit a ben for them hymn tunes Jim larnt at the meetings, I'd a ben a lookin' out for him. But they throwed me way off my guard. The way I look at it is that the camp meetin' society is responsible for me losin' my hundred dollars and two fifteen dollar pigs. Can't I git back at 'em for trespass, or false pretences, or excessory afore the fact, or sunthin'? Can't I do it, boys?—

No good preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt it such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.

Defendant's Objections.

They were trying an assault and battery case in Justice alloy the other day, or were getting ready to, when the defendant objected to the jury which the constable had gathered together. Beginning at number one the court asked;

"State your objections to the juryman.'

"I beat him out of $50 on a horse trade and I know how he feels," was the reply.

"And this one?"

"He and I couldn't agree on a game of cards one day about two weeks ago, and I punched his aged head. He hasn't forgotten it, you bet!"

"Well, here's the third man?"

"He has a grudge against me for licking his brother-in-law."

"And the fourth?"

"We have never been good friends since I shot six of his hens."

"And the fifth?"

"I know him of old. He says I stole his shot-gun."

"And do you object to the sixth and last?"

"I decidedly do. It isn't four days since I got ready to throw him off a wood-dock."

"Wouldn't it be safe for you to dispense with a jury and let the court try the case?" suggested his honor.

"No, sir!" was the decided reply. "I don't say that I got anything in particular against the court, but this court may have formed an opinion that I am the man who bagged his twenty-six game fowls one night last month. I've heard that he had his suspicions!"

The case was adjourned to secure six jurymen from out of the city.

Why he was in Penitentiary.

An important case was tried before the criminal Court of the district of Columbia. An old colored man was on the witness stand. The District Attorney interrogated the witness:

"What is your name?"

"John Williams, sah."

"Are you the John Williams who was sent to Albany State Penitentiary for larceny?"

"No sah—not this John."

"Are you the John Williams who was convicted of arson and sent to the Baltimore Penitentiary?"

"No, sah."

Tired of asking fruitless questions the District Atttorney suddenly put a leading one.

"Have you ever been in the penitentiary?"

"Yes, sah."

All eyes were now turned upon the witness. The District Attorney smiled complacently and resumed:

"How many times have you been in the penitentiary?"

"Twice, sah."

"Where?"

"In Baltimore, sah."

"How long were you there the first time."

"About two hours, sah."

"How long the second time?" asked the attorney, rather crestfallen.

"An hour, sah. I went there to whitewash a cell for a lawyer who had robbed his client."

The attorney sat down amid the laughter of the spectators.

Wit and Humor.

Where to go when short of money—Go to work.

A case of suspended animation—Swinging in a hammock.

"John, what is that scar on your chin?" "That scar? O, that's a relic of barberism."

The most inveterate old bachelor will seek for a better half when he has had a bogus fifty cent piece passed upon him.

"Where do you find the funny-bone?" asked a professor of anatomy. "In the humor-wrist," answered a student.

"Bob, what's steam?" "Boiling water." "That's right—compare it." "Positive boil, comparative boiler superlative burst."

Little drops of water (in the milk) and little grains of sand (in the sugar) are what make the big fortunes of the humble milkmen and obscure grocers.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia. Bronchitis. Loss of Appetite. Nervous Prostration. Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, CO.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA

XXXIX.

After spending two days in Venice, we proceeded, by train, across the country to FLORENCE.

There is nothing worthy of special note, in the way of scenery, until we near Florence, and get a glimpse of the lofty Appenines. Immediately upon arriving in the city we did the wisest thing possible—hired a guide, a very intelligent, gentlemanly Italian, who thoroughly understands the best way of seeing the principal sights in the shortest possible time. My friend translated for me as we passed along, and we had no difficulty. We told him in the morning, on setting out, that we wanted to see as much of Florence as possible in a day. "If you will not stay too long in the picture gallery, I shall show you more than is worth seeing by four o'clock this afternoon."

After a hurried breakfast, we started out at 8 o'clock. The day being oppressively hot, it required no little exertion to keep pace with the guide. We visited only two of the leading churches, as one tires of it so much in the way of cathedrals at every stopping place. The paintings, sculpture, costly decorations, altars laden with gold and silver, candelabra, &c., are magnificently gorgeous beyond description. They are mostly built of marble, with wonderful mosaics, and tesselated floors of the most marvellous description. The Church of the Annunciation is noted principally for a miraculous picture of the Virgin, surrounded by most costly and massive ornaments of gold and silver, gems and trinkets of great splendor. The Church of St. Lorenzo is said to be the finest mosaic chapel in the world. Its paintings, one of which, representing Moses with the laws on the tables of stone, took eleven years to paint) are by the best ancient artists. The great cathedral of Florence, the Duomo Campanile, we shall not attempt to describe. The Museum of Mosaics contains the most wonderful works of mosaic art (mostly modern); it is not very large, certainly; nor is that at all astonishing when you learn that there are round tables in it valued at $60,000. The King's Palace we also visited, and were amazed with the magnificence and wealth of the place. This nation is bankrupt, they say, and has no resources. Well, it may be so, but one cannot see any signs of it here; they look like the saloons and chambers you read of in the Arabian Nights. We next visited the Uffizi Galley, containing one of the finest collections in the world; here, in the small room called the "Tribune," is the world-famed Medician Venus, the Listening Slave, the Wrestlers, the Apollo, and the wonderful Dancing Faun, to which Michael Angelo so marvellously restored the head and arms; the beautiful Raphaelleggio, and four others, by Raphael. This little room is truly a casket of gems.

It requires quite a struggle to leave such a sanctuary of genius. There are altogether 1,400 paintings and 500 pieces of sculpture in this gallery, all more or less deserving of notice.

Some of the finest sculpture may be found here, in the open squares, in front of public buildings, surrounded by cabs, omnibuses and their drivers, together with hosts of loiterers, who lean against and often sit smoking on their base.

Florence excels in churches, art and historic associations; but in other respects is a dead, mouldering and uninteresting city. The Arno—the river with a lovely name—is a muddy stream, and the famed Bridge of Sighs is not equal to what we saw in many places in Germany. The old part of the city has a foreign appearance. The new possesses some fine streets, shops and public buildings. The streets are nearly all flagged, not paved, and most of them very narrow. The whole place seems to be dried up, and yet there are fully a score of sights in it, each one—if you saw nothing else—worth a visit as you are passing Florence. Having seen Florence in a day, and the weather being extremely hot, we proceeded by night train to

PISA.

The attractions of Pisa are principally confined to one sacred corner. There stand the Cathedral, the Baptistry, the Leaning Tower, and the Campo Santo—all built of the same marble, all varieties of the same architecture, all comparable with years, and fortunate in their society and solitude. As they stand away from the details of the town, they have a venerable and impressive appearance.

'Long celebrated for her maritime achievements against the Saracens, Pisa added, in 1063, a still brighter leaf to her chaplet by bursting the chain of the Port of Palermo, capturing six vessels laden with rich merchandise, and bringing them home in triumph to her native Arno. By an unanimous decree the citizens determined to convert this booty into a cathedral, to surpass all others in size and beauty, and to be at once a thank-offering to heaven and a perpetual monument to their country's honor.' Nothing can be more noble and glorious than the Pisan interior lying directly east and west, the long ranges of mighty columns, the double aisles all leading to the vast mosaic which looks down over its vast altar. The rich light pours through a hundred windows of stained glass. In the centre, hanging low from the high roof, is the lamp of antique bronze, so well known as having suggested to Galileo the movement of the pendulum. Scattered throughout this building, from its gorgeous and bejewelled high altar to its beautiful eastern bronze gates, are rich mosaics, and reliefs, and sculptured tombs, and pictures, and relics of the First Crusade.

The Cathedral is of white marble, and the beautiful tints—the work of seven centuries—produce an effect which nature (the finest of all painters) alone can accomplish. The Leaning Tower is also of marble, and looks as fresh as if the sculptor had finished it yesterday, and not 600 years ago. From the top there is a fine view of the Appenines. The Baptista is of black and white marble, and the two are so beautifully blended as to form a most striking edifice.

The river Arno is just as muddy here as at Florence, but there is a lovely promenade on each side of it, up which we strolled after sight seeing and "took stock" of the pretty black eyed Italian ladies, out for their afternoon drives and promenades. We ran down from here to Leghorn, the great bathing place, the Long Branch of Italy, and after a dip in the blue waters of the Mediterranean and a sight of the elite of the country gathered here, we proceeded by steamer to Genoa.

How calm and motionless the water is this evening, silent as a lake, not a sail of any kind in sight, we appear to be alone on this beautiful sea. To our right lies the frowning outline of the coats, and to our left nothing but the bright blue waters of the broad Mediterranean. What tranquility is here; Heaven and the ocean are at peace, the winds have sunk to rest with the setting sun; all nature seems in calm and undisturbed repose. As we neared we were amazed at the beauty of the bay. The city also presents a charming appearance from the sea. After patronizing the Hotel Feder, a palace and really worthy of the appellation, we spent the five hours at our disposal in seeing something of this splendid city, which can be seen in a few hours. It is from the deck of the steamer, as she rounds in from the gulf, that this queenly city is seen at its best, with its streets of palaces rising tier above tier from the water, girdling with its long lines of bright white houses, the vast sweep of its harbor, the mouth of which is marked by a huge natural rock, crowned by a lighthouse tower. Its white houses rise out of a mass of fig and olive and orange trees, the glory of its old patrician luxury. The mountains behind the town are spotted at intervals by small, circular tower-forts.

Genoa, the proud old western mart of Italy, the once restless rival of the queen of the eastern sea, that lies so humble and low, is like, and yet unlike other of the once rich and still beautiful cities of the country. It shares with them the beauties of a clear Italian sky. With them it boasts relics of a former glory, of such wealth and splendor, that shame the boasted majesty and grandeur of modern cities. But Genoa has more than this. There is yet courage in the bright eye, and life in the lithe sinews of its people. The like of its teeming quays, its crowded harbor, its busy, narrow streets, alive with a moving throng is seen nowhere else in Italy. The three great thoroughfares of the place, the Via Nuova, the Via Nuovissima, and the Via Balbi, are one long succession of palaces; the walls of some of them within, now in the hands of government and open to the public, alive with masterpieces by Vandyck and other great artists. The great, heavy, stone balconies, one above another, and tier over tier; with here and there one larger than the rest, towering high up—a huge marble platform; the doorless vestibules, massively barred lower windows, immense public staircases, thick marble pillars, strong dungeon-like arches and dreary, dreaming, echoing vaulted chambers; among which the eye wanders again, and again, and again, as every plale is succeeded by another—the terrace gardens between houses and houses, with green arches of the vine, and groves of orange-trees and oleander, twenty, thirty, forty feet above ners 'and still shining out in beautiful colors and voluptuous designs, where the walls are dry, the steep uphill streets of small palaces, with marble terraces looking down into close by-ways, the magnificent churches, and the rapid passage from a street of stately edifices into one of the vilest squalor, steaming with unwholesome stenches, and swarming with half-naked children and dirty people—make up, altogether, such a scene of wonder and contradiction that a stranger is induced by it to walk on, and on, and look about him in wonder. A bewilderment with all the inconsistency of a dream, and all the pain and pleasure of an extravagant reality!

Valuable Medical Preparations.

A GREAT AND SUCCESSFUL ENTERPRISE.

No fact is better established than that cod liver oil possesses remarkable curative properties, especially in the treatment of pulmonary disorders and all diseases of a wasting and debilitating character. Its virtues have been for many years recognized by the medical profession, and it is regarded as almost a specific in that scourge of our northern climate—consumption. Two objections only have interfered with its general use—the difficulty of obtaining an absolutely pure article, and its nauseating effect on the majority of instances.

The first objection admits of easy removal; the last has been made the subject of much study and experiment by physicians and chemists, and there is at least one preparation of cod liver oil in the market which is entirely free from the disagreeable taste, and in which the most valuable element for renewing the debilitated tissues of the body, vitalizing the blood, restoring digestive power and strengthening the entire system.

These results are not merely matters of theory, but have been verified in thousands of instances during the six years that have elapsed since the introduction of this valuable medicine. The most prominent physicians warmly endorse the virtues of this remedy and prescribe it in their daily practice. Its efficacy is apparent in the following diseases of a wasting character: Consumption in all its stages, coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all disorders of the throat; scrofula, in its various forms, rheumatism, skin diseases, diseases of children, general debility, and anæmia, or impoverishment of the blood.

This remedy is prepared solely by Messrs Scott & Bowne, manufacturing chemists, Nos. 108 and 110 Wooster street, N. Y. Since its introduction, in 1874, it has gained great popularity, through the recognition of its intrinsic merits, and the demand is steadily enlarging. It is now manufactured at the rate of nearly half a million bottles per annum. The oil is expressly prepared for the firm by their agents in Newfoundland, and is absolutely pure.

The premises occupied in the above named location comprise two floors, each measuring 50 by 100 feet in area. The laboratory is complete in all its appointments, and the various processes are conducted in the most scientific manner. The firm employ a large number of persons, including eight travelling representatives who visit physicians and druggists throughout the United States and Canada. Upwards of 60,000 sample bottles of the medicine have been distributed among the medical profession, from whom the firm have received numerous testimonials of the most highly laudatory character. In addition to the home demand the oil is exported in considerable quantities to Spanish America, Australia, and other foreign countries. Commercially it is a great success, but the benefits which it has bestowed upon suffering humanity are simply incalculable.

Another valuable preparation from the laboratory of this firm is Scott & Bowne's Palatable Castor Oil. Every one is familiar with the efficacy of this remedy in all derangements occasioned by constipation, etc. and most people know experimentally how disagreeable is the castor oil in ordinary use. This preparation is in a form of an emulsion, is perfectly palatable, and superior to all other medicines where a cathartic is required. It can be given to children without the slightest difficulty, and for this reason alone is one of the most valuable medical preparations extant. It is for sale by druggists throughout the country.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, OCT. 11.

The $90,000 By-Law.

On Wednesday, the 3rd of November, the qualified electors of the city will be called upon to vote "yea" or "nay" on the proposal to pass a By-law, the object of which is to raise by way of loan the sum of $90,000, of which $66,543.20 is to be applied to discharging the indebtedness of the Corporation to the Merchants Bank; $19,000 to the payment of overdue debentures; and $4,456.80 to pay off the arrears due the County of Hastings.

The arguments for and against the objects to be attained by passing this By-law have already been so fully and so recently stated in these columns that it would be a waste of space to repeat them. Suffice it to say the position of the INTELLIGENCER in regard to the matter remains unchanged. We hold that, under ordinary circumstances, sufficient revenue should be raised in each year to meet the expenditure, but emergencies may occur when this sound principle must of necessity be departed from. We regard this as such an occasion. As a large amount of extraordinary expenditure had this year to be provided for, including a deficit from last year, which the Council of 1879 caused by persisting in exceeding the estimates, $1,500 for hospital, &c., no other course was open to the Council than that which they have taken. To have squarely met all liabilities [illegible] by 23 mills on the dollar; so the Council decided—and we think wisely—that as so high a rate would be certain to prove oppressive, they would have recourse to borrowing to meet the deficit, at the same time to effect a saving of about $1,000 a year in the interest account, and wipe out the debt due to the bank.

The people have the decision in their own hands, and it will be for them to say whether they will postpone some of their obligations or pay a rate of 22½ mills on the dollar for the current year. Should the electors, as we believe they will, record a majority of their votes in favor of the By-law, the finances of the city will be placed in a much more manageable state than they have been in for several years past, and the Council of 1881 will have a clear sheet to start with. There is but one thing that can prejudically affect this position, and that is the possible exceeding of the estimates by the present Council. Aldermen who vote to expend more money than has been estimated for are individually liable for the excess, and should the majority so far forget their duty as to pursue the course which we have indicated, it is to be hoped that some ratepayer will take the necessary action in the matter. But of this contingency we have little fear, as up to this time the Council for the present year have shown an earnest desire to economize.

Should the By-law pass, future Councils must not take it as a warrant for extravagance; for although the ratepayers have in the past condoned the excessive expenditures of former years, they are now fully awake to the situation, and will insist upon a careful and prudent management of their financial affairs, and the INTELLIGENCER will assist in attaining this desirable object.

We therefore hope that the By-law will pass, and that it will not be regarded as a precedent for the guidance of future Councils.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Saturday's Canada Gazette contains the following proclamation:—"Whereas it hath pleased Almighty God in his great goodness to vouchsafe unto our Dominion of Canada the blessings of a bountiful and abundant harvest, we therefore, considering that these blessings enjoyed by the people through the said Dominion do call for a solemn and public acknowledgement, have thought fit by and with the advice of our Privy Council for Canada to appoint Wednesday, the 3rd day of November next, as a day of general thanksgiving to Almighty God for the bountiful harvest with which Canada has been blessed this year, and we do invite all our loving subjects throughout Canada to observe the said day as a day of general thanksgiving."

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Notes by the Way.

Few places on the Continent have made more rapid progress in all that constitutes material wealth and prosperity than Toronto, the Queen City of the West. Within the past decade its population has increased from 54,000 to 76,000, and if the suburbs were included in the estimate, it would probably swell the number to 100,000. This growth is mainly owing to its position as a commercial centre, and to its extensive railway communication with all parts of the country. As feeders to its commerce it has the Grand Trunk, the Great Western, the Northern, the Toronto, Grey and Bruce, the Toronto and Nipissing, and the Credit Valley Railways. These Roads strike out in every direction, southwest, north, north-west, and east, running through rich agricultural counties, thriving villages and towns, and manufacturing centres, and penetrating into the most remote settlements of the far north and west, bringing in the vast products of the farm, the forest, and the factory, and returning with valuable freight from the immense warehouses which are filled with goods from the chief markets of the world. To realise how much this railway service has done and is doing to build up Toronto, one has only to visit the various Railway depots, the large freight houses, the great elevators, store houses, and lumber yards, and watch the long trains as they traverse the many tracks on the Esplanade, and the various lines diverging to different warehouses, depots and factories. And then to form some conception of the growth of business, we have only to walk along the leading streets and see the immense wholesale warehouses which have been erected within the last few years, the enlargement and increase of factories in the outskirts, and the palatial retail stores which are to be found on King and Yonge streets. No doubt one of the chief aids to the growth of Toronto, is the wholesale trade, which has expanded to an enormous extent during the last ten and fifteen years, and which if it increases within the next ten years as rapidly as in the past, will rival that of Montreal. Many of the leading houses in the latter City have established branches in Toronto, some have moved their entire business, and those who have visited Hamilton and other Western Cities where a considerable wholesale business has been done, will not have much difficulty in concluding that there is a tendency towards the centralization of the wholesale trade, at least of Ontario, in Toronto. Speaking of centralization reminds us of the growing tendency towards making Toronto the centre of everything of value—the desire of its people to make it the hub of Ontario—or for that matter of the Dominion universe. It is now the centre of a vast railway system, tapping all parts of the north, north-west, west and south-west, and now it is endeavoring to reach forth another railway arm into the Ottawa, to bring to its lap the products of the extensive mining, agricultural and lumbering districts of the northern country. It is now the seat of nearly all the Collegiate and Public Institutions of the country, and where, it becomes envious and jealous, and puts in its claim with as much assurance as if it was really entitled to it. It is the site of the most extensive and costly buildings and grounds for Industrial Exhibitions in the Dominion, and not content with having the finest and most successful of any of the Annual Exhibitions, it wants to monopolize them all, and even do away with the roving Provincial Exhibition, and bring it to Toronto.

Probably in no respect has Toronto made greater strides than in journalism. It has long occupied the position of being the great centre of newsparperdom in the Dominion. While Montreal was the great wholesale centre and Hamilton the manufacturing centre of the Dominion, Toronto could always boast of having the ablest and most enterprising newspapers. And recently the leading papers of that city have taken an entirely new departure, and at one bound have placed themselves in the first rank of journalism on this continent, rivalling in size and appearance, as well as in ability, the great dailies of New York and Chicago. The Globe was the first to assume the new quarto shape and to introduce the new lightning presses. But the Mail was not far behind in the race, and when it changed form, it was so much superior to the Globe in its size, general make-up and newsy appearance, as it had long been superior in its editorial management, that it at once forged ahead of its formidable rival, and became the ablest and leading newspaper of the Dominion. The proprietors of the Mail are now about completing one of the finest buildings in Toronto, partly for its own use and for rental. Its own offices front on Bay Street, the counting room being on the first flat, press rooms in the basement, and the editorial rooms and composing rooms in the fifth story. It need hardly be said that in the arrangement and appointments of all the departments, great regard has been had to convenience and comfort, and we question very much, whether in any of the large cities of the United States there will be found, when completed, a better appointed newspaper office than that of the Mail. Its circulation has increased with great rapidity, the daily edition averaging about 20,000 copies, and the weekly running up to 41,500. Mr. Bunting, M. P., the head of the establishment is evidently the right man in the right place. He has a practical knowledge of the business, is a clever writer, a shrewd business man, and has shown himself by his handling of its affairs to be a successful manager and under his continued management, we have no doubt the Mail will be a financial success, and continue to be a great power in the Conservative party.

The Telegram, the property of J. Ross Robertson, is also a marvel of success. The office is directly opposite the Mail building on King Street, its counting and editorial rooms are fitted up in a most gorgeous manner and with every regard to convenience and comfort. Mr. Robertson, who is a practical printer, has a good deal of dash about him. He has knocked about in the world enough to become acquainted with the wants of the Toronto public, and satisfying himself that one of these wants was a live evening paper, he embarked in the enterprise, which from the first was a successful venture. It was enlarged at different times—an office specially constructed for it, and with an able staff of editors and reporters, he gets out about the best evening paper published in the Dominion—decidedly the spiciest and newsiest. Its circulation has gone on increasing until it now reaches the vicinity of 12,000. Mr. Robertson has recently put in a new press, which rattles off the Telegram at lightning speed. Indeed, the number printed every minute is something marvellous,—too marvellous to credit—if one did not see the execution of the press for himself. This press is evidently Mr. Robertson's pet of the establishment, and it was interesting to watch the smile of satisfaction lighting up his countenance, and a sense of pride stealing over his features, as he stood looking at the great machine turning out the work of his mind and brain at the rate of 500 a minute. The Telegram is a great power in Toronto, and we are glad to find by its large advertising patronage and its extensive circulation, that it is appreciated. May it go on and prosper. More anon.

Rawdon Township Fair.

The annual show of the township of Rawdon Agricultural Society was held in Stirling, Friday, Oct. 8th. The weather was exceedingly favorable for a large turnout and a good exhibition, but for some reason or another—whether the County Show of the day previous, in Huntingdon, had taken away the interest in the Township Show, or whether it was the fault of the Officers and members of the Society, in not exciting sufficient public interest in its affairs—the exhibition itself was comparatively a poor one, and the attendance by no means what might have been expected. The members resident of the Township complain that the people of the village, who are largely benefitted by having the Fairs held there, do not come forward and assist, by becoming members and exhibitors, to make the show successful. However this may be, it must be apparent to everyone that unless a greater interest is manifested in future in the Township Fair by all concerned, it would be far better to do away with it altogether. For such an exhibition as that held on Friday in Stirling, was little better than a burlesque. It certainly was nothing to what the wealthy and highly prosperous Township of Rawdon and Village of Stirling should have made. Last year the entries were considerably over 700; this year there were only 386. It is to be hoped if these Township Fairs are continued that the people of the Township will interest themselves more generally in the affairs of the Society, and endeavor to make the next exhibition worthy of that prosperous and highly cultivated section of country.

The Town Hall was set apart for the exhibition of Domestic Manufactures, Fruit, Dairy Produce, etc., and the basement of the hall for Roots and Vegetables and Grain. In all these departments the show some very fine single and double carriage harness of his manufacture, and Mr. Jesse Barlow some good samples of leather from his tannery.

A number of carriages, democrats, lumber waggons and sleighs, from the shops of Messrs. Ralph & Bush, and Mr. Wheeler, showed neat designs and good workmanship.

There was a very good exhibition of sheep, principally those shown by the Messrs. Taylor and Hume at the North Hastings Fair. Mr. Thos. Walker exhibited a very fine specimen of a ram lamb of the Cotswold breed, which he purchased at the Hamilton Provincial Fair.

The show of cattle was small, but that of horses was fair, particularly in carriage beasts and young animals.

Mr. J. Graham, of the Stirling Foundry, was the principal exhibitor of Agricultural Implements, of which he showed several varieties.

ANOTHER RAILWAY COLLISION!

Terrible Casualty on the Pennsylvania Railway at Pittsburg.

An Engine Crashes into an Overloaded Passenger Car.

TWENTY-FOUR PERSONS FATALLY CRUSHED, SCALDED, OR BURNED.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 10.—The frightful collision occurred at midnight on the Pennsylvania road near Twenty-eighth-street crossing, was more disastrous than at first reported. Nine people killed outright, and eleven more since died, making in all twenty deaths. As many more were hurt, who the physicians say cannot recover. Besides these a large number are slightly injured. The first section of the accomodation going east left the Union Depot. The back platform was so crowded that the head-light on the second section following could not be seen. The first section stopped at the regular station on Twenty-eighth street, where it was delayed by another train on the next block. The second section came along at a high rate of speed, but owing to the crowds on the back platform of the first section the signal lights were hidden from view, and consequently the engineer of the second section did not see the train ahead until so near that the train could not be checked in time to avoid a collision. The engine went crashing into the rear coach of the first section packed with human beings. Among these the engine buried itself to the very car windows in the screaming suffering men, women and children, mangling all who were in its course. The boiler head of the colliding engine was burst off by the shock, and the scalding water and steam poured over the occupants of the car as if beat on completing the horrible work. It is impossible to describe the fearful scene that followed. The moans of the dying and wounded and the shrieks of those who had lost friends was frightful. Word was immediately telegraphed to the Mayor's office for assistance, and twenty-five policemen, with a full corps of physicians and waggons, were despatched to the scene of the disaster, where they were soon busily employed in alleviating the sufferings of the victims and clearing the wreck. The wounded who were unable to care for themselves were carried to the Soldiers' Hospital, a short distance from the scene of the disaster.

The number of deaths reported up to noon yesterday was 24.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 11.—On Saturday, Edward Mills, a rough, quarreled with and fatally stabbed Hissel, a saloon keeper.

ELGIN, Ill., Oct. 11.—Yesterday a gravel train ran into a drove of cows near Stillman Valley, on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul road-ditching 10 ton cars. The wounded and killed are estimated at 15. John Ryan, section man, was killed outright.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Twelve stabbing cases were reported here yesterday. Some of the victims were dangerously wounded.

Marie Barns, aged 50, the mother of five children, being tired of life, suicided with laudanum in Jersey City yesterday.

During a dense fog yesterday in Lower Bay, the tug Sammie, with 55 excursionists on board, ran into the old Domion steamer Albemarle. A woman was intense excitement, but only one man was hurt.

The Times, of Indianapolis, states it is asserted that Hendricks, English and McDonald will submit to the Republicans to-day, a proposition for the adoption by both parties in Indianapolis to prevent violence at polls. A meeting of Republicans in Muncie on Saturday night addressed by Hon. A. G. Porter, was attacked by ruffians, who by a shower of stones seriously injured the County Recorder, a leading physician, and two ladies. The assailants escaped.

THE ASSIZES.

PRESENTMENT

Of the Grand Jury at Court of Oyer and Terminer, held at Belleville, September 27, 1880.

To HIS LORDSHIP MR. JUSTICE BURTON:

The Grand Jury respectfully beg leave to present,

That they have disposed of all the business brought before them by the Crown officer.

They visited the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, and received every attention from the Superintendent and his assistants. The system of instruction pursued was explained, and a number of pupils examined before the Grand Jury, giving a most interesting and practical exhibition of the advancement these unfortunates are enabled to make in acquiring knowledge. The Institute appears to be most efficiently managed; every department reflects credit on those who have it in charge.

The Grand Jury also visited the Gaol, where they found confined eight males and nine females. They found everything in good order, and bearing evidence of being carefully looked after by the officials, excepting the Grand Jury room, where they found evident marks of neglect—chairs, table, and desk covered with dust. The Grand Jury desire to express their regret that a difficulty appears to exist in finding employment for prisoners sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor. Owing to this, confinement in gaol where the prisoners are well fed and cared for, loses in efficacy as a punishment in very many cases.

The Grand Jury were pleased to notice the much needed repairs in the Court Room, which not only improve its appearance, but will also add to the comfort of those having business to transact in the Courts. But they regret that the County Council have not thought proper to have made a larger appropriation, and to have made the repairs more general, as the ceiling shows marks of a defective roof.

The Grand Jury desire to express their thanks to the Crown Counsel, B. M. Britton, Q.C., also Mr. Coleman, C. P., and the other officers of the Court, for the courteous assistance given in the discharge of our duties.

For self and fellows,

THOMAS DEARSY,
Foreman G. J.

GRAND CONCERT

BY THE

MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CLUB

OF BOSTON,

In the CITY HALL, Belleville, Friday Evening, October 15th,

At 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Belleville Mechanics' Institute.

TRUTH.

WE take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, as long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our Goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability is the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our DIRECT IMPORTS, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

JUST TO HAND,

A few beautiful patterns of English Floor Oilcloths, and five bales (very choice patterns) Tapestry and Brussels Carpets, which we are selling at extremely moderate prices.

Barber, Brignall & Co.,

IMPORTERS,

Belleville and Trenton.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, OCT. 11.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A regular meeting of the Board will be held to-morrow night.

POLICE.—There were one tramp and one prisoner in the bastile on Saturday night, and last night the prisoner was alone in the cells.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Amos Rowe, of the Winnipeg Times, was in the city yesterday and left this morning with Mrs. Rowe for Minnipeg.

THE RIFLE.—The Hastingss Rifle Association's matches will commence to-morrow. It is probable that there will be a large number of competitors.

FOG.—There are now, as usual at this time of year, heavy fogs nights and morning. That of this morning was unusually dense, but the rays of the sun dissipated it.

THE ACCIDENT.—Sergt. Frizone rested better on Saturday night and seemed somewhat better yesterday. He slept well last night and this morning his condition was eported to be rather more favorable.

THE ASSIZES.—The business of the Court is all finished, except the case of Palmer vs. Solmes, the rehearing of which case will take place on Friday next, when the Court will sit specially for that purpose.

BIG WORK.—At the West Belleville elevator on Saturday 160 waggon loads of grain were received. If the loads averaged 40 bushels each—as they probably did—this would make a total of 6,400 bushels taken in on that day.

SLOW PROGRESS.—A party who left on the Katie Gray at about 10 p. m. on Saturday made slow progress. At about noon yesterday the yacht was only about ten miles distant from the starting point, having been becalmed up to that time.

CONFIRMATION.—The rite of confirmation was yesterday morning administered by the Bishop of Ontario in Christ Church to about forty candidates, of whom the majority were females. The congregation was very large, and His Lordship delivered a forcible address on confirmation. About one hundred persons partook of the holy communion at the close of the other service. The Bishop proceeded during the afternoon to Trenton.

TOBACCO.—According to the new Act, passed during last session, a specific duty of 20 cents per lb. must be paid on all manufactured tobacco, plug or cut. Not a single ounce can be sold over the counter, except in plugs or package, sealed with the stamp of the Inland Revenue department, pasted on each package or box, as dealers are not now allowed to break bulk at all. The penalty for the first offence against the new law is $200 and for the second, $500.

A MUSICAL TREAT.—A rare musical treat is to be given to the public on Friday evening next, when the famous Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston, assisted by Miss Marie Nellini, vocalist, will give an entertainment in the City Hall under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute. The merits of the organization are well known to the public of Belleville, and as it is now even stronger than ever, lovers of fine music should make it a point to attend.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—Tracklaying is progressing rather slowly on the Grand Junction at present, says the Peterborough Review of Saturday, on account of the very crooked and winding character of the track at the place where the workmen are engaged at present. They expect to reach Redmond's crossing to-night, and from that point to Ashburnham the track is almost a straight line, and will be plain sailing. If the weather remains as it is we shall probably chronicle the arrival of a train at Ashburnham about Wednesday evening. The Chancellor is expected to give his decision regarding the dispute between this Company and the Midland on Tuesday, so that they will know whether they can run on to Peterborough or not, over the disputed part of the track.

THE MIDLAND FAIR.—Mr. J. L. Clapp, of Sidney, won a large number of prizes for poultry at the Midland Fair.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, southerly to westerly winds, fine weather, not much change in temperature.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

RIFLE PRACTICE.—The team of the 49th Battalion, who are to shoot the return match with the Prince Edward team to-morrow, made some splendid scores in practice on Saturday. Lieut. Biggar made 84 out of a possible 105; Sergt. Hagerman made 82; Lt. Johnson 81; Pte. Marshall 80; Sergt. Cunningham made 9 successive bullseyes, including his two sighting shots, at 200 yards. Lt. Johnson scored 7 bullseyes at the same range. This is the finest shooting that has ever been made on the range here.

PULLMAN'S & CO.'S CONFEDERATION.—It will be seen by advertisement that this great combination is to exhibit in Belleville on Saturday next, the 16th inst. The Hamilton Spectator thus refers to the exhibition in that city: The expectations of the citizens in regard to Pullman & Hamilton's Great London Confederation were fully realized yesterday. The afternoon performance was fairly attended, and in the evening the immense tent was packed to its utmost capacity, many being compelled to stand. Of the show itself little can be said than that the predictions respecting it were fulfilled to the letter, and the audience went away thoroughly satisfied. The pantomime of "Humpty Dumpty" was exceedingly amusing and created rounds of laughter and applause. The other performances were carried out with remarkable excellence, considering that the company are just entering upon the season's duties. One or two of the old performers are missed, while several new faces are to be seen, the changes no deteriorating in the least from the merits of the show. The celebrated Boisett brothers, in their popular gymnastic performances, were exceedingly good, and the same can be truthfully said of M'lle Realta, Prof. Smith's educated dogs, Sir John Scott's trained horses, and, in fact, each feature of the show. At the evening performance the tent was lit up with electric light, which shed a brilliant radiance. Messrs. Pullman & Hamiiton exhibit in Dundas to-day, and in Caledonia to-morrow. They are worthy of large patronage.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

MONDAY, Oct. 11.

SENTENCED.

James McFarlane, for being drunk and resisting the police, was sent to Central Prison for six months.

DRUNK.

John Connell, first offence, was allowed to go.

LAID OVER.

The case of Jellett vs. Downey & Preston was further laid over till Wednesday.

DOG BY-LAW.

A number of dog cases were laid over for another week.

Echoes from the Depot.

Five cars of emigrants, English and German, passed west this forenoon. The Germans are principally bound for the Western States, and the English will remain in Canada.

Mr. J. Harrigan, section foreman of this station, has been promoted to the position of Roadmaster, G. T. R., west of Port Huron. Mr. Harrigan is a very efficient officer, and his many friends will be glad to hear of his promotion.

Marine.

Another three master, the J. Bentley, arrived yesterday. She will take lumber from the Eagle mill for Oswego.

The schr. D. Freeman has cleared for Oswego with barley and the J. R. Benson for the same port with rye.

The schr. Mary Foster arrived from Oswego yesterday afternoon.

Passed down—Steam barge Indian, schr. Florence and another schooner, all fully laden, from Trenton for Oswego.

The statement that the Mary Foster had had gone ashore near Oswego last week was an error. She arrived safely without any damage whatever.

The J. Bentley is one of the largest schooners on Lake Ontario, her registered tonnage being 525 tons and carrying capacity about 1,000 tons.

The Kingston News says: "It is not intended to raise the Olive Branch, as the cost would exceed the worth of the vessel."

The steam barge Indian ran into the steamer Hastings near Stone Mills on Saturday night. The barge struck her nearly amidships, on the port side, smashing one of her paddle wheels and otherwise seriously damaging her badly.

The steam barge Saxon got aground on the Ship Island shoal on Saturday night. She is light, bound up for grain and was still hard and fast this morning.

Lumber shippers are paying $1.10 per m. feet for cargoes to Oswego; for grain 2½c. hence to Oswego is offered.

The tug Robb is here. She tows the Bentley and the Marquis from port to port.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

THE APPLE TRADE.—Since September 1st, 36,357 barrels of apples have left Montreal, while last year at this season shipments had only commenced. The exports for the past week were 11,376 bbs., as against 7,297 the previous week, and 1,229 the corresponding week last year.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—The exports from Montreal for the week were 25,164 boxes of cheese and 9,335 packages of butter, as against 21,-285 boxes of cheese and 8,331 packages of butter the previous week. The shipments for the corresponding week in 1879 were 14,-475 boxes of cheese and 10,878 packages of butter.

DULCIGNO SURRENDERED.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—It is rumored that the Turks have already evacuated Dulcigno, and the Montenegrins occupy their place. A Constantinople despatch confirms the report that the Council of Ministers has decided upon the immediate and unconditional surrender of Dulcigno.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—News of the surrender of Dulcigno was received here with great delight by friends of the administration, who regard it as a decided triumph of Gladstone's policy. Up to half-past 2 this afternoon, the foreign office had not been advised of the occupation of Dulcigno by the Montenegrins.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—It is rumored that the Sultan has agreed, after counsel with his ministers, to the unconditional surrender of Dulcigno.

A Constantinople despatch says the Sultan declared if the fleets come to Constantinople he will abdicate. The Sultan is doing his utmost to make separate terms with Russia, without success.

The Daily News says the Cabinet Council summoned for to-day is postponed in consequence of the information that Sultan is once more in a promissory mood.

A Constantinople correspondent says: I am informed the Porte will probably decide to cede Dulcigno immediately, but will maintain his previous demands with regard to the naval demonstration.

ON DIT.—The Picton Gazette says: "It is rumored that arrangements are being made to tender a banquet to the Hon. Hector Langevin, C.B., by the bay counties, either at Belleville or Picton. For our part we would hail with pleasure the visit of the foremost statesman of the Province of Quebec to our fair country, where he is sure to be accorded a most hearty reception."

THE BIDDULPH MURDER.—The jury in the Biddulph murder case have disagreed. The trial was that of James Carroll for the murder of Mrs. Donnelly, and whether he or any other of the prisoners will be tried at the present Assizes for any of the other murders will probably be determined to-day.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE AND Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

By-Law No.

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE RAISING BY WAY OF LOAN OF THE SUM OF NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE PURPOSES THEREIN MENTIONED AND FOR THE ISSUE OF DEBENTURES OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE THEREFOR.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say:—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Rolls of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held;

In Foster Ward, in the building occupied by John Covert, on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and that John Covert be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

In Samson Ward, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and that Francis Clark be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

In Ketcheson Ward, in the Shop occupied by William Robertson on the South side of Campbell Street, and that George Adams be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Ketcheson Ward.

In Baldwin Ward in the No. 2 Fire Engine shed on West Front Street, and that Richard Taylor be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning officer for said Baldwin Ward.

In Bleecker Ward in the shop occupied by Mrs. Eaves, South Mill Street, and that John Northcott be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Bleecker Ward.

In Coleman Ward in the house of D. C. Curtis, North Front Street in Coleman Ward, and that D. C. Curtis be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Coleman Ward.

In number seven division Murney Ward in the house of Edward Deacon, Murney Street, in said number seven division, and that John Bull be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number seven division in Murney Ward.

In number eight division Murney Ward in the building known as Spongs, South Bridge Street, and that Peter Maybee be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number eight division in said Murney Ward.

Be it further enacted, that the Clerk of the Council for the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville, shall attend at the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on Thursday the Fourth day of November, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, to proceed to sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-Law, in accordance with the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

Be it further enacted, that the Mayor of the Corporation of the said City of Belleville shall attend at the City Hall in the said City, on Wednesday, the twenty-seventh day of October, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of appointing persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the said Clerk respectively on that behalf, of the persons interested in promoting or opposing the passing of this By-Law.

Read a first and second time, October 4th, 1880.

R. NEWBERRY,
City Clerk.

NOTICE.

TAKE Notice, that the above is a true copy of a proposed By-Law, which will be taken into consideration by the City Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, after one month from the first publication of the same in the INTELLIGENCER newspaper, published in the said City of Belleville, the date of which first publication was Thursday the seventh day of October, in the year of our Lord 1880; and that the votes of the Electors of the said Municipality of the City of Belleville will be taken thereon at the following places, on Wednesday, the Third day of November, A.D. 1880, the polls to be opened at nine o'clock in the morning, and to remain open until five of the clock in the afternoon of the same day; and the Deputy Returning Officers will be respectively as follows:—

IN FOSTER WARD, in the building occupied by John Covert on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and John Covert is Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

IN SAMSON WARD, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and Francis Clark is Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

Daily Intelligencer.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness.

You Have no Excuse.

Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick head ache, Habitual Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Heart burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing of and burning pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue, and disagreeable taste in the mouth, Coming up of food after eating, Low spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to your Druggist—and get a Bottle of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER for 75 cents; your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

SUBSTITUTES!

SYR: HYPOPHOS. FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES COMP: FELLOWS.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS,—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Sold by all Druggists.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Ameliasburg Fair.

Splendid Weather.

Immense Gathering.

Upwards of 4,000 on the Grounds.

On Saturday last the Agricultural Society of the Township of Ameliasburg held their Annual Exhibition at their grounds, Roblin's Mills. The day was everything that could be desired—not too hot or too cold. Shortly after 9 a. m. people began to assemble at the little village from far and near. The directors at once felt their "show" was to be a success. Too much credit can not be given to the President, J. G. Peck, Esq., and E. Roblin, Secretary, for the pains they have taken in placing the Ameliasburg Fair at the head of township fairs throughout the county. No town or city would need to blush over such a show of exhibits or gathering of people as were to be found at Roblin's Mills on Saturday. In the centre of the ground back of the hall the splendid hall (which has been enlarged) was at times crowded. The stand would seat from 300 to 500 people with ease. Underneath this, places for cattle and sheep have been fixed, which greatly adds to their comfort, in not being exposed to the hot sun. The exhibit in fowls this year was ahead of any previous year. The display of carriages and waggons would do credit at any County Show. Foreign work was well represented. G. & J. Brown, Belleville, had one of their "Champion" Fanning mills; Brown & Patterson, Whitby, Reaper and Mower; Patterson & Bro., Richmond Hill, Reaper and Mower; R. & A. Waddell, Trenton, Gang and Single Ploughs. Cossitt's Horse rake, Mann's Improved Seed sowers, by D. Gibson; Corn Cultivators and Turnip sowers, Massey firm, Newcastle; Martin, Bros., Belleville, Ploughs; G. A. Brown, Belleville, Buggies and Express Waggon; L. Palmer, Canifton, Waggon and Buggies. The work shown by these gentlemen was nothing but first class, and was spoken of in the highest terms by many.

The display in the Hall fell somewhat short of other years, but was good. That of grain was very fair. H. Welbanks, Esq., showed a new kind of wheat, which was very highly spoken of by the judges.

The usual number of air guns, side shows, Aunty Sallies, &c., &c., were on the ground. Credit is due Wm. Anderson, Esq., Reeve of the Township, for putting a stop to the running of wheels of fortune. These may appear to many quite harmless, but they answer very well in giving boys and young men a first lesson in gambling. Perhaps some other attractions allowed on the ground might have been stopped with beneficial results. The driving was very good. The great number of entries and small number of prizes given made very hard work for the judges.

Owing to shortness of time, your correspondent was not able to get the names of the judges in the different classes. The folowing is the Chicago's Grain Elevators.

Their aggregate capacity is 16,840,000 bushels; individual capacity from 90,000 to 2,000,000 bushels. They are in different parts of the city, but those at the disposal of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad give nearly one-third of the whole capacity. One of the newest of them, Armour, Dole and Co's elevator "D," may be taken as what is the fashion to call a "representative" elevator. It certainly is a very fine one, and should be seen by all inquiring visitors. It was begun in 1875, is 386 feet feet long, 100 feet wide and 145 feet high, required five million feet of lumber in its construction, and cost $350,000. One can easily obtain permission to inspect it and the Superintendent will enlighten his ignorance, or increase or qualify his knowledge, as the case may be. He is conducted to a little "elevator" (here is this confusion of names again; it is what our English friends call a "lift"), and hoisted to the top floor. At one end he sees, swiftly passing over a shaft, the largest belt in the United States, 180 feet in length, and 80 inches in width. Below him are great scales, and bins 60 feet deep. A fine and suggestive dust gradually covers his clothes as he listens to the polite cicerone, who is telling him that there are twenty-stx standard Fairbanks' scales in the building, and that they weighed so accurately that in an aggregate of six carloads there was only a shortage of thirty pounds between "St. Joe" and Chicago. But "look out for the engine when the bell rings." A train has come in below full of grain in bulk. Into a car goes a great chute, or nozzle; somebody pulls a lever, and, presto! away has gone that grain up into a weighing bin, then down into another receptacle of profundity and security. It dawns on the observer's mind that one man's property is by no means kept separate from another man's. This grain is all graded by a State Inspector. It is "weighed in" and "weighed out," and all that is needful is that the contents of ea h bin should be homogeneous. But here comes another train—empty cars to be filled for the east. Men wanted, with shovels to laboriously handle the grain? Not at all. Down comes the shute again, boards are put across the doorways of the cars, and in one of them after another the grain runs up foot by foot. In less time than any one would think possible—a few minutes to each car—the train is entirely loaded, its doors are closed, and the engine is drawing it out again, to be delivered to one of the eastern trunk lines.—Harper's Magazine for October.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 12

Value for Duty.

An able and temperate article on this subject, extracted from the Montreal Journal of Commerce, and which is supposed to be from the pen of Sir Francis Hincks, appears in another column. Our contemporary fully endorses the position taken by the Customs Department, which endorsation from so eminent and unbiassed an authority is highly embarrassing to those who have assailed the position of the Government. The attempt to convince honest importers that they have a grievance has signally failed, and the "slaughterers" feel that they meet with no sympathy, except from the Globe and a few of its confreres which are not wise enough to acknowledge that the public approve of the firmness of the Government, in putting a stop to the quasi-smuggling, so freely indulged in under the friendly auspices of the Mackenzie administration.

Notes by the Way.

The Mail building on the corner of King and Bay Streets, is one of the features of Toronto. Its tall tower, 162 feet from the sidewalk to its apex, surmounted by a flag staff 40 feet higher, makes it a distinguished object from any part of the city. From the building itself, situated as it is in the most central portion of the business streets, a most magnificent view of the city and its surroundings can be had. To the south lies Toronto Bay, alive just now with vessels of all grades and sizes, some loading lumber or grain at the yards and elevators, others with sails spread to the breeze speeding on their journey—passenger steamers on their way to Montreal, to Oswego and to Niagara, ferry and excursion steamers going to and from the island and other points of interest, and a host of smaller craft, yachts and skiffs—the whole presenting an enlivening scene. The island, a narrow strip of comparatively barren land, which might be made a much more beautiful summer resort, with a few houses and clumps of trees, separates the Bay from Lake Ontario, on whose blue waters can be seen at almost any hour numerous vessels passing up and down—and to the southwest on a clear day the shores at the head of the Lake can be distinctly seen. In the foreground on the shores of the bay, are the fine buildings and grounds of the Industrial Association, the Esplanade covered with miles of railway tracks, the large Union Station of the Grand Trunk Railway, and apparently at your very feet, and stretching to the east and west, are streets of immense structures of stone and brick, in which the wholesale and retail trade of the city is carried on. To the east are numerous public buildings, the Opera House, the Post Office, the English Cathedral, the Market, the Distillery and the Abattior of Gooderham & Worts, the suburbs of Stockdale, and Scarboro Heights, ten miles distant. To the west lies Parkdale, midway being the Lunatic Asylum, the Central Prison, the Mercer Institute, Trinity College, Toronto University, King's College, St. Andrew's Church; and to the north rising out of a forest of maples, oak and pines, are the spires of some of the finest and most costly churches in the Dominion, amongst which may be mentioned, Jarvis St. Baptist Church, the Metropolitan, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Elm St. Methodist Church, St. Stephens, Erskine St. Presbyterian Church, Holy Trinity, Osgoode Hall, and other public buildings. At probably no other point can such an extended view of the city be obtained, and here one can form some idea of its growth and extent, as compared with twenty or thirty years ago. While the growth of Toronto has been rapid for the past twenty years, it has also been substantial, and with its vast railway service, its extensive wholesale trade, facilities for shipping, and the prospective increase of manufactures, it has yet a more prosperous future.

Speaking of its railway service, mention may be made of the Credit Valley Railway, the latest of its many railway systems to be opened, and which the city has bonused to a very large extent. This road has been built as far as Ingersoll on the main line, with branches to Elora and Orangeville, and has a number of miles yet to be built to reach St Thomas, where it will form connection with the Canada Southern, and thus form a most important route for through traffic. Meanwhile it is developing a large local traffic. It runs through one of the finest agricultural sections of Western Ontario, taps a number of thriving villages and towns, and is already doing a very extensive freight and passenger traffic. For a new road the track is remarkably smooth—it is well equipped and officered, and is becoming one of the most popular lines running out of Toronto. To Mr. Laidlaw, the President, the road chiefly owes its construction. Overcoming almost insurmountable obstacles—difficulties which would well nigh appal the stoutest heart, he has fought them all, and has the proud satisfaction to have met with almost complete success. Mr. Jas. Rose, an old and experienced railroader, is the Superintendent, and the road has been fortunate in securing as its traffic superintendent, Mr. R. Luttrell, well and favorably known in Belleville.

Thirty-three years ago, in the early mornings, the writer, with a fellow apprentice, used to climb the mountain side at Hamilton, and gaze upon the beautiful panorama which the eye took in from the summit, and form beautiful pictures of the fairy scenes before us—pictures of not only the future of the "ambitious city" when the vast plain below us would be filled with a teeming population, and hives of busy workmen, and immense workshops and factories, and palatial stores and warehouses; but pictures of other kinds, the dim outlines of which he often transferred in imagination to canvas, and wrought up into fantastic shapes, and made for the figures who played thereupon a conspicuous part, a bright and glorious future. They were for the most part boyish-built castles, and while some of the pictures still stand out in all the lustre and glory which the most fervid youthful imagination could gild them with, others have crumbled into ruins and mouldered into ashes—burnt, dead ashes. Then Hamilton had but some 12,000 inhabitants; there was no railway then, but great lumbering stages brought the mails and passengers from Buffalo, and Toronto, and Detroit. A daily steamer ran from Hamilton to Toronto commanded by Capt. Harrison, now of Belleville, and occasionally one came in from Niagara, while a regular line ran between Hamilton and the St. Lawrence ports. Those were the days when the Spectator flourished under the management of R. R. Smiley—the old Gazette was in its palmy days under the control of Mr. Bull, and the Express vigorous with Mr. Brega at its head. What changes have taken place during these thirty-three years!—in the life of individuals—in the life of the city—in the life of the nation! Who can record them!

As we stand upon the mountain summit on this bright and beautiful October morning, and contrast the scene which greets our eye with that of thirty-three years ago, we can form some conception of the great change which has come over the life of the city. From a population of about 12,000 it has swelled to nearly 30,000. From comparatively a small collection of houses scattered over a vast plateau, it has become a populous city, with princely residences and beautiful lawns adorning the slope and lying at the foot of the mountain—whole streets of magnificent blocks of stone and brick have been built up—the tall chimneys which almost meet the clouds, and acres of acres of buildings point out immense manufactories, where thousands of busy hands are employed—the spires of elegant and costly churches and the piles of magnificent public and private buildings tell their own story of progression. The old stage coach has given way to the iron horse, and Hamilton, too, has its railway service, which has done, and is doing much to expand the trade and commerce of the city. From our vantage ground we can see the smoke of the locomotive coursing its way along the western slope of Burlington Heights, another plunging into the very depths of the city, another crossing a fairy-like structure which spans Burlington Canal, and another threading its winding way up the mountain side; while at your very feet, you behold the Toy Railway which traverses its devious way through various streets, half hidden by the foliage of the trees and connects the trade of Dundas with that of Hamilton. To the west lies the thriving town of Dundas, which is the seat of many important manufactories; to the north is the Crystal Palace, and east of that is Dundurn Castle, once the home of Sir Allen Napier McNab, who played no unimportant part in the history of Canada, thirty years ago: and to the north of that lies Burlington Cemetery, the city of the dead, where the changes in the life of the individual can best be noted. Looking towards the lake, you see Burlington Beach, which appears as a faint line, separating the Bay from Lake Ontario. The shore on the northern side is a high bluff, and in the back-ground the hills rise still higher forming a continuation of the mountain so called, which stretches away east to Niagara. Half hidden in the forest can be seen the village of Waterdown, and north of that is Burlington, formerly called Wellington Square, and on a clear morning Oakville and Toronto lighthouse can be seen. In the foreground lies the business portion of the City, not much like the City of thirty years ago. Whole streets of massive buildings fill up the space between the slope and the Railway line, and rising midst the mass of brick and stone and towering way above others are the spires of several churches, the new Court House, the Female College, and other public and private edifices. To the east the Hamilton and North Western Railway courses its winding way up the mountain side, and the plateau stretching away to the east and lying between the mountain and the bay, which thirty years ago was covered with forest, is now laid out into beautiful avenues and streets, with handsome boulevards and elegant residences, and filled up with business houses and a thickly settled population. Contrasted with the scene of thirty-three years ago, the picture is simply marvellous. What will it be within the next thirty years? Who can tell?

A number of new and elegant buildings are in course of erection, which will be an ornament to the city. Amongst them is one being erected for the Canada Life Insurance Company, to accommodate their rapidly increasing business. They have purchased the lot lately occupied by Messrs. Brown & Co., on the corner of King and James Streets. The contract for the building has been awarded to Brown, Love & Co., of Toronto. The material to be used will be of Connecticut brown stone, similar to that used in many of the large public buildings in New York. It will have a frontage of 50 feet on King St., and 150 on James Street; the style will be what is known as Classic Gothic, four stories high, surmounted by a tower on the corner of between 50 and 60 feet in height, in which an illuminated clock will be placed. To judge from the plans the building will prove one of the handsomest and most substantial in the Dominion. It is expected to be ready for occupation about the first of January, 1882.

Cattle Company.—A company of capitalists is being formed in Montreal for going into the raising of cattle extensively in the North West. Hon. Senator Cochrane is the principal promoter. It is intended to take up a large track of land near the base of the Rocky Mountains for the purposes of the Company.

Sporting Notes.

Picton, Oct. 9.—To day was the second day of the Picton driving park fall races. The weather was delightful and the track splendid.

The first race was a handicap running race for a purse of $150, $100 to first and $50 to second. The entries were Macedonicus, Islander, Piccolo, and St. James. Piccolo did not start. Islander was withdrawn after the first heat. Macedonicus won, with St. James second.

The next was a trotting race, free for all, for a purse of $150, troting, mile heats, best 3 in 5 in harness, $90 to first, $40 to second, and $20 to third. The entries were Little Billy, Richard B., Atwood, and Camors. The race was won by Little Billy, with Richard B. second, and Atwood third.

The Biddulph Tragedy.—Judge Armour, in the Middlesex Court of Assize on the 11th, announced that as the time of the Court would not allow it, no further trials of the Biddulph prisoners would take place this session. Mr. MacMahon made application for bail, but His Lordship reserved his decision until after he has had an opportunity of consulting with his brother judges upon the subject. The prisoners have been remanded to gaol to await this decision. If no bail is granted, a special commission may be issued to try them; but if neither is done they will remain in prison until the Spring Assizes, when they will be again brought up for trial.

Chilian Barbarity.—Further news regarding the late bombardment of Peruvian towns by the Chilians would seem to place the conduct of the latter in a still worse light. They are said to have demanded that a sloop and a transport be given up to them as satisfaction for the Covadonga, which the Peruvians blew up, under a penalty of the bombardment of the towns. They were offered the ships, and then began the bombardment. The news comes from a Peruvian source. It is said that peace negotiations have again commenced, the United States acting as intermediary.

Brome.—The nomination of candidates to represent the county of Brome in the House of Commons took place on the 11th at Knowlton, when Mr. D. A. Manson, Conservative, and Mr. S. A. Fisher, Liberal, were proposed. A public meeting was held in the afternoon, at which Sir Charles Tupper, the Hon. J. H. Pope, Mr. Thomas White, M. P., Mr. C. J. Coursol, M. P., the Hon. Mr. Lynch, and other leading supporters of the Liberal-Conservative party were present. Sir Charles Tupper spoke for two hours, and in the course of his speech said the Canadian Pacific railway would be running to the Rocky Mountains in three years from the present time. Sir Charles was received with great enthusiasm.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. Official, Ills.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

The Collision on the Bay.

The Kingston Whig of the 11th inst. gives the following particulars of the collision on the bay:—"On Saturday night shortly after nine o'clock the steam barge Indian collided with the steamer Hastings between Stone Mills and Adolphustown Point. The Hastings was on her way up the Bay of Quinte; the Indian was bound down heavily laden. The mate of the Hastings, Mr. Michael Lawless, one of the oldest and best navigators of the bay, states that when he noticed the steam barge bearing down upon the boat of which he was then in command he whistled once, indicating that the other craft should take her own side. The Indian's course was not altered. Lawless whistled a second time, and without effecting his object, whereupon he decided to run the Hastings into a bush, to the right, that it would be better to have her aground on a soft bottom than be probably sunk in deep water under less favorable circumstances. Before the Hastings could get out of the way the Indian struck her a little forward of the paddle box, breaking not only the wheel and its covering but the flanges, the crank, bridge-tree and gallows frame. The shaft dropped and now lies on the hull. The collision was so violent that the Indian split her stem. After the accident the Hastings listed over, but fortunately she was near Stone Mills, whither she was towed and tied up. The Hastings' passengers were conveyed to Picton by buses. They received a great shaking up by the accident. Naturally enough they were more or less excited until they understood the position of things and learned that they were not in danger. The damages are not definitely known. They will probably amount to $3,000, possibly more. Had the Hastings been struck any place but on the shaft she would have been sunk on the spot. It is not likely that she will be repaired to do any more service during the balance of this season, but the route will be supplied by Mr. Gilderaleeve. The Pierrepont was to go up the bay this afternoon, and to-morrow the Maud may run to Belleville. The Indian belongs to Gilmour & Co., of Trenton. It has been very unfortunate. The accident may cost her owners more than she is worth. The Lady Franklin left this afternoon for Stone Mills, and will tow the Hastings to Kingston.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

Shanghai, Oct. 12.—On the 10th inst. the United States emigration commission had its first conference with the representatives of the Chinese Government, who are said to be friendly to the objects of the commission. It is now believed that the business of the mission will be rapidly despatched.

Lepanto, Spanish envoy, died from the effects of a fall from a horse.

AMERICAN.

New York, Oct. 12.—The Herald says the Tammany district leaders unanimously expressed their opinion that no ticket can be completed with Irving Hall unless Tammany was conceded the right to nominate the Mayor.

Arrived, the Herder from Hamburg, and the Bothnia and Wyoming from Liverpool.

The first game of a series for New York State championship between the Troy Clubs and Metropolitans of this city took place yesterday. Troys 4, Metropolitans 2. At Brooklyn Worcester 5, Bostons 8.

Owing to the vessel's quick passage and the use of a fast train on the Union Pacific Road, the Australian mail brought to San Francisco by the steamer City of Sydney will, it is expected, reach London in 41 days. The average time hitherto has been 45 days, 6 hours.

In a communication to the World Governors Drew, of Florida, and Matthews, of West Virginia, endorse Hancock's letter on the Southern claims.

The Times estimates that there were 60,000 men in line in the Republican procession last night, and 30,000 spectators.

The contest of the will of Mrs. Emma Streicker, begun in 1879, was yesterday ended by the withdrawal of the petition of the contestants, brother and sister of the testatrix. The will bequeaths $350,000 to fifty charitable institutions.

The Herald's London says there is great dissatisfaction both in London and Paris concerning the result of the naval demonstration, which the Sultan laughed at as long as the fleet threatened him. The foreign policy of Gladstone's Government is also condemned everywhere and its leader generally held to have shown himself quite incapable of dealing with the eastern question.

A telegram to the Sun says, the Governor of Ohio has called out the State militia to take charge of the polls in Hamilton County. Intense indignation and excitement among the Democrats.

Indianapolis, Oct. 12th.—At the citizens' meeting yesterday in the interest of peace, assuring speeches were made by Macdonald, English, Gresham, and others. A resolution was adopted in favor of a quiet legal election, and calling on the authorities to enforce the law.

It is reported that at a political meeting in Greenfield yesterday, Sheriff Thomas was struck, probably fatally. Great excitement.

Silver and Gold.—Mining for silver and gold is being carried on extensively and with highly favorable results in the Fort William region. Messrs. McKellar and Pritchard have discovered a vein of gold bearing quartz two feet in width. The McKellar Island silver mine and the Silver Lake iron mine have been sold to Chicago capitalists and will be extensively worked. The Silver Islet mine continues to yield abundantly, silver in large quantities having been found in all the levels now being worked, and the mine shows richer and richer according as it is developed.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. Yeomans, Agt.

Echoes from the Depot.

The export trade of this country shows an extra development as each day passes. The apple trade, though still in its infancy, is fast assuming large proportions, and almost every fast freight train eastward bound carries with it large quantities of this class of fruit. Last night nine cars passed down for Montreal.

Ten cars of fresh beef in refrigerator cars, destined for cities in New England, passed eastward last night.

Twenty-eight cars of stock, part of which is for Montreal and the remainder for the English market, went eastward this morning.

All cars in which American beef or cattle are shipped are marked with the letter V. No Canadian stock of the same kind are allowed on these cars.

Two cars laden with horses, purchased by Walter Fanning for Weller & Gordon, went west to-day on the mixed train. They are very large and heavy animals, and were all bought in the neighborhood of the city. They will be used in the lumber shanties of Messrs Weller & Gordon in the north-west of Michigan and will reach there, via steamer from Port Huron.

A steam fire engine of the Silsby pattern from Prescott, where it crossed from the American side, passed westward to-day bound for Toronto.

The train from the west was half an hour late to-day. The morning express from the east consisted of thirteen cars and was an hour behind time.

A gang of men bound for Weller & Co's. lumber shanties in Michigan will leave for the scene of their winter's labor on this evening express train.

TRUTH.

We take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, as long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our Goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability in the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our Direct Imports, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 12.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—There were four prisoners in the cells last night.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The Board will hold a regular meeting to-night.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, Strong westerly to northerly winds, fine cooler weather.

GALE.—A strong breeze from the northwest set in about 9 o'clock last night and continued to increase until it became a gale which is still blowing.

QUICK WORK.—We are informed that Mr. A. R. Gilbert threshed for Samuel Kyle, lot 38, 2nd con. Sidney, on Friday the 8th inst., 390 bushels barley in 2 hours and 15 minutes—beat it who can.

WANTED AT FRANKFORD.—The Kingston News of the 11th says: "The Chief of Police received the following telegram today, dates Frankford, Oct 11: Arrest Austin Benedict, aged 21 years (black clothes and alligator boots) with the brown running horse named 'Dan' or 'Brown Noll'."

A GOOD RECORD.—Albert College has made a fine record of late in Teacher's examinations. Of eight candidates sent by Albert College Grammar school to the late examinations, six succeeded. This is a large per cent. One obtained a 3d class certificate, four 2nd class, and one first class.

THE BIGGEST YET.—Mr. Robert Dinwoodie writes from Campbellford on the 9th inst:—"I see in your issue of yesterday an account of a giant pear of the Duchess D'Angouleme variety, weighing 16½ ounces. I planted a tree of the same variety about the middle of May, 1879, and I picked three large pears off it about the middle of last month, the largest of which turned the scales briskly at seventeen ounces. Not bad for a tree just sixteen months planted. It has made vigorous growth during the present season."

A SHOW WORTH SEEING.—Such is coming to Belleville on Saturday next, namely Pullman & Hamilton's Great London Electric Lighted Show. The press everywhere warmly eulogizes the Messrs. Pullman & Hamilton for both the entire truthfulness of their representations and the elegant decorum of everything represented. The Watertown Daily Times of July 5th says: "Not one of the thousands who attended the circus yesterday was in the least displeased. Their expectations were more than met. The show was a good one, and every one says so who saw it. It certainly gave satisfaction in Watertown. Too much in praise cannot be said of Messrs. Pullman & Hamilton and their deserving exhibition."

THE REMENYI-CONCERT.—The Mail of the 12th says: The Y. M. C. A. lecture course was opened last night in Shaftesbury Hall with a concert by Remenyi and his company. There was a large audience, who gave the eminent violinist a reception fully as enthusiastic as that accorded him on any previous occasion. He selected for his solos Ernest's celebrated fantasia in Il Pirata, the Ideal Dance, and the Liberty Hymn, composed by himself, and an andante with variations, by Paganini. We have so often described Remenyi's playing that nothing remains to be said except that in the rendering of these various morceaux he exhibited the dash and brilliancy of execution, the striking contrasts of tone, and the versatility of bowing, that have caused his style to become so popular. His control of the bow in sustained pianissimo effects, and in that kind of staccato technically known as the ricochet, is certainly extraordinary. He was recalled four times, and had to give an extra number on each occasion. It is safe to say that no violinist ever achieved such a series of successes in Toronto as Remenyi has done. Remenyi was assisted by H. W. A. Beale, pianist, and Mrs. Stacy and Mr de Celle as the vocalists, all of whom labored under the disadvantage of being overshadowed by the fame of the violinist, but who, nevertheless, succeeded in winning the approval of the audience. Remenyi will appear in Belleville on Friday, Oct. 29th.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending October 2d and 9th respectively, contain the following articles: Iceland, and A Colorado Sketch, Contemporary; Mental Imagery, Fortnightly; Literary Success a Hundred Years Ago, Gentleman's Magazine; On Exmoor, Macmillan; Letters to and from Hans Christian Andersen, Temple Bar; An Autumn in the Cote-d'Or, Fraser; Two Beggars, Cornhill; A Quiet Haven, and The "White Water" of the Arabian Sea, Golden Hours; The Vitality of Humor, and What to Look for in a Holiday, Spectator; Outer Coloring of Houses, Magazine of Art; The Cultivation of Forests, Land and Water; Natural History of the Herring, Scotsman; with continuations of "The Portrait of a Painter by Himself," and "Bush-Life in Queensland," with other stories, and the usual amount of poetry. A new volume begins with October. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

THE ACCIDENT.—Dr. Eakins states today that Sergt. Frizono has so far recovered that he may now be considered out of danger.

A SUCCESSFUL DEER HUNT.—A party of hunters, under the leadership of Mr. Squire M. Palliser, proprietor of the North American Hotel, Foxboro, and Mr. Sanger Golding, two skilled sportsmen, with their pack of hounds, four in number, left for the back townships, and arrived at Jordan Lake on Friday, the 1st instant. After two days of lively sport they succeeded in bringing down five fine deer, one majestic five year old buck, and four yearlings. They report deer very plenty in that section. It is their intention to return to the same place about the 22d of this month, when they will again wage war among the innocents of the north. The genial proprietor is an excellent marksman, and thoroughly understands the backwoods. Those who are fortunate enough to accompany him, will certainly enjoy an immense treat. This is the first of the season, and hard to beat.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Hastings Rifle Association.

The annual matches of the Hastings Rifle Association opened this afternoon with a bright clear air, but a strong gusty wind coursing the ranges. A number of competitors were present from a distance and took part in the shooting.

The opening event was the All Comers' Match, ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards, 5 shots at each range. This event is proceeding as we go to press.

Tweed Notes.

TWEED, Oct. 11.

The Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario administered the rite of confirmation to sixteen candidates belonging to the Parish of Roslin in the church at Thomasburg on Friday, the 7th inst. There was a large congregation present to witness the solemn ceremony at its conclusion. His Lordship addressed the Candidates on the nature of confirmation and fully explained how by this rite they ratified the vows made for them by their sponsors in their baptism.

Barley shipped at Crookston on Saturday amounted to 2,000 bushels.

The Hon. M. Bowell paid a flying visit on Monday to his friends in Tweed.

Receipts of barley at Crookston on Monday, 1,200 bushels. It is not all shipped yet, but this week will clear it out pretty well. Then for rye.

Marmora Correspondence.

MARMORA, Oct. 9.

Mr. B. Beddome with Mrs. A. G. Beddome and family left here on the 28th of September for Winnipeg, en route for Minnedosa, N. W. T., where the latter intend to make their future home. They carry with them the hearty good wishes of the community, where they have long resided. The former intends to explore the country for a short time and then return.

The North-West is a great country for lovers of aquatic and field sports, as one family have shot 70 ducks during the past summer.

Mr. Rothwell has returned, and the work on the Gatling mine will now be resumed with unusual energy. He has given out a contract for this purpose.

Mr. T C. Caskey, of Blairton, had a narrow escape lately from drowning. It appears he tried to cross the river on the flat rock, owing to the bridge undergoing repairs. The horse got out of his depth and began to swim down the river instead of across, as he did not seem to be able to steer properly, owing to the bearing rein being up. A great excitement prevailed when the news spread through the village, and a great rush was made to the banks of the river and canoes soon hastened to his rescue. Mr. W. Gladney distingnished himself with extreme heroism, and in his efforts to save Mr. Caskey fell into the water himself. The unwilling mariner was soon rescued from his perilous position and is not likely soon to attempt the same passage again.

Mr J. W. Pierce opened his new and elegant flour and feed store, on the 2nd ult. He certainly deserves to succeed in his new enterprise, and it is to be hoped he may.

Mr. D. L. Papin, lately received a severe kick in the face from a horse, knocking out six of his teeth, and breaking others, disfiguring his physiog pretty badly.

Mr. J. B. Weller is now hiring men to go to Marquette Co., Michigan, to work through the winter getting out saw logs. Several will leave here on Saturday for that purpose.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Marine.

The schrs. St. Clair and H. P. Murray arrived last night. The former loaded with rye and has cleared for Oswego. The latter lightened the J. R. Benson, which had grounded, owing to the north-west gale having lowered the water in the harbor.

The schr. Katie Eccles arrived this morning.

The steam barge Saxon was aground on Big Island shoal, instead of on Ship Island shoal. She got off on Sunday.

EVERYBODY uses "Teaberry" to beautify and preserve the teeth. It sweetens and gives fragrance to the breath. Delightfully cooling and refreshing. Testimonials from all over the country of its excellence. Price 50c. 134d&wly.

The Rifle.

Prince Edward vs. The 49th.

The third and deciding match between teams of eight men representing the 49th Battalion and the Prince Edward Rifle Association respectively, was commenced shortly after 10 o'clock this morning under unfavorable circumstances. Both teams were weakened, the Prince Edward representatives by the absence of W. A. Bog, their crack shot, and the 49th by the fact that Corporal Hilton, one of whose eyes had become inflamed, was obliged to shoot from his left shoulder, thus placing him at a great disadvantage. The wind was from the northwest and very gusty, blowing slightly across the range from the right front, still some good shooting was made. The score at the 200 yards range was as follows:

The 49th had thus secured what they believed to be a winning lead, and the team commenced work at the 500 yards range full of confidence that they, although beaten at Picton in the second match, would again prove the conquerors on the home range. The Picton men were somewhat disheartened, but with the usual pluck of Britons, they were resolved to strive hard for victory. Little time was lost in getting to work, and firing proceeded with the following result:

At the 600 yards range the Prince Edward Association team went all to pieces, two of their men each making seven consecutive misses, and their comrades contributing but slight additions to the score. The home team kept steadily at their work and when the firing at this stage ceased, they lead their opponents 68 additional points, thus making them the victors by 147 points.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

GLASGOW, Oct. 12.—Arrived, the State of Nevada.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A Dublin correspondent says the military authorities in West Ireland are making extensive preparations in view of apprehended disturbances. Houses are being hired at Tuam and Headford in Galway, and at Balla in Mayo for immediate occupation by the military. Detachments of troops will also leave the Curragh of Kildare for Castlebar and Westport in Mayo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The Graphic's Indianapolis special says that the arrest last night of a number of roughs from Philadelphia had a salutary effect. At this hour, 10 a.m., profound peace seems to reign all over the city. The polling places are encircled with men who have tasted the prison regime all over the country, and though they are quiet now, an outbreak may occur at any moment. If it does. the trouble will be serious. There are few strangers here to-day who are not provided with revolvers and knives. The United States Marshal has appointed an extra number of marshals to assist in preserving peace and to see that voters of both parties enjoy their legal rights.

The Graphic's Columbus, O., special says the day is fine. Voting throughout the state is heavy; no disturbances.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Emmett's Academy of Music was burned to-day. One fireman was killed and five injured.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Indications: lower lakes, colder, light rains, followed by partly cloudy.

OUR OLD MOTTO

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,

Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

—o—

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

KIPPERED MACKEREL

FIRST OF THE SEASON,

RECEIVED THIS DAY

AT

HUGH WALKER'S

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

The True Market Value.

(From the Montreal Journal of Commerce.)

A lively discussion has been carried on for some time by the organs of the rival political parties as to what is the true market value of goods on which ad valorem duties should be assessed. It is contended by the Toronto Globe and other opposition journals that the true value is that at which goods are sold for export, and that the price in the home market, when in excess of that for export, is the result of combination among the manufacturers which can be successfully resorted to, owing to the high protective duties which prevail in the United States. It is argued, on the other side, that the recent efforts which have been made to secure the assessment of the customs duties on the prices in the home market are not only in accordance with the correct principle, but are likewise merely giving practical effect to the circulars which were issued from time to time under the authority of the Minister of Customs in the administration of Mr. Mackenzie. The question does not appear to us to admit of argument. We are willing to admit, what indeed is beyond doubt, that the practical effect of protective duties is to enable the manufacturers to obtain higher prices than they could otherwise command, if indeed they were able to manufacture at all without such protection. We are likewise ready to admit that, in certain special industries in which comparatively few are engaged, it is possible to form combinations to keep up prices, although in all such cases there are constant complaints that the agreements are evaded. It would be utterly impracticable for a department of a foreign government to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion as to the cause of a difference in the market value of a commodity when sold for exportation or home consumption. It cannot however be denied that there is a considerable difference in the cost of the same article when produced under different circumstances. Not only will the character of the machinery and the skill of the various employees affect the cost, but a great deal will depend on the extent of the works. So varied are the circumstances under which goods of the same character are produced in different places, that it not unfrequently happens that one firm or company can make a profit by selling goods at prices which would entail loss upon its neighbor. It almost invariably happens that a large quantity of goods can be manufactured at a less average price per yard or per piece than a much smaller quantity. It is more reasonable to assume that the active competition in the United States in the greater number of its domestic industries must have the effect of reducing prices to what will yield a fair average return for the capital invested. On this assumption we should infer that the lower price established to meet an export demand was less than that at which the producers could afford to sell the same goods in the home market. Whatever may be the true solution of the difference in price, a foreign government would be so exposed to fraud that it would be wholly unable to detect if it admitted goods to be entered for duty at any other price than that at which they were sold in the home market. If the duties produce more revenue than is required to meet the expenditure of the country, it would be infinitely better to reduce them than to allow foreigners to evade them either by undervaluation or by selling goods at lower prices for export than for home consumption. It has been, as far as we can judge, sufficiently established that the policy of the former government was precisely the same as that of the present, as to the mode of assessing the value of goods subject to duty. It may be the case that the instructions, which were given with sufficient clearness, were imperfectly obeyed, and that there has been a greater vigilance of late. It is unnecessary to discuss this point, as it has no bearing on the merits of the question at issue. We shall be much surprised if the importers, when they find that the practice of levying the duties according to the fair value of the goods in the home market is uniform throughout the Dominion, are not perfectly satisfied with the policy of the Government.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

Rev. ——, Washingtn, D. C.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

SUBSTITUTES!

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

Gents,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liner Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite. Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites,

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of Fellows & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Epeleptic Fits"

St. Paul, Min. January 4th, 1878.

James I. Fellows, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. Walter Oakes.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

James I. Fellows, Esq.

Sir;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Seymour Fair.

The Annnal Agricultural Show for the Township of Seymour, took place at Campbellford on the 9th inst., with a keen competition for many of the prizes, especially for the bulls. Mr. H. Ross exhibited a yearling bull, which took the prize here, as well as at several other places. Mr. T. Hall and Mr. F. Bonnycastle had a fine display of sheep, as will be seen by the number of prizes awarded to them. The roots and vegetables were very fine. The general opinion is that there is a great improvement in this year's exhibition over the last.

Mr. Vandereoort asked for leaue of absence from next meeting.—Granted.

Moved by Mr. Bleecker and sec. by Mr. Bird, that this Council tender Mr. B. H. Vandervoort, 1st Deputy Reeve, their sincere thanks for the able and agreeable manner in which he has assisted in the discharge of the duties brought before them, as he is about to leave us for a time. —Carried. Mr. Vandervoort replied, thanking the Council for the vote tendered him and for the harmony which existed among the members in all their deliberations. Council adjourned until called by the Reeve.

Chicago Ahead

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

A Northwest Mystery

A Trapper Disappears Under Strange Circumstances.

(Manitoba Free Press.)

A melancholy episode has been detailed to me. As its recital may have a salutary effect in deterring people from wintering alone in these wilds, I gave it as it came to me:

Frederick Fravel embarked on board the vessel that brought hither last fall some cattle for the Treaty Indians, taking with him his supplies and a cattle boat. Nothing was heard of the trapper till winter was giving way to spring, in the lengthening of the days. At that time, Thomas Mooyease, going out to seek out for moose deer in that part of the district known as "The Two Rivers," came upon a boat pulled up on the beach. On the shore he saw tracks of men, and concluded that Frederick had disembarked there last fall, and had gone in land to hunt and trap. Going from thence he saw a little shanty, and supposing it to be Frederick's winter abode, went to it. The door was open and the interior presented evidences that something was wrong. There was the bed as though just left, the blanket slightly thrown to one side. There were the remains of what had been a breakfast on the table, and articles lying about waiting to be cleaned and put away. It was as though the inmate had hurriedly risen from his breakfast, seized his gun and run out to shoot something with the intention to return and finish his meal. But all bore the appearance of having been in that state a long time. Thomas became suspicious that Frederick had perished, for he could find no late traces of him. Leaving, therefore, everything as he found it, he abandoned his intended hunt, and returned home to report what he had discovered. The people here shared his impression, and two of his friends returned to go with him in search of their acquaintance, who is supposed to be a German. Arriving at the place they made a careful search for the missing man, but alas! in vain. They found his gun leaning against a bush at a considerable distance from the house; also some spring traps, a single mitten, and a comforter torn in two pieces at different distances from the hut. A closer inspection of the premises disclosed some fish, flour, apples, rice, etc., showing that Fravel did not perish from want of food. There were also a few pears in his box, and his winter coat hanging to the wall inside the house. On the breakfast table they found a little bottle of strychnine, which appeared to have been handled at the last breakfast time. It was only temporarily stopped with a bit of stick. Could Frederick have been preparing baits, carried them out carelessly and allowed any portion of the virulent poison to have come in contact with his mouth? We cannot tell. The summer is closing and nothing more has been discovered whereby any clue can be obtained either of the missing man or the cause of the catastrophe.

Dairying and Business Prosperity.

Only progressive dairying will really pay, as it is only progressive busines of any sort that pays. Intelligence and enterprise must go with it. Dairying has made great progress during the last two decades. 3,000 lbs. of milk, 300 lbs of cheese, or 120 lbs. of butter per cow is no longer satisfactory or profitable, and a low grade of butter will only add to the unsatisfactory condition of the dairyman's finances. The present condition and prospects of the dairy markets has everything to encourage the progressive dairyman. He may feel assured that all his efforts to improve the character and condition of his herd will be amply remunerated. He will find it to his interest to look carefully into the individual character and product of every cow in his herd. Let him form a reasonable standard below which no cow must fall without being discarded; and then let him strive to raise this standard year by year. Let him study carefully everything in relation to feeding for milk production, and thus see that a low product is not the result of his low or improper feeding. Then having provided for quality and quantity of milk, let him study everything to its manufacture into 'gilt edge' butter. Here he will find the knowledge of an expert exceedingly profitable. The highest quality is not effected by competition—'There is always room at the top.' In fact there is no business which offers greater inducement to expert management than dairying; and the present is a most favorable time for every dairyman to improve his herd and his practice. Our butter and cheese have conquered a market in England which we are not likely to lose for some time to come. English farmers find it more profitable to devote their dairies to the production of milk for city and town consumption, and this now appears to offer them a remunerative market. As for the production of butter or cheese, we, with our cheap lands and cheap food, can undersell them at a profit. It also appears highly probably that, instead of having serious competitors in other parts of Europe, we are likely to export largely to many parts of the continent during the next decade. The dairyman has therefore, every reason to study all parts of his business with great confidence in the future.—National Live Stock Journal, Chicago.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc., for consumptives. Political Notes.

PUBLIC OPINION.

It is astonishing with what pertinacity the Grit and independent press cling to the idea that they are the only true interpreters of public opinion. The London Advertiser says:—"Even the Toronto Telegram is giving up the N. P., and when matters get that length, they must be bad indeed in all conscience. The workingmen, it seems, are getting disgusted at the coal tax, and sundry other blessings which they owe to Sir Leonard's wisdom and the N. P.'s course of operation." Considering that an election was recently held in the chief city of the Province, in which the Ministerial candidate had a very large majority, the assertion as to the workingmen and the coal duty is evidently of a purely gratuituous nature, and so with regard to other duties. The Grits are just as happy in interpretation of public opinion as they were in their prophecies of evil flowing from the N. P.

THE DOMINION.

A proclamation published in Saturday's Gazette unites with the Dominion the whole of British America, except Newfoundland and its dependencies. It probably will not be long ere that colony seeks admission to the Dominion, and if an agreement can be made as to terms, the grand scheme of Confederation will then be accomplished.

ENDED AT LAST.

The crisis in the East has at last been ended by the submission of the Turks, who have surrendered Dulcigno to the Montenegrins. The Sultan played a desperate game in bidding defiance to the powers for so long a period as he did. His hope was, evidently, that a conflict of interest would arive and so cause a division amongst the powers; but finding that this expectation was not likely to be realized, he at last yielded to coercion. This is well, as a further prolongation of the difficulty would probably have proved disastrous to the Ottoman empire and mayhap have resulted in war between some of the great powers.

COAL AND SUGAR.

The London Advertiser gets off the following:—"The Belleville INTELLIGENCER is pleased to tell the Advertiser that the consumers have not suffered by the change in our commercial polity." Our esteemed contemporary forgets the coal and sugar taxes." Not at all. The consumers of soft coal can now, thanks to the duty, buy coal from Nova Scotia cheaper than it can be procured from the United States. The Belleville Gas Company have now over 800 tons of Nova Scotia coal in their bins. The duty on bituminous coal was imposed for the purpose of benefitting the coal industry of Nova Scotia, and this it has done to such an extent that the shipments of this year will be over 100 per cent. greater than those of the past season. The duty on hard coal is a revenue duty, the great bulk of which is paid by the rich residents of cities and towns along the front. As to the "sugar tax," the Montreal Journal of Commerce states and proves to a demonstration that the people of Canada get better and cheaper sugar under the present tariff than under that of the Mackenzie Government, and have besides the benefit arising from the great refining industry. Let the Advertiser try again.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

In his speech at the nomination in Brome, Sir Charles Tupper gave a further insight into the Pacific Railway bargain. He stated that one thousand miles to the foot of the Rocky Mountains, will be completed and running within three years. This is an announcement which will be received with unqualified satisfaction throughout the country.

A HOPEFUL PROSPECT.

Sir Charles on the same occasion said he had, during his first year in office, reduced the deficit in the working of the Intercolonial Railway from $716,000 to $97,000 and next year hopes to put the balance on the other side of the ledger. This is the sort of administration the country wants—not empty boasts of economy, resulting in increase of expenditure, but real practical saving. The era of deficits is happily about over.

A PLUCKY EDITOR.—The Collingwood Messenger is at loggerheads with the Town Council. Lately the editor wished to inspect the town books and was refused. He, therefore, entered action to force his right, and a rule nisi was granted ordering the mayor and corporation to allow the inspection of the books.

Tyendinaga Fair.

The annual Fair of the Agricultural Society of Tyendinaga was held at Shannonville on Saturday, the 9th inst. So far as the weather was concerned everything was favorable for a good exhibition and a good attendance, but there was neither. Indeed it was the poorest exhibition ever held in that township, there being only some 300 entries, compared with over 500 last year.

The show of stock was very small, and is hardly worth particularizing.

Mr. Loomis of Shannonville, and Mr. Beckwith of Lonsdale, exhibited a number of buggies and democrats of their own manufacture.

Mr. R. F. Pegan had on exhibition two fine steel ploughs, and an elegant set of bedroom furniture in ash and walnut, and sideboard, of his own manufacture.

Mr. Thomas Deasy showed a Maxwell Reaper, and Mr. Stickney had a Cultivator.

Mr. D. N. Demill exhibited a handsome case of sundries, and a coal stove.

Some excellently made boots and shoes were exhibited by Mr. Thos. Creeper and Mr. C. E. Clarke.

Messrs. Osborne & Bro. of Lonsdale, had on exhibition several sets of light carriage harness and draught harness.

There was only a small display of roots and vegetables; two lots of cheese; a solitary sample of butter; a fair show of grain; and three or four quilts and coverlets; one of the quilts was actually worn out,—the Judges came to the conclusion that it had been re-covered.

The following is the Hastings Rifle Association.

THE ALL-COMERS MATCH.

Representatives from Port Hope, Kingston, Picton and this city and county, took part in this contest, which opened at the ranges at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The attendance of spectators was very limited as the weather was very uninviting. A stiff, raw wind blew in fitful gusts across the grounds, and frequently the sunlight was partially obscured by passing clouds, rendering the light dim and uncertain. On the whole, however, the shooting was very good, for notwithstanding the wind, the scoring was excellent. There were 28 competitors, divided into two squads so that a quartette of marksmen could utilize the targets at one time. The ranges were 200, 500 and 600 yards, 5 shots at each range, and therefore the highest possible score attainable was 25 at each stage.

Subjoined will be found the several scores of the winning marksmen at the different ranges in the order of merit.

At the first range some of the first shots did good work, but at the next stage all the competitors began to fall away. At the last range the shooting was fair, but the cold air interfered with the accuracy of the marksmen. Owing to the intervention of darkness, the conclusion of the contest was not reached until this morning.

Board of Education.

TUESDAY, OCT. 12.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held to-night.

PRESENT.—Messrs. J. Diamond, W. J. Diamond, Hayne, Johnson, Wills, Tennant, McGinnis, Van Allan, Wensley, Richards, Northcott, Tracey, Burke.

In the absence of the chairman, Mr. Shepard, it was moved that Mr. Wills take the chair.—Carried.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from the church-wardens of St. Thomas' Church, asking that the fence between the Central School yard and the burying ground be repaired, as the boys of the school were in the habit of going there to play. There had been much damage done by them, in the way of breaking tombstones and railings.

Mr. Burke said the posts were available for use, and he pressed a speedy arrangement of this matter.

Mr. I. Diamond moved that the petition be laid upon the table for consideration to night.

Mr. Johnson said the matter had already been before the Board.

Mr. W. J. Diamond said that this petition had not been before the Board before.

Mr. Burke thought it would be well to build a plain board fence, and not a wire one, as had been talked of.

Mr. VanAllan thought it was the duty of the Church members to share in the expense of building the fence.

Mr. Burke said it was not the Church that had destroyed the fence, but the children of the school.

Dr. Tracey considered that the Board should build the fence and pay for it.

Mr. Wills thought that if they had the money they should build the fence.

Mr. Wensley said that he had seen dozens of boys in the graveyard, and had seen pigs there also, that had got in from the school yard. He said the fence was getting worse every day, and he thought it was the duty of the Board to build a new one

Mr. I. Diamond held that if there were not funds to build a good fence they should repair the old one, but he thought this was not the proper mode of discussing the matter

It was moved that the matter be taken up to-night.—Carried.

The Finance Committee's report was presented asking the payment of several accounts amounting to $1,0.05.

The report was received.

Mr. Johnston, Inspector, read a letter from the Minister of Education, granting extended certificates for one year to Miss Walton, Miss Chisholm and Miss McInnes.

The Inspector also read a summary of the attendance of pupils at all the schools in the City, the number being 1,355.

Mr. I. Diamond wished his notice of motion of last meeting to stand.

Board went into Committee of the Whole on the Finance Committee report. Mr. Tennant in the chair.

The Secretary read the report.

There was considerable discussion on the account of Mrs Kane for cleaning, amounting to $19, which had been cut down by the Committee to $5.

Moved in amendment by Mr. I. Diamond, seconded by Mr. VanAllen, that Mrs. Kane's account be increased to $3.

The motion was lost.

All the accounts were passed.

The Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

The matter of building the fence between the school grounds and the church yard was then brought up.

Mr. Wensley said that the idea of repairing the old fence was out of the question.

Moved by Mr. W. J. Diamond, seconded by Mr. Northcott, that the Committee on Buildings and Repairs be hereby required to carry out the prayer of the Church Wardens of St. Thomas' Church by building at once a board fence six feet high between the churchyard and the school grounds.

The motion was put and carried.

The Board then adjourned.

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

A Close Contest.

Ohio Largely Republican—Indiana Doubtful.

INDIANAPOLIS, 5:30 a. m., Oct. 13.—Two hundred and fifty precints give the Democrats a gain of 1,301; Republican gain, 3,162; the net Republican gain, 1861. Nearly 17 per cent of the vote is hear from.

NEW YORK, Oct 13.—Murat Halstead telegraphs to the Herald from Cincinnati that the Republicans claim 15 out of 20 Congressmen in Ohio, and at least 20,000 plurality on the State ticket.

Specials to the Times claim that the Republicans yesterday gained 8 Congressmen.

Porter, in Indiana, ran far ahead of the remainder of the Republican ticket. This is said to be due to Porter's popularity, and extensive trading for his benefit.

The World's despatches state that the contest in Indiana is very close, with the chances clearly in favor of a Democratic victory.

The Times says that a gain of three more Congressmen will give the Republicans control of the lower house of Congress.

The Star says editorially that if the earlier returns furnish a reliable index, Indiana is Democratic by more than 55 majority.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Arrived, the Bath City from Bristol, and the State of Indiana from Glasgow.

In an altercation last night about 30 cents, Jas Little, actor, was shot fatally by Wm. Asmos, bar tender in a Bowery saloon. Asmos was arrested.

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 13.—5,000 mill factory operatives are out of employment. His f the city is suffering from drought. To morrow it is expected the rest of the industries will be stopped and the city be totally without water. The only thing to prevent this is a good rain storm to-day.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. YEOMANS, AGT.

AMPUTATED BY A ROPE.—The Montreal Witness of the 12th says: "A very strange accident occurred at the Cote St. Paul Locks this afternoon. As a French Canadian named Vangelas Sauve, on board a wood barge, was passing through the locks, his leg caught in the snubbing rope which held the barge, and the limb was instantly severed above the ankle completely and the foot was left in the boot."

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

TRUTH.

WE take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, so long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability is the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our DIRECT IMPORTS, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

JUST TO HAND,

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 13.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

GRAND JUNCTION VS. MIDLAND.—This case has been further adjourned for a week.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, moderate winds, continued fine weather, stationary or slightly higher temperature.

THE CENTRAL FAIR.—Amongst the prize takers at the Kingston Central Fair were Messrs. W. A. Foster & Co., of this city, who were awarded first prize for pressed bricks and second prize for kiln burnt bricks.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.—The following gentlemen from this city will be present at the opening of the new University buildings at Kingston to-morrow evening:—Rev. D. Mitchell; Judge Lazier, M. A.; A. G. Northrup, Esq.; Rev. M. W. McLean, B. A.; James Cumberland, M. A.; J. Hastie, Esq.

QUIET.—The calm which is the usual consequent of a storm was last night prevalent in police circles, as the record at the police headquarters shows. Neither was there a tramp to ask for shelter and food, nor was there a caller at an unusual hour. A strange contrast to the record of the preceding evening and also a desirable one.

LOW WATER.—The direction of the wind yesterday assisted very much in showing a very large surface of the bed of the river, as the current was materially assisted by it. Water powers along the river side are not of much avail just now, nor will they be until after this section has experienced a succession of heavy rain-falls.

HUNTING.—A trio of sportsmen who left here on Saturday evening last, on the Katie Gray, for a duck hunt in the vicinity of Big Island, has been heard from through one of the party. Their success in killing ducks has been somewhat limited, as this class of birds is not numerous in their locality just now. Some fine ducks were shot, however, and were brought here last night. The yacht is not expected home before Friday next.

CARELESSNESS.—Last night the police took charge of a framed collection of photographs and specimens of picture frame moulding, which had been left outside a gallery for nightly advertising. A medical case was picked up on the street and taken to the Chief's office, and a door which had not been locked also received the attention of the police. The above shows gross careless on the part of the owners of the property above noted, and that a further want of attention might cause the loss of more valuable articles.

ENTERTAINING THE VISITORS.—Last night the members of the Prince Edward Rifle team and some of their friends were entertained to supper by their military friends here at Hambly's. Lt.-Col. T. C. Wallbridge, President of the Hastings Rifle Association presided, and there were present Sheriff Gillespie, Major Bog, W. P. Reynolds and W. A. Orchard, of Picton; Capt. Mitchell, of Madoc; A. Robertson, M. P. P.; Capt. Harrison, Lieut. Johnson, Private Tammadge, of the 49th, and others. The evening was pleasantly spent with toast, speech and song, and the company separated about midnight, well pleased with the evening's entertainment. The spread, it may be said, was a thoroughly excellent one.

THE MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CLUB.—The Montreal Witness gives the following complimentary notice of the concert given by this organization in Montreal on Monday night: "Every number was executed with the delicate taste and expression which characterizes all this Club's performances. Miss Marie Nellini who accompanied them, is a soprano of a very high order, though at times there was apparent an unsymphathetic feature in her singing, probably due to cold. In the first part of the programme she substituted "Bel Raggio," from "Semiramide," for Proach's air and variations. In this she had ample scope to display excellently cultured voice, and her trilling was magnificent. Her second song, "O Loving Heart, Trust on," by Gottschalk, was rendered with an expression and pathos quite irresistible, and the applause which followed it compelled her appearance again. Mr. William Schade's flute solo, concerto on La Somnambula, was a most excellent performance, and showed him to be perfectly master of his instrument. Mr. Schade's peer as a flautist, we may venture to say has not been heard in the city. Mr. Isder Schnitzler played a 'Fantaisie for violin on Gypsy airs' with very fine taste, showing himself to be a violinist of extraordinary ability. Mr. Thomas Ryan, who has been a member of the club since its organization thirty one years ago, played a very pleasing solo on the clarionet. Mr Frederick Giese in his solo on 'Le Desir' on the violincello, fairly entranced his audience, storms of applause breaking out at every interval. The entertainment as a whole, was without a flaw." The Club will give a concert in the City Hall on Friday night under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute. The Club invariably meet a full house wherever they appear and the City Hall promises to be full to overflowing on Friday evening. Any one who has not secured seats should do so without delay. The plan of the Hall is at Harrison's, where tickets may be had.

COUNTY DEBENTURES.—The County Treasurer has up to date redeemed $55,000 of the debentures issued for the purchase of gravel roads, leaving but $2,800 outstanding.

PERSONAL.—Mr. S. G. Beatty arrived home to-day, after having enjoyed an extensive tour in Great Britain and Ireland and on the continent of Europe, details of a portion of which have been given in a highly interesting series of letters in these columns. Our esteemed friend looks well and hearty, his long holiday having seemingly agreed well with him.

OBITUARY.—In another column will be found recorded the death of the venerable Mrs. Hannah Armstrong, of Toronto, in the 92nd year of her age. Deceased, who was an aunt to A. R. Dougall, Esq., barrister, of this city, being the sister of his father, was the last surviving member of a family of thirteen. She leaves surviving her one son and four daughters, who are the wives respectively of the Rev. Dr. Ryerson, of Toronto, Mr. Spencer, Collector of Customs at Winnipeg, and Dr. Beatty, of Cobourg. The fourth is now the widow of the late Judge Duggan, of Toronto. The family has been very remarkable for longevity, one having attained the age of 98, another 94, another 81, and the rest ranging from 60 to 80 years, except two who were killed by accident when quite young. Mrs. Armstrong's remains will be taken to Whitby for interment.

BENEFIT OF ADVERTISING.—The result of judicious advertising in journals of respectability and wide spread circulation is something that no one can calculate upon with any degree of certainty. It is, in fact, in effect very much like the ripple created by the tossing of a pebble into the ocean, which broadens in circles of wider and wider dimensions, the disturbance of the surface ending no one can tell where. In illustration we have a letter, dated the 11th inst., from Dr. M. Hilton Williams, of the Detroit Throat and Lung Institute, who is one of our liberal advertisers, in which he says: "I received a letter the other day from a person in Victoria, Australia, who saw my advertisement in your paper." The obvious lesson which this statement conveys is that the advertiser who judiciously chooses his medium of communication with the public, is certain to achieve a great deal more publicity and consequently get better value for the money spent in advertising than is apparent to those who have not had experience in such matters.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Belleville Legal Literary Society.

The next meeting of this society will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 sharp, in the office of Flint & Jellett, Campbell St. All members of the bar and law students are invited to become members of the Society and to attend its meetings. The following programme will be taken up that evening:

Proceedings in a mortgage suit for foreclosure to final order therefor, given the following data: A, the mortgagor, dies intestate, Jan. 1st, 1880, leaving a mortgage in arrear to B, the mortgagee, A leaving him surviving C, his widow, D, an adult son living in San Francisco, and E and F, infants within jurisdiction.—By Mr. Sherry.

The manner in which the remedy by way of interpleader is pursued in Common Law Courts and the various circumstances in relation to which the remedy is applicable. Given the following data; A, execution creditor, recovers judgment against B, May 6th. 1880; Sheriff seize C, D and E, claim portions of goods. Trace proceedings from affidavit of Sheriff for interpleader, summons to order barring claimants after issue and trial, giving verbatim outline of important steps.—By Mr Williams.

The Challenge Cup.

The trophy presented for competition between the companies composing the 15th Battalion A. L. I., has been for some time on view in the window of Rous & Co's store and has attracted a great deal of attention. It is of silver, 21 inches in height and is encased in a glass cover. The base, which is squared, is neatly chased and on it rests the butts of four muskets amid a cluster of bullets. Within these are the supports of the target, clustering which is a silver band. The muskets and target supports suffice for the stem of the cup, on the front of which on satin finish is the target with its several features, accurately defined. The interior of the cup is finished with gold of a beautiful color. Surmounting the cup is the cover, on which rests a rifleman in uniform with one knee beneath him and with the rifle at the shoulder. The workmanship of the whole is very chaste and handsome, and No. 1 Co. is to be congratulated on having won such a valuable tropy. The cup was the gift of Capt. J. L. Biggar, who takes a deep interest in military matters, and particularly so in target shooting. The presentation of such a cup will, it is to be hoped, create a friendly rivalry among the volunteer force here, which will tend in the end to a greater desire for practice, and a better development of their powers with the rifle.

East Hastings Fair.

The annual exhibition of the East Hastings Agricultural Society opened to-day at Thrasher's Corners. The attendance of exhibitors was very large, whilst the number of visitors was still greater, the surrounding villages and the city furnishing a large quota of sight seers. The show of horses promised to be an excellent one and the quality of the animals was far above the average order. The entries in each class were numerous and the show gave promise of being a decided success.

Tweed Notes.

Sudden Death near Tweed.

TWEED, Oct. 12.

On Tuesday, 12th inst., Peter Laronge, a Frenchman, died very suddenly. The deceased was around the village since Sunday, and appeared in good health. On Tuesday morning he left Woodcock's hotel and proceeded south as far as Countryman's brickyard, when he was taken ill and died in a short time. No cause is assigned for the death.

Receipts of barley this day (Tuesday) at Crookston were 1,500 bushels. Cars are scarce, and can scarcely be had to carry the grain. The railroad authorities will probably see to this soon.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

OBSTRUCTING THE STREET.

In the absence of Mr. Clute, the counsel for the defence, the case of Jellett vs. Downey & Preston, was further adjourned until to-morrow.

Sporting Notes.

Notts defeated the Australians by one wicket. Score—Notts, 88 and 131 for nine wickets; Australians, 141 and 77. Shrewsbury carried his bat out for 66, and Barnes made 42 in the second innings of the county.

Australians versus Players of England was played at the Crystal Palace on Sept. 27th, 28th, and 29th. The Australians won by two wickets. The team left Southampton early on the morning of the 5th inst. for Venice and Brindisi whence they proceed to Suez, en route for Australia. When they reach the colonies they will play a series of matches before the team breaks up, at Adelaide, Melbourne, Sydney, and elsewhere. They played 33 matches in England, 2 in Scotland, and 2 in Ireland. Curiously enough both in Scotland and Ireland they scored one win and one draw, the drawn matches being at Dublin and Glasgow, and their victories at Belfast and Edinburgh. Of the 33 English matches, 19 were won, 10 drawn, and 4 lost. It is generally allowed that though the Australian eleven are far inferior in batting to the best among Englishmen, their bowling and fielding will bear comparison with anything Great Britain can show. Spofforth bowled in 27 matches, and took 391 wickets with an average of 5.64 runs per wicket; while Palmer's 268 wickets cost 7.22 runs each, and Boyle's 250 wickets 8.10 each. The highest batting average was obtained by Murdock, who is by far the best bat in the team. He scored 1,218 runs, and averaged 22.8. On Monday the 4th inst., the evening before their departure, they dined at the Mansion House with the Lord Mayor.

The trotting performances for the year 1880 have been the most remarkable in the annals of the track. Last year the record was closed by St. Julien at Oakland, Cal., where he covered the then fastest mile in 2.12¾. This race was against time, and lessened by half a second the time with which Rarus closed the preceding season. It may be recalled that Rarus made his somewhat disputed record of 2.13¼ in a fourth trial heat at Buffalo in August 1878, in a trot aganist time. Prior to this time, the record of Goldsmith Maid, 2.14, had stood first, as that of Dexter (2.17¼) had in 1872, or the time of the celebrated Flora Temple, which has passed beyond recollection. This season Maud S. on the track of the Chicago Jockey Club, reduced her time from 2.11¾ to 2.10¾ with seeming ease and holds the proud title of Queen of the Turf.

In a match with an amateur, to whom he was conceding 1,500 points in a game of 2,000, Mr. Mitchell, an English professional billard player, made the greatest run on record, at the English game. It consisted of 1,839 points, he pocketing the red from spots 612 times in succession. Truly a marvellous piece of play.

Latest English papers give the betting quotations on the Hanlan-Trickett race at 6 to 4 offered on the Canadian.

Hanlan is suffering from a severe cold and sore throat, brought on by the muggishness of British weather. Hosmer is also laid up with a cold, and Trickett is so ill that he has done nothing for the last few days.

Arrangements have been finally made for a return championship match between the Torontos and the Shamrocks, and a game will take place next Saturday in Toronto on the Jarvis-street grounds. Both sides are practicing in dead earnest.

Robert the Devil, winner of the St. Leger and second in the Derby, has proved himself a wonder, he having won the Cesarewitch with 118 lbs. up—the heaviest weight ever carried to the front in that race by a three year old.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Jno. C. New telegraphs from Indianapolis to the Commercial Advertiser as follows:—"The latest returns indicate that the State will go from 3,000 to 4,000 Republican. Some of our friends claim as high as 5,000, and we have made Congressional gains."

DUBLIN, OCT. 13.—At a meeting of the Land League Dillon, Sexton and Sullivan strongly protested against the pastoral letter of Archbishop McCabe, Dublin, in which he deplored the silence of the Irish leaders regarding the threats of violence against landlords uttered at public meetings. The speakers characterize the letter as ignoring the sufferings of the people and declared it untrue that the speakers had not protested against threats of violence.

COLUMBUS, 11 a. m., Oct. 13.—The Republicans claim Ohio by 20,000 majority and a gain of 5 Congressmen.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Nelson J. Waterbury telegraphs from Indianapolis to the Democratic National Committee that Indiana will surely be Democratic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Commercial's Indianapolis special claims the congressional delegation now stands 6 Republicans, 6 Democrats, and one Greenbacker. Postmaster Holloway, of Indianapolis, telegraphs to the Republican National Committee that Porter's majority will exceed 5,000. Eight Republican congressmen and probably the Legislature.

ROME, Oct. 13.—The creation of Archbishop McCabe, of Dublin, to be Cardinal is announced as probable.

INDIANAPOLIS, 12:30 p. m. Oct. 13.—430 precincts; Democratic gain 2723; Republican gain 6,559; net Republican gain 3,836.

SCUTARI, Oct. 13.—The Turks are preparing to surrender Dulcigno, some resistance from Albanians is apprehended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Indications: lower lakes, rising temperature, partly cloudy, and in western portion local rains.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE, Belleville, Oct. 13, 1880

The market for grain remains steady at yesterday's quotations.

Barley is selling in the street at from 50c to 60c, average price being from 55c to 56c; one load of extra bright and heavy barley was sold yesterday at 65c.

Oswego telegrams this morning quote barley steady but quiet, sales of No. 1 bright Canada at 90c and No. 1 above grade at 87c. A lot of three cars from here, in all 1491 bushels, graded as No. 2 Canada, sold in Albany on the 6th at 83c per bushel. R. W. Thacher's Albany circular of the 11th says:—"The barley market remains very dull, and the tendency is downward. The very heavy receipts in Oswego tend to make maltsters feel assured that prices will be no higher, and that by waiting a few days or weeks they will be able to buy still cheaper. They also claim that prices are really higher than quotations seem to read, as they say that Oswego grades have been so reduced as compared with previous years that what is known as No. 1 barley under present grading is only No. 2 under all previous ruling, and No. 1 bright is only old-fashioned No. 1. We hear of no sales of moment for a day or two past, though a little is sold nearly every day. 83c is nominal asking price for No. 2 Canada, though it is privately offered at 82c and maltsters bid 80c. No. 1 Canada (Oswego grade) is offered at 86c and a very candid maltster said to-day that it had been offered to him at 85c. In car lots by Albany inspection (a better grade) it sold on Saturday at 88c. No. 1 bright is offered all the way from 92c to 98c, the lowest figure by grade and the higher askings by sample. No. 2 six rowed state nominal at 80c."

Rye is steady and in demand on the street at 85c. We hear of 88c being offered for car lots. Oswego telegrams this forenoon quote Rye firmer, nominal at 93c. In Toronto Rye was quoted in demand at 85c to 86c per bus, and in Montreal Rye is worth 92c to 93c in cargoes.

There is very little wheat offering. For Fall $1.00 is paid and for Spring $1.10 per bus.

For the very little Peas that are offering 60c is paid. Cargoes are selling in Montreal at 83½ to 84½c per 66 lbs.

Marine.

The James R. Benson—it was expected, would leave this afternoon and complete her cargo at other ports along the bay.

The work of loading the Bentley with lumber is not yet completed.

The Katie Eccles is at Flint & Holton's.

The W. T. Greenwood arrived this morning and will load with grain.

The J. R. Benson with 14,500 bushels of rye left this afternoon in tow of the Bonar which will take her to the gap. The direction of the wind raised the water and she was thus enabled to take such a large cargo, though she was aground at the dock.

The H. P. Murray arrived this morning with a part cargo of barley from Napanee, and will finish out here for the Grangers.

The sloop Rainbow has been raised, recaulked, and is now loading lumber for Rathbun & Son.—Kingston Whig, 12th.

The str. Hastings arrived here this morning from Stone Mills in tow of the Lady Franklin. Her injury, the result of the collision with the steam-barge Indian, is fully as bad as has been described. The blow must have been a violent one to produce the wreck to-day apparent. Mr. Gildersleeve has reached home from Montreal.—Ib.

Arrangements have been completed to put the str. Picton on the route of the Hastings while she is being repaired. It is hoped the damage to the Hastings will not be so serious as at first anticipated.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.—The Sultan has signed an irade formerally ordering the cession of Dulcigno, but hopes that the Powers will not press a settlement of the other questions pending. Regarding this no decision seems to have been come to yet. The Montenegrins are prepared to occupy Dulcigno at once, to-day being mentioned as the probable date.

CHANCERY SALE.

PURSUANT to the decree and order for sale, in the cause Attorney General vs, The Grand Junction Railway Company, there will be sold by Public Auction, with the approbation of Thomas Wardlaw Taylor, Esq., Master in Chancery of this Court, on Thursday, the Twenty-first day of October, 1880, at the Court House in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, at Twelve o'clock, noon, by Charles Wilkins, Auctioneer, the following parcel of land, situate in the Township of Thurlow, in the County of Hastings, and being composed of part of the south half of Lot number Eight, in the second concession of the Township of Thurlow aforesaid, described as follows: Commencing on the southern boundary of said Lot where the same is intersected by the centre line of said Railway as now laid out on the ground, thence northerly following said centre line to where said centre line intersects the northerly boundary of said Lot, taking on each side of said centre line a uniform width of 33 feet, containing by admeasurement 5 6-10 acres, more or less.

The line of the Grand Junction Railway Company runs through the centre of the said strip of land. The said Parcel will be sold en bloc, and the purchaser or purchasers shall at the time of sale pay down to the Vendor's Solicitors a deposit of 10 per cent. of the purchase money, and the remainder into Court to the credit of this cause within one month thereafter, without interest.

The property will be sold subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master.

The other conditions of sale are the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery. For further particulars apply to the Vendor's Solicitors, or Messrs. Cameron, Appelbe & McPhillips, Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated this 25th day of September, 1880.

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,

Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

FIRST OF THE SEASON,

HUGH WALKER'S

IMPORTS.

THE high price the consumer has often to pay is generally owing to the Goods passing through the hands of an unnecessary number of dealers before they reach him, EACH HAVING TO GET A PROFIT. The nearer the producer and consumer are brought together, the better it is for both. But owing to certain combinations and practices known to the trade, it is exceedingly difficult for even the largest dealers in our line to buy from first hands, the makers, in England, and though we probably do as large a trade as any in this part of the Province, still did we stand alone, on going to England, we would find it utterly impossible to buy as we do, for though we have the means to pay cash down, in England we would be forced under other circumstances to buy from the wholesale dealers.

It is owing to our business connections in Great Britain that we are enabled to buy from first hands, namely, the manufacturers there, and thus save to ourselves and to our customers the profits of the Middlemen or Wholesale dealers.

Here we may be allowed to state that the Custom House returns reveal, to any who choose to look, that we are the ONLY importers in Belleville of a general stock of Dry Goods not buying through another house in Canada. Every direct importation of British and Foreign Goods coming to Belleville has to be entered at the Custom House here, and these returns show that with the exception of a few packages distributed among several dealers all the direct importations of British and European goods come to our store. It is thus that our prices are lower than elsewhere.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

Rev. ——, Washingtn, D. C.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,
J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, CO.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may; cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA

XL

We left Genoa, shortly after twelve o'clock by train for Milan. The scenery on quitting Genoa is very picturesque—now and then lovely valleys, the mountain sides dotted with trees and castles. After passing through several tunnels—one of which took over ten minutes and nearly suffocated us—we reached the beautiful and fertile plain of Lombardy—one immense garden all the way through Allesandria and Pavia to where we arrived about seven p. m., after a very sultry, dusty ride. After a refreshing bath, and a good dinner in the pretty garden of the hotel, we spent the evening at the theatre.

The building, next to the Grand Opera House in Paris, is the finest I ever saw. A description would take too much space. Suffice it to say it is built of marble and comfortably seats 3,500 people. Returning to our hotel, we passed through the Corso Venzia and Victor Emanual, two of the principal streets, with grand shops on both sides, which were yet brilliantly lighted.

The Corso Venizia is the finest street in Milan, and near the bottom, at an immense public garden, it is a perfect picture; it is fairly studded with gas lamps and is most brilliantly illuminated, while the fine, tall trees on each side, together with a handsome arch across the end, add greatly to its beauty. The luxuriant cafes, all brilliantly lighted, their numerous chairs, filled with Milanese and foreighers, reaching far out into the open corso, presents a striking scene and reminds one of Vienna or Paris.

The two principal sights of the Lombard city are the Cathedral and the great painting "The Last Supper," by Leonardo da Vinci on the wall of the suppressed convent attached to the church of Santa Maria.

After an early breakfast we spent the morning in sightseeing, until about 11 a. m., when it became so hot and sultry that we concluded to remain indoors and write up our diaries. After dinner, we prepared ourselves for the four to six promenade in the public garden, which we were told would be very fine, and it really was a grand affair. I never saw anything to equal the style and dress of the people here on a Sunday afternoon; the ladies appear as if going to a ball or the opera. How lovely they look, with their veils thrown gracefully over the head (they wear no bonnets), cooling themselves with their fantastic fans, dressed in the brightest of colors and with such taste.

Hundreds of Mirandas keep step to the fine military band; they seem as if they had been born to dress-promenade. After the band has ceased playing the promenade continues in Corso Venizia, with its houses (most of them formerly palaces) brightly painted, resembling a city that had been built in a day and only just finished; every house its sunshades hanging outside the windows, differing in color according to the taste of the owner; balcony after balcony, with lots of Juliets leaning over them; the splendid costumes of ladies who peep at you from their large, pretty fans, showing their beautiful olive faces, cheeks like peaches, and, Oh! such awful eyes, dark as midnight; each one having an attendant as pretty as herself to take care of her; while here and there some youthful swain with guitar serenades these Juliets, not brimming over with love, but expectation of the few coins he hopes to see shower down upon him, when he concludes. Such are the sights on a Sunday afternoon in Milan. What a change from the miserable objects we first met on entering Italy.

Before taking leave of Milan we must mention its beautiful Railway station. We had time before departing, while awaiting our train, to study six large and finely executed paintings on the walls of the waiting rooms.

On our way from Milan we crossed the battle field of Magenta; the fine obelisk erected by Napoleon III. over the mound under which lie the bodies of those who fell in the battle is close to the line, and as our train passed along slowly we had a good view of it. On reaching Aroma, we changed from the cars to a steamer plying on the beautiful lake Maggiore, and after a delightful sail of five and a half hours reached Magadino, at the head of the lake. Here we lost no time, but immediately engaged a voiture to take us on to Bellingona, where we arrived early in the evening, and found a very comfortable hotel. After tea two Prussian officers drove up, and after hearing that we were on our way to Switzerland, over the St. Gothard Pass, introduced themselves, and asked us to join them in hiring a conveyance, as it would thus be much cheaper. We willingly consented, and found them very agreeable companions.

"And now ferewell to Italy—perhaps
For ever! Yet, methinks, I could not go,
I could not leave it, were it mine to say
'Farewell for ever!' Many a courtesy,
That sought no recompense, and met with none
But to the swell of heart with which it came,
Have I experienced."

We commenced the passage over the St. Gothard at 8 a. m., the weather rather unfavorable, which brought to mind the lines:

"'Try not the pass!' the old man said;
'Dark lowers the tempest overhead.
The roaring torrents deep and wide!'
And loud that clarion voice replied,
'Excelsior!'

'Beware the pine-tree's withered branch!
Beware the awful avalanche!'
This was the peasant's last good night;
A voice replied, far up the height,
'Excelsior!'"

The peasant people, particularly the mountain women, are wonderfully graceful and picturesque. Their costume, in sober tones of blue and bluish red, with snowy linen sleeves, and bright kerchief artistically knotted over jetty braids of luxuriant hair, would surely be the delight of a figure-painter. The children and young girls are generally good looking, some even remarkably so; but the women age quickly, working as they do much harder than the men—being, as in Germany, literally and truly the "Bearers of the Burthen." We have seen them carrying great stones one by one on their shoulders, all through the "heat of the day," for the construction of a house, and have met them in the mountains with enormous paniers of chestnuts on their backs, containing more than 60 kilogrammes (120 pounds.) No wonder that shoulders are early bowed, and their bright young faces wrinkled and worn before their time!

After several stoppages, to change horses and resuscitate, we arrived at the

ST. GOTHARD PASS,

and could see about three hours good collar-work up the zigzag before us. To look at the snow capped summit, 2,674 feet above us (and we are now 4,266 feet high) which must be ascended, and the very pinnacle of it crossed, seems a thing impossible. What a bleak fearful ride it is! How awfully grand! A little above the House of Refuge, or Hospice of St. Gothard, some immense rocks that had tumbled down with an avalanche, block our road. However, with the assistance of men from the Hospice, we managed to get the horses over, and then drew the waggon over with ropes, and proceeded on our way. While at work we were every few minutes startled by the roar of avalanches, which, luckily for us, fell down the other side, wasting their fury in the valley below. This is called Val Tremola (Tremulous Valley), from its exposure to avalanches. It is rightly named; I know some one else who was tremulous, as well as the valley.

On arriving at the summit, 6,940 feet, we had a splendid view down the valley below us. Here we saw two diligences stopped by our stony obstruction, and could not help smiling to see passengers and drivers trying to get over them. We did not wait to see how they fared, being anxious to get out of the snow, which now stood up in walls on each side of our carriage from 30 to 40 feet high. I shall not take up space with a description of this pass, which is similar to the Splugen Pass, described in a former letter. We flew down the other side of the mountain at express speed, past the "Lake of the Dead" (so named from some tourists and soldiers having been lost in the snow which covers its surface), Haspenthall, to Andermatt, leaving all fear of avalanches behind us. We are now again in Switzerland, and as we near Fluelen the scenery becomes more and more grand; majestic forests of pine and firs dispute the right of existence with, and climb to the very crests of the Alps, seeming to say, "This is the land of Tell and Liberty."

How to Lodge Dairy Cows.

Comfort, cleanliness, and quiet are important factors in that result for which the dairyman works—a pailful of milk; and these may be secured without sacrificing cheapness. A herd of cows may be lodged in the best manner, at a cost of $10 per head; that is, a most comfortable and convenient shed for 15 cows may be put up complete for $150. Elaborate buildings are all verp well for the farmer who has no need to work for a living, but the business dairyman must look carefully to his investments lest he may have no profits to care for.

After many years' experience with all kinds of cow stables, I consider separate stalls for the cows ranged in a long, narrow, low shed, to possess the most advantages. It is difficult to have every desirable feature in one thing, but in such sheds as I am about to describe one has economy, convenience in every way, absolute safety (which is a very great point) room, warmth, and every other attribute of comfort for the cow. The shed which I consider the best can be built for $150 a running foot, and 100 feet will give 15 cows a separate, roomy, loose stall for each, in which the occupant cannot be injured by horns, robbed of her food, or trodden upon or damaged in the udder or teats, and can be left at night with absolute certainty of safety. Even from fire there is the greatest possible safety, as the cows may be left unfastened at night, each may be turned out by merely opening the door. A stall 6½x8 will be large enough for any cow, and 15 stalls will require 100 feet in length and 14 feet in width. In front of the cows is a wide feed passage through which a light wheeled feed truck may be taken and the fodder distributed very easily and conveniently from a feed room where it is prepared.

The shed may be attached to a barn from which the fodder may be brought already prepared, or the end stall may be used for a feed room. In this case it will be found very convenient to have a cistern supplied by the rain water from the roof, and a pump, under one end of the shed. The stalls are divided from the free passage by a partition six feet high, or, which is better, to the roof; a hanging door in front of each stall serves to introduce the food into the feed troughs, and, if the partition is made to the door, slide doors as large as half the space should be provided for ventilation and for other obvious purposes. The rear of the shed should face the north, and should have a row of hanging shutters along the whole space to be opened in the summer time, if the cows are kept up at night.

The sheds should be built upon high ground to give ample drainage, and as the production of manure is of great importance, it will be found of the greatest value to keep the stalls abundantly littered and cleared out only when necessary for cleanliness. The manure may be left three or four days at any rate, if plenty of short litter or absorbents is provided. The partitions between the stalls are double-boarded for safety, and five feet high. A post or long iron staple will be required in each stall at each corner. To these are attached steel rings and short chains to go round the necks, or to hook on to rings in leather neck straps. It is best always to secure a cow when she is milked and it may be found desirable sometimes to put two cows in the stall, when this arrangement may be found useful.

Where room is not sufficient to give cows more than 3½ feet of floor room, stanchions will be found the best method of fastening. When cows are kept for profit, one cannot well be too fussy about their heads of comfort. A cow's idea of luxury and comfort is to be able to steal from her neighbor, to tyrannize over her, to punch her whenever she can, and to keep her in terror. I have found no manner of fastening so comfortable for the owner and the milker, so safe for the cows and so comfortable for the weaklings and quiet animals as stanchions. I don't approve of cows licking themselves clean. I do with that the card and brush, and that they cannot do this is the greatest objection made to stanchions. From a desire to be as kind and humane to my cows as possible, I have tried all sorts of fastenings, but as I have concluded to hereafter to consider myself first and my cows second, whenever I change my methods of fastening, I will use stanchions, or the loose stalls which I have found very convenient for my own purpose.

I do not intend to, no can I in the space at my disposal, do more than give general principles for the lodging of dairy cows. There are a few indispensable points to consider in selecting any plan. These, or the most important of them, are economy of labor, economy of feed, ease of management, safety to the animals, comfort, first for the owner, and then for the cows; healthfulness, provided for by good ventilation, cleanliness, and sufficient room; and last, but by no means least, the making and leaving of manure; and with all these cheapness and durability of construction and material are not to be lost sight of.—H. A Failure of Justice.

The trial of the first of the men charged with the murder of several members of the Donnelly family in the township of Biddulph in the month of February last, has resulted, very unfortunately for the public, in a failure of justice. We say unfortunately for the public, because the expense of the abortive attempt to secure a verdict has been very great to the Crown, and the maintenance of so many people in gaol is no slight expense. But apart from the mere dollars and cents view of the case, the failure of the jury to agree is a great hardship to the prisoners and those dependent upon them, if they are innocent, and entails a good deal of useless trouble upon the persons who are witnesses in the cases or otherwise connected with them.

It seems to us that had the Court acceded to the application made on behalf of the Crown for a change of venue from Middlesex to some other County, a verdict would in all probability have been reached, and for this reason : In the country about the scene of the tragedy, where the jurymen were of necessity drawn, the feeling in the case is very much stronger than it is elsewhere. There are those living in the vicinity of the scene of the tragedy who are the enemies of the Donnellys, and those who are their warm friends, and men animated by such feelings are certain to be drawn on any jury drafted in the County of Middlesex. But were the jury selected in some part of the country remote from the locality where the crime was committed, the evidence would be taken for what it was worth and a failure of justice would be very unlikely to result.

Now that an application has been made on behalf of the prisoners for their release on bail, it would be a fitting time for the Crown in resisting the application, to again ask for a change of venue. The Judges would scarcely, in the light of the experience afforded by the trial at the Middlesex assizes, again refuse, and thus an opportunity for a perfectly fair and unbiassed trial of the prisoners would be afforded.

The Globe advocates the appointment of a special Commission for the trial of the cases, in order that speedy justice may be done, and in this recommendation we are inclined to concur, provided that the trial [illegible] of the sittings yet to be held of the Court of Assize. It certainly is of importance that the trial of the accused should be had at as early a date as possible.

N. P. Notes.

The Dundas screw manufactory, which was closed under the Cartwright tariff, is to be reopened on a larger scale than before.

A rope, bag and twine factory for Sea. forth is spoken of.

Another cotton factory is to be built in Hamilton.

A company with a capital of $75,000, is to be formed in Toronto, for the manufacture of sugar from corn.

The Rosamond Woollen Company, Almonte, have now in their employ 250 hands, or about 80 more than this time last year, and there is full time work for all. The company have just completed the erection of a worsted factory, which adjoins and communicates with No. 1 mill. The building is four stories in height, built of stone, and is sixty feet long by sixty feet wide. The machinery, which has not yet been placed in position, will be imported from Great Britain, and of course is of the most improved pattern. This will give employment to a large number of additional hands.

Mr. Froude on the Irish Question.

LONDON, Oct. 13.

Mr. Froude has written to an Irish gentleman a letter, which was printed in the Times yesterday. He says : "The present state of things cannot last, and the agitation will probably oblige the Government to call Parliament together early, perhaps for a November session. They will then bring in a bill to satisfy the Parnell party, and the House of Lords will throw it out. Then there will be an appeal to the country. So far I see no further. I do not know what answer the constituencies will give. Ireland and the Irish people may still be safe if we show that we are not afraid, that we will at least try to be just, and that one function of justice is to punish crime. If Messrs. Gladstone and Forster have their way then the civil war which the Prime Minister spoke of is, I think, inevitable. Home rule will follow, and the Ulster Protestants will never submit to the legislation of a Home Rule Parliament. I am greatly attached to the Irish people. I wish to save them from the fate which surely awaits them if they are again brought into collision with this country."

East Hastings Fair.

The annual show of the East Hastings Agricultural Society was held at Thrasher's Corners on Wednesday, the 13th inst. The day being a fine one, neither too hot nor too cold, the attendance was very large. From all parts of the surrounding country the people commenced gathering early in the morning, so that by ten o'clock no accommodation could be had for a horse in any of the stables, and hardly a corner of a fence could be found but what was occupied. A good many from Belleville taking advantage of the beautiful weather drove out to the show grounds and spent a very pleasant day. We estimate the number of people at the show grounds in the afternoon as being 4,000 or more.

The show was about up to the standard. In some of the classes there were more entries than last year and in others not so many.

The show of horses was very large and we might say that the general interest of the fair was centered in this department, a large crowd continually swarming the course, making it almost impossible for the drivers to get around without accidents. A rather disagreeable, and what might have ended in a serious accident, happened in this way: A good many were driving on the course after dinner, and as is usual each endeavoring to get head and keep there, when Mrs. Harford Ashley, who was gradually working to the front with her gray pony, accidentally ran into a buggy in front of her, the driver having reined in his horse too suddenly and not giving Mrs. Ashley time to check her horse, the front wheel of her buggy ran up on the axle of the buggy ahead, throwing Mrs. Ashley out and also throwing her horse, but fortunately neither pony nor driver was hurt, but the party who was run into had to retire with a bent axle. In the running race, which took place towards evening, a boy named Charles McCarty, from Belleville, was struck by one of the horses, and for a time it was thought that he was dangerously injured, but he recovered after a time, sufficiently to walk away. The wonder is that more were not run over. John Palmer, from Belleville, who was one of the riders in this race, was thrown violently to the ground by the falling of his horse —he was helped up, taken to a house and cared for properly. From what we could learn, he was not seriously injured. After the horses were judged, a very interesting trot took place, three times around the course, some five or six horses being sent away to a good start. Mrs. Harford Ashley took the lead on the first round, and in spite of all they could do, the gray pony maintained it to the end.

The show of cattle was small, only a few entries having been made. Some fine specimens of sheep were exhibited, amongst them a splendid ram of the Cotswold [illegible] Glazie. A very good show of poultry was also made.

The exhibit of Carriages was very good, Charles Ashley, of Foxboro, making a very good display, as also did Ashley & Moorman and L. Palmer, of Canifton, while G. A. Brown, of Belleville, showed one democrat waggon.

The show in farming implements was very small, the fact of no prizes being offered no doubt producing this effect. Brown & Patterson, of Whitby, had on exhibition a reaper called the "Whitby Harvester," and G. & J. Brown showed a fanning mill, "The Champion," and three ploughs, while Patterson & Bro., of Richmond Hill, exhibited a spring tooth harrow.

The inside show was small, although some splendid samples of fruit were shown and a good variety of roots and vegetables, while some splendid samples of seed were on exhibition. In the Ladies' Department a good many fancy articles were on exhibition, but want of space prevents us particularizing them.

The exhibition altogether was a success financially as well as numerically. The Oddfellows' Band were present and discoursed some splendid music throughout the day. More than the usual number of games of chance were on hand to "beat" any one who might foolishly think they were going to make a fortune ; and more, than one went home a poorer if not a wiser boy.

We will publish the prize list to-morrow.

Lennox County Show.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NAPANEE, Oct. 12.

The annual show of the Lennox Agricultural Society commenced to-day and will continue to-morrow. The weather being fine there was a good attendance and the prospects are that the show will be a success.

The afternoon's proceedings were opened by the awarding of the special prizes on horses. The trials of speed were witnessed by a large number and were interesting.

The display of agricultural implements and other machinery on the grounds is not extensive. The Massey Manufacturing Co. have some of their reapers, rakes and mowers in operation, and Messrs. Haggert & Bros., show a Connell engine and a grain separator in operation.

Inside the main building the different departments usual to a County Show are well represented, and some of the exhibits are the best ever made in this part of the country.

Messrs. Gibbard & Son's display of furniture is very fine and is the best that this firm has ever made. The exhibit consists of a suite upholstered in old gold and crimson cashmere puffed with silk crimson plush. This suite took first prize at the exhibition in Kingston. They also exhibit a very fine bedroom suite, the whole making a very nice appearance.

Messrs. Slaven & Co. make a good display of general dry goods and millinery, and also Messrs. Hinch & Scott, each firm showing taste in the collection and position of thir displays, which look well.

In the ladies' department the articles have not all arrived yet, but there are a number of entries, and it is expected that this department will be well represented.

The awards on live stock are to be made to-morrow morning, when it is expected there will be a large number of entries.

In the evening the building was illuminated and the show was attended by the people of the town in large numbers.

NAPANEE, Oct. 13.

To-day was the closing of one of the finest and most successful shows ever held in this county, both in regard to attendance and exhibits. The weather was spendid for a fair day, and everything passed off without any accidents. There was an absence of rowdyism and drunkenness, and this is much to the credit of the people in this section. The attendance was very large to-day and it is estimated that there were about 4,000 people on the grounds this afternoon. The entries in live stock were numerous and the stock was in splendid condition. The prizes were awarded this morning. A large number of Belleville people were down, among whom was Mr. J. Macoun, of the firm of Walker & Co., who had a couple of ploughs on exhibition.

Hastings Rifle Association.

At the conclusion of the All-Comers' Match, the competition for the prizes of the Association Match took place, the shooting in which was not up to the usual mark, as the score will show. The firing was done at one range, 600 yards, and 7 shots were allowed each contestant. Highest possible score 35. The record is as follows :

A contest was next gotten up between the teams representing the 49th, 15th and the visiting marksmen. The ranges were 400 and 600 yds., 5 shots at each. The shooting began at the 600 yards range first, so that as darkness was coming on, the nearer target range could be better seen. This contest was very interesting, especially between the 15th and the visitors. Two of the former team, however, fell away badly, and the [illegible] the award of second place to the strangers. This closed the meeting, which was a successful one, and but for the weather, would have been far more enjoyable, and would doubtless have been better attended than it was. The H. R. —Evangeliste Sauve, who had his foot torn off on the 12th inst, by the snubbing rope of his barge while passing through Cote St, Paul locks, Montreal, died shortly after being brought to the hospital.

Medical Etiquette.

HOW IT WORKED IN THE CASE OF AN UNFORTUNATE BOOKSELLER.

A somewhat peculiar case involving matters of medical "etiquette," and involving, or at least affecting as the sequel will show, the life of a patient, occurred a few days since in the city. Mr. John Dromey, of the firm of Doherty and Dromey, booksellers, 14 Chaboillez Square, was on Saturday last very ill and toward night became suddenly so bad that he was thought by his friends to be dying. Dr. Reed, who is known as apothecary to the General Hospital, is not in regular practice in the city, but occasionally when asked by an invalid friend does not refuse to prescribe for him or even, if urged, visit him. In the present case the doctor happened to be at Mr. Dromey's residence on a matter connected with the estate, for which he acts as agent, and seeing Dromey's perilous condition prescribed for him. He was also requested by his patient to continue his visits. Dr. Reed called again in a few hours and found that another physician, Dr. Cannon, had been to see Mr. Dromey, and had left medicine, and moreover, that judging by the manner of those around the bedside, his visits were no longer required. He at once withdrew, remarking, "As you have called in Dr. Cannon he had better continue the attendance."

Dr. Cannon came a short time after, and being told that Dr. Reed had been there promptly refused to do anything further.

"You had better leave it to Dr. Reed," said he, and he too left the house.

Meantime Mr. Dromey was sinking fast. Other physicians, it is said, were sent for, but they declined to attend him also, and on Sunday morning poor Dromey died, no medical man having been near him after Dr. Cannon left.

Dr. Cannon was then asked to give a certificate of death, but refused on the ground that he had not attended the deceased. Appeal was then made to Dr. Reed, and he at first refused on the same ground. The only way apparently out of the deadlock was an inquest, and Coroner Jones was notified by Mr Daniel Lyons and preparations were being carried out for the inquest, when Dr. Reed consented to grant the certificate, and the man was buried. The cause of death was inflammation of the bowels.

It should be stated in behalf of Dr. Cannon, that he says he simply left powders to alleviate temporarily the sufferings of the unfortunate man.—Montreal Witness.

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

Indiana Republican.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Yesterday's base ball : Troy, 14 ; Metropolitan, 12 ; Boston, 3 ; Worcester 4.

The Herald's Columbus special explains the Republican victory in Ohio as follows :—The Maine election with the possible revival of the Greenback heresy, was the most potent argument, waking up the strong Republican counties, and the tariff speeches and documents no doubt influenced the votes of thousands of workingmen. Prominent business men took far more interest in the campaign than usual. Their interest communicated itself to their employees also, and many young men who cared little for politics, or who heretofore voted with the Democrats, voted in accordance with the wishes of their employers.

The Tribune's Indianapolis attributes the Republican victory in Indiana to thorough organization of the party and excellent political generalship of Senator Dorsey.

The Times' Indianapolis says the cause for the Republican victory in Indiana were dis, trust of the solid South, superiority of the Republican candidate for Governor, the discussion of the tariff question and wonderfully good Republican organization.

The Times' Cincinnati special states that Thurman says: The fact that we have lost Indiana now does not in my opinion imply that the state is lost to Hancock. I have regarded him as much stronger in these states than the candidates on the state ticket.

The World's Indianapolis special says the Democrat managers are taking steps to reform the whole Democrat line and throw Indiana with renewed energy into the battle of November. English will at once call the State Committee together and concert a plan of action for the Presidential rally.

The Times' Cleveland says Garfield has been loaded down with congratulatory despatches and received a great many callers. He is pleased with the result, but takes it calmly.

The Sun's Indianapolis special says there is no doubt that Porter, Republican, is elected by 5,000 to 7,000 majority. There is little less doubt that the entire Republican state ticket is elected, and that they have gained two Congressmen. It is impossible yet to ascertain which party has the Legislature.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction on the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because :

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higer price than we do.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 14.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

THE ASSESSMENT.—Appeals against the assessment promise to be unusually numerous this year. Many appeals have already been handed in.

RIFLE SHOOT.—Several of the Belleville marksmen and the Picton team as well, left last night for Kingston, where they were to take part in a series of matches to-day.

GRAND JUNCTION.—The Grand Junction construction train reached Downer's Corners, one mile and a half from Peterborough, yesterday at noon, and will soon reach Ashburnham.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, increasing south-westerly to south-easterly winds, increasing cloudiness, warmer weather, followed by rain.

THE EYE AND EAR.—As will be seen by card in another column, Dr. J. D. Stewart, the celebrated oculist and aurist, is to pay another visit to Belleville and will remain at room 25, Dafoe House, from Monday the 25th inst., until Monday, November 8th.

RUNAWAY. — Whilst Mr. Wellington Palmer, of Hayden's Corners, was returning home from the East Hastings Fair last night, his horse became frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. Palmer and children out of the carriage. One girl was badly hurt, we understand.

THE GREAT ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Everybody is talking about it,—nothing ever advertised for exhibition has created half so much curiosity and comment. We are promised on Saturday, the 16th inst., the pleasure of witnessing it in all its effulgence, which is claimed will make gaslight a shadow, in free conjunction with Pullman & Hamilton's Great London Confederation, who are spoken of very highly wherever they have exhibited by the press. The Watertown Morning Dispatch says: "Many things can be said in praise of Pullman & Hamilton's Great London Electric Lighted Show, which exhibited here on the 5th of July, but one fact stood out in bold relief, and it was this: that the Company performed all it advertised, and did it well, too. Without any vain glorious street parade and show posters these performers, among whom are many truly wonderful in their respective roles, gave a long programme and neglected nothing. It was the best performance we ever witnessed."

RESTRAINED BY INJUNCTION.—The Peterborough Review of the 13th says:—"On Tuesday, Mr. Callaghan, a foreman for Messrs. Rathbun, of Mill Point, arrived in Peterborough. He left in the evening for the old Scott timber limits for the purpose of stopping about forty men who had been working there since we announced that the Rathbun firm had purchased them from Benedict, of Albany. He gave as a reason that an injunction in Chancery had been obtained by the creditors of the Scott estate, and that they had to stop work; he left here with the intention of transferring the men from the place where they were working to other limits owned by the Messrs. Rathbun. Upon inquiring at the office of Messrs. Poussette & Roger, which firm we were told was acting for the creditors, both parties assured us that although they were creditors they did not know anything about the injunction, and did not know that such a thing had been granted. A visit to Messrs. Hatton, Hatton & Beck, and several other legal firms and large creditors, gave a similar result, and we could not gain any information whatever. All appeared to be blissfully ignorant, but certain it is that the work is to be suspended, and there must be some grounds for it.'

METROPOLITAN HALL.—As will be seen by advertisement, Mr. W. H. Power and his excellent company are to perform in Belleville again on the evenings of the 19th and 20th inst. On the first night they will reproduce the "Galley Slave," which was so favorably received here recently, and which they have since performed in Ottawa and Montreal with great sucess. The Ottawa Free Press of the 9th inst. speaks of the performance in that city as follows:—"The above original comedy-drama was presented to an immense audience, at the Grand Opera House last evening by a New York Company, and in the presence of His Excellency and suite. The play is a highly interesting one, having about an equal amount of humor and pathos in it, and not too much of either. The play is laid on the old continent, and the play gives an illustration of society life—in romance. The company is an excellent one, each member sustaining his part in the most creditable manner. The several scenes were very pretty, and the acts, of which there are five in the play, highly interesting throughout. Applause was liberally bestowed at intervals, and the large audience dispersed well pleased with the evening's entertainment, the general verdict being 'it's really good.' The Galley Slave was repeated at the matinee this afternoon." On their second appearance here the company will present the new and interesting play "Dr. Clyde."

THE STATE ELECTIONS.—The Republicans have carried Ohio and Indiana, and West Virginia has gone Democratic.

OMISSION.—In the notice of the death of Mrs. Armstrong, in yesterday's issue, we omitted to mention that the deceased leaves five, instead of four daughters, surviving her. The fifth and youngest daughter, is the wife of Nelson G. Reynolds, Esq., of Whitby, Sheriff of Ontario County.

RUNAWAY.—A team of horses attached to a waggon which been left standing in front of Campbell's elevator ran away this morning and collided with Mrs. Herchimer's carriage and seriously injured it. Their flight led them to the Grand Junction dock, where the waggon was overturned and badly broken. The horses there became free and turned around but were soon after captured.

HORSE THEFT.—On Saturday last a brown horse was stolen from Bath and was disposed of here on Monday. A telegram received by the police this morning announces the theft of a horse from Napanee last night. The above cases should put livery men and horse owners generally, on their guard.

THE ASSIZES.—A special sitting of this court will commence to-morrow, for the trial of the case of Palmer vs. Solmes. In addition to the talented local counsel engaged in this case, the services of Mr. Jas. Bethune, of Toronto, has been secured for the plaintiff, whilst Dolton McCarthy, of the same city, has been engaged on behalf of the defence.

FINE PAINTING.—We notice another fine picture in Robt. Dick's window entitled sun set in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, by M. Lawson. The soft, hazy and atmospheric effect in the distant mountains and waterfall is a picture in itself. The beautiful warm foreground enhanced by an Indian encampment, presents an ideal for a poet. This finely finished picture shows Mr. Lawson to be an artist of undoubted skill. Mr. Lawson has decided to remain with us if sufficient encouragement be effected. We wish him every success. See adv.

CAUTION.—As the advent of cold weather is at hand, and tramps and visitors of a like disagreeable character will soon make their visits to the city, it behooves those who are so incautious as to leave articles out upon their clothes lines at night, to make their intentions known to the police, also a description of the property, so that it can be readily identified. A man who had a weakness for appropriating articles exposed on a clothes line after sunset, was arrested and brought before the court to-day, and though his unlawful desires cannot be again consummated for a time, others may follow the example set by him. Therefore all interested should govern themselves accordingly.

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Echoes from the Depot.

What with draymen hauling away and bringing goods to the depot, the station yard to-day was more than ordinarily lively.

Thomas Watkin to-day shipped eight cars of cheese for the English market via Montreal.

Two cars of stock and a number of cars of refrigerated beef for the New England States passed eastward last night.

Seven cars of magnetic ore for smelting at Black Rock, N. Y., went west yesterday afternoon.

The express train from the east this morning was three-quarters of an hour late and the mid-day train from the west was on time.

Freight traffic is not very brisk just now, and the sidings present but a slight array of flat and box cars.

Marine.

The schooner Florence passed up for Trenton shortly before noon to-day, and was followed by the British Queen, Minnie Blakely and Mary Everett. All were light.

The N. P. Downey and the D. Freeman arrived at noon to-day, light, for Oswego.

The W. T. Greenwood is loading barley for the Grangers at Rathbun's lower dock.

The Pierrepont relieved the Maud last night. The Picton, it is now said, will shortly take the route of the Hastings.

The steam barge Thomson Kingsford passed up to Trenton light this morning, as did also the schooner Nellie Sherwood.

The Bentley with lumber left yesterday afternoon for Oswego and was followed soon after by the H. P Murray with rye for Walkerville.

The large three and after Marquis is taking on lumber at Mill Point.

The Ocean Wave left Picton for Oswego last evening, with barley, and the Folger arrived from the latter part this morning, with coal for the former place.

There was a heavy mist over the bay this morning, which interfered with navigation.

The Armenia sighted a number of schooners this morning bound up.

In addition to the injuries already described we find that the steamer Hastings by the late accident, had her pillar block broken, the machinery has been started from its place, and the whole upper works seriously damaged. Had the collision occurred on Thursday or Friday evening, when the passengers were very numerous, life would have been more endangered.—Whig, Oct. 13.

The schr. Nellie Wilder, from Toledo, to Kingston with grain, is reported ashore at Gallop Island. This reef is about thirty-five miles from Kingston, very dangerous and in American waters. When the crew left the schooner there was five feet of water in the hold. It is thought the vessel will be a total loss. There is no insurance on the vessel, but the grain is probably insured While jibing the schooner before she ran ashore, Capt. Jackson was struck over the left eye by the main boom penant, and was carried below unconscious, in which condition he remained about two hours.—Ib.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

Rev. ——, Washingtn, D. C.

Fatal Accident.

A Man Killed by a Falling Tree.

Areule Thibaudeau, a native of the Province of Quebec, was killed in Rathbun's shanty, Grimsthrope, on Wednesday morning, the 13th inst. He was about 25 years old and came from Mill Point to work in the shanty at Grimsthorpe for Rathbun & Son about nine or ten days ago. He was sawing logs at the time he met with the accident. A gang was chopping near him who felled a green pine and in its descent it struck a dry pine, which fell on the head of deceased and killed him on the spot. Mr. Samuel McCoy and a few of his comrades brought him down for interment in the Roman Catholic burying ground, Sugar Island.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test ZOPESA, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&wly

Trenton Correspondence.

TRENTON, Oct. 13.

Mr. Geo. H. Gordon finds the demand for flour so large, that he is compelled to run his mill night and day.

The Molson's bank building is now completed, aud open for business.

The Murray Agricultural Society held their annual Exhibition in the Drill shed yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large, and the show (especially of live stock) an excellent one.

The Methodist tea meeting last night was largely attended, and passed off very pleasantly.

The rush of grain was so large yesterday that the elevators had to run all night.

October 14th.

Last night about 10 o'clock, a barn belonging to Randall Cronk, on Indian Island, with the contents and a horse, were burned. The island is situated midway between Trenton and the Prince Edward shore. It is no doubt a case of incendiarism, as no one lives there. Mr. Cronk lives in own.

This morning some miscreants poured coal oil over and set fire to a lot of packing cases that were lying in the alley between Purdy's block and the Queen's hotel. As there were brick walls on both sides no damage was done, only to the cases.

The Bishop of Ontario held confirmation service at St. George's Church here last Sunday evening. Thirty candidates were present, a number being middle aged persons. The Bishop delivered a fine address on the duties of churchmen. The choir rendered some very fine anthems, afterwards the holy communion was administered to a large number. The church was crowded to the door.

The pier of the new swing is now above the water's edge. Next week the old wooden swing will be taken down. A steam ferry will be used for a couple of weeks for the accommodation of the public.

The Cooley block, on the corner of Front and Henry Streets, is completed. G. S. Bonter & Co., dry goods, take one store, and J. B. Young, boots and shoes, with Dominion Telegraph office, the other. Upstairs is rented for offices. This block is quite an addition to the appearance of the town. It is built of red brick, faced with white; the stores have plate-glass windows, and are finely fitted inside.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—A terrible fire is raging at Shelbyville, 25 houses burning in the heart of the town. The Indianapolis fire department were called on for assistance. The wires are interrupted.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Special despatches from Constantinople agree in declaring that the real cause of the cession of Dulcigno to Montenegro, was the threatened occupation of Symrna by the powers.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—It is understood that the prefects recommend the enforcement of the religious decrees at one stroke, in order to not prolong the agitation until the municipal elections in November or January. It is probable that the proceedings against unauthorized orders will be on a larger scale than was expected.

The managers of the Triboule, and Citoyen newspapers were sentenced to six months imprisonment and a fine of 5,000 francs, and one month's imprisonment and a fine of 100 francs respectively, for libelling President Grevy.

DUBLIN, Oct. 14.—The rumor that the prosecution of leading members of the Land League will be preceded by arrests, is unfounded.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The Grant party left today for Plymouth.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14, noon.—Additional returns show about the same rate of gains. The Republican majority on the state ticket will not fall short of 7,000. Congress will stand, 8 Republicans and 6 Democrats. The Republicans have a majority in both branches of the Legislature.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Arrived Devon from Bristol, and D. Steinman from Antwerp.

MOBILE, Oct. 14.—The crew of the French bark Formosa abandoned her at sea on Aug. 30th, the vessel having been hopelessly damaged during a storm. The eleven men were in an open boat suffering terribly from hunger, thirst and fatigue, until Sept. 4th. One man became a raving maniac. The crew were rescued by the British bark City of Richmond. Two men afterwards died; four are still in the hospital.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Indications: lower lakes, warmer, increasing cloudiness, areas of rain.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. TRUTH.

WE take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, as long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our Goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability is the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our DIRECT IMPORTS, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

OUR OLD MOTTO

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,

Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

Treatment of Gold Ores—New Process.

A process is at present attracting some attention on the continent which may prove of importance to those interested in Indian gold mines. It is described as being based upon the employment of bichlorate of mercury in solution, to replace the metallic mercury employed formerly. The chemical reaction and the principle has, of course, been long known; but its application and the special apparatus employed form the patentable features of the invention. The bichlorate of mercury alone will not touch gold, but, immediately you bring iron in contact with it, the reaction is instantaneous, with formation of chlorate of iron, metallic mercury, and gold amalgam. This, it is said, is so certain and so searching in its action in a big barrel of gold ore revolving with iron balls inside, that the amalgamation of every particle of gold is complete in about twenty minutes. Then the contents of the barrel, or vat, or other vessel used as agitator, are flowed into another apparatus of an ingenious construction, with amalgamated copper plates which retain the finest grain of gold amalgam contained in the mass of ore treated. This is collected ingeniously also, and treated as all amalgams usually are. There is no loss of mercury worth mentioning, and Mr. Deignolle, the patentee, engages to extract gold from any ores, even tellurium gold—which is almost unattackable by any known process—and to extract 25 per cent more gold from any of the ores now being worked by any known process. As each machine only works 10 tons of quartz in 12 hours, ores containing less than one half-ounce to the ton would hardly pay; but where the process will, it is considered, be of great advantage is in India, Australia, Brazil, or Canada, where ores hold sulphur, arsenic, etc., rendering extraction by ordinary methods difficult if not impossible.

As to the practicability of the process, Messrs Lewis & Co., of London, who have undertaken the introduction of the invention in the countries mentioned, state that the patent right has been purchased by a firm of Paris bankers, and Prof. Fuchs, of the Paris School of Mines, reports it is the most perfect method that has yet been invented for the treatment of gold quartz. Arrangements are pending by which it is hoped that Mr. Brough Smyth, who is on the point of starting for Madras, will be able to inspect the machines and see Wynaad quartz treated shortly after his arrival in Europe. The trial of the invention on a practical scale and its further development will be duly recorded from time to time.—London Mining Journal.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Ills.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued eries of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents, Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say:—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Rolls of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held.

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

Epeleptic Fits"

St. Paul, Min. January 4th, 1878.
James I. Fellows, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. Walter Oakes.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
James I. Fellows, Esq.

Sir;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OBITUARY.

(From the Ottawa Citizen)

We regret having to announce the death, at Fort Walsh, N. W. Territories, on the 2nd instant, of Captain EDMUND DALRYMPLE CLARK, of the North West Mounted Police, in the 32nd year of his age. He was a son of the late Major-General JOHN CLARK, R. H., of Dalnavert and of the daughter of SIR JOHN DALRYMPLE, Bart. His uncle, the present SIR HUGH DALRYMPLE Bart., of Berwickshire, Scotland, was well known in Canada, when Colonel of the 71st Highlanders. Captain CLARK was also a nephew of the Right Hon. Sir JOHN MACDONALD, P. C., K. C. B. He entered the Civil Service of Canada in 1867, was private secretary of the Hon ALEX MORRIS as Minister of the Interior at Ottawa, and subsequently as Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba. On the organization of the N W Mounted Police in 1873, he was appointed to that force, and has filled at different times the offices of Papmaster, Adjutant Inspector and Superintendent (Captain.) He married in April last MAYE, the youngest daughter of the Hon. JAMES COCKBURN, Q C., M. P. During the summer of 1879 he was prostrated by mountain fever, which was then prevalent in the vicinity of Fort Walsh, and it is feared that his constitution never recovered from the effects of that sickness. The sad intelligence will be received with grief by the many friends of the deceased from Prince Edward Island to the Rocky mountains. He was respected by all who knew him, and a favorite with all who enjoyed his friendship. To the bride of April last, who is now en route to Ottawa a widow, we tender our most sincere sympathy in her sad and painful bereavement.

A Famous Yacht.

MR. TANKERVILLE-CHAMBERLAYNE'S "ARROW"—THE ROMANTIC CAREER OF THAT CELEBRATED CRAFT.

(The London World.)

It is like a dream to hear that the Arrow began her career by winning the Town Cup at Plymouth in 1825. For fifty-five years she has thus held her own among the cream of racing yachts. Every one knows that during her long life she has been repeatedly altered; but in many respects she is the same as of old—more so at least than the proverbial knife which had been fitted with a new blade and a new handle. When Mr. Chamberlayne's father bought the Arrow in 1844 she was to have been broken up as worn out and useless; but his keen eye detected her good points, and he at once set to work to improve her. For many years she reigned almost supreme; perhaps for the reason that as often as some vessels capable of beating her appeared her owner made further alterations and improvements, and always with the best result. To mention all her victories, and describe all the trophies carried off by her, would occupy a large space. It will suffice to allude to a few of her more memorable contests. In 1826 she won the Gold Cup at Cowes, the only gold cup ever given at a yacht race. She won the first cup ever given by the late Prince Consort, and also the last he ever gave, as well as the first cup ever given by the Prince of Wales. In 1850 she took the Queen's cup at Cowes, a handsome piece of plate designed by Her Majesty, shown at the International Exhibition of 1851, and now displayed in the drawing-room at Cranbury Park. The Arrow also won a prize of a hundred and fifty guineas, given by the late Sir Titus Salt in 1865. The course was from the Thames to Ryde; a large fleet of all rigs started, and the Arrow won by more than nine hours. She was the only English yacht that ever took a prize from the America, and this she did in 1852. It is held by the owner of the Arrow and some other yachtsmen that perhaps too much was made of the victory of the America in the preceding year in the race round the Isle of Wight. It is true that the representative of the United States started against a fleet of our best racing yachts; but the fact remains that the two best of them, the Arrow and the Alarm, were put out of the race by an accident when only one-third of the course had been accomplished. The Arrow had just found her favorite condition of wind and water when she ran on the rocks through fault of her pilot. Her state was a critical one, and the Alarm, which was just astern of her, at once abandoned the race and came to her assistance, leaving the America to beat, by about twenty minutes, the Aurora, of forty-eight tons, a vessel which the Arrow had frequently beaten by more than an hour.

In 1873 the Prince of Wales made his first trial of yacht-racing on board the Arrow in the Royal Yacht Squadron Regatta at Cowes; and it is possible that this experience may have induced His Royal Highness's love and patronage of yachting. The Arrow is certainly the most comfortable and agreeable of racing boats. Her deck is unusually spacious, for she is the broadest yacht afloat for her length; and her main cabin is a pattern of neatness and homeliness, but without the slightest pretension to grandeur or luxury. As Mr. Chamberlayne introduces his visitor to his comfortable yacht he will remark, "Electric bells, swinging berths, painted panels, and all such innovations would be as much out of place in my old-fashioned ship as a swallow tailed coat would be on the back of Oliver Cromwell." There is, however, all that is necessary on board of the Arrow, either for body or mind. Furniture and library are both good, and if the cabin sleeping accommodation is limited to five good berths it is because an unusually large space has been given up to the crew; but there is room enough for guests, distinguished or otherwise. Last year the Archduke Charles Stephen of Austria, and the Austrian Ambassador were the guests of Mr. Chamberlayne, and sailed in the Arrow in races both at Rye and Cowes, when she carried off the prize from the famous Formosa, now the property of the Prince of Wales. According to the present conditions of yacht-racing the Arrow is hardly fairly handicapped, inasmuch as, according to "measurement," she is obliged to give away a large amount of time to yachts of equal length but less beam, and furnished with lead ballast. Both the new cutters Vandura and Samœna carry bigger spars and sails than the Arrow, but because they are narrower receive time from the bonny old boat which has brought so many prizes to her sportsmanlike owner.

EVERYBODY uses "Teaberry" to beautify and preserve the teeth. It sweetens and gives fragrance to the breath. Delightfully cooling and refreshing. Testimonials from all over the country of its excellence. Price 50c. 134d&wly.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 15.

The State Elections.

The elections which were held in the States of Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia on the 12th inst., were looked forward to with a great deal of interest not only in the United States but in Canada, as sure to afford a tolerably certain indication as to how the Presidential election, which is to be held on the 2nd of November, will result. The Republicans certainly could not hope to win if Ohio turned against them, and this, taking their recent defeat in Maine into account, seemed not improbable, even with the fact in their favor that their nominee for the Presidency is an Ohio man. The Democrats, although they did not publicly concede the fact that it is necessary for them to carry Indiana in order to secure the election, yet privately hold to that belief. Hence the parties entered into what may be termed a life or death struggle in those two States, in which all sorts of fraud were charged by each against the other, including the expenditure of upwards of one million of dollars for corrupt purposes.

The result has been a signal triumph for the Republicans, who not only retain Ohio by a majority much larger than they had calculated upon, but have also wrested Indiana from their opponents, and largely reduced the Democratic majority in West Virginia as well.

That Ohio should remain true to its Republican allegiance is not to be wondered at, but the extent of the majority is surprising. The victorious party expected to carry the State by from 5,000 to 10,000, but their majority is certainly 20,000, and probably 25,000. The result in Indiana is still more surprising, as the Republicans privately held the belief that that State, which is the home of Mr. English, the Democratic candidate for the Vice-Presidency, would again, as in 1878, give a majority to their opponents. But to the surprise of all concerned, the Republican State ticket is elected by from 7,000 to 8,000 majority, and they have secured a majority of the Congressional delegation and of the Legislature as well.

Results seemingly so surprising must have been brought about by some important cause, which, though not prominently apparent on the surface, was yet certainly at work. This cause we believe to be accurately defined by the New York Herald's correspondent at Columbus, Ohio, who says of the result in that State:

The Maine election with the possible revival of the Greenback heresy, was the most potent argument, waking up the strong Republican counties, and the tariff speeches and documents no doubt influenced the votes of thousands of workingmen. Prominent business men took far more interest in the campaign than usual. Their interest communicated itself to their employees also, and many young men who cared little for politics, or who heretofore voted with the Democrats, voted in accordance with the wishes of their employers.

And so we have not the slightest doubt was it in Indiana. The Democratic party went into the contest with a platform one plank of which was a declaration in favor of a tariff for revenue purposes only. The Republicans made no sign in favor of any alteration in the tariff. Now as, under a protective tariff the nation has flourished and prospered in an amazing manner, the people are wise enough to oppose any change in a system which has worked so satisfactorily. They were alarmed by the Democratic declaration in favor of a change, and as the Cobden Club of England have been trying to assist the Democrats by scattering free trade literature broadcast over the country, the electors rightly considered that the proposed change in the tariff, though disguised under the title of "for revenue purposes," meant the introduction of the thin end of the free-trade wedge. So, to maintain their present flourishing position, large numbers of them have cast party feeling aside and stand arrayed against any possible attack on their native industries. The Democrats now perceive that they have made a grand mistake, and their organs are endeavoring to calm the fears of the people who believe that an attempt would be made by them, if General Hancock be elected, to materially reduce the duties on imports. One of them urges its readers to remember that the Democratic party have controlled the lower House of Congress for the past four years, and the Senate for two years, and that no important changes have been made in the tariff during that period. It also assures them that no change of moment will occur should the position of parties be reversed. This style of appeal comes, we believe, too late, as the circumstances of the case are altogether too strong to admit of belief in such statements, and the more especially when the "revenue tariff" plank in the party's platform is taken into consideration. The Democrats may shout themselves hoarse in trying to make people believe that they intend no violent assault on the present commercial system, but they will find few to believe them. The Republicans are the originators of the present successful policy; they have long maintained it; therefore they are the best entitled to confidence in the matter. Thus will the mechanics, manufacturers and others who truly appreciate the situation consider, and hence they will vote for the Republican candidate, whose election we now regard as almost a certainty.

It may be that Indiana may reverse her verdict three weeks hence; it may be that the foreign elements in New York city, which is "Democratic at all times and under all circumstances," may cast the vot of the State for General Hancock; the "solid south" may—probably will—prove a unit for the Democratic nominee; but the agricultural interests of the west, and the manufacturing, mining and other industries of the North and East will go strongly against any probable alteration of the present beneficial tariff.

There is a lesson in this for the free-traders of Canada. Let them learn and bear it in remembrance.

N. P. Notes.

Mr Joseph Keeler, M. P., is about starting a new paper mill at Campbellford. It is Mr. Keeler's intention to manufacture printing paper.

Messrs. Gault & Bros., of Montreal, propose to erect a woollen factory at Campbellford and bind themselves to employ one hundred hands continually, providing the municipality will give them a bonus of $10,000.

WATER AND GAS COMMITTEE

Water and Light Wanted for Foster Ward.

A meeting of the Water and Gas Committee was held in the Police Court room last evening at eight o'clock.

PRESENT.—Ald. Hambly, Chairman, Petrie, Vandusen and McIninch.

The Chairman read a resolution considered at the last meeting of the Council asking for a grant of $500 for a water supply for Foster Ward, and referred back to the Water and Gas Committee.

Ald. Ostrom came in.

Ald. Petrie said the supply of water in Foster Ward was inadequate to the wants of the people, and he thought the Committee should support the grant of $500.

Ald. Ostrom asked if the City's finances could afford the making of such a grant? Other wards in the City would push their claims as well.

In reply to Ald. Ostrom, Ald. Petrie said there was one public well in Foster Ward, but the refuse from the Gas House had destroyed the water.

Ald. Vandusen said he would support the cleaning out of the well.

Ald. Hambly said he would order Surveyor Taylor to clean out the well and put a pump in it.

The Mayor came in.

Ald. Petrie said Mr. Robertson, of the Gas Company, offered to supply water from the Gas House at a cost of $30 per annum.

The Mayor asked where the source of the water could be got from.

Ald. Petrie said it would not cost much to sink a well.

The Mayor said it would cost $3 a foot for the first fifteen feet.

Ald. Petrie moved that the report asking for a grant of $500 be entertained.

Ald. Vandusen moved in amendment that it be not entertained.

The amendment was carried.

The Committee recommended $30 to be expended in supplying water from the Gas House for the supply of Foster Ward.

Ald. Petrie said it was necessary to put a gas lamp on the corner of Wharf and Maria streets.

Ald. McIninch said they had tried to put a lamp there two years ago, but could not on account of difficulties of a serious nature.

Ald. Ostrom asked if a coal oil lamp would not answerr

Ald. Petrie said no; if they could not have a gas lamp, they did not want any.

He also stated they would have to dig about 200 feet, to connect with the gas pipes.

Ald. Hambly said he would see the President of the Gas Company, and if he would lay the pipes, he, the chairman, would furnish a lamp from some other part of the city.

The matter was left with him.

The Committee also reccommended that a well on Wharf-street be cleaned out, after which they adjourned.

THE ASSIZES.

HOBSON V HALL.—Action for a malicious arrest. De't. leased an iron mine from plff; a dispute arose. Deft's men at the mine had difficulties and shots were fired. Plff. accused of firing the shots. LITHGOW vs. BENNETT, et al.—Action of ejectment to recover possession of part of lot No. 26, in 1st con. Thurlow. Both parties claim under same title, but in dividing the land plaintiff claims that defendant has taken too much.—Clute, Bell & Ponton for plt'ff; Bethune for deft. Verdict for PALMER V. SOLMES.—This unfortunate case of slander is going on. The Court House is crowded. Wallbridge, Q. C., Bethune, Q.C., and Dougall & Falkiner, for plaintiff; D. McCarthy, Q C., Dickson and Clute for defendant.

DEATH OF CANON GIVENS.—The Globe of the 13th says: "The Rev. Rural Dean Givens, Canon of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, and rector of St. Paul's Church, Bloor-street, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Joseph Keeler, M. P., Colborne, Ont. The deceased gentleman was in perfect health up to the very moment of his sudden demise, and was on his way to attend a series of missionary meetings in the county of Northumberland. Canon Givens was one of Toronto's oldest residents, and one of the first setlers in the county of York. He was also a member of the Society known as the "York Pioneers." For a number of years he performed the duties of rector of St. Paul's Church, but in the year 1878 retired therefrom, remaining, however, nominally rector of the parish. After this he was acting rector of Newmarket, and previous to that had filled the same position in Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, during the interregnum which occurred between the resignation of Dean Geddes and the appointment of Mr. Mockridge, of St. George's Church, Toronto. At the time of his death Canon Givens was engaged in missionary work throughout the Diocese of Toronto."

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Mr. Geo. Sweaner, of Montreal, claims to have discovered a method of dividing the electric light by which it can be adapted to household use. The inventor asserts that he can supply the light for domestic use at one-third the price of gas.

THE SCOTT ACT.—At a regular meeting of the Grantham Division of the Sons of Temperance it was resolved to submit the Scott Temperance Act at as early a date as possible to the electors of the united counties of Lincoln and Welland.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. SMASH-UP ON THE MIDLAND.

NINE CARS RUN INTO AN ENGINE.

The Port Hope Times of the 12th inst. says:—"An accident of an extraordinary and alarming character happened on the Midland Railway line at the station here. A train of empty cars, which left here about half-past three, broke in two at some point at present unknown, and the detached portion of the train rushed back to town at a terrific pace. The rattle of the cars as they rushed over the bridge and increasing in speed each moment, called every one any where near to the spot in a desperate hurry. There seemed every likelihood of the train rushing on to the wharf and into the lake. Fortunately, in some measure, there were two engines immediately opposite the depot and with these the runaway train collided with tremendous force. One of the engines was badly smashed, the smoke stack being knocked off, clear over in the hollow on the station side of the platform. Two cars and a van attached to the engine were completely shattered—literally knocked into splinters. The platform suffered as well. Altogether the scene is one of such complete wreck as very few have ever witnessed."

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

A correspondent informs us that the contracts undertaken by the farmers of Athabaskaville for the cultivation of sugar beet have exceeded by over one hundred the thousand arpents asked from them. Mr. Legru, the special agent of L'Union Sucriere du Canada, is, our correspondent adds, expected every day in Athabaskaville to fix the location of the factory and to make the deposit of $10,000. —Witness, Oct. 13.

News has been received in this city that the SS. Scotland, which left this port for London on the 22nd ult., lost 138 head of cattle during a severe storm on the passage.—Ib.

The shipment of apples from this port to Britain have been unprecedentedly large of late. Last week the shipments amounted to nearly 13,000 barrels, and it is probable that a larger quantity will be shipped this week, if they can be brought forward in time There is great difficulty experienced in some parts of Western Ontario in getting sufficient cars to ship eastward all the apples that are being offered.—Ib.

A syndidate of Toronto cattle dealers has, it is said, contracted with the Allen and Dominion Lines of steamships for space for twenty thousand cattle for the Ports of Liverpool, London, Bristol and Glasgow.

The cut of lumber at the Ottawa mills this season amounts to one hundred million feet, being from ten to twelve million more than that of last year, The cut of the mills on the Quebec side of the river at Eddy's, Gilmour's and Grandell's mills, amount to about seventy-five million feet, making a total of one hundred and seventy-five millions as the cut of the mills of this locality for the season,

COLS. BAYLEY AND CARRINGTON SHUT UP IN MASERU AND MAFETENG.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 14.—It now appears that Col. Bayley retired into the fort at Maseru at nightfall, and the burning of the Government office and barracks then took place. The enemy lost heavily in the fight, and then withdrew somewhat. Bayley is well supplied with food, but Carrington, who is besieged at Mafeteng, has been obliged to slaughter horses for food.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Arrived, the Cimbria from Hamburg.

GALLATIN, Tenn., Oct. 15 —At Lafayette, Wednesday, Joe Cartwright shot and killed Hugh Saunders. Saunders was an important witness against Cartwright.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—At a Republican demonstration at Johnville last night, a cannon exploded. One man was seriously and two probably fatally injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In compliance with an appeal from Cardinal Nina for relief for the Pope, Cardinal McCloskey addressed a letter to the clergy directing a collection to be made in all the churches of the archdiocese on Oct. 24th.

The Tribune reports that General Carrington of Indiana, who visited Garfield the other day, as saying that Garfield received the despatches regarding Indiana and Ohio with the utmost calmness, simply saying, "these elections I do not regard as personal to myself, but as indicating the purpose of the American people to mature the fruits of the war; to assure American manufacturers that they will be protected in lines of American industry; and to guarantee to every man of whatever race or color, equal rights with the richest and the best." Garfield was looking well.

Senator Dorsey telegraphs to the Tribune that Treat was elected to Congress for the fifth Indiana district. This makes nine Republican Congressmen.

At Brooklyn to-day "St. Julien" will attempt to beat his own record for a purse of $2,500.

The Herald reports Hancock saying yesterday: "Let the returns from Ohio and Indiana toot up as they will, I see no ground for discouragement to the Democratic party. There were local issues in Indiana which would have no influence on the national political contest."

The Herald's Indianapolis special states the Democratic leaders accuse English of being the principal cause of their losing the State.

Governor Foster, of Ohio, says the members of the Campbellite Church in Indiana number 10,000, and that they voted the Republican ticket to the last man. Garfield belongs to this sect.

THE CESSION OF DULCIGNO. — Special despatches from Constantinople agree in declaring that the real cause of the cession of Dulcigno to Montenegro was the threatened occupation of Smyrna by the powers. Assim Pasha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has informed the ambassadors that the Porte is disposed to surrender not only the town, but the district of Dulcigno, and that Riza Pasha has been instructed to cede the territory peacefully. Assim Pasha declared that the fact of a convention with Montenegro being necessary did not simply that any delay in surrendering Dulcigno was intended.

A FATAL FIRE.—At Richelieu village, on the 13th, a five year old son of Godfroi Lorsette, in the absence of his parents, set fire to the corn in the granary, and in a few moments, house, barn and stables were ablaze. The boy perished in the flames, almost within reach of the rescuing neighbors.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because;

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

THE CANADA

CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines
THE UTMOST SAFETY FOR THE CAPITAL INVESTED.
VERY LOW COST OF THE PROPERTIES.
EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company, 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wk

Dr. J. D. STEWART, M.D.,

OCULIST AND AURIST,

WILL visit Belleville professionally on MONDAY, October 25th, and will be at Room 25, Dafoe House, from that date until Monday, Nov. 8th.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 15.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

RAIN.—There was during last night a series of fine showers, which have laid the dust nicely.

CITY HALL.—The Mendelssohn Quintette Club will give a performance to-night. They ought to have a full house.

RAILWAY FREIGHT.—There were eight cars of grain and one car of wood on the train from Madoc this morning, and three cars of grain on the train from Hastings.

PULLMAN'S LONDON CONFEDERATION.—This organization, of the merits of which the press speaks very highly, will give its closing exhibition for the season, in this city to-morrow.

THE RIFLE.—One of the matches of the Hastings Rifle Association is yet to be shot. It will take place on the 22nd, when the competition for the champion cup will occur.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.—Ontario Business College will, by invitation, be represented at the opening of the Queen's University buildings at Kingston. One of the principals went down on the noon train today.

SPORTING.—Ducks are very scarce in all their usual resorts. At Hay Bay there are none, while in Mosquito and other bays adjoining, and in all the marshes, very few of the fall ducks have as yet put in an appearance.

POLICE.—There were four inmates in the cells last night, namely one tramp and three prisoners. The police also brought in an oyster sign which had been left outside a store on Front Street, and found that the door of another store had been left carelessly open.

BARBER'S ITCH.—The Michigan Medical News gives the following formula for the cure of this troublesome affliction: R Prepared chalk, 10 parts; coal tar, 1 to 4 parts; glycerine, 5 parts; simple cerate, 50 parts. Or the following: Prepared chalk, 8 parts; coal tar, 1 to 2 parts; linseed oil, 20 parts. Shave off the hairs, or cut them very short; then apply this ointment once or twice a week.

A MISTAKE.—On Wednesday last a young man who had been on the market with some produce disposed of it and went to procure the pay therefor. He stood in front of the counter where he expected to get his returns and two parcels containing money were laid in front of him. One of the largest was given him and he took it away. Its proper owner discovered the mistake, found the young man and made him disgorge the difference, which was twelve dollars. A little more caution and less carelessness would have saved the interested parties a great deal of annoyance.

REMENYI.—The following are a few extracts from the latest telegrams received by Mr. Reynolds: Guelph—Remenyi was greeted by over six hundred persons last night. Immense enthusiasm. Hamilton—Immense enthusiasm. Remenyi called out eight times. Galt—Splendid house; great excitement. Remenyi overwhelmed with cheers. Brantford—People wild with delight; great enthusiasm. Paris—Remenyi received a perfect ovation last night; it was a continued furore. Remenyi appears in Belleville Friday, Oct. 29th. The sale of seats will commence at Reynolds' on Thursday, Oct. 21st, at 10 a. m.

ALBERT COLLEGE ASSOCIATION.—The Athletic Association of Albert College was on Monday last reorganized with the following officers:—Hon. President J. R. Jaques, D. D.; President, Prof. M.H.. Davis, B. A.; Vice-presidents, P.M. White and A. R. Carman; Secretary-Treasurer, T.T. Holgate; Committee, Prof. Davis, Prof. Dyer, G.S. Wattan, J.H. Packham, W.O. Austin, J.R. Street, C.H. Cummer, R. Franklin, and W. G. Nichol. Football was adopted as the college game, and although the association loses by the graduation of some of its best members the team promises to be as strong as before.

THE COMING YEAR.—The year 1881 will be a mathematical curiosity. From left to right and from right to left it reads just the same; 18 divided by 2 gives 9 as the quotient; 81 divided by 9 and 9 is the quotient. If 1881 is divided by 209, 9 is the quotient if divided by 9, the quotient contains a 9; if multiplied by 9, the product contains two 9's; 1 and 8 are 9, 8 and 1 are 9. If the 18 be placed under the 81 and added, the sum is 99. If the figures be added thus, 1, 8, 8, 1, will be 18. Reading from left to right is 18 and reading from right to left is 81. By adding, dividing and multiplying, nineteen 9's are produced, being one 9 for each year required to complete the century.

RETURNED.—The yacht Katie Gray and her hunting party returned home this morning. Their success was limited, as game was scarce in the vicinity where they located.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, fine warm weather to-day, followed by increasing winds, cloudy to rainy weather, storms signals will be continued at all the Lake Points.

THE JAIL.—The number of prisoners now confined in the County Jail is 19, of these 10 are females and 9 males. Several of the former will be released next week as their sentences will then expire.

RECOVERED.—The horse and buggy which were stolen from P. R. Davy, of Bath, on Saturday last, and disposed of here on Monday, was recovered by its owner, who accurately described the property and took it home to-day.

CORRECTION.—It was incorrectly stated in our notice of the champion cup of the 15th Battalion, that it was presented by Capt. J. L. Biggar, of No. 1 Company, whereas the fact is that it was presented by the officers of the battalion.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.—The following companies will appear in the Metropolitan Hall on the dates named: Oct. 19th, 20th, Galley Slave Co.; 22nd, Tony Denier Pantomime Co.; 25th, Spanish Student; 29th, Remenyi; 30th, Ino a Stevens; Nov. 2nd, Lawrence Barrett.

A NEAT SHOP.—Mr. George I. Thomas, who has established himself in business in Mr. Ellis' old stand, Bridge Street, has fitted up the shop in handsome style. He announces that he is now prepared to supply all kinds of fresh and salted meats, poultry and vegetables, at the lowest prices.

AUTUMN LEAVES.—To preserve autumn leaves, spread the fresh leaves and press them in a suitable dish with alternate layers of fine sand which is thoroughly dry and as hot as the hand can bear. When the sand has cooled they may be removed, smoothed under a hot iron, dipped for a moment in clear French spirit-varnish and allowed to dry in the air.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Campbellford Herald says:—"The track-layers calculated on reaching Peterborough, on the 12th inst. Mr. W. H. McKeel, of this village, is still in the employ of this enterprise, and is overseer of the rail-laying detachment of assistance, composed of 45 men and 14 teams. On the entire road between Hastings and Peterborough, there have been employed about 100 men. Some of these are engaged in track-laying, some ballasting, a number employed on the "lift," while a few are busy building the fences. A station, to be known as the Allendale station, will be erected near Indian River. There is a praiseworthy activity shown in this railway enterprise at the present time. Its promoters evidently having tasted of the returns likely to result from its operation, are confident of its prosperity, and seem determined to carry the work to completion. The present movements will shortly ensure increased traffic through this part of the country."

JURYMEN and others in want of Shirts and Drawers, Tweeds or Clothing, would save money by calling on James Hennessy, 332 Front Street. He has the largest and cheapest stock in the city.

Mrs. Simon Cole, charged with allowing her cow to run at large, had her case remanded for a week for judgment.

OBSTRUCTING THE STREETS.

The case of Jellett vs. Downey & Preston for the above offence was further enlarged for a week.

Stirling Correspondence.

THURSDAY, Oct. 14th.

Wednesday witnessed the marriage of Miss Henry, step-daughter of Dr. Parker, to Mr. O. Hewat, merchant. The ceremony took place at the early hour of 7 a. m., at the Presbyterian Church, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Mr. Gray. The happy couple drove to Belleville, where they took the noon train east.

Mr. Morgan Jellett's little daughter "Connie," after a long illness, died last evening at the residence of her grandfather, Mr. Geo. E. Bull, here. The little thing had a very severe attack of sickness, of many complications. Her remains will be taken to Belleville and buried in the Cemetery.

The farmers are taking advantage of the lovely weather, and marketing their grain.

Dr. Boulter, a Trustee of Victoria College, and the Rev. Mr. Gray, took their departure this morning to attend the opening of the new building of the Queen's University at the limestone city.

Sporting Notes.

Trickett still continues sickly, but was out once yesterday for a short spin.

Hosmer is gaining in favor with the English, and the general opinion is that he will prove a good match for the Australian, Laycock.

In regard to the recent fizzle between Courtney and Riley, the general opinion appears to be that Riley out-generalled Courtney.

Hanlan is better and takes his usual exercise.

The financial results of the Australians' cricket matches in England, unlike those of the unfortunate Canadians, have been most successful. It is probable that their tour has resulted in a solid profit of at least £5,000.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Hanlan is better today. He ran ashore this afternoon and broke his boat. He was rescued by a passing skiff. Trickett is improving. Hosmer and Laycock had two spins to-day.

The Sportsman says: Swaddle & Winship have just completed a new boat for Hanlan. The latter, whose cold is better, did some strong work yesterday and knocked off the extra weight he gained last week.

Rober the Devil beat Bend Or again in the race for the champion stakes at Newmarket yesterday.

Walkinshaw, of Wingham, and Dodds, of London, contested for the quoiting championship on the 14th, the former winning by 62 to 34.

How to get sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know

HOW TO GET WELL.

Which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters! See other column.

Queen's University.

The New Buildings Dedicated.

The new buildings of Queen's University, Kingston, were formally dedicated on the evening of the 14th inst.

There was a very large attendance, and among the gentlemen on the platform were—The Very Rev. Dr. Grant, Principal, and the Professors in the Faculties of Art, Thology, Medicine, and Law; Sandford Fleming, C.E., Chancellor-Elect; the Hons. E. Blake and Alex. Morris, Toronto; Judge Macdonald, Brockville; Rev. Dr. McNish, Cornwrll; Rev. J. C. Smith and Rev. Dr. Wardrope, Guelph; Rev. Dr. Bell, Walkerton; Rev. Dr. Bain, Perth; Rev. Dr. Null, Seymour; Joseph McLennan, Q. C., Cornwall; Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, B.D., Toronto; Rev. Donald Ross, Lachine; Rev. E. B. McLaren. Judge Denniston, Peterboro'; Rev D. M. Gordon, Ottawa; G. M. Kinghorn, Rev. Prof. Murray, McGill College; Rev. Robert Campbell, M. A., Renfrew; Rev. W. Mitchell, Belleville; George Webster, B. A., Brockville; Hon. A. G. Joly, ex-Premier of Quebec; M. McGillivray, Scarboro'; Geo. Davidson, John McIntyre, M. A., Rev Dr. Smith, Geo. McDonnel, B. A., W. H. Fuller, M. A., R. A. Rogers, B. A., A. Gunn, M. P., J. M. Machar, M. A., R. Carson, Mayor of Kingston, and the Rev. Mr. McRae, of St. John, N. B., Moderator of the General Assembly.

Messages were received by the Principal from Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Goldwin Smith announcing their inability to be present.

Principal Grant took the chair, and after repeating the words "Bless the Lord O My soul," he announced the hymn in the Presbyterian hymnal, commencing,

"Christ is made the sure foundation,
Christ is made the corner stone,
Chosen of the Lord and precious
Binding all the church in one.
Holy Zion's help for ever
And her confidence alone."

After the singing,

The PRINCIPAL called upon the Rev. the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church to dedicate the building.

The MODERATOR then offered the dedicatory prayer.

Mayor Carson then, on behalf of the citizens of Kingston, handed over the buildings tot he University authorities.

Principal Grant, in a very able speech, accepted the same, after which Prof. Williamson and Hon. E. Blake delivered addresses.

The Railway War.

Two Midland Cars Ditched—A Hearing Before the Master in Chancery.

(From the Peterborough. Review, Oct. 14.)

The war between the Midland and the Grand Junction Railway Companies still goes on, and the prospect of a settlement of the disputed point is as far distant as it was a month ago. A new phase of the matter came to light to-day when the Junction men commenced to lay the track From Elizabeth Street into Ashburnham down the road to meet the other party who are working towards town. At the time of writing the two gangs are only about half a mile apart, and Mr. Bickford confidently expects to run a construction train to Ashburnham early on Friday. He also intends to issue a timetable for a regular train on the first of November, and for two express trains daily on the first of December.

Learning that the portion of the road disputed by the two companies was blocked, a Review reporter, accompanied by the road master of the Midland, proceeded to the place indicated, about two hundred yards north of Elizabeth Street, and there found that two Midland cars a flat and a band wagon, were off the track. The rails where the run off occurred were badly bent and the ties displaced for a considerable distance. A number of ties, eight in all, were jammed up under the wheels of the two cars and the brakes on one were broken. The President and other officers of the road were unaware of the affair until informed by our representative, and they state that the whole thing was purely accidental. However that may be, the track is effectually blocked, and no train can pass up or down until the obstructions are removed, which will take some time.

Messrs. Bickford, Ellis, Cowan, Stewart, and other railway men are here, and the Master in Chancery is hearing evidence from those who filed affidavits for transmission to Toronto, to be used in the Chancery case now in progress between the two lines.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Herald's Dublin special says the prosecution of the Land League leaders which has been determined on caused a panic in their plans, as they did not imagine that the Government would dare to take such action. The prosecution is founded on the proceedings of the Land League in Dublin and speeches at some county meetings. It is expected a motion will be made on Nov. 2nd for a conditional order for criminal information against Parnell and other leaders of the Land League. The whole question, legally or illegally, of leagues, will be gone into. The more daring members of the Land League are jubilant at the prospects of a struggle, while others are apprehensive of the doubtful effect of the prosecution and attitude of the Catholic heirarchy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 15.—The following are stated to be the facts respecting the Czar's marriage, nineteenth, old style: The marriage with the princess Dolgoronki was solemnized in the chapel of the Imperial palace; the Czar's family disapproving, the Czarwitch went to Hopsol, on the Esthonian coast; the Grand Dukes Constantine and Vladmir went abroad in order that they might not witness the ceremony. The marriage was very private. The Grand Duke Nicholas and the Minister of war were present. The newly married pair are with the bride's family in Livadia. The Czar has purchased for his consort the palace of the Grand Duchess Catharine, paying 2,000,000 roubles.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Hartmann, Nihilist, telegraphs, giving a full description of the man who was to blow up the Imperial train at Alexander. The plot failed, because hours before the passenger train a carriage came along the line and cut the wire connecting the dynamite with the battery. Hartmann asserts that there are 300,000 organized bodies in Russia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Indications: lower lakes, increasing cloudiness, followed by light rains.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. BELLEVILLE MARKETS

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
Belleville, Oct. 15, 1880.

The receipts of Barley were large to-day, but buyers don't seem as greedy to purchase as they were yesterday, when one load sold at 74c.

The ruling price to-day was 60c for 48 lb. Barley, with a corresponding decrease in price for lighter weight grain; occasionally higher was paid for an extra sample, in one case this forenoon 66½c was paid for another load of the same Barley that brought the extreme price of 74c yesterday.

This forenoon's Oswego telegram reports: "Barley steady, quiet; sales No. 1 bright Canada 90c, No. 1 Canada 84, No. 1 above grade 87c."

The receipts of rye to-day were small, but the price was firm at 88c, buyers claim the price paid is fully 5c higher than the Oswego market will warrant, where rye is reported as held at 59c in bond.

Sheepskins are 10c lower.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y and Toronto, Ont.

OUR OLD MOTTO

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,

Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

TRUTH.

WE take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Belleville and surrounding Counties, for the large and increasing trade we have continued to do since removing to our new premises a year ago.

Just now there is a good deal of amusing nonsense indulged in about "Imports" versus "No Imports." Our ideas are that the public are not particular about where their Dry Goods come from, as long as they get the quality and styles they want at moderate prices. We have been under the impression that it was to our advantage to buy and import our Goods direct from the British and foreign markets, and as yet we have seen no reason for changing our mind. Our trade keeps increasing—in fact, our sales so far this year show a marked increase over the corresponding period of any previous year. Our aim has always been to find out how and where to get the class of Dry Goods—which in our judgment suits our trade—at the lowest prices. The public appreciate our efforts in that direction much better than if we devoted our time to writing advertisements abusing our neighbors in the same line of business.

It makes no difference to us how or where other Dry Goods merchants get their goods,—we buy and pay for ours in the way we think best; and one of the best proofs of the correctness of our judgment and ability is the large trade we are doing (the largest retail trade between Toronto and Montreal.)

We have only to add that our Stock this season has been selected with the greatest care and attention, and has been bought from some of the largest Manufacturers and Warehousemen in Great Britain and the Continent, and if Custom House returns are proof of the largeness of our DIRECT IMPORTS, we are prepared to give unmistakable proof that we have paid more money into the Dominion treasury for duties since the first day of August last, than any other Retail Dry Goods house between Toronto and Montreal.

JUST TO HAND,

Is it possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

One and the Same Thing.

Dyspepsia and biliousness are synonymous terms, and both are the result of over eating. The digestive organs, like all organs, need and must have rest; when they are taxed beyond endurance they become weak and cannot perform their functions. Constipation frequently results from dyspepsia, and dyspepsia often causes constipation. Either way, the system becomes and remains clogged. Colds are also productive of costiveness, as Bacon says, "Of cold the property is to condense and constipate." There are thousands of our people whose normal condition is costiveness. They resort to drastic medicines, when the infliction becomes unbearable, and heavily purge their bowels, merely to find frequent recourse to purgation necessary. The excellence of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS lies in their natural removal of the offal, without undue discharges and weakening consequences. Their composition is the result of an experience of more than a quarter of a century, and their history is a continued series of triumphs over what was believed to be chronic biliousness.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE AND Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS,
AND ALL
SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER
IS UNEQUALLED.
IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.
GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,
D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE MINISTER'S DAUGHTER.

In the minister's morning sermon
He had told of the primal fall,
And how henceforth the wrath of God
Rested on each and all.

And how of his will and pleasure,
All souls, save a chosen few,
Were doomed to the quenchless burning,
And held in the way thereto.

Yet never by faith's unreason
A saintlier soul was tried,
And never the harsh old lesson
A tenderer heart belied.

And after the painful service
Of that pleasant Sabbath day,
He walked with his little daughter
Through the apple-bloom of May.

Sweet in the fresh green meadows
Sparrow and blackbird sung;
Above him their tinted petals
The blossoming orchards hung.

Around on the wonderful glory
The minister looked and smiled;
"How good is the Lord, who gives us
These gifts from His hand, my child!

"Behold in the bloom of apples,
And the violets in the sward,
A hint of the old, lost beauty
Of the garden of the Lord!"

Then up spake the little maiden,
Treading on snow and pink:
"Oh, father! those pretty blossoms
Are very wicked, I think.

"Had there been no garden of Eden
There never had been a fall;
And if never a tree had blossomed
God would have loved us all."

"Hush, child!" the father answered.
"By His decree man fell;
His ways are in shade and darkness,
But He doth all things well.

"And whether by his ordaining
To us cometh good or ill,
Joy or pain, or light or shadow,
We must fear and love Him still."

"Oh, I fear him!" said the daughter,
And I try to love Him too;
But I wish He was good and gentle,
Kind and loving as you."

The minister groaned in sprit
As the tremulous lips of pain
And wide, wet eyes uplifted
Questioned his own in vain.

Bowing his head he pondered
The words of the little one;
Had he erred in his life long teaching?
Had he wrong to his master done?

To what grim and dreadful idol
Had he lent the holiest name?
Did his own heart, loving and human,
The God of his worship shame?

And lo! from the bloom and greenness,
From the tender skies above,
And the face of his little daughter
He read a lesson of love.

No more as the cloudy terror
Of Sinai's mount of law,
But as Christ in the Syrian lillies
The vision of God he saw.

And as when, in the clefts of Horeb,
Of old was his presence known,
The dread ineffable Glory
Was Infinite Goodness alone.

Thereafter his hearers noted
In his prayers a tenderer strain,
And never the gospel of hatred
Burned on his lips again.

And the scoffing tongue was prayerful,
And the blinded eyes found sight,
And hearts as flint aforetime,
Grew soft in the warmth and light.

Sunday Reading.

The Lord's Supper A Gospel to the Eye.

BY THE REV. J. L. JENKINS, PITTSFIELD.

St. Paul's knowledge of the Lord's Supper was received from the Lord Himself. It is reasonable therefore to think itample, minute and exact. An effect said by him to be accomplished by it may be believed to be an effect designed to be accomplished. Such an effect is stated in the words: "As oft as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come." The word "show" carries its meaning on its face. Merchants show their goods, make a display of them. Manufacturers show, that is, display, their fabrics. Kings show to royal visitors armies, navies, make a display of them, arrange to have them seen. To show means this:—it indicates a purpose to make such an exhibition as shall attract attention, cause what is exhibited to be seen. This purpose is in the Lord's Supper. It is to make something seen. It was instituted to show something. This something is said in the text to be the death of Christ. This event it puts before men, and causes men to see it. So much is on the surface of the word "show," as used by St. Paul in the passage quoted.

The translators of our Bible made the English word "show" stand for a Greek word not elsewhere translated. The exceptional rendering here is evidently to make prominent the fact that one purpose of the Lord's Supper is display, exhibition, and that of a most effective kind. When men partake of the Lord's Supper it is not said that they benefit themselves or edify one another. They make a show, an exhibition. This is what our translators would express by their exceptional rendering of the Greek word. If we study the Greek word behind the English word "show," we find it expressing an act of display restricted to a single manner or mode. This word is used in the following passages: "So hath the Lord ordained that they which preach the gospel." "Declaring the testimony of God." Peter and John "preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead. Paul and Barnabas "preached the word of God in the Synagogues." The Greek word used by St. Paul in connection with the Lord's Supper means to proclaim. It bears to the ear the relation that "to show" bears to the eye. We have then St. Paul's testimony to the fact that the Lord's Supper is a proclamation. His language can mean nothing else Dean Alford says:—"The act of eating and drinking is a proclamation of the death of the Lord till He come." Knapp, the German theologican, says: "The sacrament of the Lord's Supper is a significant sermon on the death of Jesus." Dean Stanley quotes the saying: "The Lord's Supper is a living sermon, an acted discourse." It is preaching addressed to the eye. The discerning men who made our translation clearly perceived this, and so substituted for preach the word show.

Showing is preaching to the eyes. Our preaching is quite exclusively to the ear. It is not so in the Bible narrative. In the Old Testament times, if anything happened that should be preached about, a memorial was put up making its appeal and giving its teaching to the eye. Jesus used the eye. We do not. Organ, singing, preaching—all are for the ear. We say to the eye, "We have no need of thee." A sample of our acting appears in our treatment of the Lord's Supper. It was instituted to be seen. Its object was to attract attention to the death of Christ. How could it do this if not seen? By its very nature it requires spectators. We have expelled the Lord's Supper from its rightful place; put it in concealment and allowed it no chance to exert its natural, legitimate and designed influence. It is preaching to the eye, and so a converting ordinance. Some who will not hear with the ear and be converted, may see with the eye and be converted. Says Mr. Barnes: "It (the observance of the Lord's Supper,) should be public. Its public observance often has a most impressive effect on those who witness its observance." Many can indorse this statement. Ought not then the Lord's Supper to be so commemorated as in the most effective way to show the Lord's death? A church has few graver duties than to use rightly this sacrament—to use it not for its own comfort alone, but as a means of good to others. They have a partial gospel who have a preaching addressed only to the ear. Should the gospel have its two fold proclamation, to eye and ear, might we not hope for a wider acceptance of it?

In view of St. Paul's teaching, can it be counted a right use of the Lord's Supper to administer it only in the presence of communicants. And what habit can be more unfortunate than that of many Christian parents who send their children from church when the Lord's Supper is to be celebrated. How can they know and feel the death of Christ if it be never shown to them?

How to Overcome Diffidence.

Forty years ago Channing, that eminent philanthropist and founder of New England Unitarianism, wrote to a friend: "What a mystery this diffidence is! I confess I do not understand it, though it has palsied and unmanned me enough to make itself known. Before the multitudes I am strong, but weak before the individual. This is no sign of cowardice, for brave men discover it; it is no sign of humility, for I have seen it in the proud and aspiring. One would say, at first sight, that it is an indication of selfishness, a proof that a man is busy always with himself, anxious how he shall be viewed; and yet is it not to be seen sometimes in the disinterested? Its commonness in childhood seems to indicate that it is primitive. There are two great means of overcoming it. The first is, mixing with society, hardening ourselves by facing those whom we fear, the process that makes veterans out of raw recruits; this is fighting diffidence on its own ground. The second method of conquering this invisible foe is far more noble. It is the rational and moral one. It consists in self-culture and self-respect; in resolving to be, not to seem, worthy of regard; in estimating ourselves wisely, and feeling that other's judgments make us neither better nor worse; in becoming self-forgetful, by taking a generous interest in others; in adopting noble, immutable principles of action, and adhering to them through good report and evil report; in learning the weakness and follies of those whom we dread, while at the same time we are just to their good qualities; in putting down the passion for distinction, and in rising to a sense of God's presence with us. Unhappily, diffidence is apt to produce a despair of our power to conquer it."

This latter remark reveals the utter insufficiency of the two methods above named where they are tried in human strength alone where there is not a conscious life in Christ. Noble, indeed, were these words of Channing. His methods of overcoming diffidence, partial in statement though they may be, are worthy of transmission from age to age. Nevertheless, that power to fully subdue personal diffidence is deeper than mere self culture. Christ dwelling within the soul can alone give to us the perfect victory over this and all other forms of weakness. Freedom in Christ is the only real disenthralment. We find him a conqueror—not partial but complete, not occasional but constant—when we know him to be our present, personal Saviour; receive him as our Divine Teacher, our atoning Sacrifice, our ever living Intercessor, our enthroned King.

Such a victory in Christ will start the new born soul on the highway of genuine self-culture. Rather, we may say, Christ will then become the unerring spring or source of all our rational method of self-subjugation. We will watch, but not with a vigilance which is our own. We resolve to be, not to seem, worthy of regard; but that resolve is the fruit of a deep, divine subsoil of experience with Jesus. We "adopt noble, immutable principles of action," but only as the sons of God, having received Christ, daily walking with him, believing fully in him who alone is the author and revealer of "immutable principles of action."

We need not pause to explain the secret of this power in Christ to overcome human weakness; it is enough to know that it a divine gift to the believer in him. That power by which we become the sons of God is a gift; so it is in the subsequent life of the Christian even to the end—power to dethrone self and overcome all imbecility incident to our fallen humanity is God's unmerited grace. Who may limit this power? Who will hopelessly resign himself to the bondage of any appetite, habit, prejudice, or inward debility, when omnipotent energy is proffered to all who will "receive" Christ? Look around! Behold how many witnesses attest to the excellency of spiritual subjugation through him! The "fear of man which bringeth a snare" is gone; that diffidence which is too often the manifestation of self-love or pride, has given place to holy, scriptural boldness; that apologetic tone has risen to the voice of clear, emphatic utterance. One can hardly conceive of the majestic progress of the Church of God on earth were all Christians thoroughly Christ's. How soon in desert places would "the fir tree come up instead the thorn." That day is coming. Meanwhile, let each one upon whom the light has fallen, and to whom the privilege of receiving Christ has been made known exclaim daily, "Nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

What Is Success?

What is success? You may win in one way and lose in another, and if the loss be greater, the balance after all is on the wrong side. I take it that the only success worth the name is when a man gains a living, or a competence, or wealth, without paying for it. You may buy gold too dear. If you give health for it you make a poor bargain, as John Leyden, among many others, so touchingly tells us; for what is money without the life to enjoy it. If you sell your faculties for it, and think of nothing but gaining it, you give pearls for a bauble, like a painted Indian; if you give your soul for it, your self-respect, your character, your conscience, your peace, your hope, or any one of them, if you could sell them singly, what will you think of the exchange when you come to feel what it means? True success is when a fair share of this world does not cost either moral, or intellectual, or physicial health or life.

One of the worst faults of human nature, in every age, is the worship of Success by itself, apart from the means used to get it. To be a "successful man" is enough, no matter what has preceded. Always believed, this doctrine has of late years made a fifth gospel; if hardly owned, yet commonly acted on as the general creed. With the spread of wealth the moral sense of the nation has become widely debauched. Our old ideas of right and wrong have largely changed places. From the gambling peer to the mechanic it is the same. Bad work in some trades, is unblushingly defended; though the name it goes by,—"scamping,"condemns it beforehand. Trades' Union rules are not, I fear, always a paraphrase of the Two Tables. Joint Stock Companies have no great reputation. With Houses, once great, selling a worn-out business as sound and good; railways to over a hundred millions, yielding no dividend; with cooked accounts of directors, and great contractors; bubble schemes in clouds; with hordes of desperate speculators afoot to advance their fortunes by any conspiracy or reckless venture—commercial conscience is in a poor way. If it were only men of no standing who thus turned swindlers, liars, or gamblers it would be less terrible; the better tone of more responsibile men might counteract the evil in part. But it seems as if all the world were playing double or quits. There is universal distrust, till capital is left in the vault rather than be risked in any investment. Names have ceased to have weight to a sad extent, and reports and prospectuses smell of brimstone, like quarantine papers. Our commercial morals seem sinking. Our old name for honesty and fair trading is largely lost. Rogues in grain, gamblers in cotton, makers and vendors of lies and bales, barrels, and what not, hold up their face in the streets and say Amen at church. Gain, instant and heavy, never mind conscience or character, is the rage of the day. Meetings of merchants deplore that pride in a name, or in mercantile honor, is often too weak to stand the temptation of a throw for fortune. Failure, they tell us, no longer brings shame and sorrow; the old scrupulous care to avoid it grows rarer and rarer; it is even part of a plan with too many, to break down when it suits, that they may build up a second, or even a third corrupt fortune, on the ruins of those who have trusted them. A gambler on the flags is condemned only if he fail; is shunned only till he made a fresh hit, and can feast and wine his friends as before. "Success" covers all, gilds villainy, makes it respectable, gives it place and honor, and makes honest contempt a libel. But Success worth the having is not the mere making money; it is the keeping a fair name and clear conscience in doing it, and living for something better than gain. To lose self-respect for it, or that of those who still have old fashioned notions of honor and worth, or to slave for money, is to put many a thorn in our pillow, and to wear a fool's cap and bells for the devil.—C. Geikie, D.D.

False Lights.

Mock characters, like false lights, are worse than darkness. There are any number of skin-deep saints in the world at all times; and sheep's clothing and long robes are always in great demand in the market. Indeed, we all use cosmetics of the moral kind to remove freckles and wrinkles. To meet the respectable, smooth-shaved, decorous, venerable Ornaments of Society we sometimes see, you would not suspect that any slanders could find birth against men so soft spoken, so frank, and so confidential.

But they do. Raven black and dead eyes, and drawn-down corners of the mouth, and an exceptional tie, don't always stand for godliness, Cucullus non facit mona chum—The cowl does not make the friar. That highly respectable board of directors, so hale, loud-spoken, well fed, seem, every man of them, fit for prizes as an exhibition of commercial mortalities; still, they are in trouble about loans, or contracts, or prospectuses. That manufacturer sings loud in his pew on Sundays, but makes thirty-five inches to the yard on Mondays; and that prosperous shopkeeper has strangely dark windows; and does that one believe his own puffs? The millennium has not come yet, and can hardly be hoped for, by appearances, at any very short date. Somehow, the bottles do not show the same strawberries all the way down, in all cases; and jockeys sometimes forget to tell a horse's faults; and there have been books written on adulterations and tricks in trade; and men's words or writings are not always the unclouded expression of their thoughts. And yet to meet men, how nearly perfect they seem; in their suavity, innocence, and sentiments. There are a good many Siberian crabs, and apples of Sodom, and huge pears that look like honey and eat like wood. We have our panics, and thousand liquidations, and a hundred millions of railway stock unproductive, Bankruptcy Court revelations. The crop of knaves and half knaves is by no means extinct. There is a dark side to a good many things besides the moon; and has not the sun its spots, not to speak of eclipses that happen pretty widely throughout the universe.

Be you, young man, a contrast to all this. Character that is only a mask is beneath you and mere conventional goodness is a lie of the devil. Determine from the first to be transparent and truthful to God and your fellows, let Mephistopheles say what he likes. It is better, after all, to have the Universe on your side than against you. Curses, like chickens, come home to roost; and so do falsities, if not outwardly, yet in your soul. I pray you don't offer a prophet's chamber in your conscience to Satan. Life is sacred; keep it so. We are born for a purpose, and can serve it only as we serve God. Humanity is a whole, not a mere mob of generations, and has a destiny in which every one has a set part. The little moment of our being is great enough to live well in, and leave true work behind it. Play the man, not the trickster. Evelyn saw men at Leghorn staking their liberty for life in mad gambling, and, having lost, presently led off into slavery. He who has to do with a lie, stakes his soul, and loses in any case. Character, pure and noble, chimes in with the eternal harmonies; but falsehood is a hideous clangour, now and forever. What any life, however humble, can do is a secret with God; it may widen its influence through ages, or it may leave a trace seen only by the light of God's truth and laws, it is holy for ever. The City of God slowly rises through the ages, and every true life is a living stone in some of its palaces. You were made for God, young man, from eternity, and no lie is of him, be it in trade or profession, in act or in word. Insincerities are marks on the devil's tally, and so are hypocrisies and shams. Let your character be real, the shining warp and woof of each day working out the part God has set you in the great loom of of Time.—C. Geikie, D. D.

Friends Whom we Never know.

It is proper, it is necessary; one must wait for introductions. One must not know any one whom some else one knows does not know; so we pass each other mutely, ride for miles next each other without speaking and crush our fancies for strangers as though they were serpents.

Yet often it happens in life that the very people we do not know are the people we desire to recognize; that we feel a strong liking for some one to whom we have never spoken; that none of the people in our visiting list are so agreeable as some person whose name we have never heard; that life might be brighter to its end if we could only obey our impulses and choose our friends when we meet them on the road of life.

I have no doubt that many a bachelor lives wifeless all his days, because he was never introduced to the woman who would have suited him, and that many a spinster might have been a happy wife had there been some one near who knew both, to say to the gentleman who was so obliging about the trunks: "Miss Jones, allow me to introduce to you Mr. Brown."

Sir Charles Tupper and his Accusers.

Referring to the presence and speeches of Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. J. H. Pope, and other prominent Conservatives at the nomination at Brome, the Canadian Spectator says: "Another benefit accruing from their presence there was a remarkably able speech by Sir Charles Tupper. He spoke in an earnest, honest, statesmanlike manner, throwing down the gauntlet bravely to all his accusers. He said "that if any man could show that he had failed in his duty in the slightest respect, or that in the discharge of the duties of his responsible office he filled, he had done anything but study the real interest of the Canadian people, or had acted in any other than a high-minded, honorable and independent manner, he would consent to retire from his office and from Parliament in disgrace." Now this is a bold challenge, and those who accuse Sir Charles of crookedness and a care for personal interest in the letting of sundry contracts should accept it and make good their words or confess their sin. At all cost to himself he invites investigation, and I am of the opinion that has not the slightest reason to fear the result."

The charges made against Sir Charles by the Globe are of a serious character, namely that he has profitted by letting contracts to friends who have bribed him. No member of the party has dared to make such accusations in Parliament heretofore, but if the Globe can produce any evidence to sustain what it asserts, let it give the facts to the public. Sir Charles' challenge is a bold and manly one and must be met, or the accuser will stand convicted as a base slanderer.

Politcal Notes.

SIR JOHN'S SUCCESS.

Bradstreet's trade and finance Journal, published in New York, has the following in regard to Sir John Macdonald's success in England: "There no longer seems to be any reason to doubt the success of Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, in his mission to England concerning the Canadian Pacific Railroad. When he started on his errand, the prevailing sentiment in the United States, England and in Canada was that nothing would come of it; but the press and the quidnuncs were ignorant of the precise nature of the business proposition which the Premier was prepared to lay before a syndicate of capitalists, and this class of men pay little regard to outside opinions. Whatever may be the result in future taxation upon the people of Canada, Sir John Macdonald has distinguished himself as a statesman possessing great faculties for performing great things, and he is entitled to much credit."

COLD COMFORT.

The result of Tuesday's elections in Ohio and Indiana will give but little comfort to the free-traders of this country. The Democratic platform declared in favor of "a tariff for revenue purposes only," and the result has been that their opponents, who stick to the present protective tariff, have won a great victory in those States. This result was brought about by the determination of the people to have no tariff tinkering in the direction of free trade. What does the Globe think of the situation?

THE SHIPPING TRADE.

The following returns gives the number of sea going vessels that arrived in Montreal from the opening of navigation to the 1st October in the following years:—

Year.	Number of vessels.	Total tonnage.
1877	365	268,367
1878	402	312,021
1879	465	384,649
1880	569	518,564

Number of inland vessels:—

Years.	Vessels.
1877	4,506
1878	4,091
1879	4,048
1880	4,869

This is one of the industries which was to be ruined by the tariff according to the Grit prophets.

WHAT NEXT?

The last issue of the Ontario Gazette contains the appointments of two Clerks of Division Courts and one Bailiff of a Division Court. During the days of "Tory tyranny" Division Court Clerks were appointed by County Judges, and the Clerks appointed their own Bailiffs; but no morsel of patronage is too small for a "Liberal" Government to seize in their anxiety to fortify themselves in office. Probably the next thing that will be heard of will be that the Government will appoint Assessors, then Councillors, and finally poundkeepers and fence-viewers. Then perhaps the people will wake up to the fact that a few petty tyrants, under the guise of "Liberals," have deprived them of the privilege of governing themselves, when the autocrats who now lord it over them may be driven from power; that is, if the placemen be not too numerous to prevent such a consummation. It would be better, however, if a stop were at once put to the insidious attempt which Mowat & Co. are making upon the liberties of the subject, which their action restricts more and more every year.

HOW THEY DO IT.

Says the Hamilton Times: "Five thousand factory employees were to-day thrown out of employment in Paterson, New Jersey, through lack of water to run the mills, a result of long prevailing drought. If such a difficulty were to arise in Canada, no sooner would a fall of rain take place, and the factories receive a fresh start, than Sir Leonard Tilley and those of that ilk would credit the change to the beneficent effects of the 'N. P.'" Not so. The Grit press would not let such an opportunity slip, and as they would have the first say in the matter, they would attribute the lack of rain and the closing of the factories to the N. P.

AS USUAL.

The Globe, after fighting hard for the construction of the Pacific Railway as a Government work, now declares that it has no objection to the plan of constructing the line by means of a Company. The Globe's course in this matter is not of much moment; but its inconsistency is apparent, and in accordance with its "cardinal principles."

The Law Regarding Mortgages.

An exchange directs attention to the fact that an Act passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, entitled; "an Act relating to interest on moneys secured by a mortgage on real estate," is now in full force and effect, and it behooves those interested to look into the provisions of the law and fully understand the important changes it authorizes. Some ot the provisions are very important. By this Act, it is provided that mortgages payable by instalments must contain a statement showing the rate of interest chargeable under the contract, calculated yearly; or half yearly, not in advance. Fines on account of any delinquency in payment of principal or interest are forbidden, but compound interest at the rate stipulated for the simple interest may be recovered. Those provisions are generally sound, and not calculated to interfere with the freedom of all parties to make their own bargains in the way best suited to their own needs, but intended only to prevent the unwary and ignorant from being imposed upon by the skilful. The fifth clause is a very important one. It provides that no matter how long a mortgage has been granted, it may be redeemed at the option of the borrower, with no option to the lender. There is a clause which saves any retroactive effect, and makes the Act apply only to transactions since the 1st July last.

Mr. Frazer and Iron Smelting

The Guelph Herald thus forcibly replies to the attcak made by the Globe upon Mr. John A. Frazer, Dominion Appraiser, because of his efforts to secure the establishment of iron smelting works in Ontario:—"Mr. W. H. Fraser, the head of the Dominion Appraisers' Department, has always been a very sharp thorn in the side of the Globe newspaper. Mr. Frazer's successful advocacy of the N. P. made him a life-long enemy of the Grit organ. It has always attacked him, and like a dog returning to its vomit, the Globe again undertakes to lash Mr. Frazer in Friday's edition. The cause of the attack this time is that Mr. Fraser has been instrumental in forming a $2,000,000 joint stock company for the purpose of erecting smelting works. What an awful crime. For the Globe considers it a crime for any one to be guilty of an act that will tend to the prosperity of the Dominion. That is the course the Globe pursues in all cases. But it matters little whether the Globe attacks Mr. Fraser or not. He is one of the most valued members of the Civil Service, one in whom both the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Customs put the utmost confidence, and as such he can well afford to laugh at the spiteful attacks of the Globe."

THE INTERNATIONAL PARK.—It is estimated that the land for the park at Niagara Falls on the Canadian side can be bought for 500,000. A survey is now being made with a view of reporting upon the scheme. There are parties ready to take the matter off the hands of the government and pay as a rental six per cent. on the 500,000, and bind themselves to keep the park free to the public, charging only for going under the sheet of water, into the museum, to see the burning spring, or such other special objects as may be within the premises. There has heretofore been taken in at the museum alone as much as 20,000 in one year. It is claimed that no commission and blood money would be paid to hackmem under this scheme.

THE CZAR'S YACHT.—The Czar's yach Livadia left the Clyde on the 15th for the South. Admiral Popoff was in command and among the invited guests on board were Admiral Stewart of the British Navy, Mr. Charles Reade, the novelist, and Mr. Pearce. Owing to the success of the yacht in all respects and the high speed she has proved able to attain, the Russian Government has paid the Messrs. Elder, her builders, a bonus of £40,000.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. YEOMANS, AGT.

The Railway War.

A telegram from Peterborough this morning informs us that the Grand Junction workmen last night recaptured the portion of the line in dispute with the Midland Railway Company, and this morning were engaged in laying the rails into Peterborough. The policy of obstruction pursued by the Midland people has thus been brought to a summary conclusion, for the present at least.

News Condensed.

—Mr. J. Merrick has assumed the duties of Sheriff of Prescott and Russell.

—Mr. John Elder is building an oatmeal mill in the town of Wingham, Ontario.

—Wingham, Ontario, waterworks, Holly system will be formally opened on the 12th instant.

—The steamship Brooklyn, of the Dominion line, made her last trip from Quebec to Liverpool in less than eight days.

—The Masonic Grand Lodges of Quebec and of Scotland are now fraternizing, the edict of non-intercourse being withdrawn.

—In the Plantagenet murder case the inquest has been adjourned until Monday next. There is no clue as yet to the murderer.

—The Montreal Evening Post, which suspended publication on the 22nd of May last, will likely resume on the 1st of next month.

—Mr. E. P. Eddy, of Hull, Que., has leased for ten years the Lovejoy premises in Ogdensburg and is converting them into a box and match factory.

—It is estimated that there will be thirty thousand barrels of apples shipped out of Prince Edward County this fall, all the product of the county.

—Two thousand six hundred and ninety-two ounces of gold, valued at $56,000, have been mined at the Rose Montague mine, Nova Scotia, since June, 1879.

—The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk for the week ending October 9th were $223,452, as against $212,568 the corresponding period last year, an increase of $10,894.

—It is stated that the arrangements for the withdrawal of the Allan Line of steamers from Baltimore and Portland in Boston were tully completed by Sir Hugh Allan on the 14th

—They are having an early spell of winter down in some parts of Nova Scotia. Snow fell in Hants county on Wednesday, and at Mount Uniacke there was ice half an inch thick on Thursday.

—Albert Woolly, of South Dorchester, was convicted at St. Thomas yesterday, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, on a charge of horse stealing. The case was a most peculiar one, the theft being accomplished by means of a most intricate plot.

—The demand from American buyers for Canadian-grown potatoes is rapidly increasing, and large quantities are being shipped to the United States. In St John, N.B., several shippers have canvassed the city for empty barrels to be used in exporting potatoes, and are offering 8c. each for all the flour barrels to be had.

TORONTO AND NIPISSING.—The past year has been a prosperous one for the Toronto and Nipissing Railway, the gross receipts being $17,000 in excess of the year previous. The total receipts were $192,307,16 and the expenditure $125,333,56,

TRADE OF QUEBEC.—The number of seagoing vessels out and inward at the Quebec Custom House from the opening of navigation up to the 14th is 795. The clearances to the same date, including steamers and outports, are 668, leaving 127 vessels in port and in the small outports.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE.—The many friends of Chief-Justice Moss will be glad to learn that since reaching New York he has consulted several eminent physicans, and has been advised by them that with absolute rest for three months he may expect a complete restoration of his health.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.—The section of the Thunder Bay Branch. C, P.R., lying between Winnipeg and Rat Portage, was expected to be completed to-day, so that trains will at once be running into the latter place. The contractors for Section A expect to have their 118 miles completed by the middle of next summer. This will allow of supplies being taked into Section B from both sides, and the work on that section will therefore be more speedily completed also.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE.—On the 13th, Mr. Sandford Fleming, C.E., was formally installed as Chancellor of Queen's University, and delivered his inaugural address. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on Rev. Mr. Macrae, Moderator of the General Assembly, and Rev. Mr. Nish, of Victoria, Clerk of the Victoria Assembly. A conversazione and reception by the Chancellor took place in the evening.

TIMBER LIMIT SALE.—A despatch from Quebec on the 15th says:—"The Government sale of timber limits was highly successful to-day. The attendance of merchants from all parts of the Dominion was very large and influential, and the total amount realized will fall but little short of $270,000."

LORD MOUNTMORRIS' MURDER.—The four men arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Lord Mountmorris have been liberated. The Land League is likely to be hampered by the break with the clergy, which will follow Archbishop MacCabe's pastoral. Sixteen meetings are to be held to-morrow.

BESIEGED BY BASUTOS.—A Cape Town despatch says: Mapeteng, where Carrington and Smallpiece are besieged, was quite safe up to the 13th instant, although the report is confirmed that the garrison is obliged to subsist on horseflesh. A relieving force will leave Weppener on the 17th inst.

A RELIABLE MEDICINE IS LIKE A TRUE FRIEND, when needed, it is always on hand, and when tried it is never found wanting. Such is precisely the character of BRISTOL'S SASPARILLA AND PILLS, they never deceive; they do exactly what is claimed for them, and they cure disease where doctors' prescriptions and all other medicines fail.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.—The cession of Dulcigno is likely to be carried out shortly, Osman Pasha having been appointed by the Porte to effect its surrender. The Turks have laid torpedoes in Smyrna harbor. The vessels of the international fleet have been ordered home, and no further naval proceedings are expected.

Campbellford Notes.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14th, 1880.

The concert on Wednesday night in aid of the belfry for Christ Church, was a complete success. The Music Hall was well filled with a highly respectable audience; many came from a distance. Among the strangers we noticed the following gentlemen from Belleville: A. Robertson, M. P. P., A McFee, W. R. Barber. W. E Sutherland, &c. Everything went off admirably. The performance was frequently applauded, especially the Tableau, which was artistic and appropriate for the occasion. The collection amountad to $175.

Mr. Wm. Jack, of Lindsay, has been here some days purchasing hogs. He will send off by the cars on Saturday morning 115 for the Montreal market. Forty-five of these swine average about 350 lbs each.

It is expected that the real property holders of Campbellford will shortly be asked to give a bonus of $10,000 towards the erection of a woollen factory.

The well known firm of Galt & Bros., it appears, have made a proposal to put up a building here, and bind themselves to employ one hundred hands constantly. We trust this opportunity will not be allowed to pass unheeded by those who have the power of carrying out this great project. All must surely see the benefit which will be derived from such an establishment in our village.

J. Keeler, M. P, has got a gang of men renovating the old slide, at Ranney's falls where he intends building a Paper Mill. We understand the Messrs. Whyte, of this village, will be the constructors of this mill.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

More Land Meetings.

Burglars Seeking Fire Arms.

The Pope and the Troubles.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15

A great land meeting is announced at Tullow, county Carlow, on Sunday, when Parnell and all the leaders are expected to attend.

It is reported that the prevention of sixteen Land League meetings fixed for Sunday has been considered at the Castle.

Lord Egmont's seat, Lagor Castle, Ireland, was burglariously entered last night by persons supposed to be searching for arms. They found none, however, and left without harming any of the inmates.

A crowd of people assembled last night in the village of Craughwell, Galway, and burned in the streets the effigies of two bailiffs who, by their official acts, had made themselves especially offensive. No attempt was made by the local authorities to stop the proceedings. No violence was offered to any one, and the spectators made caustic and witty remarks about the bailiffs, and seemed to enjoy the spectacle.

A Rome despatch says:—The Pope has summoned some of the Irish bishops to Rome to instruct them in view of the present state of affairs in Ireland.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

DUBLIN, Oct. 16.—It is believed that 13 of the most prominent members of the land league will be prosecuted.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The World's London special says it is rumored that Earl Dufferin will succeed Goschen as British ambassador to Turkey, and that commanders of French and German vessels of the allied fleet in Turkish waters have been ordered home, as no further naval proceedings are expected.

DOVER, N.J., Oct. 16.—Lindsley's store and Richard & Simpson's block burned last night. Loss $50,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Four respectable girls' aged from 12 to 16, were attacked near Bronxville on Thursday by half a dozen roughs, who attempted to outrage them. The girls fought desperately, aided a boy aged 12. The latter overpowered one ruffian, and was about to attack another when the gang fled. The girls are uninjured; great excitement; one arrest.

The leading democratic politicians are now going to Governor's Island in greater numbers than at any time since the canvass began.

The Staten Island people are suffering greatly from a long and continued drouth.

The number of failures throughout the country during the third quarter of 1880 was 797, liabilities $12,000,000, and the same quarter of last year was 1262 failures, liabilities $15,000,000. The failures during nine months were 3476, liabilities $45,000,000, and the same period last year were 5320 failures, liabilities $81,000,000.

The World's Indianapolis says one of the leading causes of Tuesday's result in Indiana proves to be the fact that there was a coalition of the Republicans with the Greenbackers. This was undoubtedly caused by the firm attitude of the Democratic leaders on the currency question.

EXTRACT FROM THE 'MAIL,' TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all hand made. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines

EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company, 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wk8

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, OCT. 16.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held on Monday night.

THE CELLS.—There were two prisoners in the cells last night.

THE COMMISSION. — The Agricultural Commission appointed by the Ontario Government will hold a sitting here on Monday. The proceedings are likely to be of interest.

MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CLUB.—The concert given in the City Hall by this company last night was a rich musical treat, but the attendance was not nearly so la ge as it ought to have been.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.—The Perth Town Council has renewed its bonus of $75,000 to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. Ottawa is to be asked to renew its bonus of $200,000.

RAILWAY FREIGHT.—The Stirling News-Argus says:—"During August 154½ tons of freight was received at the Stirling station, and 130½ tons shipped. In September the figures were 64½ tons received, and 211½ tons shipped."

THE RIFLE.—In the Carruthers match at Kingston on the 14th, Corporal Hilton scored 42 out of a possible 50 at 400 and 500 yards and stood sixth. In another match Hilton scored 51 out of a possible 75 and stood tenth on the list of winners.

WEIGHT AND MEASURES.—The Inspector of Weights and Measures is determined to thoroughly enforce the law. So far but one person has been prosecuted, and a nominal fine imposed, but future delinquents will not be let off so easily. Let all concerned govern themselves accordingly.

CORRECT SCORE. — The official score makes the majority of points by which the 49th Battalion team defeated that of the Prince Edward Rifle Association in Tuesday's match one hundred and fifty. In our report Capt. White was credited with three points too many at the 500 yards range.

BASS FISHING.—Mr. Samuel Kennedy, an employee of the Grand Trunk, and two friends spent Wednesday afternoon in fishing in the bay near the city and were fortunate enough to capture 93 fine bass. Considering the lateness of the season this take is an excellent one and may lead to a desire on the part of others to equal it.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—On Thursday night' 14th inst., the house, barn and workshops in the 2nd concession of Sidney owned by Mr. Charles Rowe and tenanted by Messrs. Houston and son, were totally destroyed by fire. There was upwards of 5,000 bushels of grain in the barn, and this, together with the farming implements, was consumed. The family had a narrow escape from being burned in their beds. The cause of the fire is unknown. Buildings partially insured.

PALMER vs. SOLMES.—This case, the second trial of which was commenced yesterday, was productive of much interest, the Court Room being well filled during the day. The interest manifested was to some extent owing to the celebrity of the counsel engaged in the case, there being a general desire to witness the legal sparring between Messrs. Bethune and McCarthy. In this respect the auditors were not disappointed, as the objections taken by each were numerous and the arguments for and against by each of the eminent counsel respectively of a masterly character, and greatly enjoyed by old habitues of the Court room. The trial resulted in the plaintiff being non-suited.

METROPOLITAN HALL.—The next company which will appear in the Metropolitan Hall will be Mr. Power's "Galley Slave" combination, who will perform there on the evenings of the 19th and 20th. The Montreal Star preludes a flattering review of the performance in that city by saying: "A better 'all round' company than that now playing 'The Galley Slave,' at the Theatre Royal is seldom seen. It would be absurd to say that there is not plenty of superior talent to be found, but the cast is peculiarly and exceptionally good as a whole. The tendency of modern drama is unfortunately toward the centralization and concentration of interest upon one or two characters. There is absolutely nothing of the kind about 'The Galley Slave,' or about the company playing it. Of course the comedy has a hero and a heroine, and a very interesting couple they are, but the other characters are so good that the audience have no chance to become entirely absorbed in their weal or woe." On the second night of their appearance, the highly interesting new comedy "Dr. Clyde," will be given.

ARRIVED.—The S. S. Moravian arrived at Rimouskat 5:45 a. m. The mails left at 7:30 a. m.

ASSESSMENT.—The assessors to-day made their return of the assessment of the city for 1881.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—A Social will be held in the Bible Christian Church on Tuesday evening next. A good programme is expected.

THANKSGIVING TEA.—The Bleecker St. Church purposes holding its annual Tea-meeting as usual, on Thanksgiving evening. Remember the date, Nov. 3rd.

LARGE YIELD.—Mr. John B. Russell, of Rawdon, informs us that out of 1½ bushels of Burbank seedlings planted in the spring, he had a yield of 61 bushels of potatoes.

A GOOD BAND.—Messrs. Pullman & Hamilton's band paraded the streets to-day in a waggon drawn by ten horses. Although not very numerous, the band is an excellent one.

A HOUSEHOLD PERFUME.—EVERY FAMILY ABLE to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, brisk to high south easterly to south westerly winds, and rainy weather to-day, followed by westerly or north westerly gales and colder weather to-morrow.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—Mr. A. H. Simmonds, representing Anthony & Ellis' "Uncle Tom's Cabin" dramatic company, was in town to-day, making arrangements for their appearance, which will be on Saturday afternoon and evening, the 23rd inst.

PRINCE EDWARD FAIR.—The County of Prince Edward Agricultural Society held their annual meeting on their grounds at Picton on the 15th. The weather was all that could be desired, and the attendance was the largest ever seen on the grounds. The receipts at the gates exceeded those of last year by $79.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—The anniversary services in connection with University M. E. Church will be held to-morrow, Sunday, Oct. 17th. Preaching in the morning at 11 and in the evening at 7 o'clock, by Rev. F. M. Finn of Trenton. Subject of morning discourse "The only alternative," subject of evening discourse, "Hunting for a Man."

A HARD CASE.—David Mounteney, who was to-day sent to gaol for two months for beating his wife, is one of the hardest of hard cases. He has been in the Central Prison, and has frequently been convicted of minor offences. At about 3 o'clock this morning it became necessary to remove him to another cell, and when Sergt. Snider proceeded to do so, the prisoner opened on the officer with a torrent of the most foul abuse, and then struck at him. Snider effectually quieted the ruffian, though it required considerable exertion to do so.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—The Methodist Church of Canada, in connection with the Tweed circuit, dedicated a beautiful church at Bogart, on the 13th inst. The main building is 28x40, and the vestry 16x20. The church is gothic in style, and has such an air of completeness that called forth the admiration of all who saw it. It cost nine hundred dollars including shed and fence, but is considered by competent judges to be worth about twelve hundred; this is owing somewhat to the fact that there was considerable work done by the friends in the neighborhood. The workmanship gave evidence that the contractors (S.G. Dafoe carpenter, F. Lawrence mason, and C. Campbell painter,) spared no pains in their work. The Rev. Dr. Jeffers preached in the morning in his usual eloquent style from 9 Chronicles vi. 18, and formally dedicated the Church. After which are sat down to a rich repast prepared by the good ladies of the neighborhood. Then came one of the grandest intellectual feast in the Doctor's lecture on the New Dominion, that it has ever been the privilege of the people of this part of the country to enjoy, and if the Dr. visits the Tweed circuit any time in the future, he will have a full house. The expense of the building was all met but one hundred dollars, which the trustees do not consider much burden, and will be able in the future to provide for without much trouble.

HUMPTY DUMPTY.—Mr. Geo. S. Sydney, Business Agent for Mr. Tony Denier, was in town to-day making arrangements for the appearance of the great pantomime company under Mr. Denier's direction. The favorite old pantomime has been entirely rejuvenated, and is in all the essentials new. It will be presented in the Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening, the 22d inst. The Chicago Times says of it: "Tony Denier deserves thankful credit for having succeeded in putting a new face upon at least part of that very aged pantomime entitled 'Humpty Dumpty,' the performance whereof by his company is enlivened by a dialogue that awakens laughter rather by reason of its surroundings than by force of its humor. The clown, Grimaldi (as Mr. Adams is pleased to style himself), essays the verbally comic with more or less success, his example being followed by the Pantaloon and others, in various degrees of volubility. Pantomime has reached the threadbare stage of use, and any change of any kind cannot but be viewed as an improvement and a relief. Mr. Denier has gone a little farther in other respects than any of his predecessors. He has broken the piece in the middle, and relieved its monotony by the introduction of a variety entertainment, occupying nearly an hour. Mr. Eunice is still the harlequin, Miss Boshell the columbine, and the donkey, Mr. Jacques Cass, a particularly small and especially gifted artist." Reserved seats can be secured at Reynolds'.

OVER COATS for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. JAS. HENNESSY.

How to get sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know

HOW TO GET WELL.

Which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters! See other column.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Marine.

The owner of the Hastings is arranging for a survey of the boat, that the damages may be estimated. The steamer was insured for $6,000, about one-third of her value.—Whig, 15th.

The schr. Nellie Wilder, ashore on Galloup Island, is a total wreck with her cargo. Her stern and one side has disappeared, her bottom has been penetrated by rocks and she is fast breaking up. The sails, rigging, anchors, chains and spars will be saved. Tonnage, 300. She was built at Sackett's Harbor in 1874 and is valued at $8,500, class B 1. The cargo, 20,000 bushels of wheat, was shipped by Williams & Co., of Toledo, to Ogdensburg, and was insured for $15,000, one-half in pool.—Ib.

The largest lake vessel is now building at Toledo, a schooner. Her dimensions are: Length of keel, 265 ft.: length over all, 278 ft.; beam, 38 ft.; depth of hold, 18 feet. She will have capacity for 90,000 bushels of grain with 14 ft. draft; and with water enough could carry 140,000 bushels. She will register about 1,600 tons, draw 6 ft. light, and cost, fitted up, about $90,000.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says that the rate of seamen's wages on the lakes is at present $2.50 per day.

The rate of freight on corn per schooner from Chicago to Buffalo is 5½ cents per bushel.

The steam barge Saxon left last night and the schooner W. T. Greenwood this afternoon, both with grain for Oswego.

The John Pugsley with coal came in this morning and the Minnie Blakely, lumber laden, from Trenton, after a brief anchorage here, proceeded on her journey to Oswego.

The schr. Ranger, with cordwood from Napanee, arrived this morning.

The schr. British Queen, with barley from Trenton for Oswego, went aground at Nigger Island yesterday morning, and was still fast this morning.

The wages for ordinary seamen from this port now is $1.50 per day.

Owners of vessels ask 2½c for grain from bay ports, but 2¼ is the highest figure that has thus far been reached.

STILL AT WORK.—A horse thief visited the village of Madoc yesterday and after trading horses there and getting five dollars to boot, proceeded to this city and put the horse up at an up-town hotel. Only a short time elapsed when the villager discovered that he was the possessor of a stolen horse and he at once took steps so get his own horse, which he did this morning. The first horse was returned to its proper owner. Those who engage in horse trading cannot exercise too much judgment in regard to the persons with whom they swap, as horse thieving is now becoming somewhat common in this locality.

FROST AND SNOW.—Mr. Vennor writes from Lac Marois, near St. Sauveur des Montagnes:—"On the 13th and the night of the 12th ice formed three-eighths of an inch thick on still water. This is the third severe frost in this neighborhood. The 12th was a terrible day of sleet, snow, cold and wind. The last approached in strength to a cyclone and the forests were stripped of all foliage. In parts trees and limbs of trees strew the ground in every direction for miles. On the 6th and 7th there were flurries of snow at many points to the north of St. Sauveur, and the Postmaster (Mr. Shane) of this last place informs me that snow also fell there. The first part of the 'Indian Summer' was experienced on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the 9th, 10th and 11th, all along the Laurentain hills through this section. Birds of many species still remain, and what is most unusual, the osprey or fish hawks are yet fishing in many of the lakes in which trout abound. From this I conclude that November will yet give us summer warmth—but with leafless trees."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Oct. 16th.—It is announced that Candido Bareiro, President of Paraguay, is dead. Caballero succeeds him.

Arrived out, Helvetia and Wisconsin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — A Ladies Land League was organized here last night with a membership of 60, comprising many well known philanthropic women.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 16 — Arrived, the Abyssinia.

ROME, Oct. 16.—Numerous enquiries have reached the Vatican from Ireland concerning the attitude the Pope intends to observe regarding the troubles there. Osservatore Romano says the Papacy has now more even than in past, resolved to avoid all interference in the political affairs of nations. The Pope recently exhorted the bishops to keep strictly within the limits prescribed by the laws of the countries in which they are located, whenever a question of international order or policy arises.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—The Austrian Dragoman was assassinated at Prisrend, Albania. The Austrian ambassador holds the Porte responsible for the safety of the Austrian consul there.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—A wind storm approaching to a hurricane swept all over the northwest this morning. The wires are down in every direction. Telegraphic communication with the Pacific coast will be interrupted for nearly a week. The wires north of Milwaukee and west of Pittsburg went down to-day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Indications: lower lakes, threatening weather and rains, followed by lower temperature.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Billious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test ZOPESA, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&wly

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc., for consumptives. ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

OUR OLD MOTTO

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,

Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of TWEEDS coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of LADIES MANTLES considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of CARPETS, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made. A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B[itters].

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irrestible cure for Drunkeness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

GRANDPA'S BARN.

Oh, a jolly old place is grandpa's barn,
Where the doors stand open throughout the day,
And the cooing doves fly in and out,
And the air is sweet with the fragrant hay.

Where the grain lies over the slippery floor,
And the hens are busily looking around,
And the sunbeams flicker, now here, now there,
And the breeze blows through with a merry sound.

The swallows twitter and chirp all day,
With fluttering wings, in the old brown eaves,
And the robins sing in the trees which lean
To brush the roof with their rustling leaves.

O for the glad vacation time,
When Grandpa's barn will echo the shout
Of merry children, who romp and play
In the new-born freedom of school let out.

Such scaring of doves from their cosy nests,
Such hunting for eggs in lofts so high,
Till the frightened hens, with a cackle shrill,
From their hidden treasures are fain to fly.

Oh, the dear old barn, so cool, so wide!
Its doors will open again ere long
To the summer sunshine, the new-mown hay,
And the merry ring of vacation song.

For grandpa's barn is the jolliest place
For frolic and fun on a summer's day;
And e'en old Time, as the years slip by,
Its memory never can steal away.

Finding the Bond.

A man with a grip-sack in his hand halted before a Jefferson avenue fruit stand yesterday and priced a choice variety of peaches. When told that they were twenty cents a dozen he whistled to himself, walked softly around, and finally asked:

"Are you a Baptist?"

"Hardly."

"Neither am I. I didn't know but that if we belonged to the same denomination you'd throw off a little. Do you lean to the Methodists?"

"Can't say that I do."

"That's my case. I never did take much stock in the Methodists. Twenty cents a dozen is an awful price on those peaches, considering how tight money is. I expect you are a Universalist, eh?"

"No."

"Neither am I. Can't you say 15 cents for a dozen of these?"

"Hardly."

"Aren't you an Episcopalian?"

"No sir."

"Neither am I, but I was afraid you were. I've been sort o' looking you over, and I shouldn't wonder if you trained with the United Brethren. Come now own up."

"I never attend that church," was the steady reply.

"Nor I either. Say, what are you anyhow."

"I'm a hard baked old sinner."

"No! Whoop! That's my case to a dot! I'm called the wickedest man in Washtenaw county! I knew there was a bond of sympathy between us if we could only find it out! Now, do you say fifteen cents for a dozen!"

The fruit dealer counted them out without a further objection.—Detroit Free Press.

Loving a Whole Family.

"I don't want to make any trouble, but there is one man in this city who ought to be gibbeted!" began a blunt-spoken woman of 45 as she stood before the officials of the Twentieth Street Station a day or two ago.

When they inquired for particulars she handed out a letter and said:

"Observe the envelope. That letter is addressed to me. You will see that the writer calls me his jessamine, and he wants me to set an early day for the wedding."

When the Captain had finished the letter she was ready with another, adding:

"And this is addressed to my daughter Lucretia. You will see that he calls her his rosy angel, and he says he can't live if she doesn't marry him. It's the same man."

So it was and his letter was as tender as a spring chicken. That finished she handed out a third, with the remark:

"This is directed to my daughter Helen It's the very same man, and in it he calls her his pansy, and he says he dreams of her."

"Why he seems to love the whole family," remarked the Captain.

"That's just it. I'am a widow with two daughters, and he was courting us all at once and engaged to the three of us at the same time. Oh! what wretches there are in this world!"

"Yes, indeed. It's lucky you found him out."

"Yes, it is. If I hadn't he might have married the whole caboodle of us. If Lucretia hadn't opened one of my letters, and if I hadn't searched the girls, pockets while they were asleep we'd have thought him an innocent lamb."

"And do you want him arrested?"

"No, I guess not, but I want this matter to go into the paper as a warning to other women. Just think of his sitting up with me Sunday night, Lucretia on Wednesday night, and Helen on Friday night, and calling each one of us his climbing rose! Oh! sir, the women ought to known what a deceiving animal man is!"

"Yes, he's pretty tough."

"It has learned me a lesson," she said as she was ready to go. "The next man that comes sparking around my house, has got to come right out and say which he's after. If it's the girls I won't say nothing, and if it's me it won't do 'em a bit of good to slam things around and twit me of burying two husbands!"—Detroit Free Press.

Baffled Curiosity.

Miss J—— was on the way south to spend the winter with some relatives. Her friends Mr. and Mrs. H—— were her travelling companions as far as Goldsborough, where they separated, Miss J—— having about one hundred miles more of railroading to do alone, as a telegram received at Goldsborough stated that her expected escort could not meet her there. As usual, the passengers on the branch road were few, and Miss J—— was the only lady on the train.

The conductor was an ex-Confederate captain—a peculiar characteristic of Southern roads. He was a native of the town to which Miss J——was ticketed, and was very anxious to find out who his fair passenger was. His rather officious offers to assist her in finding her friends when she should reach her destination were rather coldly refused. He finally got desperate, and appealed to an ancient gentleman in the car (a friend of his) to assist him. Presently the old gentleman crossed the car, took a seat immediately behind our fair traveller, and addressing her very politely, said: "My friend Captain P——is very anxious to know who you are."

Looking up from the pages of her novel, Miss J—— said: "You didn't tell him, did you?"

He was so thoroughly taken aback that it was some moments before he recovered himself sufficiently to stammer, "N-no."

"Thank you," said Miss J——, gratefully, and coolly resumed her reading.

The crest-fallen old "Mercury" retired to the smoking-car, and our visitor was annoyed no more.—EDITOR'S DRAWER, in Harper's Magazine for August.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

All Out.

"I want to see the villain who wrote this article. Where is the proprietor of this paper?"

"He's out."

"Where's the managing editor?"

"He's out."

"Where's the city editor?"

"He's out."

"Where's the reporter?"

"He's out."

"Where'm I?"

(Ricketty-slam-bang jam! Two panes of glass broken.)

"You're out."

Man found on sidewalk and carried to hospital. Verdict—Struck by lightning. Still, they will do it!—New York Despatch.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for ever a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA

For the Intelligencer.

XLII.

Arriving at the pleasant little town of Altorf, we saw the collosal statue of Wm. Tell erected on the spot where he is said to have stood when directing the hesitating shaft at the apple on his son's head; also the fountain where stood the lime tree, at the base of which the child passed those agonizing moments awaiting the arrow of his father. Pursuing our journey at a rapid pace we soon arrived at the pretty little town of Fluelen, at the head of

THE LAKE OF LUCERN.

The scenery of this lake is particularly sublime. It is for 12 or 15 miles edged on both sides with high mountains, wild and romantic rock, and wood of beech and pine on the mountain sides, down to the very water's edge. We left Fluelen, by boat, at 2:30 p. m. for a delightful sail the whole length of the lake, to Lucern. Immediately after leaving we passed Tell's chapel, built on that sacred spot where Tell jumped from Gesler's boat to liberate his country.

The scenery at this point is truly majestic, and looking back towards Fluelen, beautiful beyond conception.

We called at a number of the pretty little villages on the edge of the lake, the most picturesque of which was Bremen, and after a sail of 2½ hours, arrived at Lucern. This lake is also called the "Lake of the four cantons." It is 25 miles long, and about four wide. While sailing upon it one feels inclined to doubt its length; on account of the height of the mountains on either side it does not appear over a mile in width. The finest scenery is near the eastern or Fluelen end, and on the journey up the lake the snowy tops of the Bernese Alps come gradually into view—the Finsteraarhorn, 14,200 ft; Schreckhorn, 12,000 ft; Eiger, 12,300 ft; Jungfrau, 13,000; and many others appear as though quite near the shore.

THE TOWN OF LUCERN

is very prettily situated at the western extremity of the lake of the four cantons, but there is not much to see in the way of sights. It is however visited by all tourists throughout Switzerland, on account of it being in the centre of the district converted by the muse of Schiller and the heroism of Tell. It is the starting-point for the ascent of the Rye, the pass of St. Gothard, for the Bernese Overland, and many other local excursions by beaten tracks, or by secluded ways. The old portion of the town, through which the River Reuss runs with the force of a mountain torrent, is interesting for its busy little markets, and its picturesque old-roofed and grimly-painted bridges, whereon loungers are continually gaping at the big lake fish, seen many feet down with every weed and stone of the shingly bottom. Two of the ancient bridges: both of which being long covered walks, appear, in past times, to have been to the population of the town, what the gardens of the Tuileries are to Paris. For the contemplation of those who sauntered from pier to pier, pictures were painted on the woodwork of the roof. Those pictures on one bridge, represent all the important Swiss battles and victories; on the other they are the well known series of which Longfellow has made so beautiful a use in "The Golden Legend," "The dance of Death." Near the Cathedral is the LION OF LUCERNE; the monument to those brave Swiss guards who were slain for their unshaken fidelity to Louis XVI. In a secuestered spot the rocky hill is cut away, and on its perpendicular side, is sculptured in the solid rock, the collossal figure of a dying lion. A spear is broken off in his side, but in his last struggle he still defends a shield marked with the fleur de lis of France. Below, on the solid face of the granite, are inscribed in red letters, as if charactered in blood, the names of the brave officers of that devoted band. From many a crevice in the mountain side drip down trickling springs, which form a pellucid basin below, whose glossy surface, encircled with trees and shrubs, reflects the image. The design of the mountain is by Thorwaldsen, and the effect has inexpressible pathos.

THE RIGI MOUNTAIN,

on the lake shore, near Lucern, is the most popular mountain in Switzerland. No one thinks of leaving without making its ascent. The steamboat lands one at Vitzman, at its foot, and in one hour a train of cars, with extra cogged wheels which fit into groves in the rails of the track, bears you up the steep mountain side and lands you on the top, six thousand feet high. For three months in the year Rigi is the most densely populated mountain in the world. Hotels are springing up at every few hundred yards. To ensure a bed at some it is necessary to engage it by telegram with twenty-fours' notice. Not that the beds are so few, but the visitors so many. Occasionally upwards of 2,000 people have made the ascent in one day. At evening a dined and enthusiastic crowd, composed of every creed and nationality, gather on the summit, and in a babel of tongues chorus their admiration of the wondrous sunset. At the sound of a horn the same crowd, subdued and chilly, in every conceivable style of hastily arranged toilet and costume, gather on the summit again in the grav dawn, and watch, impressed and awestruck, the more wondrous sunrise. The panorama, some hundred miles in circumference, remarkable at all times for its unique magnificence, and comprising the most magnificent lake and alpine scenery of Switzerland, forms a vision of surpassing beauty, as from the mist peak, mountain, valley, lake and village, at first dimly outlined in the faint flush of day, glow in rich contrasts of radiant color, when the flood of flaming light, bursting over the boundless landscape, throws the whole picture open to the admiring gaze.

We proceeded by steamer to Alpnacht, thence by diligence over the Bruning Pass to Meiringen, a beautiful village in a small valley between the mountains. Magnificent waterfalls, which are illuminated high up the mountain side every night, rush down from the snow capped peaks into the valley on either side of the hotel. We proceeded, next morning, by diligence, from this valley to Brienze, and thence by steamer to a busy, dusty, delightfully situated little place, lying low between the Lakes of Thun and Brienz, in a chronic state of placid unrest and demure turmoil from the stream of variegated visitors pouring through it the summer long. The headquarters for the lengthier and more laborious excursions among the Bernese Alps, travellers here find the repose they may need in the balls, receptions, and such like dissipations of its Kursaal, which lies between the Aar that flows by the town, and the long WALNUT AVENUE that runs from end to end. From this shaded avenue there is a favorite view of the snowy Jungfrau, framed by the dark mountains at the entrance of the Lauterbrunnen valley.

Although the

is but a few hours drive from Interlacken, we preferred the more favorite route by the Wengern Alp from Lauterbrumen. It is an hour's stiff climb by zigzag paths up the heights which hem in the village to the hamlet of Wengern; up until the chatels that dot the valley become specks, the flowing Lutschine, a mere streak, and the falling Staubbach a pendulous silver thread. Then the path winds through sloping and shady meadows, through pine woods and up the Alp pastures to the point commanding the famous view of the Jungfrau.

"When we come to the inn upon the Wengern Alp we are nearly 5,000 feet above the level of the sea. We are directly in front of the Jungfrau, with its masses of perpetual snow. They seem close to us, so great is the deception of the clear air, but a deep vast ravine separates the Wengern Alp from the Jungfrau, which rises in an abrupt sheer precipice, of many thousand feet, somewhat broken in terraces, down which the avalanches, from the higher beds of untrodden everlasting snow, plunge, thundering into the uninhabitable abyss. Perhaps there is not another mountain in Switzerland that you can look at so near and so full in the face. Out of this ravine the Jungfrau rises eleven thousand feet, down which vast height the avalanches sweep with their incalcuable masses of ice from the very topmost summit. Ordinarily in the summer's day, at noon, the avalanches are falling about every ten minutes, with the roar of thunder. You are standing far below, gazing up to where the great disc of glittering Alp cuts the heavens, and drinking in the influence of the silent scene around. Suddenly an enormous mass of snow and ice, in itself a mountain, seems to move; it breaks from the toppling outmost mountain ridge of snow, where it is hundreds of feet in depth, and in its first fall of perhaps two thousand feet is broken into millions of fragments. A cloud of dusty, misty, dry snow rises into the air from the concussion, forming a white volume of fleecy smoke, or misty light, from the bosom of which thunders forth the icy torrent in its second prodigious fall over the rocky battlements. Ploughing through the path which preceding avalanches have worn, it comes to the brink of a vast ridge of bare rock, perhaps more than two thousand feet perpendicular. Then pours the whole cataract over the gulf, with a still louder roar of echoing thunder, to which nothing but the noise of Niagara in its sublimity is comparable. Another fall of still greater depth ensues. Then the torrent roars on to another smaller fall, till at length it reaches a mighty groove of snow and ice. Here its progress is slower. And last of all you listen to the roar of the falling fragments as they drop out of sight, with a dead weight, in the bottom of the gulf, to rest for ever."

The people of the picturesque little valley and mountain side, live partly by raising cherries and cattle; but more on the visitors enticed by its glaciers. The summer is short, the winter is cold and long; and the once brave, independent peasantry have learned to beg—their morals seem sadly corrupted by modern invasion.

Grindelwald is shut in on the south by three vast mountains, and between these stream the two glaciers, Upper and Lower, far into the valley. These glittering, azure ice-fields are easy of access. An excursion on the Upper Glacier is made by nearly all tourists to a tunnel hewn through the solid ice. We made the ascent in about an hour, and found the tunnel, or "Ice Grotto" as it is called, high enough to stand upright in. Its internal light produces a curious effect upon one as he enters, everything appearing of a transparent blue tinge. As you advance towards the end of the Grotto, you are greeted by a faint tinkling sound, which you soon get sufficiently near to recognize as the song of the "Merry Swiss Boy." On turning the corner you come suddenly on a lovely Syren, an old woman who smiles in her most bewitching way, and she quavers and quakes, accompanied by the tinkling of a zither. As the old lady sits with her feet in iced water and iced water dripping on her head and down her back, singing and smiling long after you have given her your fee, you begin to think she must really like it; but if, after descending the mountain a little way, you turn, you'll find the old party scuttling on to a cabin with a warm fire, there to wait until she spies fresh visitors toiling up the valley, when she hurries once more to the Ice Grotto and takes her seat.

RAMBLER.

Interlacken, Sept., 1880.

The Man with A Glass Eye.

From the Rocky Mountain News.

As a train on the Kansas Pacific pulled away from the Sixteenth street depot a few mornings since, a tall angular specimen of humanity took a seat opposite a lady passenger, and to all appearances was intently engaged in studying her face. At first the lady treated the rudeness with good-natured indifference. But at last it began to tell on her nerves. It was a peculiar and astonishing piece of impertinence. He apparently had the faculty of looking two ways at once. One of his eyes was restless, excited, and roved in all directions. The other, fixed and stony, fastened on her with an undeviating stare. She turned her head away, but it intercepted her vision. She tried to hide behind a paper, but she felt that cruel eye piercing through the screen and creeping with a stony look all over her features. It seemed to be picking them up one by one and examining them with care. The thing became unendurable, and she cried out to him fiercely.

"Sir, why do you look at me so persistently?"

"Me, madam; why, bless my soul! I haven't been looking at you."

"You have, sir—for a half hour or more your eye has been absolutely riveted on my face."

"I beg your pardon, madam, but it's this eye, is it not?" lifting his finger to his left optic.

"Yes, sir, it's that eye."

"Well, madam, that eye won't do you any harm. It generally looks any way it pleases—it gives me a great deal of trouble. A great many complain of it. At first I thought they were making fun of me, but I've found out differently now. I've been knocked down two or three times for the impertinence of that eye. I would leave it out altogether but for the looks of the thing. It's a glass eye, madam—only a glass eye. I hope you'll excuse it. But, upon my soul, I'm not surprised that even a glass eye should feel interested in so pretty a woman," and he brought his other eye to bear upon her in undisguised admiration. The lady laughingly accepted the explanation, and the rest of the journey was passed very pleasantly to both of them.

Considerable more white cheese is being made in New York State this year than ever before, for the reason that it has usually been in good demand and brought a slightly better price than colored. But the fact is that white cheese must be very perfect in order to fetch the best price. If it is at all faulty, it will not be worth as much by one to two cents per pound as colored cheese of the same grade. The market to which white cheese goes is a very critical one and the slightest imperfections are noticed, and have a serious bearing upon price. London and Manchester are the two principal markets for the sale of white cheese, and shippers say that there is a surplus this year which cannot be used in those cities. This makes them more critical than ever, and places the makers of white stock at a great disadvantage unless there cheese is of the very choicest quality.—Utica Herald.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED. For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, OCT. 18.

"Revenue Tariff" and the Presidential Election.

The protectionists of the United States won so decided a victory in Ohio and Indiana in the elections held in those States on the 12th inst., that a decided "funk" has been created amongst the Democrats. So, in order to catch the votes of the very large number of electors who have decided against the free trade tendencies of their party, and in opposition to the plank in the Democratic platform which contains a declaration in favor of a tariff "for revenue purposes only," the leaders of that party, seeing defeat staring them in the face if the obnoxious piece of timber be adhered to, have boldly thrown it overboard. The mode of getting rid of the declaration which has excited popular alarm is very simple. It consists in the Democratic Governor of New Jersey—one of the doubtful States, which it is absolutely necessary to the Democrats that they should carry in order to win the election—addressing a letter to General Hancock, asking him to "set himself right" on the tariff question. To this suggestive appeal the party candidate replies as follows:

"GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, Oct. 12.

"MY DEAR GOVERNOR,—I have received your favor of the 11th. In my letter of acceptance I expressed my full sympathy with our American industries. I thought I spoke plainly enough to satisfy our Jersey friends regarding my tariff views. I am too sound an American to advocate any departure from the general features of the policy that has been largely instrumental in building up our industries and keeping Americans from the competition of the under-paid labor of Europe. If we intend to remain honest and pay our public debt, as good people of all parties do, and if we mean to administer the functions of government, then we must raise the revenue in some way or other. With a re-united and harmonious country we shall certainly in time pay off the public debt, but the necessity of raising money for the administration of the Government will continue as long as human nature lasts. All parties agree that the best way for us to raise revenue is largely by a tariff. So far as we are concerned, therefore, all talk about 'free trade' is folly, but the tariff question will probably be treated with justice to all our interests and people by some such bill as Easton's. I believe that a commission of intelligent experts representing both the Government and American industries will suggest tariff measures that will relieve us of any crudities and inconsistencies existing in our present laws, and confirm to us a system which will be judicious, just, harmonious, and incidentally protective, as well as stable in its effect."

"I am, very truly yours,
"WINFIELD S. HANCOCK."

We had hitherto regarded General Hancock as an honorable man, but this epistle in face of his declaration that, if nominated for the Presidency, he would consistently adhere to the policy of the party which nominated him, shows that, like many another, he is ready to sacrifice his principles for the sake of expediency. A sparer backdown could scarcely be imagined than is contained in the above letter. "Revenue tariff" is thrown overboard, and a vital portion of the platform adopted by the National Convention of the Democratic party, and to which General Hancock gave in his addherence, is nullified, their candidate now declaring that he is in favor of the present system. The Democrats may possibly gain the day by this means, but we are of opinion that their change of front comes too late to assist them materially. People do not like to "swop horses when crossing a stream."

These events must painfully affect the principal free-trade organ of Canada. That "authority" some months ago, professed to see a great awakening on the tariff question in the United States, and predicted that no matter which of the two parties was successful a free-trader would be chosen as President. General Garfield's prompt repudiation of the honor which the Cobden Club had thrust upon him showed that the prophecy was erroneous, but General Hancock's declaration against even a revenue tariff is a knock down blow to the augur. After their experience in regard to the N. P. and the Pacific Railway Syndicate, however, the Globe's soothsayers must be getting used to that sort of thing. We now suggest that they can score at least one success, by predicting that whoever is elected President of the United States, it will not be a free-trader. The Yankees are a perverse lot, according to our friends the free-traders. They are "ruined" by protection and yet hug the delusion that they are prosperous. Shades of Bastiat, Cobden, Mill and Adam Smith, what next?

The Grand Junction Connects Belleville and Peterborough—A New Phase of the Squabble.

(From the Peterborough Review, Oct. 17.)

Last evening about five o'clock engine No. 1 of the Grand Junction Railway Co, drawing eight cars arrived at Elizabeth street in Ashburnham, thus virtually making a connection with Peterborough at last. For some time it seemed to be doubtful whether they would lay a track across the street and run over the track laid by the Midland, but at last they received instructions and forthwith operations commenced, and in a very short time the connection was completed and the train crossed and ran up on that portion of the line disputed by the two rival roads. Here a new difficulty presented itself as the track was blocked by the two Midland cars which were thrown off on Thursday afternoon. As quick as thought, about fifty men went to work and in a short space of time the two cars were put on the rails, the rails and ties where the track was torn up by the run was made by the Midland officials. Although they were fully aware of everything th was being done by the other company, they contented themselves in thinking that in doing nothing to prevent these things they were carrying out the instructions of the Court of Chancery, while in acting as the others did they were not doing so. By the time that this work was completed it was rather late but being a fine moonlight night and the men being perfectly willing to work they went on nearly all night.

Upon going over this morning to see what had been accomplished during our absence, we found that a portion of the track, which had been laid by the Midland on a portion of the line not disputed, had been torn up just north of the place where the Grand Junction track curves to cross the bridge over the Otonabee river. Early this morning engine No. 2, drawing eight flats loaded with gravel and having about fifty men on board, arrived in Ashburnham, having drawn the gravel from the boundary line between Otonabee and Asphodel, about eight miles from Hastings and twelve miles from town. The train ran up until the end of the last car was even with the street, when a stop was made and the contents of the cars were quickly shovelled on both sides of the track. As soon as this was completed and the train having backed down, ballasting commenced. The large heaps of material which were lying on both sides of the line were quickly made use of, and the ties raised and the gravel packed underneath, and the rails straightened until they were in first class shape for running over. The other engine was then backed down over the portion just ballasted, and made it even better than it was before. While this work was in progress at the southern end, tracklaying was rapidly being pushed forward at the northern end by another gang of men about fifty in number. They commenced work at the place where they curve off and continued on across the bridge, and expect to finish the tracklaying inside the corporation of Peterborough by this evening at the latest.

"They are a different crowd," was the general remark made by many of our citizens, who, despite the drizzling rain, were on hand to see the way the work was done, when comparing the workmen engaged at present with the navvies who made the track, and with whom there were so much trouble, and, true enough, they appear to be of a totally different class and attend strictly to business, and interfere with no one and allow no one to interfere with them. Mr. Bickford was in the midst of the men giving instructions to the foreman. He was fully satisfied with the work done, and says they are citing under good advice. He says they will run a train into Peterborough just as soon as the track is completed, which he expects will be done early this evening. He never says anything that will leave him open, and it is a pretty hard thing to get any information out of him for publication, as he, as well as the other officials of the road, are very reticent regarding the affairs of the road.

Mr. Cox, the President of the Midland Railway, was then interviewed as regards the position of his road. He says they do not intend to interfere in the least. He was very sorry that the two Midland cars had been thrown off the track designedly, but wishes it understood that it was done entirely with out his knowledge or consent, and had he known that such a thing was contemplated he would very soon have put a stop to it. He states that it was at the request of the Grand Junction Company, that the case before the Vice-Chancellor in Toronto last Tuesday was enlarged. That the latter Company asked permission to run over the disputed line, which was refused, and he ordered that things were to remain in statu quo or as they were. Such being the case he is of opinion that the Grand Junction Company have broken the rules of the court, and it may result in something unexpected. He would not express any opinion regarding the suit in progress, and says he cannot tell how it is going to come out. However, he is of opinion that his company have the best of the fight, as the Company's books show that they paid $50,000 in 1878 for the portion of the line disputed and the other portion as far as Auburn, and this fact he thinks gives them control.

Mr. Cox also informs us that the managers of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway, have notified them that they had a claim on on the disputed line. This is an entirely new and unexpected feature, and may change the whole aspect of affairs.

THE IRISH TROUBLE.

A Landlord Shot at and His Driver Killed.

Parnell Instructing on Organization of the People.

LONDON, Oct. 17.

A Cork despatch says:—A landlord named Hutchins was fired at by a party of men near Skibbereen, county Cork. Hutchins escaped, but his driver was shot dead.

At a large meeting of Irishmen in Bradford, held on Saturday, Messrs O'Connor Power and T. P O'Connor were present. Resolutions were passed denouncing the accounts of the state of Ireland in the English press as calumnious. Resolutions were also adopted in favor of a peasant proprietary and Home Rule.

Additional particulars of the outrage near Skibbereen, County Cork, where a landlord named Hutchins and his driver were shot at, and the latter killed by a party of men, show that the second shot was fired at Hutchins, who escaped by jumping off the car. The affair occurred in broad daylight. No arrests have yet been made.

At a monster land meeting at Longford to-day Parnell said the sole object of the land question would depend upon the efforts of the Irish people during the winter. He insisted above all on the necessity of organization. All measures of the Government against the agitation would fail before a united organized people. The Government could imprison individuals, but never the entire nation.

In a letter published to-day, Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, avows the determination of the Cabinet to preserve law without, if it can possibly be helped, depriving the Irish people of any safeguards of personal liberty. He says the causes of the disorder lie very deep, and cannot be removed without wise legislation, and expresses the hope that the law-abiding men in the sister land will discourage outrages and aid the Government in its arduous task of protecting life and property. Although the Chief Secretary in this letter is cent upon the subject of the intended prosecutions, it is absolutely certain that the chief members of the Land League will shortly be arrested, and the knowledge of this spreads consternation among the agitators in Ireland. The hostile course pursued by Archbishop McCabe and other prelates in regard to the Land League leaders is meeting with undoubted approval, and indicates the first elements of the reaction, but there is an increasing desire to have the Government propose some measures for settlement of the Irish grievances next session. Should the prosecutions be undertaken, there is a general hope that the less important agitators will be unmolested, and that the proceedings may be direct d against the real leaders.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could, to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and invet rate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent stirred from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will te more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, ambitious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

EXTRACT
FROM THE 'MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, when first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

THE CANADA
CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,
ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines

THE UTMOST SAFETY FOR THE CAPITAL INVESTED,
VERY LOW COST OF THE PROPERTIES,
EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS,
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company, 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wk

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, OCT. 18.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

Council.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held to-night.

A Scatter.—The gale last night scattered some of the upper portions of Messrs. Rathbun's lumber piles, nothing was lost, however.

The Cells.—There were four prisoners and two tramps in the cells on Saturday night, and three tramps and two prisoners last night.

Getting Better.—Sergeant Frizone, who was accidentally shot at the Rifle Match, is rapidly improving, and soon will be able to be out.

Their First Slide.—The sidewalks were coated with ice this morning, and many people took their first slide. They found the boards as hard as ever.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, decreasing westerly winds, fair cool weather with passing showers of rain or snow.

Remenyi.—The sale of seats will commence at Reynolds—Thursday Oct. 21st, at 10 a. m. Parties who have signed the guarantee list will please take notice, in order to secure a good position. 142d3t

Railway Improvements.—One mile of iron rails on the Grand Junction near Campbellford have been taken up and replaced with steel. A Y is to be laid down at the junction of the Madoc branch and the main line.

Personal.—Geo. E. Henderson, Esq., Q. C, proceeded to-day to Picton, where he will conduct the Crown business at the Prince Edward Assizes. Mr. Henderson will also conduct the Crown business at the Assizes at Kingston.

Bailiff.—The Ontario Gazette of Saturday contains the following appointment: Daniel Phillips, of Philipston, in the County of Hastings, to be bailiff of the Eighth Division Court of that county, in the room and stead of William H. Stinson, resigned.

Pullman & Hamilton's.—Messrs. Pullman & Hamilton's London Confederation gave exhibitions on Saturday, which were fully up to what was advertised. In consequence of the storm, the attendance was small, so it was decided to exhibit again to-day.

Stormy.—Since Saturday morning the weather has been the stormiest of the season. The heavy rain which set in on Saturday morning continued until about 9 p. m., and since that time a strong westerly gale, varied by furious squalls, with rain and hail, have succeeded.

Lacrosse.—The lacrosse match on Saturday at Toronto for the championship of the Dominion was an exact contrast to the five-minute contest of a fortnight before, being stubbornly fought for two hours and only being won by the Torontos on the full five games, the Shamrocks taking the first and fourth games, and the victors the second, third and fifth.

Gold.—The Winnipeg Times of the 9th inst. states that Mr. W. J. Macaulay, sent away for assay a number of specimens of gold, having quartz, which were found in the vicinity of the Lake of the woods. Mr. Macaulay, who is a brother of Mr. John D. Macaulay of this city, is about erecting a quartz mill at Rat Portage in connection with his saw mill there.

Obit.—Captain Thomas McIntosh, an old and respected resident of this city, died on Saturday morning after a long illness. Capt. McIntosh, who was a native of Scotland, came here between 25 and 30 years ago, and commanded the Hon. Billa Flint's propellor Moira until she was lost off the Ducks Island. The Captain was highly thought of in this community, and leaves a widow and one son to mourn his loss.

Good Sport.—We learn from a gentleman who has just returned from the back country, that Messrs. Corby, Burdett, Thompson and Baker are having capital sport, deer hunting; up to Saturday morning they had killed six deer, besides a number of partridges, and had caught a number of Salmon trout. They are assisted by Messrs. Michune and Van Alotyne, of Cloyne, both well known to our Belleville sportsmen. They were joined on Thursday, by Messrs. Fred Lingham and John Walker. We are pleased to record the success of the Belleville huntsmen.

Iron.—The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"It is now nearly a year since Mr. Hutchinson, the Iron geologist of Messrs. Pusey & Co., first made his debut in Glamorgan, prospecting for iron. In that short period what great progress has been made by those iron merchants. True it is they have become in this little time possessors of several undisputed good mines, and are now negotiating with the finders of two or three new mines in Monmouth. They formed themselves into a company last winter, and got a bill passed by the legislature to extend the Nipissing Railway to Dungannon, also to Ottawa if required. They have of late formed themselves into a construction company to build there railway. They have constructed five miles of a portable road at the cost of $1,000, have shipped 1,000 tons of ore and have 2,000 tons on hand ready for shipment.

A Household Perfume.—Every Family able to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

Over Coats for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. Jas. Hennessy.

Palmer vs. Solmes.—In the Mail of to-day we find the following report of the Judge's charge, in the case of Palmer vs. Solmes:—"I can scarcely conceive a more diabolical imputation than that made by the defendant against the plaintiff. As he (the defendant) did not believe it, he was not justified in speaking of it to his friends. If he believed it to be true he should have pleaded a justification and put it on record. A more abominable charge than the defendant went about the street spreading could scarcely be conceived. How any Christian man could reconcile such conduct with his conscience is inconceivable, and this case is a good illustration of the hardship sometimes to be endured by a person slandered, owing to the necessity of proof of special damage, the words imputed not being actionable in themselves, which special damage the plaintiff failed to prove. I must non-suit the plaintiff. I am not here to make the law, but to carry it out. It is for the Legislature to afford a remedy under such circumstances."

Ontario Agricultural Commission.

A meeting of the above Commission was held in the Council Chamber this morning at half past ten o'clock, to take practical evidence in the matter of grain growing in its severa agricultural and economical aspects—drainage, manures, and the recuperation of impoverished lands.

The following Commissioners were present: A. H. Dymond, Esq, and J. B. Aylsworth, Esq.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, of the Ontario Commercial College, was examined on the matter of keeping farming accounts.

Mr. Johnson said on an average there were about 50 students who passed through the college and returned to the farm. They gave them Commercial Education, not Agricultural; have some knowledge of farming accounts; know one farmer who keeps accounts; some of them show a gain and loss on different operations on the farm; the farmer is satisfied with the manner of keeping a record of the state of his affairs; have on such information framed a set of accounts; have not found it difficult to frame a set of accounts from such information; never hired on a farm or had any practical knowledge of its workings; the person referred to keeps his books by Double Entry; the following is an example:—He first takes an inventory of assets he has, and then records the transactions as they occur in the daybook, from which they are carried to the Journal and arranged under their proper headings for the Ledger. He gave an instance of a farm of 50 acres, and divided it into 7 fields and one orchard in order to find the gain or loss on each crop, and open an account with each field and charge each separate crop with what it produces. At the end of the year a balance sheet is taken off, showing the gain or loss of each of these separate crops or fields. An inventory is taken at the end of the year and credited, and the balance carried to profit and loss account, the inventory being carried into the next year. We make every year carry its own profit and loss, irrespective of the effects of the operation on future years. I put in a set of accounts prepared on the plan above suggested. To meet the difficulty of charging miscellaneous operations going on concurrently with specific operations, an account called "General Labor account" might be opened, chargeable to loss and gain account. I would charge improvements, such as underdraining, stumping, real estate account, if the owner of a farm; a tenant farmer would only undertake such improvements as would be recouped to him during the term of his holding by their effect on the farm's productiveness, and must be charged as a "General Labor account." I have no manure account. I would credit the stock with the manure, and whether produced on the farm or purchased, charge it to the proper account, according to the application of it. In case of the treatment of land, as for instance summer fallow or very liberal manuring, I would not charge it to the first subsequent crop, but to "General labor account." That would add to the expenses of the particular year in which the work was performed. I would not charge a particular crop with such labor; I would only charge the crop with the labor directly incident to that crop. If I applied special manure, or did anything to specially benefit one crop, I would charge it to that crop on current account. I have no doubt that students who leave my College could keep these and even more complicated accounts than those I have exhibited. I have not given any particular attention to agricultural education.

The Commission adjourned till 1:30 p. m.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

Cork, Oct. 18.—Hutchins, who was shot at, is a Justice of the Peace. Only one man attacked him. Hutchins and a driver were armed with revolvers, but did not use them.

London, Oct. 18.—The Times says the belief that the Government intend to prosecute the agitators, has already produced a lull in the agitation. The second rate leaders are cowed. The Land League is unusually quiet. Parnell at Langford uttered an uncertain sound. It may be suspected he has not yet made up his mind what course to pursue, and his followers share his hesitation.

A Castle Muovo despatch says Admiral Seymour informed all the Admirals that the Turks were concentrating a large number of troops in Smyrna.

AMERICAN.

New York, Oct. 18.—Chtistopher Ennis, while asleep on the roof of his five story residence, yesterday, fell to the ground and was fatally hurt

Vanderbilt stated yesterday that his visit to Europe was not connected with the business of any enterprise under his management. He said he had bought some fine works of art.

The Times says Conkling will devote his entire time to canvass from to-morrow till the eve of the election.

200,000 barrels of apples have been shipped to Europe in the past three weeks, and many thousand barrels also went to the West Indies and to the southern States.

It was stated yesterday that Grant would take rooms at a hotel here for several months.

The Herald says it is rumored that in view of the fact that Hancock's recent letter de fined his views on the tariff was nufficiently explicit or comprehensive, he will write a supplement tary letter on the subject, making his views so clear and broad that there can be no mistake in the matter.

Arrived Ethiopia from Glasgow.

Macungie, Pa., Oct. 18.—In a fight in the shanty at Schmoyer's mine on Saturday night, two men stabbed each other in a terrible manner. One died.

Leadville, Oct. 18.—Several stores were burned here on Saturday. Loss $20,000.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 18th.—On Thursday night a slide occurred six miles below Cache Creek, which completely dammed up Thomson river to the height of 120 feet, which the river must surmount before resuming its course. Should the dam break all at once, the damage to railway work and wagon roads from water rushing through the narrow canyon and gorge must be euormous.

San Francisco, Oct. 18,—A steamship from Sitka, reports that the Indian who murdered the Government Collector 15 months ago, was hung on the seventh.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, Oct. 18th.—A St. Petersburg despatch says that the Tekke Turcomans have resumed the offensive; they made repeated energetic attacks in the past fortnight in all directions along the Russian lines, from Krasnovodsk and Tchikislar to Barri. Their attacks were repulsed with trifling loss.

London, Oct. 18,—Fresh outbreaks of pleuro-pneumonia occur daily in Lancashire.

A Berlin despatch says that persistent reports reach here in regard to the indifferent health of the Czar and inclination to abdicate favor of Czarewitch. The latter has gone to Lividia, which does not support the statement owing to the Czar's marriage. Czarewitch quareled irreconciliably with the Czar.

Boston, Oct. 18th.—John A. Woodward, cashier of the Treasury department in this city, is alleged to be a defaulter, amount $82,000; is 30 years of age, and stood well socially; was not known to be a speculator, or extravagant; he was supposed to be a bachelor, but since the discovery of the crime, Amy Knowlton told his mother she married him two years ago.

Dublin, Oct. 18.—The state of the west of Ireland may be judged from the fact that Lady Mountmorris, who returned home after the murder of her husband, has been subjected to such persecution that she is obliged to leave.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, stationary or lower temperature.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Queen's Counsel.—The Canada Gazette of the 16th inst., contains the following appointments:—His Excellency the Governor-General has been pleased to appoint the following gentlemen to be respectively Her Majesty's Counsel learned in the law, viz: Province of Ontario—Thomas M. Benson, Esq., Port Hope; Francis McKelcan, Hamilton; William R. Meredith, London; Jas. Bethune, Toronto; W. H. Scott, Peterboro'; Martin O'Gara, Ottawa; Thos. Ferguson, Toronto; B. B. Osler, Hamilton; James A. Miller, St. Catharines; John A. Boyd, Toronto; James F. Dennistoun, Peterboro'; George A. Kirkpatrick, Kingston; Alfred Hoskin, Toronto; L. Walkem, Kingston; John O'Donohoe, Toronto.

How to get sick.

What is Doing in the Madoc Mines

From the Madoc Review.

An impression seems to prevail, outside the immediate neighborhood of the mining district, that little or nothing is doing in the Madoc iron mines at the present time. This is a very erroneous impression, and with the object of giving our readers an idea of what is now being done a representative of the Review paid a flying visit to the principal mines in this locality on Saturday last. The first one visited was the Hematite mine, on the gravel road. Here a force of twenty-one men are at present employed in the mine, and five teams engaged in drawing the ore to the railway track. The ore is raised from the bottom of the mine to the wagons by means of a steam hoist, from 100 to 125 tons being taken out daily. We were informed by Mr. Charles S. Mitchell that some extensive alterations and improvements at this time are contemplated, among others being the substituting of a "skip road" instead of the one now in use for bringing up the ore to the surface, which would enable them to get out about four times as much as they are able to do by their present means. A couple of shafts have been sunk at the bottom of the mine as a test of the extent of the ore before they undertake such an expensive work, and we believe the company are thoroughly satisfied with the result. There is every indication of iron in unlimited quantities, as deep as they like to go, and if the projected improvements are carried out, things will be decidedly lively around there this fall. The number of men will be largely increased as the work gets in regular running order.

From there we visited the Seymor mine, and found the work "rushing." About twenty-five men are at present employed. A large new blacksmith shop has just been erected, and other necessary buildings are in course of construction. A steam drill is here employed, which effects a great saving of labor. The engine and hoisting apparatus is situated in the bottom of the main shaft, the ore being raised from below to the tramway cars, where it is sorted and run out to be loaded. From the improvements that are being made at this mine there appears to be no fear of the business "playing out" very soon.

At the Sexsmith mine Mr. Munson is pushing things vigorously, forty-five men being employed, and nine teams engaged drawing to the railway track. Thts force, we were informed, will also be increased in a week or two, and it is evident a big business is intended to be done here for some time to come. The ore, both for quality and quantity, is all that could be desired.

A call was also made at Messrs. Lee & Co's. Slate Quarry, where operations, during the past month or so, have assumed large proportions. They are now getting out a fine quality of slate at a depth of between 30 and 40 feet, and have on hand a large quantity ready trimmed for building purposes, a nice specimen of which we have in our office. We have no doubt but that they will succeed in establishing an extensive business in this line.

Since writing the above we learn that Messrs. Dickson and Campion, of Belleville, have purchased Mr. Lee's interest in the quarry. The Company is now composed of Messrs. Loomis and Gronberg of this village and Messrs. Fraleck, Dickson and Campion of Belleville.

—Hanlan has entirely recovered from his indisposition of last week, and is now reported to be in excellent feather. His rival is stated to have shown a remarkable trial over the course the other morning.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all kinds of Skin Eruptions. This salve is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in every case or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co. 95-1y

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. OUR OLD MOTTO
PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
J. H. FORD,
Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

WE are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of Tweeds coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of Ladies Mantles considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of Carpets, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.
We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

Daily Intelligencer.

Spare the Trees.

In a report published at Washington by the Secretary of the Interior a couple of years ago the alarming statement is made that at the present rate of consumption the merchantable lumber of the United States will not last more than fifteen years. The supply has not only deteriorated in quantity but in quality also, if we may judge of the value of the evidence furnished before a select committee on Immigration and Colonization taken before the Dominion House of Commons in 1879. The evidence there tendered by a specialist sent out from Britain finds its reflex in the experience of the lumber merchants of this country.

The witness stated that thirty years ago pine trees attained the height of seventy-five feet. To-day it is difficult to find a stick of pine timber more than fifty feet long. The enormous loss of twenty-five per cent in square timber has a serious effect in diminishing the supply, one-fourth being absolutely wasted in cutting the tree into its square form. When it is learned that only one tree in five is sound and fit for shipment the loss certainly assumes serious proportions—the four being left to rot in the woods. The flaw may be slight, but sufficient to condemn the tree as a square stick, and instead of being utilized the waste goes on increasing year to year, and when dry offers excellent food to feed forest fires. The chips act like tinder, and the trains leading from the waggon road to the forest readily ignite, and spread destruction far and wine.

It really seems wicked that legislation does not step in and try to stop this state of things. True, in some of the Eastern and Western States, the State Governments offer free grants to farmers who are willing to plant forest trees, and also premiums for the best exhibits; but at best it is a slow method of overtaking the destruction which is continually going on. The broad yellow pine slabs, for which this country, and especially Canada, were once famous, are almost unknown on the British markets. The fact of the matter is that self-preservation should compel the legislatures of both countries to prohibit the exportation of square timber.

In Bavaria every inch of lumber is sawn on the ground, and sent out of the country in a manufactured state. Window frames and door sashes are exported to the consumer already tongued and grooved. The work gives employment to thousands of persons who would otherwise have to seek other employment.

In Britain, however, the mill-owners stand between the exporter and consumer. There is no reason why lumber cannot be sent to Europe already manufactured, as is done in Bavaria and Germany. Hitherto the Provincial Governments of Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario have received large annual grants from the sale of timber limits, and the authorities in the past have been disposed, for the sake of the revenue, to treat the subject with indifference.

Forest guardians in Quebec are few and far between, and but little vigilance is shown in the protection of forests from destruction by fire. A spark from a passing locomotive having no fire guard on its smoke-stack may cause loss amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, which it would take the best part of half a century to repair.

Forest fires generally arise from carelessness but strange to say loss by lightning rarely happens. We gather this fact from the evidence already referred to. The carelessness is due to two causes:—First, from unextinguished fires in lumber camps; second, from the carelessness of hunting and fishing parties. Persons should be heavily fined for lighting a fire within the given radius of a clear circle. The open space should be large and clear from all chips and inflammables, such as dead brushwood and branches, and the law should punish severely people who leave fires burning after using them. Long rows of pine chips extending half a mile act as gunpowder when once ignited, and the flames cannot be checked. It is not so much on farms that damage is to be apprended as in the lumber regions or fishing locations. With this undergrowth properly removed a serious fire would be almost impossible. The day, however, will come when the rapidly diminishing supply of lumber will force itself upon the attention of the government of the United States as well of Canada. We can scarcely find words strong enough to protest, as we have often done, against the laxity of the laws governing one of the most vital sources of national wealth.—Scottish American Journal.

A Father who Melted.

The other evening a citizen of Detroit beckoned to his 12-year-old son to follow him to the woodshed, and when they had arrived there he began:

"Now, young man, you have been fighting again! How many times have I told you that it is disgraceful to fight?"

"Oh, father, this wasn't about marbles or anything of that kind," replied the poor lad.

"I cannot help it. As a Christian man it becometh my duty to bring up my children to fear the Lord. Take off your coat?"

"But, father, the boy I was fighting with called me names."

"Really can't help it; calling names don't hurt anyone. Off with that coat!"

"He said that I was the son of a wire-puller."

"What! what's that?"

"And he said you was an office-hunter!"

"What! what loafer dared make that assertion?"

"It made me awful mad, but I didn't say anything. Then he called you a hireling."

"Called me a hireling!" "Why, I'd like to get hands on him!" puffed the old gent.

"Yes, and said you was a political lick-spittle!"

"Laud o' gracious! but wouldn't I like to have the training of that boy for about five minutes!" wheezed the old man, as he hopped around.

"I put up with that," continued the boy, "and then he said you laid your pipes for office and got left by a large majority. I couldn't stand that, father, and so I sailed over the fence and kicked him bald-headed in less'n two minutes! Thrash me if you must, father, but I couldn't stand it to hear you abused by the malignant opposition!"

"My son," said the father as he felt for half a dollar with one hand and wiped his eyes with the other, "you may go out and buy two pounds of candy. The Bible says it is wrong to fight, but the Bible must make allowance for political campaigns and the vile slanders of the other party. I only brought you out here to talk to you, and now you can put on your coat and run along."

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

A RAILWAY BUTTER SUPPLY TRAIN—"Farmers who are comforting themselves by the reflection that they need not fear any serious competition in supplying the home market with dairy produce," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "will be somewhat disconcerted by the apparition on English railways of a red and white butter truck which has just been started on the Northeastern line, for the purpose of supplying the butter dealers of Manchester with the produce of the dairies of Denmark. This latest addition to the rolling stock of our railways was built by the Northeastern to the order and from the designs of the United Steam Shipping company of Copenhagen, and it plies between Newcastle and Manchester. The truck is constructed with a double casing, the intermediate spaces of which are filled with sawdust, and the interior, which is air-tight, is fitted at each end with large ice chests, which reduce the temperature of butter from 68° at Newcastle to 58° on arrival at Manchester. By this arrangement the butter stiffens in transit, and can be delivered in the hottest weather at inland markets in prime condition. The application on a large scale of a principle thus proved to be successful is certain at no distant date."

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas. Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Benjamin's Wife.

BY MRS. C. M. LIVINGSTON.

A busy, toilsome life she had led—this mother. She had reared a family; had laid some of them down to sleep in the old cemetery; had struggled through poverty, sickness and sorrow—she and Ephraim together—always together. He brought her to no stately home that day so long ago, that she put her hand in his, and he had no stocks or bonds or broad acres, yet Mrs. Kensett had for forty years counted herself a rich woman. She possessed the true, tender, undivided heart of a good man—a love that nothing dimmed, that trials only made stronger, that hedged her life about with thoughtful care; even when grey hairs crowned the heads of both, this husband and wife rejoiced in the love of their youth. Nay, that love purified, tried, as gold is tried in the fire. In the last few years this good old couple seemed to have reached a Beulah land. They had enough laid by to support them comfortably now that their children had all flown from the home nest, and their quiet, happy life flowed on without a ripple.

"Mother," Mr. Kensett had said, "I'm going to stop work now and lie by. I'm getting old, and we've got enough to do us, I guess, as long as we stay. You can tend your flower-beds and darn my stockings, and I'll make garden and take care of the chickens; we'll just take comfort a spell; if anybody has earned the right to, we have. As often as once a week," he remarked, "there's one thing I must see to, right away—I must make my will, so that if I go first you'll be sure to have the old place all to yourself. I want you to have every cent of it to do as you please with."

And "Mother" always answered, "Now, father, don't! It won't make much difference how it's fixed; it isn't anyways likely that I'll stay long behind you, we've been together so long."

There came a morning when the hale, cheery old man did not rise with the sun and step briskly about his work. The messenger came for him in the night; and when the first streak of light in the early dawn stole through his chamber window, and fell upon his face to waken him, he did not wake; he had gone—in the darkness, alone with the messenger. Strange journey! Mysterious messenger! His grey coat hung over the chair where he laid it off, the garden tools stood against the fence, the house had a strange silence, the sunshine a cold glare; he who passed in and out yesterday, and worked and smiled and talked and read the news, to-day lay in the darkened parlor, white, cold and still. No, not that! To-day walked the golden streets—joined in the everlasting song, and looked upon the face of his Lord. The old Bible lay open on the stand, the psalm book beside it, his glasses shut into the place where he sung at family worship a few hours before, and the psalm he sung—his favorite—was in the words of the quaint old version:—

"I will both lay me down in peace,
And quiet sleep will take;
Because thou only me to dwell
In safety, Lord, doth make."

Had he known how quiet the sleep was to be, the calm, triumphant faith of the singer would not have wavered, nor would the peace with which he laid him down been less.

The will had never been made, so the old homestead must be sold and divided among them all. They met at an early day to arrange affairs. Mr. John Kensett, the eldest son, and Mrs. Maria Sinclair, the eldest daughter, were the self-appointed managers. They were both wealthy, but were just as eager to secure the small sum that would fall to them as was Hannah, another daughter, who married a poor man and had many mouths to feed. Whatever of sentiment or tender feeling these two might originally have possessed, had been well rubbed out by the world. In their catechism, the answer to "What is the chief end of man?" read: To make money to be fashionable, to please ourselves, now and here, always and everywhere.

In Benjamin, the youngest of the family, were condensed all the noble qualities and tender, poetical nature of both father and mother, while the other children brought out the unlovely characters of some distant ancestors.

"Why not give it all up to mother?" said Benjamin. "It will only be enough to keep her in comfort.

"No doubt you think that would be a most excellent arrangement," John answered, "inasmuch as you being the youngest would naturally live with her, and share the benefits, and in the end hope to fall heir to the whole, by skilful management. Pretty sharp, Benny! I see you have an eye to business."

"I am willing to go to the end of the earth and never set foot in the house again, nor get a cent," Ben exclaimed indignantly, "if mother can have a place of her own to live in comfort while she does live."

"Hold, on my dear boy! Who said she was not going to live in comfort? I believe we all have comfortable homes, and it will be much more sensible for her to live amongst us than try to keep house, and take care of this place. Women always let property run down; it will only be a trouble."

After much talk and some bickerings, it was arranged that mother had better not try to keep house, but would spend a year or two at a time around among them all.

"A year or two in a place," burst out Benjamin again. "The idea of mother running about like that, begging to be taken in; no place she can call home; it's too bad! This place is hers, she helped earn it, and father meant she should have it all; I heard him say so."

"Really, Benjie!" Mrs. Sinclair said, "you are getting excited. Mother does not care for the property; it would only be a trouble to her; she will live much more easily with us. You ought to see that we propose to be quite generous with mother. Of course the interest of her share will not pay her board anywhere else but we shall take turns in keeping her for that, besides making her presents of clothing."

"Keep her!" Ben groaned.

"Perhaps Benny proposes to set up housekeeping on his own account soon," said John, "then mother will have a royal place to go and stay, no doubt."

"By the way, my dear young brother, do you think it is quite the thing for you to come around finding fault with us who propose to bear all the burdens ourselves, knowing that you haven't a cent to give towards it?"

The young man restrained the bitter answer that was rising to his lips, for father's mild eye looked into his from the photograph on the wall. He made a firm resolve, though, as he walked sadly away, that the one purpose of his life should be to make a home for mother, and he would never say "burden" either.

Dear old Mrs. Kensett was so smitten, so amazed to find that her other self had gone—where she could not follow, that for days it seemed as if she sat waiting, expecting the summons to go herself.

"Surely, Ephram would send for me," she thought in her sorrow and bewilderment. It mattered little to her, then, how or where she lived; all places were alike, since he was not in any of them, and she mechanically assented to any proposal that was made her, though she did not cry out as one hurt when John proposed an auction for the sale of the household effects. "Oh, I can't," she moaned; "your father made some of that furniture with his own hands;" but the worldly-wise son, who had outgrown "foolish sentimentality," overruled her. It all went—the cradle in which they rocked, the old clock, the table they surrounded so many years. The rage for the antique had not yet shown itself, or John's wife and Maria would have secured some of the old-fashined furniture. As it was, they could not think of having their houses lumbered up by it. The other two daughters were not well-to-do, and prized money more than mementoes. Benjamin protested most earnestly at this sacrilegious disposal of the dear home things. He could do but little himself, as he was still pursuing his law studies, though he did bid for his father's arm-chair and a few other cherished articles. John touched him on the shoulder, and said, "Ben, are you crazy? What in the world will you do with a lot of old furniture?"

"You'll see," said Ben quietly.

If John could have seen his brother's next move he would certainly have pronounced him a hopeless lunatic. He took the sum that fell to him and placed it in the bank to his mother's credit. "The interest won't amount to much, mother," he said as he handed her the certificate of deposit, "but I shall enjoy thinking that if you want some little thing you can get it without asking anybody."

Mrs. Sinclair was a woman who lived for society; she had long ago cast aside, as puritanical, the wholesome restraints that had governed her girlhood. What with parties, operas and theatres, she was a very busy woman. Her young family was much neglected, and she was only too glad to transfer to her old mother what little care she did give them. The restful days were gone; one would have supposed that Mrs. Sinclair had engaged, in her mother, a maid and seamstress. "It's so nice," she told her friends. "Mother takes the entire charge of them, and relieves me; children are such a responsibility." It was news to her friends, the fact that she was an anxious, burdened mother.

It was hard for Mrs. Kensett to take up her life at the beginning again; to be confined day after day in a close room with noisy, fretful children; to go through the round of story-telling, tying shoes, mending tops and dolls, and minister to the thousand small wants and worries of undisciplined childhood. She had gone through all that; those chapters of her life she had considered finished and sealed up.

There is no occupation in this world more soul and body trying than the care of young children. What patience, wisdom, skill, and unlimited love it calls for! God gave the work to mothers and has furnished them for it, and they cannot shirk them and be guiltless.

It was not unusual when there was a heavy press of work in the house, calling for the forces, for baby too, to be bundled into grandma's room and left for hours. This worked very well while all were in good humor, for grandma loved children; but when baby writhed and fretted with aching teeth and would not be comforted, and Master Freddy resented the least correction by some vigorous kicks from his stout little boots, and Miss Maude lisped, "I shan't! You ain't my mamma!" what wonder that grandma, absorbed as she was by sad memories, should lose her patience too, and speak the sharp word that did not mend matters, while she sighed in spirit for the days that would not come back again.

The daughter remembered, too, that mother was cunning with her needle; how very convenient it became to send the mending basket to her room, "just for some work to pass the time away," and in time numberless little garments were sent there too, aprons and dresses, and she sat and stitched from morning till night when she was not tending baby. Nobody suggested a ride or a walk for her, or invited her downstairs to while away an evening when there was company.

"Mother isn't used to it," Maria said; "besides, she can't hear half that is said. She enjoys herself better alone; I suppose all old people do." This course of reasoning seemed to soothe Mrs Sinclair's conscience when it proved troublesome, but in truth she would not have enjoyed introducing her plain looking mother to her fashionable friends. "So old style,"—the old ladies she was accustomed to meet wore trails and puffs and dress caps; she might have searched long, though, to find another old face of such sweet placid dignity as her mother's.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical columns of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musica world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 19.

Encouraging Industry.

The Council did a wise thing last night in giving Capt. Cuthbert permission to use the foot of James Street as a shipyard. The street, which is that immediately adjoining the fence on the east side of Messrs. Flint & Holton's mill yard, terminates at the water's edge in an old and dismantled pier, rendering it impossible for horses or cattle to reach the water there. Thus the property is, under present circumstances, of no practical value to the public. Capt. Cuthbert proposes to erect thereon a building in which the construction and repairing of vessels of all descriptions can be carried on, and where small vessels may be hauled out for repairs. He will probably secure the contracts for building three steamers, one of which will be about 125 feet in length, and his fame as the most skilful modeler and builder of yachts in Canada will doubtless secure for him a large business in the building of vessels of that description. This industry will probably give employment to from ten to twenty men during the winter, and if Capt. Cuthbert be encouraged with capital, as so able a man ought to be, the establishment which he purposes erecting here may prove to be the starting point of a large and important shipyard, for the location of which Belleville is well adapted. We commend the matter to the favorable consideration of the Industrial Committee of the City Council. Ship building is a business which cannot always remain depressed as it has been for a few years past, and were a Joint Stock Company formed here, with a moderate amount of capital, with so skilled a man as Capt. Cuthbert as Superintendent, we doubt not that sucess would be achieved and a highly important addition made to the industries of the city.

Whilst thus with the one hand encouraging the shipbuilding trade, the Council with the other hand dealt a heavy blow to the carrying trade, by ordering that the railway siding to Messrs. Downey & Preston's elevator be taken up. By this action they seriously injure a tenant of the Corporation who pays a heavy rent, and to a considerable extent deprive the city of the benefits of the Grand Junction Railway, which the people have paid so heavily to secure. Without again entering into the merits of the question, which we have already discussed at a sufficient length, we have but to say that it would have been much better to have braved the threatened terrors of a law suit and let the siding remain as it is until the grain trade be over for the present season. This had already been assented to by the Council, Messrs. Downey & Preston agreeing to make the siding satisfactory before the opening of navigation next season, and we hope that the Council will yet rescind their action of last night. Every other town and city in the country does all that is possible to encourage the traffic of the railways, well knowing that it pays them to do so, and we see no reason why Belleville should not pursue a similar course. If the siding were allowed to remain as it now is until navigation has closed, the whole matter might be carefully looked into, and if it should be found that the ferry, as at present located, cannot be worked without conflicting with the carrying trade, then it will be the duty of the Council to provide another place removed from the railway tracks for use as a ferry landing.

Trenton Notes.

TRENTON, Oct. 18th.

Last night when H. E. Sailor and his wife (an infirm old couple) were away visiting, burglars entered his house in East Trenton and carried away nearly everything movable, including bedding and clothing and a small sum of money which the old people had saved up after years of hard labor.

The burglars were evidently well acquainted with the vicinity and understood their business. Warrants have been issued against suspected parties, and it is greatly to be hoped that the guilty ones will be brought to justice and severely punished.

A little son of Mr Jacob Hendricks, of the York road, went out to the field this afternoon to catch the horses and thoughtlessly caught a young colt by the tail, when it kicked him in the face, knocking him senseless, in which state he remained for several hours. It is believed that he is seriously injured.

Mr. John Francis, County Surveyor, tried the experiment of going down in diver's dress at the bridge to-day; through some carelessness the life line was not given him, and while under water he lost his way and could not find the ladder, but finally succeeded in climbing up the side of the pier.

—Lieut-Col. Wiley, who is about removing from Ottawa to Montreal, was presented with a silver cup by the members of his veteran staff on Saturday.

—Leary, who was punter for His Excellency the Governor-General during his two days' stay at Long Point, has been rewarded with a $150 note.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Oct. 19.

Council met at 8 p. m.

PRESENT.—His Worship the Mayor, Messrs. Jas. Smith, St. Charles, Jellett, Lingham, Holden, Geen, Vandusen, Frost, Costello, Robertson, A. L. Smith, Niles, Hambly, McIninch, Petrie, Ostrom.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Ald. Jellett said that, since the last meeting of Council, he had satisfied himself that points of order should be decided by the Mayor or his representative, and that it was not competent for the Chairman of Committee of the Whole, when in Committee, to do so. Therefore when such a question rose again in Committee, they should rise and take the ruling of the Mayor or his representative.

PETITIONS, &c.

The Treasurer's statement for September was read, showing: Receipts $3,558.62; expenditure $3,977.40; cash on hand $51.04.

From S. Chapleau, Secretary to the Minister of Public Works, stating that owing to the large amount estimated for the dredging of our harbor, the work cannot be gone on with this season.

From Blake, Kerr, Boyd, & Cassels, Solicitors for Capt. Jellett, stating that the ferry is so interfered with by the railway siding, that unless the same be taken up, proceedings will be commenced against all concerned.

From W. E. Wright regarding a new fuel.

From the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, as to the length of time for which pupils are allowed to stay in the Institution, and giving the names of five pupils whose parents are residents of the city and who are unable to pay for their clothing. No charge is made for their board.

From the County Clerk notifying the Council that the County Council had appointed a Committee to confer with a similar Committee of the City Council as to charges for administration of justice, and suggesting that the City Council should appoint a similar Committee.

From J. W. Cronkright, stating that he has a child in the Institution whose clothing he is unable to provide.

From the same, for the appointment of market constable.

From Alex. Cuthbert, asking that he be given permission to use the foot of James Street, for the purpose of building and repairing vessels.

From N. M. Osborne, complaining that he had been made to pay $15 taxes unjustly, and asking that the same be refunded.

From Thomas McGarry, for remission of taxes on property destroyed by fire.

Several accounts were presented.

Ald. Jellett pressed upon the Chairman and members of Committees the necessity of economy, in order to keep within the estimates.

REPORTS.

Of the Water and Gas Committee, as already detailed in our columns.

Ald. Holden said he had not called the special committee on the grain trade together, as their duties had not been defined. He found that the shipments of grain from Trenton up to Friday evening were 92,716 bushels, and from Belleville up to the same time 148,187 bushels, and on Saturday 9,567 bushels. He would call the Committee together.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. Jas Smith inquired why several wells had not been put in order?

Ald. Hambly said if the people living in the vicinity would make complaint, their wants would at once be attended to.

Ald. Geen asked what was the majority in favor of the second reading of the $90,000 By-law at the last meeting.

The Clerk replied that there was a majority of 1.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Ald. St. Charles gave notice of a motion relative to the report of the Public Works Committee, in relation to the railway siding.

Also of an amendment to the Dog By-law.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Petrie moved, seconded by Ald. A. L. Smith, for the deepening of the well, at the corner of George and Dundas Streets, by 8 feet.

The matter was referred to the Water and Gas Committee.

Ald. Robertson moved, seconded by Ald. St. Charles, to direct the Solicitor to notify Messrs. Downy & Preston to remove the siding, and if they do not remove the same within one week, that he have the same removed. He said they were threatened with an action in the premises. The siding was put down as an experiment, to be removed at the pleasure of the Council. It had proved a great detriment to the ferry, and ought now to be taken up.

Ald. St. Charles said he had supported the laying down of the siding, but as it had proved a great detriment to the ferry, it ought to be removed.

The motion was carried.

Ald. Holden said the INTELLIGENCER had characterized their conduct in this matter as "child's play," as they had for some weeks past undone at one meeting what they had done at the previous meeting. He argued that the street was for the public benefit and should not be monopolized by Mr. Jellett, any more than by Messrs. Downey & Preston. There might be a right of action on the part of Mr. Jellett, but he doubted it. In his opinion it would be as well to leave the matter as it is for two or three weeks, during which the grain trade will last.

Ald. Petrie doubted whether the siding had been such a detriment to the ferry as had been reported, and agreed with Ald. Holden, as to allowing the siding to remain until the close of navigation.

Ald. St. Charles moved for the suspension of the rules to pass his By-law.—Carried.

BY-LAWS.

Council went into Committee on By-laws. Ald. J. Smith in the chair.

Ald. St. Charles' By-law was then taken up. It provides that persons who fail to register their dogs should be liable to a fine of not less than $1 nor more than $5.

The By-law was read a second and third time and passed.

REPORTS.

Council went into Committee on reports. Ald. Hambly in the chair.

The report of the Water and Gas Committee was taken up and passed without amendment.

The street pay list was passed, total $233.23.

Ald. Robertson moved to grant the petition of Capt. Cuthbert, who would probably employ a number of men during the winter.

Ald. Vandusen supported the motion.

Ald. McIninch wished the matter laid over till the next meeting.

The motion was carried.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted. Council adjourned.

Ontario Agricultural Commission.

AFTERNOON SITTING.

Mr. K. Graham, President of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, was examined and said he keeps 40 cows and 5 horses; grows barley and wheat, but very few roots; does not like to follow barley with barley; generally breaks up sod and follows with peas or corn; gang-plough so soon as the peas are off and plough twice after; in the spring cross plough and seed with barley from a broad-cast sower and sow with 12 pounds of clover and 12 pounds of timothy to the acre; consume the clover on the farm the third year; if the timothy is not good, take a crop of clover seed; would mow the first crop under all circumstances; keep it in pasture one year, and then break it up; grow barley once in 5 years; barley is more profitable than any other crop, as it averages 40 bushels to the acre; with high farming 60 bushels per acre; this at 60 cts., which is much below the average, is more profitable than wheat; the average is 90 cts.; the barley grown in this district—6 rowed—is considered the best in America; its quality is considered to be owing to the fact that our lands lie on the limestone; had sown barley six years on a field, and averaged 60 bushels to the acre; the land was ploughed thrice and manured; would recommend a rotation; do not think barley nearly so exhausting a crop as oats or wheat; seed timothy with fall wheat and follow it with clover in the spring; barley sometimes fails on black muck land, owing to wire worm or bugs; had been farming 24 years, and in only 3 years had the value of his spring wheat crop equalled that of barley; we could grow barley as well now as ever; trusted to barn yard manure up to the last two years, when he had sown about eight tons, or 300 lbs, per acre, of land plaster, but his faith in plaster had been much shaken; top-dress the sod with barn yard manure before ploughing; use about 25 waggon loads of manure on the sod before breaking it up; would recommend now that rotten manure be used instead of green manure, thus getting rid of foul seeds and wire-worm; have no reservoir for manure; would estimate the cost of raising barley at $15.70 per acre on ordinary land, including rental of land; this ought to be sufficient for 40 bushels to the acre; the majority of farmers prefer a drill for seeding; grow no rye; have grown spring wheat—principally Fife; changed from that to Red fern, but got no better crop; tried White Russian, Lost Nation and Imperial, but the Fife was the best; there had been a gradual decline in his crop to 8 bushels to the acre last year; the weevil, rust and joint worm had principally effected this result; had not grown fall wheat because of the weevil until 1878, and in 1879 reaped about 30 bushels to the acre; this year had 40 acres, which would yield 20 bushels to the acre; it was badly winter killed; had 45 acres sowed this year, 40 acres of which was Clawson; the barley crop had paid the best on the average; the pea bug is getting worse in the district year by year; was scarcely so bad this season as last; there are as yet no bugs in the north part of the county and the seed is obtained there; would not sow western corn for fodder, as it impoverishes the land; had found plaster lose its effect gradually; had sown salt on barley and wheat land, but did not consider it paid to do so; the straw was made stiffer thereby and the moisture seemed to be attracted. Had been connected with dairying since 1866, when the first factory was erected in the county; the factories in this district are principally on the joint stock principle; the shipment of cheese this year would scarcely equal that of last year; the shipments of cheese this year from Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox, Addington and East Northumberland would be about 12,000,000 pounds; it was very difficult to get the statistics.

The Chairman suggested that returns should be made by the factories to the assessors of the quantity of cheese.

Witness continued.—There is but one creamery in the Bay district, where butter and skim cheese are made; the cost of manufacture and drawing of cheese was about $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents per 100 lbs.; this included drawing milk to the factory and cheese to the railway; the number of patrons of each factory was from 40 to 80; the average number of cows to the factory would be about 400; the average yield of milk per cow per annum for 6 days' milk was 3,000 pounds per cow, or a little over 300 pounds of cheese; very few cows are of other than the native breeds; calves are seldom raised; at present short horns have the preference for the improvement of stock; proper attention is not paid to the improvement of stock; stable the cows from the 15th of November, and keep them until the first week in June; feed good clover hay or corn fodder, with some grain until they become dry; leave them dry about two months; it costs about $22 per head for winter feed, and about $18 for the summer months, or $40 per head for the year. The average yield a year on one cow is less than what it costs to keep her, and the profit really comes out of the farm; common grade cows usually commence giving milk at 3 years; a steer bought at 3 years old for $30 and kept for one year, would be worth about $50 at the end of the year. The yield of a cow would be about $50 per year; so really there would be a profit of $15 or $20 more on the cow than the steer. I prefer the English salt, but have used the Goderich (Stapleton brand) and found it good. Dairymen as a rule prefer the fine salt; the salt now being used at our factory is equal to any English salt, but costs about 20 per cent more; would recommend the system adopted by Mr. Johnson in keeping farming accounts, and think it thorough in all its details, but in some instances it would be hard to keep a distinct separate account with each separate field. The average price of land is about $50 per acre; don't think the farmers of a former generation were as a rule capable of keeping accounts; in the public schools the system of book-keeping is deficient, so that they have to avail themselves of a special means of commercial education, to be had only at Commercial colleges; know several, and am personally deriving benefit through my son taking a course in the Ontario Commercial College, Belleville.

P. R. Daly, Esq., agreed pretty much with the evidence given by Mr. Graham. The average yield of a cow is $42 per year. Raise some cows and buy others to supply those which are past profitable use; the cost of keeping a cow is about $16 per year; feed them in summer on the pasture, without any other food; put the cows to pasture about the middle of April or first half of May; short horn grades are the best milkers that can be had; the best cows are bought in the neighborhood of Peterborough. Mr. Daly also gave evidence as to the feeding of hogs at the factories, showing a profit of about $6 on each hog. Used the Goderich salt in the Holloway factory; never heard any complaint on that score. Mr. Daly went on to say that he considered it profitable to grow a small quantity of rye, the straw of which was valuable for feed. Had lately found the growing of spring wheat unprofitable. All kinds of apples grow well in this section; the northern spy is the most profitable; found leached ashes the best fertilizer for apple trees; grow few root crops.

Mr. Graham mentioned that, to keep pace with the times, the assistance received from the Ontario Government had put many thousand of dollars in the pockets of the farmers. He thought that if the present system of instructing cheese makers be continued, our products will drive the English cheese out of their market, as by that means the quality of the cheese is being constantly improved. The cheese which took the prize at Hamilton was far superior to that which won at the Centennial. There was still great room for improvement.

EVENING SESSION.

Mr. Graham—Said the apple industry was a very important one in this section; he had four acres in cultivation; the most profitable apple for export was the Swazie Baubrea; a company was formed which branded their apples and put the name of each exporter on a ticket inside their barrel lids, so any person practicing fraud or carelessness could be detected

Prof. Jas. T. Bell, Professor of Mining and Agriculture in Albert College, said agriculture was taught at the Albert College, but sons of farmers did not generally attend; the college taught mostly practical farming, such as the chemistry and effect of manures; barn yard manure was the mainstay of the farmers; all refuse should be utilized as manure, and prepared under cover; some appreciate the nature of this and practice it; those substances used as cattle feed, which contain the most nitrogen, such as oil cake, produced the best manure, and after this grain; bran was not so good; land plaster assists by supplying sulphur and lime and by its absorbing nature; when gypsum is applied it acts in supplying certain food ingredients to the plants; plaster applied in a wet season is much better than that applied in a dry one; sulphate of lime is not very desirable for new land; a time may come on any farm on which lime is used when it would be useless, but after an interval might be used again; salt might be applied on land distant from the sea; salt gives brightness to straw; it could be used too largely, but might be used for a long time; plant roots thickly and encourage their growth to escape flies; salt or other manure would be beneficial for this; phosphates might be used without converting them into superphosphates; superphosphates are not used extensively; they are good for all crops; barnyard manure might be used with gypsum; muck, dried leaves, &c, would be very useful in this way; manure for ploughing in should be green, but for top dressing or drilling in with turnips or potatoes, dry manure is better; liquid manure is far better than the solid; sawdust, especially that of hardwood, was objectionable, and should not be used as manure; liquid manure, should be mixed with earth or water; it should not be applied after the crop had arrived at nearly its full growth; liquid manure should be fermented and one gallon applied with 10 or 12 gallons of water; he did not favor feeding cows on distillery slops; they should have a liberal supply of hay; underdraining was very necessary in this country; he approved of the pipe drainage; underdrains in dry soil should not be laid deep; different crops should be grown according to the application of manures; keeping farming accounts was difficult; he approved of Mr. Johnson's system of keeping farming accounts; there are not many farmers who could keep these accounts; a simple debtor and credit account would in most cases be sufficient; keeping farming accounts should be introduced into the schools; the inclination of young farmers to follow other pursuits was a prevalent evil; the hard work and slow profits were distasteful to them; many parents made their sons work too hard; agriculture might be successfully taught in the rural schools; a rudimentary education was sufficient; it should not be attempted to teach too much; the rust on different plants was the same; brambles should not be allowed to grow near wheat; the retention of moisture in soil was favorable to the production of rust; drainage was useful to resist rust; cheese was very valuable as an article of diet, when properly eaten with bread; cheese should be used when fairly ripened; very old cheese should not be much used; Canadian cheese was superior to English cheese as food; cattle ought to be treated carefully, though seemingly apathetic were of a nervous temperament and their treatment effects the quantity and quality of the milk; cattle should not be housed too warmly in summer, and should not be exposed in winter; in every pasture field there should be a shade; he approved of butter factories, but not creameries; butter and cheese should not be made from the same milk; by making butter instead of cheese calves could be raised; the valuable ingredients for feed for small animals was retained in skimmed and buttermilk; oil cake or linseed tea might be given to calves.

This closed the work of the Commission in Belleville.

CARD.

To J. PARKER THOMAS, Esq., AGENT, Travelers' Life Insurance Co., BELLEVILLE.

SIR,—Accept my thanks for the prompt payment in full by the above named Company of the insurance on the life of my late husband, J. H. Hambly, Esq., under Policy No. 22,300, for $2,000, dated 9th October, 1880.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bed-room open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc., for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

EXTRACT
FROM THE 'MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

New Engine.—Another new engine for the Grand Junction has arrived from the Portland Locomotive Works. It is numbered six, named the "Belleville" and is of precisely the same size and style as the "Thomas Kelso."

First Blood.—The Peterborough Review of the 18th says:—"The Grand Junction Railway Company drew first blood on Friday evening, when they took down to Campbellford a rim casting for water power machinery, weighing four hundred and seventy-five pounds, which was shipped by Messrs J. Whyte & Co. The casting is for the new pulp mill of Mr. J. Keeler, M. P., now in course of erection at Ranney's Falls."

A Successful Hunt.—Messrs. H. Corby jr., S. B. Burdett, W. J. Baker, and Geo. Thompson, who left here on Thursday, the 7th inst., on a deer hunting expedition, arrived in camp at Gordon Lake, on the following evening. On the 9th they shot one deer, and on the 11th three more,—another on the 12th, still another on the 15th, and two more on the 16th, making eight in all. On that day they were joined by Messrs. F. R. Lingham and J. W. Walker. Mr. Burdett, who did some trapping, was successful in capturing a number of animals. Several partridge were shot by the party; and a number of trout were also captured. Messrs. Corby, Lingham, and Walker reached home this morning. The remaining members of the party will arrive on Thursday. We congratulate the Nimrods on their success.

A Candid Statement.—The Newmarket Era, one of the most respectable of the Reform newspapers of the Province, says: "'There is no denying that the coal tax and the duty on sugar are two intolerable nuisances,' says an exchange; and had it been added that people generally regard taxes and tax gatherers as horrible 'nuisances,' perhaps no more than the truth would have been stated. Those of our cotems., however, who disclaim against the coal and sugar tax, fail to shift the burthen too; for if removed from these the tax would have to be imposed somewhere, in order to enable the Finance Minister to get rid of deficits. As coal is far more largely used by manufacturers than the 'poor man,' (for whom loud-mouthed partizans always have a word of sympathy,) we can but regard the tax thereon as a set-off to the advantages conferred on them by the N. P." As to the sugar duty, the revenue raised from that source could not possibly be spared; but the present tariff gives us better and cheaper sugar than could have been procured under the Cartwright tariff.

Prince Edward Assizes.—A telegram was received this afternoon stating that the murder trial has been postponed until to-morrow.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, brisk to high westerly to southerly winds, fair weather with local showers of rain or snow, slightly higher temperatures.

Brome.—The election for the Commons in Brome yesterday resulted in the return of Mr. Munson (Conservative) by 127 majority so far as heard from. This is another gain for the Conservative party.

Gone.—The Agricultural Commission concluded their labors here last night and proceeded westward. We fail to see much if any utility in this Commission. It seems to have been organized for the purpose of giving employment to Mr. A. H. Dymond, who is a friend of the Ontario Government and is the only salaried member of the Commission. Mr. Dymond certainly discharges the comparatively useless duties imposed on him with ability, and will make the most out of the materials laid before the Commission in the report which he will prepare.

A Household Perfume.—Every Family able to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

Personal.—Mr. Broderick, one of the English delegates, is in this city, the guest of Thomas Wills, Esq. Mr. Broderick has recently returned from a trip to the North-West, and has visited several parts of Ontario, including the celebrated Bow Park Farm. He went as far west as Fort Ellice accompanied by Mr. Emery, another of the delegates, spending several weeks in the Prairie Province and speaks very favorably of the country as a land for the agriculturist. He is also much prepossessed in favor of Ontario as a home for well-to-do farmers. Mr. Broderick is now en route for England, but will spend some two or three weeks visiting the Maritime Provinces before he leaves Canada. The visit of these delegates cannot but be of great advantage to the country, by giving to the people of the mother country a correct and truthful idea of its resources and thereby inducing intending emigrants to select Canada as their home.

—The horse disease, which first appeared at Cleveland, O., in a mild form a few days ago spread rapidly. A very large per cent of the horses are affected. The disease is as violent as during the previous epidemic.

—A telegram from Chicago 17th says: During the storm last night the schooner Wells, bound in with iron ore from Escanaba, foundered off North Chicago, her mast alone remaining above water. The crew, consisting of Captain D. Hiecksuff and seven seamen, have not been heard from, and are supposed to have perished.

A New French Line.—A London despatch received to day says that the new French shipping company has ordered five steamers to be built on the Clyde, to constitade part of the line between France and America. These vessels are to be first class in every respect and similar to the new liners of the Trans. Atlantic Company. It may be said in reference to this despatch that it is supposed to refer to the line to run to Canada for which a bonus is expected from the French Government.

Marine.

Arrived Schr Ontario from Oswego light.

Cleared Schr John Pugsley, for Oswego, with lumber.

The Schrs Octavia and Philo Bennett have been chartered to take lumber hence to Oswego at $1,25 per foot.

The Kingston Whig says:—On and after to-day the bay boat will run to Belleville only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. She will leave Picton daily for Kingston at 8:30 a.m.

Snow-Drifts.—It is pretty early in the season for snow-drifts, but we have despatches from the west to-day announcing that the train that left Dubuque on Friday morning over the Illinois Central for the west is still stuck in the snow-drift near Howell, and the wind fills in the snow faster than it can be shovelled out. The company does not expect to get the road open to Sioux City before Tuesday.

Severe Storms.—Despatches from St. Paul states communication by telegraph in every direction is cut off for a distance exceeding 20 or 30 miles. Nothing is known of the Northern Pacific country, except a report that the storm is more severe and the snow heavier than was experienced all last winter. A despatch from Des Moines, Iowa, says that the ground is frozen several inches deep here. Two-thirds of the potato crop is not dug, and will probably be a total loss.

How to get sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know HOW TO GET WELL.

Improvements in the Basement of Bridge St. Methodist Church.

A MODEL SUNDAY-SCHOOL ROOM.

Among those institutions which will in future history be recognized as developments of the nineteenth century is the modern Sunday School. It is, as it at present exists, a distinctive production of this century, and it is only within the past twenty or thirty years that there forming and progressive spirit, which now distinguishes Sunday School workers everywhere, began to assert its power. The modern Sunday School, therefore, though it has had a nominal existance for a hundred years, is in reality a new institution. It is less English than American. It was in the United States that the new ideas respecting Sunday Schools, which have worked such a revolution in the Sunday School system, had birth. The one grand idea which underlay all the others was that to make the Sunday School successful—a powerful, spiritual and moral agent—it was necessary to make it agreeable and interesting to the children; it was necessary not to have them attend it as a duty but as a pleasure. Immeasurable in extent, priceless in value have been the results which have flowed from the influence of this idea. As we have said, it has entirely revolutionized the mode of conducting the Sunday School. It is to this that Sunday School libraries owe their existence; it is owing to this that scores of entertaining and instructive periodicals are published. It has stimulated research not only in the sacred Scriptures, but in every department of literature and science, for purposes of illustration. To elucidate, embellish and illustrate sacred truths, it has pressed into the service of the Sunday School the pencil of the artist, the knowledge of the historian, traveller, and antiquarian, the fancy of the poet, and the money of every one. It has made the Sunday School room a place of delight, where nothing meets the eye that does not reflect back upon young minds thoughts which will impress them with the beauty and cheerfulness of religion. The Sunday School workers of long ago, it is true, recognized the scriptural aphorism, "milk for the babes," and acted upon it; but alas the milk they administered was too often of the sour and the skimmed variety, and it is no wonder that it was not relished much by the youthful palates of that time. But in most of the Sunday Schools of to-day the "milk of the word" is neither watered nor allowed to sour, but is administered fresh and sweet, and mantled with the rich cream of earnest Christian zeal.

We have good Sunday-schools in Belleville. The workers in that field here have usually been ready, even eager, to adopt innovations which gave promise of good results. And we think it can be justly said that the leading Sunday-school in the city is the one in connection with Bridge St. Methodist Church. It has for many years been first in point of numbers, and has for some time shown the most progressive spirit. It has of late made rapid strides towards perfection, under the able and experienced superintendence of Mr. Wm. Johnson, and can now challenge comparison with the best schools in the Province. The last great improvement which has been planned and successfully carried out by the authorities of the Bridge St. School is the reconstruction of the school-room after the latest and most approved American models. Inspired with the Idea which we have mentioned above, the officers of the school concluded that it was desirable that the pupils should have a more convenient, cheerful, and comfortable school-room. The conclusion was no sooner arrived at than the officers set to work to secure the desired improvements, and it was not very long before the work was fairly begun. It has been going steadily forward for the past two months, and is now almost finished.

The improvements are of a very extensive character and have involved the outlay of a considerable expenditure—probably $2,000. The old school room is not recognizable, except for the pillars. Formerly the main school-room was flanked at both its eastern and western sides by class-rooms. The partitions which divided them from the main room have been torn down, and the whole basement has thus been thrown into one immense auditorium. Along the eastern, southern and western sides of the building, nine rooms—or more properly, compartments—have been constructed, which are so arranged that their fronts converge towards the centre of the north wall. These compartments are furnished with folding glass doors in front, so that when they are closed each compartment is a separate room, and when they are opened the whole basement becomes one large room. They are to be used as class rooms for the advanced Bible classes, and one of the largest of them (the seats of which are arranged in tiers one above the other, after the manner of our public schools) is intended for the infant class. The Superintendent's platform is placed in the centre of the north wall, and from that point the eye can reach every corner of every compartment, and the occupants of each compartment will be able to see anyone who occupies the platform. The effect, when all the class-room doors are closed, is very fine. From the northwestern corner, where a stairway leads into the lobbies above, to the north-eastern corner, where the minister's vestry is situated, sweeps a long and graceful semicircle of frosted glass and ornamental woodwork, the latter being painted a light and cheerful color. The new arrangement affords even a larger main-room for the school than before, the reason being that the space is much better economised; while the new room, in respect to comfort, convenience and cheerfulness, will be to the old room, what the old room was to the school-rooms of our fathers.

The heating arrangements are most complete. Under the basement new furnace rooms have been erected, and in these have been placed two coal-furnaces, manufactured by Gurney, of Hamilton. These supply the rooms with hot air, which is conducted into the main room and into each compartment as through registers—thereby doing away altogether with the antiquated stove, and troublesome stovepipe as heating agents.

The new arrangement is now certain to be fully as successful as was anticipated by those who first advocated it, and will amply justify the expenditure which has been made on it. When completed, the Bridge Street Sunday School will be second to none in the Province. One objection which was at first raised was that the light would not be as good as formerly; but the fact is that the main room is now much better lighted than it used to be, the light streaming in from every window through the glass doors of the different class-rooms.

The work of tinting the walls is now going on, and probably will not be finished before Friday. The color is a delicate lavender or mauve. An ornamental border of dadoe-work of a very tasteful pattern is to be run around the walls, which will add greatly to the general effect.

The architectural plans were drawn up by Mr. Thos. Hanley, from a design furnished by the Sunday School Times. This design obtained the prize of $500 which was offered by the Times for the best design of a Sunday School room. The carpenter work was done by Mr. L. Grills; the plastering by Mr. F. Dolan, and the painting by Mr. Wm. Wensley.

The new schoolroom is to be opened next Sunday. Sermons will be preached in Bridge St. Church, in the morning by Rev. Wm. Hall, M.A., and in the evening by Rev. Dr. Jeffers. In the afternoon, a great Sunday School service will be held in the new schoolroom, commencing at 3 o'clock. On the following evening a tea-meeting is to be held, for which extensive preparations are now being made.

MORNING DESPATCHES CONDENSED.

A Chicago despatch gives the following particulars respecting the missing Alpena:—It is stated that two vessels sighted the missing steamer Alpena 30 to 40 miles off Racine on Saturday and another picked up her step ladder and pail marked Alpena at Holland, Mich. Tugs have been sent on a general look out along the Michigan coast. The telegraph wires north of Manistee are all down. The articles found may have been washed overboard. The owners are confident the vessel will reach port. The crew of the Alpena number 25. It is estimated there were from 60 to 70 passengers. The Captain of the Boston reports the Alpena was not at the Manitous on Sunday as rumored.

It is reported D. R. Riddell, local freight agent of the Michigan Southern Railway, has absconded with a shortage of accounts of $50,000.

The outgoing trains on the warring roads are so crowded that they have to run in sections. It is predicted the war will become general to-day.

The details of correspondence between Secy. Sherman and Hampton are published, in which pretty strong language is used, and a duel is in prospect.

Telegrams from Milwaukie give details of several wrecks at Detroit Island, and at Death's Door.

A fire in Christianard, Copenhagen, a place of 12,000 inhabitants, destroyed two-thirds of the houses.

Parnell, replying to the address of the Town Commissioners of Roscommon, mentioned that he received many threatening letters from persons representing themselves to be landlords or agents.

Gladstone is being distrusted and disliked thoughout Germany.

David Spears was found shot dead near Burlington, Ohio. The suspected murder was in revenge for intimacy with a Mrs. Anderson.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, Oct. 19.—Healy, Parnell's secretary, at a land meeting at Bantry, Co. Cork, declared there were many evidences of cruelty and injustice in the case of Hutchins, who with the driver was shot near Skibbereen.

Montreal, Mich. Oct. 19.—The Cabin washed ashore at Stoney Creek, and supposed to be that of the steamer Alpena, proves to be a portion of the promenade deck of the barge Trader. Other wreckage are supposed to be parts of the Alpena, belongs probably to the Trader.

Chicago, Oct 19.—A Muskegon despatch says not a vestige is left of the schooner Granada, which went to pieces of the shore here. There are only two survivors—Wm. Bissell, mate, and Augus Tinklater, the Captain's brother.

The latter reports that the vessel left Chicago with a smart breeze on Friday evening, but the steering apparatus soon became worthless. The schooner was at the mercy of the waves, the storm hourly increasing in violence. Saturday noon the steward and a sailor died from exposure, and he himself prayed for death. Sunday noon land was sighted, and they began to make a raft. One sailor was caught between parts of the rocking vessel and nearly crushed, but was wrapped in canvas and put on a raft; the waves washed him overboard. The captain lost his hold by the breaking of the raft, and was drowned when near shore. Tinklater held on for a while, and then swam ashore. All the rest of the crew, number not stated, drowned before their eyes.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The steam barge Trader, supposed to be lost, has gone to pieces on the east shore of Lake Michigan. She was in charge of Capt. Brown and a crew of ten. The vessel was valued at $6,000. All hands probably perished.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, slightly higher temperature.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

OUR OLD MOTTO

PERFECT SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

J. H. FORD,
Photographer, Picture Framer and Dealer in Fancy Goods.

THE REASON WHY!

We are often asked how we are able to sell our goods so much cheaper than others do? and how we always give such good value for the money?

The answer is this. It is because we buy cheaper. And now we will let the public into a little secret. As the season advances in this country prices of dry goods as a rule fall in the wholesale markets. So instead of trotting off home to the old country to buy a general stock there, when everything is at the highest, we stay where we are, buy lightly early in the season, and take advantage of every decline in the markets, and thus we are often able to sell our goods at less than our small importers pay for them.

Don't believe that a retail importer can buy his little parcel to as good advantage as the wholesale merchant who purchases one or two million dollars per annum. The latter can buy his goods so much lower that he can get a profit and still sell at less than the small retail importer has to pay for them.

We have a special line of Tweeds coming in this week, which we purchased 15 per cent. lower than they were a month ago. They are cheap and look well made up into suits.

We have also a nice assortment of Ladies Mantles considerably cheaper than if we imported them ourselves. And a very large stock of Carpets, some of them we were foolish enough to import, but we were sorry for it afterwards, for they cost about 10 per cent. more than we have since been able to buy the same class of goods.

We have reduced the profit on the imported carpets so as to make them as cheap as the others.

FLOOR OILCLOTHS, LINOLEUMS, CHEAP.

We have Linoleums as low as 75c per yard. Importers sell them at $1.00 to $1.15.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irrestible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

Hungerford Fair.

The Township of Hungerford Fair and Cattle Show was held at the Town Hall, Tweed, on Thursday, Oct. 14th.

It was well attended, the ladies being present in numbers, which added to the general attraction.

The articles displayed were good in the main. Carriage horses were quite numerous and attracted a good deal of notice, as did the display of carriages from the various manufacturing establishments. The display of leather was conspicuous by its absence, as only a few sets of harness were exhibited. The ladies' department was elegant in the extreme, great good taste being shown in the exhibit. Fruits were plentiful and some of enormous growth, principally apples. Pears were good, and grapes likewise, but not many to be seen.

The display of horned cattle was fine but there were not many of pure blood. In the description known as Grade they could not be surpassed in any township show.

In domestic manufactures the entries were few, but of a good quality.

Some fine poultry were exhibited, including some strange looking geese.

Sheep and hogs were good classes. The farmer in Hungerford is showing that he will not be surpassed for improvement in the various branches of husbandry.

Implements and labor saving machines were numerous and of the best description of the kind made.

Dairy produce was excellent, as shown by the cheese and butter. These articles, of all others, should be of the best quality, and the Hungerford show of 1880 is a good proof that they are such.

Roots and vegetables were in abundance, and the size of some of them was without exception, the largest ever seen in the Township, whilst the quality was first class. Some of the beets grown in Mr. McCann's garden, Tweed, weighed 20 pounds, and every other description of vegetable was equally fine. Grain was No. 1, and a large quantity shewn of almost every description. The Show in the main was good, and quite a success. The following is the

Is it possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lot or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermittent Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, CO.,

GENTS,—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague.—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for ever a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c, which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

Benjamin's Wife.

BY MRS. C. M. LIVINGSTON.

CONTINUED.

This life in the crowded city was so new and strange and dismal. How she longed amid its dust and smoke for the sweet air of Hawthorn, for a sprig of lilac or a June rose from the garden. Once in a rare while she succeeded in getting to church. It was a difficult thing to bring about though. When nothing happened to prevent, the carriage was driven there, but apparently in that family there were more hindrances to churchgoing than to any other sort of going.

Now, that the spring had come again, Mrs. Kensett looked forward with to a change of her home with pleasure; she wanted to get into the country once more; and Martha, the second daughter, had married a farmer and lived in the country; it was a long distance from Hawthorn, and she had not visited her daughter since her marriage. The pleasant home among trees and flowers and greenness that she had pictured, was not there: instead, a bare frame house on a hill side, without a tree or vine—there was no time to enjoy them had they been there; the long hot days were filled up with work—endless milking and churning—and the unselfish mother put in her waning strength, early and late, did what she could to lighten the burden that was making her daughter prematurely old. Then the dismal winter settled down upon them—monotonous days of sleet and snow and darkness, when nothing happened from week to week to break the dreary routine—when even the sabbaths brought no relief.

Mrs. Kensett had ever been an untiring church-goer; rain or shine, she was in her place. Her son-in-law was not a Christian, and always had an excellent excuse for remaining at home; in the summer the horses were too tired, or it was too hot; in the winter it was too cold, or too something. Many a dreary Sabbath the sad mother sat at her chamber window and watched the rain coming down in slow, straight drizzle, repeating to herself rather than singing, as she rocked to and fro,

"How lovely is Thy dwelling place,
Oh Lord of hosts to me!
The tabernacles of Thy grace,
How pleasant, Lord, they be!
My thirsty soul longs vehemently,
Yea, faints Thy courts to see;
My very heart and flesh cry out,
Oh living God for Thee."

Longing meanwhile with intense desire to sit once again in the old pew, and hear the familiar tones of her pastor's voice in that far-away pleasant village that used to be her home; now, she had no home, a wanderer from house to house, and yet she was not a murmurer, her faith and love did not falter.

In due course of time she went on her pilgrim way and tarried for a time at daughter Hannah's; a good-natured soul who loved her mother and gave her welcome to such as she had, but she lived in a small house, with a large flock of children, undisciplined, rough and noisy. It seemed that in the full little house there was no quiet corner for retreat, and grandma often moaned in the words of one of her dear psalms:—

"O that I like a dove had wings,
Said I, then would I flee,
Far hence that I might find a place
Where I in rest might be."

"After all, I need all this," the old saint would say to herself. "It's a part of my dear Lord's schooling. I was having too nice a time, Ephram and I, all alone. I dare say I got out of the way and He had to bring me back. He sent me all that peaceful, comfortable time; I was very glad to have His will done when it was according to my notion; this is His will all the same, and shall not I be willing to take what He sends? He is only getting me ready."

"Soon the delightful day will come,
When my dear Lord will call me home,
And I shall see His face."

Albeit, the house was small and the children noisy, this persecuted grandmother of many homes found herself dreading to leave it and find a new home with her eldest son. John's wife had always been to her a most uncomfortable sort of person to do with; she had dreaded her not frequent visits to their house, and was always glad when they were over; although many years had passed since his marriage, she never seemed to get any nearer to his wife; now, time had come to go and live with them, she shrank from it and postponed it for weeks, but John was inflexible—he was an upright man, and bound to do his part in sharing the burden of his mother's maintenance.

Mrs. John Kensett was one of those icy women with thin lips, and cold grey eyes, made up from the first without a heart—women who make a cool atmosphere about them even in the heat of summer. She was tall and stylish and handsomely dressed, and when she mounted her gold eye-glasses and through them severely looked one over, she was formidable indeed to so meek a woman as her mother-in-law. She must have married John Kensett because an establishment is more complete with a man at the head of it, for that was the chief end of her life to keep all things in perfect running order in that elegantly appointed home, and to keep abreast of the times in all new adornings and furnishings under the sun. One Scripture admonition at least she gave heed to—she looked well to the ways of her household. One might explore from garret to garret in that house and find nothing out of place, nothing soiled, nothing left undone that should have been done. She was, withal, a rigid economist in small things. Everything was kept under lock and key, and doled out in very small quantities to the servants. Her table could never merit the charge of being vulgarly loaded, the furnace heat was never allowed to rise above certain mark on the thermometer, no matter who shivered, and she had doubtless walked miles in turning gas jets to just the right point.

In this most elegant, precise, immaculate house, where everything and everybody was controlled by certain unvarying and inflexible rules, the old mother felt almost as straightened as she ever had in the small topsy-turvey one.

Her room was scarcely above shivering point, and the back windows overlooked no cheerful prospect. Here day after day she sat alone, nobody trusted her in any way; she had food and shelter and clothes, what more could old people possibly want! At meal times her son was silent and abstracted or absorbed in his newspaper. (Mrs. John never talked much at home except to give orders) If anybody had told him that his old mother's heart was nearly breaking for lack of loving sympathy he would have been astonished. The faded eyes often grew dim with tears as she looked at him—the frigid, unbending man—and remembered him as he was in those first years of her married life, darling little Johnnie, in white dresses and long curls, running after butterflies and picking flowers; if he would only kiss her once more, or do something to make her sure that he was Johnnie. She was hungry for a tender word from him. Ah! if mothers could see down the years that stretch ahead, it would not always be so hard to lay the little lisping ones under the ground. Was it decreed that most mothers shall be in sympathy with that other one, of whom it is written, "A sword shall pierce thine own heart also."

We shall never know about the wounds from those dear, self-sacrificing mothers, but they are there, even though they may strive to hide them and find excuses for the cold neglect, indifference to their comfort, impatience, and the putting them one side as if to say, "What is all this to you? It is time you were dead."

"John is busy," she would say, as she mounted the stairs to her lonely room, and he buttoned his coat and hastened away to business, without a "good-bye" or a "good-night," then she would draw out her knitting and knit on, often through tear blinded eyes. Sometimes she did not hear a remark the first time and would ask to have it repeated, but the manifest impatience with which it was done always sent a pang well likened to a sword thrust, but the dear mother would cover the wound and think within herself, "I know it is a great trouble to talk to deaf people, I ought to keep still."

Strange that these stabs come not alone from the lost sheep of the family, but from the son who is the honored citizen; from the daughter who shines in her circle as a woman of many virtues; from grandchildren trained up in the Sabbath school.

"Into each life some sunshine must fall, as well as rain," and Mrs. Kensett has much of hers from Benjie's letters; they were regular as dews, and cherry as the sun, a balsam for the wounds of the poor heart. They were not mere scribbles either—"I am well and hope you are; I haven't time to write more now"—but good long letters, with accounts of all his comings and doings, the people he met, the books he read, here a dash of fun, and there a poetical fancy; and through them all ran, like a golden thread, the dear boy's tender love and reverence for his mother. Never did maiden watch for lover's missive with more ardor; sometimes he wrote one day, sometimes another, but always once a week, and Mrs. Kensett kept a sharp lookout for the postman. When the time drew near for him to come she made many journeys down stairs to see if she could get a glimpse of him. When the expected letter was not forthcoming she felt somehow as if the postman were to blame. But when it did come, ah! that was the one bright day of the week; how she read it and re-read it, and put it in her pocket and thought it over, while she went on with her knitting. then when some little point was not quite distinct in her mind, brought it out and read it again, so that by the time another one came this one was worn out. John's wife thought to regulate this one small pleasant excitement of her mother-in-law's life by remarking to her husband that "somebody ought to tell Benjamin to write on a particular day, mother was so fidgety when it was time for the mail."

How small a thing is a letter to make one happy! and yet some of us let the sword pierce the dear mother-heart by withholding that which costs us so little. God pity us when our mothers have gone beyond the reach of voice or pen.

One day her letter contained news of great importance. It was read and pondered long. Benjie was going to be married! The mother did not like the news; somehow in all her plans for Benjie the wife had not come in. Now this would be the last of her comfort in him; he would marry and settle down and probably be just like John—given up to business. He pictured out his future bride as good and lovely. Of course he thought so, but poor Mrs Kensett could get no vision of a daughter-in-law except a tall woman with a severe expression. "She is an heiress," Benjie wrote. Well, what of that? John's wife had property, too. She would likely be proud, and ashamed of a plain old woman like her.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day; but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, an acute, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles, now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

Blundering Law Makers.

Year after year the INTELLIGENCER has protested against the mischievous meddling of the Ontario Legislature with existing laws, and more especially with the School Act, which has been so patched and altered and amended under the blundering auspices of the Mowat Government that it is now one of the least efficient, and most unsatisfactory of the many stupid pieces of legislation for which they are responsible. We objected particularly to the clause added when the last doctoring of the law took place, under which power is given to Municipal Councils to veto, by a two-third vote, any proposed expenditure for the purpose of increasing school accommodation. Our argument against this provision was that as the school trustees were responsible to the people in the same manner as are the Councillors, the proposed addition to the law was wrong in principle in creating a division of responsibility and likely to lead to a conflict of authority, probably to the detriment of the public interest. The clause, because it emanated from the Government was passed into law and proves to have had even a worse effect than we had foreseen. This is shown by the Kingston Whig, a journal which warmly supports the Mowat Government, and which nothing but dire necessity could urge to question, much less to condemn, any action of the Legislature under their inspiration. The Whig says:

> How has the law worked in the long-pending difficulty between the two public bodies in this city, and to what extent has the School Board been helped or protected by the two-thirds proviso? Has a policy of systematic postponement, which can be indefinitely extended, the Council has declined to entertain the application of the School Board one way or the other, and, therefore, there has been no chance to arrive at a vote on the merits of the question at issue. A two-thirds majority could not be mustered to reject in a straightforward way the application of the School Board, but a bare majority is all that is necessary to postpone the consideration of the question, and consequently the protection intended by the two thirds condition is seen to be a ridiculous fiction and to fall to the ground as absolutely null and void.

Our contemporary, with which we thoroughly agree in the matter, proceeds to demand the abolition of the obnoxious clause, and concludes by saying:

> If, however, this absurd act is to remain upon our Statute Books it certainly should be so amended as to compel the City Council to take definite and manly action within a specified time, or, failing this, to forfeit entirely their right to adopt obstructive tactics or to take an unfair advantage of one school law to compel the trustees to violate a much more important one in the matter of adequate school accommodation.

This is a subject which the press ought to discuss and, irrespective of politics, to urge upon the attention of the Government, who might thus be induced to give way.

Brome.

ANOTHER CONSTITUENCY REDEEMED.

Immediately after the present tariff had become law, the assertion was made by the Opposition press that a great reaction had set in against the Government because of the alleged enhancement in the prices of the necessaries of life, created by the increase in the duties upon imports. This assertion was so often repeated that gradually those who uttered it grew to believe it. True, the by-elections which followed went badly for the Grit party. The Government gained Argenteuil, and Charlevoix, and retained Beauharnois, Bonaventure, Cape Breton, Cornwall, Montmorency, Provencher, Yale and Yamaska, but this did not satisfy their opponents that the alleged reaction was a myth and the Government gaining in popular favor. Then ensued the West Toronto and North Ontario elections, which resulted in leaving parties as they were; but as the Conservative majority showed a decrease in Toronto and that of the Opposition an increase in North Ontario, the Grit prints shouted "reaction" louder than ever. The defeat of their candidate in Selkirk, however, which followed closely, partially brought them to their senses, and since that event but little has been heard of the alleged reaction, which had been looked after in vain from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The death of the late Mr. Chandler, the Reform representative of Brome, afforded an excellent opportunity for the unearthing of the reaction; but the Grit press had lost faith in its existence, and despite the fact that their candidate had secured a majority of 281 two years ago, they went into the contest with fear and trembling. The result was in accordance with their fears, Mr. Manson, the Conservative candidate, having been returned by a majority of 127.

The accounts of gains and losses now stands thus between the parties: Ministerial gain, 4 seats (in addition to those won in the Courts and in elections held previous to the enactment of the tariff); Opposition gain 0 seats, Ministerial loss 0 seats; Opposition loss 4 seats. In addition to this the Government gained 2 seats in Ontario previous to the introduction of the N. P.—one by contest at the polls and the other by trial in court—and one in Quebec, making a total gain of seven seats. So far the Opposition have not won even a single seat which was gained by a Conservative candidate at the general election of 1878. Thus the alleged reaction against the Government is proved to be a mere piece of declamation for effect, the fact being that the Government is steadily gaining in popular favor. Such we hope will continue to be the case so long as they serve the public so well as they have done during their first two years of office. Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues have governed wisely and well, and have achieved very much in the interests of the country. They have deserved a continuance of the trust reposed in them by the electors in September, 1878, and therefore we rejoice that the people of all the Provinces reward them as they deserve.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Montreal has long been the centre of the wholesale trade of the Dominion, and although Toronto is its most formidable competitor, there is not much prospect that the trade of the latter will ever reach the volume and extent to be always found in Montreal. It has the advantage of a seaboard port, where all the great ocean steamships and the vast ocean fleet of vessels unload and take on their cargoes. And in this respect it can have no rival in the Dominion. The trade, too, is rapidly increasing, as can best be seen by the new avenues of commerce opened up, the large increase in the number of vessels registered at the port, and the demand for new lines of steamships to do the carrying trade between Montreal and transatlantic ports. Its geographical position is such as to enable it to maintain its proud superiority as the commercial metropolis of the Dominion. It also lays claim to be a most important manufacturing centre, and probably no other city in the Dominion has profited so much by the wise protective policy of the Government as has Montreal. It has not only the noted sugar refineries and immense cotton factories, which have been built up by this policy, but there are numerous other manufactories, many of them formerly in a languishing condition, which have been stimulated into a healthy and prosperous state; and a large number of new and smaller industries have sprung into existence as the result of the National Policy—industries which the press never mention, and of which the general public hear very little of, but which nevertheless contribute in no small degree to the general prosperity. In visiting the establishment of Messrs. Perry Davis & Son & Lawrence, Montreal, a few days ago, the writer obtained some facts which go to show how many small industries are favorably affected by the National Policy. Take for instance the trade in patent and proprietary medicines and drugs; nearly all of the standard preparations were formerly manufactured in the United States; but the National Policy shut them out of Canada, and rather than lose the trade of the Dominion, the proprietors have been obliged to transfer branches of their manufactures to Canada. This manufacture does not simply include the making of syrups, and balsams and sarsaparillas, and pain killers and hundreds of other preparations, of which hundreds of thousands of dollars are sold annually in the Dominion, but it includes the glass bottles, which has necessitated the establishment of a mammoth glass factory in Montreal, and the manufacture of cases and boxes, which is no inconsiderable item; and the manufacture of paper which is largely used in labels and wrappers. Besides this the printing required for these medicinal preparations has all to be done in Canada, and this branch of industry gives employment to a large amount of additional capital and a large number of workmen. The firm mentioned which formerly kept one press occasionally going on their work now have two presses constantly running. Amongst their preparations are the Pain Killer, Allen's Lung Balsam, Bearine, Fellows' Compound Syrup of hypophosphites, Bristols' Goods, Dr. Herrick's Family Remedies, Burnett's Preparations, and a host of other articles which were formerly manufactured and imported from the United States. They occupy a large brick block 33x124 feet, four stories in height, and give employment to some fifty workmen. The ground floor is occupied for storage and heavy goods, and package room; the second story is used for washing bottles, packing room, and general offices, the third story is used for putting up the various preparations; and the fourth story is fitted up for the manufacturer of the celebrated toilet soaps of Cleaver & Sons of England. This firm formerly did a large business in exporting their goods to the United States, but the tariff of that country shut them out and they gradually lost their trade there; they also exported largely to Canada, but the tariff here prevented them from successfully competing with home manufactures, so rather than lose the large business which they had secured, they determined to commence the manufacture of their Soaps in Canada. Two of the brothers came over to this country some time since, and making arrangements with Messrs. Davis & Lawrence, they have erected the necessary machinery and have commenced the manufacture of their Soaps on an extensive scale. The above establishment is under the management of Mr. W. V. Lawrence, who is well and favorably known to the druggist trade throughout Canada.

Amongst the factories visited was the mammoth establishment of Mr. Samuel Davis, the manufacturer of the cable and other choice brands of Cigars which have a world wide reputation. Mr. Davis occupies a seven-story building fronting on McGill Street and running through to Grey Nun St. He gives employment to 250 people, and as an evidence of his excellent management, and the esteem in which he is held by his employees, it may be mentioned that many of his workmen have been in his constant employment for eighteen years, while a large number have been in his employ for over ten years. He gives good wages and consequently commands the best workmen to be found in the Dominion. His specialty is the cable and finer brands of Cigars, of which he manfactures on an average 160,000 a week. His factory is a model of neatness, order and discipline, is well lighted and ventilated, and is furnished with every requirement for the convenience and comfort of those in his employ. The Hon. Mr. Tilley and Hon. Mr. Baby, who recently visited and inspected the factory, pronounced it the best regulated establishment of the kind in the Dominion. Mr. Davis took prizes and medals and diplomas at the great exhibition of 1867, at the Centennial exhibition in 1876, and has any number of Provincial Medals.

The Rite of Circumcision.

Our Jewish fellow citizens are not so numerous in Belleville that the rite of circumcision is an occurrence which has been rendered out of the list of rarities. In fact, we believe that before this morning there has never been a circumcision which could be called a public rite. A great deal of natural curiosity was therefore felt by many Gentiles to witness this historical and venerable ceremony when it became known that it was about to be performed, and when the many friends and acquaintances of Mr. J. Landsberg received from him an invitation to be present at the circumcision of his first-born son this morning, the invitation was in nearly every instance gladly accepted.

This rite is perhaps the oldest one now practised by mankind. Its history can be traced with certainty back to Abraham, but it probably existed long before his time—not as a religious rite but as a sanitary precaution. It is at present the distinguishing mark of the Jewish nation—the "outward visible sign" and is so recognized by the civilized world; but the Jews are not the only people who practice it. It is still practiced by the tribes of the Amazon, the South Sea Islanders, the aboriginal Australians, the inhabitants of New Hebrides and the Kaffir races of South Africa. Until within the past few centuries it was also practiced in Arabia. The age at which the operation is performed varies in the different races from six to ten. The Arabians performed it at the period of puberty. The Jewish nation, however, in a cordance with the Mosaic law, perform it eight days after birth.

A large number of prominent citizens assembled this morning at 10 o'clock, at Mr. Landsberg's house to witness the ceremony. Among those present were Rev. Dr. Clarke, Dr. Farley, Dr. Eakins, Alex. Robertson, Esq., M.P.P., Messrs. Jas. Macoun, W. Bullen, A. Maclean, T. Lockerty, W. Y. Mikel, S. Rettallack, T. Walters, W. Bradshaw, and many other well known citizens. The ceremony was conducted by Rabbi Rosenberg, of Montreal. It was very simple, the whole ceremony not lasting over ten minutes. The child—a bright-eyed, lively little fellow—was placed in the arms of his father, and held by him while Dr. Rosenberg chanted, in a rich melodious tenor, the Hebrew service. The chant being concluded, the circumcision of the child was then proceeded with, Mr. Landsberg holding the little fellow, while the Rabbi performed the operation. This was done as deftly and quickly as could have been done by the most skilful surgeon. It was only the work of a couple of minutes, and at the end of that time the child was comfortably bandaged up again, and was apparently free from pain. The ceremony of christening the little Israelite was then performed. It consisted merely of another long and melodious Hebrew chant, at the conclusion of which the child was given the name of Solomon Landsberg.

The assembled company then sat down to partake of the wine, cake, fruit and confectionery which had been bountifully supplied by Mr. Lanpsberg, who had also not forgotten to supply the peculiar bread which is partaken of on such occasions. Dr. Rosenberg then explained to the company the history of the rite which had just been observed. He said that the first mention which was made of it in the scriptures was in Genesis XVII, when God made the covenant with Abraham that the rite should be observed "by him and by his seed after him in their generations." It was also mentioned in Exodus IV, 25-26, where Zepporah, Moses' wife, circumcised her firstborn with a sharp stone; and also in Joshua V. 2-9, where it is recorded that Joshua circumcised the children of Israel, in order to "roll away the reproach of Egypt from off" them. Dr. Rosenberg also gave other interesting details which we have not space to enumerate.

Rev. Dr. Clarke was then called on, and expressed his pleasure at being present. He said that a closer friendship should exist between Christians and Jews than had in the past—for did they not recognize the same Jehovah as their God, and take the same Old Testament as their guide? Christianity, he said, was but a development of Judaism. It was Judaism adapted to the spiritual necessities of all mankind. With respect to the rite of circumcision, he said he could conscientiously approve of it as a Christian minister, for Paul, after he had become a Christian, circumcised Timothy, and the rite was observed by the early Christians fully a century after the death of Christ. He claimed to be an Israelite himself—a member of one of the ten tribes, and he confidently looked forward to the time when the Jews would be restored to Palestine and when Jerusalem would be the capital of the British Empire.

After kindly wishes had been expressed for the welfare of the newly-created little Israelite and of Mr. Landsberg and family, the company dispersed.

Prince Edward Assizes.

(From our own Reporter.)

PICTON, 18th Oct., 1880.

The Fall sittings of the Court of Assize and Nisi Prius opened to-day before Mr. Justice Burton.

There are a number of civil cases of the usual nature on the docket, whilst the criminal calendar contains one charge of murder, and another for being accessory thereto.

The business of the Court is conducted by Geo. E. Henderson, Esq., Q. C., while the Belleville bar is represented by Messrs. Wallbridge, Holden, Clute, Dickson, and Simpson.

The streets of the town presented an animated scene to-day, numbers from the surrounding country being in on Court business, whilst a goodly array of strangers taxed the capacity of the various hotels to the utmost; in fact there is not a sufficiency of accommodation for them, and private houses are patronized as a last resource.

Of course the all-absorbing topic of conversation is the so called Consecon homicide which occurred on Sunday, 18th May last, at Pierson's Point. As is usual, speculation in regard to such a case is very varied, and the approach of the trial is anxiously awaited.

A rumor was current on the street to-day that the girl Catherine Vincent, who so conspicuously figured in this affair, had been spirited away, but this has turned out to be untrue, as she is in town.

The central figure in this sad case is Thomas Thompson, who since the finding of a verdict of wilful murder by the Coroner's jury, has been confined in the county jail here. James S. Pierson was also implicated as an accomplice and committed to prison with Thompson, but was subsequently released on bail. John Amans was the victim of the tragedy and Catharine Vincent was a conspicuous figure in it. All the witnesses in the case are, it is said, already here, as also are some of the relatives of the murdered man.

The case is set down for hearing to-morrow, but the hour of its commencement has not been definitely settled upon, as something may intervene to prevent its opening when the Court convenes in the morning. The evidence of the girl will be very lengthy, and as there are several witnesses to be examined, the case will probably occupy the attention of the Court during the entire day.

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

Marine.

The schr. H. P. Murray, which left here on Friday last with rye for Walkerville, arrived at Port Dalhousie on Monday, minus her boom and foretopmast, which were carried away outside the piers.

The propellor Lake Michigan, with a cargo of railroad iron sunk in eleven feet of water about 12 miles west Brockville on the 18th inst.

The schooner Wells foundered off North Chicago on Saturday night. The crew have not been heard from and are supposed to have perished.

The schr. Parthenon, which went ashore at Wellington about ten days ago, is still there. Her cargo of coal has been discharged, and the captain is having her hauled out upon the beach, upon temporary ways, by means of chains and pulleys.—Kingston Whig.

It is reported that a vessel is ashore at Bald Head Point, near Prosque Isle. No particulars have been ascertained.—Ib.

To replace the steamer Hastings on the Bay of Quinte route, for the balance of the season, and enable Mr. C. F. Gildersleeve to fill excursion engagements, he has purchased the steamer Hero, a boat about the size and speed of the Maud. Capt. Crawford and crew of the steamer Hastings have left for Montreal (out of which the boat has been running) to take command and charge and bring her to Kingston. She cost $7,000, but is worth considerably more.—Ib.

MISSIONARY WORK.—The annual meeting of the Central Board of Missions in connection with the Methodist Church of Canada, is now being held in Montreal. This Board reviews the entire mission field of the Church, which embraces the several provinces of the Dominion, Newfoundland and Japan, and appropriates about $160,000 annually for the support of the work. It was directed that the appropriation be made on the following basis: Salary for a married minister $750, for a single ordained minister $400, for an unordained minister $350 per annum, these amounts to be exclusive of house rents, moving expenses and claims on the children's fund. Should the amount of money at the disposal of the Board not be sufficient to reach these figures, a percentage will be struck off the appropriations, as the Society is resolved to keep the expenditure within its income.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 20.

3 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

For Manitoba.—Rev. E. P. Hammond and wife and his Secretary, Dr. Edward Griswold, leave for Manitoba the latter part of October.

Workingmen.—The Workingmen's Temperance Association purpose holding an open meeting in their new Hall, Robertson's Block, next Tuesday, the 26th inst. Further particulars will be given hereafter.

Osborne's Comedy Company.—As will be seen by advertisement the Osborne Comedy Company play here on the 26th and 27th. The Canadian press speak of them in the highest terms and we bespeak for them a good house here.

Counterfeit Dominion Bills.—A report from Mill Point, says that quite a number of altered one dollar bills changed to four have made their appearance in this vicinity. The alteration is clumsily made; still it might deceive the uninitiated.

To-Night.—Mr. Power's company will to-night present for the first time before a Belleville audience the highly successful comedy "Dr. Clyde." It will be well worth seeing, as great success has attended its production in Toronto, Montreal and elsewhere.

Light Weight.—During a trial of parties in Toronto for having illegal weights in their possession, it was proved that one weight every time it was used detracted 64 lbs. in 400 lbs., which was lost by the buyer. The scales were also wrong. On the 4 lb. weight 10 oz. 4 drams were wanting. No wonder such dealers are kicking against the Inspection Act.

Belleville Legal Literary Society.—The next meeting of the Society will be held at the office of Messrs. Flint and Jellett this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock. The following are the subjects for discussion: 1st. Debate—Resolved that the action for breach of promise of marriage should be abolished. Affirmative: Messrs. McMahon and Drewry; negative: Messrs. Northrup and Badgley. Second—A man sues on an account, declaration on common counts. Defendant pleads (1) never indebted, (2) payment into court. Plaintiff moves to strike out first plea. Henderson in support of summons, Hastings contra.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.—This favorite pathetic drama will be presented in the Metropolitan Hall on Saturday afternoon and evening by Anthony & Ellis' Ideal Company, of whose performance the Pittsburg, Pa., Evening Leader says:—"We can heartily commend Anthony & Ellis' Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin as well as every-one at the Opera House last evening, as one of the very best moral entertainments that has ever been presented to this community. There is not a word, or jesture, or picture, or sentiment that is not pure, chaste, elevating and satisfying. It is a grand picture of moral beauty and vivid portrayal of virtue among the lowly and oppressed. Saint or sinner cannot help to be improved by witnessing its performance and gazing on its scenes of bewildering, splendor and enchantment."

A Household Perfume.—Every Family able to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

"Humpty Dumpty."—The always popular pantomime "Humpty Dumpty," altered to such an extent as to make it practicably new, will be presented on Friday night in the Metropolitan Hall by Tony Denier's famous company, which is the best in that line in America. From many notices of the press we select the following from the Chicago Tribune; "After a very successful season, Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" company have returned. They opened last night to a filled house. With one or two exceptions the people are admirably suited with parts, and combine to give a good entertainment of its kind. Geo. H. Adams (Grimaldi), the "Humpty Dumpty" might have challenged old Iron Legs himself. His facial expression is good, his pantomime is appropriate, and his agility is remarkable. Miss Ada Boshell is a pretty, graceful, and an active little Columbine, and Mr. W. Eunice fills the bill as Harlequin. The variety portion of the entertainment includes a number of capable people. 'Seats can be secured at Reynolds'.

"The Galley Slave."—This interesting drama was produced in the Metropolitan Hall last evening, for the second time in Belleville. The play was very favorably received on the occasion of its first presentation here a couple of weeks ago, and another large audience was anticipated for last evening; but the audience was moderate as to size. The play was put on the boards in a manner which could not but strike everyone in the audience as being far above the average of travelling companies. None of the performers are great, but all are good; and it is much more satisfactory to a public of passable taste to witness a performance by actors all of good ability than a performance wherein one superb actor or actress holds commerce with a series of sticks, the latter style of company being all too frequent in these days. As we have said, the company which performed "The Galley Slave' last evening is composed of ladies and gentlemen of marked ability in their profession. Miss Ida Lewis as Cicely Blain and Miss Ida VanCourtland as Francessa both show no little power as emotional actresses. In the intensely dramatic scene between Cicely and Psyche, where the former, half wild with anguish, attempts to conceal from Psyche the true cause of her sudden revulsion of feeling, Miss Lewis approached to greatness. Her sudden passionate outburst could not have been excelled even by Clara Morris herself. Miss Palmer deserves considerable praise for her truly artistic portrayal of the airy, feather-brained, piquant, but warm-hearted and shrewd Psyche—a typical American girl. The male characters were hardly as well acted as the female. Norcott, the principal character, was acted by Mr. W. H. Power, who entered heartily into the spirit of the part, and gave, on the whole, an able representation of it. His enunciation, however, was not faultless—for instance, a trick of prolonging the sound of the letter r, which has not a pleasing effect. Mr. W. H. Cooper's Baron Le Bois was good, but would have been better had he spoken his lines less rapidly. Mr. John Ward's Franklin Fitts was the best acted of the male characters. It was acted with all the broad humor and the abandon which have made Mr. Ward a great Belleville favorite. Oliphant, the "Scotch Croesus," a character of a more quiet humorous type than the buoyant Fitts, was well taken by Mr. J. I. Davidson, although his speech was innocent of any Scotch brogue. The minor characters were all well filled.—This evening the comedy "Dr. Clyde" will be produced by the same company. This play is said to be an exceedingly laughable one, and it will without doubt be acted in such a manner as to satisfy the most insatiate appetite for humor, as well as gratify a critical taste.

Over Coats for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. Jas. Hennessy.

Midland vs. Grand Junction

The Difficulty not yet Settled—Work on the New Line Progressing rapidly

The Peterborough Review of the 19th says: The workmen employed on the Grand Junction are busily engaged, and are making a first class job of the track laying and ballasting as far as Downer's Corners, at least. The track has been laid from Ashburnham across the bridge, and to the point where they formerly intended to make a junction with the Midland. As the latter company will not allow them to run on their track, they have bought the right of way from the property owners on the east side of the Midland and parallel with it. They have not yet crossed the bridge into Peterborough, although the track has been laid for two days.

The Globe of the 20th adds:—"The dispute, which has caused quite a ripple of local feeling, seems to be now in a fair way for a peaceful settlement. Yesterday Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot enlarged till to-day the application of the Grand Junction for an injunction against their rivals pending negotiations over terms of settlement proposed by Mr. Blake as counsel for the Midland."

Trenton Notes.

A mason named Heagle, well-known and much respected here, died yesterday afternoon, from the effects of a cold which was brought on by working in the water, at the pier of the new swing bridge.

The receipts of grain from Prince Edward and Murray, were very large to-day.

This evening the band car used for loading the vessels at Coons' elevator, ran off the track into the bay twice, carrying with it each time sixty bushels of barley, which was entirely lost.

Montreal Enterprise in the West.—The Montreal Witness of the 18th says:—Campbellford on the River Trent in Northumberland County, Ontario, wants the Messrs. Gault Brothers, of this city, to start a woollen factory, and a partner of that firm informed a Witness reporter to-day that they were willing to build a factory in Campbellford, provided they met with sufficient encouragement, from the people there, intimating that the municipality should grant bonus of $10,000. The firm would then build the mill of sufficient capacity to employ from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five hands. The work could hardly be commenced this fall, he said, as the season was so far advanced. The people of Campbellford are represented as being only too anxious that the factory should be proceeded with, and in case of the bonus being granted work will be commenced early in the spring. Mr. Joseph Keeler, M.P., is also about starting a paper mill at Campbellford, to manufacture printing paper.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nashwalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

Prince resigns his place as Warden of the Central Prison and takes the place of Registrar of Wellington, and Mr. Massie, the present Registrar, takes the Warden's office.

Loss of the Alpena.

EIGHTY LIVES LOST.

Despatches from Holland, Mich., leave it no longer in doubt that the steamer Alpena has gone down with all on board. She left Grand Haven on Friday night for Chicago with freight, sixty passengers and a crew of about twenty-five. Wreckage has come ashore near Holland which shows that she is certainly wrecked. No bodies have yet been found. The Alpena was built at Marine City, Mich., in 1866, and was valued at $40,000. She was rated at A 2, and was owned by the Goodrich Transportation Co., of Chicago.

Along the beach for a distance of five miles are strewn large quantities of freight, also a portion of the upper deck, stanchians, and rail gang planks and hatches. One door panel with the name of the steamer Alpena, also two life-preservers, one oar and a chair marked with a stencil, "Steamer Alpena," and a piano also came ashore during the night, which is recognized as belonging to the Alpena. The body of a lady came ashore this morning, recognized as that of Mrs. Bradley. Capt. Butler, of the Goodrich line, has just arrived at the wreck, and watchmen are patrolling the shore watching for wreck and bodies. The wind has gone down, but the sea is running heavy. Small pieces of the cabin, upper-deck furniture and berths are coming ashore.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The excitement and suspense which has been hourly increasing for three days respecting the fate of the Alpena, has been changed to profound sorrow. The offices of the Goodrich line were filled yesterday with mournful faces. It is not deemed possible that any person is saved from the wreck. Some believe the vessel struck a rock somewhere off the east shores and went to pieces a considerable distance from the beach. There is much complaint at the Company having no list of passengers. It was stated that when the vessel left Muskegon she had 70 passengers and took five at Grand Haven, mostly women. Goodrich thinks, however, the passengers did not exceed 25 or perhaps 20.

Grand Haven, Mich, Oct. 19.—The passengers on the Alpena as far as learned were W. S. Berham, editor of the Grand Haven Herald and wife; W. Crossing, Miss B. F. Curtiss, and Capt. H. V. Squier of Grand Haven; Mrs. Bradley and two daughters of Santefe; Mrs. A. B. Cole, Illinois, sister of an agent of the Goderich line; H Flocke, of New York. The Rev. Farrel Hart and wife, Whitepigeon, Mich.; Mr. Rider, agent of the Glass Works, Syracuse; Jno. J. Bow, ex-Steward of the Alpena; Jno. Osborn, wife and three children, Chicago; Maggie Mack, ex-Stewardess of the Alpena; N. A. McGilvray, St. Joseph, Mich.; a man with three children, name not known; C Kusterer, Fred. Spareth and G. Hattinger, Grand Rapids; and L. Landreth, Muskegon. The following are supposed to have been on the Alpena:—L.D. Peyton, New York; Harry L. St. Clair, Chicago; W. C. Pettibone, Chicago; Bob Linsley, scrap iron buyer, Chicago.

FROM STIRLING.

Another Fatal Accident.

Stirling, Oct. 20.—An accident occurred this morning in this village, which resulted in the death of Thomas Lynn, an old gentleman about 60 years of age. He was in the village storing his grain, and after having done so, and while on his way out of the village, the waggon came in contact with a post, throwing him out on his head and killing him instantly. He leaves a family, the most of whom are of age.

MORNING DESPATCHES

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—The railroad war was quiet yesterday. With the exception of all unlimited tickets being withdrawn the situation was unchanged. It has been decided to cut rates to all eastern points, and all eastern points will be brought into the fight.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—The excitement in Railway circles is becoming less, although cutting continues. Yesterday all the unlimited ticket sales were discontinued, partly because it is discovered the successful forgeries of such tickets has been practised. All the roads have reduced the fare from Chicago to St. Louis to one dollar, or $3 for the round trip, for three days.

New York, Oct. 20.—Arrived the Malabar and Algeria from Liverpool.

Detroit, Oct. 20.—Vessels are beginning to arrive from above. The storm was less severe on Lake Huron than was feared. The harbor of refuge at Sand Beach was full of vessels for the past four days. No disasters are reported on Lake Huron.

From Frankfort, on Lake Michigan, comes tidings of the total loss of the schooners J. H. Hartzell and Hope, the former loaded with iron ore, the latter with provisions. The Hartzell's stewardess perished in the rigging, the rest of the crew were saved. The Hopes' crew are safe.

The schooner Eclipse is also ashore near Ludington. Crew safe.

Several vessels are reported aground at St. Clair flats. Vessels are however, moving freely in all directions.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—Lower Lakes, increasing southerly to westerly winds, unsettled weather, with rain to-night, higher temperature.

Santa Fe, U. S., Oct. 20.—Marshall Meis, in search of road agents, was fired at by five of them without effect, he returned the fire, killing one; the rest fled.

All the officers of the western union Telegraph Company were elected yesterday.

The drouth this season exceeds anything, since the construction of the Croton aqueduct. The citizens have been cautioned to use water sparingly.

London, Oct. 20.—The Government received a telegram from the Government of Greece, notifying it that inasmuch as Greece had failed to obtain any support from the powers in rectifying her frontier; she will occupy Thessaly alone.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, Oct. 20.—The weather this morning was cold. It is snowing. Oarsman Riley has entered for the American prize

A Bucharest despatch says that trust-worthy intelligence from Bordeland between Macedonia and Albania, represents the christians ripe for revolution. Bulgarians and Mussulmen are armed. Assassinations on both sides are common. Anarchy reigns supreme.

Alfred Henry Thesiger, Lord Justice of the Court of Appeals, is dead, aged 42.

The Globe learns that the quantity of fire arms sent into Ireland from the continent greatly exceeds the official estimates.

A correspondent at Dublin says about a dozen land meetings are preparing for Sunday. Violent resolutions passed by Orange Lodges in condemnation of the land agitators attract much attention.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Indication, lower lake: partly cloudy, occasional light snow, stationary or higher temperature.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS

Intelligencer Office,
Belleville, Oct. 20. 1880.

The grain market during the week has been somewhat excited, prices, especially of rye, having varied materially from day to day. To-day there was a good rush in the morning, and Barley sold at from 45 to 63c—the latter an outside price, the highest price generally paid being 62c. Rye was firm at from 88c. to 90c., one lot of a few bags going as high as 92c., owing to the very strong feeling which prevails amongst buyers. The crop is a failure in Germany, and there is a good demand for distilling purposes, much of that purchased being forwarded to Walkerville near Windsor. Other grains are but little dealt in, the rates remaining at about our quotations.

Provisions, &c., are in good supply and without change.

To-day's prices are as under:

Wheat—$1.00 to $1.10.
Barley—55c. to 60c.
Rye—88c. to 88c.
Oats—32c. to 00c.
Peas—60c.

THE CANADA

CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines

VERY LOW COST OF THE PROPERTIES.
EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company, 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

By-Law No.

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE RAISING BY WAY OF LOAN OF THE SUM OF NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE PURPOSES THEREIN MENTIONED AND FOR THE ISSUE OF DEBENTURES OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE THEREFOR.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say:—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Rolls of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand and one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held.

In Foster Ward, in the building occupied by John Covert, on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and that John Covert be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

In Samson Ward, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and that Francis Clark be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

In Ketcheson Ward, in the Shop occupied by William Robertson on the South side of Campbell Street, and that George Adams be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Ketcheson Ward.

In Baldwin Ward in the No. 2 Fire Engine shed on West Front Street, and that Richard Taylor be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning officer for said Baldwin Ward.

In Bleecker Ward in the shop occupied by Mrs. Eaves, South Mill Street, and that John Northcott be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Bleecker Ward.

In Coleman Ward in the house of D. C. Curtis, North Front Street in Coleman Ward, and that D. C. Curtis be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Coleman Ward.

In number seven division Murney Ward in the house of Edward Deacon, Murney Street in said number seven division, and that John Bull be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number seven division in Murney Ward.

In number eight division Murney Ward in the building known as Spongs, South Bridge Street, and that Peter Maybee be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number eight division in said Murney Ward.

Be it further enacted, that the Clerk of the Council for the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville, shall attend at the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on Thursday the Fourth day of November, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, to proceed to sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-Law, in accordance with the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

EXTRACT FROM THE 'MAIL,' TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Prem ses for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he inyariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c, which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

Benjamin's Wife.

BY MRS. C. M. LIVINGSTON.

CONTINUED.

Benjamin was no fortune hunter; he was hard at work in his profession, with no other ambition directly before him but to get together a humble home to which he might take his mother; he intended to surprise her as soon as his income would at all warrant it. As John Milton when he met Mary Powell fastened his eyes earnestly upon her, knowing that he had found "Mistress Milton" so Benjamin, the first Sabbath he took a class in the mission Sabbath school, and found himself near neighbor to a sweet faced young teacher, knew that no other face in all the world could so closely resemble the ideal picture he had sketched of that dim shadowy far off person, his wife.

Marian Leyard, too, would not willingly have confessed with what a thrill of pleasure she noticed the young stranger was in his place again on the following Sabbath, nor how for a time she searched diligently through every assembly for that one face that had such strange power to attract her; in no place, though, did she happen to meet him except that one, where there was no opportunity for acquaintance.

Benjamin had fully resolved to seek her out; but learning that she was an orphan, who possessed a large fortune in her own right, he was too proud to be counted one of the moths that flutter about a candle, so he made another resolve, to think no more about her, which stoical purpose was not easy to carry out, especially as the blue eyes were often meeting his, much to the discomfituret of their owner. The coveted opportunity came at last. The holidays brought the annual entertainment for the children, and under the friendly boughs of the Christmas-tree the acquaintance begun and progressed remarkably fast. It was not strange, either, considering that each had been in the other's thoughts constantly for the last three weeks. They walked home in the moonlight, wondering at the singular beauty that crowned the earth. The tell tale eyes of each must have revealed the secret to the heart of the other, for usual preliminaries, formalities, windings and turnings of a modern courtship seemed unnecessary; the two drifted together as naturally as fleecy, white cloud in the blue sky. He forgot that she was worth half a million; and what did she care that he possessed not anything but his own precious self! Had she not enough for both?

Not alone in stocks and bonds were Marian Ledyard's riches. She had been a mere butterfly of fashion and frivolity, absorbed in worldly gayeties; but the Lord met her, and she fell at his feet, saying, "What wilt Thou have me to do?" And she had eagerly, unreservedly followed the world: so now she gave herself up body, soul, time and wealth, to the service of the Lord; and she was far more sweet and fascinating in her joyful abandonment to her blessed Master's service than ever she had in the service of that other master. She was that rare combination—a young, wealthy, consecrated Christian.

"Now, mother," wrote Benjamin, "just as soon as we are married, which will be very soon, you are to come to us. Marian says she remembers her own dear mother, and has been lonely without her these many years." This was no welcome news to the weary mother; had it been dear Benjamin slone that she was to live with, how she would have hailed her deliverance; but another son's wife! How could she face her, and be dependent on her? It would be her house and her money that provided everything. She would feel like a beggar, she was sure. She could by no stretch of imagination conceive of a son's wife to be other than a person to be dreaded. She spent many sleepless nights over it, and shed tears in secret. Her triumphant faith was never more tried than now.

It may be that in some far-off day, by means of some wonderful instrument yet uncreated, our eyes shall look upon our friends separated from them by long distances, shall know their comings and goings, their thoughts and motives. Being not possessed of any such power, Mother Kensett vexed her soul in one city while in another two young people, happy as birds, held long consultations as to which should be mother's room, just how it should be furnished, and ran here and there with the eagerness of children gathering moss and bits of china, and all rare and pretty things for a play-house under the trees.

Marian's ancestral home had been closed for a long time. It was a stately mansion, of wide halls and towers and spacious apartments, surrounded by magnificent grounds. During the last few months it had been remodelled and refurnished; and now the young couple, after a brief bridal tour, were fairly established in it.

One might suppose that Mrs. Kensett would have felt some risings of pride, as she mounted the marble steps and walked through the wide halls and beautiful parlors, on soft, rich carpets, luxurious chairs and curtained windows that spead their drapery about them in soft folds of rare lace; and yet their parlor was dark and unused as the tombs; and the hearts in that home were as cold as the glitter of the silver on the sideboard. Rich people were all alike in her mind. Wealth had come to be another name for pride, selfishness and irreligion generally. Mother Kensett looked about her, expecting a tall cold, lady, in a stiff silk train, to sweep in and extend the tips of her fingers, then call a servant to get her off to her room—a room full of warmth and light, with the tea-table already spread and a delicate, home-like aroma of toast and tea pervading it, most refreshing to the travellers.

A slight girlish figure in a simple dress of dark blue, her bright hair rippling away into a knot behind, was bending over the grate toasting a piece of bread by the coals. So noiselessly had they approached that she heard no sound until they stood before her.

Mrs. Kensett was still looking for Benjamin's wife, an imposing looking person with eye glasses, when two arms were clasped tightly about her neck, and bestowed kisses—not one conventional kiss, but one, two, three, unmistakably genuine articles, bearing the mystic stamp, that can be known and not described.

Prince Edward Assizes.

(From Our Own Reporter.)

PICTON, 19th Oct., 1880.

HENRY, et al, vs. CHURCH.—A somewhat novel and very interesting case, in which the parties to it and the witnesses as well are well known in Bellville, occupied the attention of the court the greater part of the day and evening. It arose in this way:—One Peter D. Lawrence moved on a farm in the first concession of the Township of Ameliasburg about thirty years ago. The property was composed of the west half of lot 64 and the east half of lot 65, and is situated a short distance west of Ferry Point. At as early a period as this Lawrence was afflicted with lunacy, and this ailment appears to be hereditary in the family. Lawrence was a married man at this time and became the father of four children, two sons and two daughters. His lunacy remained as long as life lasted, though at certain times it did not assume a violent character. Three years ago, the old man, who had become well advanced in years, passed away. However, in 1871, he divided his land between his two sons, and bestowed upon the daughters the sums of $400 and $300 respectively, which sums were secured by notes made by the boys. In 1875, Andrew, the eldest of the sons, was killed by lightning, and as he died without issue, unmarried and without a will, his one half of the will reverted to his father. In the following year the father conveyed to one of his daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Church, that part of the farm which had been deeded to Andrew, and she gave to her sister, Mrs. William Henry, a mortgage for $1,350, and thus was the estate divided. The action was brought to invalidate the deed of 1871, by reason of the insane condition of the old man, the grantor, whilst the defence contended that Lawrence had lucid intervals, and that during one of such periods he had made the deed which this action sought to break.

There was a small array of witnesses examined and all gave evidence as to the mental condition of the old man, who, so his neighbors and acquaintances conceded, was out of his mind. At one time he imagined he was extensively engaged in the tea trade in China and was going to supply the demands of the whole country. At another time he was "monarch of all he surveyed," for he asserted he owned Ferry Point, Rednerville and the intervening country. He was also engaged in the insurance business, for the St. Lawrence Insurance Company had been organized and named after him. By way of diversion he would pull down a stone fence on his property only to rebuild it again and again. He also had some quaint notions with regard to stump fences, and could put up goodly distances of the same in almost incredible periods. He had but a slight desire for the use of wearing apparel, as not unfrequently he appeared in an almost nudestate with a straw girdle encircling the top of his pants, and ofttimes would he go about the neighborhood barefooted and bareheaded. These are but some of the many vagaries in which he indulged, but the other side of the story presents a brighter face, as at times he would converse quite rationally with any one, and would work and attend to his duties on the farm in a perfect manner. He would also speak about his family, and to some he remarked on the disposition he intended to make of his property. Frequently would he go out upon the read in front of his house and shout after passers-by, but if any one stopped to have a chat with him he would talk good-naturedly and pleasantly with them. Insanity was therefore the essence of the suit, the witnesses for the plaintiff favoring that theory strongly, and with the evident demonstration that it really was so, whilst the defence rested their case on the lucid interval theory. The remarks of some of the witnesses frequently caused great merriment, in which even the members of the bar joined. The medical witnesses for the plaintiff doubted, disputed and denied the theory of the defence, whilst the medical representative of the case approved and endorsed it. The court room was filled during the trial of this issue, and the testimony—especially that of the medical witnesses—was very attentively listened to. At the conclusion of the hearing, his Lordship instructed the jury to bring in a sealed verdict, and the court then rose.—G. D. Dickson and R. C. Clute for pl'ff; Hon. L. Wallbridge, Q.C. for deft.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

To vary the above scene, the proceedings were temporarily stopped to allow the Grand Jury to report. This they did by handing in seven true bills for various charges against various parties, but the most serious offence was sheep stealing, and three true bills were presented against Wm. Henry Hiller, who stood up in the dock and pleaded guilty to each. Sentence in his case was not pronounced and he was led back to the cells.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical columns of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

A Reply.

Says the Ottawa Free Press :—"The Belleville INTELLIGENCER daily publishes what it calls 'N. P. Notes' which are very characteristic of the N. P. They are all, or nearly all pitched in the future tense. Somebody is continually going to do great things, one time it is a foundry, another time a cotton factory, or a paper mill. Having gone on in this way for a long time, our contemporary would do well to drop the prophetic and let us know how many of all the big schemes it has announced have become accomplished facts." Had the Free Press consulted our columns as closely with reference to the carrying out of projected enterprises as to the mention of the projects when mooted, it would not now need to seek for information. Its question, however, is worthy of an answer which is: About five hundred times as many projected enterprises have been carried into effect as of the Grit prophecies that the N. P. would ruin the country. If this answer be not satisfactory, let our contemporary "drop the prophetic and let us know how many of all the predictions of evil to the country from the present tariff have become accomplished facts."

ENGINEER'S CONVENTION.—The seventeenth annual convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers assembled at Montreal on the 20th inst. There was a large attendance from all parts of the continent. On the platform were Messrs. M. H. Gault, M. P., Thos. White, M. P., M. P. Ryan, M. P., Ald. Gilman, acting Mayor, Rev. A. J. Bray, J. McShane, P. M. Arthur, Grand Chief Engineer, T. S. Ingraham, First Grand Assisting Engineer and Mr. B. Fletcher, Second Grand Engineer. Rev. Mr. Bray gave an address of welcome, and speeches were made by other gentlemen. Mr. Arthur, the Grand Chief Engineer of the Society, said that during the past year 480 members had been added to the Insurance Association, and the 12 years of the Society's existence, nearly a million and a half of money had been paid to families, the heads of which had been cut off by death. One of the great duties they owe to their families was to protect them from the uncharitable public. He urged all to become members of the order and to make themselves familiar with the rules and regulations contained in the constitution. The master purpose of a true man's life was to be useful to others. Said he, "Keep your minds pure and all your actions right, and all good will follow."

When a statement to this effect is signed the re-union takes place, and the boys celebrate the event.

PRINCE EDWARD ASSIZES

The Pierson Point Homicide

THOMPSON AND PIERSON IN THE DOCK.

Discharge of the Latter.

(By Our Own Reporter.)

PICTON, 20th Oct., 1880.

A cold and uninviting atmosphere and a raw and penetrating wind did not seem to deter the curiously inclined this morning from presenting themselves, as the rattle of the buggy and carriage as they were driven through the streets attested. Vehicles of various descriptions, well filled with human freight, began to arrive soon after sunrise, and the hotel yards were largely patronized even before the hour of the opening of the court. On the street people gathered in clusters engaged in animated conversation, whilst the reading rooms of the taverns had their assemblages all engaged in busy talk. Before nine o'clock the street leading to the Court House was well peopled with persons bending their steps towards the county hall of justice. The ruralist mingled with the town resident in the corridors of the building, whilst the legal luminary with bag in hand plodded along up the stairs to the apartment reserved for him. Within the room was a dense crowd even before the opening. Talking was loudly indulged in and an occasional laugh could be heard even above the talk and the opening and closing of the doors. Gradually the crowd enlarged until standing room was at a discount and many were reluctantly obliged to leave the building unable to obtain admission.

Without the exterior dividing line was a sea of anxious faces representing all classes of the community, whilst the space immediately within was filled with grand and petit jurors. The inner circle contained the Clerk of the Court, the members of the bar, the representatives of the fourth estate and a few lesser officials of th county judiciary, whilst the Sheriff occupied a seat in a box reserved for his especial benefit and use. On each side of the room stood a constable with a long staff surmounted with a large ball ornamented with painting and gilding, and reminding one of the days of chivalry. By degrees the atmosphere of the room became warmer and decidedly unpleasant. The windows were lowered as a remedy, but without any benefit of moment. The loud talk went on, calls of "put up the windows" were made, a perfect babel of voices raged until the cry of "keep quiet" and the entrance of the judge hushed all into silence and the Court opened with the time honored ceremonies. Loud talk soon again went on and the Sheriff had to threaten to clear the room ere proper order was restored. Then followed the rendering of the verdict recorded last night succeeded by the entrance of Patrick Feeley, who pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of obstructing the Prince Edward County Railway. He, however, attracted but momentary notice, as the two more important prisoners were ushered in by the officers and placed in the dock. The Grand Jury came in with "nothing to present," and Mr. Henderson announced that the trial of the prisoners Thompson and Pierson, for the murder of John S. Amans, would begin.

A jury composed as follows was then empannelled: Robert Pearce, Angus W. Harrison, William A. Glenn, William Cumming, Montalbert Werden, Caleb Benson, William Walker, Thomas McKibbon, jr., Norman Ostrander, Alexander Hicks, Jehiel Sheppard, Samuel J. Barker.

Ten jurors were challenged on behalf of Thompson, eleven by the counsel for Pierson, and five stood aside at the instance of the Crown's prosecutor.

The jury were all sworn with the exception of the last named, who, being a Quaker affirmed

The prisoners looked intently at each jury-man as he was called, and watched each action of the counsel. The discarded jurymen with few exceptions, returned thanks for their release from an unpleasant duty, silence was called occasionally, subdued talking was persisted in and thus the proceedings went on. The indictment was again read by the Clerk of the Court, charging the prisoners Thomas Thompson and James Pierson, with the murder of John S. Amans, on the 15th of May last, and the pleading that each had made, that of "not guilty," stated:

On the order of the Crown Counsel the witnesses, with the exception of the medical gentlemen, withdrew.

Mr. G. E. Henderson appeared for the Crown: Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q. C., for the prisoner, Pierson, and Mr. G. D. Dickson for the prisoner Thompson.

Pierson's father, well on in years, with a care worn and serious look upon his countenance, had a seat near his son's counsel; a short distance away sat the father and brother of the murdered man, whilst in the seat just within the inner rail Pierson's mother and brother, and Thompson's poor old father placed themselves. Anxiety was plainly depicted on the countenance of each, and the gaze of the onlookers was oft times turned on them.

A full hour was consumed in the selection of a jury, and in the calling of the witnesses for the Crown and defence. The prisoners looked neat, were well dressed, and had arranged their toilets with taste and care.

Mr. Henderson opened the case by stating that it was a serious one, as the lives of the prisoners were in the hands of the jury. A grave responsibility rested upon them in this trial, yet all should do their duty fearlessly, and if that duty were done that was all that would be required.

The parties in the box had heretofore borne a good character; the father of one was an ex-Warden of the County, and the other who was in young Pierson's employ had nothing against him. The facts of the case were briefly that Pierson resided at Pierson's Point, and was a married man; Thompson lived with him and was employed by him at the time of the commission of the murder. The family consisted of Pierson, his wife and child, Thompson and Cassie Vincent and her child; all lived in one house; Amans, the man who was shot, lived near by, had been considered a promising young man and had been well educated, but like others he had been afflicted with outgoings, and eventually became wild and boyish. At the time of this occurrence he was boarding at Baird's Hotel in Consecon, and having had money left him, spent it lavishly. He became acquainted with Miss Vincent, who became the mother of a child by him; he visited her at her father's, and she subsequently removed to Pierson's, about ten days prior to the murder. Amans had visited Pierson's house and remained there all night, before the girl went there. On the morning of the 15th of May Amans was in good health; he left his hotel with a bottle of whiskey, bound for Pierson's. He met some parties on the road there, and gave them a drink. His body was found the next morning, shot through. If a homicide, was proved and the parties who did it discovered, it would rest with the defence to determine whether it was or was not justifiable. On the day preceding the occurrence, the prisoner had been to Wellington, and went home in the evening intoxicated, but drunkenness was no excuse for the commission of this crime. All retired to bed that night, and about an hour afterwards the girl Vincent was awakened by a noise; she slept up stairs, as did Thompson, whilst Pierson and his wife slept down stairs. The girl looked out of the window and saw a man with a pole which he rubbed against the window. She awakened Thompson, who went to the window and asked if John Amans was there. No answer was made and all again retired. The theory of the Crown, the speaker asserted, was that Amans went to see the girl and his child. The noise was repeated again and again and an effort was made to awaken Person, but without avail. Thomson told the girl he had seen Amans go out of the window of the dining room, but this would have to be shown in evidence. Pierson was at length awakened and he and Thompson went to Corry's, on the opposite side of the road, to get a gun. Pierson told Corry, so the evidence would demonstrate, that some one was around his house trying to rob it, and thereupon Corry gave them the gun, which was then unloaded. Pierson and Thompson went home and the former loaded the gun within the house and placed it in the corner of a room from which the shot was fired. Mrs. Pierson and the girl retired together, but later on the former said "there he is again," and jumped up out of bed. The prisoners were down stairs at this time and two of the rooms were lighted. After this a door was opened, the gun was fired and the man was killed. Soon after Thompson came in the room where the girl was, and said "I have shot him"; a light was obtained and the body of Amans was found lying outside. At this time Thompson told the girl that he did not desire to shoot Amans but merely frighten him away from the premises. The prisoner knew that Amans was outside, and that it was he who was shot at. There was no violence used by Amans on this occasion, and therefore the action was not justifiable. The girl saw the body the next morning and avers that after that she saw Pierson crying. The body was left there until morning when they (the prisoners) went to Corry's and told him that a man was "laid out" at his, Pierson's place and that it was John Amans; the prisoners also told others that Amans had been shot, and Thompson had stated that he did not intend to kill Amans but merely to scare him. There was no evidence of expressed malice on the part of Pierson, but that there was on the part of Thompson there was no doubt, for a feeling existed between Thompson and Amans; the law in the premises was read and its various bearings here demonstrated. A Coroner's jury sent Thompson for trial and Pierson was committed by a Magistrate: Thompson was indicted for murder, and Pierson for aiding and abetting, yet the latter might be guilty as well as the former, and of the greater offence.

The witnesses were then called, and the first introduced was an architect;

ANDREW IRVING, who testified that he drew a plan of the premises of Pierson and also those of Corry, on the opposite side of the road. These were shown to his Lordship and jury and explained. Four photographic views oth house and grounds, were also submitted by the counsel for Thompson, and registered.

JOHN BAIRD sworn.—I live in Consecon, and am a hotel keeper; I have been there eight years. Pierson's home is on Pierson's Point, about two and one-half miles from my place. I knew the deceased and the prisoners; I recollect the 15th of May last; it was the last day I saw Amans alive; Amans stopped at my house at different times, and was at that time with me for a week; he had means; Adams visited Pierson's house at different times, for two years before his dea h; I understood that Amans had slept at Pierson's house.

In reply to counsel, His Lordship said the conversations or admissions of either prisoner in the absence of the other, did not prejudice the case of the one who was absent.

Mr. DICKSON, contended that as each prisoner was separately indicted, admissions of the one should not affect the other.

Mr. HENDERSON contended that he had a right to ask questions relative to conversations, even in the absence of one of the accused. The latter's contention was admitted

Witness Continued:—One night Pierson asked Amans to go home, and as the latter delayed, he said to the former that Thompson, who was working out, could get in the house by the same window, through which he, Amans obtained access to the inside; Amans was sober and in good health on the evening of the 15th of May; about nine o'clock that night, he asked me for a bottle of whiskey, which I gave him; he said he was going to Pierson's Point, and was going to the island where his father lived the next day; I next saw his body lying alongside Pierson's house next to the lake; I heard that morning that Amans had been shot; it was about seven o'clock when I saw the body (The position of the body as shown in the plan was pointed out by the witness); I saw the prisoners that morning, but had no conversation with either; I know Cassie Vincent, who lived with her father; she was at Pierson's when I saw the body; Amans held the bottle which I gave him in his right hand under his right shoulder when I saw the body, which was dressed in a tweed suit.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wallbridge:—Amans had no regular business; he did not do much of anything; he drank at my house off and on and his time was on his hands; Amans' house is between six and seven miles from mine.

By Mr. Dickson: When the conversation took place at my house there were present Amans, Pierson and myself; Amans had been a very particular friend of mine; I have made no effort in this case in his behalf; the night after the murder another person and myself tried to identify one another at a distance of thirty feet, but could not.

OWEN DULMAGE:—I live about three miles from Pierson's; I knew Amans and the prisoners; I met Amans on the night of the 15th of May; he asked me if Pierson was home and I answered that he and Thompson had gone to Wellington; he asked me to have a drink; I took it and we separated, he going towards Pierson's and I to Consecon.

By Mr. Wallbridge:—Where I first met Amans was about two miles from Pierson's house.

By Mr. Henderson.—I think that Amans at that time appeared to have been drinking.

By Mr. Dickson.—Amans asked me if Pierson had come home, and I said no.

JAMES CLARK sworn.—I know the prisoner and knew Amans; I have seen the deceased and Thompson together at Pierson's and in Consecon; two or three years before the tragedy Thompson said Amans had slapped him and that he would have revenge if it took ten years to get it; about two or three weeks before Amans' death I was joking Thompson in Pierson's bush about the girl Vincent, and he said it was easy to put Amans on one side; I could not say what he meant by that; I lived in Pierson's house last April and Thompson was there then; I saw Amans at the house occasionally; I have been told by Thompson that Amans crawled through a window of the house by means of a ladder; I heard of the shooting on the morning after its occurrence about half past four; I went to Pierson's for Pierson's horse; I met Pierson and he burst out crying; Pierson told Thompson to tell all about it, and I said I did not want to hear it; Thompson did not speak about it; I said "What you know keep to yourself."

By Mr. Wallbridge.—It was over four years ago when I first heard of the trouble between Amans and Thompson. The expression used by Thompson in regard to Amans meant nothing more than that he could cut him out.

By Mr. Dickson.—I cannot swear to the exact time as to when I heard of the quarrel between Amans and Thompson; in my joking with Thompson about the girl Vincent, no ill-feeling was shown by him; I have not heard of Thompson's being of a bad disposition, and have always known him as a quiet and peaceable man. I had heard that Amans had been forbidden to come to Pierson's, about eight or ten days before the shooting; Pierton told me this.

When the name of CATHARINE VINCENT was called, there was a perfect hum in the court room as the girl walked to the witness box, and she became the cynosure of all eyes. She was mild looking, was neatly dressed, and spoke in a very audible tone. She was sworn, and testified as follows:—I knew Amans, and first met him at Baird's hotel; I also met him at my father's, and once at Pierson's, about a week before his death; I have a baby about fourteen months old (here the witness burst into tears); Amans was the father of my child. On the night of the shooting there were present in Pierson's house Mr. and Mrs. Pierson, her child, Thompson, myself, and my child; Pierson and Thompson had been away to Wellington the preceding day, and came home under the influence of liquor; they returned about nine o'clock; I was at Pierson's about ten days before Amans' death; Amans was there then in the afternoon and remained about half an hour; the relationship that existed between myself and Amans was known to the Piersons; Amans had evidently been at Pierson's before I came there, as his coat was at the house, and he came there after it. When Thompson and Pierson came home, Mrs. Pierson got their supper, which they ate; after a time the members of the household retired, Mrs. Pierson first, Mr. Pierson next, then I followed and Thompson last; about a half hour after I retired I was aroused by a noise; I said "if you don't get out of that I will go down stairs and tell Mr. Pierson"; the noise was at my bedroom window; I got up after it was repeated and called Thompson and said some one was trying to get in my bed room window; Mrs. Pierson came up; Thompson came in, lifted up the window and asked if Amans was there, and called out "Amans, is that you?" no reply was received, but Thompson said "there he goes"; there was a light in my room when Mrs. Pierson brought it; I said I would not sleep there, and Mrs. Pierson told me to go to bed, for no one would trouble me when they knew Thompson slept there; Thompson again came in my room (I had gone to bed again) and said "I see some one;" he went away again and returned and then I heard the parlor window raised; we went down stairs; Thompson went into the parlor bedroom and when he came back he said he saw a man going out; I saw no one going in or out of the parlor bedroom; I was then in Mrs. Pierson's parlor bedroom; Thompson then went and sat on the stairs and afterwards went upstairs and dressed; a noise was next heard at Mrs. Pierson's bedroom window and a man went from there to the stoop as I heard him: he went back to the bed room window again and from that to the wood-house, and once more returned to Mrs. Pierson's bed room window: Pierson was in bed asleep: Thompson went to the door and opened it and said "who are you? what do you want?" and "if you want to stop all night come in and you are welcome, and don't be making a fuss out there all night": after that Thompson came in and laid down on the lounge: another noise was made near the buttery window: Mrs. Pierson told me to call Thompson and I did so, and he replied that there was no use of getting up: another noise was heard on the stoop and then Thompson came in to Mrs. Pierson's room and blew the light out: again Thompson went out and returned and said "I saw a man like Billy Clark and another like Amans outside." I lighted the candle; Pierson was then awakened by Mrs. Pierson and Thompson, the former of whom said there was some one trying to get into the house: he got up, and with Thompson went to the kitchen: each came out with a knife and went through the parlor: Pierson said, "we'll go over to Corry's and get his gun to protect ourselves": they got the gun and came back: Pierson loaded it; they were gone about ten minutes after the gun and then we were alone: Thompson said "we can't hear or see any body": he then went in the dining room: Pierson brought in the gun and said we need not be afraid as "they (the outsiders) know we have a gun, for they have heard me loading it"; he told me to go to bed with Mrs Pierson and he would lie down on the sofa, where the gun was left by Pierson, it could be reached without going into that room; I went to bed and Pierson went in the dining room; I was asleep when Mrs. Pierson jumped over my head and that awakened me; she said "James, he is at my window again"; Pierson was then in the dining room; she smelled smoke and asked her husband and Thompson if they were smoking and the latter said "Yes"; about five minutes after this the gun went off; they (the prisoners) seemed to be in the dining room when the gun went off, after which Thompson came into our bedroom and Pierson came in right after him; Thompson said "By J—— I have shot him"; said I, "Tom, you have'nt"; he replied "by G— I have"; Pierson was by when he said it; Thompson said "Jim, bring the light till I can see who it is"; Thompson and Pierson started out with a candle, but it went out three times; they went out of the dining room door towards where the body lay; there was a light in the bedroom when the shot was fired; afterwards Pierson said they would go to Corry's and see what he had to say about it this was after they saw whose body was outside; they went to Corry's and came back in about ten minutes; they said Corry said to let the body remain and go to Consecon in the morning and tell the Coroner; I was told to go to bed by Mrs. Pierson; I went and laid down on the lounge and Thompson went up stairs; the body remained on the outside until the morning, when I was called by Mrs. Pierson, who called Thompson; the latter cried and wrung his hands; he bade us good bye; both went away and after they left I went and saw the body; I knew it was that of Amans; I was told to go for Mrs. Corry, but did not as she came; so did James Clark, who was after Piersen's horse and buggy; Thompson and Pierson came back and the former said "I knew it was Amans when I shot for I saw him kneeling on one knee and I fired over his head in trying to scare him, but he rose at the time I fired." I am pretty sure that he told me that; I saw the gun the next morning on the stoop; the impression made on my mind by the noise was that the person outside did not want to break in, but to get in; from what light there was at the time I would think that Thompson, knowing Amans as well as he did, would be able to recognize him.

The Court here rose for twenty minutes —At the resumption of the case the room was as densely crowded as it was in the morning and the interest taken in its progress was seemingly as great as then. The witness again took the stand was cross examined by Mr. Wallbridge; and testified as follows: Mrs. Pierson had said to Amans "Do not come here, or I will lose my girl;" I understood from that that he was not to come to the house any more; I made no appointment with Amans to come that night; it was about eleven the first interruption in front of my window took place; I went to bed about half-past ten; I spoke in answer to the first noise and when the pole was pushed against my window I got out of bed and called for Thompson; it was the noise made by me that brought Mrs. Pierson to my room: I did not hear any noise as if made by some one who had got inside the house; I spoke to Thompson about the noise made by the raising of the parlor window; Thompson at this time appeared scared; I did not hear the window that had been shoved up pushed down; the door leading from the dining room had not been tried by the person outside; I suppose they got the knives to protect themselves. The night of the shooting was cloudy.

The further testimony of this witness did not disclose any new features in connection with the case, and though her cross-examination was both severe and lengthy, lasting as it did until 4 o'clock, she did not swerve, but gave a plain and straight forward story during a stay of five hours in the box. The efforts made to shake her testimony by the Counsel for the prisoner, except on one or two minor points, were [illegible], and to the audience she became a heroine. The evidence of the other witnesses went to show that Thompson's admission to them of having fired the gun was made in such a manner as to leave it understood that he was prompted to shoot in order to frighten some object away from the premises. The constable testified to the finding of the body of the deceased, with an ordinary gin bottle of liquor clasped in his right hand. The body was lying on its face, and he removed the articles from his person. He gave evidence also as to the coroner's inquest, the arrest of the prisoner, and a few minor details of the case. David P. Corey threw no new light on the subject, with the exception that the gun he loaned had been so manipulated at the lock as to go off with much less effort than ordinary guns. Dr. Thornton swore that the inquest was held by him at Consecon, and that he took down the evidence then given; and Dr. Day, of Trenton, testified relative to the post mortem examination. Both of these gentlemen expressed their belief that the death of the deceased was caused by gunshot wounds alone.

The Crown here rested its case

Mr. Wallbridge hereupon arose, and on behalf of the prisoner Pierson, submitted that there was no case to go to the jury, as no testimony had been adduced that would directly implicate his client.

Mr. Henderson demurred to this, and after some argument His Lordship concurred in the view taken by the former, and recommended the acquittal of the prisoner Pierson.

This was accordingly done by the Jury, and he was discharged to the personal satisfaction to himself, the delight of his wife and the great joy of his father and mother. His friends immediately surrounded him and tendered their hearty congratulations.

The Court then adjourned. The jury were left in charge of an officer of the court for safe keeping until the resumption of the case to-morrow morning, when the evidence for the defence in Thompson's case will be presented.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 21.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

The Cells.—There was but one inmate of the cells last night—a prisoner.

The Rifle.—The last match of the Hastings Rifle Association prize meeting will take place to-morrow, when the 49th Battalion challenge cup will also be competed for.

Venison.—Seven of the eight deer which were shot by Messrs. Corby, Burdett, Baker, Thompson, Lingham and Walker, in their recent expedition to the backwoods, arrived yesterday and were delivered at Mr. Thomas' butcher shop, where they were dressed and cut up.

A Rush.—There was a great rush of grain yesterday. So numerous were the farmers' teams that congregated in the vicinity of the market that the police were obliged to regulate the press by standing on the corner of Front and Bridge Streets and directing the drivers whither to proceed.

Entertainment. — An entertainment consisting of readings, music, instrumental and vocal, will be given in the College Chapel to-morrow evening, Friday, Oct. 22nd, in aid of the funds of the University M. E. Church. The Reception room of the College will be open for a short time at the close of the entertainment.

Mechanics' Institute.—As special attention will be paid to the subjects in English by competent teachers, commencing the first Tuesday in November, a rare opportunity will be afforded to all desirous of improving themselves. See advertisement in a few days. Parties wishing to join will please hand in their names to the Secretary.

Bridge Street Sewer.—A number of excavations have been made on Bridge Street, between Pinnacle Street and the bridge, for the purpose of allowing the cleaning of the sewer, which had become stopped up. The consequence is a considerable interruption of traffic. Had the sewer been properly constructed in the first place, workmen could have entered at its mouth and removed the accumulation of dirt, without any necessity for making excavations on the street.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."—Lovers of amusement and those who do not usually attend theatrical performances as well, are reminded that the great pathetic and moral drama "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be presented at a matinee on Saturday afternoon and in the evening of that day by Messrs Anthony & Ellis' Ideal Company. Minnie Foster, who plays "Topsy" has no superior in the character, whilst all the other parts are ably filled, and the accessories are so complete as to make the performance approach reality as nearly as possible.

"Dr. Clyde."—This new comedy was produced for the first time in Belleville at the Metropolitan Hall last night by Mr. Power's "Galley Slave" company. The play is a comedy which affords to Mr. Ward a good opportunity for showing his powers as a low comedian. He made the most of the chance afforded him, and kept the audience in the best of good humor, roars of laughter at frequent intervals attesting his success in that direction. The other characters were ably filled, and the performance went off to the entire satisfaction of those who witnessed it.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, winds gradually shifting to West or Northwest, cloudy to fair weather with light showers in some localities; stationary or slightly lower temperature.

The Straw Trade.—A brisk trade is now being done in straw in this county and also in Prince Edward. Large quantities are collected, pressed into bales and shipped to Rochester and Albany, N. Y. A very large quantity has been put into export shape in this county, but the shipments thus far have been very limited.

Humpty Dumpty.—Tony Denier's unrivalled pantomime company will be with us again to-morrow night, when a virtually new pantomime under the familiar title of "Humpty Dumpty," will be presented. Mr. Geo. H. Adams, the best clown in America, Miss Boshell, the unrivalled Columbine, and many other popular favorites will appear. It is a certainty that they will have a large audience.

Wants Repairing. — The pump on Bridge Street in front of the Rectory has been out of repair for two or three weeks, as is also the one on Pinnacle Street, near the corner of Dundas Street. Residents of Front Street were seen carrying water this morning all the way from wells on John Street. Whose business is it to see that these pumps are kept in repair? There is plenty of water and a small outlay in putting the pumps in order will be a great public convenience.

Over Coats for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. Jas. Hennessy.

The Railway Difficulty.—The Globe of the 21st says: "As the Grand Junction and Midland Railroad Companies failed to come to an amicable settlement of their dispute yesterday, the application of the former for an injunction against the latter was proceeded with. At the instance of the Grand Junction, the case was enlarged till Tuesday next, the Midland to have liberty meanwhile to enter at all reasonable times on the disputed piece of railroad, construct a switch, and go on a siding."

Death of "Lady Thorn."—This valuable and fast trotting mare died at Rochester N.Y., yesterday morning. She was foaled in the township of Thurlow, was owned by Messrs. O'Brien and McGuire of this city, and had a record of 2:38½ obtained at Toronto. She was in training at Rochester and it is said could trot in 2:20 when her death—the cause of which was not explained—took place. The loss of the mare is a severe one to her owners, as she was a very fleet and valuable animal.

Remenyi.—The sale of seats for the Remenyi concert has been very successful, one hundred and fifty six having been sold up to noon to-day. The great violinist does not, it may be said, confine himself to the strictly classical, as at Chatham he responded to encores with "Old Folks at Home" and "The Campbells are Comin." At Port Hope, in deference to a request, he will play a number of Scotch airs, for many of the oldest and best known of which he expresses the warmest approbation.

A Household Perfume.—Every Family able to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

Missionary Meeting—The missionary service in connection with the C. M. Church; Foxboro, were held last Sunday and Monday, the Rev. O. R. Lambly, of Bleecker Street church of this city, occupied the pulpit on Sunday morning. The following evening a successful meeting was held, the attendance was somewhat limited, but fully enough to make it interesting. The deputation of ministers were the Rev. O. R. Lambly, Rev. Mr. Robertson, of Shannonville, and Mr. Hood, the junior pastor of the Thurlow circuit. The chair being filled by Henry Fenn, Esq., his opening speech was truly becoming one who felt a deep interest in sending the gospel to the remote parts of the continent. After the usual amount of flattery usually indulged in by the ordinary chairman, he called on the Rev. Mr. Robertson, who stated that on account of the meeting being brought off earlier than usual, they were unable to present the report of last year's work. He made a neat and winning speech, paying a fitting tribute to the late Rev. Geo. McDougall, who had laid down his life in the mission fields of the Great Northwest, and whose memory shall last for ages to come; the speaker made an earnest appeal for all denominations to unite and put forth one grand effort to send out active missionaries into this new territory that is rapidly becoming settled up, and to save that country from the unrelenting grasp of scepticism that had already taken hold of the western states, where, instead of Christianity reigning predominant, there flourished the blackest vice. Angels, he said, would gladly engage in preaching a free salvation to all in that new region. He concluded his address with a glowing picture of what the missionary efforts had accomplished in China and Japan, as well as other parts of the world. He was followed by the Rev. O. R. Lambly, who greatly amused his hearers with a comical exordium, immediately after riveting their serious attention, while telling the story of the Captain who never slept, the captain of life's militant hosts; Christ the Captain of the great army both by sea and land. He gave an interesting account of the work done in the lower provinces among the almost impenetrable French. Dwelling upon the work already done in the North West, they were bound to bring under the banner of Christianity the whole country from the rock beaten coast of the Atlantic to the warm beaches of the Pacific, pushing the battle to the very gates of the enemy. How many triumphant death beds have been seen among the red men of the North; The Rev. gentleman is peculiarly adapted for missionary speaking. His whole speech was clothed throughout in the choicest language, carrying the congregation along with him. The junior pastor of the circuit followed in a very short address, after which the choir that had rendered several choice selections through the meeting, sang the Doxology, and the meeting was brought to a close. The collection amounted to $30.16.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nashwalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

London, Oct. 21.—Frenton & Sons, steel manufacturers, Sheffield, have failed. Liabilities £48,000.

Dublin, Oct. 21.—The law officers are preparing information to be filed against the agitators. They state that the trials of 1843, when O'Connell and the leaders of the repeal movement were indicted, will serve as a model for the prosecution.

AMERICAN.

New York, Oct. 21.—It is reported that Hamburg and Alton will be declared in a state of siege, because of the agitation of Socialists.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A Committee has been appointed to formulate the charges laid against Dr. Thomas, which are to be tried before the presiding elder, of Chicago district, within the next six months. The trial is expected to create the widest interest, as it will virtually be a trial of what are or are not doctrines of the Methodist Church. It is understood that Thomas will make an elaborate defence, to the charge of heresy.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The railroad war is losing nothing in activity. The Wabash made 50 cents the rate to St. Louis yesterday, which neither the Illinois Central nor the Alton would meet. At this rate the Wabash must pay at least 50 cts. bridge toll for each passenger it secures. The announcement of the Alton road that it would give cheap rates from Kansas City and St. Louis to principal cities east seems to have caused something of a panic among Wabash officials, for they utterly refused to meet the reduction. The Alton's rate is on a basis $18.25 from St. Louis or Kansas City to New York, previous rate $26.50. Among other cities which are benefitted by the Alton's reduction are Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Detroit. The Alton road claims it can continue the present rate indefinitely. If cutting east goes on it is difficult to see how other roads could keep out of the fight. It is understood that the Wabash is ready to accede to a truce on any reasonable basis.

Bighill, Ky., Oct. 21.—On Saturday a fight occurred between James Abrams and his sons and other parties on one side, and Wm. and Jas. Ratcliffe on the other. Jas. Ratcliffe was killed and his brother fatally shot. One of Abrams' sons was probably fatally struck with a rock. The affair was the result of an old grudge.

Louisville, Oct. 21.—The Grand Lodge of Masons in session here were startled last night by a discovery that A. G. Hodges, Grand Treasurer, is a defaulter to the amount of $7,000. The accused, aged 64, is one of the best known Masons and held office many years.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Ryder of Syracuse, who was reported lost on the steamer Alpena, is here alive. The victim of the disaster, whose name was not heretofore published, was Mrs. Vandecar. Mrs. Peyton, who was reported lost is here. It is supposed that the catastrophe occurred thirty miles from shore, in which case, it was impossible for any person to survive.

New York, Oct. 21.—Yesterday, Cleveland 3; Metropolitans 4.

An agreement was made yesterday by the representatives of the Wabash and Chicago, Burlington and Quincey Companies for a joint building and the use of the Wabash extension through Iowa towards Council Bluffs. The Wabash Company agreed to abandon their plans for extensions west of Missouri river.

The Tribune's Washington special says it is stated that there remains a discrepancy of $18,000 between the account with the soldiers' home rendered by Gen. Butler and those rendered by the associated members of the board.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Indications: Lower lakes, occasional light rain, followed by clear or fair weather; generally lower temperature.

London, Oct. 21.—Arrived out, the Devonia.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Three Catholic priests within the last few weeks joined Pere Hyacinthe.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Much sensation was caused at a military dinner at Evereux, by Duc De Chartres proposing a toast to France and her Government and to the President of the Republic. Legitimists consider this an indirect acceptance by him of the Republic. The Duke in his speech said that in America, where he passed part of his youth, it was customary to give such loyal toasts before all others.

Panama, Oct. 21.—A Santiago correspondent states that Christiancy carried back the following basis for the preliminaries of peace: The belligerent republics will each elect 3 commissioners to confer and discuss conditions of peace to meet in some part of the Peruvian territory occupied by the Chilian army, the United States Ministers to Peru and Chili taking part in the interference as friendly mediators. The National Convention of Bolivia disfranchised Gen. Hilarian Daza for bringing dishonor on the country.

Railway Notes.

The Grand Junction Railway scored number one accident yesterday afternoon, says the Peterborough Review of the 20th. An engine was backing down a number of empty flat cars through Ashburnham, and just after crossing the front street, one of the hind cars struck a lorry that was standing on the track, breaking one of the axles of it and throwing three cars off the rails. None of them were overturned or injured at all, and by the aid of the workmen they were soon placed on the track and proceeded on their way to be loaded with gravel.

The same paper says:—"A Grand Junction train, composed of No. 1 engine and a train of seven flat cars, crossed the bridge last night and entered the town. The employees who were on the train, pronounce the bridge better than any of the new ones, and say it is perfectly safe and secure in every respect. The tracklaying is still going on, but we don't think as many men are at work as before, as we notice a number of them standing around on the street corners and walking up and down the street."

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. Yeomans, Agt.

Mr. P. T. Chase, Simonds, N.B., writes, that he has been afflicted with a cough for a long time, was becoming seated, medical treatment did no good. Tried Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. The first dose benefited him, and he is now perfectly cured.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test Zopesa, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&w1y

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc., for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines

THE UTMOST SAFETY FOR THE CAPITAL INVESTED.
VERY LOW COST OF THE PROPERTIES.
EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company, 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

THE IDEAL.

I think the song that's sweetest
Is the one that's never sung;
That lies at the heart of the singer
Too grand for the mortal tongue,
And sometimes in the silence
Between the day and night,
He fancies that it measures
Bid farewell to the light.

A picture that is fairer.
Than all that have a part
Among the master-pieces
In the marble halls of art
Is the one that haunts the painter
In all his golden dreams,
And to the painter only
A real picture seems.

The noblest, grandest poem
Lies not in blue and gold
Among the treasured volumes
That rosewood bookshelves hold;
But in bright, glowing visions,
It comes to the poet's brain,
And when he tries to grasp it
He finds his effort vain.

A fairy hand from Dreamland
Beckons us here and there,
A when we strive to clasp it
It vanishes into air.
And thus our fair Ideal
Floats away just before,
And we with longing spirits
Reach for it evermore.

After the Battle.

A colored indivdual whose left arm was missing was, yesterday, soliciting a small loan on Griswold street, and in recommendation of himself he stated that he lost his arm after the fight in the Wilderness.

"Was it in the fight?"

"No, sah; it was arter the fight. Dat were a powerful hot time, I tell you. De bulls flew arown' like snow flakes, de cannon roared, and I spected to be killed for a bu'l half day."

"But were you hit?"

"No, sah; I spected to be, but I wasn't."

"But how did you lose your arm?"

"I lost it arter the battle, sah."

"Under what circumstances?"

"Well, sah, all de circumstances I eber heard of was dat I had it cut off wid a buzz saw."

"When?"

"Two years ago, sah."

"And you call this losing your arm after th ebattle of the Wilderness."

"Yes, sah, I'ze hard up, sah, but I doan' want to lie to you. If I'd lost it befor' de battle I'd say so, but it was arter the battle."

"Well, I guess it was." said the man after long pause, and he went down for a dime.

A SHREWD OLD VALET.—The greater part of the stories which relate to the gains and the losses of the gamesters are tragic rather than comic. One which belongs to the category of the latter is reported from Monaco. A certain German baron, belonging to one of the best families in Mecklenburg, was one day so lucky as to gain 300,000 francs. He left the tables, hastened to his hotel, and at once looked up this enormous sum in a cash-box. On awaking next morning what was his dismay to find that it had disappeared, as well as his old valet Jean, who on a hundred occasions had given proofs of his fidelity and his affection for his master. As it was, the baron found himself short of money, and telegraphed to his father for assistance, acquainting him at the same time with his adventure. This was the answer he received:—"Don't disturb yourself. Jean is here with all the money which you think you have lost. He feared that your louis would go the way they had come, and little liking the antiception, he has come here to keep the treasure safe. You come too."

AN IRISH PAUPER AND HIS LEGACY.—At the Ballinasloe Board of Guardians lately the following letter from a pauper inmate named Keough was read:—"My lord and gentlemen,—I humbly beg to state that I have become an inmate of this house for the past two years, and now, having luckily become heir to a sum of 3850*l*, I hope your Board will kindly grant me one pair of shoes and a new silk hat." The application was refused, as the Board considered Keough should refund the cost of his maintenance in the house out of the 3850*l*.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such maryellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water power available nine months in the year and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lot or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

EXTRACT

FROM THE 'MAIL,' TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

This Great Household Medicine ranks amongst the leading necessaries of Life.

These famous Pills purify the BLOOD, and act most powerfully, yet soothingly on the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys,

and BOWELS, giving tone, energy, and vigor to these great MAIN SPRINGS OF LIFE. They are confidently recommended as a never failing remedy in all cases, where the constitution, from whatever cause, has become impaired or weakened. They are wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females of all ages; and as a GENERAL FAMILY MEDICINE, are unsurpassed.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Its Searching and Healing Properties are known throughout the World.

For the cure of BAD LEGS, Bad Breasts

Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers,

it is an infallible remedy. If effectually rubbed on the neck and chest, as salt into meat, it Cures SORE THROAT, Diphtheria, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and even ASTHMA. For Glandular Swellings, Abscesses, Piles, Fistulas,

Gout, Rheumatism,

And every kind of SKIN DISEASE, it has never been known to fail.

The Pills and Ointment are Manufactured only at

533, OXFORD STREET, LONDON,

And are sold by all Vendors of Medicines throughout the Civilized World; with directions for use in almost every language.

The Trade Marks of these Medicines are registered in Ottawa. Hence, any one throughout the British Possessions, who may keep the American Counterfeits for sale, will be prosecuted.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, CO.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what it worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c., which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

Benjamin's Wife.

BY MRS. C. M. LIVINGSTON.

CONCLUDED.

"Oh mother!" said Marian, "I'm so glad you have come! You are cold, sit right here," and she wheeled a large chair into the warmest corner, and with her own hands removed the wrappings, and carried them away. "I wanted to have your toast just the right brown, so I was doing it myself," she explained, as she took up her toasting fork and went on with her work; and the old mother sat and feasted her eyes on the pretty picture—the bright, happy face, the quick, graceful movements, as she dextrously put the last little touches to the table, chatting pleasantly meanwhile, making tender inquiries about her health and her journey. Mrs. Kensett began already to feel as if this was a dear daughter separated from her years ago, and now restored. "It seemed just as if I had been away visiting and got home again," she told some one afterwards.

After tea and resting, they both went with her in merry procession to her room, carrying shawls and satchel, and waiting with the eager joy of two children to see how she liked everything. She would have been hard to suit if she had not liked it. The room was a large pleasant one, with a sunny bay-window, a stand of plants, a case of books, and every other thing that she could possibly need or desire.

Mrs. Kensett started as her eyes fell on familiar objects; there was the claw-footed mahogany centre table, with antique carvings, her straight backed old rocker, and "father's" dear arm chair, both newly cushioned and otherwise brightened up. The sofa, too, of ancient pattern that had stood in her parlor at Hawthorn for forty years, looked like an old friend in a new dress. Benjamin had ransacked all the carpet stores to find a carpet that would resemble as nearly as possible, in color and design, his mother's parlor carpet, when he was a boy. He succeeded so well that his mother put on her glasses and bent nearer to make sure that it was not the identical one.

In an out of the way corner she discovered her little three legged stand, holding a tiny brass candlestick (one of her wedding presents), and the snuffers on the japanned trays. It was not alone that the old times were brought back so vividly that made the tears come, but this one little thing showed such loving thoughtfulness for her comfort (John's wife would never have allowed a candle in the house).

This was Benjamin's hour of triumph and gladness; for this he had spent years of patient toil, and now it had come in such a strange, unexpected way, it and so much more than he had asked or looked for, this princely home, this precious wife, and mother abiding with them all the rest of her days: it was too much, such loving kindness!

Marian understood; she did not express surprise when he brought out a little, worn psalm book that she had never seen, and said, "Sing this for me, dear, to some old tune that fits it; I wish I knew what my father sang to it when I was a boy."

"I have a book of old music here, perhaps I can find the very one," she said; and then the pure voice soared out in the song of praise his father had loved:—

"Praise God for he is kind;
His mercy lasts for aye,
Give thanks with heart and mind
To God of gods alway:
For certainly
His mercies dure,
Most firm and sure,
Eternally.

The quaint rendering—new to her—pleased her, and she sang others, closing in low, soft notes with—

"The Lord's my Shepherd I'll not want,
He makes me down to lie,
In pastures green he leadeth me
The quiet waters by."

And dear old mother dreamed, as a strain or two of Lennox and St. Martins floated up to her room, that she was in the old home, and father was conducting family worship. Little by little, with her coaxing ways, Marian succeeded in effecting a change in her mother-in-law's dress, and when one day everything was finished, and she had her arrayed in a fine black cashmere, made according to her own ideas of simplicity, the white hair crowned with a soft white lace cap, and the same soft folds about her neck, her delight was complete.

"You dear, beautiful mother," she said clasping the lace with a plain jet pin, it is just delightful to fix you up, everything sets you out so; it's better than dressing dolls. Won't Benjie be delighted?"

When Maria, and John and John's wife came to visit their new sister in law, they were astonished beyond measure to find that mother had been transformed into that handsome old lady who moved about this elegant home with easy dignity as if it were her own. This rare son and daughter never made their mother feel that she was that uncomfortable third person who spoiled delightful confidences for young people; they talked freely together with her, and she renewed her youth in their lively intercourse. When company was announced she was given to retiring in haste from the room, just as she did at Maria's and John's, but Marian stopped that with "Please do stay, mother, and help us entertain them, besides I want you in that corner with your bright knitting to make our rooms picturesque, you're the greatest ornament they contain." Then the old lady would say, "Pooh! you don't want an old body like me;" albeit, she was well pleased that she was wanted, and would remain, occasionally throwing in her quaint remark, adding zest to the conversation.

If an old lady could be easily spoiled, Mrs. Kensett was in danger; these two fond children were continually bringing offerings to her shrine, flowers, choice fruit, new books, wherever they went they remembered her. It was an altogether new and delightful life that she had entered upon. With Marian she visited charitable institutions, dispensed bounties—read the Bible to the sick and poor, and ministered comfort to many a distressed soul; they attended wonderful meetings, and sat in heavenly places, and Marian and she enjoyed each other quite as much as they did everything else. The tie that bound them was not Benjamin alone; each recognized in the other the lineaments of the Lord she loved; their sympathies flowed together as if half a century did not stretch between them. Is there any other influence known that levels all differences, and brings souls so near together as this strange personal love to Christ? They talked and read together, they were dear confidential friends—such intercourse is rarely found between mother and daughter.

The following summer, when they all took up their abode in Haythorn, in the old home that Marian had purchased and refitted for a summer residence, and Mrs. Kensett trained again the vines in her garden, her cup was full; especially when in the old church, she joined her voice to the great congregation and sang her joy and thanks in the sweet psalm,

O thou my soul, bless God the lord;
And all that in me is,
Be stirred up by his holy name
So magnify and bless.
Bless, O my soul, the Lord thy God,
And not forgetful be
Of all his gracious benefits
He hath bestowed on thee.

The 100-ton gun and its model firing-base have been subjected to experiment at the Woolwich proof butts. The gun fired a bolt nearly a ton in weight. The experiment, which is the first of a series before the monster ordnance is sent to its destination in a Mediterranean fort, was in every respect successful.

The shield which Lad Frere, at the request of the ladies of the Cape Colony presented to Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood at Cape Town, is a magnificent work of art, being a cast of the famous Milton shield, the mould of which cost £10,000. The shield is executed in repousse iron and silver, and the design illustrates the leading incidents of "Paradise Lost."

English manufacturers and tradesmen were naturally largely represented by their wares at the Sydney Exhibition. The arrangements were conducted for them by a firm of agents, who have lately informed several of their clients that gold medals had been awarded them as prizes. The result was that all the boardings through England had been emblazoned for weeks with "gold medals" won by everybody for all sorts of things. The right of several to claim such distinctions being at last disputed, it turns out that the words written "good medals" by the original telegram were turned into "gold medals" by mistake before they reached London.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical colums of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

An Anti-Climax.

The Picton Times in an editorial article roundly denounces the coal duty and almost every other duty in good set terms, and concludes by saying,—"There is nothing like it in England. There it has been truly remarked that a poor man need not pay a farthing to the revenue if he confines himself to the necessaries of life, leaving out tea, coffee, spirits, tobacco, etc., which habit, it is true, has rendered almost necessary. Here the poor man's fuel, his pork, his flour, his clothing are all taxed, and not lightly either. We protest indignantly against such a barbaric policy." Immediately following this "barbaric yawp" appears the following little paragraph:—"Mr. D. A. Manson, Conservative, was elected M. P. for Brome on Monday by a majority of 127." What an anti-climax is thus afforded! It is, however, the best practical evidence that could be given of the estimate which people place upon such stuff as that above quoted from the Times.

Municipal Statistics.

The assessors having completed their labors in the assessment of the city for 1881, we are enabled, by the courtesy of the City Clerk, to present the following abstract of the assessment, together with a statement of the school population and of value of property in the city exempted from taxation:

Number of ratepayers	2,314
Number of acres in City limits	1,493
Value of resident lands	3,484,927
Value of non-resident lands	25,606
Total value of resident and non-resident lands	3,510,430
Value of personal property other than income	64,800
Amount of taxable income	42,350
Total value of personal property and taxable income	107,120
Total value and amount of real and personal property and taxable income	3,617,583
Dogs	424
Bitches	3
No. of persons in the family of each person rated as a resident	9,392
Number of Cattle	333
Number of sheep	3
Number of hogs	124
Number of horses	424
Statute labor—number of persons from 21 to 60 years	82
No. of school children from 5 to 16	2,138
do do do in Public schools	1,717
Roman Catholic schools	421

LIST OF EXEMPTIONS FOR 1881.

Churches	$166,032
Ministers' residences	21,670
Schools	45,400
Dominion Government	15,700
Ontario Government	4,300
County property	79,000
City property	63,500
Fire department	5,400
Salaries or incomes	12,040
Burying grounds	1,600
	$414,645
Real and personal property and taxable income	$3,617,583
Exemptions	414,645
	$4,032,228

As compared with the assessment for 1880, that for 1881 shows a decrease of 140 in number of ratepayers; an increase of $102,501 in value of resident land; a decrease of $9,905 in value of non-resident lands; an increase of $11,800 in value of personal property; of $12,470 in taxable income; of $115,946 in total value of real and personal property and taxable income; of 182 in dogs; a decrease of 595 in the number of inhabitants: an increase of 5 in the number of cattle; a decrease of 84 in hogs; of 20 in horses; and an increase of 17 in number of persons liable for statute labor. The list of exemptions is heavy in amount, and it does seem as if the law should be so amended as to wipe out a large sum from that amount.

COINING AWAY.—According to the New York Nation, there are $45,000,000 of silver dollars stored away in the vaults of the Treasury, and as it is bound to do by Act of Congress, the Mint still goes on coining silver dollars at the rate of two millions a month. Being actually worth only ninety cents it becomes a serious matter to the Saving Banks of the country whether they shall not be obliged to take it at its face value. At present the demand for silver dollars is almost wholly from the South, caused doubtless by the collapse of the Freedman's Bank. In one week recently $842,000 was sent southward, and in spite of its being worth only ninety cents in gold it is a popular coin with the negroes. It is good for storing away, for it will neither rust, rot, nor burn, and his recent experience teaches the negro that it is better to bury his talent in the ground than give it to the exchangers.

WINDSOR HOTEL, MONTREAL.—This superb hotel furnished with elevator and all the latest improvements, and carefully maintained at the right standard of excellence, offers good rooms with board at $2.50 to $3.50 per day. The Windsor is but four blocks from the G. T. R. Station, and a free coach plies constantly between the Hotel and the Post Office. Sample rooms at 123 St. James Street, free to commercial travellers. 1465dm

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Messrs. H. R. Ives & Co., who are amongst the largest iron founders in Montreal, have recently commenced the manufacture of the famous Burnells' Four Point Barbed Galvanized Steel Iron Fencing. The company called the "Canada Wire Company," of which Mr. Ives is President, occupy the upper stories of the immense Foundry of Messrs. Ives & Co., and are hardly able to fill the orders for this fencing, so great and universal is the demand for it. The Grand Trunk Railway Company have taken from them this season, over one hundred tons, and will in a very short time, have their whole road enclosed with it. Other Railways in Canada are gradually supplanting the old board fence with it, and as lumber becomes scarce and higher in price, and cedar rails become more difficult to get, this wire fencing will become principally used. It costs at least one-third less than the ordinary board fence, and its cheapness, lightness, and its general utility will make it the farm and railway fence of the country. The Iron Works of Messrs. Ives & Co., extend from King to Queen, and Queen to Prince, and Prince to Ottawa Streets, the size being 180x100 feet, and give employment to between 200 and 300 men. A specialty of this establishment is Composite wrought Iron work, Iron gates and Ornamental Iron work, and such is the superiority of their work that they have supplied orders from nearly all parts of the Dominion. A recent addition to their manufactures is chilled mould board ploughs, of which they have made this fall 2,000 for one concern. Their fine castings are done in one portion of their extensive works and the heavy portion in the other. Their finishing shop, which is four stories in height, is connected by an iron bridge—an ornamental feature of the establishment—on Queen Street, with the warehouse and offices. Here may be found samples of the house furnishings, railings, &c.; and another specialty of their work is Mrs. Potts' celebrated smoothing irons, of which they manufacture large quantities. On King Street is a machine shop where the ploughs are ground and polished. Mr. Ives, the head of the concern, is a live business man, and he reports a largely increased business since the inauguration of the National Policy, with bright prospects for the future.

The culture of the grape is largely increasing throughout the Dominion, but it is not confined wholly to Ontario, for we find here in Montreal, where until very recently it was comparatively unknown, it is cultivated on an extensive scale. Messrs. Gallagher & Gauthier, the former being well known in Belleville, have extensive vineyards at Point de Claire near Montreal, and have entered largely into the cultivation of the Beaconsfield variety, a grape which is very prolific, of a superior flavor, and which is becoming a general favorite wherever introduced. Their vineyards comprise some 90 acres, 40 of which are planted, and they are preparing the remainder of the land for planting in the spring. Although only in the market for the last two or three years, they have supplied large orders from all parts of the Dominion, including Manitoba and Prince Edward Island. Mr. Gallagher left on the 15th for Prince Edward Island, to superintend the planting of some 8,000 vines, for which they had received orders from that Province. In addition to the Beaconsfield grape, they cultivate all kinds of small fruits, such as currants strawberries, raspberries, &c. The fine ids of Mr. Gallagher in this vicinity will be glad to learn that his venture has thus far been highly successful, with prospects of still greater success in the future.

The New York Piano Company, to which reference is made in another column in a letter to the Montreal Herald, have in Montreal one of the largest and finest Musical Houses on the Continent, and we understand they are about establishing another warehouse in Toronto. This Company manufacture the celebrated Weber Piano, which is spoken of by the greatest musicians as among the best made in the world. They are most elegant instruments, having a pure, sweet tone, full of brilliancy and fire; immense power, capable of filling the largest hall; and being made with a view to durability and standing in time, they have become the favorite instruments of the art loving public. Sir Hugh Allan has purchased one of the largest of these instruments for the new Music Hall, built by him on St. Catharine Street, in Montreal. Amongst our citizens who have these pianos in use is Mr. Fuller, late of Montreal. The warerooms of the New York Piano Company are well worth a visit from lovers of music and those who may want to purchase a good musical instrument.

Among other objects of interest we visited in Montreal, was the extensive Boot and Shoe manufacturing establishment of Ames, Holden & Co., who during the past year have got into their new, handsome and commodious warehouse, erected for them on Victoria Square, near Beaver Hall Hill. The building is of cut stone, covered with galvanized iron, sixty-five feet frontage, eighty-five feet deep, and five stories high, and magnificently lighted by almost continuous windows on three sides. Upon entering the building we found ourselves in a large and commodious packing room, with ceilings 14 feet in height. Here we noticed some eight or ten men busily engaged packing into cases and trunks, boots and shoes of all sizes and descriptions, for shipment to the different points of our wide spread Dominion, from British Columbia on the west to Nova Scotia and Cape Breton on the east, and even down to Bermuda. On either side of the packing rooms were the offices and sample room, which for comfort and convenience could not be surpassed. We noticed the firm were already preparing their new samples for the spring trade, as some of their travellers have to go from three to four thousand miles before reaching their customers; they will be leaving this month, as it will take all the intervening time to get to their customers, send the orders home, and have the goods reach the customers before the spring trade commences. We were very much taken with their new spring samples, and pleased to note that the changes this year were all for the better, and that the absurdly high heel and pointed toe were giving way to the round toe and common sense heel, not more than an inch or an inch and a half high,—and we were assured that fashion now calls for broader soles, better quality of material, and less ornamentation than heretofore. Their gents' walking shoes, made of kid goat, French calf, patent and pebble, as well as the Congress and Balmorals, seemed all that the most fastidious could desire for elegance, comfort and durability, and as far as we were able to judge the large display of ladies', misses' and children's shoes could not be excelled for style, neatness and completeness in every way. Upon ascending to the factory to see the modus operandi by which such results were produced, we were at once struck with the thoroughly business like and systematic manner in which the whole establishment was conducted; every man, woman and child had his special work to perform, and constant practice seemed to have made perfect in every case.

The variety of machinery now employed by this firm in the manufacture of boots and shoes is marvellous, and the ingenuity displayed in some of the machinery is well worthy a visit to see, and processes in the manufacture, which a short time ago were considered impossible to be done except by hand work, are now performed by machinery with precision and despatch. The firm employ about three hundred hands, and turn out from seven to nine thousand pairs of boots and shoes weekly with the greatest ease.

The boot and shoe manufacturers of the Dominion have felt very keenly the crisis through which the country has passed during the last five years, but they speak very encouragingly of business now and seem to have got back to the good times of seventy-three and four. The many friends of Mr. J. C. Holden, of the firm of Ames, Holden & Co., will be glad to hear of his continued prosperity since he left his Belleville home.

PRINCE EDWARD ASSIZES

Verdict of Manslaughter

Six Months in Gaol.

(By our own Reporter.)

PICTON, 21st Oct., 1880.

The Court opened this morning at 9:30 for the hearing of the defence of the prisoner Thomas Thompson. The room was as densely crowded as it was during yesterday, and the interest taken in the trial as intense and deep as before. One of the jurors complained of illness, but the case was allowed to proceed.

The evidence adduced in behalf of the prisoner went to throw doubt on some portion of the testimony of the girl Catharine Vincent and James Pierson, who by his discharge became a witness and gave evidence, as did also his wife; to the effect that after Annan was shot and Thompson entered the room where Mrs. Pierson was, no such remarks as "By G— I've shot him," or "Yes, by G— I have" were made by Thompson. Other witnesses swore as to marks on the window glass and window frames that were made by human hands.

At this juncture (11 o'clock) the juror alluded to above was seized with an epileptic fit, and the Court adjourned for two hours.

The telegram from Picton announces that the jury, after half an hour's deliberation, brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Thompson. He was sentenced to imprisonment in the common gaol for six months.

Fatal Accident at Bancroft.

Killed by a Runaway.

A melancholy accident, attended with the loss of life, took place just below the village of Bancroft on Saturday evening about 7 o'clock. Mr. John Powers, blacksmith of Bancroft, was returning to his farm in Dungannon, about 2½ miles from here, in company with his son Albert, a promising young man about 20 years old, who was driving a team of horses. In going down a hill something gave way about the tongue, causing the waggon to run foul of the horses, which caused them to run away, throwing both father and son out. It is supposed that the son held on to the lines until he struck a log, the horses having left the road, when the waggon striking also, broke, throwing out the heavy spring seat, which struck the young man on the back of the head and neck; causing a deep wound and severing the neck-bone from the head, causing instant death.

On the father's return, and making the sad occurrence known, numbers turned out and brought the body to the Bancroft House, Mr. Lonsdale examined the head, which was not bruised, but found the neck broken and advised that the corpse be removed to his father's house, which was done, quite a number of the villagers following.

The funeral took place at L'Amable on Monday at 2 p. m. and was largely attended by other persons, some coming from 7 or 8 miles. It was estimated that not less than 200 persons were present. The services were conduc ed by Rev. Mr. Wheeler, Methodist minister. I am told his discourse was very impressive. Deceased was a most dutiful, obedient and affectionate son and brother, estimable in life and conduct, and was much respected by all who knew him. His loss will be severly felt by the family as well as throughout the community. Surely "in the midst of life we are in death."—Com.

Sporting Notes.

What has become of our local Curling Club? Some time ago it was to have met for the election of officers, but did not. There ought to be sufficient interest to keep the organization in life, at all events.

At the games of the Irish Athletic Club at Boston, E. W. Johnston cleared 5 feet 11½ inches in a running high jump, and this being disputed the height was measured, when it was found to be 6 feet ½ inch, being the highest jump ever made in America.

At the Oshawa trotting meeting there was a race of half mile heats for three year olds and under. The race, which required seven heats to decide, was won by Mr. John Wilson's filly Nelly Kean, two years old, which took the last three heats. Time: 1:44; 1:41; 1:40½; 1:38; 1:38½; 1:38½; 1:39—pretty good time for a two year old. Nelly Kean is a slashing brown filly, two years old, by General Kean, out of Nelly Pleage by St. Lawrence. General Kean is by Dr. Herr's Mambrino Patchen, of thorough-bred Wait-a-Bit. This filly shows plenty of range and substance for one of her years, as well as an extraordinary amount of quality, while her way of going and the burst of speed she will show are something marvellous for a two-year-old.

The smallest trotting horse now on the track, probably the smallest in America, it is said to be Lumps, who was a starter in the 2.26 class at the recent Louisville, Ky., meeting. Lumps is but 11 hands and 1 inch high.

Mr. P. Lorillard has succeeded during this week in purchasing the celebrated French sire Mortemer, the sire of Verneuil, Chamant, Suzette, Clementine, St. Christophe, Ciillet, and La Buzzardiere. Mortemer was foaled in 1855, an on the Ascot cup when six years old, with 131 pounds up. The price paid by Mr. Lorillard was $25,000.

The weather in England is bad—so bad that Hanlan declares he would rather train in Canada in the middle of winter and row on lake Ontario, Laycock and Trickett are still at the Isle of Wight. Hanlan, Hosmer and Hawdon continue practice on the Thames. Billy has arrived in London and commenced practice for the Hop Bitters prize.

Mr. Soule, the president of the American Company states that he does not desire to assume the slightest authority with regard to the International regatta, but wishes that a number of influential aquatic gentlemen form a Committee to superintend the affair. He has not settled as yet where the regatta shall be held, and says he considers ten oarsmen will be enough to fight the battle. A race for second-class scullers would receive his favorable consideration, and the question will be settled on his arrival in London on Monday next. He has gone to Newcastle, where he will remain until the end of the week.

Notice to Contractors

SEALED Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Cobourg Works" will be received until Friday, the 5th November, for the construction of an addition to the Western Pier, Cobourg Harbor, Lake Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen on application at the office of the Town Clerk, Cobourg, where forms of tender can be obtained.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque, equal to five per cent of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party declines to enter into a contract when called on to do so, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

RE MARY HOLTON AND OTHERS.

PURSUANT to an order of the Court of Chancery made in the matter of Mary Holton and others, infants under the age of twenty-one years, the creditors of Bird William Holton, late of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, who died in or about the month of July, 1879, are on or before the 8th day of November next, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Flint & Pellett, of Belleville, aforesaid, the Solicitors for the petitioners in this matter, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said order.

Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my Chambers in the Shire Hall, in Belleville, aforesaid, on the 11th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudication on the claims.

Dated this 9th day of October, 1880.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 22.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

ARRIVED.—The Allan steamship Sarmatian passed Magdalen River, inwards, at 6:30 this morning.

CORRECTION.—The types made us state in yesterday's issue that the receipts of grain by rail this season had been about 13,000 bushels. It should have been 130,000 bushels.

PERSONAL.—We regret to learn that Mr. R. W. Newton, Veterinary Surgeon, is seriously ill at his father's home in Hungerford, but hope that he will speedily recover.

THE RIFLE.—Shooting for the 49th Battalion champion cup, and to conclude the matches of the Hastings Rifle Association, is going on this afternoon.

RETURNED.—Messrs. Geo. Thompson, Wm. J. Baker and S. B. Burdett, having completed their hunting trip, have returned to town. They bring with them one more deer, making nine in all shot by the party.

SOCIAL HOP.—The members of No. 4 Company of the 15th Battalion (Capt. Simpson's) will have a social hop in the regimental armory to-night. Those who attend may be assured of a pleasant time.

NEW HYMN BOOK.—The new Methodist Hymn Book, which was authorised by the Methodist Church of Canada, has just been published by the Methodist Book Room, Toronto. It contains 935 hymns, and 19 doxologies, benedictions and chants, amongst which are a large number of modern hymns, principally by Miss Havergal, Rev. W.M. Punshon, and Rev. Dr. Dewart. It is got up in the highest style of typographic art, and is a credit to the publishers. The arrangement is admirable. It will no doubt very soon come into general use.

GRAIN SCALES.—The Inspector of Weights and Measures has been paying a good deal of attention lately to the scales at the grain warehouses. The regulations bear a little hardly in one respect on the proprietors of the scales, but Mr. Johnson has devised means by which the trouble can be obviated, and has applied to the department for permission to carry out his idea, which will be satisfactory to all concerned, as it relieves the warehousemen of an apparently insuperable difficulty and at the same time insures the accuracy of the scales.

SOCIAL.—A social was held in the lecture room of St. Andrews Church, last evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Association of that Church. The entertainment consisted of readings by Masters Thomas Duncan and John Bryan, duets by Misses Holden and Brownlee, by Messrs Edgar and Stanistreet, and music by the choir. During the evening coffee and cake were served up to the company. The Minister, Rev. M. W. Maclean, explained the objects of the Association, which were for mutual improvement and to aid the various enterprises of the church. Meetings are to be held weekly, the first regular one of which is to be held next Monday evening. There was a large attendance at the assembly last evening, which argues well for the future of the Association.

—A clue has been obtained as to the perpetrators of the murder at Skibereen, in Ireland. It is reported that disguised men recently burned the property of a tenant who paid his rent, disobeying the orders of the Land League.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.—This highly popular Magazine celebrates its tenth birthday with a permanent change of cover, and with a number for November which the conductors have done all in their power to make one of exceptional beauty, interest and value, as it is also the largest number of Scribner ever issued. Scribner's cover has been turned from violet to a warm brown, and in the design the aim has been distinctness, simplicity, and a rich decorative effect. Miller's most famous picture, "The Sower," engraved by Cole, forms the frontispiece, and among the principal artistic features of the number is a striking portrait of Gladstone, printed in the body of the magazine, but without type either on the same page or on the back of the page.

FIRE.—A stone building on the west side of the river, closely adjoining the lower bridge and occupied by Mr. James McGuire as a barn and stable, was badly damaged by a fire which broke out therein at about 2:30 this morning. A prolonged alarm was sounded and the firemen, who were promptly on hand, succeeded in saving adjoining wooden buildings. That in which the fire originated was gutted and all its contents destroyed, except a horse and a cow, which could not have been got out safely but that the upper floor was a double one. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary, as it originated in the upper story. There Mr. McGuire had stored a cutter, a sleigh, some harness, a small quantity of hay and straw and some other articles, all of which were burned. The loss on these articles is estimated at $150 and on the building at $300. Insured in the Royal Canadian.

OVER COATS for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. JAS. HENNESSY.

A GOOD BOAT.—The Kingston Whig of the 21st says of the steamer which Mr. Gildersleeve has purchased for the Bay route:—"The steamer Hero purchased from Montreal parties by M. C. F. Gildersleeve, arrived at 2 o'clock this morning. Nothing remarkable occurred on the trip up the river excepting a break to one of the buckets, which are of the feathered sort. The wheels are small in size. Her engine is an upright, constructed in 1878, and in pattern it is very similar to that of the Pierrepont. The Hero has good promenade deck, a commodious saloon and twelve comfortable staterooms, and is considered well adapted for either passenger traffic or excursion purposes. The boat at present is not so attractive for the very reason that neither much care nor money has been expended in preserving its original good looks by cleanliness. A number of men were this morning engaged in scrubbing her, At 4 o'clock she left upon her first trip up the Bay of Quinte, Capt. G. Crawford in command."

A QUEER CASE.—The Kingston News says:—"Last night a young man named William Preston sought protection at the Police Station. This afternoon he was found by P. C. Hoyle sitting on the City Hall steps completely benumbed with the cold. He was taken into the station, and after getting thawed out, told rather a queer yarn. He had been working with a farmer named John Magurn, second concession Tyendinaga, for some time when he took it into his head that he would start out in search of the "river of life" as he says, and try to cross it. He arrived in Kingston last night without succeeding in finding the river, unless he mistook it for the Police Station. He says that some two years ago he read the "Pilgrim's Progress," and ever since something has been suggesting inwardly to him to go on a pilgrimage. He has a sister living on Garden Island. Preston's friends should see to him, as he does not appear to be able to do so himself."

MATRIMONIAL.—An interesting ceremony took place yesterday at the residence of Mr. Thomas Paterson, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. John Bowell, son of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, to Miss Alma Paterson. Rev. D. M. Gordon performed the ceremony. Miss Robbins acted as bridesmaid and Dr. K. Graham as groomsman. The bride wore seal-brown serge and silk, similarly trimmed. After the event speeches were made by Hon. Mr. Bowell, Mr. Paterson and Dr. K. Graham. Mr. Beazlin supplied the refreshments for the occasion, and, it is needless to state that nothing was wanting in that line. The wedding presents were both numerous and handsome, and, in addition to those of the Ottawa friends of the bride and bridegroom there were also remembrances from the Belleville acquaintances of the latter. Among the presents were the following: 1 dozen fruit knives, T. Wills, ex-M. P. P., Belleville; salt cellars, W. Howe; fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs C. C. Ray; pickle stand, Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith; card receiver, Mr. and Mrs. R. Blackburn; "kettle drum," Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Proud; card receiver, Dr. K. Graham; collection silver cutlery, Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Bowell; biscuit box, Mr. J. W. Russel; fruit cracker and picks, Mr. F. Rous, Belleville; tea set, Mr. C. A. Burpee; flower pot, Mr. A. Ault; bracket, Mrs. Murcott; fruit dish, Mr and Mrs. C. P. Holton, Belleville; album, J. Grant and T. Robertson; fruit knives, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reid, Belleville; cake basket, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jamieson, Belleville; fruit knives, Mrs. A. Rowe; glove case, Mrs. Robbins; silver stand, Mrs. Champness; toilet set, A. Geddes; card tray, Jimmie, Johnie and Mackie Jamieson, of Belleville; jewel casket, Mr. Blair; table, Miss Hattie Gallagher, etc.—Ottawa Free Press, Oct. 21.

VEGETABLE WOOL.—We are informed by the best of authority, says the Carpet Trade Review, that in New Jersey and New York States there is a plant which, subjected to certain treatment, produces an excellent vegetable wool. We have seen no specimens of it, but are assured that it is very good for carpet and other fabrics Said plant covers hundreds of acres in surface. The staple could be produced at five cents per pound, with unlimited supply.

A HOUSEHOLD PERFUME.—EVERY FAMILY ABLE to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

To keep the bowels regular, the stomach effective, the liver active, the kidneys free, use Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills

Amusements.

Tony Denier's company will present "Humpty Dumpty" to-night. The company is a large one, numbering over 30 people. For genuine fun, the entertainment given by this company stands second to none. A correspondent writing from Peterboro under date Oct. 20th says:—"Tony Denier's Humpty Dumpty Troupe are playing here to-night to a full house. The wide celebrity which this troupe has attained is certainly well deserved. George H. Adams, the celebrated clown, is the most mirth provoking, laughter compelling "one of that ilk" we have seen for a long time, while the show all round we pronounce first class, the best of the kind we think. The Company visit your city to-morrow." This company, it may be mentioned, are under the management of Mr. Pitou, of the Grand Opera House, Toronto. Popular prices—25c., 50c., and 75c.

Anthony & Ellis Ideal Company will produce "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to-morrow afternoon and evening. Their reputation is such as to warrant a full house at each performance.

The dullness prevalent in amusement circles on the other side of the lines because of the quadrennial turmoil over the election of a President of the Republic, has driven several first class companies into Canada for the time being. One of these is Major Pond's Grand Musical Combination and Abbey's Spanish Students, who are to give a concert in the Metropolitan Hall on Monday evening next. The Montreal Gazette of the 20th inst. has an ably written and impartial notice of the concert given by this company in that city on previous night. We append an extract:—"The Weber male quartette, who appeared first on the programme, are accomplished vocalists, who render the numbers allotted to them in a highly artistic manner. It is rarely our lot to hear such part singing as that to which they treated us last night, and we can only give to it unqualified commendation. The "Spanish Students," for whose advent every one was on the qui vive, delighted one and all Their performance is charming and fascinating to a degree. The skill displayed in the performance of the selections they gave was wonderful Musically considered, it was a rare treat, the amount of light and shade attained, the variety of expression and the exquisite manner, as a whole, in which they rendered the numbers for which they were responsible were beyond all praise, and justly deserved the triple encore they obtained. Miss Isabel Stone, the lady vocalist, to the regret of her hearers, only appeared on the programme once, as a soloist, and then sang so charmingly as to cause a general desire to hear her alone again. Miss Stone's voice is a flexible soprano of good compass and quality. She sings with great taste, and at once gains the sympathy of her hearers. Mr. A H. Pease is the only performer of whom we have to speak in terms other than those of commendation. This gentleman has already shown us his ability to play music of the highest class, and it is a matter of regret that he should have thought fit last night to come before a Montreal audience, chiefly as a musical trickster. To substitute variations on the "Sweet By-and-Bye" and "Home, Sweet Home," a device calculated to catch the popular ear, in the place of the piece for which he was announced, was to say the least an insult to the musical portion of his audience."

The Osbornes, with a dramatic company, will perform in a new Irish drama "The Colleen Ruaidlh," on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Metropolitan Hall. The Napanee Standard says: "Mrs. Osborne is one of the best Irish characters we have ever seen and had she been properly supported, the entertainment would have been a first class one."

Tweed Notes.

CHURCH OPENING AT BOGART.—On Sunday last the Rev. E Clement, of Trenton, preached three sermons in continuation of the opening of the new church in connection with the "Methodist Church" at Bogart. The different services were well attended, and the Rev. gentleman acquitted himself in such a manner as will leave a lasting impression on those who heard him. The pastor, Mr. Walker, is holding a series of services in the church every evening this week.

We had a visit on Thursday from Thos. Wills, Esq., who, along with some other gentlemen, is visiting the Moira, and its tributaries with reference to the better supply of water for manufacturing purposes, and an eye to establishing others along the river. They left for Loon Lake in the evening.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. YEOMANS, AGT.

Mr. P. T. Chase, Simonds, N.B., writes, that he has been afflicted with a cough for a long time, was becoming seated, medical treatment did no good. Tried Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. The first dose benefited him, and he is now perfectly cured.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test ZOPESA, the new compound. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. 134d&w1y

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A man was arrested on the train here yesterday by the officers of the Secret Service. In his satchel was found two hundred and four thousand dollars in United States bonds and three thousand dollars currency.} The prisoner was locked up. He is supposed to be a defaulter to the Government.

GARFIELD'S PROMISES.

The Herald's Cleveland special, says that Garfield had made no promises of any kind, nor indicated his action regarding his cabinet, if he should be elected to the Presidency.

GREECE ON THE WAR PATH.

The World's London special states that the King of Greece's speech, at the opening of the Chambers, is regarded in London as a distinct declaration of war against Turkey, and has made a great sensation The King's coldness is ascribed to the expectation of English support. It is stated if the Sultan does not give way in the Dulcigno complications by Monday, the hostile British fleet will immediately sail into Turkish waters.

The public faith in Gladstone and his Eastern policy is unabated.

PROSECUTION OF LAND LEAGUERS.

It is reported that the Government has made all preparations for the immediate prosecution of thirteen leading members of the land league. It is generally believed that Parnell is among the number.

AN EXPLANATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—In reference to the telegrams contained in Chairman Barnum's address last night, chairman Jewell said one of the despatches was sent by him to let the Republican managers of Florida know that these "150" men and others had been sent down there by Democrats. The first despatch referred to the expenses of the speakers.

WRESTLING MATCH.

The wrestling match last night for the amateur championship of America, between James Quigley and Peter Snyder, was won by Snyder in two falls.

THE RAILWAY WAR.

The Tribune states that the general passenger agents of the trunk lines yesterday sent to the railway companies engaged in the south-western passenger war, a request that the through rates to the east may not be disturbed. To their direct western connections they also sent a request to maintain the convention rates.

VICTORIA'S BAND.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 22,—The report that Victoria and his band had been destroyed is not believed by the army officers here.

PROPELLER EUROPE SUPPOSED TO BE LOST.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The propeller Europe, due here last Friday, and the schooner O. M. Nellor, which the former had in tow, are missing. The propeller plied between Montreal and Chicago and was valued at $25,000. She had a crew of 25 and a number of passengers. The theory is advanced that the boots and shoes found on the eastern shore may be the cargo of this vessel. Vessels which left port behind her are now safely in the harbor.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

EARTHQUAKES IN EUROPE.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—There were several severe shocks of earthquake at Dijon on Wednesday.

LISBON, Oct. 22.—An earthquake occurred here which was felt in almost every part of the country. No damage reported.

SEAMORA, Spain, Oct. 22.—Earthquakes have occured in several towns of this Province. A shock was also felt in Madrid.

"CHURCHING" THE QUEEN OF SPAIN.

MADRID, Oct. 22.—Forty days having elapsed since the birth of the Infanta, imposing ceremonies took place in the Palace yesterday on the occasion of the first appearance in public of Queen Christina. The papal brief was read and gifts from the Pope to the Queen and Infanta presented.

The court will go in state to Atocha Cathedral to-day for the public thanksgiving service of churching the Queen. The city will be en fete three days.

RELIGIOUS ORDERS IN FRANCE.

REIMES, Oct. 22.—The police commissioners here resigned in a body, rather than to enforce a decree against the religious committee.

THE EASTERN DIFFICULTY.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Paris despatch says: The powers having immediately protested against the conditions communicated by the Turkish negotiators, as quite contrary to the original promise, to surrender Dulcigno, the Porte seems to have disavowed the action of Riza Pasha, and negotiations have been resumed, on a basis more conformable, with the necessities of the situation.

WASHINNTON, Oct. 22,—Indications lower lakes, occasional light rain or snow, partly cloudy.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bed-room open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

MARRIED.

At the residence of the bride's father, near Tweed, on Thursday, October 20th, 1880, by the Rev. Robert Walker, Methodist minister, JOHN SHAW to ADELINE L., second daughter of Mr. I. C. Huyck, Treasurer of the Township of Hungerford.

THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company, and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combines

PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal. Or from the Company 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Subscriptions are conditioned upon stock being sold on or before January 1st, 1881, to the amount necessary to complete the payments of purchase money on the property of the Company. Should this condition not be fulfilled, the money paid on account of this purchase is to be returned in full.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

Setting Milk for Cream.

The greatest mistakes in the dairy are made in setting the milk for cream. In the family dairy, where one cow supplies milk and butter, the arrangements are usually better than in some farm dairies. Here the arrangements are often surprisingly bad. I have seen the milk of four cows set in a sleeping-room, and under the bed. The young woman who managed that dairy prided herself on her good butter. What she knew of bad butter must have been fearful to contemplate. In some farm houses the milk is set in the living-room, where the cooking and eating are done, and where, in the evening, the farmer and the hired man smoke their pipes and dry their wet boots and socks under the stove. No wonder some persons prefer oleomargarine to butter made in that fashion. If these lines come under the notice of anyone, man or woman, who keeps milk under such circumstances as these, or in any way approaching to them, I would say to him or her, that good butter cannot be made in that way, and the labor spent over it is only half or quarter paid for.

The first necessity in setting the milk is perfect purity of the place and surroundings. Then there should be the following adjuncts:

A moderate circulation of fresh and moist air.

Shelves raised at least three feet from the ground.

A temperature not over 60° in Summer, and not below 45° in Winter.

Perfectly clean utensils, and very little light.

It matters little how or where these conditions are secured, that they are secured is sufficient. The following reasons may be given; viz: milk readily absorbs odors and the odors are concentrated in the cream; with stagnant air, the natural odor of the fresh milk, which is disagreeable to some persons, cannot be removed in the dry air and the cream becomes of a leathery toughness, and often produces specks in the butter, and always makes an inferior quality. When milk is kept on the ground in the cellar or milk-house, it is brought into contact with the coldest air, in which all the bad odors of the place are condensed.

At a higher temperature than 60° the milk will sour and often thicken before the cream has risen, and to have the best butter, the cream should be taken from the sweet milk. At a lower temperature than 45° the color of the cream is much lighter, and the butter will be too light in color; besides, these is danger of freezing, and frozen cream will not make good butter. If the milk pans are not quite sweet and clean, the milk will sour too soon. With too much light the butter will not have the rich, deep color that is desired.

When the milk is brought in from the cow-stable, or the shed, it is strained at once into the pans, and these are put away in the place provided for them. If it is not strained at once, some cream will rise, if the milk is rich, and this cream will be caught in the meshes of the strainer and be lost. Before the milk is poured out of the pail, it is safe to first pour out a quart or so and return this into the pail; this will remove any stray hairs that may have fallen on to the outside of the strainer, spout, or lip of the pail. This is more especially advisable with those pails, the strainer of which cannot be wiped with a clean cloth. The improved strainer pail, described in the last article—which, by the way, is my own invention and is not patented—may be easily cleaned or wiped to remove any hair, dust, or other impurity which may have fallen into it. In placing the milk pans on the shelves, it will be found convenient to have them arranged in regular order and to retain this order always, so that there is never any doubt about the right pans to be skimmed. The shelves may be arranged so as to make this very easy and not to move any pans; but if but one shelf is used the pans must be moved along to fill the place of those skimmed at one end and make room at the other end for the fresh milk. Hereafter I shall describe my method for arranging the shelves in a convenient way for this and other purposes. The pans should never be covered. If it is necessary to cover anything to exclude flies, mice, or other vermin, the windows should be covered with fine wire gauze, and to guard against mice the shelves should be properly arranged. (This will be explained by-and-by.)

When the milk has stood 36 hours the cream will have risen, and should be skimmed off. At this time the cream will be thick and adherent, and on good milk that has been set two inches deep in shallow pans, should be at least a quarter of an inch thick. This will give 12 per cent, of pure cream, which is as much as I have ever known any cow to give, although it has been often said that such a cow gives 25 or 30 per cent. of cream. One of my cows will show 28 per cent. of cream in a five-inch-deep test glass; but this is not pure cream. The same milk set in a 20-inch deep pail, will show about six inches of cream; but when cream rises in a deep vessel, a large quantity of milk is brought up with it, and stays with it, and the 28 per cent., which is shown in deep Cooley pail, shrinks in a Ferguson Burehu pan to 12 per cent. There is an advantage, however, in this diluted cream, which is, that it is in precisely the best condition for good churning; while in skimming the pure cream, at least an equal quantity of milk should be poured off with it into the cream jar, and both be stirred up together. To remove the cream, a small, flat cream knife should be passed around the edge of the pan to loosen it, ane the film of cream is then floated and pushed with the cream knife over the edge of the pan into the cream jar. This will remove enough milk with the cream to dilute it sufficiently. Every time cream is poured into the jar it should be stirred, otherwise there will be danger of having white specks in the butter.—H. STEWART, in Rural New Yorker.

Is it possible.
That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such maryellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.
How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

EXTRACT
FROM THE 'MAIL," TORONTO.
WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE
AND
Premises for Sale.
THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

SUBSTITUTES!
☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF
Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

ONE PRICE SYSTEM

OUR business is conducted strictly upon the One Price System, in connection with which we may be allowed to state that in stores where a second price is made, much more than the right price is ALWAYS asked, and what is worse for the buyer more than the proper price is OBTAINED For the customer after having been put to the annoyance of higgling for an abatement gets a reduction in the price, often such a large one that in itself it ought to create suspicion, and finds AFTER ALL that he invariably has paid MORE than we ask.

We guarantee our prices to be the lowest, because:

1 We are enabled by our position to buy from the makers at the first cost of production and thus save the intermediate profits of wholesale dealers and jobbers.

2 We buy wholly on a cash basis and consequently obtain the lowest quotations in England, and further get the first offer of any bargains which may be in the market in Canada.

3 Our terms are strictly cash and thus we avoid losses incurred by bad debts, interest on outstanding accounts, &c, which force credit stores to sell at a higher price than we do.

THE THREE COPECKS.*

Crouched low in a sordid chamber,
With a cupboard of empty shelv's,—
Half starved, and, alas! unable
To comfort or help themselves,

Two children were left forsaken,
All orphaned and mortal care;
But with spirits too close to Heaven
To be tainted by Earth's despair.

Alone in the crowded city,
Which shines like an Arctic star,
By the banks of the frozen Neva,
In the realm of the mighty Czar.

Now, Max was an urchin of seven;
But his delicate sister, Leeze,
With the crown of her rippling ringlets,
Could scarcely have reached your knees!

As he looked on his sister weeping,
And tortured by hunger's smart,
A thought like an angel entered
At the door of his open heart.

He wrote on a fragment of paper,—
With quivering hand and soul,—
"Please send to me, Christ, three copecks,
To purchase for Leeze a roll!"

Then rushed to a church, his missive
To drop,—ere the vesper psalms,—
As the surest mail bound Christward,—
In the unlocked Box for Alms?

While he stood upon tiptoe to reach it,
One passed from the priestly band,
And with a smile like a benediction
Took the note from his eager hand.

Having read it, the good man's bosom
Grew warm with a holy joy;
"Ah! Christ may have heard you already—
Will you come to my home, my boy?"

"But not without Leeze?" "No surely,
We'll have a party of three:
Go, tell her that somebody's waiting
To welcome her home to tea."

That night, in the cosiest cottage,
The erphans were safe at rest,
Each snug as a callow birdling
In the depths of its downy nest.

And next Lord's Day in the pulpit,
The preacher so spoke of these
Stray lambs from the fold, which Jesus
Had blessed by the sacred seas—

So recounted their guileless story,
As he had each child by the hand,
That the hardest there could feel it,
And the dullest could understand.

O'er the eyes of the listening fathers
There floated a gracious mist,
And oh, how the tender mothers
Those desolate darlings kissed!

"You have given your tears," said the preacher—
"Hear-alms we should none despise,—
But the open palm, my children,
Is more than the weeping eyes."

Then followed a swift collection,
From the altar step to the door,
Till the sum of two thousand roubles
The vergers had counted o'er.

So you see that the unmailed letter
Had somehow gode to its goal,
And more than three copecks gathered,
To purchase for Leeze a roll.

* The "copeck" is a Russian coin of about a cent's value in our currency.

Good Behavior at Home.

We see many children who act as if they thought it were of no consequence how they behave at home. They talk loud, race up and down stairs, and call with loud voices from one story to another, slamming every door after them until the noise is like the report of a cannon, regardless of the great annoyance and discomfort they inflict on all the house. A visitor at a house where such behavior in children is tolerated would scarcely recognize them if he met them awsy from home; they can then be so quiet and unobstrusive. But that is not being refined and polished. They must be home-made instilled into the minds of the children from the cradle, to be a pure article. But if it is not—to be sure the spurious article is better than none. At least it will be some relief to those who must witness the boorishness of their home manners.

Now, if the parents can teach their children that they must not enter a friend's house and throw off hats, cloaks and rubbers anywhere—on the floor, on chairs, sofas, &c., instead of putting them in their appropriate places—that they must not rush noisily about, talking loudly or calling from one end of the room to the other, that they must be respectful and deferential to all when visiting, they surely can teach them that rude conduct at home is offensive and reprehensible to the last degree and in no wise to be tolerated. Parents can train their children to be polite at home as well as abroad, and they are guilty of a great wrong if they do not accomplish it.

Well-bred persons—young or old—will respect the taste, comfort and pleasure of others, and be quite as solicitous of securing it as their own. They will be ashamed to allow any habit that would offend the taste or delicacy of anyone to have control over them. They are watchful to use no annoying expressions, to guard or overcome any propensity that gives pain and many other little but troublesome habits. A well-bred person will not indulge in anything of this kind at home or abroad when there is danger of giving offence to any member of the family, or friend who is fastidious and likely to be hurt by it. In fact, no book or code of manners has ever been written that is so safe to follow as the Bible. At home and among friends and strangers good manners are simply those actions which spring from that spirit that "suffereth long and is kind," which "envieth not: vaunteth not itself; is not puffed up; doth not behave itself unseemly; seeketh not her own; is not easily provoked; thinketh no evil." If parents will so teach their children they will not only add to their own comfort a thousand fold, while the little ones are maturing, but will prepare them to go out from their home, when they arrive at a man's and woman's estate; useful and respected members of society, blessing and being blessed by all.

He is a wise man that can avoid an evil; he is a patient man that can endure it; but he is a valiant man that can conquer it.

A young girl generally loses her freshness by mingling with fashionable society, as a bright stream does by mingling with the sea.

One of the most marked characteristics of fashionable demoralization is a reckless neglect of principles, and a rigid adherence to their semblance.

The Way to the Crown.

We must taste the gall, if we want to taste the glory. If justified by faith, we must suffer tribulations. When God saves a soul he tries it. Some believers are much surprised when they are called to suffer. They thought they would do some great thing for God; but all he permits us to do is to suffer for his sake. Go round to every one in Glory: each has a different story to tell, yet every one a tale of suffering. But mark, all were brought out of them. It was a dark cloud, but it passed away. The water was deep, but they reached the other side. Not one there blames God for the way he lead them thither. "Salvation!" is their only cry. Child of God, murmur not at your lot You must have a palm as a white robe. Learn to glory in tribulation. —M'Cheyne

Make Friends.

Life is very critical. Any word may be our last. Any farewell, even amid glee and merriment, may be for ever. If this truth were but burned into our consciences and if it ruled as a deep conviction and real power in our lives, would it not give a new meaning to our human relationships? Would it not make us far more tender than we sometimes are? Would it not oftentimes put a rein upon our rash and impetuous speech? Would we carry in our hearts the miserable suspicions and jealousies that now so often embitter the fountains of our lives? Would we be so impatient of the faults of others? Would we allow trivial misunderstandings to build up a wall between us and those who ought to stand very close to us? Would we keep alive petty quarrels year after year, which a manly word any day would compose? Would we pass old friends or neighbors on the street without recognition, because of some real or fancied slight, some wounding of pride, or some ancient grudge? Or would we be so chary of the kind words, our commendations, our sympathy, our comfort, when weary hearts all about us are breaking for just such expressions of interest or appreciation as we have in our power to give?—Christian at Work.

Laugh More.

"Why don't you laugh, mother?" said a three-year old daughter, as her mother, with rather clouded countenance, was dressing the litte ones. The earnest tone of the child provoked the wished for laugh and the little heart was happy.

And mothers, I fear we do not laugh enough. The housekeeping is so onerous, the children so often trying to nerve and temper, the servants most exasperating, and even John, kind, good husband as he is, cannot understand all our vexations and discouragement; and so wearied and worried, we often feel that it is too much for the household to depend on us, in addition to all our cares, for social sunshine as well. Yet the household does, and it must. Father may be bright and cheery, his laugh ring out; but if mother's laugh fails, even the father's cheerfulness seems to lose much of its infection. In the sad but forcible lines of one of Joanna Bailie's dramas—

Her little child had caught the trick of grief,
And sighed amid its playthings—

we may catch a glimpse of the stern repressed life at Bothwell Manse, where "the repression of all emotions, even the gentlest, seems to have been the constant lesson." I remember well hearing a lady say, "When a child, I used to wish so often that my mother would look cheerful."

Then laugh, mother, even if you do feel almost too weary to exert the facial muscles, and you have to make a pitiful effort which comes nigh bringing tears instead of a laugh. You will feel better for the effort and so will the children. The little ones, unconsciously to you and to themselves, are catching the very phases of countenance which will go far to brighten or cloud some future home.

Then laugh, mother—parlor, nursery and kitchen all feel the effect of your smile or frown. The cheery laugh of a mother goes down through generations, as well as her frown. And when the mother's eyes are closed, and lips and hands are forever still, there is no sweeter epitath which children and friends can give than, "She was always bright and cheerful at home."—Christian Intelligencer.

Grains of Gold.

"I hold this thing to be grandly true,
That a noble act is a step toward God.
Lifting the soul from the common sod,
To a purer air and a broader view."
—DOCTOR HOLLAND.

Some writer has said of man, that in striving to grasp the stars, he forgets the flowers at his feet; in other words, that in endeavoring to practice the great virtues which are the foundation stones of morality, he forgets the "charities that soothe, and heal, and bless."

The assertion is only too true; for, although we are all desirous of "laying up treasures in heaven," very few of us take the trouble to accumulate grains of gold.

It is not necessary to threaten a bad man, for his own misdeeds threaten him with a worse punishment than you can inflict.

A kind word to a shunned and unfortunate sinner; a pleasant smile instead of a frown to a troubled child; a little encouragement to some burdened brother, struggling nobly and perhaps hopelessly against fate.—Ah, I hear you say, "these are trifles!" And if they are, what then? Remember the wise lines of Young:

"Think naught a little, though it small appear;
Small sands, the mountain, moments make the year;
And trifles, life."

By the patient accretion of particles, the ants build for themselves a very respectable dwelling place; bees do not gather all their honey in a day; and birds slowly and gradually construct their nests.

In fact, it seems to be an axiom in the philosophy of nature that grand results are the accumulation of trifles.

"Since trifles make the sum of human things,
And half our misery from our foibles springs,
Oh, let the ungentle spirit learn from hence
A small unkindness is a great offence."

A great act of heroism or self sacrifice may merit a glorious reward; but then grander still are treasures laid up in heaven by one who, in the gloomy mines of life, has gathered grains of gold.

It would be well for us all if we could appreciate the truth so poetically expressed in this beautiful verse:

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to the summit round by round."

Nevertheless, in this age of great inventions, and rapid locomotion, I think most people would prefer to get to heaven by an elevator.

Afraid to Swear Alone.

The wicked practice which is so common as to offend the ear in every hotel, and almost every street, is often mere bravado. Boys think it sounds manly to be profane, and men think it gives force and character to their sayings. Unlike most other vices, it is done openly, and is intended by the swearer for other people's ears. It is a public sin against God, and a public insult to all good men. The boldest blasphemers are often the greatest cowards.

"I will give you ten dollars," said a man to a profane swearer, "if you will go into the village graveyard at twelve o'cock tonight, and swear the same oaths you have uttered, when you are alone with God."

"Agreed!" said the man; "an easy way to earn ten dollars."

"Well, come to-morrow and say you have done it, and you shall have the money."

"Midnight came. It was a night of great darkness. As he entered the cemetery not a sound was heard; all was still as death. Then came the gentleman's words upon his mind. "Alone with God!" rang in his ears. He did not dare to utter an oath, but fled from the place, crying, "God be merciful unto me a sinner?"—Olive Branch.

Be Warm Hearted.

Don't let us get soured with life. It does not mend matters with us, and it makes us very disagreeable to others. If we have had misfortunes we are not alone. The world is not all sunshine to everybody. We love the fresh, light-hearted laugh of a child. Why not keep it ourselves in after years? We love the hope and faith of children. Are we any better off if we have allowed them to slip from us? We love the ardor and natural enthusiasm of children. Are we any wiser if we have covered up all the impulse and warm feeling of our natures, so that the world knows only a cold, calm exterior? We know a woman who has lost all her property, though once very rich, has her hands so cramped by rheumatism that she has been unable to use them for years, and yet she is full of sunshine and thanksgiving to God every day for the great enjoyment she finds in life. We know another, who, in the midst of luxury, wishes she had not been born, and there are some beside herself who almost wish she had not. Not least of us shall we have to give account in the judgment as to what manner of spirit we have possessed.—Congregationalist.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical columns of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

That Shield Again.

"Richard's himself again"—that is, Sir Richard John Cartwright, Knight of the reversible shield, "fly on the wheel" ex-Finance Minister of the Dominion, and M. P. for Centre Huron. Sir Richard has been silent for some weeks, but on the 18th inst. he took occasion to address his constituents, and to discharge the bile which had accumulated within him since his speech in Manitoba at the heads of Ministers, and at their commercial policy and their action in regard to the North-west Territories. We have undergone the labor of carefully reading the verbatim report of Sir Richard's speech at Goderich, which fills nine columns of Thursday's Globe, and find but little to reward us for so much industry, the conclusion arrived at being that, like the tilt of the no less famous Don Quixote at a wind mill, the gallant and learned knights' attack on those points of the Government's policy which he saw fit to assail, will be productive of very little effect. Ministers will continue to carry on the Government of the country in their own manner—a way which, it may be said, the people have practically shown their approval of, even if their course do not give entire satisfaction to the ex-member for Lennox, who has for a long time imagined that all that is worth knowing is contained in the cranium which is covered by his own beaver.

Sir Richard devoted one-half of his speech to an elaborate attack upon the tariff, in which he but repeated in effect what he had said before, namely, that the tariff had been a detriment to all the people of the country except a few lucky monopolists, but as this assertion has been so frequently disposed of before, we will not at this time devote space to its refutal, for of its falsity our readers are fully informed. The latter half of his address was an equally lengthy criticism of the policy in regard to the Pacific Railway and the North-West. In his remarks upon this theme, the ex-Minister was not consistent with himself, and displayed alternately the silver and the copper sides of his shield. First he spoke of the enormous value of those territories, and further on he industriously endeavored to depreciate their value as being subject to severe frosts at critical times; then he condemned the selling of 64,000 acres to Mr. Brassey, and admitted that he had made a similar purchase himself. Sir Richard wound up a dreary and wearying address, the tedium of which was only relieved by some venomous attacks on Ministers, in attempting to justify his speculation in North-West lands by stating that he had purchased from a private individual and not from the Government. That the hon. gentleman may be fairly represented in this connection, we give the following extract from the Globe's report of his remarks on the point:

> He had been charged in some of the organs of the Government with highly improper conduct, in that, as alleged, he had bought lands in the North-West under the present land policy, and was therefore inconsistent in declaiming against it. Even if the statements were true it had nothing to do with the matter. As a private citizen he had a perfect right to purchase land at the terms offered, even though he might disapprove of the policy. They might as well argue that no man had the right to buy goods manufactured under the tariff, or engage in the manufacture of any article himself, without being a supporter of the National Policy. But in any case the statement was untrue, as the lands were purchased, not from the Government, but from private individuals. He could not but think it an act of extreme stupidity for his opponents to attack him for buying lands, while at the same time they defended the land policy. If these parties were right in supporting the policy of the Government, and that policy was wise and patriotic, then he and any one else who bought those lands were doing a highly patriotic act, and were to be highly commended. But if they chose to assail such purchasers, what must they think of the policy of the Government who went out of their way to offer all possible inducements to persons of all classes to speculate to the utmost in the purchase of these lands?

Sir Richard's argument is specious, but it is not sound. He and his party organs denounce land speculation and land speculators, therefore as it was not compulsory on him to speculate in lands, he does that himself which he condemns in others, and the fact that he bought from another speculator instead of from the Government, makes no difference whatever in the principle governing the case. It is diff-rent with the consumer of imported goods who is opposed to the tariff and with the case cited as to engaging in manufactures. In the first case the articles being amongst the "necessaries of life", as the Grit organs have it, the consumer is obliged to purchase in order to live, whilst in the second case, the capital is invested in a legitimate business. Sir Richard and his friends hold that speculation in lands is not a legitimate business. Hence the failure of his attempted analogy.

The worthy knight who, it may be said, had, during the course of his speech, denied the truthfulness of Professor Macoun's estimate that there are 250,000,000 acres of land fit for agriculture in the North-West, and argued to his own, if not to his auditors' satisfaction or that of the public, that the professor and others who had gone over most of the territory, knew less of it than did the speaker, concluded by expressing his continued lack of confidence in the Government of Ottawa. Sir Richard has no confidence in any Government of which he is not himself a member; but fortunately for the country the people do not agree with him, and have persistently endorsed Sir John Macdonald in refusing to accept that gentleman at his own estimate.

The Pacific Railway.

The negotiations with the representatives of the capitalists who have undertaken the construction of the Pacific Railway have been progressing at Ottawa during the week with what result will be learned by the following telegram from Ottawa, which appears in the Montreal Gazette of the 22d inst.; "The Cabinet has been in session all day to-day, and met again this evening at nine o'clock. It is an open secret that the subject which engaged its attention was the proposed contract for the construction of the Pacific Railway. The leading Canadian members of the syndicate and the representative of the European members of it were present, and it is said the details of the contract have been finally agreed upon, the documents formally drawn up, and, as is believed, it has been signed to-night. What those details are the public is not yet informed, but I am in a position to say that all the stories which have recently been circulated about disagreements between the European capitalists and their Canadian associates in the enterprise, and the withdrawal of the former are without a shadow of foundation. The gentleman who is here from London comes formally accredited by the continental members of the syndicate, to act for them, and to sign in their name. The scheme adopted and the parties interested in it are precisely the same as when Sir John Macdonald made his statement at the Hochelaga station. It is understood that the most ample security is taken by the Government for the completion of the entire line from Lake Nipissing to the Pacific Ocean within ten years. It is said that the members of the syndicate are pressing very strongly for an early session of Parliament, so that the Act confirming the contract may be passed, in order that they may be in a position to enter upon the work at the earliest possible moment. The Mail confirms the accuracy of the above statement in its issue of to-day, by saying: We understand that after the sitting of the Cabinet protracted till after midnight on Thursday night, the contract between the Government and the railway Syndicate was completed as to details, and, we believe, completed or nearly so as to signatures. Some minor formalities remain to be added before the contract can be said to be executed and binding.

Political Notes.

THE WORKINGMEN AND THE N. P.

The London Advertiser is not yet satisfied. It says in its issue of the 21st:—"Let the workingman ponder over these facts: Under the National Policy he works one full week in order to pay the additional cost of the sugar he uses; three days to pay the additional cost of his coal; and so on till fully one-twelfth of his time is spent in working for money to pay the Government taxes. How grateful would be a month's holidays each year to the men who now have to work from December to January to support their families." Under the beneficent rule of the Grit party, workingmen did not "work from December to January," although they would have been very glad to do so. The Government of that day, having a paternal regard for Canadian workmen, took care that they were not overworked, by allowing foreign manufacturers to pass their goods under false invoices, and so to overstock our market. By this means our workmen were placed on half or three-quarters time and consequently had plenty of holidays. It is strange, but true, that these misguided people did not appreciate the blessing thus conferred upon them, assisted in turning out of office the philanthropists who thus kindly loosened the bond of labor, and are so stupid as to prefer to work full time and live well, in preference to putting in broken time and consequently facing the wolf at the door daily. The starvationists may think all this very queer, but they will find that their professed solicitude for the workingmen is appreciated at its true value by those on whose behalf it is expressed.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The Montreal Star puts this teaser to the principal organ of the free-traders: "The whole difference after all between the Globe and the Government organs, is whether custom duties should be imposed simply for revenue purposes, or for revenue and incidental protection. It would be interesting to know, therefore, whether the Globe would like to have the duties imposed under the N.P. removed, and if so, where the revenue is to come from. Let us have something besides denunciation."

THE U. S. WHEAT CROP.—The wheat crop of the United States this year is estimated at 450,000,000 bushels, and of this amount about one-third will be exported to Europe. The failure of the crop in Central Russia makes the demand abroad larger than usual, and already large export rations have been made to Russian ports. The crop of the Pacific States is estimated to be 60,000,000 bushels, and the surplus for export will be at least 30,000,000. The shipment of this grain is a large item in the earnings of the Pacific Railway, and the capabilities of the Pacific States in the supply of agricultural products for exportation, as well as the steadily growing demand for merchandise in exchange, must from year to year continue to improve the business of the road.

Rifle and Target

Matches at the Belleville Ranges.

The concluding match of the Hastings Rifle Association, namely the Merchants, match, 7 shots at each, at 200, 500 and 600 yards, took place yesterday. The weather was highly unfavorable, a cold wind blowing over the range from the right rear, with snow and rain, consequently the scores were much below the usual average. This match also decided the aggregate of the series of the meeting, which was won by Corporal Hilton, who thus secures the Ontario Association badge. The scores made were as under:

Seasonable Topics.

The coming winter casts its shadows before.

The brilliancy of the autumnal foliage is beginning to wane.

This is a good season of the year to begin practising upon the almost "lost art" of shutting the door after you.

The Guelph Herald says: "the morning wrappers and ladies now wear in their chambers are made of light foulards without lining." How does the editor know?

A country paper speaks of a meteor "about as large as a basket," the tail must be as long as a piece of string.

A sour Christian is just like sour milk. Both were intended to be sweet, but something has turned them, and after being turned they both became worthless.

Vennor has been watching the birds in his neighborhood, and predicts that November will be warm. It is not known whether or not he used salt in his calculations.

A city gentleman said every blade of grass was a sermon. The next day he was amusing himself by clipping his lawn, when a parishioner said: "that's right, doctor. Cut your sermons short."

The Weekly Intelligencer will be sent to new Subscribers from the present time until Jan. 1882, for $1.50, and a handsome premium of a picture of the Parliament Building, which retails at a $1.00 thrown in.

All Hallowe'en occurs on Sunday this year; one week from next Sunday.

The newspaper men of the Province think of setting apart a day of thanksgiving for that the fall show season is over.

Those who want a job of printing done neatly, quickly and cheaply, call at the INTELLIGENCER Office.

The Daily and Weekly INTELLIGENCER have the largest circulation of any journals in Central Ontario, and are consequently the most valuable mediums for advertising.

A sensible exchange says:—"Fence board advertisements are well enough, but if you want to purchase an article it is more convenient to look through the columns of a newspaper to see who has it for sale than it is to "hook up" a team and drive round the country reading fence signs.

THE CONSEQON HOMICIDE

Evidence for the Defence.

The Picton Gazette gives the following summary of the evidence for the defence in the case of the Queen vs. Thompson:

The defence of Thompson was then proceeded with, Mr. Dickson—who appeared on behalf of the prisoner—calling as his first witness

SMITH VIANT—whose evidence was of no special importance.

JACOB SMITH—testified to having a conversation with Amans on the night prior to the murder, when the deceased expressed his intention of going to Pierson's that night; subsequently saw him come out of Baird's hotel, cross the bridge and go in the direction of Pierson's.

JOHN TOMPSETT.—The evidence of this witness merely had reference to the discovery of marks on window casing of Pierson's house, which seemed to indicate that some one had been trying or had succeeded in getting in.

MRS. JAMES PIERSON—Was then called. The evidence of this witness differed a little from that given by Catharine Vincent. She denied that the gun had been placed in her bed-room after it had been loaded and prior to its being discharged; she also differed from the same person's evidence in reference to what Thompson said after the discharge of the gun, and said that no such language as was attributed to him was uttered; when he came in he (Thompson) said "I bring a light; I've shot some one or something—it may be my own father"; when Cassie heard who it was that was shot she said "I'm glad of it; he had no business to prowl around any one's house."

The witness was then cross examined by Mr. Henderson, and before this was concluded, the proceedings were interrupted by the sudden illness of the foreman of the jury—Mr. Robert Pierce, of North Marysburgh—who had been seized with a fit of apoplexy. He was at once removed to the jury room and medical assistance called.

After the lapse of about an hour and a half the ill juryman had so far recovered that the jury were again brought into court, and the case proceeded. Following the testimony of Mrs. Pierson, came that of Jas. C. H. Pierson, Sarah Vincent, sister of Cassie Vincent, and Mrs Jane Cory. The evidence of these witnesses was principally corroborative of that already given. Mr. Dickson addressed the jury in a very able manner, laying a good deal of stress on the accidental discharge of the gun while in the hands of Thompson. The crown prosecutor urged conviction for manslaughter. His honour summed up briefly and the jury retired shortly after 6 o'clock.

After an absence of about half an hour the jury returned into Court with a verdict of manslaughter against Thompson, immediately after which the prisoner was sentenced to six months in common gaol. The court then arose.

Marine.

Between the 1st of July and the 16th of October, 456 vessels arrived at Toronto from, and 418 vessels cleared for United States ports.

The schooner Van Valkenburg is dismasted and ashore at the entrance to Stargeon Bay Canal.

The schooner Grenada went ashore near Muskegon, and all hands, except one, were lost.

The storm was felt severely, but not disastrously, on Lake Superior. There were some vessels overdue at Duluth, but no anxiety felt.

The velocity of the wind in the late hurricane was at Frankfort, 80 miles per hour; at Ludington, 75 miles per hour; at Pentwater, 65 miles per hour; at Charlevoix, 60 miles per hour: at South Haven, 59 miles per hour; at East Tawas, 59 miles per hour; at Manitague 50 miles per hour; at Traverse City, 40 miles per hour; at Forester; 35 miles per hour; at Sand Beach, 25 miles per hour.

The schooner David Vance arrived at Glen Haven with her foremast head gone. She lost three men overboard off Point au Sable.

The Acacia is chartered to take wheat to Peterborough for Montreal. The propellor City of Montreal takes barley to Oswego at 2½c. These rates are a fraction better than they were last week. The rate in Chicago has gone up to 84c on wheat, and 8c on corn asked to Buffalo; and 10c on wheat, lake and canal. The Toledo rate has advanced to 4½c on wheat to Buffalo. The big storm seems to have sent up the rates, as it should. The Sylvester Neelon takes barley from Whitby and Toronto to Lake Erie port at 3c.

The Schr. Sea Bird which was seriously damaged by going ashore near Oswego three weeks ago, has been rebuilt at Oswego and is now in good condition.

The schooner J. N. Carter is still aground in the west channel.

The schooner North Star has arrived from Oswego and is loading barley at J. D. Macalauy's.

The schooner S. & J. Collier filled out her cargo of barley at Downy & Preston's yesterday and sailed for Oswego.

COURT OF REVISION.—The first sitting of the Court of Revision, for the hearing of appeals against the assessment of 1881, is to be held on Tuesday night.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, brisk to high winds, mostly northerly and north-westerly, partly cloudy, continued cold weather.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—Night School at Ontario Business College will begin a week from next Monday evening, the 1st November. Further particulars will appear in our advertising columns on Monday.

NEW CHURCH.—The Mill Point correspondent of the Napanee Beaver states that a new Presbyterian Church is to be erected at that place by H. B. Rathbun, Esq., and that the Ladies' Aid Society of the congregation will build a manse.

REV'D MR. MACKAY.—We are informed that the Rev'd Mr. Mackay, who visited Belleville last spring in connection with Mr. Hammond's labors, will preach in the Congregational church to-morrow morning and evening at 11 and 7.

STORM.—The north-easter of yesterday afternoon, brought with it a flight of snow which soon changed to rain that continued to descend almost without interruption during the whole night. The rain will be productive of good, as the springs and streams are at a very low level at present.

A BEAR HUNT.—The Stirling News-Argus says:—"A bear hunt took place in the Oak Hills the other day, the full particulars of which we have been unable to learn. It must have been rather exciting, though, as his bearship turned on his pursuers, Hugh McMullen and son, and slightly wounded the elder in the thigh, with his teeth before being brought down."

STOPPED.—The ferry steamer Mary Ethel has been seized by the sheriff on account of moneys due by Mr. Anderson to Mr. Jno. Jellett, under the decree of the Court of Chancery. In consequence the trips of the steamer have been discontinued for the time being, but it is expected that a settlement will be affected and the steamer released, probably by Monday. We since learn that the boat resumed her trips this afternoon.

DESERVES COMMENDATION.—Our friend Wensley and his sons has been engaged for two weeks in painting and kalsomining the Sunday School rooms of Bridge St. Church and the excellence of their work is the admiration of all. Mr. Wensley may well be proud of his work. The dado work specially took our eye, the design being novel, rich, and chaste.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Whilst Mr. Henry Hodgson was driving down Bridge Street yesterday evening his horse became frightened by a colt in the street. The animal becoming unmanageable, the driver reined it in towards the fence at Mrs. D. D. Bogart's. Striking a tree the buggy was dashed to pieces, throwing Mr. Hodgson and driver out. Mr. Hodgson was considerably injured about the head and shoulders, and the driver's left arm was fractured in two places. Their escape from death was almost miraculous.

OPEN MEETING.—The Workingman's Temperance Association will hold an open meeting in their hall on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be addresses, music and readings. No charge for admission. A collection will be taken up to aid the funds of the Association.

MINING IN ADDINGTON.—The Tamworth Echo says:—"Negotiations are now on foot to open the Kellar gold mine. A sort of syndicate has been organized with a sufficient capital to test the qualities of the rocks to the depth of some fifty or more feet—as the appearance may warrant. Several of our capitalists along with others of Napanee and Newburg intend taking shares. This is, to all appearance, a valuable mine."

TRENTON BRIDGE.—The Courier says:—"Mr. John Francis has given notice that the Trenton Bridge will not be open for travel after this week. The Bridge Committee have provided a ferry capable of carrying five heavily laden teams, so that there will be no stoppage to travel. The Reeve has also instructed the chief constable to provide a walk for foot passengers. It is expected to take ten days to complete the new iron swing."

OBITUARY.—Mrs. Nancy L. Roblin, the respected relict of the late John P. Roblin, formerly Registrar of Prince Edward, died at Picton on the 22nd inst., at the advanced age of 77 years and 9 months. Deceased, who was the daughter of the late Stephen Conger—one amongst earliest settlers of the County—was one of the oldest residents of the County, of which she was a native. She was the mother of Messrs. Marshall B. Roblin and Manly C. Roblin, of this city.

TO-MORROW.—The Sunday school rooms of Bridge Street Church are to be re-opened to-morrow, the re-opening services, consisting of a prayer meeting at 9:30 a. m. and thanksgiving service at 3 p. m. Both of these services will be held in the rooms. At 11 a. m. Rev. Wm. Hall, M. A.—who needs no introduction to a Belleville audience from us—will preach in the church and the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Jeffers, will preach at 7 p. m. On Monday evening a tea meeting will be held in the Sunday School rooms, the tea will be served by some forty ladies, who are in charge of thirteen tables, and they will be assisted by others. After tea addresses will be delivered by Mr. A. G. Northrup, Rev. Wm. Hall and Dr. Jeffers, and choice selections of vocal and instrumental music will be rendered.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Peterborough Review of the 22nd says: "There is nothing new in rly circles, between the Grand Junction and Midland companies. The decision of the court that the Midland are to have the right of way in the disputed line as well as the Grand Junction seems to have put a damper on the "fun," and now everything is exceedingly quiet. The Grand Junction men have quit operations on the northern end of the line parallel with the Midland as they formerly contemplated, but have contented themselves by laying their track just to the boundary of the Midland property and then stopping operations, although they have the other route spoken of staked out. Perhaps they are waiting in expectation that they will obtain the right of way to run over the Midland track as far as the lumber yard. The workmen are now busily engaged in gravelling the track between Hastings and Peterborough. Passengers have come up from Belleville on the new line and made the trip in very good time."

OVER COATS for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. JAS. HENNESSY.

Amusements.

The storm last night militated against the attendance at the Metropolitan Hall, but still there was a large audience to witness the production of the always popular "Humpty Dumpty." The pantomime has been revamped, so that the entertainment is in most of its essentials entirely new. First an introductory performance of a dramatic nature is given, in which a large number of the members of the company appear, some of them to considerable advantage, Mr. Adams, afterwards clown, performing the principal part with much ability, ably seconded by Miss Tillie Antonio. The second part is a variety entertainment, in which some exceedingly clever peeformances are given. Particularly noticeable were the very clever caricatures of musical oddities by Charley Schwilling; Prof. Fow's talking hands; Miss Alice Coleman's banjo, cornet and xylophone performances; Little Todd's wonderful balancing and contortionism; Miss Tillie Antonio's serio-comic songs including extraordinarily rapid changes of costume, which were more remarkable than her vocal efforts; Sparks Bros.' highly amusing Irish specialties; and the Ramirez family in their performances on the guitar and mandoln. Then followed the pantomime, with Geo. H. Adams as Clown; John O. Hall as Pantaloon; Wm. Eunice as Harlequin; Miss Mattie Antonio as Columbine: and Miss Tillie Antonio as Fairy Queen. Mr. Adams once more demonstrated that he is the clown par excellence of the day; Miss Antonio is a sprightly and vivacious Columbine, her pantomime being expressive and dancing graceful. The other parts were well filled.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be given to-night. It will be well worthy of patronage.

Commercial Notes.

RAW FURS.—Skunk, bear, beaver and otter are in demand in Montreal and bring big prices.

HOPS.—New hops are quoted in Montreal at 10c to 18c. In Madison, New Jersey, hop growers, dissatisfied with the price offered, have sent samples to England and have received answer that such hops will sell in the London market so as to net the growers 25cts. at home.

HOGS.—The price of dressed hogs is receding in the Montreal market, where sales are made at $6.60 to $6.75 for good Ontario stock.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA BONUSES.—An Ottawa report says:—"Mr. Leys, Solicitor for the Toronto and Ottawa Railroad, when in the city recently, informed Mr. Lapierre, City Solicitor, that it was not intended to ask bonuses to be paid by any of the municipalities until the road is in operation. He also asked a number of questions about the condition of the Ottawa bonus."

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bed-room open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y

MAKE A BEGINNING.

If you never make a beginning, lad,
You will never come to the end.
Why stand at the foot of a mountain, lad,
When you can to its brow ascend?

The way is weary and steep and long—
A toilsome journey, and slow,
But you cannot jump to a summit, lad;
Up, step by step, you must go.

There are many weeds in your garden, lad;
You must pull them, one by one.
In the time we waste, only dreading work,
Half life's labor can be done.

Just begin, my lad, and in years to come
That day you will surely thank,
That you put your first seed in the earth,
Your first dollar in the bank.

A beginning is a promise, lad,
A foundation for vast store,
For we have the sweet assurance, lad—
He who hath can hope for more.

Therefore hesitate no longer, lad,
Hold your head up and begin;
If you make a start and then persevere,
Life's stern battles you will win.

Wit and Humor.

A critic said of a stupid writer:—"He takes the pinions from one goose to spread the opinions of another."

A Turkish dollar is worth nine cents, and the Turks look with contempt on the Peruvians, whose dollars are only worth two cents.

Balloonists say that when at the height of two miles they have heard women calling over the back fence to borrow flat-irons and starch.

The average age of a hog is only fifteen years. This always consoles us when we see a man spreading himself out over four seats in a railway car.

The Czar has become so nervous that the sound of a wash boiler falling down stairs at midnight will raise him out of bed before it strikes the third stair.

A merchant lately received a package labelled, "1 box Tom Cats." It took him some time to decipher the fact that the inscription meant tomato catsup.

The man who ordered the first locomotive in America is still living, and when he goes on a journey his trunk receives the same usage as everybody else's.

A country doctor, being asked what was the best way to cure a ham, remarked that before answering that question he should want to know what ailed the ham.

A London druggist has hit the popular taste for good bargains. In his window he displays a card which says: "Come in and get twelve emetics for one shilling."

The report that Dr. Hans von Bulow, the pianist, has lost the use of his right hand by paralysis, is denied. He can still hit a piano a clip that will sound like a stove falling down stairs.

Cruelty to any living creature shows a bad heart. The boy who delights in torturing a wasp with a pin will surely come to some bad end if the wasp has a fair show in its business movements.

The price of a wife in Siberia is eight dogs, and an exceptionally good wife is worth ten dogs. But dogs are plentiful in that country, and a wife doesn't cost as much as the number of dogs seem to indicate.

Apparent paradox.—A butcher can sell the fore-quarters of a lamb, and yet have two quarters of it left. It may seem paradoxical, but it is nevertheless true, that a man cannot smoke a cigar too short unless he smokes it too long.

At the commencement of the Revolutionary War a French soldier said to his sergeant (the brave Rousselout): "Sergeant, my thigh is broken." "Can you still hold yourself up?" coolly replied the sergeant. "Yes." "Well then load your piece."

Some days ago, says the Kingston News, a letter was received at the Kingston Post Office, addressed "Ema Grashion, Agent, Kingston" The qestion arose. Who is "Ema Grashon?" After the conundrum had occupied official minds for some time, a happy thought solved the difficulty by suggesting that the letter was not for a woman, but for the Emigration Agent at Kingston.

There was a man in our town,
He was so wonderous wise,
He thought his business would run itself
And he didn't advertise.

Well business was dull at first,
But better times came and it's queer,
One day with a rush he sold all his stuff,
But the sheriff was auctioneer.

A "reformed speller" writes to the Chicago Inter-Ocean: "I see that your contemporary of the Tribune, who professes to hev adopted the reform spelling, prints 'dilema' and 'assessment' in parallel columns. Now I, too, believe in reform, and I think the man who spells 'dilema' with one m, and yet puts four s's into 'assesmant,' ot to reserv at least one of the superfluous s's in order to write himself down an as."

A Judge in Disguise.

Several anecdotes are current just now about M. Nicolet, the late batonnier of the advocates of Paris, who died recently. Galignani gives two which he was fond of narrating himself, and are well known to the members of the Paris bar. He was fastidious to such an extent, that when defending a prisoner, M. Nicolet subjected him or her, in nine cases out of ten, to so minute an interrogatory that his client believed him to be one of the judges. On one of these occasions a man whom he was defending, on being questioned by the President of the Court, called out that he had already been examined in the same manner by another judge, and protested against the injustice of making the prisoner undergo the ordeal a second time. The officials vainly endeavored to make the accused understand that he had really been examined by his own counsel. "You want to make me believe that man an advocate? I am not quite such a fool as that ......he's a judge in disguise!" And the defendant was condemned without having been induced to say a word. On another occasion M. Nicolet was defending a man charged with killing his wife, who, however, energetically denied his guilt. Wishing to know whether his client were really innocent or not, M. Nicolet tried for three hours on the morning of the trial to extract the truth, but only received the most meagre responses, all strongly denying the crime. Being satisfied of the man's innocence, M. Nicolet eloquently pleaded in his behalf, and with such effect that his client obviously ran a fair chance of being acquitted, when, to his horror, he suddenly heard the latter exclaim, "You have been badgering me so much, and this morning as well, that I will confess everything." He accordingly admitted to the judges that he had murdered his wife, looking the while his crestfallen counsel triumphantly in the face, M. Nicolet retiring from the court amid a general titter.

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

A Publisher's Blunder.

A good story is told of Murray, the London publisher, at the time when he had the Quarterly Review on his hands, and was driven with business. He received, one day, a letter dated at Chelsea, and signed by Thomas Winton, proposing to him that he should undertake the publishing of a "Life of Pitt," which he had just finished, and which would make several volumes. The publisher read the letter, written in a coarse unkempt hand, and threw it aside with a "Pshaw!" Some days later, being with quite an assembly of literary gentlemen at a dinner, Murray told the story of the offer he had received. "Why," said he laughingly, "a fellow hailing from Chelsea—Winton his name is,—has been wasting his time and ink on a life of Pitt, and he had the impudence to ask me to publish it!" "And did you say he hailed from Chelsea? Winton?" said a gentleman of the company. "Yes" "Can you let me see his letter?" Murray overhauled his pockets and found it. "My dear Murray," he said, "you have made a grave blunder. Tom Winton is at this moment Bishop of Winchester, and this letter is dated from his palace at Chelsea." "Heavens!" gasped Murray, catching the letter and looking at it, "I read it 'Place instead of 'Palace.' If you love me, friends, don't tell of this.' The gentleman had suspected the mistake from the first, and upon seeing the letter it was made clear to him. Then he caught his hat and hurried off. He found the good bishop at home, made all sorts of humble apologies and excuses for his negligence, and was permitted to take away with him the manuscript of a work which ran through several large editions, and which proved exceedingly profitable.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. YEOMANS, AGT.

Mr. P. T. Chase, Simonds, N.B., writes, that he has been afflicted with a cough for a long time, was becoming seated, medical treatment did no good. Tried Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. The first dose benefited him, and he is now perfectly cured.

BEACONSFIELD VINEYARD, G. T. Chicago Ahead

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

EXTRACT FROM THE 'MAIL,' TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE

AND

Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of waterpower available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

SYR: HYPOPHOS. FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES COMP: FELLOWS.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, CO.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague,—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA

XLIII.

For the Intelligencer.

You cannot imagine anything more pleasant than an unclouded, clear, breezy morning, on the Grindelwald mountain, the air full of the sounds of cascades, the little bells of the herds below, and the music of the birds. At the foot of the peak, lying amid the green grass and flowers, we observed a great wreath of snow, soiled and dirty, as half melted snow always is, but in such a place, at this season of the year, it had a strange air. It seems a little spot of death in the green lap of rejoicing life—like a death spot in the human heart, among all seeming flowers, cold and cheerless, unwarmed by the sunbeam and unmelted by the ray that unfolds thousands of blooms around. We walked over to a solitary peak, and, gazing down upon the valley, listened to the falling avalanches on our right, and the sounds of civilization below. This is alpine solitude of which we have read. All around the valley we see deep green dells, from which come the tinkling of the goat and cow-bells, like the dropping of the rain everywhere. We look back on the strange old cloudy mountains; a kind of hazy ether floats around them—an indescribable aerial halo—which no painter can represent. We take a last look, glaciers, snow, mountains, sunny dells and flowers, all good-bye.

We left Interlacken on a double-decker car, for a short ride to lake Thun, thence we proceeded by boat to Thun, and by rail to Berne.

Lake Thun is ten miles long and about two or three miles broad. It is hemmed in by high mountains on all sides, some rising from the banks by gentle slopes, on which are vineyards, orchards, pleasant villages, gardens and beautiful villas and chateaus, and others enclosing the waters with precipitous walls hundreds of feet high, deeply cut in places, by ravines worn into the solid rock by the swift mountain torrents. Here and there, streams burst out from the rocks and leap in sheets of glittering crystals, down their rough surfaces to the lake. Several ruins of old castles, seen from the deck of the little steamer, make the scenery as romantic as it is beautiful.

Passing sunny vineclad and wooded slopes, the verdant banks dotted with smiling villages peeping from laden orchards, by and bye give place to precipitous rocks falling sheer to the water's edge. Above them tower the lofty peaks of the Stockhorn, 'very lofty and scraggy, patched with snow only; no glaciers on it but some epaulettes of clouds,' the pyramid of the Niesen, the black Faulhorn and the Schwarzhorn, and the white Alps that have gleamed in the morning light and glowed in soft rose hues at sunset over the lake of Thun. We stopped at Thun only long enough to change from the boat to the cars. The city is charmingly situated on the Aare, a short distance from the point at which it issues from the lake. It is an old, quaint town. Along the principal thoroughfares, the lower stories of the houses project towards the street, forming rows of cellars and magazines about ten feet high, on the top of which is the pavement for foot passengers, with stories and shops on both sides of it.

The ride is a short one from Thun to Berne, along the valley of the Aare. This valley is a fine farming country, and the manner of farming is much more like that of Ontario than anything we have hitherto seen. The fields are generally of considerable size, and the houses and barns are in most cases separate buildings. Now and then we saw hauling grain, stone or lumber, a big, solid, four-horse waggon.

The crops are the same as in Ontario, except that poppies, flax and hemp are grown to some extent.

BERNE

preserves its ancient characteristics better than any other of the larger towns of Switzerland. Along the principal streets the houses project their second stories out over the foot pavements, thus forming arcades, many of which are lined with shops and stalls. Many new houses are built in the same style, but with more regard to convenience and taste. People can shop in the shade, and on rainy days no umbrellas are needed. These arcades furnish favorite sitting places: and in front of many of the stores and eating-houses seats are provided. Hundreds of women and girls sit on the pavements and sew, knit and embroider. Baskets with playing babies and cradles with sleeping ones are encountered every few paces. There are public fountains at many of the street crossings and in the open space. At these, women in great numbers collect and do their washing, oftentimes bringing their children, who play about the street while their mothers work. Nearly all the fountains are adorned with statues, the most singular of which is that called the Fountain of Ogre, in the Kornhaus Platz. This fountain is surmounted with the grotesque figure of a man in the act of devouring a child, while his pockets and girdle are filled with other destined to the same fate. Near the Kornhaus Platz is also the Clock Tower. We saw the following performances: At three minutes before the hour a wooden cock gave the signal by clapping its wings and crowing; a troop of bears then march around a seated figure, and a harlequin indicates the hour by striking a bell. The cock then crows again, and when the hour strikes, the figure, an old man with a long beard, turns an hour glass and counts the hour by raising his sceptre and opening his mouth, while the bear on his right does the same by inclinations of his head, and a stone figure in the tower above strikes the hour on a bell with a hammer. The cock then concludes the performance by crowing a third time.

The Kornhaus itself is a fine old building, in which, with the foresight of Joseph, the City Fathers of Berne always kept a store of corn, down even to 1830, to be used in case of famine.

The population of the city is 40,000. It contentedly cultivates the art of peace in the shape of music boxes, Swiss clocks, and pretty wood carvings. These are its staple and simple industries. As its name imports it is a city of bears. "There are bears on its gates, bears on its fountains, bears in its parks and gardens, bears everywhere. But, though it rejoices in a fountain adorned with an image of Saturn eating children, nevertheless the old city—quaint, quiet, and queer—looks as if, bear-like, it had been hybernating goodnaturedly for a century, and were just about to wake up.' Its bears are in wood, in stone and in stucco; in sweet gingerbread and in solid flesh. The Bear's Den, where Bruin, as the tutelar deity of the place, is domiciled, is on the right bank of the Aar, at the foot of the handsome three-arched bridge which spans it.

On our way from Berne to Lausanne, we stopped a few hours at Freiburg and examined its celebrated suspension bridges.

LAUSANNE

is a town of over 30,000 inhabitants, beautifully situated on the terraced slopes of Mont Josat, overlooking Lake Geneva. The streets in the old part of the town are very narrow, crooked, and hilly. There are, however, some newly opened streets of good width and nearly level, on which have been erected many handsome houses. The Cathedral, over six hundred years old, is a massive Gothic edifice, standing on a terrace, reached from the market place by a dark, narrow stairway of 160 stone steps. There are several fine monuments in this church; and we noticed a tablet containing the inscription: "To the memory of Major Davel, who died on the scaffold April 24th, 1873, a martyr to the rights and liberty of the people of Vaud." Here also occurred, in 1536, the famous disputation between Calvin, Farel and Viret, which resulted in establishing Protestantism in the canton of Vaud.

Lausanne is justly celebrated for its educational facilities. Yoerden, for twenty years the scene of the labors of the great master of teachers, Pestalozzi, is only 25 miles distant, on Lake Neuchatel. A pleasant ride on the Lake Geneva, after leaving Lausanne, and we were landed at Montreaux, whence a walk of a mile and a half brought us to the far famed scene of Byron's "Prisoner of Chillon." The castle is built on a rock in the lake, 22 yards from the shore, with which it is connected by a drawbridge. Its massive walls, its strong towers, its loopholes and battlements, quite fill one's idea of a feudal castle of the middle ages. History shows that a castle stood on this spot as early as 839. Europe probably has no better preserved structure of the kind, of the same age.

After some delay, we found the castellan and were admitted, noticing as we entered above the gate the words, in German; "God bless all who come in and go out." This inscription was written by the Bernese in 1643, after the castle had ceased to be a stronghold of power and a place of terror. We did not stop long in the courtyard, where a company of soldiers was drilling, but under the leadership of a guide, who gave all his explanations in French, we hurried through the several apartments of the old castle. First, we were shown the Hall of the Knights, the ancient Banqueting Room, the Council Chamber. Next, we entered the Chamber of Question or room of torture, built of solid masonry, where the victim's cries and groans could not be heard outside. Here there is the machine on which the limbs of prisoners were stretched until they parted from the body, and the heavy stone which was attached to their feet when hoisted by the wrists to the iron staple in the beam above their heads. Then, we were taken to see the oubliette, a dark well, a hundred or more feet in depth, into which the condemned were compelled to walk down two or three steps, and then plunge headlong down upon the rocks or into the waters below—a place to be forgotten in, sure enough!

But we must take a look at the dungeons beneath the castle, and down we go. These dungeons are cells, seemingly dug out of the solid rock. In one of them there is a recess, where victims were strangled with a rope thrown across a beam, the beam still there. An adjoining one, more gloomy if possible, was the place where those condemned to die passed the night previous to their execution. Further on is the dungeon of which Byron speaks, the dungeon with the "seven pillars of Gothic mould," to which the prisoners were chained. These pillars bear evident marks of the chains of the poor sufferers, and around them the hard floor is deeply worn by their hopeless trampings. Bonivard's pillar, to which he was chained for six weary years, is thickly covered with autographs, among them those of Byron, Victor Hugo, and Eugene. How vivid seems the poet's description as we stand in the gloomy dungeon:

"The guide clanks here the rusted iron ring—
We shudder; 'iron is a cankering thing'.
Through the rent walls a silver sunbeam flashes;
Faint is the sound of waves that 'gainst them dashes.
There is a window where, with azure wing,
The bright bird perched the prisoner heard sing;
Here, 'neath our very feet, perhaps, the place
The boy, 'his mother's image in fair face,'
Was laid."

We are oppressed with the horrors of the place, and are glad to escape to the open, pure air, repeating:

"This dark old castle with its wave-washed wall,
Its ancient drawbridge, and its feudal hall,
Its dreary dungeon, where the sweet sun's ray
Scarce tells the tenant that without 'tis day;
These seven grim pillars of the Gothic mould,
Where weary years the chained captive told,
Waited, and wept, and prayed for freedom sweet,
Paced round the dungeon pillar till his feet
Wore in the floor of rock this time-enduring mark
Of cruelty of man, in ages past and dark.

From this old castle we drove to Villeneuve and took the cars to Vermayas, in order to be ready for an early start next morning by the Tete Noire to Chamouni and Mount Blanc.

The Gorge du Trient is a narrow cut worn in the rocks, eight miles long, and at its mouth over four hundred feet deep. At the bottom dashes the mad mountain torrent, the foaming Trient. The gorge can be ascended for half a mile by means of a wooden gallery attached to the rocks above the stream, and sometimes crossing from one side to the other. Nothing of the kind more wonderful is to be found among the Alps. To the geologist it is of special interest. How many years it has taken the stream to saw its way into the very heart of the solid old mountain none can tell, and none can fail to notice the cunning way it has sought out the softest places in the rock to do its work. The sun never penetrates the ravine, and the visitor has the sense of exploring a huge vaulted cavern. The water sometimes dashes down angrily among the rocks with fearful commotion; at points it forms pools and basins of great depth, and at the end of the gallery there is a waterfall thirty feet high.

The road through the Pass of Tete Noire used to be very dangerous; a narrow bridle path undefended by any screen whatever. Tunnels have been blasted through the difficult parts, large enough for three mules to walk abreast, and it is now comparatively safe and easy. As soon as we reached the valley of Chamouni, we saw before us, lying in the lap of the green valley, a gigantic pile of icy pillars, which, seen through the trees, suggested a cascade, but which on enquiry, we found to be glaciers of Mont Blanc.

CHAMOUNI, Sept. 1880. RAMBLER.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles, now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

Cabinet Changes

Consequent upon the retirement of Hon. Mr. Masson, whose resignation was announced several weeks ago, some changes will be made in the Dominion Cabinet. It is stated that one or more members of that body will retire, in addition to Mr. Masson, but the names of the retiring members and of their probable successors cannot as yet be mentioned with any certainty. One thing is certain, namely that the Premier will have no difficulty in filling the vacant offices with gentlemen of experience and ability, as the present Parliament is remarkable for the very large number of Conservative members of prominence and marked ability which it contains.

The Commercial Barometer.

Messrs. Dun, Wiman & Co., of the Mercantile Agency, have issued their statement of failures for the first nine months of the current year, which shows a very large and gratifying decrease, both in the number and amount of failures, as compared with the record of past years. The figures for the period named in each year for six years, are as follows:

	Number.	Amount.
Nine Mos. of 1875	1,569	$21,911,544
" 1876	1,356	17,785,140
" 1877	1,646	20,904,976
" 1878	1,242	18,138,321
" 1879	1,484	24,424,570
" 1880	779	6,850,611

The commercial barometer, it will thus be seen, stands high and is steadily rising. Thus the N. P., instead of ruining the country, is proving its salvation.

The Barley Question.

The Globe is still trying to make a point against the N. P. on the question of the price of barley. It says in its issue of the 23rd:

> The Amelisburg correspondent of the Belleville INTELLIGENCER a few weeks ago reported barley "still quiet at 60 cents." Now he reports that some barley has been sold on the south side of the Bay of Quinte "as low as 50 cents," and from the INTELLIGENCER'S market report we learn that at Belleville, on the north side, the price ranges from 40 to 60 cents. The Bay of Quinte district is the great barley-producing region of Canada. It was the hope of getting a higher price for their barley that induced the farmers of that district to support the N. P. Shortly before the 17th of September, 1878, the price of barley ran as high as $1.10; now the best quality, according to the INTELLIGENCER, brings only 60 cents. Comment is unnecessary.

For the Globe to assert that the farmers of the Bay district hoped to get a higher price for their barley because of the imposition of a duty on grain, is to credit them with a degree of ignorance as great as that lately shown by our contemporary as to the location of the Township of Amelisburg—a reproach which we are fully satisfied they are not deserving of. The free trade organ dare not, with all its known recklessness, assert that the decrease in the price of barley since 1878 is due to the N. P., because everybody knows that that was an exceptional year and that the average price is from 60c to 70c; but it tries to insinuate that such is the case. This insinuation is just as true as it would be to assert that the N. P. has increased the price of rye from 45c per bushel in 1878 to 92c in 1880.

JUDGE IN MANITOBA.—The Canada Gazette of Saturday, contains the following appointment: James Andrew Miller, Esq. D. C. L., one of Her Majesty's Counsel Learned in the Law, of St. Catharines, in the Province of Ontario; to be a Puisne Judge of the Court of Queen's Bench, in the Province of Manitoba, vice the Honorable James McKeagney, deceased.

A NEW GAS BURNER.—Among the various exhibits at the late exhibition of gas apparatus, at Glasgow, was a needle-governor automatic gas burner, which is worthy of notice. These burners are sent out regulated to pass from two to five cubic feet of gas per hour. They are so arranged as to extract from the gas all its impurities, and, no matter what increase of pressure may be put upon the mains, the consumer has only to pay for the quantity of gas which each of these burners unvaryingly passes.

DOMINION EXPORTS.—The Canada Gazette contains the following table of exports for September:

Produce of the mine	266,159
Produce of the fisheries	711,279
Produce of the forest	2,235,586
Animals and their produce	2,786,872
Agricultural products	4,110,939
Manufactures	521,280
Miscellaneous articles	115,341
Total	$11,346,537

Of which $8,085,924 was the produce of Canada.

This represents an increase of some two million of dollars over last year. The increase is represented by the increased exportation of agricultural products, which were some two millions more than for September last year.

Capture of a Horse-Thief.

Wellington Young in the Toils.

On the night of Wednesday, the 13th inst., several robberies were committed in Napanee, amongst the number being the theft of a bay mare, harness and waggon, the property of Mr. George M. Beeman, one of the proprietors of the Napanee Beaver, of which the police in Belleville and other places were notified. On Saturday morning, the 23rd, a bay mare was found on the premises of Mr. Willet C. Farley, in Thurlow, and Mr. Farley, concluding that the animal had been stolen, brought it down with a waggon which was found in the woods near by. The police at once concluded, from the descriptions which they had seen, that the mare and waggon were Mr. Beeman's, so that gentleman was communicated with, and arriving here on Saturday evening, fully identified his property and took it home.

The Chief, having received a particular description of the man who had been seen with Mr. Beeman's mare and waggon, concluded that the robbery had been committed by Wellington Young, a man who had previously passed terms in the Central Prison and the Penitentiary for larceny, and resolved on arresting him. Knowing the slippery character of this man, he had Young's house watched until he was seen enter it, when the Chief, taking with him Sergeant Snider and officer Cook, proceeded to the place. After stationing Snider and Cook outside as guards at two back doors, the Chief entered and was politely asked by Young to enter his room whilst he dressed and to sit down. This latter invitation, upon which Young was very pressing, was declined by Mr. McKinnon on the ground that it would not be comfortable to sit in a heavy overcoat, the real reason being that he supposed that the prisoner intended making an attempt to bolt. Young proceeded with his toilet making until he said his boots were in a shed at the rear of the house. The door of this part of the premises being one of those which were guarded, the Chief made no objection, so Young went into the shed, almost closing behind him the door which communicated with the other rooms. Mr. McKinnon stole forward on tip-toe to this door, the bolt of which made a slight "click" as Young opened it. The prisoner opened the door, doubtless rejoicing in visions of a sharp run and a glorious escape; but the appearance of constable Cook completely dashed his hopes and so he quietly yielded and was taken to the police station. The police of Napanee have been notified of the arrest, and will arrive to-day to take the prisoner to that town for examination.

Bridge Street Sunday School.

The Reopening Services.

The services in connection with the re-opening of the Bridge Street Methodist Sunday School, the improvements in which were recently described in these columns, took place yesterday, according to previous announcement.

Rev. W. Hall, of Montreal, preached at morning service. His discourse was founded upon the parable of the mustard seed, and the application was that Robert Raikes had sown the grain of seed in connection with Sunday Schools, which had grown so rapidly and vigorously that they overshadowed the land. The army of Sunday School scholars was greater than that of Alexander or the mighty host which Napoleon sacrificed in Russia. He enlarged upon the importance of the Sunday School work, and urged its maintenance as one of the most powerful agencies of the Church.

In the afternoon, the formal re-opening of the Sunday School rooms took place, in the presence of a very large audience. Rev. Mr. Hall delivered an eloquent and highly appropriate address. He urged upon teachers that they should be patient; upon parents that they should be kind and forbearing, and never hesitate to give praise where it was due; and upon children, that they should obey their parents. He said he considered himself "one of the family" in the congregation of Bridge Street Church, owing to his previous connection with the congregation. He heartily congratulated them on the great progress they had made in Sunday School work, and united with them in their gratification at being now possessed of premises so elegantly fitted up and so suitable for Sunday School work.

Rev. Dr. Jeffers also spoke briefly. He said he liked to see good houses well furnished and people well but not gaudily dressed, and so he was well pleased with their School rooms, as now altered, improved, and beautified. Mr. Wm. Johnson, Superintendent of the School, also made a few appropriate remarks, and the choir rendered some acceptable music.

At the evening service the Rev. Dr. Jeffers preached before a large congregation. His discourse was founded upon Zechariah's dream regarding the seven candles. From this he deduced the lesson that our opportunities for spreading the gospel and teaching the Word are much greater than were those possessed by Christians in former times, and urged us to make the most of our opportunities.

A SENSATION.—North Augusta, near Prescott has a sensation. A man named Mayhew recently died, and after the funeral he is said to have appeared three nights in succession to his wife, and told her that he had been buried alive. The grave was opened, and it was found that the glass covering the face had been broken, and one of the hands raised up.

HEAVY LOSS OF CATTLE.—The steamship Ayton with 100 cattle and 202 sheep on board, and the Herworth with 141 cattle, 136 sheep and seven calves on board both cleared from Montreal on Sep. 29th, taking the southern course across the Atlantic. By cablegram just received, it appears that the Herworth had all her live stock swept overboard and the Ayton lost 75 cattle and 152 sheep on the voyage. It is somewhat singular that the steamers which left at the same time taking the northern route, landed all their cattle safe in British ports. All these cattle and sheep belonged to Ald. McShane, Montreal, and were insured.

Teachers' Examination.

The Professional Examination of Candidates for Third Class Teachers' Certificates for North and South Hastings, was held in the Central School, Belleville, on Thursday and Friday, October 21st and 22nd.

Forty-nine candidates presented themselves, of whom forty-six were successful. The candidates who failed were found to be not quite up to the required standard in the essential point of "Apptitude to teach," besides failing on the aggregate.

Of the successful candidates six were placed in the first class or grade A, twenty in the second or grade B, and the remainder in the third or grade C.

We append a list of the successful candidates, arranged in order of merit, together with their marks and schools at which they obtained their professional training.

Presentation.

The term of the South Hastings Normal School closed on Friday, and on the evening of the same day the teachers in training who had been in attendance proceeded to the residence of Mr. John Irwin, Principal of the School, to whom they presented a Silver Butter Cooler and the following Address, which speaks for itself:

TO JOHN IRWIN, Esq.,

Head Master Belleville Model School.

RESPECTED AND DEAR SIR,—As this the fourth session of the Belleville Model School closes, we the late Teachers-in-training deem it a pleasing duty to express our deep regret of the circumstances which sever the relations existing between us, to offer some feeble meed of praise of the excellence of your instructive and exhaustive lectures, and to present some small token of our thankfulness for the uniform courtesy and kindness so continuously shown us while under your charge.

We can truthfully say that "our lines have been cast in pleasant places," and that on entering the more active duties of the profession we will carry with us a genuine appreciation of the Belleville Model School, and a hearty confidence in the system of teaching pursued by yourself and your able assistants, together with a feeling of enthusiasm in future work, which is mainly due to the spirit of activity and efficiency that pervades the Institution of which you are the Principal.

We pray you, Sir, to accept the accompanying piece of Silver-ware, as a small recognition of your unremitting attention to our comfort, and deep interest in our advancement in the art of teaching.

That you may be long spared to fill the honorable position you now hold, is the sincere wish of the class.

Signed on their behalf by the Committee,

J. FRED. PARKER,
DANIEL B. STEVENS,
ANNIE M. HAROLD,
LENORA SIMONDS.

Belleville, Oct. 22d, 1880.

Mr. Irwin made a verbal reply of a suitable character, and invited his visitors to partake of refreshments. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Sporting Notes.

The Hop Bitters regatta is to take place on the Thames.

Hanlan continues in good health. He does not row on Sundays.

Turnbull Smith defeated R. N. Harrison, in a wrestling match—mixed—at Toronto on Saturday night.

The three mile sculling race between Ellis Ward, of Philadelphia, and Richard Nagle, of St. John, N. B., took place on Saturday and resulted in favor of Nagle on a foul.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Hanlan is going well. Fifty five to forty is laid on him. The great regatta arrangements are progressing. Mr. Soule yesterday inspected and approved of the Thames course. A challenge has been issued by Blackman to Trickett for a thousand pounds, the former to have two hundred yards' start.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Riley and Ross, the oarsmen, intend to take up their quarters together at a private house near Putney. Ross made his first appearance on the river this morning, rowing to Barnes and then back smartly to Putney. His style was favorably commented on. A sporting correspondent says he considers him one of the most formid able competitors. Hosmer, who has been unwell, is improving, but was not afloat to-day. Water side frequenters consider Trickett much improved, and likely to make a better fight than at first anticipated. Hanlan, Trickett, Laycock, and Riley practised today as usual, but nothing worthy of note transpired. All continue in the best condition.

DROWNED.—The Kingston Whig says: "The sad intelligence of the loss of the schr. Heather Bell, of Picton, Ont., has been received here. One of the survivors says the vessel went ashore near Kintail dock, Ont., and that the Captain was drowned. Capt. Norman McDonald was very well known and very highly esteemed. Capt. McDonald had a farm at Paisley. He leaves a wife and family.

TORONTO, GREY AND BRUCE.—A cable special to the Globe says:—"An agreement has been settled by the Grand Trunk Co., for the leasing and working of the Toronto Grey and Bruce on a percentage division of the receipts. The result will be to secure to the present bondholders about three per cent. per annum, with contingent advances. The arrangement has been approved of by the Committee of the bondholders.

A LARGE FUND.—The Reform Club in England is stated to have raised £270,000 for election purposes, the Dukes of Beford and Devonshire each contributing £45,000, and the wealthy Duke of Westminister a still larger amount.

SENSELESS FABRICATIONS.—The Mail says among the stories told in the Globe relative to the Railway syndicate was one about Messrs. Reekie and Drew, M. P., having been requested to join the syndicate, and that they refused. We are in position to say that the story has no foundation whatever. Not a word has been said to either of the gentlemen on the subject. We understand that the members of the syndicate have not been in any way altered since the contract was signed in London. The public will need to be cautious about accepting the statements of the Opposition press on this subject, particularly the senseless fabrications of the Globe.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

LOST.—The reader's attention is directed to the advertisement of Bunch of Keys Lost.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, easterly and southerly winds, cloudy warmer weather, with rain areas.

REJOICING.—The small boy rejoices over the arriving of the snow. He has had his first "coasting" expedition, and his first battle with snow balls, and is correspondingly happy.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Rev. R. Mackayt Evangelist, of Kingston, will conduc, Evangelistic services in the Congregational Church, to-night, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, at 8 o'clock.

SPORTING.—Very poor success has as yet rewarded the labors of those who have gone in pursuit of the migrating ducks. There are a large number of birds in the bays, but they persistently remain on the open places, where the sportsmen cannot get within gunshot of them.

COURT OF REVISION.—All interested are reminded that the Court of Revision will meet for the first time to-morrow night, for the purpose of hearing appeals against the assessment for 1881. The sittings of the Court will be held as per advertisement and are likely to be lengthy, as there are about 200 appeals to dispose of.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.—The mechanics engaged in the various lines of building operations, are hurrying forward their work with all possible despatch, in anticipation of the early setting in of the winter. During the next few days, a good many buildings will be completed and ready for occupation. Some of this season's erection are already occupied by their owners.

HE BLEW IT OUT.—The Mail of the 23rd says:—"It seems the fools are not all dead yet, because if they were Robert McKinnon, of Prince Edward county, would not have blown out the gas in the Rossin House on Tuesday night when he went to bed. Yesterday morning he was found in an unconscious condition in his room, but Dr. MacDonald was summoned, and by promptly applying restoratives he succeeded in restoring the patient somewhat, although he was not out of danger last night."

THE CARMAN FAMILY.—The Hamilton Times says:—"Two hundred and fifty years ago John and Florence Carman settled at Hempstead, Long Island, where they pre-empted 120,000 acres of land. I is proposed to have a grand blow out of their descendants on the third of November, 1881, and also to make some arrangements looking toward the recovery of some of the land, of which proper conveyances were not made. Mr. T. S. Carman, proprietor of the Ontario, and Mr. J. W. Carman, publisher of the St. Catharines Daily News, are amongst the claimants.

WINTER.—With a fall in temperature towards sunset on Saturday, a heavy and steady descent of snow succeeded the rain which had continued during the greater part of the day and the previous night. So on Sunday morning the ground was covered with a coating of snow, which varied in depth from an inch or two to six inches, as drifting had taken place to a considerable extent. The weather continued cold throughout the day and although some of the snow melted when the sun was at its height, yet this morning the country was still whitened over the greater part of it surface. This is an early touch of winter, but those who are weatherwise predict that fine weather will follow it.

APPOINTMENT.—The Ontario Gazette of Saturday contains the following appointment:—"J. B. Parker, of the Village of Stirling, to be Clerk of the Fifth Division Court of the County of Hastings, in the room and stead of George E. Bull, removed from office."

PERSONAL.—Mr. John Grant, formerly manager of Messrs. Rathbun & Son's business in this city, will leave to-morrow night for Winnipeg. Mr. Grant goes to superintend the getting out of timber for Mr. W. T. Dennison, who has secured the contract for bridging on 150 miles of the Pacific Railway, and the supplying of ties for the same for two years.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—The Ontario Business College announces in another column the opening of the Night School, on Monday week, November 1st. Young men should avail themselves of this opportunity to obtain instruction from such practical men as the principals of this institution. Those desiring to commence a business education, may make a start in the night school, and may afterwards, enter the day school and have night school fees applied upon their scholarship, which is a most liberal arrangement. From personal knowledge we are pleased to note the increasing success of the College. It is drawing students from such distant points as the West Indies, there being two in attendance from Bermuda, and on Friday last, a student entered from the western part of New York. Its graduates are to be found almost everywhere filling good positions. In this city, some of the best book-keeper's positions are held by them. The work done at the College has placed it, and is keeping it, at the head of the Business Colleges of the Continent.

THE NEW COMET.—The Rochester Astronomical Society announces that the comet discovered by Prof. Swift on Sunday last promises to become very brilliant. It is coming almost straight toward the earth, and so its position in the heavens thanges slowly. It is in the constellation Pegasus, which is overhead at about 9 o'clock in the evening. It seems to be throwing off a brilliant trail, which will become visible to the naked eye as it swings into the neighborhood of the sun. If this comet fulfills its present promise it will be a magnificent object in the coming winter evenings. Some of the astronomers, it seems, suspect that this may be the great comet that blazed with extraordinary splendor in the western sky just before the war of 1812. If so, and if it retains it former brilliancy, there is a great treat in store for us. But there have been so many comets discovered this year which have disappointed those who predicted great things for them, that it will be well not to expect much of the new comer until it has given unmistakable evidences of its mettle.

"LADY THORN."—Concerning the death of this highly promising young trotter, owned by Messrs. O'Brien and McGuire, of this city, which died at the Rochester Driving Park a few days ago, Mr. Wm. Slack, Superintendent of the training stables, writes to Mr. O'Brien giving full particulars of the animal's illness and death. He says that death resulted from the twisting of one of the main intestines, and that the suffering animal was game to the last, dying on her feet. In the morning when the stable man offered her water she would not drink. He then offered oats, but though usually greedy for her feed, Lady Thorn ate but little. She was then blanketed and walked about the yard, but on returning to the stable seemed uneasy and wanted to lie down. The mare was put in her stall and Mr. Drinkwater, V. S., summoned. Her pulse was then 55, but it kept going up all day, and rose to 120. Seeing that the animal could not live, Mr. Slack and assistants sat up with her, and she died at 2 a. m. in great pain. Mr. Slack adds that Lady Thorn was in his opinion the fastest trotter ever raised in Canada—the best he had ever handled—and that had she lived she would next spring have been able to show three heats in 2:18 or better.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending October 16th and 23d respectively, contain the following articles: The English Precursors of Newton, and Bright's Edition of Pepys's Diary, Edinburgh; A contemporary Narrative of the Fall of the Bastile, Fortnightly Hypnotism, Nineteenth Century; Overbury's Characters, Fraser; The Bayard of the East, Blackwood; Life in the Homeric Age, and A Letter from Constantinople, Temple Bar; Poetic Parallels, Chamber's Journal; Life in a Bernese Village, and the Victory of Chili, Spectator; "Pilgrim's Progress," Note Paper, Saturday Review; A Glance at the Jews of England, Examiner; Quinine Production in India, Pall Mall; and in the way of Fiction, "A Really Good Case," "A Little Bohemian and an instalment of "Adam and Eve," with the usual amount of poetry. A new volume began with October. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10,-50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

OVER COATS for the million. The largest stock of over Coats in Belleville. A good useful overcoat for $4,25. JAS. HENNESSY.

Amusements.

Major Pond's grand combination concert company, which is composed of Abbey's Spanish Students, the Weber Male Quartette and Isabel Stone, the favorite Boston Suprano will give a concert in the Metropolitan Hall to-night. The entertainment given by this organization is of extraordinary merit and ought to attract a crowded house.

Remenyi, the great violinist, who is to appear in the Metropolitan Hall on Friday night assisted by first class artists, had a grand reception at Cobourg. The students of Victoria College were so delighted with his performance that at the conclusion of the concert they unhitched the horses from his carriage and drew him in triumph to his hotel.

Marine.

The schr. Delaware arrived this morning from Oswego and will be loaded with barley by Downey & Preston.

The tug Bonar arrived light from Napanee on Saturday night. She left this morning for Mill Point with the schr. North Star, partly laden with barley, in tow.

The schr. Ontario, which was partially, loaded with rye at the Grand Junction wharf filled out to-day at Downey & Preston's and left for Oswego.

The schr. Carter, which was ashore in the west channel, succeeded in working off on Saturday afternoon.

The rates on the upper lakes are still at paying figures for American vessels. The rate of 8c on wheat from Chicago to Buffalo makes a large return for the vessel. And 4½c from Toledo to Buffalo is beyond precedent.

It is now considered that the Alpena foundered about midway across the lake between Milwaukee and Grand Haven. And it is also evident from certain circumstances that the event took place in the night. Mariners say that it is highly probable if the steamer had had a mast and a sail she could have lifted herself out of the trough of the sea and been saved

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, writing from Holland, near Grand Haven, reports that a guard has been placed along the beach for miles to prevent the pillage of the bodies that may drift to shore. Six bodies had come to shore on Thursday. Great indignation was expressed at the Company's not being able to supply a list of passengers, and prominent men here say that the Michigan Legislature cannot close another session without having first passed stringent legislation which will prevent the recurrence of such criminal carelessness, and they express the hope that the Illinois Legislature will also take action in the matter.

MORNING DESPATCHES

AMERICAN.

The Irish Troubles----Land Leaguers Organizing.

LANDLORDS ALARMED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Herald's Dublin despatch says: Before Parnell left here for Galway on Saturday, a large conference was held by the chiefs of the land league, to decide what action should be taken in view of the determination of the Government to prosecute the league. It was decided to adopt immediate measures to secure the complete organization of the tenant farmers all over Ireland, so that a general strike against the payment of rent might be put in force next year. It was decided to appoint a general organizer for all Ireland, assisted by six district organizers, whose duty it would be to establish a branch of the league in every parish, so that the organization would act in case of a prolonged imprisonment of the leaguers. This plan would be put in operation. Parnell has telegraphed and written to Davitt, urging him in the strongest manner to remain in America and organize aid when the profecutions have actually begun. The action of the Government will probably lead to the disappearance of all remaining hostility between Fenians and land leaguers. It is thought they will combine throughout the country, in the face of what is considered a common danger:

Considerable alarm exists among the landlord class. Orders have been received by Dublin tailors for armor plated ulsters, and several are actually in process of manufacture.

FIRE AT MANCHESTER.

The World's London says—"The Post Office at Manchester, last night was burning and likely to be destroyed. All telegraphic communication with London at midnight was suspended. Great alarm is felt, as there are plain indications that the fire was set by incendiaries. It is believed by many persons that this indicates the intention to organize disturbances in England in aid of the Land League in Ireland.

REGIMENTS ORDERED TO THE SCENE OF THE FIRE.

Two regiments of infantry at Devonport have been ordered by telegraph to the suburb of Manchester, which were under orders for Ireland. The Government is surprised at the extent of the opposition to the course it is pursuing in relation to land leaguers, all shades of political opinion unite in denouncing it as a weak reaction, but members of the Cabinet state that the Ministry will stand or fall by its Irish policy.

POLITICAL MEETING BROKEN UP.

The Times Montgomery, Alabama, special states that on Saturday a Republican meeting addressed by Paul Strobach, candidate for Congress, was broken up by a mob and two colored men severely stabbed and several mercilessly beaten. A Republican meeting at Loachapoke, addressed by A. Mobson, candidate for Congress and Judge Martin, nominee for elector, was also broken up by a mob, consisting largely of students of Auburn Agricultural College, an institution endowed by the National Government.

ANOTHER SCULLING MACH.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Thomas Blackman, of Dalwich, has posted £100 for a match with Trickett over the Thames course for £500 a side, Blackman to reaeive 300 yards start.

A TOWN DESTROYED BY FIRE.

IQUIQUE, PERU, OCT. 23.—This town has been almost totally destroyed by fire.

A LAND LEAGUER JUSTIFIES MURDER.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Matthew Harris, one o the speakers at a land meeting at Galway yesterday, asked whether it were better for one man to be shot, or a hundred families be driven from Ireland, and said after witnessing the eviction of farmers he resolved if the farmers shot landlords like partridges, he would never say a word against it. His speech was received with cheers. He then proceeded to denounce an agent by name, but was mildly rebuked by the chairman of the meeting.

PARNELL'S ARGUMENT.

The Times summarizes Parnell's argument in his speech yesterday at Galway as meaning that crime and outrage are justifiable by the determination of the Government to keep the peace and the refusal of the House of Lords to pass the compensation for disturbance in Ireland bill, and says it is impossible to mistake the meaning of such an argument or the purpose of the man who uses it. The condition of Ireland and the temper of the men who are criminally misleading the people calls for instant attention.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y

FLOODS IN FRANCE.—The French seaport town of Cherbourg has been visited by heavy floods, the water in some quarters of the city reaching the first story windows of the houses, and giving the police and soldiers of the garrison some hard work to save life.

To keep the bowels regular, the stomach effective, the liver active, the kidneys free, use Dr. Wilson's Anti-bilious and Preserving Pills

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combine

EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Subscriptions are conditioned upon stock being sold on or before January 1st, 1881, to the amount necessary to complete the payments of purchase money on the property of the Company. Should this condition not be fulfilled, the money paid on account of this purchase is to be returned in full.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

RE MARY HOLTON AND OTHERS.

PURSUANT to an order of the Court of Chancery made in the matter of Mary Holton and heirs, infants under the age of twenty-one years, the creditors of Era William Holton, late of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, who died in or about the month of July, 1879, are on or before the 8th day of November next, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Flint & Jellett, of Belleville, aforesaid, the Solicitors for the petitioners in this matter, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said order.

Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my Chambers in Shire Hall, in Belleville, aforesaid, on the 11th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, being the time appointed for adjudication on the claims.

Dated this 9th day of October, 1880.

Swarming Extraordinary.

D. N. Kern relates in the Ohio Farmer the following experience with a swarm of Italian bees: The first swarm came out May 5, and was put in a hive filled with comb. On the 19th of May the second swarm came out, and was hived with a weak swarm. On the 20th the third came out, and was hived with the second and the weak swarm. On the 21st the fourth swarm came out. Mr. Kern caught the queen and killed it, and put the swarm back to the old colony. On the 23rd the fifth swarm came out. He caught two queens and killed them and put the swarm back again. On the 24th, at 9 o'clock a.m., the sixth swarm came out. He caught two queens again and killed them, and put the swarm back again. The same day, at three o'clock p. m., the seventh swarm came out again. This time he hived them in an old straw hive, and set them on top of the old hive. In the evening of the 25th he shook them down in front of the old hive again, and that settled for the time the swarming fever of the old hive. But on the 26th of June, the first young swarm threw out a very large swarm, and on July 3rd threw out a second swarm, and about five minutes after a swarm came out of the old hive again. He threw both swarms together and sold them for $200 cash. All these swarms made 235 pounds of comb honey.

Italian Iron-Clads.

Speaking of the navies of Europe it has often struck us, says the Saturday Review, that the Italians are in advance of all other peoples in knowing exactly what they want and making corresponding provision. They have not much money to devote to iron-clads; so, getting their wits to work, they draw the logical inference, as year after year has found naval authorities in every country adding on an additional inch to broadside armor or a couple of inches to turret armor, it would be an economy if they anticipated the development of two or three years. And, as every year has witnessed the growth of guns, as by a process of nature, it occurred to them to forestall the normal increase of some years and to arm their new turret batteries with guns of incomparable power. The consequence of their action in both these respects is that the Italians have in the "Duilio" and "Dandolo" vessels which, after every deduction has been made for their several unmistakable faults, would each of them in all probability cripple hopelessly or send to the bottom any ship now sailing in the English, French or any other navy. The "Italia" is a barbette ship of the same class as the "Duilio" and "Dandolo." A companion monster, the "Lapanto" is in course of construction.

EVERYBODY uses "Teaberry" to beautify and preserve the teeth. It sweetens and gives fragrance to the breath Delightfully cooling and refreshing. Testimonials from all over the country of its excellence. Price 50c. 134 d&wly.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

EXTRACT
FROM THE 'MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE
AND
Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES
COMP: FELLOWS.

GENERAL DEBILITY
Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption
IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF
Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermittent Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Epeleptic Fits"
ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. WALTER OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA.

XLIV.

For the Intelligencer.

The village of Chamouni, near the base of Mount Blanc, has nothing in particular to recommend it. The buildings and every thing about it have a rough, coarse appearance, but thousands of visitors patronize its hotels during the summer season on account of the sights in their vicinity.

The first thought on waking this morning was, "here we are in the valley of Chamouni, right under the shadow of that we had studied about in childhood, and found on the map of our atlas." We sprang up, and walking to the window found it was really there. Yes, true enough, there it stands! right over our heads, as if blocking out our very existence—a pyramid of dazzling snow—the three rounded domes of the summit cutting their forms with icy distinctness on the intense blue of the sky. You must wait and have a good breakfast, and even then you cannot rush out and up Mont Blanc ad libitum. You must go in the regular appointed way, with a guide. The matter of guides is thoroughly systematized here. As a sailor knows every rope, and spar of his ship, and seems to identify his existence with her, so these guides their mountains. The mountains are everything to them, their calendar, their book, their newspaper, their barometer, their education and their livelihood.

About 8 a. m. we are mounted on mules ready for the ascent. Our guide only understands French, therefore my friend and self can abuse his mules, outfit, &c., without his understanding what we are talking about. My friend observed as soon as I mounted, that my mule was evidently safe and stupid. You may rest assured, said he, that no erratic fires, or influx of new ideas will ever lead him to desert the old paths, and pitch you over a precipice.

He had an advantage in being able to speak French well, and after asking the guide some question, tried to comfort me still more by informing me that the guide was not certain of my saddle girth being strong enough to hold the saddle in a dangerous place, but if I should slip off backwards I could save myself by grasping, and holding fast to the mule's tail.

We are off. We pass the village, and enter a road banded with green turf, and soon begin to ascend. We keep winding among the pine trees till we come almost under the glacier called the Mar de Glace. A fairy like cascade falls down from under its pillars of ice over the dark rocks—a cloud of feathery foam—and then streams into the valley below. We now begin to thread a zig-zag path on the steep side of the mountain, and my friend who is ahead shouts back, "look out for that old, unsafe girth, here." Each mule keeps his nose close to the heels of his predecessor. The guide ahead, my Finland friend next, and your correspondent bringing up the rear. My friend's mule, apparently from a habit of abstract meditation, which seemed to come on him in very inconvenient localities, would stop now and then, in some most dangerous place, and back down till he got good footing. The idea seemed to strike him all of a sudden that he was an ill-used beast, and that he'd be hang'd if he went another step. His stopping, often stopped my animal in some very critical locality, just on the verge of a precipice or while ascending some rocky stairway. About noon we reached a board shanty, as near the top as it is possible to go on mules. It is rather a discoursging reflection that one should work his passage, with a club, on a mule's back for four hours to get to such a desolate place as these mountain tops are; nothing but rocks and snow; a shanty, with a show case full of minerals, articles of carved wood, and Alpine flowers for sale. In these show cases the Alps are brought to market as thoroughly as it can be done by Swiss ingenuity. The chamois figures largely; there are purses of chamois skin, walking-sticks and alpenstocks tipped with chamois horn; sometimes an entire skin, horns and all, hanging disconsolately downwards. Then all manners of crystals, such as are found in the rocks, are served up—agate pins, rings, seals, bracelets, cups, cuff-buttons and snuff boxes—all of which are duly urged on your attention; so that instead of falling into raptures at the sight of Mont Blanc, the regular yankee tourist begins to drive a bargain for a cane, or some other memento. Leaving our mules tied in a shed, we climed for another hour, when I was glad to hear that it would not be safe, at this season of the year, to proceed further. Our guide pointed out every feature with great accuracy and minutiae. I must confess, I felt somewhat disappointed after such an effort. As long as we see only glimpses, and imagine there is much more that we do not see, the mind is kept in a constant excitement and play; but come to a point where you take in the whole affair and your mind is apt to fall listless.

Returning to the shanty we partook of luncheon, and made the descent in about three hours. It was a lovely afternoon; the sun had got over the Mont Blanc side of the world, and threw the broad, cool shadow of the mountain quite across the valley. As we passed down the side of the mountain, everything seemed so beautiful, so thoughtful and so calm. All the goats and cows were in motion along the mountain paths, each one tinkling his little bell, and filling the rocky nooks with gentle melodies. The lines of these cattle-paths run like threads all along the sides of the mountains. The cattle are of a much smaller breed than we have in Canada, but are very handsome.

Leaving Chamouni we retraced our steps to Villeneuve and proceeded thence by steamer to GENEVA.

This is an ancient and one of the most beautiful cities in Switzerland.

It is situated on the charming lake of the same name, and the Rhone that breaks from the lake at this place, dashes rapidly through the centre of the city and is spanned by a number of magnificent bridges. Like most old European cities it is divided into the old and new parts. The more modern portions are well laid out, and possess wide and spacious streets, but the streets of the old portion are narrow and irregular. After an early drive through the city and a stroll around the principal shops, we were very glad, on account of the weather being so oppressively hot, to get back to our hotel. And now as we gaze from our room window, panting with heat, upon Lake Geneva, which reflects the sun like a burning glass, we are thinking whether you have such weather at home or not. The changes, travelling through this country, are dangerously sudden; for the past few days we were nearly frozen amongst the snow on the mountains, and now we are nearly turned into a liquid state with the heat of the valley.

We have finished our sightseeing on the Continent, and shall immediately return to London, by way of Macon and Paris. We need scarcely tell you that we return delighted, edified and bettered by the trip. A tour of this kind is to the mind what sunshine is to the flower, what water is to the fountain.

There are many people who would not see these places as we have described them; it depends a great deal upon the taste of the traveller; according to his powers of appreciation will his enjoyments be full or limited; or should he encounter wet and gloomy weather, it would deprive him of the best sights of distant mountain tops, of valleys and lakes from high elevations, and of many magnificent views which the continued sunshine and clear blue sky with which we were favored gave to us.

A Woman Turned To Stone.

The Petrified Body of a Squaw Found on Cascade Lake.

On Thursday last Alonzo Zalletto, an Italian fisherman, discovered a petrified woman at Cascade Lake. He was putting out to fish at the time, and when putting off his boat struck his oar against something which attracted his attention. He investigated the matter, and found a petrified hand protruding from the sand and pebbles on the beach. In a short time he had unearthed a woman in a complete state of petrifaction. It was small in size, brown in colour, and scrawny and emaciated. The petrifaction had a hideous appearance and the body orignally must have belonged to a shrivelled, sickly woman. The left breast was well developed, but the arms and legs were not much larger than the bones would have been, and the fingers on the right hand were gone. The petrifaction weighed nearly 200 pounds, and a more unsightly object could not well be imagined. It was brought down to Lake Bigler in the afternoon, and Mr L. J. Wilson, of San Francisco, has offered $100 for it, as he wished to present it to the Academy of Science. In all probability the body is that of an Indian woman. There is a tradition that years ago the Indians had a battle at Cascade Lake, in which the squaws joined and the dead were buried on the shore of the lake. Under certain conditions the human cadaver petrifies—more especially in water. The finder wants $150 for his prize, and it is probable that the sum will be paid by the academy and the curosity sent to San Francisco—Carson (Nevada) Appeal.

OVER A PRECIPICE.

A Train Blown from the Track and Hurled Seventy Feet Downwards.

The New Zealand Herald says: "The train which left Greytown for Wellington at 8:30 a.m. on September 12th, when just beyond Cross Creek, was blown off the line and hurled over a precipice seventy feet high. The luggage van and passenger carriages were overturned. The couplings did not break, but still held the carver frames to the engine, which remained tightly gripping the middle rail and luckily held firm, although swaying visibly under the strain. The whole of the upper part of the carriage, however, was smashed into matchwood and hurled over the precipice, passengers and debris being scattered among the boulders down the side of the declivity, but not falling to the bottom. For a while the wreck of carriages hung suspended above them, and had it given way or the engine fallen over, all must have been crushed to a jelly, as the gully at this place converges almost to a point nearly a hundred feet below, so that had all gone down they would have been crushed into a compact mass at the bottom. They lay around for a time unconscious, and those who first recovered their senses described the scene as a fearful one—killed and wounded lying around in all directions, covered with blood, and the train above mentioned in mid air, threatening every moment to fall on them. A Fell brake was detached to run down the incline for assistance. The two produce waggons were also capsized by the gale, and the engine had to sustain a double strain of the several vehicles hanging over the precipice at both ends, full weight on the couplings, which fortunately held fast. Two of the children killed on the spot were smothered in the debris. The other was partially decapitated and its brains dashed out. The third was picked up not quite dead, by Hugh Dickson, one of the passengers, himself much injured. He tried to carry her up the bank, but she died in his arms, before reaching the top. When the special train arrived at the spot with doctors, the force of the wind was so great that they had to crawl on their hands and knees, tightly clutching the middle rail to avoid being blown over the precipice."

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical colums of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

The Latest "Double Shuffle."

The Provincial Government, in the transfer of Mr. Steadman, who was charged with brutality towards the prisoners in the Central Prison, from that institution to the Penetanguishene Reformatory, set a bad precedent. They have done still worse by following out that precedent, in appointing Capt. Prince, the former Warden of the Central Prison, to be Registrar of South Wellington, and transferring Mr. Massie from the Wellington Registrarship to the Wardenship of the Central Prison. The double shuffle has been severely commented on by the press, and even the Guelph Mercury, one of their most pliant organs, feels constrained to condemn the transaction, which it does as follows:

"As to the transfer of Captain Prince to the Registrarship of South Wellington that is not so pleasant a matter to deal with. There has been much talk in the newspapers about this gentleman, and not a few charges have been brought against him in connection with his management of the Central Prison. Not a little scandal has also been circulated about his habits &c., which has tended to prejudice the public mind against him. The Government have cleared him of the charges as affecting his duties as Warden, and there is little doubt that the scandal referred to has been greatly, and for a purpose, exaggerated. But the fact remains behind that the Government felt that they could not keep him any longer in the position he held, that his "usefulness was gone," and that they must provide him with another office. They have chosen to put him into the Registrarship of South Wellington. We doubt they did so with the best intentions, and on the ground that no positive charge against him had been proved. But it will be hard for the Reformers of this Riding to accept the transfer, or to acquiesce in the convenient way the Government have of shaping things to suit this extreme stretch of their principle of expediency, or to prevent them from believing that this Riding is now regarded as a convenient refuge for politicians of faded reputation, or for office-holders whose record and habits render them unsuitable for the positions they held in other places, and who are conveniently pensioned off in our much patronized Riding."

There can be no doubt that the action of the Government was wrong in both cases. Messrs. Steadman and Prince were charged with serious offences and ought either to have been honorably acquitted or discharged from the public service. Our Ontario rulers rendered a verdict of acquittal in each case, but practically acknowledged the truth of the charges by removing the accused from the positions which they held and placing them in other places in the public service. Shilly-shallying is the characteristic of Mr. Mowat's Government, which ought for such conduct to receive the condemnation of all, irrespective of party. They have proved unworthy of public confidence and ought themselves to be removed from office.

N. P. Notes.

Nordhausen & Co.'s button factory, at Berlin, is being enlarged to three times its former capacity.

The Kingston News says:—"A furrier in this city has shown us a circular issued by J. Silverstein & Co., who lately kept an extensive fur establishment in New York, which speaks for itself. 'Messrs. J. Silverstein & Co., late of New York, take pleasure in informing you that having been encouraged to establish in Canada the manufacture of fur trimmings, they are now prepared to execute orders for muff tassels of superior quality, cloak ornaments, silk cord, crochet barrel buttons and loops, hat and cap cords, &c. As we employ only experienced hands, we will guarantee all our work equal to the imported and at prices considerably lower.'"

The capacity of McMillan's malt house at Kingston is to be doubled. It will, when refitted, turn out 140,000 bushels of malt per year and give employment to 25 men.

DEATH OF JOHN MATHEWSON.—Montreal papers announce the death of Mr. John Mathewson, who for half a century, was one of the most active and influential citizens. He died on Saturday night, at the ripe old age of ninety years. His commercial career was characterized by surprising activity and industry, which never declined even in the face of repeated and serious reverses. His works were three times destroyed by fire. He was a member of the City Council in 1843 and 1844, and took a lively interest in immigration matters. Until about ten years ago he continued active in business, in spite of personal afflictions. His influence was felt in a marked degree in all movements of religious progress. He took an active interest in the foundation of the Ottawa Street Methodist Church. He was connected with the Bible Society from its formation, and was a trustee of the old St. James Street Church, as well as of present churches.

Political Notes.

IS IT A NEW DEPARTURE?

The Newmarket Era (Reform) says:—"The Globe comments favorably upon an extract taken from a letter in the Ohio Farmer, and calls the attention of the Minister of Agriculture thereto, in which the following argument is used:—'I take it to be the highest duty of Government not only to protect and defend the rights of its citizens, but also to produce such circumstances as will compel other Governments to respect them, at least to the point of equality of rights and reciprocal reciprocity of privileges.' Is the Globe hereafter to be classed among the protectionists? The principle laid down in the letter published in the Ohio Farmer is just what the advocates of the N. P. claim the present Government is doing by the existing Canadian tariff, and looks as if our contemporary was making another new departure. Hon. Mr. Tilley has said that as soon as the American Government will give us reciprocal trade he will be prepared to recommend the same to the Commons of Canada and take down the high wall which his existing protective tariff has erected."

COAL OIL RINGS.

The Toronto Telegram says: "While they are emptying the vials of their wrath on the heads of the coal oil speculators who have formed a combination to keep the price of coal oil up to a high figure, and blaming the Government's trade policy for allowing speculators to do this, it would be as well for Reform journals to bear in mind that there were coal oil rings before the National Policy was dreamed of."

OUT OF THE QUESTION.

The London Advertiser sensibly says it is out of the question to discuss the terms made by the Government with the syndicate who have undertaken the construction of the Pacific Railway, until those terms are made public. The Globe does not harmonize with that view of the matter, but continues its harmless occupation of making three new sets of terms per week and "pitching into" them unmercifully. At this rate the Opposition organ will have expended all its powder before the game has been started.

The Bridge Street Methodist Sunday School Tea Meeting.

As previously announced, a tea meeting was held last evening in aid of the Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School, which, despite the unfavorable weather, was very successful.

The tea meeting was held in the newly fitted basement of the church, which has been fully described and which proved particularly well adapted for tea meeting as well as for Sunday School purposes.

During the course of the evening, the President, Mr. Wm. Johnson, was called to the chair, when brief and pleasing addresses were delivered by Mr. A.G. Northrup, Rev. Wm. Hall and Dr. Jeffers.

On the platform were Rev. D. Mitchell, Rev. A. Turnbull, Rev. A. Schuster and Mr. James Ross.

The proceeds of the evening's tea amounted to $114.50, which, together with the collections on Sunday amounting to $47.50, made the sum of $162 in all contributed towards the improvement fund.

Dungannon and Faraday Agricultural Show.

The Dungannon and Faraday Agricultural Society held their annual fair on Wednesday the 13th inst, which was as fine a day as could be wished for the occasion. There was a large attendance of people and all the articles exhibited in the show room were of first rate quality. I read in the INTELLIGENCER of a solitary cob of corn finding its way from Bancroft to the INTELLIGENCER office, if as it was something wonderful to find corn growing in these back woods. Now if your correspondent had been in the show room on the day of the fair he could have seen 36 heads of corn which averaged 12 inches long and took 1st, 2d and 3rd prizes, also apples which would not disgrace any market in Canada, and as for wheat I leave your readers to judge, as the bushel of spring wheat which took first prize was sold for $2.75. There was also a splendid show of ladies' work, which astonished every stranger that beheld it, and what may astonish some of your readers all this splendid exhibit was produced far south of Bancroft, except two cabbages, which took a first prize. There was a fair show of horses, but that of cattle was poor, no doubt owing to several buyers having been in the district two or three weeks previous to the fair, who took a good share of the best cattle with them.

J. W.

[EDITOR'S NOTE.—The ear of corn referred to by our correspondent was left in the INTELLIGENCER office for the sole purpose of convincing a sceptic who expressed doubt upon the point, that corn can be successfully grown in the far northern townships of this county.]

Commercial Notes.

NUTS.—The Montreal Gazette says:—The sale of 75 bbls. of Pecans is reported at 14½c per lb. New Canadian chestnuts have been sold at $10.00 to 11.00 per bbl.

CANADIAN TOBACCO.—The Montreal Star says:—"Producers of Canadian tobacco around Quebec are taking advantage of the new law which allows them to put in pound rolls their leaf tobacco. Packages from a quarter to a pound in weight may be seen exposed for sale in groceries, all bearing the Government stamp, and instead of being obliged, as formerly, to conceal their tobacco intended for sale, and accept low prices, on paying 4c. a pound the producers can carry it to market and claim the prices, without fear of confiscation, provided each package bears a stamp. Some has been sold at 20c. per lb.

SALT.—A despatch from Turk's Island says:—The salt crop is below an average. Shipments up to September 17th amounted to about 350,000 bushels. Stock, 100,000, bushels. Prices at Grand Turk and Salt Cay were firm. Coarse, 10c.; steam ground fishery 12½c; prices at East Harbor one-half cent less.

Mr. Jas. Nesworthy, of this city, has been awarded the contract to deliver to the Grand Trunk Railway Company 90,000 railway ties the coming season.

The insurance on vessels expires at the end of this month, and any trips made afterwards will either be done under extra insurance or none at all. The latter is generally done.

News Condensed.

A Paris despatch says:—Fifty students who had left Minden in a yacht to witness the departure of the mail steamer from Amsterdam for India, ventured too near the steamer, and their yacht was buffeted against its side so violently that twenty-six students were thrown overboard, of whom twelve are missing.

The Storm on Lake Superior.

EXCITING TIMES AT DULUTH AND PRINCE ARTHUR'S LANDING—HOUSES, CARS, AND BREAKWATERS WASHED AWAY.

COLLINGWOOD, Oct. 25.—The steamer City of Owen Sound, of the Collingwood & Lake Superior Transit Line, arrived down early last evening with 20,000 bushels of wheat No. 1 wheat and 900 barrels of flour, and a number of passengers. The grain was the first shipment of wheat from the new elevator at Duluth, which is now in complete running order. The steamer brings reports of heavy damage to property at Duluth, Silver Islet and elsewhere by the nor'-easter of the 16th and 17th inst. At Duluth the outer breakwater was carried away and the landing place at the outside slip was filled up with boulders and gravel, necessitating dredging before any boats could load. Cars were washed off the track and houses were washed down on Minnesota Point. All work in the inside of the harbor was suspended. Boats could not be kept at the dock. A number came to anchor in the harbor and three vessels dragged their anchors and went ashore, but got off before the City left. It has been blowing a steady gale of wind since the 11th inst. from one direction or another. At Prince Arthur's Landing the vessels had no difficulty in lying at the dock. At Silver Islet the breakwater was demolished and the blacksmith shop washed away. The City left Tobermory on Sunday morning, leaving the Mitamorra and barges lying there windbound.

INTERESTING RELICS.—The weekly Mail of Oct. 22nd says: "A very curious and interesting relic is in the possession of the Rev. J. Ridley, Ailsa Craig, viz., an old book bound in parchment, nearly 300 years old, bearing the printer's date, A. D. 1592, just 151 years after printing was invented by Faust, in 1441. It is printed in Italian, with Latin headings, and is profusely illustrated with quaint but suggestive woodcuts. We doubt if there is any older book in the country." There is at least one book in the country we know of more ancient than the above. The Rev. R. S. Fornori of this city has a copy of Dante's "Divina Commedia" from the Italian press dated 1568, and therefore older by nearly a quarter of a century. It has two engravings illustrating the poet's Purgatory and Paradise.

Amusements.

Mrs. Scott Siddons commenced her dramatic season at Toronto last night as Juliet in "Rome and Juliet." She will appear here on or about November 11th.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, the eminent actor, supported by a very strong company, opened a short season at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, last night in "Hamlet." Mr. Barrett and company will probably play here on November 2nd.

Remenyi, the great Hungarian violinist, will give his first concert in Belleville at the Metropolitan Hall, on Friday night, where he will be assisted by a first class company. The London Free Press says of him: "To say that the concert was a success is but to convey a faint idea of the impression created. Each number performed by this noble artist was received with unbounded enthusiasm, and but few of the audience had been prepared for such a splendid treat as was afforded. He elicited a furore of applause; none can resist these matchless performances, so perfect are the most difficult intricacies, so alluring and sympathetic the wonderful strains evoked from his instrument."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Osborne, supported by a talented company, will appear to-night and to-morrow night in the new Irish drama "Colleen Ruaidh."

What with the large number of entertainments that have of late visited the city, and the unpleasant weather, Major Pond's company had but a small audience. The performance was one of the best, however, that has ever been given in Belleville. The Weber quartette was very fine and Isabel Stone sang with much ability, and the grand music produced by the Spanish students was a revelation and carried the house by storms. They were encored four or five times and very obligingly responded. Should this company, now that their real merits are known, visit Belleville again under more favorable circumstances, they would beyond doubt draw a crowded house.

Marine.

A fierce squall occurred on Lake Ontario on Saturday. It came from the west and travelled at the rate of 27 miles per hour. Several schooners which had cleared from Oswego were obliged to run back there.

Detroit, 23: The report that the schr. Heather Belle of Picton was lost with Capt. Norman McDonald, is untrue. The Heather Belle arrived here at 9 o'clock last night all safe and sound, except that she lost her deck load on Lake Huron.

There was a heavy fog on the bay this morning, which interfered with navigation.

Arrived—Schrs. D. Freeman, F. L. Wells and Picton, from Oswego, light.

Cleared—Schr. Delaware, for Oswego, barley; schr. F. L. Wells, for Oswego, rye. Both loaded at Downey & Preston's.

Eleven schooners passed up this morning for Trenton. There was some sharp racing amongst them, and the sight was a very pretty one.

Trenton Notes.

On Sunday evening about eight o'clock the fire alarm rang. The services at the different churches were soon ended, but it was discovered that the chimney of the residence of Mr. James Marsh was on fire. The brigade were on hand but were not required. At two o'clock Monday morning the alarm was again given, and it was discovered that the dwelling was completely at the mercy of the devouring element. The brigade was promptly on hand but the fire had too great a headway. Mr. Marsh saved very little of his furniture.

Mr. Solmes, who had his furniture moved in part of the house, lost all with no insurance. Mr. Marsh had his house and furnitured insured in the British America Ins. Co. The fire, no doubt, was caused from the chimney not being properly looked after at the first alarm.

On Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Joel Locklin, on rising from bed, discovered their infant child dead by their side. It is supposed to have had a fit during the night.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, OCT. 26.

3 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

At Liverpool.—The steamship Peruvian arrived at Liverpool to-day.

The Cells.—There were two tenants of the cells last night—both prisoners.

Wood.—The movement of cordwood on the Grand Junction has already commenced, several car loads having been received daily of late.

Hallowe'en.—As the festival of All-Hallowe'en will this year come on Sunday, it will be celebrated on the following evening, with all the usual concomitants.

Court of Revision.—To-night's sitting f this Court will be for the hearing of appeals from Foster Ward, and to-morrow night's session will consider the Samson Ward business.

Epizootic.—This horse disease is now very prevalent in Oswego, where one veterinary has over 200 cases. In the western part of this province, the epizootic is spreading rapidly.

Open Meeting.—The Workingmen's Temperance Association will have an open meeting in their new hall to-night. Readings, addresses and music will constitute the programme. See the advertisement.

Personal.—Mr. John M. Bowell, eldest son of Hon. M. Bowell, arrived last night, accompanied by his bride. The young couple are on their wedding trip. Mr. Bowell has been heartily greeted by his many friends here.

A Fine Horse.—Mr. Walter Fanning purchased a splendid brown gelding, fifteen hands three inches high, for Mr. Frederick Lingham. Mr. Fanning thinks this is the of the finest driving horses in the Dominion. Price not made public.

Canada Central Railway.—We see it reported that Mr. R. Luttrell, of the Credit Valley Railway and formerly of the Intercolonial, has been appointed Superintendent of the Canada Central in the room of Mr. MacKinnon, resigned. If this report be correct, we congratulate Mr. Luttrell upon his appointment.

A Novel Locomotive.—Something novel in the way of locomotives has just been turned out from a New Jersey workshop. It is an engine intended to run at the rate of ninety miles an hour, and possessing considerable novelties of construction, the machinery being placed above instead of, as customary, below the boiler.

The Lumber Trade.—Lumbermen in this section are likely to prosecute their operations with even more vigor than last year, as there is no sign as yet of a break in the market. A report is current that the Buck saw mill, east of this city, which has been closed for the past year or two, will next season be operated by Messrs Ross & Co., of Quebec.

Important Sale.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of the sale of household furniture, &c., at the residence of Mrs. James Ross, William Street, on Thursday next. The furniture includes some elegant and costly articles from the famous establishment of Mr. Hay (formerly Jacques & Hay), Toronto.

Teachers' Institute.—The next meeting of the South Hastings Teachers' Association will be held at the Central School in this city, on Thursday and Friday next, the 28th and 29th inst. A comprehensive programme has been prepared, and the sessions of the Convention cannot fail to be of much interest and profit to all who attend. Trustees and friends of education generally are invited to attend.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, winds shifting to northwest and north, and increasing to a moderate gale; rainy, followed by cloudy to partly cloudy cooler weather.

Fine Painting.—We notice another fine painting in Robt. Dick's window, entitled, "Riding out a gale on Lake Huron." The manipulation of coloring and transparency of the water is very fine. One can almost fancy you can see the gale swooping down upon the poor unfortunate fishing boats as they ride at anchor. Mr. Lawson shows himself equally master of this difficult subject as in landscape painting.

A Row.—Two men, who are companions and presumably friends, partook of too much whiskey yesterday afternoon, and as a result quarrelled and fought. The battle was so fierce that one of the spectators went for the police. Constable Newton proceeded to the scene of action, and on his approach the combatants separated. The lesser of the two ran to a street car and proceeded up town; he is badly cut about the face. The other stood his ground, but as all was quiet when the officer arrived, he made no arrest.

A Big Engine.—The big engines which the Grand Trunk are continually adding to their stock, have been eclipsed by a new monster "iron horse" on the New York Central, of which an exchange says: A big locomotive has recently been constructed for the use on the New York Central Railroad. It is named 'William H. Vanderbilt.' It is an 'eight wheeler,' with driving wheels six and a half feet, thirty-three inch truck wheels, fifty-inch boiler and cylinders eighteen by twenty-four inches, and is furnished with air brakes and the new 'spark arrester,' somewhat improved. It is claimed that this locomotive can draw twenty loaded coaches. This will be a vast improvement, as the old model engines have had trouble with sixteen, even when two engines were drawing the train. The Vanderbilt arrived at Syracuse from Schenectady on her first trip on time. She had a heavy train, but got through with ease. Colonel Ruben Allen, the veteran engineer, who has charge of the new engine, says that it works to a charm."

Mechanics' Institute Library.—It is a matter of regret that larger and more frequent additions are not made to the library of the Mechanics' Institute. We know that the Directors of that very useful institution have great expenses to meet, which prevents the possibility, for the present at least, of expending money in any other way than in defraying the current expenses of the whole association. Nevertheless, when we consider that the library is the only public one in Belleville, some steps should be taken to render it more and more useful. We take the liberty of suggesting a plan to our fellow citizens which will do much to meet the needs of the case. That plan is, let such of our people as are interested in the library—and we are sure they are numerous—give donations in money or books. Let them send them either to the President, Rev. Mr. Maclean, or Mr. Thos. Ritchie, who would we are sure, be glad to receive the gifts and to acknowledge them through the press. Who will begin the movement?

Our Railway.—Any one who has recently travelled over the Grand Junction Railway to Madoc, cannot but have noticed a considerable improvement in the condition of the road bed within the past two or three months. A great deal of ballasting has been done during the season, culverts and bridges have been put in repair, old ties have been replaced by new ones, and in some places the line has been straightened,—at two points about two miles west of Crookston, where the road was considerably curved, embankments have been cut down and the line made straight. In fact, the whole road has been put in first class order and now runs as smoothly as most of the main railways in the country. During the season some fifty-five men have been kept constantly employed on both sections of the road extending from Belleville to Madoc and from the Junction to Hastings, under experienced men, Mr. Brennan, the efficient Superintendent, giving the whole work his most careful and personal supervision, as far as was consistent with the varied duties devolving upon him. On the whole line over 10,000 new ties have been put in during the summer. Near the Grand Trunk crossing the buildings designed as a round house, and machine shops, are rapidly approaching completion. A turn-table is now being built opposite the engine house; scales weighing 30 tons have been erected near the machine shops, and several sidings have been constructed for the convenience of the rapidly increasing traffic. Amongst the other improvements a siding has been built on the line opposite Corby's mills, and a large platform erected, principally for the convenience of that firm, who do a large business with the road. The rolling stock has been increased by the addition of four locomotives, and altogether one hundred freight cars are now in use on the line; and so great is the traffic that the whole of the stock is kept in constant employment. Up to the present upwards of three hundred cars of grain have been transported over the road this fall; some of it has been shipped direct by rail to the United States market, but the principal portion coming into the elevators at Belleville. The export of iron ore averages about forty cars per week, most of which is shipped direct to the iron works in the United States; while large quantities of cheese, flour, and general freight are daily transported over the road. The rapid development of the traffic is certainly very encouraging, and shows that the affairs of the road are under excellent and efficient management.

Jas. Hennessy has just received a new lot of Tweeds, Overcoatings, Ulster Cloths, Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Wincies, Flannels, Blankets, Kid Gloves, Corsets and Hosiery. All bought at the late auction sales in Toronto and Montreal and will be sold very cheap.

A County Judge Removed.—The Ontario Gazette contains a Government notice, dated October 23, intimating that Judge Macdonald, of the County of Wellington, was, by an order of the Lieutenant-Governor, dated September 24 "removed from his office on account of his being afflicted with a permanent infirmity, disabling and incapacitating him from the due execution of the duties of his office as Judge."

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

The War-Cloud in Eastern Europe.

STARTLING EVENTS EXPECTED

London, Oct. 26.

Startling revelations may be looked for this week in eastern Europe, should the Sultan persist in his dilatory policy concerning the surrender of Dulcigno. The Greek note received here, it is said, emphatically declares Greece will extort the cession of the disputed territory, from Turkey, with or without the aid of other powers. In the war between those states, England will support Greece with money or men.

AMERICAN.

The Irish Troubles.

ALARMING STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Exciting Events Anticipated.

ACTION OF THE GOVERNMENT.

New York, Oct. 26.—The World's London despatch says that 2,000 Irish constabulary have been ordered immediately to rendezvous at the Curragh of Kildare. The president of the local Government board telegraphs from Scarborough that if the ordinary powers of the law were found insufficient to maintain order in Ireland, the Government will ask Parliament to meet the emergency by extraordinary legislation. The land leaguers are for the first time seriously alarmed at the prosecution of their chief men determined on by Government.

Thos. J. O'Conner, Parnell's principal lieutenant in and out of Parliament, telegraphs that if the Government proceeds with the actions, numerous murders and other agrarian outrages may be expected.

Popular feeling is beyond all question most deeply excited. The gravest apprehensions are felt on all sides. London is filled with the gravest rumors. A member of the Government says the highest importance is attached to the serious intelligence received yesterday from Ireland.

It is stated that Parnell and friends held a private council and resolved to discard the policy of exporting people to keep the peace.

The moment the land league is struck by the Government the whole of the west and south of Ireland, the seat of almost all the national discontent, will become the scene of the most exciting events. It is said an early meeting of the Cabinet will be called.

Frank Hough O'Donnell, who recently disassociated himself from the land league, has rejoined the organization. The Cabinet, as a unit, is utterly opposed to the removal of the land leaguers to London for trial. Should the prosecution fail to have a pacificatory effect on the Irish disorders, Parliament will be summoned and asked to suspend the Habeas Corpus Act in Ireland. Seven Justices will sit on the trials and twenty-eight police inspectors will be summoned as witnesses. The officials asked authority to engage a large building in which to lodge over a hundred witnesses for the Crown under police protection. The leaders of the land league have decided to call upon the members of the league to redoubled efforts. It is said the first blow struck by the Government at them will be the signal for tremendous meetings of Irishmen throughout America. The prosecution of the land leaguers is also to be followed by the establishment throughout England and Scotland of branches of the land league on a basis similar to that of the Home Rule movement in Ireland, and by concerted demand for Confederation of three Kingdoms in place of the existing union.

ARRIVALS.

New York, Oct. 26.—Arrived, the Airy, from Liverpool; the Gramma, from Hull; the Wieland, from Hamburg. The Baron of Airnos, envoy extraordinary, who comes on a special mission as a member of the Court of Arbitration, which is to decide the Franco-American claims, arrived here yesterday.

SHIPWRECKED.

Two ship-wrecked sailors, belonging to different vessels, were brought into port yesterday.

RESULTS OF GAMBLING.

Lyman McKay, Justin McCarthy, and Chas. Ransom, alleged gamblers, were arrested yesterday, on a complaint by Doral Vermilye, who is said to be a son of a prominent banker. He stated in his complaint, that in the past few months, he lost $7,000 by gambling.

POLITICAL TROUBLES.

The Times of Jacksonville, Fla., says, on Saturday ex senator Conover, and Wm. Ledwith, republican candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, were attacked by an armed mob, who were driven off by colored people.

COPYRIGHT TREATY.

Washington, Oct 26.—A despatch from Minister Lowell, in London, states that the answer received to his circular letters sent among British publishers, show a decided sentiment in favor of an international copyright treaty.

MURDER.

Richmond, Va. Oct. 26.—At Woodland, Frank Allison shot his partner, named Harks, dead, and Mrs. Allison fatally, on account of alleged and illict intimacy between the victims. The parties are in good social standing.

OUTRAGES BY TRAMPS.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct, 26.—Scores of tramps who have rendezvoused in this vicinity are committing numerous assaults and robberies.

MORE MURDERS.

Leadville, Oct. 26.—Michael Hendricks, said to be the nephew of Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, has been found murdered near here, it is supposed, by two McCallum brothers, Hendricks having been implicated in the murder of their brother and being acquitted.

Fort Worth, Tex. Oct, 26.—A man supposed to be R. P. Bull, private detective, formerly editor of the "Democrat Press," Gainesville, Ark., has been murdered by unknown parties with an axe while asleep. No clue to the guilty parties.

Envied Beauty.

What is more handsome than a nice bright clear complexion, showing the beauties of perfect health? All can enjoy these advantages by using Electric Bitters. Impure blood, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are speedily cured. For nervousness and all attendant ailments, they are a never failing remedy, and positively cure where all others fail. Try the Electric Bitters and be convinced of their wonderful merits. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nashwalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Anarchy in Cabul---the Ameer Murdered.

Lahore, Oct. 26.—It is reported from Peshawur that anarchy reigns in Cabul, and that the Ameer has been murdered. There has been no news by post from Cabul for several days. The report however is probably correct.

A Lahore despatch says the news relative to the murder of the Ameer and prevalence of anarchy in Cabul is from the civil and military Gazette of Lahore authority which is undoubted. The India office in London, however has no confirmation of the report.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

London, Oct. 26.—A Dublin despatch says it is not improbable that some of the speakers at the recent land meetings will be included in the list of persons who are to be indicted.

A FRENCH ORDER.

A Paris correspondent understands that the French Government have decided to dissolve all non-authorized religious orders, before the re-assembling of the Chambers.

New York, Oct. 26.—Arrived, the Scythia from Liverpool.

FORSTER REPORTED RESIGNED.—DENIED.

London, Oct. 26,—The Irish Times states that Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, has placed his resignation in the hands of Gladstone. The statement is, however, discredited.

The statement that Forster had resigned as Chief Secretary for Ireland, is denied.

FLOODS IN FRANCE.

Floods near Cherbourg subsided. Only two children drowned, but the inundation caused much damage to property there, and other points of the country.

REFUSING HONORS.

London, Oct. 26.—A Berlin despatch says that Gen. Von Moltke, refused the title of Prince offered by the Emperor on the occasion of the 80th anniversary of his birth.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Indications: Lower lakes, cloudy with rain.

Storms in Europe.—Heavy gales, accompanied in many instances by snow, and generally wintry weather, have set in in the United Kingdom during the past four days, and on Wednesday the whole of the Baltic coast was visited by a severe hurricane which caused much damage to shipping.

Good Advice.—The Journal of Commerce advises all municipalities which are in a position to do so, to consolidate their debts and seek authority at the approaching session of the Local Legislature for a re-issue of debentures to take up those now running. Money is easy, and first class securities find ready sale.

Fearful Suffering.—A harrowing tale of suffering and mortality comes from Turkey. The fund for the support of the destitute Batoum refugees at Ismidt being exhausted, these unfortunate wretches are dying off like sheep. In the words of the despatch announcing the calamity, all the children are dead, the women are dying, and the men are certain to die.

The Locomotive Engineers.—At the meeting of the Convention of locomotive engineers on Saturday the following members of the Brotherhood were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Grand Chief, P. M. Arthur; Second Grand Engineer, George Burdett; Second Grand Assistant Engineer, M. Vanpatten; Third Grand Assistant Engineer, E. A. Stephens; Grand Guide, W. H. Smallwood; Grand Chaplain, G. W. Tyre. The Convention decided that Baltimore be the next place of meeting.

Prosperity.—An exchange says: "In Canada at present labor is abundant, business is prosperous; you meet everywhere more happy and contented people than at any time since the Grits went out of power; railroad trains are frequent and heavily freighted, and the hotels of all the business centres are overflowing so that the delighted Bonifaces are half tempted nightly to put up the legend "Standing room only." Why should any one under these happy circumstances, be willing to bring back a season of doubt and depression by casting his vote against the candidates of the Party of Prosperity?"

Direct Trade with Great Britain.—The St. John Sun says that the importance of opening direct steam communication between that port and England increases daily. Parties in St. John expect to ship a thousand head of cattle to Britain this fall, and would greatly prefer to forward them direct. Eight hundred sheep were recently sent from Charlottetown, and in default of steam communication via St. John, the shippers were obliged to send them over the Intercolonial to Quebec. It is stated that there are several thousand sheep in the vicinity of Charlottetown destined for the English market which will have to be sent by the same circuitous route. The demand for direct traffic, which is evidently a growing one, is expected to result in the placing of one or two steamships on this route.

Advice to Consumptives.

No mab, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bed-room open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Eliminating Phosphorus and Sulphur from Iron and Steel.

So many propositions for eliminating phosphorus, sulphur, and silica during the manufacture of iron and steel have been made that, probably, many have come to the conclusion either that it is very easy to find a process, or that the removal is impracticable. The first conclusion is erroneous; the justification for the latter has not yet been demonstrated. It is well known that the heat of the refinery is produced by coke or charcoal with blast. It is usual in commencing the operation to throw in a quantity of refinery cinder, which is an oxide of iron performs a bath of liquid, cinder on the bottom. When pig-iron is made use of, it is thrown on the top of the fire with coke or charcoal thrown over it, and so melted down; it has been found to be economical to run the molten iron from the blast-furnance into the refinery, thus saving the time and waste of melting down the pig-iron. Instead of using only the refinery cinder as it is produced in the refinery furnace, Messrs. David and Richard Joseph, of Rockleaze, near Bristol, use a lesser quantity thereof, and introduce therewith a quantity of iron ores, preferring such as are nearly pure oxides of iron, or purples ore may be used. We consider iron preferable which contains manganese, and also such as may contain chromium, titanium, or tungsten, also a quantity of lime, limestone, or chalk (preferring to use the lime slacked and the iron ores and other materials in a state of coarse powder or small lumps), and occasionally quantities of common or rock-salt, alumma, chloride of calcium, or fluor-spar. These materials are preferably mixed together and then thrown on the fire, so that they may be melted down prior to the melting down of the pig or cast-iron, or the running in of the molten iron; but a portion of them may be thrown in subsequently on the fire.

The fluid iron, whether melted down on the refinery, or molten iron run in from a blast-furnace or from a cupola, which may sometimes be conveniently used for the fusion of the pig or cast-iron, descends and falls into the bath of cinders already produced, and takes its place underneath the cinder by its superior gravity; the blowing proceeds; the tuyeres being inclined downward, the current of air is forced through the cinder into the molten iron, and by the agitation and contact of the molten iron with the cinder the phosphorus, sulphur, and silicon are rapidly taken up by the cinder. In these operations, Messrs. Joseph prefer to use blast, with rather a higher pressure than is usually used in the refinery, the quantities of these materials being from 2 to 3 cwts., more or less, to the ton of the iron treated. The proportions and relative quantities of the above-mentioned materials or bodies to be used must be regulated by the analysis of the iron and the results of experience; the proportion of lime and iron ore being generally about equal, and the other materials in smaller quantities. When it is intended to use the metal so refined in any pneumatic converter for conversion to steel, the blowing is only continued for so short a time as is found by experience sufficient for the reduction of the phosphorus and sulphur, and the molten metal may be run out into molds to be again remelted in a cupola, but they greatly prefer to run the same directly into a converter, or into a ladle or receiver, by which it can be transferred into a converter after well-known methods, where the operation of its conversion into steel may be completed in the usual manner, and with the addition of spiegeleisen or ferro-manganese. It will be found in order to secure a higher quality of steel, advantageous to mix with this fluid metal a quantity of molten cast-iron produced at the blast-furnace comparatively free from phosphorus and sulphur. When this refined metal is intended to be used for conversion to steel in any open-hearth furnace, we prefer to continue the blowing for a longer period, the exact time required for the iron treated being found by experience, and the refined metal, when run out, may be either run into molds, as is usually done with refined metal, and left to cool, and so requiring to be melted when introduced into the open-hearth furnace, or it may be run into a ladle or receiver and so transferred to the open-hearth furnace, or it may be run directly into the open-hearth furnace when conveniently situated. By this method, the operation of converting the same into steel in an open-hearth furnace is greatly facilitated, and the product of such furnace greatly increased.

In the open-hearth furnace, it will be found advantageous to use a proportion of pig-iron comparatively free from phosphorus and sulphur as produced at the blast-furnace, also scrap and wrought-iron with additions of spiegeleisen or ferro-manganese in the usual manner. When the refined metal is intended to be used for bar, plate, or other wrought-iron, they may continue the blowing for a still longer period, and then let it out into molds to cool, or directly into puddling-furnaces. The cinder which runs out with or after the refined metal has in all cases to be removed or separated from the refined metal as completely as may be practicable.—London Mining Jonrnal.

The Tests of a Good Cow.

After getting reports from various parties of their yields of milk and butter for short periods, O. G. T., of Galesburgh, Ill., suspects that the best tests have not been obtained after all. He is right. It may be agreeable as a curiosity to know that a cow will give from 70 to 80 pounds of milk during a few days when she is fresh, and that during a certain week she gave from 15 to 25 pounds of butter, but by itself it proves very little as to the cow's own value. She may have been fed with a special view to a large yield for the occasion, or the butter made "during a week" may represent more than the yield of milk during that week. Nothing is so certain about the matter as that the test is uncertain as a measure of the cow's profitableness to her owner.

The true test is a careful record of all the facts relating to treatment and results, continued at least from the time of dropping one calf until the next. Was she soiled or pastured, or a little of both? The cost or value of the feed, and the kind; a record in pounds and ounces of each milking churning; the treatment of the milk and cream; the preparation of the feed; how long the cow goes dry; her weight, etc. When these facts are furnished, there is no difficulty in reaching a conclusion.

It is a matter of astonishment that both buyers and sellers are usually so utterly indifferent to all these important facts. A man offers one or more cows for sale, and boasts of their excellent qualities, but, except in rare instances, can tell nothing accurate about their yield of milk or butter, or the cost of their keeping. And it seldom occurs to the buyer that he ought to know something on these points; he buys according to the cows looks, the shape and length of her horns, or the curl of her hair here and there; her milk vein, her color, the lustre of her eyes, and the assurance of the seller that "she is a splendid cow," will not jump fences, is gentle as a kitten, and he parts with her at the risk of breaking the hearts of his wife and ten small children. The seller don't know what the cow can do under the best treatment, and the buyer don't seem to care whether he does or not. The latter is happy if he can beat down the price a few dollars, and the seller is equally happy if he can get his price, or something very near it. The cow may be a treasure in good hands, for full and regular feeding will bring out splendid qualities in thousands of instances not dreamed of now, but the man who treats his cows by guess will never find it out.

Mr. Bonner buys his fast horses according to the record they have made, not by what their owners "guess" they can do, or by what they may have done in a forty rod heat. What reason is there that farmers and dairymen should not buy and sell on the same principle? None whatever, except that it entails a little exact work with men who habitually show close observation and exactness. A test is a trial, a finding out of qualities unknown or only suspected from circumstances, and if not carried out to completeness, a stock owner has only himself to complain of if he loses in his bargain—P. S. in the Country Gentleman.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such maryellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Aathma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

EXTRACT

FROM THE 'MAIL,' TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878,

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Turkey Turned Inside Out.

By One Who is in It and Knows What He Says.

There is mineral wealth enough in the soil to pay all Turkey's debts and enrich the country, but the government will neither mine it itself nor let anybody else. Schools have sprung up all over the land, but most of them among the subject races, not among the Turks. Among the latter there are indeed a few schools, but most of them are on the old methods, with boys sitting on the floor, with no seats, no desks and few books, swaying back and forth, reciting aloud and in concert passages from the Koran. They also learn to write with the reed pen; and this is their education.

For the army there is something higher, where instruction is given, in part at least, by lectures. I heard one such which chanced to be upon ancient history. The learned professor began at the beginning—the creation of man. Adam had two sons, Cain and Abel. Unfortunately they both fell in love with the same girl. Abel won her; Cain was mad about it and killed his brother! This is Ancient History "with variations."

The houses of a village not from Constantinople consist of a slight frame of crooked sticks or roughly hewn timbers, filled in with sun-dried bricks or wattles and mud. The timbers are cut in the forest near by, but boards for the floors are brought from Australia! brought by sea in the form of heavy, thick planks, then cut into thin board with a pit saw—all done by hand! The forests that overshadow the village would furnish boards enough, if there were any mills to saw them; and the mountain streams would supply all the water power needed; but where are the mills? Foreign enterprise would soon plant them on every stream, if the government would favor such undertakings; but it does not. It seems to think that if any foreigner carries on a successful business in the country he is robbing the government.

Foreign enterprise has tried to work their mines, tried manufacturing, bringing in capital and employing idle hands. In the first place, it is almost impossible to get a permit to begin any such work; and then, as soon as the government sees it well under way, it taxes it to death or stops it peremptorily. A gentleman recently spent £30,000 in erecting a large manufactory. Fortunately he got a government contract to begin with, and that kept his works going for a time; but as soon as that was finished the establishment was closed by order, and the owner was compelled to abandon his enterprise, sacrificing his property, selling it to some Turk for a small fraction of what it had cost him.

The government already taxes everything that passes from hand to hand. True, the government is poor and needs money. But its poverty is not half so manifest as its injustice, its corruption and its incompetence. It has had about a hundred thousand refugees within its capital most of the time since the war closed, maintained by public charity or dying for want of it. Why are these not set to work? All the able-bodied men among them might have been most usefully employed. The vast treasury building in Constantinople was burned three years ago. The walls are still standing and strong, but the winds whistle through them, and proclaim as they go the imbecility of the government. The bridge over the Golden Horn, across which sixty thousand persons pass daily, is old and rickety. The flooring is of rough timbers, the surface very uneven and very uncomfortable to pedestrians; the bridge narrow and so crowded at times with vehicles and foot passengers, with horses, donkeys and porters, with huge loads on their backs, that it is almost impossible to thread one's way across it. A few days ago the government attempted to build alongside another much larger and better. It was almost finished three or four years ago, and then it was stopped, Turkish fashion. Some show of resuming work upon it has recently been made, but when it will be ready for use it would be rash to undertake to tell.

There is a railway from Mondania to Broosa, a distance of 18 miles; track graded, bridges made, ties laid, rails all in place, and there it is left—no engines, no cars, and the road rotting. An immense traffic goes right alongside on horseback, donkey-bach, camelback, and in rough Tartar waggons. There seems not to be energy or enterprise enough in all Turkey to equip and run this road.

The streets of Constantinople are filthy beyond description; the pavements rough and broken; some streets almost impassible. The refugees might ere this have rebuilt the treasury, repaved the streets, cleaned away the filth and rubbish of ages, finished the bridge and done many other wonderful things if the government had been wise enough to employ them. An Englishman kindly suggested this very thing to some of the officials. "What!" was the reply, "set a Turk at such menial service?" "Yes," said the Englishman, "let them work or starve." But the Turk evidently thought it much more respectable to starve than to work.

"Dog in the manger"—this was the way in which an Englishman recently expressed it in our hearing—"they will neither govern the land themselves nor let anbody else." England has appointed some good men to look after promised reforms, one stationed at Erzeroom, another at Sivas, and another at Diarbeker. Possibly some good may come of it, but as yet they do not find much encouragement. Indeed, we understand that one of them has written to his Government telling of the atrocities and irregularities which he sees plainly enough around him, but frankly confessing that he sees no evidence of improvement, and that he is himself unable to secure any. He sees the wrong but has no power to enforce the right. He may advise, if he does it with moderation, but force is the only advice which the Turks will receive. How long must the world tolerate the existence of such a government? How long recognize it as among the civilized nations of the globe? The people themselves are sighing for a deliverer. Even many of the Turks despair of their own Government, and long for some change, hardly caring what. Any change must be for the better; it could not be for worse.—Cor. N. Y. Observer.

Bronchitis—Unless arrested, will terminate in Consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allan's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any druggist; price one dollar per bottle.

BRITISH NEWS.

It is now believed that the loss of life by the Seaham colliery explosion amounts to 168, as 136 bodies have been recovered, and 32 are still missing.

Pleuro pneumonia has again broken out at Bosom's End, Smethwick, where eight cows have recently been slaughtered in consequence of having been attacked with the disease.

It is anticipated that the new lighthouse at Eddystone, on the English coast, will be completed by the Autumn of 1882, or four years from the time when the work was begun. The tower will be 170 feet high.

Prince William, the eldest son of the Crown Prince of Prussia, already commands a company of the Grenadier Guards, and elicited universal admiration during the late manœuvres for the thoroughly soldierlike and practised wey in which he handled his men.

The Secretary to the Royal Commission for the Australian International Exhibitions has received a telegraphic despatch from Sir Herbert Sandford, stating that the Melbourne Exhibition had opened most successfully, nearly all the courts being very complete, especially the British court.

The Ayr Burns monument trustees have completed the purchase of the cottage in which Robert Burns was born. The building has hitherto been used as a public house. It is to be converted into a museum, in which relics of the poet will be gathered together. The house and grounds were bought for $20,000.

In consequence of the distress prevailing in the Kildysart district, Ireland, and the fact of a large quantity of the seeds granted last year having been given to cattle, the Kildysart Guardians have found it necessary to apply to Government for an extension of the period allowed under the Seeds Act for the payment of the first instalment.

Mr. Bass has caused a census to be taken of the deer in his forest of Glenquoich, in Inverness-shire, Scotland. The work of numbering these wild animals was no doubt somewhat difficult. The report is that there are between 800 and 900 stags, and about double that number of hinds—say 2,500 head in all—within an area of about 25,000 acres.

The Bribery Election Commissioners in England are still at work, taking testimony. Oxford, Chester, Canterbury, Sandwich, Knaresborough, and Macclesfield are still on trial on charges of widespread corruption. The investigations of the Commissioners confirm the view that bribery goes on as vigorously under the ballot as ever it did when voting was open.

Her Majesty desires to personally invest General Sir Frederick Roberts with the Collar and Insignia of the Grand Cross of the Bath, and General Roberts will therefore be summoned to Balmoral immediately on his arrival in England. The investiture of General Sir Donald Stewart is to be entrusted to the Marquis of Ripon, and orders have been given for the insignia to be got ready and sent to India.

Intelligence has reached Cork of a dreadful outrage in the vicinity of Kanturk. It is stated that a number of men, disguised and armed, entered at night the house of a farmer named Brown, living near a place called Scartigtown, and put himself and his furniture on the roadside. They then beat him severely, and, it is alleged, cut off one of his ears. Brown had recently taken a house and lands from which a widow had been evicted.

In a letter just received from Lieutenant-General Sir Garnet Wolseley by the Manchester Diocesan Church of England Temperance Society, in reply to an invitation to take part in the forthcoming festival of that Society in that city, Sir Garnet says:—"I am glad to say that the cause of temperance is making slow but steady progress in the army, as it has long been known to all who take an interest in soldiers that almost all crime amongst them can be directly traced to the curse of drunkenness."

An experiment, which confirmed the belief of those who witnessed it that the substitution of atmospheric for steam power in travelling is a thing of the near future, has just been made at Woolwich. An engine weighing ten tons, designed by Major Beaumont, R. E. travelled from the Royal Arsenal Station to Dartford, a distance of about sixteen miles, and back again to Plumstead, under the pressure of 1,000 lbs. of compressed air to the square inch of its air reservoir, which contains only 100 cubic feet.

The Board of Trade returns for September show in the value of imports an increase of 23½ per cent. as compared with the same month of 1879, and of 26 per cent. as compared with 1878. The total amount during the month was £34,275,327 against £27,723,328 in 1879, and £27,229,581 in 1878. In the nine months there is also a considerable increase, the total this year being £309,907,762 against £259,346,232 in 1879, and £282,616,072 in 1878. The export of British and Irish produce and manufactures continue to show an equally satisfactory increase.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 27.

The Provincial Fair and Agricultural Shows Generally.

Now that the season for the holding of agricultural shows has just passed, the time is opportune for the discussion of various matters in connection therewith. Many journals have expressed their views as to the Provincial Fair, and three sets of opinions seem to be prevalent, to which we propose to add a fourth. The three ideas which have been embodied in the remarks of our contemporaries are as follows:

1. That the Provincial Fair should be abolished.

2. That it should be permanently established at Toronto; and

3. That the present perambulatory system should be continued, and perhaps extended somewhat, by adding to the places at which the fair is now held in rotation some others which have of late years grown into prominence.

Our own idea is more nearly in accordance with the first expressed idea than with either of the others. Time was, and that not many years ago, when the Provincial Exhibition was of great value—we might say almost a necessity—in the interests of the agricultural community; but that time has passed away. The establishment in Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, London and Guelph of exhibitions rivalling in extent, and even on some occasions exceeding that under the direct management of and very largely subsidized by the Ontario Government, makes it plain that there is no further necessity for expending so large an amount of money annually on any one agricultural exhibition. It therefore seems that the Provincial Fair having almost outlived its usefulness, might with propriety be abolished, and the greater part of the money so saved applied towards aiding Central Fairs in the various districts of the Provinces. We would also suggest the abolition of the districts as now constituted and of their annual Fairs, and of the Township Fairs as well, except in the case of townships so remote from the County town as to render it impossible for articles to be conveniently transported thither for exhibition. The money now granted to the exhibitions so legislated out of existence to be, with that saved by the abolition of the Provincial, applied to the Central or District Fairs such as above indicated. By this means liberal prizes could be offered, and as exhibitors would come forward to compete for them, so, per consequence would the exhibits be of much merit and the public would throng in thousands to see them. There is no speculation which might turn out to be badly founded in this regard, as Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, London and Guelph fairs afford experience on the point.

These ideas may not be the best that could be advanced; but that a change in the state of affairs as at present existing is imperatively necessary no one who has given attention to the subject will deny. The District Fairs, with very few exceptions, excite less and less interest year by year, because the prizes which it is in the power of the Directors to offer are insufficient in amount to attract exhibitors. Therefore as the number of exhibitors declines so do the number of visitors, and the fair loses not only the entrance money of those who would otherwise visit it—still further decreasing the prize fund—but it also ceases to a corresponding extent to fulfil its mission of educating the public of the country about. Many of the Boards of Directors, in the hope of reviving the waning interest of their exhibitions give horse races on their grounds. This is another reason why such fairs should be abolished, as there are few who will hold that public funds should be devoted to the encouragement of horse racing.

The same remarks apply to Township Fairs, not a few of which have degenerated into a sort of family party, where the same people bring the same old articles year after year as regularly as the season comes around, and are as regularly awarded prizes for them. An instance of this sort of thing occurred at a fair held not a thousand miles from Shannonville, where a quilt was placed on exhibition which had seen so much service that it had been re-lined for the annual show.

These facts deserve the most serious consideration, and it is plainly the duty of the Government to take up the subject and deal with it in no half-hearted manner.

—Mr. J. B. Lawes estimates that Great Britain will want no less than 112,000,000 bushels of wheat during the current cereal year do fill her deficiencies. In other words, 57 per cent. of the population will have to be fed on foreign wheat.

Some of Young's Doings.

A Profusion of Household Goods Stolen by Him.

WHAT THEY ARE, &c.

Although Wellington Young was arrested here on Monday and sent to Napanee the same night on a charge of horse stealing, this is not the only offence for which he is culpable, as the subjoined statement will demonstrate.

Mr. A. J. Dunbar resides in the Township of North Fredericksburg, and on the 13th inst. accompanied by the members of his household, went to Napanee to see the County Fair. During his absence some person or persons visited his house and made a disposition of its contents, altogether at variance with Mr. Dunbar's taste. The condition of the floors surprised him as they were liberally sprinkled with a bag of flour, the contents of which were distributed in several rooms; his inability to find certain articles of wearing apparel disquieted him, whilst his wife's lamentations over the loss of sundry and divers articles annoyed and perplexed him. Whilst he was away from his home, a general survey of the interior of his premises was made, and an apparent culling out of his goods and chattels was plainly visible. A fine black suit which Mr. Dunbar wore on state occasions was gone; his wife's underclothing was missing; his collection of glass ware, and the crust stand, with its quintette of little bottles that served for the ornamentation of the centre of the dinner table and for the uses of those who were wont to assemble around it at meal times, had vanished from its accustomed repository; the knives and forks that sufficed for the gastronomic service of the household were nowhere to be seen, and "gone," "all gone," were the decisive words that issued in response to inquiries after various articles. An examination of the parlor disclosed the fact that the windows had been denuded of the lace curtains that generally enshrouded them, whilst a hasty survey of the beds revealed the absence of the accustomed covering, as quilts, sheets, blankets, and pillows were nowhere visible. This condition of affairs led Mr. Dunbar to conclude that his house had been robbed, and he decided that action, prompt and vigorous, was what was requisite to restore to him his missing property. But justice stern and resolute; though nearly two weeks later, forged ahead of him, and took the inside track with its accompanying laurels.

On Tuesday afternoon Chief McKinnon accompanied by Mr. Dunbar proceeded to the last residence of Wellington Young in a hack, and a careful inspection of the dwelling showed that Young had paid illegal visits to other houses besides that of Dunbar's, for an almost endless variety of kitchen, dining, parlor and bed room goods was everywhere to be seen about the house. Another tenement situated near the cricket ground was also visited by the gentlemen above named and the long list of plunder so added to that the collection of stolen goods nearly filled an ordinary hack. All these were taken to the police station and now await identification by their owners. With the exception of a house and lot the property embraces everything contained in the ordinary man's premises.

Mrs. Young was found at her home with two young children, one of whom was very ill.

The stolen goods were taken to Napanee last night to await the claims of their rightful owners.

Amelianburgh Correspondence.

Quite an excitement took place here on Saturday through the stopping of the ferry. The travel was large and at the time the boat was stopped upwards of 40 rigs were waiting to cross. Upon the word being brought across as to the cause of the delay, about one-half turned about and went home, the remainder going to the lower boat. In about two hours she was running her regular trips. A meeting of the directors took place at Belleville on Monday.

The Alexandra will make two trips more.

Upwards of 300 bbls. of apples were shipped by E. C. Ketcheson on Sunday, together with a quantity of cheese.

The price of barley continues low. The Grangers will sell this week.

Arthur Johnson Esq., lately picked 15 bbls. of snow apples from one tree. The yield of this kind of apples this year is very large and of a very good quality.

Geo. Russel, of Rednerville, has one of the smartest boys of his age (5 years) we know of. He has committed to memory most of the first book. He certainly has an uncommon gift of memory.

Marmora Doings.

Mr. R. Loucks has obtained a contract of road work between Mr. G. Wiggins' place and the "Grand Duncil Swamp," and is evidently going to make a good job of it which is much needed.

Public School Trustees still find it a difficult matter to obtain teachers in this county.

Mr. M. Thompson's door not intended to give up in despair because of his grist mill being burned at Malone, but intends soon erecting a new building which the surrounding neighborhood cannot very well do long without. The cause of the fire cannot yet be found to a certainty.

Almost every house has a victim suffering from the inexorable and long continued attacks of the Ague.

Messrs Briggs & Sons have commenced the extensive manufacture of spring bedsteads for which it is to be hoped they may find many occupants.

The cheese factories are expected to cease operations for the present year in a week or two. They have made a good run of business lately.

AN OLD CITIZEN GONE.—Toronto papers contain obituary notices of the late Mr. Cawthra, who died on the 26th of Oct. Although seventy-nine years of age Mr. Cawthra had enjoyed comparatively good health up to within a year or so ago, when a cataract grew on his eye, which rendered him almost blind. Last week physicians performed an operation with a view of removing the cataract, and they were successful. Mr. Cawthra bore the pain attending the operation with fortitude, but towards the close of the week he suffered a relapse and died on the 26th. If not known personally, Mr. Cawthra was known by name to every resident of Toronto. Coming from England with his father when an infant, he had lived in Toronto for seventy eight years, his remembrances dating back to periods long before Toronto was even known as Muddy York. He grew up with the country, and was most successful in mercantile life, retiring as a millionaire thirty years ago. Beyond filling the offices of alderman and asylum commissioner, he did not take much part in public affairs. Mr. Cawthra's wife is living, but he leaves no family.

New Troubles in South Africa.

RISING OF THE NATIVES IN NATAL—THE COLONIAL TROOPS IN IMMINENT DANGER—ANOTHER DISASTER REPORTED.

LONDON, Oct. 25.

A despatch received to-day unhappily confirms the advices of Saturday in relation to the critical state of affairs in Natal. It is officially announced from the Foreign Office that the natives, who have heretofore sturdily opposed the recent action of the British Government, have at last openly revolted. Gen. Clarke, in command of the Colonial forces, is about to take, short of provisions and with a force of men entirely inadequate to cope with such an exigency, that the gravest fears are felt for his personal safety and that of his command. Those most familiar with the country and the present disposition of the troops do not hesitate to express their doubts as to the possibility of his being reached in time by the reinforcements which have been ordered to his relief. The present South African troubles are entirely due to the determination of the Government that only white men shall be allowed to carry firearms. The Basutos has already set the example of open and armed defiance and it had appeared to be a question of time before other disaffected tribes, which up to the time have remained true to their allegiance to the British Colonial Government, would join forces with the Basutos and unite in a common attack on the small body of colonial troops to which was committed the enforcement of the order of disarmament. The publication of the news of the revolt, unaccompanied by details, has caused great excitement, and further details are awaited with painful apprehension.

A later despatch from Cape Town says: It is reported that a number of Europeans have been massacred beyond Natal.

Sporting Notes.

Warren Smith the Halifax oarsmen, has arrived in England.

LONDON Oct. 25.—The President of the American Company inspected the Thames course, He met Trickett and Laycock and the captains of the Thames and London Rowing Clubs, and expressed perfect satisfaction with the course. The committee will definitely decide upon the course to be adopted for the regatta. A firm at Newcastle offers a cup, value £50, to be rowed for on the Tyne, for men of the Tyne and the Tees who have entered for the international regatta, on condition that the committee and the President of the American Company will accept the races as a direct trial of skill to decide which shall row in the race for the American prizes.

The Boston oarsman Hosmer is quite well again. He practised on Sunday. Elliott, hearing that Riley, of Saratoga, wishes to row any man of the North of England, offers to row a match with him over the Tyne course for £100 a side any day during the week after the match between Hanlan and Trickett, which takes place on Nov. 15th. All the scullers did good practice to-day.

A STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Is it the Relics of a Tragedy, or a Cruel Hoax?

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—An evening paper publishes a very sensational story this evening. A few days ago a skeleton was found on the bank of the Don by one of Messrs. Gooderham & Worts's workmen, and near by a bottle was picked up by a small boy, who gave it to Detective Newhall. The bottle was broken open and found to contain a paper partly obliterated by age and exposure, but which tells the following story: A man named Desbenyon lived beyond the Don in 1809 in a small shanty with a stepson who was delicate. One night as a number of men were passing the shanty they were attracted by a peculiar smell, and looking through the window they saw Debynon holding a boy over the fire until his head was burnt off. They broke in the front door, but he then escaped out the back and an exciting chase ensued. It was in the winter time and the pursued man took to the ice on the Don, but it was not strong enough to bear him and he fell through and struggled to the shore in an exhausted condition, when the men seized him and compelled him to sign the confession of the crime, and they then hanged him and buried him in a shallow grave, placing the confession in a bottle by his side, and this skeleton and confession after a lapse of over seventy years comes to light.

SATISFIED.—The Montreal Herald, the leading organ of the opposition in Quebec is apparently pleased with the Pacific railway arrangements so far as they have been made known to it. It says the contractors are "men of large means, and some of them possessed of great and very profitable experience in railroad building."

City and Vicinity

Dog Registration.—The total number of dogs registered up to this date is 350, as against 157 registered last year.

The Cells.—Two prisoners, drunks, and three tramps were accommodated with lodgings in the cells last night.

Remenyi.—There are several good seats left yet. The cushioned seats on the side of hall will be reserved. Call early at Reynolds.

Carried.—The by law granting a bonus of five thousand dollars for a branch railway into Mill Point was carried by a majority of 33 votes yesterday.

Killed.—A youthful porker whose peregrinations led him too near the wheels of this morning's Grand Junction train, was this morning cut up in the prime of life and left to die on the rails.

Weather Probabilities.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, increasing northerly to easterly winds; cloudy to partly cloudy cool weather, followed to-morrow by rain, or possibly sleet.

The Bay.—The wind of this morning had the effect of carrying the water in the bay to the southern shore, and there was more than an ordinary vacancy on the northern side, land was visible more than half the length of the Grand Junction dock.

Temperance.—The Workingmen's Temperance Association intend holding open meetings nightly in their hall, when good addresses and music will make up each evening's entertainment. The public are invited to attend these meetings, which are free to all.

Daylight Serenade.—At noon to-day two ex-employees of Pullman & Hamilton's show demonstrated their ability to sing th popular airs of the day by vocalizing on Bridge Street west. Their visit to Front Street saloons provided them with an unsteady gait and seriously interfered with their singing, particularly in the high passages which were very ineffective. They want rest.

Broke his Leg.—Our old friend Englehardt, Superintendent of the Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, has unfortunately proved that "misfortunes never come singly." He very recently recovered from a severe illness, and on Saturday last had the misfortune to fall and break one of his legs. The sympathies of many friends here are with him in this new and painful affliction.

Sidewalks and Crossings.—Repairs are greatly needed to the street crossings and yard entrances throughout the city, and particularly on Front Street where teams in driving into the hotel yards have cut up and broken the walks in such a manner that unless repairs are soon made accidents are liable to result. It is to be hoped that the Street Surveyor will give his early attention to such places and thus lessen the chances of unavoidable mishaps.

Open Meeting.—An open meeting was held last evening by the Workingmen's Temperance Association which was well attended notwithstanding the inclement weather. The chair was occupied by Mr. Neil McArthur, President of the Association, and addresses were delivered by Prof. Badgley, Rev's A.O. Lambly, A. Schuster, Mr. Hugh Walker, and a recitation by Mr. Carmichael. Prof. Stannistreet presided at the piano and songs were rendered by Mr. Adams, Mr. McArthur and Mr. Blaind, and a duet by Mr. and Miss McArthur. The meeting was a success resulting in a number joining the Association.

Legal Literary Society.—At the meeting this evening, a paper on practice in the Surrogate Courts, will be read by Mr. A. G. Northrup, Register of the Surrogate Court here. Other matters of general interest will be discussed. The meeting will be held as before, at the office of Flint & Jellett, at 8 o'clock.

Fall Ploughing.—The work of fall ploughing has been very much interfered with in some localities by the recent weather, and as the work is slow those who have much to do will find it difficult to complete this part of the work on the farm unless fine weather sets in. One acre a day is considered good work for a team, and a limited number of horses will cause many farmers a serious loss.

The Roads.—The recent rains have softened the surface of the several roads leading into the city, and in many places they are badly cut up by heavily laden waggons having passed over them. This is not, however, unusual during this period of the year, as the work on the farm having been completed for the fall, the farmer can now send his grain to market when he deems it best.

Railway Notes.—Three trains of stock composing 84 cars, went east this morning. The cattle are destined for the European market and will be shipped from Montreal. No. 2 express from the east last evening, consisted of 15 cars, drawn by 2 locomotives and No. 4 this morning was composed of 13 coaches and 2 engines. Both trains were nearly on time. The passenger trains are now running more regular as the delays occasioned by their crossing freight trains, are now very trivial.

Railway Changes.—We understand that Mr. Archibald Baker has been appointed General Manager of the Canada Central Railway, and Mr. R. Luttrell, late of the Credit Valley Railway, has been appointed Assistant General Manager. Mr. Luttrell will assume the duties of his new position about the first of November, and will reside in Brockville. Mr. Luttrell has had a long and valuable experience as a Railway man on the Grand Trunk and Intercolonial Railways, and on our local Railways, and will prove an efficient and successful manager to any Company fortunate enough to secure his services. While we regret his departure from Belleville, we congratulate him upon the improved position he has secured.

Turned up at Last.—On the 13th of April, 1863, Abraham Good, of Brighton, left a watch, No. 14,450, described as a "Composition case and cylinder escapement," with Mr. Angus McFee for repairs. Since that date the watch has remained in the possession of Mr. McFee, subject to the call of its owner. To-day Mr. Good presented himself and showed the card which had been given him at the time he left the watch, over seventeen years ago. Mr. McFee went to his vault, and almost the first article he put his hands on, was the identical watch described in the card which was handed over to the owner. Whether Mr. Good was attempting to follow the effort of Rip Van Winkle, or whether he cared not for time since 1863, is not known, but fortunately for him it was in safe hands, and he took his watch and went on his way rejoicing.

Obituary.—Yesterday afternoon Alonzo Peterson, proprietor and publisher of the Emerson (Man.) Weekly News, breathed his last after a protracted illness. For a long time he has been a sufferer from that fell disease, consumption, and though every effort was made by him, to stem its progress, it could not be stopped. About two weeks since he returned to this city, (his old home,) with the hope that a temporary improvement from the change of air, would ensue, but in this he was disappointed, as he gradually sank. Deceased was 30 years of age and was a printer by trade. His apprenticeship was served here and for a number of years he worked at the case in this and other places. About two years since, he started the News, which, though a new enterprise in a limited field, was fairly successful. Deceased was of a quiet and unassuming disposition, and was well known and esteemed by a large circle of acquaintances and friends, who will regret to hear of his demise. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

Jas. Hennessy has just received a new lot of Tweeds, Overcoatings, Ulster Cloths, Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Wincies, Flannels, Blankets, Kid Gloves, Corsets and Hosiery. All bought at the late auction sales in Toronto and Montreal and will be sold very cheap.

Working at the Assessment.

The Court of Revision met in the Police Court last evening to consider the errors and necessary corrections in the assessment of Foster Ward.

Present.—Ald. Holden, Chairman, St. Charles, Wallbridge and Niles. The Assessors, Messrs. Evans, Northcott and Lynch, were also present.

Only five cases were brought up for consideration, and but one of them was acted on viz. that of Miss C. Wallbridge, whose assessment was reduced from $1,500 to $800.

The total number of appeals against the assessment of the city is 225.

—Sir Leonard Tilley will visit Bowmanville on the 2nd prox. to inspect that town, and probably also the neighboring fisheries and the harbor of Port Darlington.

—Wm Shea, aged 104 years, died at River John, N.S., last week. He had thirteen children, seven of whom are now living, and leaves nearly a hundred descendants.

—Dr. McClintock, who has been spending several months in Canada, as the guest of his brother, Gen. Leopold McClintock, sailed for England on Monday.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

London, Oct. 27.—Late advices from Capetown confirm the news that other tribes have joined the Basutos against the Colonial Government. Natives beyond Pieter Maritzbury, capital of Natal attacked the white residents and such natives as remained faithful to the government during the pilaging of buildings, and outraging of women. Most horrible atrocities are reported. The insurgents are complete masters of the situation. Unless reinforcements can reach them at once the situation of the little handful of men commanded by Col. Clark is considered hopeless. All communication between Durbar and Cape Colony has been cut off, the Basutos having cut the wires

FORSTER DENIES HIS RESIGNATION.

New York, Oct. 27.—The World's cable says Forster, the chief Secretary for Ireland, declares that the rumor of his resignation is untrue.

PARNELL WANTS AID FROM THE U. S.

Parnell intends sending a new delegation to the United States to raise men and means for the outbreak that seems to be impending.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

ON THE EVE OF A GREAT CRISIS

The Whole Country Alarmed.

Parnell Speaks Out

TAKES OFF HIS COAT.

Demands Legislative Independence.

Garrisons Being Filled.

LAND LEAGUERS DEFIANT.

PAPERS FILLED WITH REPORTS OF OUTRAGES.

The Herald's Dublin special says Ireland has not been in such an excited state for many years. Dublin, which was slow to action, is now roused with the expectation of a stirring winter. All feel that the country is on the eve of a grave crisis. The agitation is open social revolt against the movement to crush the ruling class of Ireland by intimidation and force. The prosecutions are only intensifying the bitter feeling of the agitators and drawing to their side many who hitherto have disapproved this course. It is rumored that on account of the prosecutions, Shaw will resign from the land Commission. No one believes the prosecution will be successful. Disagreement is confidently anticipated. The excitement amongst the members of the league is not to be exaggerated. Their speeches since the prosecutions were threatened have been fierce and violent, characterized by intense hatred and contempt for the Government and landlords.

Forster who was once very friendly with Parnell, is now bitterly denounced, and nicknamed him "Buckshot Forster." Forster, is sadly unfitted for such a really serious task as the pacification of Ireland. The attitude of the Land League is now one of fearless attack upon everything and everybody, with bitterness of desperation.

Parnell in his speeches at the Galway banquet said, "I would not have taken off my coat or jacket at this, if I had not known that we are laying the foundation in this movement for regeneration of our Legislative independence. Let every tenant farmer while he keeps a firm grip on his holding, so recognize the great truth that in so doing he is helping to break down the English misrule in Ireland. The City is filled with alarming rumors, many of which, although Government is awakening to the fact that they have a serious social war and desperate men to face.

The Irish garrisons are being filled to their utmost capacity. A sudden breaking out of disturbances at Cork, seems to mark a series of regularly organized outrages there, which now exceeds those in any other county. Rents are being fairly paid in many parts of Ireland, but wherever land league extends its organization only griffiths valuation is offered by tenant, and this the landlords nearly universally refused. The consequence is no rent is paid.

The papers are filled with reports of outrages in the west and south, but not one-third of those taking place are reported. It is understood that Jas. Redpath's name has been withdrawn from the list of prosecutions.

At an exciting meeting of the land league yesterday, Dillon presiding, every reporter and correspondent was closely questioned, and it is suspected that the Government reporter was ejected. Dillon made a long speech, defending the policy of the league and replying to the accusations that the league is responsible for the outrages. The following resolution was adopted.

"In the face of the threatened prosecution of the members of the land league by the English Government we call on the Irish all the world over to answer such coercive measures by a resolute organization for the purpose of defending the principle and people of Ireland, and ardently request Michael Davitt to remain in America for the purpose of prosecuting the great extensive movement among the United States."

COUNTERFEIT BONDS.

Washington, Oct 27.—United States bonds amounting to $250,000 found in the possession of J. B Doyle at Chicago, have been examined at the Treasury by leading experts. They all agreed they were counterfeit, and imitations of written signatures and initials were poor, but the engraver's work was extraordinarily well done.

DAVITT WANTS FINANCIAL AID.

New York, Oct.—Michael Davitt, honorable Secretary of the Irish National Land League, has issued an address in which he directs attention to the intended Government prosecution of Parnell and his colleagues, and appeals for additional financial aid in behalf of the movement.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sarah Bernhardt, the actress, arrived last night.

The Commissioners of the Erie, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads divide the immigrant passenger business equally among them.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 27.—James Gooch asked a man in church to lend him 10 cents for the contribution box, offering a pistol as security. While the man was examining the pistol it discharged, killing Gooch.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The Ansonia Clock Company's factory and five other buildings were burned this morning. Loss $52,000. Nine hundred hands are out of employment.

Campbellford Correspondence.

Oct. 25th, 1880.

At a special meeting of the village Council held last night, a By-law was passed granting a bonus of $10,000 to a woolen and cotton factory; the By-law is to be voted on by the people on the 26th day of November. There is no doubt but that it will be passed by a large majority; in fact we may say there is no opposition at all.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MISSING STUDENTS TURN UP.

London, Oct. 27.—The twelve Maiden students missing from a yachting party at Amsterdam after the collision of their vessel with a mail steamer, were saved by jumping aboard the steamer Alexander Guilleman.

AN EMINENT PAINTER DEAD.

Henoi Frederick Schopin, a French painter, is dead, aged 76.

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.

Sir Robert Lush, one of the justices in the court of Queen's Bench, will succeed the late Alfred Henry Thesiger as Lord Justice of the high court of appeals.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

Paris, Oct. 27.—A Bourse newspaper says, we believe the bank of France will again raise the rate of discount on Thursday. It is rumoured that four million francs of gold have been withdrawn.

A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

Brooklyn, Oct. 27.—The loss by the burning of the Ansonia Clock Factory, will probaby reach one million dollars. and the in surance is said to be only a couple of hundred thousand. The fire was caused by the explosion of gas. There were no engines in the neighborhood, consequently the fire made considerable progress before the firemen could get to work. Little wheels, delicate works, and cases of thousands of partly finished watches and works of thousands of clocks were all melted and twisted together. A number of dwellings occupied by employees were also burned, occupants being unable to save their goods. The works were the most complete in the country. Some of the machinery which were new inventions will be difficult to replace. Phelps, Lodge & Co., N. Y., are extensively interested in the Asonia company.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Indications: lower lakes, occasional stationary or higher temperature.

Grand Junction and Midland.—The Globe of to-day says:—The Grand Junction Railway Company moved yesterday to commit the Warden and Treasurer of the County of Peterboro' for non-observance of the mandamus to issue bonus debentures. As might have been expected, the Court ordered the application to stand until the case already appealed by the county has been decided.

The North-West Indians.—The chief of the band of Canadian Indians in the North-West who were slaughtered by American Indians some weeks ago has appealed to the Government, for redress threatening that unless he receives justice by by the end of the winter, he will take the matter into his own hands.

English Mail—Winter Arrangements—It is intended to despatch the first steamer of the weekly Liverpool mail line from Halifax on Saturday, the 14th December, under the usual winter arrangements. The outgoing steamer from Quebec, on the 27th of November, will be the last from the St. Lawrence this season. When the above arrangement comes into force, letters for the English mail must be posted on Thursdays.

Marine Disasters.—The year 1879 was one of the most disastrous ever known in the annals of England's mercantile marine, as far as the Indian waters are concerned. The complete wrecks were 289, while the casualities amounted to 292. The circumstances accompanying many of these individual losses were in some cases harrowing in the extreme, as for instance, in that of the foundering of the Hindostan off the Coromandel Coast, when 250 perished, or that of the collision between the steamers Ava and Brenhilda, in the Bay of Bengal, in which the former went down all standing, and 70 lives were lost. Nor will the destruction by fire of the Sandhurst on the high seas have passed away from men's memories, nor the May cyclone which whirled up the Indian Ocean, desolated the western harbours, and drove on the shore, or during the 10 days of its continuance sent to the bottom no less than 200 vessels, only small coasting craft perhaps, but still of vital importance to the commerce of the Bombay native ports. Carelessness on the part of pilots or masters, the absence of proper compasses or the necessary equipments, or the age and rottenness of some of the craft, accounted for the loss of only 23, the fury of the elements or fire being responsible for the remainder.

—The Messrs. Greenfells, of the Pacific Railway Syndicate, left Ottawa for Montreal yesterday.

—The government steamer Newfield landed the telegraph cable at the Magdalen Islands last week, and proceeded to Cape Breton to complete the connection. A number of wrecks are reported at Prince Edward Island, but nof particulars are given.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Despite the general impression backed by advices from Europe that cheese would not recede in price this season, there has always been unwillingness amongst buyers to operate at the outside figures.

The market during the past week has fluctuated considerably, and although the market is quoted at 66s 6d to-day, the tone is uncertain and buyers are operating with caution. This state of the market is no doubt owing to the knowledge that there is much more cheese offering than was expected in the larger markets besides what was contracted for and also the excess of exports over last year, when the exports at Montreal from the opening of navigation to date was 435,502 boxes against 473,914 boxes last year, an increase of 37,412 boxes.

In Montreal cheese is quoted from 12½ to 12¾c. per lb. Mr. Watkins purchased 600 boxes during the past week at 12½c. At Utica, N. Y., market, on the 25th, 7,000 boxes were sold at from 12½ to 12⅞c., the ruling price being 12¾c. The Little Falls market on the same day was quoted dull, with market quotations at 12¼ to 12¾c.

On the 24th, fifteen factories offered at the Ogdensburg market 3,999 boxes; 677 sold—570 at 12¼c., and 107 at 12c.

The following is the comparative price of cheese for the last three years:

1877—October 27th ...... 64s.
1878 do. ...... 48s.
1879 do. ...... 62s.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE, Belleville, Oct. 26, 1880

The grain market during the past week has been steady, with a better feeling for the bright full weight barley. Considerable grain was delivered to-day.

Barley ranged from 50c for the poorer qualities, to 60c and 65c for better qualities, and in one or two instances as high as 70c was paid.

Rye was steady at 85c.

This forenoon's Oswego telegrams quote: "Barley in fair demand, sales 7,000 at 93 to 95c for No. 1 bright Canada, 80c for No. 2 Can. Rye quiet, Canada held 95c in bond."

Messrs. Irwin & Sloan's Oswego circular of the 25th remarks:—"The improvement in the demand for barley noted in our circular of the 23rd inst. has been maintained and a further advance on the better grades has been established. Commoner qualities have also sympathized to some extent and general firmness is the leading feature of the market.

"The increasing demand for the west as shown by the late purchases in the leading Canadian markets is the principal cause of improvement. Eastern dealers, though showing more willingness to buy, are nevertheless incredulous as to the permanency of present prices.

"We quote at the close to-day No. 1 bright barley 95c; No. 1 Canada 86c to 87c; No. 2 Canada 79c, and No. 2 Canada above grade 80c to 83c as to quality. A cargo of unusually heavy bright barley, said to be much above grade of No. 1 bright, is reported as selling at 98c. The tone of the market is firm at the close

"Receipts of barley to date 2,338,935 bus., and for corresponding time last year 2,696,245."

Dressed hogs are in good demand at $6.50 per 100 lbs Sales over that figure are rare.

Spring wheat is very scarce. For the best quantity $1.15 per bush. would be paid and $1.00 per bush. for fall.

Dairy Items.

A despatch from Toronto says the cheese manufacturers of this country are at last having their eyes opened to the necessity of having a mixed brand, great dissatisfaction having for some time existed in England among the cheese merchants, because of the lage number of different grades of cheese that would come across in one consignment. A meeting of manufacturers to discuss the matter is spoken of here.

There has been such a rapid increase, says the Cultivator, in the number of creameries for the making of butter in Philadelphia, that the milk supply of the city is seriously threatened. One of these creameries is erecting large additional buildings for the purposes of its business, and a powerful engine to do the churning.

The American Dairyman says:—By reports from various portions of the cheese sections we learn that a number of factory men are holding a portion of their August make, while but few have sold the first half of September. Elgin, Ill., seems to be about the only place where cheese is sold close.

—In a recent article on the adulteration of food, the New York Bulletin says: Adulteration has become a fine art, and in those articles on which there is but a small margin of profit when sold legitimately, it is carried on with skill worthy of a better cause. For instance, a firm, whose manufactory is in south Brooklyn, is making and selling as butter a substance which has not even the me it of oleomargarine to recommend it. Olearine (the oil of fat,) lard and good butter are melted in a tank and thoro'ly mixed, when it is put into new welsh and sold to shippers as butter. Such little butter as is used in this process is really of a fine grade, but it is only used to give color and flavor to the substance. Of course, much money is made by this deception.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Elgin (Ill.,) Board of Trade last week, one of the prominent cheese buyers on the Board stated that a few days ago he bought 260 boxes of cheese, which were represented to be fine goods, but which were made with anti-huff. He in turn sold the cheese, and a few days ago they were returned to him in a terribly demoralized state. He will probably lose what he paid for them. It is now time for manufacturers to discard anti-huff and all foreign substances in the manufacture of cheese, or they will find their cheese on their hands and an inability to sell their goods. Let all give a guaranty that they do not use anti-huff, if they wish to sell their goods.

England's 100-Ton Gun.

WITH 441 POUNDS OF POWDER IT SENDS A 2,000-POUND BALL 45 FEET INTO A SAND-BANK.

A disappointment which ocurred in a second attempt to fire the 100-ton gun some days ago whetted the interest in a renewal of the experiments yesterday. After an inspection of the gun, and a preliminary trial of the hydraulic machinery, the port door of the loading turret, technically called the "cage," was opened and the muzzle of the gun depressed to the loading position. The proof shot of 2,000 pounds weight was placed in the loading truck, and the two cartridges were placed in position behind it. The powder charge was now increased to 441 pounds, and the powder was of the character professionally described as "P 2," which consists of cube shaped "pebbles" 1½ inches in diameter.

Loading was the work of a very few minutes. It was not performed as a time test, but it has been found that the whole operation of loading, elevating, training, aiming and firing can be got through in less than two minutes. Of the 30 feet 3 inches, which is the depth of the bore, the charge occupies nearly nine feet, and the mark on the hydraulic piston shewing that it had gone fairly home, the muzzle was raised and trained to the left, the work of a very few moments, seeing that the gun can be carried completely round in 18 seconds. With the aid of ladders, Capt. Morley, R. A., the proof officer, and his assistants laid the gun so as to direct the projectile through the two electric screens which stand before the butts to measure the velocity, a wire from the instrument room was connected with the vent, and the warning bell was sounded. Then it was found that Col. Inglis, R.E., who is President pro tem. of the committee, was to occupy the turret while the gun was fired, and after handing to Lieut. Willocks an official looking paper, which, by grim joke, was said to be his will, he entered the exposed side of the turret with a lighted lamp, and was fastened in with chain and staple. Major Ellis takes his stand beside the gun on the open side of the emplacement and Capt. Lewis, R.E., posts himself in the recess on the other side, where are the levers which control the machinery. All others withdraw to such distances and refuges as prudence may suggest, and, without any long interval of suspense, the gun is fired. As the spectators run forward they see Col. Inglis walking out of the turret, the door of which has burst open, breaking the iron staple. He describes the concussion, however, as not distressing, and accounts for the door opening by the outside vacuum created by the expansion of the powder gases, which, he thinks, can hardly affect the permanent works, enclosd as they will be on all sides with heavy masonry. As a man will always have to occupy the turret to work the leading apparatus whenever the gun is in action, it was assuring to have the opinion of Colonel Inglis that he should be quite comfortable under the circumstances. The officers who stood beside the gun stated that the effect was much the same as they might experience fifty yards off, and the impression upon the other observers was that the report was not quite so loud as they had heard the other day. This impression was soon confirmed in various ways. The recoil with the increased charge was but 2 feet 8 inches, not much more than half the recoil of the other day, the shot, which went 45 feet into the sandbank, was now found at a depth of 30 feet only; and, most conclusive of all, the velocity, which with the 425 pound charge was 1,250 feet per second, now measured with the 441 pounds of powder only 1,040 feet. It was clear that there was "something wrong somewhere," and the natural conclusion was that the projectile had slipped forward while the muzzle was depressed. The gun was therefore loaded again with the same charge of 441 pounds, care being first taken to wash it well out and search it with a mirror of obstacles, of which none were found, and all being prepared it was once more fired. The report was sensibly heavier; the recoil was 4 feet 7 inches, the penetration of the sand butt was 45 feet, and, finally, Capt. Morley came from his observatory with the report of a velocity of 1,556 feet per second. As in this round the shot was proved to be in its proper position by a measuring rod, after the gun was elevated—a precaution which was not observed in the previous round—the suspicion that the shot had slipped forward gained strength, and it will probably be requisite to employ wads in future experiments.—London Standard.

Pyramids of Egypt.

In the erection of the Pyramids of Egypt the immense stones used were obtained from the quarries in the Arabian hills, and carried over the river by a bridge of boats. They were then brought by means of a causeway which of itself it took ten years to construct, and which is said to have been a fine work, with its polished stones and figures of animals engraved on them. One hundred thousand men were employed at the time and these were relieved by the same number at the end of the three months. A long time was spent in leveling off the rocks on which the edifice stands, and twenty years for the edifice itself. The stones were raised step by step, by means of a machine made of short pieces of wood, and last of all, commencing from the top, the stones were cemented together by layers of cement not thicker than a strip of paper, the strength of which is improved by the age of these enormous materials.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Thos, Fraser, Nashwalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near. With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

A HOUSEHOLD PERFUME.—EVERY FAMILY ABLE to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

EXTRACT

FROM THE "MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

VALUABLE MILL PRIVILEGE AND Premises for Sale.

THE subscribers offer for sale one of the best Mill sites and water privileges on the River Moira, just outside the limits of the City of Belleville, a few rods from the Grand Trunk Railway station. The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and villages runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a length of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. The above is one of the most valuable properties of the kind ever offered for sale in this Province. For terms and particulars apply to

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Still Another Escapade.

In the Life of Newbold alias Howard Who Skipped with the Gaoler's Wife.

We notice that many of our exchanges have something to say regarding an old Peterboro' man, one Newbold, with half a dozen other names. One tells of him as a preacher in the vicinity of Hamilton, and numerous other stories are continually cropping up about him. The other day we heard one that we have not yet seen in print, and as we were told by the victim we have no reason for doubting it. As many of our readers know, he came to Peterborough about the year 1875, and announced that he wanted to buy a farm, and went so far as to purchase one (without paying anything) a short distance outside the town. He soon lost that however, as the owner saw his "little game" and quickly took possession. We next hear of him in connection with another man as a wood merchant, and this is where our story comes in. He used to deliver wood (which he never paid for) to customers with a one horse sleigh, and was sorely grieved because he could not get another, but as he was becoming pretty well known by this time, sellers generally required cash, and as that never was forthcoming, his little speculations pretty nearly always busted. But to continue, one day while driving up street he espied a horse standing in front of the shop of one of our George Street merchants, and learning by some means or another that the owner had no particular use for the animal, he dismounted from a load of wood, and tying his horse outside stepped into a store. After talking for some time on different subjects, he broached the subject of his visit, and being a good talker he soon pursuaded the merchant to let him have the horse and harness on condition that he was to bring in wood to the value of $50, and leave it at his residence and store. The shopkeeper fell an easy victim, and jumped at the chance of selling the horse at such a good figure an advance on $10 on what he had been offered for the animal a few days before. Newbold now rejoiced in the possession of a team and made quite a show. He brought something less than two cords of wood on his contract, and then asked the merchant if he could not wait a few days for the balance, as he was very busy and had a large amount of wood to deliver, which would take him some time. The merchant, struck by his manner and smooth way of talking, readily acquiesced, and saw no more of his debtor for some time. At last as the wood in his yard was getting low he met Newbold on the street and asked him when he was going to fulfil his contract. He replied that he had just been thinking about him, and would bring in some wood next day. Next day came and passed, and so did a week, but no Newbold or wood appeared. The merchant commenced to get mad, and also cold, as his wood ran out, and he started to look for Newbold. At last he found him, and gave him to understand that he wanted some wood or his horse and harness, he did not care which. Newbold apologized, and started to get a load of wood at once, but he never returned, and from that day to this he has neither seen his horse, harness or Newbold. The last he heard of him in this vicinity was that he was preaching up in the back country under the name of the Rev. somebody or another. Shortly after he left this neighborhood, and for some years nothing was heard of him until he was sent to Kingston for bigamy from Toronto. He evidently liked Peterborough, and as soon as his term expired in the Penitentiary he came back and organized a troupe consisting of himself, under the name of Proctor, one of his wives, two women from Buffalo, and a number of local "stars." How the fellow and his play, "True to Death, Through Death, or Convict life in Canada," were shown up by the local press, his failure to make the thing pay, and his subsequent arrest and conviction at Belleville for obtaining goods under false pretences, are well known to the public, and are a fitting prelude to his last escapade.—Peterboro' Review, Oct. 26.

Zanzibar Favors a National Policy

A Zanzibar correspondent of the Austrian Monatsschrift for the East contributes some useful notes on the trade and industry of that place. The chief industry is the manufacture of cocoanut oil, and much of this is carried on by means of rude native presses. Although there are very primitive and much of the oil is lost, yet on account of the cheapness of the nuts, the industry is very profitable, and the quality of the oil wonderfully good. A French house had set up a hydraulic press for the work, but it was pulled down and another improved one put in its place, which promises to be very successful. Several seasamum presses have also been set up. Sugar is an article which every day rises in importance, and may in a short time be exported in great quantity. At present there are six or eight factories, in which only molasses is mostly produced. Recently, however, the Sultan has obtained the materials for a sugar factory from England, and the machinery is now being set up. There are some soda water manufactures, partly in the hand of Goanese, and partly of Hindoos. Then there are the establishments of the Sultan for the manufacture of ice and soda water, oil presses, flour and rice mills, and a very excellent machine-repairing work. The French mission has also an establishment for repairing machinery and tools, which does a great deal of work. There seems to be a want of good workmen at Zanzibar, since neither the Goanese nor the Hindoos know very well how to use their hands. From the latest Customs' returns the imports of the island amount to 24 million Maria Theresa dollars, divided among the different articles as follows: Cotton goods, eight millions; woollens, 250,000; silk goods, 150,000; weapons and ammunition, 1,800,000; metal goods, 1½ million; glass and pottery, 1½ million; petroleum, 500,000; beads, 6½ millions; spirituous liquors, 200,000; tobacco, 75,000; flour and farinaceous foods, 750,000; various, 2½ millions. The bulk of the imported goods is sent into the interior by caravans from Dar Es Salam, Bagamoy, and Whinde.

The Longest Bridge in the World.

The new bridge which has been built for the Orenburg Railway over the Volga, at a distance of 17 versets from Syzran, in the Saratov government, is now completed, and exceeds in length all other bridges yet constructed. The great bridge at Sloerdyk, over the Hollandsch Diep, near the mouth of the Maas, in the Netherlands, which has hitherto been reputed the longest in the world, is shorter than this Volga bridge by six metres. The length of this new bridge is stated to be 696 saschenes, or 1485 metres (equal to 1623·986 yards). Its building was commenced on August 17, 1877, so that it has just taken three years to finish. The cost has been 4,930,000 roubles, or nearly 694,500*l*. Four hundred thousand puds of iron, or 6,552,400 kilogrammes (equal to 5149 tons very nearly), have been employed in the construction. The bridge rests on 13 arches, and the plans were prepared by Professor Beleloubsky, of St. Petersburg. The Russian papers boast that neither England, France, Germany, nor even America have built such long bridges as their own country. The Netherlands come next to Russia in this respect. After this new Volga bridge and the Dutch bridge, at Moerdyk, over the Hollandsch Diep, already mentioned, the next longest are the two over the Dnieper, at Kiev and Krementshok respectively, in the government of Pultova, the former of which is 1081·68 metres (equal to about 1,182 yards), and the latter 975 metres (equal to about 1,065 yards 2¼ ft.) long. Then comes the bridge over the Waal, at Bommel, in the Dutch province of Gelderland, 917·4 metres (equal to 1,002 yards 2 ft.) in length. Next in length is the great Mississippi bridge, connecting East St. Louis with St. Louis, which was built between 1869 and 1874, and cost ten millions of dollars, or almost three times as much as the new Russian bridge; it is 772·32 metres (884 yards) long, and rests on only three arches, the middle one having a span of 158 metres. The bridge near mouth of the Vistula, at Dirschan, in East Prussia, follows, and the Dutch railway bridge over the Lek, at Kuilenberg, on the line between Utrecht and Boxtel, which are 706,19 metres (equal to 761 yards 2½ft.) long. Next comes the Britannia Tubular Bridge, which is more remarkable for its admirable construction than its length of 556,84 metres (equal to almost 608 yards 2ft.). The bridge between Praga and Warsaw, 507,77 metres (equal to 555 yards), long, comes next; and then the fine Alexander-bridge only finished last year, beween the Finland bank of the Neva and St. Petersburg, which is 405,36 metres (equal to 447 yards) long, considerably less than a third of the length of the new Volga bridge.

Seeing Jupiter's Moons.

An observer in Boston saw on Sunday evening, with the naked eye, the third or largest satellite of Jupiter. There is no doubt that all the moons could be been by any good eye if the planet itself were blotted from the sky. The difficulty in seeing them lies in the glare of the planet on the eye. If the lenses of the eye are so transparent and so pure that there is no glare, the possessors of such visual organs will have little trouble in picking up the two outer satellites, especially if they should chance to be close together and under the present exceptionally favorable circumstances for observation. This effort to see the Jovian moons will therefore, be a test of the purity of the eyesight, as well as a fine opportunity to enjoy a distinction in star-gazing whichfew observers attain.—Providence (R. I.) Journal, October 7.

EXTRACT

FROM THE "MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarily prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert balls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 28.

Rebellious.

The Reform Press are by no means unanimous in approving of the recent double-shuffle of Government offices. The St. Catharines News takes even stronger ground than the Guelph Mercury, and proclaims open rebellion if the Mowat Government don't dismiss Captain Prince. In concluding a lengthy article on the subject, it says:—"There is no instance within our somewhat extensive recollection of a Reform official, for abuse of one position, being rewarded with another and better one. Reform officials, when a very slight excuse can be found for the act, are thrust aside, and Captain Prince must go, or there will be a rebellion in the Reform ranks. And those gentlemen who intercede for Captain Prince may well look to their own tenure of office." The News will have to draw in its horns, for the Mowat Government will not undo what they have done, and we venture further to say that the News will not carry its threat of rebellion into execution.

Confuting Itself.

The Globe seems to take a singular delight in producing arguments at one time, to confute those which it had previously advanced. For instance, in its issue of the 26th it says:

"It is rumoured that the Dominion Government intends to import from England a commanding officer for the North-West Mounted Police. As no reason for such a determination can be given, we do not yet give credit to the report. Before making an appointment to the place vacated by Col MacLeod, the claims of Major Walsh and other officers of the force should be weighed. It is quite possible that none of them may possess the qualities necessary to a good commanding officer, though several are no doubt meritorious subordinates.

* * * * *

"But if no subaltern at present in the force can be trusted to command it—and we fear that none of them is equal to all its duties—it does not follow that a man should be brought from England to fill the place. There are several good officers in the country of proved ability and high character, one of whom should receive the appointment."

* * * * *

"While there is a man in the country eminently fitted to become Colonel MacLeod's successor, we cannot believe that the Government will insult Canadian feeling by giving the place to some special importation."

Applying this same argument—as it does most aptly apply—to the action of the Minister of Education in making a special trip to England, for the purpose of securing a Professor for Toronto University, does it not sustain the position taken by those who opposed that mistaken mission? What, then, becomes of the Globe's defence of its political friends in this matter? The organ is condemned out of its own mouth, and its defence of Mr. Crooks falls to the ground.

A MISTAKE.—A Toronto report says the notification from the Provincial Secretary's office, published this week, that Mr. Nott had been appointed Police Magistrate of Port Hope, was a mistake. Mr. Nott's appointment was for Port Perry.

THE CATTLE TRADE.—The prospects of the cattle trade with England are looking up again. A cablegram has been received in Toronto which contains the announcement that the best of cattle has gone up £2 sterling per head and other grades in proportion.

TELEGRAPHIC.—The great North-West and Manitoba Telegraph Companies are shortly to be amalgamated, and are going to open an office in Winnipeg, about the 18th of November. The erection of a line along the first hundred miles of the Canada Pacific Railway by the former Company is being rapidly pushed forward.

PLENTY OF BUFFALO.—An Ottawa report says:—"Major Walsh, of the North West Mounted Police Force, who is now in the city, has received a letter dated the 30th of September from Wood Mountain, in which it is stated that large numbers of buffalo had crossed the Missouri west of old Fort Peck and were going northward towards Brown's Creek, which is fifty miles south of the boundary line. The writer adds that the prairie is fairly covered with buffalo, and that Sitting Bull, who was camped near there with 200 lodges, intended to leave on the day following to hunt them with his hunters. Major Walsh expresses his opinion that the buffalo are making for Wood Mountain, which is a natural herding ground for them, and that should they do so the Indians will have no difficulty in securing a supply of meat for the winter.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nassawalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Duty Demands It.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—For the last two evenings the Workingmen's Temperance Association have held in their Hall, Robertson's new block, a public temperance meeting at which stirring speeches have been made against the terrible evil, intemperance.

In looking over the audience, I was painfully struck with the fact that there were so many of our old friends absent, but more especially in co-workers for humanity, namely, professors of religion and professed sympathisers in our good work.

Surely, Mr. Editor, it is not owing to self satisfaction, nor to the decrease of intemperance in our midst; surely it is not because we have done our whole duty in this matter. Men, what is the cause of this want of zeal on behalf of the friends of the Workingmen's Temperance Cause? Friends of our common brotherhood, you have a duty to perform in this cause, that no excuse either to God or man can excuse you. Let us strike hands and work together for the cause, willing to sacrifice just a little of our home pleasures and comforts if necessary; also let us remember the responsibility standing between God's will and the work that he requires at our hands.

"Affection may rear a house and warm it with the loveliest forms that meet its eye on earth, and twine the grace of sweet charities about its door posts, and adorn every apartment with all that gives meaning to that word 'home,' but only let intemperance enter and there is not a heart within this scene of bliss that it will not sadden, nor a joy that it will not wither."

Friends of the Workingmen's Temperance Association, do your duty, and show by your presence to-night and to-morrow night that you MEAN IT.

Yours fraternally,
WORKINGMAN.

Building Operations for 1880.

This Season's Additions to Dwellings and Business Premises.

The building trade in Belleville has been comparatively dull this year, still a few notable additions have been made to the number of structures designed for homes for their proprietors or for rental, and to premises designed solely for business purposes. During the past few days a representative of the INTELLIGENCER has devoted a considerable amount of time to the acquirement of information on this subject, and the result of his labors is herewith appended.

On Bridge St. West Mr. Hugh Cooper has erected a brick structure which is designed for a shop. It is 24x30 feet, running to an angle and is two stories high. The bricklaying was the work of David Everett, the carpentering that of George White and the plastering that of the first named. Cost $500.

A double brick dwelling, two stories high 40x40, with three rooms on the ground floor and four on the upper flat, has been erected by Mrs. Robert Davy on Forin Street. Johnson & Harrold were the bricklayers. George White the carpenter, Frank Dolan the plasterer, and Taylor & Twining the painters. Cost $300.

Rev. Mr. Bodle has put up a frame dwelling near the College, 20x25 ft., one and a half stories high, with an addition 16x20 feet for a kitchen. George White was the contractor Cost $500.

A two story brick residence, located on the corner of Bridge and Cedar streets has been built by Mr. John Irwin. It is of brick, two stories high, with double bay windows, is 28x30 ft. and has an addition for a kitchen 15 ft. square. There are 4 rooms in the main structure on the first floor and 4 on the second. Jas. Woodley did the bricklaying, George Reeves the carpentering, and Frank Dolan the plastering. Cost $1,200.

During this summer Mr. Henry Bleecker made a brick addition 18x22ft. to his residence on Dundas Street east. George Reeves was the carpenter. John Wickett the bricklayer, and Frank Dolan the plasterer. Costs $750.

Isabella Street has a handsome addition to its number of residences in the structure erected by Mr. James E. Walmsley. Its location is attractive, whilst the style and general finish of the work on the building make its appearance generally pleasing. The building is of brick 32x24 ft., rests upon a stone foundation, is two stories high; is provided with double bay windows and is slate roofed. An addition to the main builing of 14x26 ft. provides for a kitchen and other extra room. There are six rooms on the ground floor and seven up stairs, and all are well and substantially fitted. James Woodley was the mason and bricklayer; Thos. Hanley did the carpenter work and slating; Taylor & Twining the painting; and Frank Dolan the plastering. Cost $2,500.

Mr. Job Lingham has put up a neat residence on John Street, to replace the frame building formerly occupied by him. It is of brick, two stories high 40x40 ft. There are four rooms and a spacious hall on the ground floor, and five on the second, besides clothes closets, bath rooms, &c. The house is provided with all modern conveniences, and will be heated with hot air. Thomas Hanley was the architect and carpenter; Wickett Bros. were the bricklayers; F. Dolan the plasterer; and Michael York the painter. Cost $3,000.

Mr. D. Price has erected a two story brick dwelling 35x41 ft, on Road Street, and has provided it with double bay windows. There are four rooms and a hall on the lower floor and six on the upper, with closets, bath rooms, &c. Cost, $2,000.

Mr. Reuben Cooper, who purchased the property on Moira Street opposite his flour mill, has made a variety of improvements in it which cost $500

A brick addition 16x20 feet has been made to the residence of Mr. Fred Lingham on John Street, by Thomas Hanley, at an expenditure of $400.

A general overhauling of the interior arrangement of the basement of the Bridge Street Methodist Church has been made, at an expense of $1,600.

Repairs necessitated by the fire in Dick's clothing store and improvements in the second flight of the McAnanny block, at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets, cost $400.

A brick dwelling two stories high, 25x30 feet, with a double bay window, has been put up by Mr. Jacob Cronk in his Avenue Block. In it are five rooms on the ground floor and six on the second. The work was done under Mr. Cronk's supervision and cost $1,000. The same gentleman has made alterations in some of the buildings in his block, which caused an outlay of $400.

News Condensed.

—It is rumoured that the Quebec Cabinet is undergoing reconstruction.

—A large soap, candle and oil works has been established at Winnipeg.

—The sharp-ended bayonet scabbard is to be discarded in the British army.

—Next Tuesday the election for President of the great Republic will take place

—A despatch from Meshed states that the Shah has forbidden the sale of corn to Russian agents.

—A St. Petersburg despatch says that a Russian clipper ship has left Cronstadt for the Pacific.

—It is stated that in Australia odds of two to one are being laid on Trickett for the championship match.

—A large number of commercial men representing houses in Montreal, Toronto, and Hamilton, are in Manitoba.

—John Duff, the well-known railroad contractor, died in Boston on the 26th, leaving property estimated at $4,000,000.

—A large mineral belt has been discovered in Cape Breton between Marble Mountain and Malawatch, in which gold, silver and copper are found.

—The Treasurer of Queen's University acknowledges the receipt of $82,274.56 on account of the Queen's College Endowment, up to the 4th of October.

—White labor is seriously wanted at the railway works in British Columbia. One dollar and seventy-five cents and $2 per day are offered as wages.

—The Australian cricketers in their tour through England made £5,000 solid profit. In the match with the English Eleven at the Oval their share of the receipts amounted to £1,100.

—Le Canada says that the Syndicate is to complete the first 100 miles of the C. P. Railway west of Winnipeg within three years; also that Parliament may meet the beginning of December.

—Mr. Molinari, the well known journalist, has arrived in Montreal from Paris, France. He is to investigate the condition of the country as a place for French investment, and to report upon his return.

—The Princess Louise, according to a London despatch, intends joining the Marquis of Lorne in Ottawa as soon as her health is sufficiently restored to enable her to take the risk of travelling. She is now too weak to venture to cross the ocean, and no date is yet fixed for her departure from England.

—Hon. Dr. Schultz, M.P., with Col. W. Kennedy, President, and David Young, Secretary, of the Manitoba North-Western Railway, will leave Winnipeg to-day for Ottawa to arrange for the opening up of the lands of the company for settlement, and for other business connected with this enterprise

—Up to the present time over 73,000,000 bushels have been exported from the United States in wheat and flour out of a probable surplus of $185,000,000 to $190,000,000 bus. The total wheat crop is estimated at $450,000,000. There will be a demand for the whole surplus, if, as is probable, Russia does not export any wheat

—According to Dr. Kedzie, of Detroit, the adulteration of sugar with glucose is rapidly increasing, and the adulteration is being effected more and more skilfully. Pure glucose is not in itself poisonous or even injurious, but it makes sugar less sweet, so that a greater quantity is required to produce a given sweetening effect. Manufactured glucose, however, Dr. Kedzie states, is injurious to health, because poisonous substances are always associated with it. Glucose is also said to be a constituent of nearly all candies and syrups.

Peril in a Mine.

Effect of the Late Storm at Silver Islet—The Mine Flooded—Narrow Escape of the Miners.

(FROM THE MAIL.)

The many dispatches and accounts of lake disasters have already given an idea of the fearful violence of the recent storms, but nothing has yet been published which has given as graphic a picture of the fury of the gales on the great lakes as the following almost verbatim extract from a letter received by Mr. Robert Saunders, of this city, from a gentleman residing at Thunder Bay. The letter was written just after the gale had partially subsided:

"Speaking of storms, we are now in the midst of the most fearful one known here for ten years past. Saturday was frightful; awful. It commenced about one a. m., and at eleven the lake was mountain high. We noticed lots of timber driven in on the waves, and several of us faced the storm and climbed the rocks to get a glimpse of

SILVER ISLET.

We saw to our horror the waves rushing through the middle of the Islet between the machinery houses and shaft of the mine, and the boarding-houses. Just then a steam calliope on the Island sounded 'alarm,' and also signaled for the tug. Watching out (before the tug got out) we saw two buildings go down before the waves, and as the storm permitted we noticed the breach of waters widen more and more, whilst dense clouds of spray shot up against and over the houses, shops and steam engine house, threatening to engulf them. The tug went out but could not get to within fifty or sixty feet of the Islet wharf, and she, too, was in great danger, having to run into Tea (?) Harbor, a distance of two miles, before she could turn round to regain her port. She brought word that the eastern breakwater was broken in two at the middle, and the south-eastern part totally destroyed, letting the whole force of the storm on the engine and hoisting houses. The waves poured over the destroyed breakwater carrying logs and stones upon their crests, and soon had piles of debris over and around the other piers and connecting bridges. The water forced its way round under the 'bed,' and poured down the mine to the imminent danger of the miners below, who, unaware of the danger, were still at work. Volunteers were called for, and two noble fellows—Frank Martin and another named Fellows—responded, and started on their perilous mission. Going down to the bottom of the mine they went on up to the working gallery, gathered the men, and started back. At the bottom of the mine was now ten feet of water, and it was pouring down the shaft in a torrent. At last seventy minutes after starting, they returned safe with the men, all drenched to the skin and so benumbed by the cold and toil that they could scarcely hold to the rungs of the ladder In the mine they had to grope their way 1,000 feet or more through the gallery in total darkness, as owing to the splash of the torrent of water no lights could be kept. Two hours after their ascent the fierce violence of the storm abated somewhat, and the poor fellows at great peril managed to get aboard the tug and return to the mainland for food and warmth—not to be got on the Islet. It is estimated that the repair of the damage done by the storm will cost the company $30,000.

Marine.

Respecting the missing schooner Folger, the Whig says:—"Up to three o'clock to-day no intelligence had been received regarding the missing schooner B. W. Folger. The schr. Annandale left Oswego fifteen minutes later than the Folger and reached Trenton yesterday morning The Captain, who was in the city to-day, expressed surprise at the Folger's non-appearance. The tug Active and two barges came over from Oswego the same night, Capt. Thos. Gaskin says it was very dark and a heavy sea running. If the tug and barges pulled through all right why not the Folger? She was in skillful hands. The owners feel anxious regarding her. The cook on the vessel was Mrs. Twohey, a widow, who resides on Earl street. The names of the remainder of the crew are unknown. The schooner had 200 tons of coal for Mr. Jas. Swift. The cargo is insured, but the vessel is not. She rated B 1. She was rebuilt in 1871 upon the bottom of the schr. Caroline. Last winter she was thoroughly repaired. She was valued at $3,000 Messrs. Swift and Dandy are the owners."

The report that the schooner Heather Belle of Picton, was lost with Capt. Norman McDonald, is untrue. The Heather Belle arrived at Detroit all safe and sound, except that she lost her deck load on Lake Huron

The steam barge Saxon with barley left last night for Oswego.

The schooner British Queen from Trenton with a part cargo of barley filled out here to-day and will leave for Oswego this evening.

The Belle of Hamilton with barley from Trenton, and the O. S. Storrs, with barley from Rednerville passed down to-day bound for Oswego.

MISSIONARY COMMITTEE.—The meeting of the Toronto Conference Missionary Committee of the Methodist Church of Canada was held at Lindsay on Tuesday, Oct. 26th. The reports show the ordinary income for the past year about $130,000 which is a falling off in collections of $4,000. During the past year the relief and extension fund raised amounted to $116,000, out of which the old debt of the Society amounting to $70,000 has been paid. Mr. M. B. Roblin of this city was elected to the central board which meets at Toronto next year.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 28.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

THE CELLS.—Four prisoners charged with drunkenness, lodged in the cells last night.

KINGSTON PRESBYTERY.—The next meeting of the Kingston Presbytery will be held in Belleville on Dec. 21st.

SPECIAL MEETING.—A special session of the City Council will be held on Saturday evening next at the usual hour.

MINING LANDS PURCHASE.—A party of American gentlemen from New York recently visited Madoc, and yesterday they completed the purchase of a valuable tract of mining land in that township.

REMANDED.—Wellington Young who was sent to Napanee on Monday night for horse stealing had a preliminary hearing yesterday and was remanded until Monday when additional charges will be formulated against him.

REMENYI.—Parties holding seats are requested to please call and get their tickets at once. The new cushioned seats on the sides of the Hall will be reserved in order to give every one a chance to hear the great violinist. Call early at Reynolds'.

MISSIONARY BOARD.—At a meeting of the Missionary Board of the Toronto Methodist Conference on the 26th, it was resolved that the basis of appropriation to married ministers should be $750, $400 to ordained unmarried ministers, and $300 to single unordained ministers.

MONSTER VEGETABLES.—A beet weighing 25 lbs and a potato weighing 2 lbs 13 oz., were exhibited in the Messrs. Ross' store in Madoc, yesterday. They were grown on the farm of W. Wright, in the 9th Con., and may be considered large specimens of their class.

NEARLY FINISHED.—The new freight shed for the use of the Grand Junction Railway, which is located just west of the company's engine house is rapidly approaching completion. The roof is now being covered, and the work of finishing the interior of the structure hurried forward.

TEMPERANCE.—An interesting meeting was held in the Hall of the Workingmen's Temperance Association last evening when thrilling temperance addresses were delivered by Messrs. Thos. Holden, M. Nulty, W. J. Diamond, and Wm. Boseley. The Temperance meetings are held each evening and its to be hoped they will receive the encouragement they deserve.

AT NAPANEE.—At a tea-meeting held at Napanee a few evenings ago, Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Belleville, was present, and this is what the Napanee Standard says of his address: "Rev. Mr. Mitchell, of Belleville, was then called upon, and spoke for nearly an hour on 'How best to get on in the World.' This was by far the best tea-meeting address we have ever had the pleasure of listening to, and should the Rev. gentleman ever favor a Napanee audience with a lecture, we can assure him of a cordial welcome."

RAILWAY NOTES.—Through passenger traffic westward is very brisk, as every passenger train going in that direction is well filled. The express last night comprised fifteen cars, and this morning's fourteen, whilst the average number of cars in each eastern bound express train is but eight. The greater number of those bound west go to the lumber districts of Michigan. Since 9.30 yesterday morning, 19 cars of stock, 6 of hogs, 10 of beef, and 20 of apples in barrels, passed eastward. Six cars of cheese were shipped to Montreal to-day by Hodgson & Sons, for export to England.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. C. Glashan, Inspector of Public Schools, Ottawa, and Mr. Gale, of Messrs. J. T. Gage & Co., Toronto, are in attendance at the Teachers' Institute.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—The following are the Toronto probabilities:—Lakes, southeasterly winds, increasing cloudiness, followed by sleet or rain; slightly higher temperature.

ON HIS WAY HOME.—Prof. Macoun and party, who have been on an exploring expedition in the North-West, have arrived in Winnipeg, and will leave that city for Ontario on Monday next.

THANKSGIVING.—The Dominion Government issued a proclamation appointing Wednesday next, the 3rd November, as Thanksgiving Day, and now the Ontario Government has issued another proclamation "earnestly exhorting our loving subjects in our said province to observe reverentially and devoutly the said day of thanksgiving.

REMENYI AND JOSEFFY.—The Globe of the 26th says:—"The second concert of these two great virtuosi came off last night in Shaftesbury Hall, which was again comfortably filled by an audience, which for respectability and enthusiasm could not be surpassed. The welcome extended to the performers was a most cordial one, and the cordial appreciation of the various numbers was manifested by encores again and again repeated. A pleasant feature of the entertainment, not on the programme, was the presentation of a beautiful album and a handsome oil painting of himself to Mr. Remenyi, the articles being tokens of the esteem in which he is held by those who bestowed them. His Worship the Mayor made the presentation, and announced at the same time that Mr. Joseffy would at another time be made the recipient of a souvenir from a number of those who have learned to appreciate him as a gentleman, and admire him as an artist of unquestionable genius and power. The announcement was also made that Mr. Remenyi had made his accompanist Mr. Beale, a present of a fine gold watch by way of recognition of his services in that capacity, and those who have attended the Remenyi concerts will unite in the testimony that he well deserves the compliment

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Peterboro' Review of the 27th inst., says:—Grand Junction ballast trains have been running every day between Hastings and Ashburnham since the rails were laid. The road which has been very rough and uneven, by having large quantities of earth and gravel well packed under the ties, it is being straightened up and put in a fit condition for making reasonable time. The engines used for ballasting are pretty hard specimens, being old Grand Trunk yard engines, but the Company have fine new ones that will compare favorably with those used on any road in Canada. The flat cars are first class in every respect, being perfectly new and from Crossen's factory. The rails are being bolted together firmly at the ends by fish plates and long iron bolts, to receive which the rails were bored at William Hamilton's foundry. The workmen have reached Ashburnham, and we understand they have completed the work all the way along. They have taken up the Midland rails on the disputed portion of the line, and having thrown them to one side, have replaced them by rails of their own. The Midland have not yet taken advantage of the permission of the Court to construct a switch and run on the Grand Junction track, and we believe they do not intend to do anything in the matter until the case at present before the Court is decided, one way or the other. Four first class passenger coaches are at present in course of construction at the Cobourg car factory, which it is expected will be finished by the first of December, when they will be placed on the road between Belleville and Peterborough from and after which date Mr. Bickford expects to have two trains a day between those two points. Work has not yet been resumed at the northern end of the road, and it remains in about the same condition as it was in two weeks ago.

JAS. HENNESSY has just received a new lot of Tweeds, Overcoatings, Ulster Cloths, Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Wincies, Flannels, Blankets, Kid Gloves, Corsets and Hosiery. All bought at the late auction sales in Toronto and Montreal and will be sold very cheap.

South Hastings Teachers' Institute

The regular semi-annual meeting of this Institute opened to-day at 9.30 a. m.

The chair was occupied by the President, J. Johnston, I. P. S.

After the regular business of the Association had been disposed of, the report of the delegate to Toronto, Mr. H. G. Parker, was read by the Inspector, as Mr. Parker is at present attending the Normal School, Ottawa.

On motion of Mr. Irwin, seconded by S. A. Gardner, the report was received and adopted.

The first subject was "School Management" by Mr. Irwin, Head Master of the County Model School, who handled the subject in a very able manner, giving much valuable information on seating pupils, assigning lessons hearing recitations, correcting exercises, holding monthly examinations and dicipline.

In the discussion that followed part was taken by H. M. Hicks, M. A., and J. C. Glashan, I. P. S., Ottawa.

The next subject was The A. B. C. of Arithmetic by Mr. Glashan, who gave a masterly exposition of this very important subject, alluding to the use of the numeral frame. He exhibited a very simple contrivance of colored blocks of wood by which he explained his method of teaching notation, numeration, addition and subtraction. The Institute then adjourned. to meet at 2 p. m., when Mr. Glashan will resume the subject.

Court of Revision.

The Court met again last evening at the usual hour.

PRESENT.—Ald. Holden, Chairman, Wallbridge, Niles, Dickson, St. Charles, and the A

The following business was transacted.

Mrs. Redner's appeal against over-assessment of property on West Pinnacle Street of $280 was laid over for consideration.

The assessment of Thomas Donnelly on South Bridge Street $1440 was reduced to $1000.

N. H. Peterson's assessment of property on West Albert Street was reduced from $1,800 to $1,600.

The assessment of A. L. Smith's property on Burnham St. was reduced from $7,400 to $6,900.

William Sutherland's income was lessened by $200, which was deemed an over assessment.

Wm. Power applied to be assessed for public school rates on $7,000 instead of for separate schools. This was laid over for the opinion of the Solicitor.

W. H. Lake appealed against an income assessment of $200. Reduced $200.

Rev. Thos. Cullen's assessment was allowed to stand.

Thos. Wills, South Bridge Street, appealed against his assessment of that property, as it belongs to the Dominion Government. Stands as assessed.

Bell & Ponton's appeal was laid over.

An alteration was made as to Mr. N. B. Falkiner's assessment as to occupancy and a wrong assessment was corrected by the substitution of the names of F. C. Ridley and Miss Nellie Murney for that of his own.

R. S. Bell's assessment for property on William Street, was altered and the name of Benjamin Gilbert placed thereon.

The Ketchesan Ward appeals will be heard to-night.

Grand Trunk Railway.

The report of the Grand Trunk Railway Company for the half year ended on the 30th June last, which will be submitted at the meeting to be held at London to-day, is evidently a satisfactory one. It shows that the gross receipts for the first six months of this year, amounted to £991,992 against £832,869 for the corresponding period last year.

The interest on the International Bridge capital is set down at £10,434, a decrease of £2,546. The interest on Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway bonds being placed at £10,167, leaving a balance on hand of £122,400 12s 2d.

The amount brought forward from the preceding half year, £1,440 0s 7d, makes, with the balance from the past half year, a total of £123,926 12s 9d, out of which a dividend for the half year at the rate of £5 per cent per annum on the first preference stock has been paid, absorbing £80,374 9s 6d, and leaving a balance of £43,552 3s 3d.

As regards the appropriation of the balance, the Board resolved to pay a dividend on the second preference stock for the half year at the rate of 3 per cent per annum, absorbing £34,893 2s 8d, and leaving £8,659 0s 7d to be carried forward to the current half year. This dividend will accrue to the holders of second preference stock registered in the books of the Company on the 4th instant, and the warrants will be payable, as previously announced, on the 1st of November next.

The gross receipts were greater for the half year than in 1879 by £159,122, or 19 10 per cent, though the receipts for the Riviere du Loup section, amounting to £22,263, were included in 1879, but were not received in 1880 on account of that branch of the road having been sold.

The working expenses, including renewals, amounted to £675,344, or 68.08 per cent, showing an increase of £49,821, or 6.45 per cent, as compared with an increase in the receipts of 19.10 per cent.

The passenger receipts increased £26,824 or 11.54 per cent., and the numbers by £47,198, or 5.58 per cent., as compared with 1879, but the receipts for mails and expresses showed a decre (owing mainly to the sale of the Riviere du Loup section) of £3,201.

The receipts from freight traffic increased by £135,786, or 24.09 per cent., and the tonnage by 203,265 tons, or 16.59 per cent.

The number of passengers carried was 892,825, against 845,627; and the quantity of freight carried was 1,423,103 tons, against 1,224,838 tons. The average receipt per passenger was 5s. 9½d., against 5s. 6d.; and per ton of freight 9s. 9½d., against 9s. 2½d.

The percentage of working expenses was reduced by 8.9 per cent., 1.36 per cent as regards maintenance and renewals of road and rolling stock, and 6.73 per cent as regards all other charges.

—The Emperor of Russia is not expected to live. It is said he has been poisoned.

—On the 27th inst. Mrs. Wm. Doupe, of Blanchard, near London, was killed by being thrown from a buggy.

—It is reported that Generals Phayre and Primrose, of Afghan notoriety are to be relieved of their command.

—A cable despatch states that there is some talk in England of securing medical men from the colonies to fill up vacant army and navy surgencies.

—A Montreal ticket-scalper who attempted to dispose of a Grand Trunk ticket that was out of date has been convicted at the Assizes of endeavouring to obtain money under false pretences.

—A delegation of representatives of Radical clubs met in London yesterday, and passed a resolution denouncing the Government for their policy in Ireland, and for withholding from the Irish people the liberties they claimed for the Bulgarians and other oppressed nationalities.

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

THE BASUTO WAR.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Great anxiety exists here in official circles regarding the state of affairs in South Africa. Telegraphic communicaton is only open to Durban, and the lines in the Orange Free State have been abandoned. There is no news from Cape Town.

MORE INTIMIDATION.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A notice has been posted on the Balla court house threatening the life of anyone who shall visit the rent office of the estate of the late Lord Montmorris within the next three months for the purpose of making any payment.

PREPARING FOR PARNELL.

At a meeting of borough magistrates of Limerick, it was decided that a hundred additional police be drafted for service in the town on the occasion of Parnell's reception on November 1st. It was also decided that the liquor shops be closed on that day.

A SYSTEM OF SIGNALS.

A despatch to the Times from Dublin says:—Between Templemore and Thurles signal flashes on the most improved military system are carried on nightly, and answered by flashes from various points on the hills. There appears to be quite a system of communication by such signals and flashes, which is generally considered ominous of mischief.

AMERICAN.

ELECTION SQUABBLES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—A war between the United States and city authorities seems inevitable. The supervisors of the election, who have been at registering places, have received little aid, and sometimes direct opposition from the police officers. It is stated that several persons will be arrested to-day for interfering with the United States Officers and for contempt of the United States Court.

THE RAILWAY WAR.

A meeting of railroad managers and general agents yesterday decided on an agreement made in New York by the Presidents of the roads engaged in the late war, which must be modified or the war will break out afresh. It seems to be the prevalent opinion that the outstanding unlimited cheap tickets must be redeemed by the roads issuing them before peace could be permanent. The matter will be further considered to-day. Alton, after the meeting, announced a five dollar limited ticket to St. Louis. It is not unlikely the roads will to-day make a $4.50 or $5 rate to St. Louis. The roads are in good financial condition.

FATALLY SHOT.

GIDDINGS, Tex., Oct. 28.—Lewis Green (colored) whilst returning from town, where he went to sell cotton, was attacked by highwaymen and fatally shot. No clue.

A PRESENT TO HANCOCK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—200 citizens of Brooklyn yesterday presented Hancock with a gold headed cane tipped with diamonds.

The Tribune states that this is not the first time that Philip tried his hand at forgery, although in the previous cases he did not get into the courts.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

A NEW EXPEDITION.

LONDON, Oct 28.—The announcement is made of the organization of a new British expedition for the exploration of the Island of Borneo.

LORD BEACONSFIELD.

Earl Beaconsfield is suffering from gout in the tongue.

SEVERE FLOODS.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The heavy rains continue, and floods are reported from various parts of the country. A portion of the railway between Dublin and Wicklow has been washed away. Incoming vessels report terrific weather on the Atlantic for the past few days.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.—A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

Thos. P. O'Connor, land leaguer, said he would leave for Dublin on Saturday and there quietly await arrest. He also said a defence fund was now being organized.

Healey's arrest is unimportant in connection with the other prosecutions on the charge of conspiracy, but it will be a test question in determining many other alleged cases of intimidation by the land league members, and the entire policy of interference with private property. The land league will defend Healey with the best ability at their command.

Lord Cloncurry who owns extensive estates in the Counties of Dublin, Kildare and Limerick, has received threatening letters.

At a Home Rule meeting in London an appeal was issued to the Irish people of England and Scotland to keep aloof from both political parties during the approaching elections, unless the candidates emphatically disapprove of the impending prosecutions of the land leaguers is being printed in England and every precaution is taken to keep the intentions of the Government till definite decision has been reached. It is said the agitators will do all they can to prolong the trials. Even if the accused were convicted, it is very unlikely the agitation would cease, until after serious disturbances.

THE EASTERN DIFFICULTY.—The telegrams regarding the Eastern troubles are not of much interest, the position remaining almost unchanged. Dervish Pasha has been made Governor of Albania. The Sultan is said to be dreaming of a grand alliance of Ottoman monarchies.

FACTION FIGHTS.—Another story of violence comes from the Upper Ottawa. A family named Donegan, who had been worsted in a recent faction fight at Buckingham, tracked three of their conquerors twenty-four miles up the Lievere, set upon them as they slept, and beat them so mercilessly that the lives of two of the victims are despaired of. Two of the assailants have been arrested.

POSTPONED INDEFINITELY.—The Winnipeg Times relates as follows: "Assured of a great victory in Selkirk, so the story goes, the faithful met in Toronto and arranged that immediately after the receipt of the anticipated glorious news from Selkirk, Hon. Mr. Blake was to make a triumphal tour through the Maritime Provinces and impress upon those down by the sea with a blaze of his oratorical fireworks the great importance of the Selkirk verdict. Mr. Blake's 'points,' it is stated, were all arranged, and he was to make Rome howl with denunciations of the iniquitous policy of the corrupt Tories, which had been so thoroughly condemned by the Great West. Unfortunately for Mr. Blake, the news from Selkirk was a little different from that anticipated, and his intended trip was postponed indefinitely."

THE LUMBER OUTLOOK.—A leading Chicago manufacturer gives six reasons why lumber can not remain at the present wholesale prices. They are:—1. That the increased cost of the raw material, provisions, labor and stumpage will add an average of $1 per thousand to the cost of this winter's production. 2. That the purchasing power of the country in the increased value of the farming products of grain, cattle and hogs, is $45,000,000 greater than a year ago, and the farmers are in a better condition to use lumber. 3. That from now to the close of navigation higher freights must prevail, and at present freights and prices the sale of the lumber does not equal the cost. 4. That the demand is already greater than a year ago, and increases rather than diminishes. 5. That at no competing point with Chicago is there an over-stock, and scarcely a full stock, providing for little or no surplus. 6. That, with money plenty at 5 per cent. interest no man with good security has any difficulty in carrying out any building object he may desire.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WINDSOR HOTEL, MONTREAL.—This super hotel furnished with elevator and all the lates improvements, and carefully maintained at the right standard of excellence, offers good rooms with board at $2.50 to $3.50 per day. The Windsor is but four blocks from the G. T. R. Station, and a free coach plies constantly between the Hotel and the Post Office. Sample rooms at 183 St. James Street, free to commercial travellers. 145d3m

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have been extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combine

By-Law No.

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR THE RAISING BY WAY OF LOAN OF THE SUM OF NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR THE PURPOSES THEREIN MENTIONED AND FOR THE ISSUE OF DEBENTURES OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE THEREFOR.

WHEREAS the sum of ninety thousand dollars is required by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the following purposes, that is to say:—The sum of sixty-six thousand five hundred and forty-three dollars and twenty cents ($66,543.20) to pay a debt due by the said Corporation to the Merchants' Bank of Canada. The sum of nineteen thousand dollars ($19,000) to pay over-due debentures of the said Corporation, and the sum of four thousand four hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty cents ($4,456.80) to pay an amount due by the said Corporation to the County of Hastings and now in arrears.

And whereas it is desirable that the said several sums above mentioned, in all amounting to ninety thousand dollars ($90,000), be raised by way of loan upon the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to be issued therefor in such sum or sums as may be deemed best, so that no such debenture be issued for a less sum than five hundred dollars ($500), the said debentures to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly as hereinafter mentioned, and the said debentures for the principal sum of ninety thousand dollars to be payable in twenty years from the day on which this By-Law shall come into force.

And, whereas, to provide for the payment of the interest on the said debentures as the same shall fall due and for creating a yearly sinking fund for the payment of the said sum of ninety thousand dollars within the said period of twenty years, it will be necessary for the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, to raise annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Corporation of the City of Belleville in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars, of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400.00) will be for the annual interest on said debentures and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars, with interest on same at five per cent per annum, capitalized yearly, for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debentures.

And, whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, according to the last revised Assessment Rolls of the said, the Corporation, being for the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, is three million five hundred and five thousand four hundred and seventy-four dollars ($3,505,474.00).

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is for principal the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars ($299,000.00), of which the sum of nineteen thousand dollars is over due, and there is no interest in arrears but interest to the amount of six thousand one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-six cents ($6,148.56) has accrued on coupons since the last payment of interest but not yet due.

Therefore the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville enacts as follows:—

That from and after the passage of this By-Law the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the time being shall have power and authority, and he is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for and on account of and in the name of the Corporation of the City of Belleville from any person or persons or body corporate for the purposes aforesaid the said sum of ninety thousand dollars for the period of twenty years from the date of this By-Law coming into force, and to make and issue to any person or persons or body corporate loaning the said money, debentures of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville for the said loan in sums of not less than five hundred dollars and in the whole not to exceed ninety thousand dollars, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said Corporation.

That the said debentures shall bear date and be made payable in twenty years from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-Law to come into force and take effect, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville.

That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof and such interest shall be made payable half yearly from the date of the issue of the same in each and every year, at the office of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at Belleville, and such debentures shall have coupons for such interest attached thereto.

That for the purpose of paying the debt hereby created and the interest upon the debentures to be issued therefor as aforesaid, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty dollars shall be raised, levied and collected in each year off and from the whole rateable property in the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville, by an equal annual special rate in addition to all other rates and taxes whatsoever during the continuance of such debentures or any of them of which the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400) shall be for such interest and the sum of two thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars with interest on same at five per cent. per annum capitalized yearly for sinking fund for the ultimate payment of the said debt.

That this By-law shall come into force and take effect upon, from, and after the sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1880.

Be it further enacted that the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said, the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the statute in that behalf) upon this By-Law on Wednesday, the third day of November, A. D., 1880, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the morning in the following places, being the places where the elections of members of the City Council of the said Corporation of the City of Belleville were last held.

In Foster Ward, in the building occupied by John Covert, on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and that John Covert be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

In Samson Ward, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and that Francis Clark be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

In Ketcheson Ward, in the Shop occupied by William Robertson on the South side of Campbell Street, and that George Adams be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Ketcheson Ward.

In Baldwin Ward in the No. 2 Fire Engine shed on West Front Street, and that Richard Taylor be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning officer for said Baldwin Ward.

In Bleecker Ward in the shop occupied by Mrs. Eaves, South Mill Street, and that John Northcott be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Bleecker Ward.

In Coleman Ward in the house of D. C. Curtis, North Front Street in Coleman Ward, and that D. C. Curtis be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said Coleman Ward.

In number seven division Murney Ward in the house of Edward Deacon, Murney Street in said number seven division, and that John Bull be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number seven division in Murney Ward.

In number eight division Murney Ward in the building known as Spongs, South Bridge Street, and that Peter Maybee be and he is hereby appointed Deputy Returning Officer for said number eight division in said Murney Ward.

Be it further enacted, that the Clerk of the Council for the said the Corporation of the City of Belleville, shall attend at the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on Thursday the Fourth day of November, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, to proceed to sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-Law, in accordance with the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

Be it further enacted, that the Mayor of the Corporation of the said City of Belleville shall attend at the City Hall in the said City, on Wednesday, the twenty-seventh day of October, A.D. 1880, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of appointing persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the said Clerk respectively on that behalf, of the persons interested in promoting or opposing the passing of this By-Law.

Read a first and second time, October 4th, 1880.

R. NEWBERRY,
City Clerk.

NOTICE.

TAKE Notice, that the above is a true copy of a proposed By-Law, which will be taken into consideration by the City Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, after one month from the first publication of the same in the INTELLIGENCER newspaper, published in the said City of Belleville, the date of which first publication was Thursday the seventh day of October, in the year of our Lord 1880; and that the votes of the Electors of the said Municipality of the City of Belleville will be taken thereon at the following places, on Wednesday, the Third day of November, A.D. 1880, the polls to be opened at nine o'clock in the morning, and to remain open until five of the clock in the afternoon of the same day; and the Deputy Returning Officers will be respectively as follows:—

IN FOSTER WARD, in the building occupied by John Covert on the West side of Church Street in said Ward, and John Covert is Deputy Returning Officer for said Foster Ward.

IN SAMSON WARD, in the Police Court Room in the Market Building, and Francis Clark is Deputy Returning Officer for said Samson Ward.

Preserving Eggs.

A reader asks how eggs may be preserved when handled in considerable quantities. The following method was indorsed by the National Butter, Cheese and Egg Association. In pickling a small quantity of eggs, all that is necessary is to reduce the quantities relatively of the articles used:

To make pickle use stone lime, fine salt and water in the following proportions: One bushel of lime, 8 quarts salt, 25 10-quart pails of water. The lime must be of the finest quality, free from sand and dirt—lime that will slack white, fine and clean. Have the salt clean and the water pure and sweet, free from all vegetable or decomposed matter.

Slack the lime with a portion of the water, then add the balance of the water and the salt. Stir well three or four times at intervals, and then let it stand until well settled and cold. Either dip or draw off the clear pickle into the cask or vat in which it is intended to preserve the eggs. When the cask or vat is filled to a depth of 18 inches, begin to put in the eggs, and when they lie, say about one foot deep, spread around over them some pickle that is milky in appearance, made so by stirring up some of the very light lime particles that settle last, and continue doing this as each foot of eggs is added. The object of this is to have the fine lime particles drawn into the pores of the shells, as they will be by a kind of inductive process, and thereby completely seal the eggs. Care should be taken not to get too much of the lime in, that is, not enough to settle and stick to the shells of the eggs and render them difficult to clean when taken out. I believe that the chief cause of thin, watery whites in limed eggs is that they are not properly sealed in the manner described. Of course, another cause is the putting into the pickle old stale eggs, that have thin, watery whites. When the eggs are within about four inches of the top of the cask or vat, cover them with factory cloth, and spread on two or three inches of the lime that settles in making the pickle, and it is of the utmost importance that the pickle be kept continually up over this lime. A thin basin (holding about six to eight dozen eggs), punched quite full of inch holes, edge muffled with leather, and a suitable handle about three feet long attached, will be found convenient for putting the eggs into the pickle. Fill the basin with eggs, put both under the pickle and turn the eggs out; they will go to the bottom without breaking.

When the time comes to market the eggs, they must be taken out of the pickle, cleaned, dried and packed. To clean them, procure half of a molasses hogshead, or something like it, filling the same about half full of water. Have a considerable number of crates of the right size (to hold twenty or twenty-five dozen eggs), made of laths or other slats, placed about three quarters of an inch apart. Sink one of these crates in the half-hogshead; take the basin used to put the eggs into pickle; dip the eggs by raising it up and down in the water, and, if necessary to properly clean them, set the crate up and douse water over the eggs; then, if any eggs are found, when packing that the lime has not been fully removed from, they should be laid out and all the lime cleaned off before packing. When the eggs are carefully washed, as before described, they can be set up or out in a suitable place to dry, in the crates. They should dry quickly, and be packed as soon as dry. In packing, the same rules should be used as in packing fresh eggs. Vats built in a cellar, around the walls, with about half their depth below the surface, about four or five feet deep, six feet long and four wide, are usually considered the best for preserving eggs in, although many prefer and use large tubs made of wood.

The place in which the vats are built, or the tubs set, should be clean and sweet, free from all bad odors, and where a steady low temperature can be maintained—the lower the better, that is, down to any point above freezing. Besides the foregoing, other methods for preserving eggs have been devised, such as varnishing, greasing, oiling and rolling in flour; but these methods will only answer in a small way, for an individual's private use, it being nearly or quite as much as the eggs are worth to put them in merchantable shape; in fact, it is nearly impossible to do so, as the shells will never look uniformly clean. Several processes have been patented and sold to a considerable extent, but the old liming process undoubtedly stands ahead up to the present time.—Country Gentleman.

For nervousness and all attendant ailments, they are a never failing remedy, and positively cure where all others fail. Try the Electric Bitters and be convinced of their wonderful merits. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermittent Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best Fever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible. I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstance.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA.

For the Intelligencer.

XLV.

Proceeding from Geneva to Lyons, we remained in the latter city over night, and the next morning took an early train to Paris. As we have already described the great French metropolis, it will be unnecessary to allude to it again, more than to say that we return with renewed appreciation, after a long European tour, fully convinced that it is, so far as art can make it so, beyond all question the handsomest city in the world. To its architectural beauty is added the charm of foliage, grouped statuary, splendid triumphal arches and magnificently planned open spaces, the whole combining to form an effect that is absolutely unique.

As we saw all the principal sights of interest during our previous visit, and found the weather oppressively hot on returning, we remained but a few days until we started for England, by way of Dieppe and Newhaven. This route, to or from Paris, although it includes a longer voyage on the usually rough and treacherous waters of English Channel, is much more pleasant and picturesque, than that by way of Dover and Calais.

The railroad extending from Paris to Dieppe passes through the heart of the productive plains of Normandy. The chief place of interest that we passed on this journey was ROUEN.

A picturesque little town, surrounded by an old English settlement. Though the centre of this farmer Capitol of Normandy, the waters of the Seine roll swiftly on their way to Paris. It is an active place. The quays are alive with that spirit of commerce which marks the great centre of the cotton-producing district of France. The river is broken here and there, with islets of great beauty, and the railway runs for a considerable distance, almost parallel with its course, the scenery over the whole distance being very picturesque, and at times of great beauty. The small houses and gardens scattered over the surrounding hills give evidence of that fondness for country life, so strongly conspicuous in English character. Rouen is celebrated in history as the death place of Joan of Arc, who was burnt at the stake. Normandy is a cider, not a wine producing country. As we near we pass through a country, which, with its hedges, ditches and comfortable homes, reminds ne of England.

DIEPPE

About an hour's journey from Rouen through the rich, beautiful valley of Normandy, brought us to Dieppe, the principal French seaport on the English Channel. There are few places less tempting at first sight. A long narrow street, a few inferior houses round the quay-sides, combined with the clatter of a dirty fish market, makes up the ensemble that bears testimony to its origin—that of a fisher's home. Dieppe is, however, one of the geat fashionable wateringplaces of France. The explanation of its claims to distinction, in this respect, is to be found in its natural position alone. Fashionable Dieppe—distinct from the common town—lies facing the sea, flanked on the land side by a long row of houses, amid which the Hotel de Paris forms a conspicuous feature. Between the houses and the sea is a wide open space, only a few feet above the sea level, covered with a coarse grass, and forming an agreeable natural promenade. Across its face sweeps the strong sea air—cool, fresh and pleasant.

This morning we left Paris sweltering in heat, and this afternoon we are resting in the cool shades and pleasant sea atmosphere of Dieppe, where a good conception of fashionable French life at the seaside may be gathered. On this seaside beach, during the sultry days of August and September, may be found the wealth, beauty and fashion of Parisian life, loitering by the shore or bathing in the sea, with characteristic appreciation of enjoyment. At Brighton, Hastings and other English watering places, the bathing grounds of the ladies and gentlemen are distinct and separate, but here, as at Long Branch and other American bathing resorts, ladies and gentlemen all go in together, and the only way of distinguishing them is by their size and peculiarities of dress.

Cafes, restaurants and places of amusement flourish here in full force during the season. The Parisian is so accustomed to them that he could not live even at the sea side, without them. To sip coffee at a cafe, to dine at a restaurant, to meet together and lead a sort of agrarian life, away from the home circle, is as natural to a Parisian as the opposite is to a Canadian. This habit is in part created by their love of social intercourse, so especially marked in French natures, and in part by necessity, as the houses in which they live, at home in Paris, are constructed for six or eight families, each in its own flat or portion of a flat, and have no private grounds or gardens, they have to find their air, their exercise, and their outdoor life in the open and delightfully recreative Boulevards and public gardens. The distance between Dieppe and Newhaven is 70 miles, and is accomplished in from four to six hours, the time depending on the state of the weather.

NEWHAVEN

is a seaport village, situated on a small inlet of the sea, which juts into the low lying shore of the south coast of England, near Beachy Head. It is of no importance except as a starting point for the fast line of steamers plying between England and France. We made no stay in Newhaven, but proceeded immediately to the popular watering-place of London, while the Isle of Wight is endorsed as the fashionable watering-place of England, by the summer residence of the royal family, Brighton carries the palm as the great popular resort of Londoners. Unlike the generality of watering-places, Brighton is a large and beautiful city. It has, from Kemptown to How, four miles of sea frontage, with houses that look as though the wealth of London had drifted to the sea shore. Along this great sea walk are arranged the principal homes of fashion and wealth. Here are club-houses, hotels, mansions and villas, at one part flung together in great masses, at another standing out in their individuality, and all looking out over the clean, beautifully paved street, across a strip of clean-shaven turf, on to the open sea. Travellers have only to name their taste and all can be satisfied. There are hotels where anything meaner than a Lord would fail to command proper attention, and others on this same Kings road where the boy in buttons is the chief of the staff. Aside from the hotels of different grades there are innumerable boarding houses, large pretentious houses with "apartments to let," and modest, clean looking buildings with green Venetian blinds, with the sign "Private Boarding" hung out, so that there is no difficulty in procuring apartments to suit the taste and purse of visitors.

BRIGHTON,

Five o'clock in the afternoon, as the sun sinks swiftly to its rest, the King's Road is full to overflowing. The throng of carriages is only equalled by the throng of pedestrians; for here are the men and women who make society, who give to it its charms and reality, and thousand of others who follow in their wake. Amid the throng may be seen the worn but pleasant face of John Bright and other diplomatists. Here are dramatists and poets, critics and authors; racing men and soldiers; barristers overworked and briefless; princes of the Stock Exchanges; butterflies of both sexes and all kinds of reputations; bishops, colonels, hard worked business men, and brokers, justle each other along the pavement of this great pleasure seking thoroughfare.

To-night the sea front is full to the brim; not a seat to spare on the grand pier; the session of Parliament is over, the season closed in London and Brighton is full. The terraces and coast are alive, quivering with that curious hum that comes from a great assemblage. At the corner of the pier stands the latest arrival from London, more conscious of his own importance than the world would place to his credit. A little further on is a group of actors; above, below, around, moving, flirting, gossiping and laughing, is the pleasant fashionable world, stealing the charm from life as it flies by on silken wing. On the upper road all is alive with excitement. Make way for the ponies! Here they come, with pleasant clatter in long cavalcade; the grandchildren of England's Queen. Out in useful blouses, hugging their big dolls, enjoying life and manifesting no outward stamp of rank but the big good natured lacquay, who acts as the master of ceremonies.

As the evening sinks down, those who come merely for the day by excursion trains, depart, Brighton gathers itself within its walls, the cosy dining rooms look out on the sea, and the hum of pleasant company tells the tale of society to whom life is a pleasure. The parades become deserted, a few pleasure boats still flicker on the waves, whilst from the pier the red and green lights dance across the ripple of the water. Softly comes the strain of the band mellowed by the distance across from the projecting pier, softer still come the shades of strollers, who drift towards their quarters as the moon mounts upwards.

Here and there comes the perfume of a cigar in the last stroll, before Brighton says "Good Night."

EXTRACT FROM THE "MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.

The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A. Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.

Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical columns of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

The No-Party Cry.

We observe in the local election contest now being waged in Winnipeg, that the Reformers are advocating the "No party cry," and we regret to see it stated by the News, that they are assisted by a section of the Conservative party. How Conservatives can be hoodwinked into occupying such an absurd position in the face of the record of the Reform party, is beyond comprehension. Wherever and whenever Reformers are weak, and see a chance of obtaining an advantage over their opponents—whether in municipal or general elections—they forthwith start the no-party cry. In municipal matters it may be well to steer clear of partyism, other things being equal, but in the elections of the local and general Parliament, it is the height of absurdity to attempt to keep politics out of the contest. Governments cannot be carried on without parties. It is essential to the very existence of a safe, sound constitutional Government that there should be two political parties—and these parties exist, no matter how much the so-called no-party men seek to cover up their party trail. It is a delusive, senseless cry, and those Conservatives who are lending their aid to assist the Reformers to defeat the regular nominee of the Conservative party, are only helping to dig their own political grave.

AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.—The Ontario Agricultural Commission concluded its labors yesterday and adjourned sine die. The result of the Commissioners' investigations will be embodied in a report and appendix, which will be distributed to members of the Legislature the coming

STILL BOOMING.—The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending October 23rd were $244,789, as against $220,230 the corresponding period in 1879—an increase of $24,559. The aggregate increase for 45 weeks has been $1,505,540. The week's earnings are the largest ever reported by the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A melancholy case of sudden death occurred at Peterboro' on the morning of the 28th inst. About 4 o'clock Mrs. Shaw, wife of Mr. Geo. E. Shaw, manager of the Bank of Ontario there, was awakened by her husband struggling as if in a nightmare. She spoke to him, but receiving no answer, lit a light and discovered that he was quite dead. Death is attributed to heart disease.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY. — The half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway Company was held in London on the 28th inst. The report, of which a synopsis was published in our columns yesterday, has evidently been satisfactory to the shareholders. The following telegram was received in Montreal yesterday from London: "The meeting of the proprietors held this day was highly satisfactory, and the various recommendations of the Board of Directors were carried unanimously."

LAKE FISHERIES.—From Collingwood, one of the centres of the lake fishing industry, there comes the report that the past season has been the most prosperous the fishermen ever had. The catch has surpassed that of any former year, while the quality of the fish and the price received have been much better than was hitherto obtained. One firm handled over 175,000 fish caught in Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, and cured 100,000 Lake Superior fish. Another firm secured 200,000 in Canadian waters, while a third, which tried American waters this year, did not meet with much success.

A MINNESOTA "BLIZZARD."—The Winnipeg Times referring to the arrival of Prittie's excursion party says:—"They had a splendid trip all along to St. Paul, and even afterwards until Alexandra was reached, at which point the train ran into a drift, and on Saturday were completely snowed out of sight until dug out on Monday by a large force of men. Three engines and a snow plough arrived finally, and after considerable work made an opening some forty miles to Fergus Falls, from which place the train left at midnight. * * * A sense of relief was experienced by the excursionists as they approached Canadian territory and found it entirely free from the misfortune that had befallen the people of Minnesota. * * * The experience of the above party should forever silence Grit oracles from extolling the advantages of Minnesota over Manitoba as a field for immigration."

Building Operations for 1880.

This Season's Additions to Dwellings and Business Premises.

CONCLUDED.

A double brick tenement 70x36ft. with two double bay windows for each dwelling, has been erected by Mr. John Bell at the corner of Queen and William Streets. The building is of a very neat design and is relieved by white brick trimmings, which give it a pleasing appearance. Four rooms and a hall fill the first floor of each house, whilst the upper one has four bed-rooms, a dressing room, clothes closets, bath room, &c. John Forin was the architect and carpenter. Peter Carey, the bricklayer. Frank Dolan the plasterer and Turner and Cornelius the painters. Cost $6,000.

Ald. Farley has put up a two-story brick house at the corner of Bleecker Avenue and Bridge Streets, on the site of the one owned by him which was destroyed by fire, and though not as pretentious as the former building it is withal a handsome residence. It is 31x45 ft. with an addition to be used as a kitchen, of 20x17ft. On the lower flat are a hall and four rooms; there are five rooms and a hall up-stairs, whilst there are two rooms over the kitchen. Francis McKay was the architect and carpenter. J. Wickett was the bricklayer. F. Dolan the plasterer and J. Grier the painter. Cost $2,800.

On South Maria Street Mr. Frank Flynn has put up the front portion of his frame dwelling. It is 22x16ft. and is two-stories high. The work was supervised by Mr. Flynn and cost $400.

On the southwest corner of Bleecker Avenue and Bridge Streets, Mr. Joseph Campion has erected a very handsome and costly residence of neat design and attractive appearance. It is of brick, relieved with cut stone, and is 64x48. All the excellence and neatness of this building is not confined to the exterior, as within the general character of the finish is very handsome, the plastering particularly so. A hall and four large rooms fill the ground floor, and there are seven rooms, with clothes closets, &c., on the second. The house will be heated with hot air, and will be lighted with gas. John Pepper was the architect and carpenter; J. Wickett the bricklayer; T. Gardiner the plasterer and slater; and W. Wensley the painter. Cost, $6,000.

A brick building, two stories high, 25x30 ft. with an addition for a dining room 16x14 ft., and one for a kitchen 16x13 ft., has been built by Mr. George Walker on the corner of Queen and Ann Streets. On the first floor in the main building are a hall and four rooms, and there are five rooms above. J. Pepper was the architect and carpenter; J. Wickett the bricklayer; F. Dolan the plasterer; and H. Fenn the painter. Cost, $1,300.

Mrs. Kennedy has erected a brick building on Front Street, above Hotel Street, to be used as single stores with dwellings above. The structure is 38x50 ft., three stories high, and each store is 13 ft. wide. Wickett & Bro's. were the bricklayers, Jas. Reddick the carpenter, P. O'Hora the plasterer, and Cornelius & Dawe the painters. Cost $2,500.

A handsome brick residence has been built on North Front Street by Miss McCormick. It is 40x24 ft., with a kitchen 18x24 ft. and is two stories high. There are three rooms and a hall on the ground floor and five on the upper. Peter Carey was the bricklayer. Jas. Reddick the carpenter, M. Clark the plasterer and Cornelius & Tuite did the painting. Cost $2,000.

On Commercial Road Mr. Thomas Lockerby has commenced building two stores high, 25x18 feet, as a factory for the manufacture of cigars. Peter Carey was the bricklayer, Jas. Reddick the carpenter and Frank Dolan the plasterer. Cost $350.

The old building at the fork of the road leading to Canifton formerly used as a foundry and since the time standing as a fire relic, has been again put into habitable shape. The defective parts of the walls have been torn down and rebuilt and the structure is now three stories high in the front part, whilst the rear has been materially improved. The work was done under the supervision of Mr. A. L. Smith, and is very substantial. The building will be occupied by J. L. Bean & Co. as a depot for peddler's supplies. The cost of the work was $1,500.

On Everett Street Mr. C. Morton has erected a rough-cast dwelling which he utilizes as a boarding house. It is 20x30 ft. with an addition 16 ft. square for a kitchen. There are eight rooms in the building three of which are on the ground floor and five above. The work was done under the owner's supervision, and cost $700.

Rathbun & Son, during the past spring, erected a large and substantial coal shed near their lower dock. The structure is 100x60 ft. and has a capacity of 2,000 tons. Cost $2,000.

An extension was recently made to the warehouse now occupied by J. D. McAulay, which cost $400.

During the past summer, Mr. Lyman Lee has put up a 3 story stone building on south Front Street, which is intended for a flouring mill. The building is of a very substantial character, and cost about $3,500.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Times are likely to be dull in Newfoundland during the coming season. The fisheries, upon which every thing in the way of business depends, have been only moderately successful, and the price of fish is so low that the take will do little more than supply the fishermen with the necessaries of life.

—It has been discovered at London that hogs are being fed for market on the outskirts of the city from the offal of fat-rendering houses, and there is a good deal of complaint in consequence.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nashwaik Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Surgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. Yeomans for a ten cent sample bottle and test ZOPESA, the new compond. Large eight ounce bottles 75 cents. Sample packages 5 cents. 134d&wly

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—We, the citizens of Belleville, if we are candid with ourselves, must admit that our city, of which we sometimes speak with pride and even with affection, has a financial record which, in the case of an individual, would be characterised as reckless extravagance; that our debt is fast becoming an intolerable burden—that it "has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished." Under these circumstances, the Council appear to have devoted some time and thought to the consideration of what should be done by way of remedy. They have no doubt looked back over the accounts, and observed that our expenditure has usually exceeded our income by a few thousands of dollars every year. Three modes of action would naturally occur to a private individual in such a dilemma. He would feel it needful to

1. Increase his income,
2. Diminish his expenses, or
3. Borrow money to relieve the most pressing claims,—thus tiding over another year or two,—and put off to "a more convenient season" the application of a radical remedy.

It seems to the writer that a sanguine man might resolve upon the first plan,—a prudent man upon the second,—and a reckless or shiftless one upon the third.

Which of the three courses has commended itself to the Council? Not the first; the city revenues are not to be increased. Not the second; no plan has been resolved upon which will materially reduce our expenditure beyond a slight saving in the interest paid on borrowed money. It appears that a balance of about $66,500 is due to the Merchants' Bank, that the sum of $19,000 represents debentures over due, and that about $4,500 is owing to the County of Hastings. To meet these various amounts it was proposed to raise a loan of $90,000. It will be at once seen that this involves merely a change of creditors, not the reduction of debt; so that we are apparently acting upon the third of the above plans—that of the reckless and shiftless man. But let us be just—giving credit where it is due. Thanks to the efforts of Mr. M. Jellett, a saving has been effected in the amount paid to the Bank for interest—6 per cent. being substituted for 7 per cent. This on the floating balance of about $50,000 may represent an annual saving of $500. If the debentures for the new loan at 6 per cent. can be sold at par, there may be a further saving of 2 per cent. on the $19,000 over due for debentures, and of 1 per cent. on the $4,500 owing to the county. These amounts added to the above $500 would make a total saving in interest of about $900. From our poor financial showing—the result of past mismanagement—it may well be doubted whether these debentures can be sold at par.

One point seems to have been overlooked. The balance due to the bank is understood to represent advances in anticipation of the year's taxes, which will now be soon coming in. If we estimate these at $50,000 (last year's amount), that sum will be available in addition to the $90,000, forming a formidable reserve fund which will probably prove a temptation to further extravagance, and will render extremely unlikely the exercise of that severe economy that is now urgently demanded. Let us remember that we have a debt of $366,000, the interest on which costs us $24,000 per annum. If we pay off $5,000 per annum it will take over 70 years to extinguish this debt. But we are paying nothing. Do we intend ever to pay it? Or are we willing to drift on, as we have been doing, towards the ignominious goal of bankruptcy and repudiation? We need very decided retrenchment in our actual outlay—something beyond a mere reduction in the rate of interest on borrowed money. Under what heads the reduction should be made is a matter for grave consideration. The first thing is to get the conviction that the reduction must be made. If then a committee were appointed with positive instructions to report a scheme for reduction of expenditure to the amount of $5,000 under such heads as Salaries, Public Works, Fire Department, Light and Water Supply, and Police, some reasonable and practicable plan could be devised. The head of Contingent Expenses might surely be kept in future below $2,000, unless more public money is to be worse than wasted in useless law expenses. In one way or another, retrenchment is absolutely indispensable to the honest payment of our debts. So also indeed is the collection of taxes left unpaid for years. It is a rather suggestive fact, that the sum due to the Bank at the present time, almost exactly corresponds to the amount overdue for taxes, and which should have been collected long since. This gross negligence on the part of the collectors and of the councillors who are responsible for their appointment, is an injustice to the whole community.—at least, to all those whose taxes are paid, and who are thus unfairly compelled to contribute towards the support of delinquents, in many cases more able than themselves. The law arms the collectors with sufficient powers; why have they not been used. They ought, in justice, at least to share the loss occasioned by their own remissness.

In this connection, an enquiry occurs to me. What is the use of carrying on our books from year to year a credit for $25,000 as against R. P. Davy's estate and sureties—and for $5,700 against John Kerr? If the amounts are available, why not collect them,—and if not, why play any longer at "make believe"? In the latter case, it is understood that there is a counter-claim of Mr. Kerr's for commission, &c., but it does not appear in the accounts.

Before concluding I desire to press upon my fellow-citizens these questions.

1. Can we not obtain such a change in the law as will allow any town or city to reduce either the number of wards or the number of representatives for each ward?
2. (And still more important) Can we not secure the entire abolition of ward representation? So long as this exists and human nature remains as it is, every representative will continue to press for as much outlay as can be obtained for his own ward—and his constituents will judge largely of his efficiency by his success in this particular. "A" of one ward assists "B" of another with his vote for an appropriation on condition that B will reciprocate. B gladly does so. C and D exchange courtesies in a similar manner. But why pursue the mysteries of log-rolling? Each one almost invariably tries to bleed the city for the benefit of his own ward, and "never," let us say "hardly ever" feels it his special mission to watch conscientiously every appropriation in the general interest.

3. (And lastly) so long as the present ward system lasts, cannot a plan be adopted of dividing the appropriations for local (or ward) improvements, strictly in proportion to the amount of taxes levied in each ward; and of fixing early in the year the sum representing the share of each ward? Something of this kind was, I believe generally attempted, and with very fair success and evident good results by the late C. G. LeVesconte.

(Signed) C. P. O.

A distinct and peculiar Combination.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

IT contains the elements essential to the animal organization, the oxidizing agents and tonics.

In combination with the stimulating agent phosphorus, possessing the merit of being slightly alkaline, and is dispensed in the convenient and palatable form of a syrup.

Its effects are usually visible within twenty-four hours, and are marked by a stimulation of the appetite, the digestion and assimilation entering directly into the circulation; it tones the nerves and muscles; exerts a healthy action of the secretions; neither disturbs the stomach nor injures the system under prolonged use, and may be discontinued at any time without inconvenience.

In a word, it possesses the stimulants to arouse the strength, the tonics to retain it, and merit of a high degree.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES
SPEEDILY AND PERMANENTLY CURES

Congestion of the Lungs, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Shortness of Breath, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Thyaical and Mental Depression, Loss of Appetite, Loss of Energy, Loss of Memory, &c.

And will rapidly improve the weakened functions and organs of the body, which depend for health upon voluntary, semi voluntary, and involuntary nervous action. ☞ SEND FOR A PAMPHLET.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT. 29.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

The Cells.—Four prisoners and two tramps occupied the cells last night.

Free Fair.—Madoc holds its yearly free fair on Tuesday next, the 2nd, November.

To-Night.—The great violinist Remenyi and his concert company will appear to-night. A full house awaits them.

Arrived.—The Allan Steamship Circassian passed Magdalen Signal Station this morning at 9 o'clock.

The Trenton Bridge.—A correspondent writes:—The old swing bridge will be taken down to-morrow, a boom having been constructed to support a platform and handrail for the accommodation of foot passengers until the new bridge is finished.

The Sparrows.—These little chatterers are gathering in large flocks—whether for the purpose of going to a warmer clime for the winter or for some other purpose is unknown. The fact that the sparrow is not known to be a migratory bird is, however against the former supposition.

The Season.—The weather prophets are at a loss as to what sort of weather to predict, as the presence of snow-birds in considerable numbers gives sign of an early winter, whilst as there is no water as yet in the swamps this usually reliable indication points in an opposite direction.

Sporting.—Deer and bear are reported to be unusually numerous in the back townships this year, and certainly a greater number ot these animals have been killed this season than for several years past. A deer was killed at the hematite mine a few days ago, and a bear was shot at within two miles of the village of Madoc, near the Marmora road.

The Country.—The snow having all but disappeared from the face of the country, the fields again look well. A good deal of ploughing is being done, and a large acreage has been sown to fall wheat and rye, which look well. Pastures are somewhat better than usual, and cattle and sheep find fair browsing.

Clothes Line Robbery.—Last night a thief entered the premises of Mrs. Leavens, George Street, and stole a portion of some clothing which was hung outside to dry. It is probable that the thief was frightened by the return home of one of the members of the family, as otherwise more articles would have been stolen. It would be well for all concerned to remove temptation to clothes line strippers by having their lines cleared by nightfall.

Royal Caledonian Curling Club.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club held in Montreal on the 28th inst. the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Colonel Dyde. C. M. G., A. D. C. to Her Majesty; Vice-President, Mr. Alexander Mitchell; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Alexander Murray. For the coming winter's contests the following clubs had been selected to play for District medals granted by the Royal Caledonian Club, viz., the Montreal Caledonia vs. the Ottawa Club, the Governor General's vs. the Perth-upon-Tay Club, the Thistle (Carleton) vs. the Renfrew Club, the Kingston vs. the Belleville Club. Is it not about time that the annual meeting of the Belleville Club was held?

—It is estimated that the sea swallows up about two and a quarter yards a year of part of the Yorkshire coast, and about three feet a year of part of Kent.

Toronto Probabilities.—Toronto 10 a. m.—Lower lakes, moderate to fresh winds mostly from the north-east and south-east, fair to cloudy weather to-day, followed by areas of rain to-morrow, stationary or higher temperature.

Mining in Keewatin.—Capt. H. H. Bailey of Cookshire, Eastern Townships, P. Q., has just arrived from Rat Portage, Keewatin, and purchased a stamp mill of Mr. Brown, of this city, and will return to the lake of the woods via Winnipeg with the mill, as soon as it can be turned out of the shops, which will be within ten days. He intends to have the mill crushing gold ores early this coming winter. A new mineral field will soon be opened. Capitalists can find plenty of room for investments in this new country at present. There is not a mill in that section to test any of the quartz with, and prospectors will no doubt be pleased to see a mill built in that vicinity.

Jas. Hennessy has just received a new lot of Tweeds, Overcoatings, Ulster Cloths, Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Wincies, Flannels, Blankets, Kid Gloves, Corsets and Hosiery. All bought at the late auction sales in Toronto and Montreal and will be sold very cheap.

Poor and Sanitary Committee.

A meeting of the Poor and Sanitary Committee was held last night in the Council Chamber.

There were present: Ald. Petrie (Chairman), Costello, Ostrom, A. L. Smith.

An account of Emanuel Hayne, amounting to $35, for supplies for the poor, was recommended for payment.

Committee adjourned.

Police Court.

(Before Thos. Holden, Esq., P. M.)

Friday, Oct. 29.

DRUNK.

William Watson and Thomas Feehey were discharged. Sidney Ackwell was fined 50c and costs.

DOG BY-LAW.

A number of cases were decided, some being dismissed, and in other cases a fine of $1 and costs imposed.

Court of Revision.

Thursday, Oct. 28.

The Court met to-night to consider appeals from Ketcheson Ward.

Present. — Messrs. Holden (Chairman) Niles, Wallbridge, the Clerk, the Solicitor, and the Assessors.

John Henderson complained of over-assessment on the Dafoe House, which had been raised from $16.000 last year to $20,000. Reduced to $18,000.

Elizabeth Cole withdrew the appeal against lots K and N West Albert Street, which had been raised by $200.

Bell & Ponton complain of over-assessment on lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 West Pinnacle Street, assessed at $600 each. They had sold the property at $1,250 three months ago, free of all encumbrance. All other appeals withdrawn.

James Nosworthy asked exemption under the statute for two vacant rooms. Assessors to examine premises.

James Smith for reduction on rented premises on Front Street, and J. C. Keith for reduction of taxable income. Assessment reduced, $500 and $100 struck off Keith's income.

Geo. Denmark, for reduction on A. M. Terwilliger's property on Front Street. Stands as assessed.

Denmark & Northrup, over assessment. To be reduced $200.

Thomas Wills, for reduction of $200. To be reduced $100. Vacant shop and stone warehouse to stand as assessed. Vacant shop and room, on lot 6 reduced $100.

W. R. Barber, over assessment on realty and personal property. Laid over.

Thomas Donnelly and J. J. B. Flint, over assessment on Charles St. property. Assessment in each case was reduced $200.

Jos. Caldwell, North Bridge St., appealed on realty. Reduced $100.

S. A. Spangenberg, Front St., over assessment. Mr. Glass to be notified.

A. E. Fish, the same. Stands as assessed.

M. D. Ward, to have income struck off. Reduced $300.

Chas. M. Ridley, Campbell St., over assessment. Stands.

I. B. Graham, Front and Campbell Sts., over assessment and wrong assessment. S. A. Hyman and F. Flynn, to be notified.

Marine.

A schooner is reported ashore at the "Main Ducks," which is thought to be the B. W. Folger. A tug has gone to the rescue.

The Eliza Fisher with lumber from Sutherland's mill for Oswego left this afternoon.

The Philo Bennett, North Star and Delaware light, from Oswego, arrived this morning and will take cargoes of lumber at Bleecker's mill.

The Enterprise, with lumber from Trenton for Oswego, suffered a brief delay this morning by running on the bar off the western entrance to the harbor. She got off without assistance.

The M. O'Gorman with lumber from Trenton passed down after the Enterprise.

The steam barge Saxon and the tug Lady Franklin with the barge Alabama in tow, arrived this morning and will load with barley at Brenan & Vandervoort's, the former for Oswego and the latter for Montreal.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

A Decline in Sugar.—The Montreal Gazette of the 28th says: Owing to an easier feeling in the New York market, the price of white sugar here declined ⅛c per lb to-day.

Apple Sales.—A large quantity of apples are being shipped from this section this year to Montreal. The price is low and the market is glutted with inferior stock. The price to-day was for prime winter stock (undoubtedly prime) $2.00, fair $1.80 to $1.90, inferior all the way down to $1.25. For a shipment of 72 brls. by a farmer in this section $2 was obtained this week. The price obtained was no doubt somewhat owing to the care taken in packing, as the commission merchant to whom they were consigned writes, "we like to get stock put up in such nice style and the barrels are the best I ever saw from your section," thus showing that in the apple business as in anything else, it pays to be thorough.

The Recent Hurricane

20 VESSELS WRECKED

LARGE LOSS OF LIFE.

Terrible Floods.

Great Destruction of Property.

The Worst Gale of Half a Century.

London, Oct. 29.—The recent hurricane on the southern and eastern coast of England was an unprecedented one for severity and duration. Four vessels were wrecked near Shields and 16 persons drowned.

At Whitby six vessels were wrecked and 9 persons drowned. At Sunderland four vessels were wrecked and one person drowned. At Hartlepool three vessels were wrecked; at Redcar one, and at Scarborough 7.

On the east coast of Scotland a heavy gale prevails, accompanied by snow and hail.

Dublin, Oct. 29.—The loss of a vessel during the great storm, with a crew of five is reported.

A house was blown down at Dingle and three persons killed.

The bodies of a man, woman and child were washed ashore at Bray.

The railways in various parts of the country are flooded.

The dam of Clonliffe distillery burst and destroyed £2,000 worth of property. Horses, carts and barns were swept away. The tax cart with dead-horse was swept to sea from Clonliffe, it is feared that the driver is drowned.

At Lucan the river flooded several houses, the furniture in many cases floating out. A wooden bridge 30 ft. long floated under O'Connell bridge, Dublin, towards the sea. Land slips occurred at Dalkey, by which several houses were destroyed. A number of people living in houses at Rowsertown were in immenent danger of drowning. Five men rescued seven people out of the first house and nine out of the second. Many horses, cattle and poultry were drowned. Similar reports are received from many places.

At Jersey the hurricane did considerable damage in the country.

At the ship building yards the whole roofing of the sheds was torn off. The gale raged with fearful violence in the channel and along the French coasts. The mail packets between Southhampton and France were prevented from leaving their warves.

A dreadful storm raged at Middlesboro, the wind blowing 40 miles an hour.

At Kidderminster many portions of the town were inundated, the main streets were under water, and the carpet factories compelled to suspend.

At Tamworth water is rushing through the houses with the force of a river. The people are removing their furniture to the upper stories. They are completely imprisoned, as the streets resemble Venetian canals.

At Whitby the flood swept down the railroad bridges and caused great damage. Men who have often crossed the channel by sail, say they have experienced nothing to compare with the gale of yesterday for the past 21 y

The approaches to Hertford are impassable for pedestrians, horses and carts having to be employed to carry persons to the city.

Cattle, furniture and trees were washed away by the torrent. It is said this is the most disastrous storm experienced for half a century.

SPANISH FINANCES.

Madrid, Oct. 29.—In consequence of the increasing embarrassment of the Spanish Treasury, caused by the military expenditure in Cuba, Senor del Castillo intends to propose a large reduction of the colonial army and navy expenses for the estimates of 1881 and '82, and also to repeal the export and import duties on foreign flour, grain and other alimentary articles for consumption in Cuba. Lower duties will be proposed on Cuban sugars in Spain. 15,000 troops in Cuba will be disbanded shortly.

THE OXFORD ELECTION.

London, Oct. 29.—All the officials of Oxford University who took part in the recent corrupt election for member of Parliament will be dismissed from their posts in the college. It is understood that the proceedings against Healy will be abandoned.

AMERICAN.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

Vacillation of the Government

CONCESSION TO FORSTER.

THE PARTIES TO BE PROSECUTED.

NEXT SUNDAY MEETINGS.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Herald's Dublin says name by name has been cut from the list of leaguers to be prosecuted until now it is said only six remain.

All the minor officers of the league have been struck off the list. This vacillation on the part of the Government will greatly strengthen the hands of the league. It is stated that the reduction of the number accused is a concession to Forster on account of his opposition to the prosecution. It is rumored that his resignation was more than conjecture. The fifteen names placed on the list on Saturday were increased to eighteen on Wednesday; now only six warrants have been made out. It is confidently expected they will be executed to-day.

Parnell, Dillon and Brennan are certain; the rest are doubtful. The Crown have engaged all the leading Counsel of the Irish Bar, in order, as suspected, to prevent the land league from retaining them. The Government may retain any number of counsel, though they need not use them, and counsel are obliged to serve. The Government also has unlimited power to challenge without cause in the selection of a jury, while the defendants have only six challenges without giving a reason. Several leaguers will defend themselves.

Parnell is at Avendale, cut off from communication with the land league executive committee in consequence of the interruption to the telegraph.

It is believed the leaguers will be arrested and liberated on bail. It is expected that to-day all the arrangements for the defence will be completed. It is understood that Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly will attend the land meeting in Tipperary on Sunday and proceed to Limerick, where Parnell will speak at a land meeting on Monday, and be presented with the freedom of the city on Tuesday.

It is stated that the State prosecutions will formally begin on Tuesday.

SHIPWRECKED CREW.

The crew of the bark Margaret was brought in by the steamer Neckar. They floated seven days on the wrecked vessel and suffered terrible hardships.

RUMOR OF THE CZAR'S DEATH.

London, Oct. 26.—It was rumored here last night that the Czar was dead.

GARFIELD'S DENIAL.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Herald's Cleveland states that Garfield is said to have made a deposition in the presence of two lawyers of the fact that the Morey Chinese letter was not his handwriting, and he never knew or saw the letter until its discovery was announced through the medium of the press. The deposition was forwarded to New York. Garfield is not likely to attend the trial of the alleged forger in New York. It is stated that Garfield has in his possession a letter from Judge Black, in which the latter substantially pledges himself to favor Garfield for President.

MISCELLANEOUS.

New York Oct. 29.—Edward Sequin, a prominent physician of this city, died last night, aged 69 years.

New York Oct. 29.—The American Geographical Society last evening gave a reception to Lieutenant Schwatka and his associates of the Franklin search party.

The receipts of grain at this port on Wednesday was 1,640,000 bushels, the largest on record.

Arrived, the City for Montreal from Liverpool.

Phila., Oct. 29.—A warrant was issued for the arrest of Geo. Lehman, agent for Page, Fargo & Co., New York, charged with defrauding the firm of over $20,000. Lehman is missing.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29.—The bridge across the Passaic river gave way last night, one old lady was probably fatally hurt. A large number of people narrowly escaped.

New York, Oct. 29.—The World's Boston reports that Morey's wife and mother, now residing in Lynn, have signed papers to establish his identity.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

The Irish Troubles,

MEETING PROHIBITED.

London, Oct 29.—A Dublin despatch says the magistrates of Ulster have forbidden a meeting of the league at Dungannon on Monday, because the anniversaries of the landing of William 3rd and the gun powder plot come in the first week in Nov., and the celebration of these events on the one hand and the meeting of the league on the other would be certain to inflame party spirit. The report of arrests, which are to be made in Dublin and Kilkenny is unfounded.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Hindesdale N. H.—A boiler in Robertson's paper mill burst this morning, one man killed and several injured. Mill ruined; loss $20,000.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Indications:—Lower Lakes, cloudy or partly cloudy with occasional rains; stationary or higher temperature.

New York, Oct. 29. — Arrived, the Nederland, from Autwerp; the Otranto, from Hull.

Queenstown, Oct.—Arrived, the Olympus.

Tweed Notes.

The Municipal officers, whose duty it is to select the jurors for 1881, met on Monday and selected those required. On Tuesday His Honor Judge Lazier held the 4th Division Court. He had one case on the docket and citation.

The revision of the Voters' List for Hungerford was held by his honor in the afternoon. There were seven added to the list, and one who claimed he should be put on as joint owner, but the parties were not assessed for enough to allow of that being done. One or two others whose names were wrong were made right. This finished up the Court, the Judge went to Bridgewater to hold court on Wednesday morning.

The Orangemen and O. Y. B. of District No. 2 are going to celebrate the coming fifth of November at the Orange Hall, 11th concession of Hungerford. Dinner to be served at noon in the Victoria cheese factory. Proceeds to apply on paying a debt due on the Bible Christian parsonage, Tweed. Let there be a large turnout to assist the good cause.

A great deal of grain is still in the barns here waiting for shipment. Mr. James Clare informed your correspondent that in his vicinity there must be some 5,000 bushels yet to dispose of.

New Brunswick Railway.—The prospect of the early completion of the New Brunswick Railway is received with great satisfaction by the dwellers by the sea. The transfer of the undertaking to a new company they hold makes the continuation of the railway from the St. Lawrence to the Bay of Fundy a fixed fact. Some 70 miles will connect the road with the Intercolonial on the St. Lawrence, and with a bridge across the St. John river near Fredericton, St. John will become a winter port for the whole Dominion. The road opens three ports, St. Stephen, St. Andrews, and St. John, and the inhabitants of the last named city claim that they will then possess the shortest direct road through which to draw down the productions of the interior, of Quebec, Ontario, and the Northwest.

Hardly any one who has a large acquaintance or who read the obituary or death notices in the public prints, can fail to have noticed how fatal a disease Congestion on the Lungs is, especially in this City. It really seems sometimes as if it caused half of all the deaths that occur. Each fall it appears to grow more dangerous. This season it has been very virulent, owing, probably, to sudden changes. Congestion of the Lungs invariably begins with a cold, to which scarcely anybody attaches any importance, and the cold is neglected until it results in the painful, and always alarming disease. "Only a cold!" echoed the renowned Abernethy. "A cold is always to be feared. Colds have killed more men than battles have." There seems to be no way of guarding against Congestion of the Lungs. One person is as subject as another to it. Rugged constitution, vigorous health, general attention to hygienic laws have no power to prevent it. Congestion of the Lungs slays a giant as quickly as it slays a pigmy; an accomplished athlete as quickly as a puny invalid. One meets this morning a friend flushed with youth—energy. Within a few days he is dead. Congestion of the Lungs has cut him down. Persons who care to live—and the fact that they do live shows that they care to—cannot be too watchful of the beginnings of Congestion of the Lungs, which is one of the most insidious and formidable foes of human existence. Mr Fellows, the inventor of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, which is so dservedly popular everywhere, says: Without offering any argument to enforce my opinion, I most positively assert as fact so long as the patient continues to breathe no matter how languidly, though abandoned by the physician, the case is by no means hopeless. Fellows' Hypophosphites administered with Cod Liver Oil, as directed, will act beneficially and effectively. It excites the movement of the secretions, stimulates the nerves and muscles into action, and develops the process of expectoration, cleaning out the tubes and air passages, induces appetite, strengthens and restores the sufferer to health. Let the reader, whether physician or layman, reflect, that this is written not for mere mercenary considerations, the writer has known many cases, has witnessed many cases treated by his syrup, and has treated several himself with his syrup, in no single instance unsuccessfully, all were restored to health, and in several instances, they were pronounced beyond the possibility of recovery by attending physicians.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have bee extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combine

THE UTMOST SAFETY FOR THE CAPITAL INVESTED.
VERY LOW COST OF THE PROPERTIES.
EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Subscriptions are conditioned upon stock being sold on or before January 1st, 1881, to the amount necessary to complete the payments of purchase money on the property of the Company. Should this condition not be fulfilled, the money paid on account of this purchase is to be returned in full.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

IF YOU HAVE A HORSE

YOU want him to be perfect. If he is not perfect, you can cure many blemishes by the use of Dr Dow's Sturgeon Oil Lineament—a cure for bruises, strains, saddle and collar galls, cuts, wounds of all kinds, scratches, scurvy, cracked heels, grease and galls, founder, ringbone, hard hoof, &c., &c.

If he is troubled with any of these,

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption
IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF
Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

EXTRACT FROM THE "MAIL," TORONTO.

WM. BUCK, of Brantford, proprietor of the Victoria foundry, certainly makes a display which is not only creditable to his establishment, but a source of surprise to the beholder, whose first exclamation seems to be, "Are these stoves intended for use or ornament?" and upon interrogating the proprietor, or Mr. N. L. Piper, the agent in Toronto, he is informed that the inventor had both ideas in his mind—usefulness combined with beauty. His idea was to make a stove something like an attractive housewife—fit to grace the parlor or command in the kitchen. Here is a line of self-feeding "Radiant Home" baseburners, and as they are all handsomely nickled they are very attractive. Then comes a parlor cookstove, with all the necessary modern improvements.
The "Radiant Home" can be seen at A Chown's, Front St., and only has to be seen to be appreciated.
Also a great variety of other makes and styles in all classes of stoves.

Among the Montenegrins.

APPEARANCE OF THE FORCES—WORK OF THE WOMEN.

The Montenegrin troops have no tents; their camp is a bivouac, only the brigaders having the luxury of a tent. Each company shifts for itself, and the men make what shelter they can against the cold night breezes. Some of them erect huts of the rudest kind, with walls of loose stones, and a thatching of bushes; but the majority do not care to take even this trouble, but rely upon their thick wraps for protection. The only clothing furnished to the troops by the government is a fringed shawl. They have no uniform and no pay, and until the present year they received no food rations whatever. Money is, however, more plenty at present. Russia is believed to have increased her annual subsidy, and the men have really an extravagant amount of food, as they receive as much meat as they can get through and two pounds of bread daily. Cooking consequently occupies a large portion of their time, and when not engaged, the men lounge in groups, hardly distinguishable a short distance off from the grey rock and bush foliage, save for their red caps and the glittering of their arms. The crest of the hill they occupy is some four miles in circumference, and their straggling camp entirely encircles it.

These armed peasants are generally dressed in a long cloth coat, breeches, and gaiters, once white, but now grey with dirt, and a red sash furnished with miscellaneous weapons. The mass of them have none of that characteristic bearing of savage pride which strikes travellers among the chiefs. Many of them are tall and handsome, but as a rule, they are snub featured and commonplace. These rustics complain that they have been five years under arms; but I suspect that idleness is not unpleasant to them, especially with such abundant rations as they now enjoy. It was no doubt to obviate all risk of a collision that a position was selected eighteen miles away from the Albanian camp, the broad plain of Antivari between the hostile forces. There are two roads from the plain over the mountain of Mazura to Dulcigno, but both have been so strongly fortified by the Turkish engineers—as is said—and are so strongly held by the Albanians, that an atttacking force would suffer terribly. There is no other road practicable, and one or the other of these positions must be forced in the advance to Dulcigno.

The Montenegrins say that they would not hesitate in attacking the position were they sure that they would only have the Albanians to contend with, but they are convinced that in case of an attack the Turkish regular troops would assist the Albanians. They are said to number 6,500 men—considerably fewer, indeed, than the Albanians, but their excellent arms and discipline render them far more dreaded by the Montenegrins than any number of Albanian peasants would be. The Montenegrins learnt something of the fighting power of the Turkish soldier when Suleiman Pasha's men forced their way through defiles considered impregnable. The Montenegrin force is divided into three brigades, and there is a regular formation of battalions and companies, but the soldiers have a very dim idea of anything beyond their own company.

The transport and commissariat service in the field is performed by women. The new system of rationing the troops has greatly reduced their importance, for formerly each woman supplied a male relative in the field with food. Now the whole of the female trained animals in the country are at the service of the Prince, and they show in much greater numbers than could have been expected. Every steamer that arrives brings stores of biscuits, which are loaded by stalwart women on the backs of mules, donkies, and ponies, and transported to the eyrie where the fighting men are assembled. I was unfortunate in missing General Bozo Petrovic, who has gone to Cettinje to meet Admiral Seymour. In his absence there is not a soul in the whole camp who can speak either French or Italian, and I failed at Antivari to discover an interpreter. Our communication, therefore, is of the scantiest kind, but the hospitality of Gen. Vukotich and his staff of giants in gold embroidered silk was most kindly offered me. This army could strike its camp in ten minutes, and reach the Albanian lines in six hours.—London Standard.

Of a Cup of Coffee.

It has been truthfully said that even in these enlightened days, and in the lands most blessed by the influence of civilization, there are thousands upon thousands of persons born into the world who live long lives and then go down to their graves without having ever tasted a good cup of coffee. There are many reasons for this, and the principle one, of course, must be that so few persons know how to make good coffee. And yet there have been thousands of receipts and directions published which teach us how to make good coffee by boiling it; bo not boiling it; by confiinng the essence and aroma; by making it in an open vessel; by steeping it; by not steeping it; by clearing it; by not clearing it; by grinding it fine; by grinding it coarse, and by many other methods opposed to each other and to all these. Now we do not intend to tell anybody how to make good coffee, but we wish to say a word about the treatment of coffee after it is made. And on this treatment depends its excellence, brew it as you may. The rule is simple:—Never decant it. Whatever you do about it, bring it to the table in the vessel in which it was made. A handsome urn or gorgeous coffee pot is the grave of good coffee. Of course, if it is considered more desirable to have the pot look well than to have the coffee taste well, we have nothing more to say, but when hot coffee is emptied from one vessel into another, the kitchen ceiling generally receives that essence-laden vapor which should have found its way into the cups on the breakfast table. And one word about these cups. When the coffee enters them it should find the milk and cream already there. By observing these rules ordinary coffee, made in almost any way, is often very palatable indeed.

Advice to Consumptives.

No man, however uncleanly, would drink dirty muddy water. A party which occupies a room for hours, breathing the same air, might be compared to a party of bathers drinking the water in which they bathe. The patient must keep the window of his bedroom open. Night air is fresh air without daylight. In close crowded rooms, the patient suffering from lung complaints breathes consumptively. By taking these precautions and using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, fully one half of the cases of lung complaints would be cured in six months. For cough and irritation of the lungs do not always indicate the presence of consumption although it may result in that disease, and if consumption has already become deeply seated in the system this is the most efficient course of treatment that can be pursued outside of any institution that provides special facilities for the treatment of this disease. Dr. Pierce's celebrated Invalid's Hotel is such an institution. Send stamp for descriptive pamphlet containing also a complete treatise upon consumption explaining its causes, nature, and the best methods of treating it, together with valuable hints concerning diet, clothing, exercise, etc, for consumptives. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

SCORN.

"Laugh no man to scorn, . . for there is One which humbleth and exalteth."—ECCLES. vii. ii.

Who scorns the daisy of the field,
Because it lacks the rose's hue;
Or thinks no beauty is concealed
Within the little bell of blue,
That scarcely holds the plundering bee,
Because 'tis not a forest tree?

Not even the boy with vacant eye,
That sits upon the village stile;
And laughs aloud, he knows not why,
And weeps when you would wake a smile;
Beauty for him in some bright hour,
Hath charms alike in tree and flower.

Then scorn not thou thy fellow-man,
Because his mental powers are small;
Variety is nature's plan,
And Love and Wisdom order all;
If few his talents, slight shall be
The increase that his Lord would see.

Be careful only that thine own,
More ample, show more ample fruit;
And let no pride, but love alone,
Of all thou yieldest be the root;
Or, haply, he thou scornest now
Will wiser, happier prove than thou.

—Rev. Thomas Davis, M. A.

READ TO SLEEP.

For three score years and ten,
Burdened with care and woe,
She has travelled the weary ways of men.
She is tired and wants to go.

So musing, one afternoon,
With knitting upon her lap,
She hears at her door a drift of tune,
And a quick, familiar tap.

In flashes a child's fresh face,
And her bird like voice sounds gay
As she asks, 'Shall I find you a pretty place,
And read you a psalm to-day!'

Aye, read me a psalm—the Lord is my Shepherd—soft, not fast;
Then turn the leaves of the holy word
Till you come to the very last—

Where it tells of the wondrous walls
Of jacinth and sapphire stone,
And the shine of the crystal light that falls,
In rainbows about the throne.

Where never are my tears—
You see the verse so saith—
Nor pain nor crying through all God's years,
Nor hunger, nor cold, nor death;

Of the city whose streets are gold;
Ah! here it is not my share
One single piece in my hands to hold,
But my feet shall tread on it there!

Yes read it all; it lifts
My soul up into the light,
And I look straight through the leaden rifts,
To the land where there's no more night.

Rising, she nearer stepped—
How easy it all had been,
The gates had unclosed while the sleeper slept
And an angel had drawn her in.

A Beautiful Extract

The glory of summer has gone by—the beautiful greenness has become withered and dead. Were this all, were there no associations of moral desolation, faded hopes, hearts withering in the bosoms of the living, connected with the decaying scenery around us, we would not indulge in a moment's melancholy. The season of flowers will come, again; the stream will flow gracefully as before; the trees will again toss their cumbrous heads of greenness to the sunlight and by mossy stone and winding rivulet the coming blossoms will start up at the bidding of their guardian. But the heart has no chance like that of nature; it has no returning Spring time. Once blighted in its hour of freshness, it bears forever the mark of the spoiler. The dews of affection may fall, and the gentle rain of sympathy be lavished upon it, but the stone root of blighted feeling will never again waken into life, nor the crushed flowers of hope blossom with their wonted beauty.

Short Sermons by Rev. C. H. Spurgeon

WANT OF LIGHT.

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."—Matt. 6 : 33.

"Ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith." Matt. 23 : 33.

A Correspondent of a newspaper, dated May 9th, writes as follows: "The arrangements in the French galleries are so imperfect that in many cases the lower portions of the pictures are in a full glare, while the upper are in comparative darkness. The artists are loud in their complaints."

Yet this is by no means an uncommon arrangement in far greater matters than pictures, for the lesser and lower concerns of life are generally set in full glare, while the greater and higher matters of consideration are left in comparative darkness. The title deeds of an estate are made as secure as law can make them, but the eternal inheritance is utterly neglected. Honesty toward man is made a prime virtue while God is robbed and his claims are rejected. Concern to be respectable is often greater than anxiety to be useful, and to be a gentleman is more the subject of care than to be a Christian. The body is dressed, and the soul is left naked, the mouth is fed with the bread of earth, but the heart knows no hunger for the bread of heaven; all things are prepared for his life even to a superbundance, and the life to come is disregarded as if it were a mere fiction. Many men spend more thought over shirt-collars than over their souls. Dogs and horses are more the themes of meditation than heaven and hell; and the next race, or ball, or kettle-drum calls forth more thought than the coming of the Lord or the day of judgment. Is this according to sound reason?

O that men were wise, and could see eternal things in the full noontide of God's countenance; then would there be a balanced light upon the whole of life, and men would find "the promise of life that now is" to be wrapped up in preparation for the life which is to come. Alas, it is not so. "What shall we eat, and what shall we drink, and wherewithal shall we be clothed?" make up the trinity of questions which still engross the heart of the multitude. "After all these things do the Gentiles seek." The angel holds the crown over the worldling's head, but he is looking downward, busy with the muck-rake, scraping together earth's trifles, and so he has neither eye nor heart for immortal glory. "O that they were wise, that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end!"

More light for the uper portion of the picture is greatly to be desired.

Pleasure is to woman what the sun is to the flower. If moderately enjoyed, it beautifies, it refreshes, and it improves; if immoderately, it withers, violates, and destroys. But the duties of domestic life, exercised as they must be in retirement, and calling forth all the sensibilities of the female, are perhaps as necessary to the full development of her charms as the shade and the shower are to the rose, confirming its beauty and increasing its fragrance.

Heaven a city.—A city not built with hands, nor hoary with years of time; a city whose inhabitants no census has numbered; a city through whose streets rushes no tide of business, no nodding hearse creeps slowly with its burden to the tomb; a city without griefs or graves, without sin or sorrow, without births or burials, without marriages or mournings; a city which glories in having Jesus for its king, angels for its guards, saints for citizens; whose walls are salvation, and whose gates are praise.

An Upward Step.

It is generally after great exertion, repeated rests, many disappointments and continued struggles that the traveller reaches the top of a mountain. On the way up the hill there is an inward suspicion that the view from the top will not be sufficient reward for the energy expended. But when the top is reached and the eye takes in the extensive scenery which lies below, then there is an inward joy felt, not only on account of what is seen, but also because there was patient and persevering exertion to gain the end. To reach the point desired, whether it be the top of a mountain, the course of a river, a problem in mathematics, a scientific discovery, a just action, or gracious deed, brings with it a double blessing, there being readiness in the success, in the increased knowledge which has been attained, and also in having that inward approval of the soul as it realizes that life has not been altogether worthless, because an upward step has been made, and man is, or ought to be, better fitted for further exertions in his Master's service—John Coutts.

Bend the Sapling.

They say a daft nurse makes a wise child, but I do not believe it; nobody needs so much common sense as a mother or a governess. It does not do to be always thwarting: and yet remember if you give a child his will and a whelp his fill, both will surely turn out ill. A child's back must be made to bend, but it must not be broken. He must be ruled, but not with a rod of iron. His spirit must be conquered but not crushed. In these days children have a deal too much their own way and often make their mothers and fathers their slaves. It has come to a fine pass when the goslings teach the geese and the kittens rule the cat: it is the upsetting of everything and no parent ought to put up with it. It is as bad for the boys and girls as it is for the grown folks, and it brings out the worst side of their character. I would sooner be a cat on hot bricks, or a toad under a harrow than let my children be my masters. No, the head should be the head, or it will hurt the whole body.—Spurgeon.

Work and Live.

Men are put into the world to work, and cannot find true happiness in remaining idle. So long as a man has vitality to spare upon it it must be used, or it will become a source of grievous, harassing discontent. The man will not know what to do with himself; and when he has reached such a pitch as that, he is unconsciously digging a grave for himself and fashioning his own coffin. Life needs a steady channel to run in—regular habits of work and of sleep; it needs a steady, stimulating aim—a tendency toward something. An aimless life cannot be happy, or for a long period healthy. Even if a man has achieved wealth sufficient for his needs, he frequently makes an error in retiring from business. A greater shock can hardly befall a man who has been active than that which he experiences when, having relinquished his pursuits, he finds unused time and unused vitality hanging upon his idle hands and mind. The current of his life is thus thrown into eddies, or settled into a sluggish pool and he begins to die. When the fund of vitality sinks so low that he can follow no labor without such a draft upon his forces that sleep cannot restore them, then it will be soon enough to stop work.

Doing Good Unto Others.

To do good unto others is a duty which blends itself in all the concerns of life, from the performance of which no class is exempt, and which has an intimate bearing upon the good order and happiness of society. There is a mutual dependence upon each other among the various classes of society, like that of the members of the human body. The manufacturer depends upon the farmer and others for the sale of his fabrics, and the means of his subsistence. The mechanic and the professional man have a like dependence upon other classes; and the farmer, though most independent, is greatly indebted to the other classes for his prosperity and the social enjoyments of civilized society. Each class flourishes best when all classes flourish most. Hence every individual acts wisely who endeavors to promote the prosperity of all.

Let, therefore, no narrow-minded jealousy, or envious rivalship, deter you from the performance of a duty to a neighbor, or from rejoicing in the success of his honest labors—for you are in many ways benefitted by his success; but rather strive to commend him in whatever is meritorious. A little pecuniary aid, the influence of your own good conduct in practising the charities of life, and even a friendly and kind deportment, may affect much among your acquaintance, to preserve them from bad habits, and in rendering them useful and respectable in society. It is through the influence of individuals, thus exerted, that communities are elevated in their character and enjoyments.

Will Education Yield Subsistence?

An education, yes; but what sort of an education? A bricklayer's education, an artisan's, a farmer's, would indeed help him to earn a living. A college education would give him a social advantage, but it would not in itself increase his chance of earning a living; it would rather diminish it. For, as was pointed out in an interesting paper lately published in this magazine, our colleges do not, like the French and German universities, instruct a young man in the bread winning pursuits; the American colleges are, on the contrary, institutions for general culture. I do not take up the question here of the amount and value of the culture they supply. The point for us to note is that the educated young American who has not a special education as a bread winner is worse off, as to his money prospects, than the young American who has no college education at all. Dig he cannot, and to beg he is ashamed. Two of the professions at least are fatally overcrowded. The United States, with a population not greatly exceeding that of the German Empire, graduates every year five times as many physicians, for the German Empire limits the number of its doctors, and we do not limit that of ours. Very many of our physicians not only wait years for practice, but never get into practice at all. It is much the same with the profession of law. In both professions there are prizes for a few, and failures, more or less complete, for the many. The engineering, mining, and other scientific professions offer a somewhat better chance, and public life, almost neglected as a profession, will attract a better class of young men from year to year. But upon none of these, save in favored and exceptional cases, as where a son succeeds to his father's practice, can a young man depend for fortune, or even for immediate support. They, too, offer a certain social dignity. But as a rule it is the laborer, artisan, or trades-man that has the better chance of supporting himself; it is the educated man that has, more frequently, to wait before he can pay his way. If, therefore, we educate our sons it is all the better reason why we should provide, not indeed for their independence, but some aid during the years which they are likely to spend in waiting before they can achieve their position.

It is to be remembered, too, that these years of wasting may become, with much aid, years of scholarly or scientific accomplishment, if not of money-making; years of strengthened preparation: years that might introduce and brighten a career, instead of wasted years that cloud or spoil it.—Harper's Magazine for November.

Gems of Thought.

Envy is destroyed by true friendship, and coquetry by true love.

Man's love is of man's life a thing, a part; tis woman's sole existence.

Justice consists in doing no injury to man; decency, in giving them no offence.

The pungency of all pleasure is as transient as the foam which mantles round its brimming cup.

Nothing condemns more powerfully the violence of the wicked than the moderation of the good.

The just man is not he who wrongs no one, but rather he who, having the power to injure, represses the will.

By revenging yourself on your enemy you make him your equal; by pardoning him you show yourself his superior.

He who tells a lie is not sensible how great a task he undertakes, for he may be forced to tell twenty more to maintain one.

If you desire the common people to treat you as a gentleman, you must conduct yourself as a gentleman towards them.

Against general fears, remember how very precarious life is, take what care you will; how short it is, last as long as it ever does.

Let wickedness escape as it may at the bar, it never fails to do justice onitself; for every guilty person is his own hangman.

When bad men combine, the good must associate, else they will fall one by one, an unpitied sacrifice, in a contemptible struggle.

It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles; the less they have in them the more noise they make in pouring out.

If we speak ill of the sex generally, they will all rise against us; if we do the same of any individual woman, they will all agree with us.

Reason is progressive, instinct stationary. Five thousand years have added no improvement to the hive of the bee, nor the house of the beaver.

If a man empties his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest.

Tranquility puts the mind to sleep; trouble awakens it; great men are the products of agitating revolutions; genius is born of blood and tears.

When we speak of obedience we should always speak of faith first. Faith is the first and fundamental act of obedience. Faith is the mainspring of obedience.

The confidence of the wise man in himself diminishes in proportion as his knowledge increases, as the shadow of the sun decreases in proportion to its elevation.

A coxcomb maintains an error with the assurance of a man who is never mistaken: a man of sense maintains a truth with the circumspection of one who may be mistaken.

Polished steel will not shine in the dark; no more can reason, however refined or cultivated, shine efficaciously, but as it reflects the light of divine truth shed from heaven.

Conscience is a sleeping giant; we may lull him into a longer or a shorter slumber; but his starts are frightful, and terrible is the hour when he awakes.

Training the hands and eye to work well leads individuals to form correct habits in other respects; and a good workman is in most cases a good citizen.

A good conscience is the best looking glass of heaven, in which the soul may see God's thoughts and purposes concerning it reflected as so many shining stars.

No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude without finally getting bewildered as to which may be the truer.

"Be prosperous and happy, never require our services, and we will remain your friends." This is not what society says, but it is often the principle on which it acts.

Gratitude was fancifully said to be the memory of the heart; but, alas for human nature! hearts are more than suspected to have wondrous short memories.

Tell-tales are contemptible beings. To retail in one house what was seen or spoken of in another is a treason against society, which cannot be too thoroughly despised.

As the belief in God is the foundation of religion, there can be no religion without faith, but as true religion includes virtue, religion cannot be perfect without works.

Though sinking in decrepit age, he prematurely falls whose memory records no benefit conferred on man by him. They only have lived long who have lived virtuously.

It is to affectation the world owes its whole race of coxcombs. Nature, in her whole drama, never drew such a part; she has sometimes made a fool, but a coxcomb is always of a man's own making.

Fear God for His power—trust Him for His wisdom—love Him for His goodness—praise Him for His greatness—believe Him for His faithfulness—and adore Him for His holiness.

The common mind may maintain its place under common circumstances; the truly great alone overcome trials of prosperity or adversity; showing a humble thankfulness in one, a generous sympathy, not hardened by its own suffering, in the other; nor priding themselves on the first, nor envying in the last.

I would not waste my Spring of youth
In idle silence; I would plant rich seeds
To blossom in my manhood, and bear fruit
When I am old.

Be not too ready to condemn
The wrong thy brothers may have done;
Ere ye too harshly censure them
For human faults, ask, "Have I none?

The bird of wisdom flies low and seeks her food under hedges; the eagle himself would be starved if he always soared aloft and against the sun. The sweetest fruit grows near the ground.

Humility—humility is a virtue all preach, few practice, and yet everybody is content to hear. The master thinks it good doctrine for his servant, the laity for the clergy, the clergy for the laity.

The best receipt for going through life in an exquisite way, with beautiful manners, is to feel that everybody, no matter how rich or how poor, needs all the kindness they can get from others in this world.

When God would educate a man, he compels him to learn bitter lessons. He sends him to school to the Necessities rather than to the Graces, that by knowing all suffering he may know also the eternal consolation.

If ever household affections and loves are graceful things, they are graceful in the poor. The ties that bind the wealthy and the proud to home may be forged on earth, but those which link the poor man to his humble hearth are of the true metal and bear the stamp of heaven.

If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will tumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds, if we imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God and love of our fellowmen, we engrave on the tablets something which will brighten to all eternity.

Those who have been once dear to us, by what ever offence they may have alienated our affection when living, are generally remembered with tenderness when dead: and after the grave has sheltered them from our resentment, and rendered reconciliation impossible, we often regret as severe that conduct which before we approved as just.

Some men who know that they are great are so very haughty withal and insufferable, that their acquaintances discover their greatness only by the tax of humility which they are obliged to pay as the price of their friendship. Such characters are as tiresome and disgusting in the journey of life as rugged roads are to the weary traveller, which he discovers to be turnpikes only by his toll.

Knowledge of Oneself.—Always remember no one can debase you but yourself. Slander, falsehood, injustice—these can never rob you of your manhood. Men may lie about you, they may denounce you, they may cherish suspicions manifold, they may make your failings the target of their wit or cruelty—never be alarmed, never swerve an inch from the line your judgment has marked out for you. They cannot, by all their efforts, take away your knowledge of yourself, the purity of your knowledge of yourself, the integrity of your character and the generosity of your nature. While these are left, you are, in point of fact unharmed.

The Troubles in Ireland.

The agitation which was started in Ireland by Mr. Parnell and others with the object of securing a modification of the objectionable features of the land laws, has grown upon the agitators and their audiences as well, until what was intended as the means of securing by peaceful methods the redress of a long standing grievance, threatens to end in rebellion, and the death of many people, without the attainment of the object sought. The South and West of Ireland are in a ferment, and apparently ready to break out into open rebellion at any moment; but the Government are taking strongly repressive measures which, if persevered in with firmness, will at all events, to a very large extent, prevent the effusion of blood. Troops are being hurried forward in large numbers into the disaffected districts, the famous constabulary are on the alert in all directions, and the agitators—or at least the principal men amongst them—are to be prosecuted for their seditious utterances, whilst the habeas corpus act will in all probability be suspended. These measures should have been resorted to months ago, but even now they may prove effectual. The danger is that the Government may not pursue the course which they have marked out for themselves, with sufficient firmness. Already weakness has been shown in dropping from the list of those who are to be prosecuted, the names of several of the less prominent of the agitators, who are in reality the most dangerous of their class, as taking advantage of their comparative obscurity, they talk treason with a boldness which the more prominent of the agitators, who know that ... are recorded, dare not venture upon. Another indication of weakness on the part of the Government is the engaging on their behalf of all the most eminent counsel of the Irish bar, a fact which will be construed by the people, as it ought to be, to the disadvantage of the prosecution. The prisoners are certainly entitled to a fair trial and to the services of the ablest counsel they can fee in order to defend them. Their conviction without such advantages in their favor will be looked upon by their compatriots as martyrdom; and not without reason.

Whatever the result of the trials in court, if they ever take place, Mr. Parnell and his associates have much to answer for. They have led their fellow countrymen to the commission of murders and of outrages innumerable, and have thereby made their object more difficult of achievement than ever. They have rendered life and property so insecure that the much descanted evils of absenteeism will be aggravated tenfold; by arraying forcible opposition to the law they have provoked into active hostility a power which will assuredly crush them if need be; and by threatening rebellion they have alienated whatever sympathy might have been felt for them amongst the loyal people of Great Britain and the colonies.

The Government's position is a difficult one. They are hampered by the extreme Radical section of their party, but if they pursue the proper course under the circumstances they will receive the assistance of their political opponents in restoring order in Ireland.

The Presidential Election.

On Tuesday next, our neighbors south of the lines will elect a President and Vice-President to serve during the term of four years commencing on the 4th of November next. The campaign has been one of the most exciting on record, and the contest of the most doubtful character up to the 12th inst., since which time, owing to the success of the Republicans in Ohio and Indiana, their chances of success have appeared to be much superior to those of their opponents. In the early part of the contest the Democrats appeared to have much the best of it, because of the fact that, by a combination with the Greenbackers in Maine, they had defeated the Republican nominee for Governor in that State. Maine has for many years been one of the most reliable Republican strongholds, and as Mr. Blaine, its most distinguished statesman, had exerted all his powers on behalf of the party nominee, the defeat of his protege was a defeat not only of the party but of its distinguished head. The effect of this reverse was very disheartening to the Republicans, but with great industry and ingenuity they set themselves to the task of retrieving the disaster. The weak place in the Democratic armor was the plank in their platform declaring in favour of a tariff for revenue purposes only, and this declaration was the point of the Republican attack. Accordingly the tariff was the great question in the campaign in Ohio and Indiana, and the disastrous defeat of the Democrats in those States shows that the people are as strongly as ever in favor of protection to home industries. Greatly alarmed by this result, the Democratic managers have since attempted a change of front. They now assure the people that their revenue tariff declaration means nothing and that they are just as good protectionists as are the Republicans—with what effect we shall see when the result of Tuesday's election is known. Our belief is that those who previously regarded the Democrats with distrust in reference to the tariff will hold to the same opinion.

Should Indiana again—as there is every reason to believe she will—cast her vote in support of the Republican nominees, it will be almost impossible for the Democrats to succeed. They will certainly receive the 138 votes cast by the Southern States, and they calculate, but in our belief with very doubtful prospects, on carrying New York, which would give them 35 votes more, or 12 short of a majority in the Electoral College. Then they hope to carry New Jersey and Connecticut, with 9 and 6 votes respectively, or Oregon with 3 and California with 6. These calculations will, we believe be found erroneous except it may be as to New Jersey. Therefore we expect to see them lack at least 3 of a majority and quite possibly 38, as we will not be surprised if New York goes Republican. The fight may therefore be very close, but to us it seems altogether probable that General Garfield will be the next President of the United States.

Purity of the Ballot.

The ballot has now been in operation in Great Britain for eight years, and has most signally failed to meet the expectations of its advocates. Indeed it is a question whether there has not been more bribery and corruption practiced, and whether it has not cost the candidates as much if not more under the Ballot Act, than under the old system. As long back as 1874—two years after the Act was passed, when it was supposed that whatever virtue there was in the new method of holding elections the country would receive the benefit of, the expenses of the candidates were enormous, and corruption was practiced on an extensive scale. In a report presented to the Commons of election expenses of 1874, it was shown that the expenses of a candidate contesting a county generally amounted to several thousand pounds, and the laws against bribery and corruption were so to speak, lifted off their feet by a wide flowing stream of bounty. The following examples of expenditures at elections quoted from the report to the House of Commons of election expenses in 1874, indicate the urgency of the need for reform:—North Durham, four candidates, more than £28,000; Southeast Lancashire, four candidates, more than £13,000; South Durham, three candidates, more than £20,000; Middlesex, four candidates, more than £16,000; North Wiltshire, three candidates, more than £11,800; West Riding, (north division), four candidates, more than £20,000. Some of these are extreme instances of their class, but the average expense of each candidate for a county in a contested election exceeds £2,000."

But since that period the methods of manipulating voters and of evading the law, have increased to almost an indefinite extent, and the Act has proved practically a dead letter. The evidence taken before the Commissioners appointed to investigate several of the recent elections, has developed the most startling revelations. At Gloucester evidence was given of the distribution of bribes varying from half a sovereign to a sovereign to voters who were required to put their hands through a hole in a door to receive the money. At Boston one of the witnesses said he did not believe there were ten upright men in the constituency, and admitted having received a bag of gold to bribe voters, part of which he kept himself, thinking he might as well buy his as that of any one else. In a recent speech Sir Wilfred Lawson, M. P., said the disclosures which were at present being made were a scandal to the 19th century.

The disclosures made of the manipulations at Canterbury, Macclesfield, Chester, Oxford and other places, show an amount of bribery and corruption which the scandalous acts of Walker, of London, would not hold a candle to. The way in which the agent did the business, "constructively and indirectly," is thus described. In one ward in Oxford containing 907 voters, no less than 97 of them, or nearly eleven per cent., were employed as "canvassers." In another ward in the same city, 100 voters were hired for the campaign as standard-bearers. At Canterbury, voters were paid all the way from five shillings to five pounds for hoisting bunting on their house-tops; others received large sums for raising flag-poles in their front or back yards; and others again were paid for driving horses decked out with party rosettes. At Knaresborough one set of voters were hired to raise flag-poles, and another set to tear them down during the night, so as to give employment to a third set to put them up again the next day. In most of these contests, the agent issued tickets or orders to the voters for a certain sum, with the understanding that they were not to be presented for payment until the day after the election.

At Sandwich a sub-agent paid £754 for flags and ropes, the goods being bought from voters, of course. Ald. Swale, of Macclesfield, said of £2,047 expended by his party friends in the election there, not more than £100 was legally spent, the rest going into the pockets of voters. In Midlothian, Mr. Gladstone's expenses, as sworn to by his agent, were £2,700 or £1 15s for every vote he received; and it is said that Lord Rosebery sent £20,000 in. to the riding for prudent use among the free and independent. A writer in the Liverpool Post estimates the total expenditure, legitimate and illegitimate, at the last general election, at £3,500,000.

It is evident from the revelations made before the Commissioners that the Ballot Act has failed as a means of suppressing bribery, and as the Act expires this year, efforts will no doubt be made either to repeal it or add some stringent amendments by which it will be made effective.

Political Notes.

ANOTHER FOR MR. MOWAT.

Mr. Mowat's latest "double shuffle" is meeting with merited condemnation from the press of all shades of politics. The Peterborough Examiner, which is the organ of the Grit party in that County, takes the Premier to task in the following manner:—"Owing to the outcry created by his notorious failings, and something worse, Capt. Prince has been removed from the Wardenship of the Central Prison, and replaced by Mr. Massie, Registrar of Wellington. This is all very well; but when it comes to installing Capt. Prince into the place vacated by Mr. Massie it is by no means so well. If we mistake not, the late Deputy-Registrar of Wellington was dismissed on account of the very failing which Prince possesses in so eminent degree, and we cannot see the philosophy of the latter being given a superior place in the same office. Captain Prince merited dismissal, and ought to have been dismissed promptly."

SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN.

The above reads very well, coming whence it does, but the Examiner puts its foot in it when it attempts to throw upon the late Sandfield Macdonald's Government the odium which it attaches to the appointment of Captain Prince. It says:—"The Government do not gain strength by accepting the duty of providing for the Tite Barnacles whom they found attached to the Cabinet when they assumed office. This official, and others of the old Tory appointees we might mention, have brought more discredit on the Government than any act of their own. We say, shake them off." Would it surprise our contemporary to learn that the Central Prison was completed under Reform auspices and that the late Warden of that institution was appointed by a "Reform" Government? Yet such is the case. Captain Prince was a son of a Tory of the old stamp, but about 1871 his brother, a member of the Assembly, went over to the Grits and the Captain got the office from which he was lately removed. Now let the Examiner vent its indignation on those who deserve it.

South Hastings Teachers' Institute

THURSDAY, Oct. 28.

The Institute re-assembled at 2 p. m.

Mr. Glashan resumed the subject, "The A B C of Arithmetic," advising teachers to proceed very slowly and carefully, and make pupils thoroughly understand each step taken, and by means of small painted cubes of wood he explained his method of teaching addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, and the process of "borrowing" and "carrying" in a rational manner. Mr. Glashan's discourse was full of food to those who were engaged in teaching elementary arithmetic. His method is new to most teachers, and must commend itself to all for the intelligent way in which pupils learn this difficult subject.

An animated discussion followed, in which part was taken by Messrs. Irwin, Yerex and others.

The next subject taken up was Natural Philosophy by Prof. Davis, of Albert University, who gave his method of teaching Statics, including the parallelogram and triangle of forces. Prof. Davis showed himself to be a thorough master of his subject.

On motion of Mr. Irwin, seconded by Mr. Hicks, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. Davis for his able exposition of this subject. Prof. Davis gave a suitable reply, after which the Institute adjourned.

FRIDAY, Oct. 29.

MORNING SESSION.

Institute reassembled at 9 a. m.

The first subject was Elementary Reading by Mr. G. S. Wilson, who explained his method of teaching the tablets. Mr. Wilson insisted on being in earnest, wide awake, and in interesting the child in the subject of each lesson. He showed himself an earnest, wide awake, thorough teacher and elicited a good deal of discussion, in which part was taken by Mr. Glashan, Mr. Irwin, Mr. Johnston and others, on the different methods of teaching the tablets. The merits of the "Look and Say" method and the Phonic system were thoroughly discussed, the opinion being pretty general that the Phonic is the best.

The next subject was Geography by Mr. Yerex, who gave his method of teaching Definitions, Map Geography, Map Drawing and Physical Geography. He urged teachers to be sure to teach the local geography very minutely, and insist on making a drawing of the map before leaving it.

In the discussion which followed part was taken by Messrs. Sine, Glashan and Rogers, each of whom expressed himself well pleased with Mr. Yerex's method of teaching this subject.

The institute then adjourned to meet again at 1:30 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On reassembling, the first subject taken up was "Elements of Euclid," by Mr. O'Brien, who explained his method of teaching the definitions, axioms, postulate and propositions of Euclid.

A lengthened discussion ensued on the manner of introducing this subject to pupils, in which G. W. Sine, J. C. Glashan, H. M. Hicks, P. LaRiche and others, took an active share. The discussion of Mr. Yerex's Geography paper, which had been laid over for want of time, until the afternoon was now taken up, part being taken in it by Messrs. Irwin, Johnston, Hicks, Rogers and others

Some difficulties in Arithmetic, by Mr. Glashan, was next taken up, who explained his method of dealing with several Arithmetic problems.

Dr. Jaques, President of Albert University, being called upon, gave a short address after which a hearty of vote thanks was tendered Mr. Glashan for his valuable services during the Convention.

Mr. Glashan made a suitable reply, after which the Institute adjourned.

News Condensed.

—The Canadian Institute, Montreal, has been left $4,000 by an anonymous donor.

—The surveys for a new railway from St. Laurent to the Lachine bank are now in progress. Mr. Walter Shanly is the surveyor.

—The Great Western railway is reported to be doing a larger local freight business than at any other period in its history.

—There are still between forty and fifty ocean vessels in at Montreal, an unusual thing at this season of the year. Shipping continues very active.

—Galt has expended $70,000 in the erection of new buildings during the season of 1880.

—James Titus was found on the Great Western Railway track at Princeton with both arms and legs cut off. He lived only a short time afterwards. He had stolen a ride from Woodstock to Princeton on a train that did not stop at the latter place, and in attempting to jump off he fell under the wheels.

—There will be a direct mail between Winnipeg and Toronto after the 1st of November, avoiding the usual delay at Windsor for the re-sorting of the letters, thus gaining twenty-four hours in the receipt and delivery of the mails at both cities.

—3,000 cattle in Toronto are awaiting shipment to Great Britain.

—Hon. O. H. Lambert and Mrs. Lambert have returned to Ottawa from the Old Country, where they spent the summer months.

—The inspector of Weights and Measures of Ottawa has seized a large number of illegal weights and measures used by traders.

—Ned Lyon, who was shot in New York on Sunday by Hamilton Brook, was well known in Montreal. He committed a large robbery in Hochelaga Bank and fled to the States.

—The Bank of Toronto has declared a half yearly dividend of 3½ per cent.

—On the 29th inst. the steamer Resolute, with a deck load of 300 bushels of peas, sunk in the Ottawa a short distance above Aylmer in ten feet of water.

—Last week 969 cattle and 1,749 sheep were exported from Montreal as against 454 cattle and 698 sheep the week previous. Total shipments to date, 43,591 cattle and 72,376 sheep.

A DIFFERENCE.—The Globe and the leading Reform journals in Ontario, oppose the arrangement being made for the construction of the Pacific Railway, while the Quebec press view it in altogether a different light. The Montreal Herald thinks it the best possible arrangement that can be made. The Quebec Chronicle, (opposition) says:—"Our sympathies from the first have been with this scheme," and declares that "so far we can approve the action of the Government, and say they have done a good thing." Then the Chronicle administers this well-timed rebuke to Ontario Opposition journals:—"Every man who is a true Canadian and who wishes his country well should leave party politics in the background so far as this gigantic enterprise is concerned. Its successful completion means an enlargement of the capabilities of the country, the opening up of a land which is still a 'sealed book,' and its ultimate value can scarcely be over-estimated as a civilizing factor in the wild and unknown regions of our vast unbroken territory. Such an enterprise should be estimated on a basis far removed from the slouth in which party politics are often found submerged."

MORNING DESPATCHES

EUROPEAN.

THE RECENT STORMS—270 VESSELS LOST—GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—60 ships are ashore between Grimsby and Titney Haven, one hundred and eighty between Grimsby and Mabelthrop. The loss of life is not yet known, but it is believed it is not very heavy. A Swedish brigantine was wrecked off Sutton; crew all lost. The vessel Charles Dickens, from Philadelphia, was stranded at Merlin Mont; one of the crew saved 12 missing. The brigantine Mathilde Lagos was wrecked at Andresselos; 2 of her crew saved; 8 missing.

At Withersum 11 vessels were driven ashore, and most of them are total wrecks. It is reported from Yarmouth that the fishing boat Gleanar was lost with her crew of 11. A vessel was driven ashore at Cramer and the body of a boy found in the cabin. At Wells on the Norfolk coast a lifeboat went to the assistance of a brig hoisting signals of distress; the lifeboat capsized and only two of her crew were saved.

AN ORANGE MEETING.

An enthusiastic meeting of loyal inhabitants of counties Antrim, Belfast and Down was held at Belfast last night Seven thousand persons were present. Resolutions were adopted denouncing agitation and assassination.

THE BASUTO WAR.

News has been received from South Africa of the complete defeat by the colonial forces of one of the leading Basuto insurgents, whose village was stormed and burned. Reports of outrages by the rebels continue to come in, however, the lastest victims being a clergyman and two magistrates, the latter of whom were subjected to the most refined tortured before being put to death.

STARVING.

Owing to the failure of the fisheries, the fishermen of Lardoise, C. B., are in a state of semi-starvation, and unless aid is afforded there will be great destitution in the settlement during the coming winter.

AMERICAN.

HANCOCK DELIVERS HIMSELF.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—To an address from delegation yesterday Hancock replied the South is solid to-day. It is simply solid in trying to get in harmony with the rest of the union. If the Democratic party should succeed it will become naturally divided upon federal as well as local issues and its solidity in the south will be broken. The colored race will side with several factions, each of which will see their adherents suffer no obstructions in voting, and in this way one of the hoped for results of the war will be fully attained.

Arrived, the Germanic, from Liverpool.

LARGE IMMIGRATION.

3,300 immigrants landed here yesterday, and 100 more are on board a steamer in the bay. This is the heaviest arrival of immigrants ever known at this season of the year.

SARAH BERNHARDT.

The Treasury have decided that Sarah Bernhardt must pay a duty of $4,800 on new dresses brought to this country, valued at $80,000.

THE CZAR'S MARRIAGE.

The World's London special states that the Czar's marriage to the Princess Dolgorouki is pronounced a myth in Russian circles.

THE IRISH TROUBLES—ENGLISH SYMPATHIZERS.

The sympathy of English Radicalism with the Irish strugle for liberty is rapidly leading to a powerful alliance between that element in British politics and Irish agitators.

The Herald's Dublin says the influence of the land league is rapidly extending. It is announced that the Earl of Bessborough, chairman of the Royal Land Commission joined Carrick on the Suir branch of the organization. At Galway sessions for granting licenses on application by Protestants to sell liquor on the North Arran Island, elicited the fact that no protestant on the island was able to buy either drink or food unless he be a member of the land league. The magistrate was obliged to go thirty miles to the mainland to shoe his horse, all the blacksmiths refusing. The application of protestants were granted, although the land leaguers opposed it. Orange journals denounce the agitation in Ireland. The interest and the excitement have abated somewhat by the pending action of the Government. But few outrages are being brought, though enough continue in certain sections.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

TRIALS OF NIHILISTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 29.—The approaching trials of the Nihilists will be the most important yet. Among the accused are the alleged authors of the explosions on the Moscow Railway and at the Winter Palace, the supposed designer Alexandrovski, the dynamite mine, and the persons who attended Nihilist congresses at Liptsk and Tambouff, when above attempts against the life of the Czar were resolved upon. Another prisoner, it is said, gave to the Nihilist committee all his property, 170,000 roubles, and was tried at Odessa in 1879.

REVOLUTIONARY PROPHETS.

BERLIN, OCT. 30.—The police have seized several thousand revolutionary Prophets. The Socialists are determined to evacuate Hamburg and discontinue the printing arrangements there.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Arrived out, the Denmark and the State of Pennsylvania.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Disrespectful and Annoying.

SIR,—When will some people learn that it is the height of rudeness, and exceedingly disrespectful to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, to be heard bundling on their overcoats, wraps, &c, &c., during the playing or singing of the National Anthem? It pleased a great many to see some of these people caught last night, and it was very annoying to by far the largest part of the audience to have to lose many of the best parts of Remenyi's rendition of the National Anthem by the confusion caused by these thoughtless ly disrespectful people.

We have been in places where if a person attempted to go out during the playing of the National Anthem, he or she would be "sat on." Cannot the fourth estate help to remedy this annoyance and disrespect?

LOYALTY.

Mr. Baby Retires.

M. Baby, Minister of Inland Revenue, has resigned his portfolio, and been appointed Judge of the Superior Court of his native Province. He joined the Cabinet at its formation in October, 1878, and has discharged his duties as head of the Inland Revenue Department with singular ability and success. M. Baby has had over twenty years' experience as a lawyer, and will fill his new position with credit.

Amusements.

Mrs. Caldwell, of Hamilton, a vaocalist of merit, will sing several of the gems of sacred song at the Concert in St. Thomas' Church on Tuesday evening See advertisement.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons has appeared at Toronto in a round of famous characters, principally Shakespearian, and has been favorably criticized by the Toronto press. "Lady Teazle" and "Rosalind" appear to have given the greatest satisfaction of any parts that she has represented.

—Sir Charles Tupper is to be banquetted in Winnipeg.

—Bank Managers in Toronto have been notified from the detective bureau at Montreal that several notorious bank robbers are working their way West. Three individuals have been under the surveillance of the Montreal police for over six weeks, and it is believed they will try to operate in Toronto,

—Jones, one of the prisoners accused of stealing $15,000 from Mr. F. B McNamee's bookkeeper in Montreal some months ago, has been sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

ZOPESA, from Brazil, is now come into Canada. It is a mild purgative, acting as a wonder upon, and giving strength and energy to the Digestive Apparatus of the human stomach, correcting and increasing the acids. It is strongly Anti-bilious and carries off all surplus bile, tones up the Liver, gives sound digestion and speedy health to the Dyspeptic and the Bilious. Ask L. W. FROM THOMASBURG.

ACCIDENT.

An accident occurred yesterday on the premises of Jno. Graham, hotel keeper, which might have been very serious. H. McCammon's men were piling baled straw over the driveshed, when all at once the floor gave way, burying two men and a horse under about 40 tons of baled straw. The horse was killed at once. The men escaped, one slightly hurt.

DISGRACEFUL SCENE.—A disgraceful scene took place on the 28th, in the Court of Queen's Bench at Montreal between the counsel, Mr. F. X. C. Archambault, Q. C., and F. J. Quinn, engaged in the McNamee robbery case. The Q. C. was the aggressor, and after a torrent of abuse attacked his learned brother with such fury that the two were soon rolling on the ground, clawing at each other like a pair of infuriated tomcats. This is what is popularly understood by the "majesty of the law."

—An investigation is being made into the affairs of the Sheriff of Ottawa.

—During the present season, Hamilton has expended nearly a million dollars in building operations.

—The steamship Strathanly having broken her shaft will have to lay up in Montreal until a new one is brought from Great Britain.

—At the annual meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, a gratuity of £2,500 sterling was voted to Mr Hickson in recognition of his services.

HOLMAN PADS

Sold in the Dominion During the Past Year.

No Other System of Treatment can Show such Results.

HOLMAN PAD CO., 71 King street West. 52 Agnes-st. Toronto, Sept. 20, 1880.

DEAR SIRS,—I heartily endorse all that is claimed for the Holman Pad, having received great benefit from the same. To persons following sedentary occupations it cannot be too highly recommended. CHARLES JOHNSON.

HOLMAN PAD CO., 71 King street West. 225 Yonge street, Toronto, Oct. 2, 1880.

DEAR SIRS,—I was advised by a friend to try one of your Pads for billiousness and sluggish liver. Since using it I am happy to say it has done me an immense amount of good. I have now taken it off, and feel better in health than I have done for years. You are at liberty to make use of this letter in any way you may think proper. I am grateful for benefit received

Yours truly, HENRY WINFIELD.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO. Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, Sept 16, 1880.

GENTLEMEN, Being very sick with Bright's disease of the kidneys for the last twelve months and the physicians in England, Nova Scotia and here could give me no relief, having Dropsy through my whole body and attacks everyweek of pain in the head and vomitinrg I was reduced to helplessness at times, and my eyesight was almost gone. About five months ago a friend gave me one of your pamphlets; after hearing the whole read, I sent and got one of the large Pads, and four plasters and salt, and usen as directed. Since then my health has improved, the Dropsy has all gone, and my eyesight has so far returned that I am able to write this letter. Since wearing the first pad I got another one of the smaller size, and still continue to improve. I have followed the sea as a business, alway a teetotaller and a moderate liver. My age is 58, and nothing but a sense of duty to suffering humanity compels me to write this letter, seeing and feeling what a boon your remedies have been to me. I am, very respectfully, yours, etc. CAPTAIN JACOB CROSBY.

HOLMAN LIPER PAD CO. Holstein, Grey County, Sept. 9, 1880.

DEAR SIRS,—It is some months since I received your Pad and Plaster. I found it of so much benefit to me that I cannat fully express all it has done for me. I have been circulating its benefits, and a number have got the Pad but cannot get the Plasters. An agent here could sell many. Yours truly, MRS. R. BURROWS.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO., 71 King street West, Toronto. 74 Yonge st. Yorkville, Oct. 7, 1880.

DEAR SIRS,—For six years I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, so much so that life sometimes has been a burden to me. Six months ago I was advised by a friend to try one of your Liver Pads. Since wearing it my troubles have almost left me, and I am now in better health than I have been for years. The Plaster I got from you at the same time has also done its work. Wishing much success to the little "Doctor Pad," I am yours truly, MRS. R. LENNOX.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO., 71 King st., West. 27 Little Jarvis st., Yorkville, Oct. 7, 1880.

GENTLEMEN,—The Pad I got from you has done all that you claimed for it. I have been a martyr for years to that Hydra-headed monster, dyspepsia and indigestion. Some time ago a friend induced me to try one of your Liver Pads, and since using it, I am happy to say, I feel like a different person altogether. I have just purchased another one, and intend to keep one in my possession as long as I live. Gratefully yours, WILLIAM JOHNSON.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the Council will be held to-night.

REMENYI.—Get a copy of the celebrated Liberty Hymn, as played by Remenyi last evening, at Reynold's.

REMENYI.—Fine assortment Cloth and Morocco bound Albums with Autographs by Remenyi. Secure one early at Reynold's.

A LONG TRAIN.—A train of 24 cars—the longest that ever passed over the Grand Junction — went to Campbellford and Hastings on Tuesday afternoon.

CURLING CLUB. — A meeting of the Curling Club, for the election of officers, will be held at Hambly's at 8 o'clock on Monday evening. Let all interested attend.

THANKSGIVING.—Wednesday next will be thanksgiving day. Let all good citizens observe the day with that devout and thankful spirit which is meet for the occasion.

POLICE.—There were ten occupants of the cells last night, of whom nine were prisoners. Of these latter two were female inmates of a house of ill repute and three young men were arrested as frequenters.

TORONTO PROBABILITIES.—Toronto 10 a. m.—Lower lakes, moderate winds mostly from the north-east and south-east, with cloudy weather and occasional slight rain to day, followed by heavier rain to-night, colder westerly to northerly winds to-morrow.

LARGE FISH.—On Thursday afternoon a sturgeon, weighing ninety-seven pounds, was caught in Woodcock's fishing limit near Mill Point, in a net. It was cut up and divided amongst the fishermen engaged at work at that point. Several large maskinonge have also been caught in the bay hereabouts during the past few days.

THE BY-LAW.—The $90,000 By-law will be voted upon by the ratepeyers on Wednesday next. It ought to be passed, as otherwise the taxation will be unbearably high. With prudent management following the passage of this By-law the difficulties of our financial position will be surmounted in the course of a very few years.

BARLEY SALES.—The Ameliasburg Grangers have sold to Messrs. Downey & Preston 55,000 bush. barley to average 47lbs. at 65c. per bush. Mr. Easterbrook has sold the total shipments of barley from Crookston Station this season, amounting to 13,664 bush. averaging 46½ lbs. to Messrs, Downey & Preston for 61½c., per bush. in store.

PERSONAL.—Mr. R. W. Newton, V. S., who is suffering from inflammation of the membranes of the brain, lies at his father's house in Hungerford in a highly dangerous state. The medical men in attendance have very little hope of his recovery.—Mr. John McKeown, who is prostrated by fever, showed no improvement this morning.—Dr. Abbott, who is also suffering from a low fever, is now considered out of danger.

WESTERN DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.—The next Convention of the Western Dairymen's Association is to be held at Stratford on the first Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday in February, 1881. Messrs. Casswell and Clarke were appointed a deputation to attend such of the American Conventions as the Executive Committee may direct, and to report to the Convention of the Association in February next.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—As will be seen by advertisement, Night School will be opened at the Ontario Business College on Monday evening, November the first and will continue four months. This school affords an excellent opportunity for young men who are unable to attend during the day, for acquiring an education in the important branches taught, and the terms are very low. For particulars see the advertisement.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES. — The Madoc Review of yesterday makes the following announcement: "Mr. James A. Orr, of this journal has purchased the Trent Valley Advocate newspaper, of Trenton, and will remove permanently to that place in a short time. The Review will in future be under the entire management of John R. Orr, the business being continued here as formerly. Mr. James F. Ward, formerly of this office, but late of Ottawa, will be a partner in the Trenton establishment." From his experience in the newspaper business, we have no doubt he will give the citizens of Trenton a live paper. We wish him success in his new venture.

FIVE SUNDAYS.—October enjoys the notoriety of having five Sundays. The first Sunday began on the 3rd, and the fifth occurs on the last day of the month.

15TH BATTALION BAND.—The 15th Battalion Band intend having a series of Assemblies in the Ontario Hall, every two weeks during the ensuing winter, the first of which will be held on Monday, Nov. 1st.

NEW GOODS.—Messrs. Holton, Bottoms & Co., announce another arrival of Scotch Tweeds, suitable for Suits and Ulsters, also a lot of new Overcoatings. This firm are steadily growing in the confidence of the public and are doing as large a tailoring trade as any House in Central Ontario.

A NARROW ESCAPE. — On Thursday morning, whilst a couple of young "sports" were in search of game on the marsh front near Northport, their boat capsized, precipitating them in the cold water and losing their guns. Fortunately the water at that place was not very deep, and after being in the water about ten minutes they succeeded in gaining the shore, and at once were supplied with warm and dry clothing by Mr. Sprague, whose kindness on this occasion will not be forgotten by the parties concerned.

SPRINGLESS TRUSSES.—Dr. G. W. Hotchkin, of Albion, New York, the celebrated manufacturer of springless trusses and supporters, will conclude a three days' stay here to-night. The articles manufactured by Dr. Hotchkin are the best of their kind, and he has had much success here, as elsewhere. We can confidently recommend all who require treatment for rupture and kindred afflictions to call on or communicate with Dr. Hotchkin. He goes hence to Picton, where he will remain at the Wilson House on Monday and Tuesday, thence to Napanee, where he will be at the Campbell House on Wednesday and Thursday.

OPEN MEETING.—The open meeting of the Workingmen's Temperance Association last evening was largely attended, and a good deal of interest was manifested in the proceedings. Able addresses were delivered by Rev. M. W. Maclean, and Rev. Mr. Schuster, Mr. John Cook and Hugh Walker. Singing by Miss McArthur and Mr. Blaind. A number of new members joined the Association. At the meeting held on Thursday evening interesting and spirited addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Mitchell, and E. B. Fraleck. Rev. Mr. Lambly gave a reading and temperance song. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Peterborough Review of the 29th says:—"About a dozen men arrived last night from Toronto and as many more this morning to work on the ballast trains of the Grand Junction Railway. They have engaged sixty men altogether, and the remainder will be here some time to-day. They commenced work at Downer's Corners yesterday 'lifting,' which is the railway term for lifting the ties and packing ballast under them to straighten up the track. Another gang is working from near Hastings towards Peterborough. The work will not be completed for a week or two yet."

RESIGNED.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Grand Junction Railway Company yesterday, Mr. Brennan resigned the office of Superintendent of the road, which was accepted. Since Mr. Brennan became connected with the Railway, he has done a great deal to develop the traffic of the Road, and by his long experience as a railway man, proved a most serviceable and efficient manager; indeed, it will be difficult for the Board to find a man who will do the work so effectively as did Mr. Brennan. He has the best wishes of his many friends, for his future success. We understand that Mr. Detlor, the present agent at Campbellford, has been appointed to fill his place.

THE REMENYI CONCERT.—Notwithstanding the high price of admission, the Metropolitan Hall was nearly filled last last night by as intelligent an audience as ever assembled in Belleville, attracted thither to hear an artist who has within the last three or four years been talked about more than any violinist who has visited this country, not excepting Ole Bull. Varely rarely does it happen that the anticipations entertained of the performance of a great artist are realized. The performance of Mr. Remenyi, however, furnishes one of these rare instances. It is safe to say that no artist who has visited Belleville has been anything like as successful as Mr. Remenyi in establishing a thorough understanding and sympathy between himself and his hearers. The most rapt attention was observed from the first note to the last; not the faintest pianissimo passage was lost. To give a detailed account of the programme of the great artist would be merely to print a catalogue of its excellencies. We may, however, briefly refer to one or two of the more conspicuous qualities of his playing. First, we would mention its earnestness. His whole soul seems to be for the time being in his work. With close-shut eyes and drooping head, he stands apparently oblivious to his audience—his mobile features reflecting all the various and rapidly changing emotions which he is interpreting on his instrument. The simplicity of his playing was also noticeable. Not once did he stoop to the display of mere techincal skill, except when no effect would be sacrificed by such a display. When he did deign to exhibit any artistic trickery, however, he showed a skill hardly inferior to that of Ole Bull himself. The power of his playing is in a large measure owing to its earnestness and simplicity. In the simple air, "Auld Robin Gray," the power was so felt that not a few eyes were bright with tears. Every time he appeared Mr. Remenyi, was almost wildly encored, and gracefuly responded on each occasion. The remaining members of the little company were able assistants of the great violinist. Mr. Beale's accompaniments were marked by a quiet power and an unobtrusiveness which place him in the front rank of accompanists. M. De Celle possesses a tenor voice of good compass, fine quality in the middle notes, and careful culture. He sang the beautiful ballad "Where is Heaven?" with marked effect. Mrs. Clara Stacy's voice is powerful and well toned but lacks in flexibility. It showed to best advantage in the beautiful "Serenade" and the pretty Scotch ballad "The Maid of Dundee," than in her operatic selection. In conclusion, we would say that Mr. Reynolds deserves the thanks of the public for giving our people an opportunity of hearing one of the greatest masters of the violin that ever lived. It is gratifying to know that his venture has been a financial success.

JAS. HENNESSY has just received a new lot of Tweeds, Overcoatings, Ulster Cloths, Dress Goods, Cashmeres, Wincies, Flannels, Blankets, Kid Gloves, Corsets and Hosiery. All bought at the late auction sales in Toronto and Montreal and will be sold very cheap.

SATURDAY, Oct. 30.

HOUSE OF ILL-FAME.

The two women arrested for being inmates of a house of ill-fame, were given an opportunity to leave town, sentence being suspended.

Of the male frequenters, one was sent to gaol for two months, another was fined $25 and costs, and the third was liberated, as some children are under his charge.

WIFE BEATING.

Alfred Way, of Hungerford, was charged with this offence and was remanded till Monday.

Mr. Thos. Fraser, Nashwalk Village, N. B., desires to say that a few weeks ago a loaded waggon went over his leg, causing a severe sprain, was confined to bed, and would have been there yet if he had not used Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. A couple of bottles made his leg perfectly well.

WINDSOR HOTEL, MONTREAL.—This super hotel furnished with elevator and all the latest improvements, and carefully maintained at the right standard of excellence, offers good rooms with board at $2.50 to $3.50 per day. The Windsor is but four blocks from the G. T. R. Station, and a free coach plies constantly between the Hotel and the Post Office. Sample rooms at 183 St. James Street, free to commercial travellers. 145d3m

REMENYI.

The Great Violinist Interviewed.

Herr Edouard Remenyi, perhaps the most popular living violinist, arrived in Belleville by the noon train yesterday, accompanied by the members of his concert company, and was shortly after his arrival interviewed by a representative of the INTELLIGENCER. The reporter was most cordially received, and found no difficulty in engaging the artist in conversation.

Mr. Remenyi would not, by his outward appearance, convey to a stranger an idea of a great genius, musical or otherwise. He is short and stout, with a comfortable, well-fed looking face, which he keeps closely shaven. With the exception of his eyes, his face might be called commonplace, and the features would easily serve as those of an honest, homely Dutch burgomaster. But his eyes have genius in them. They are of an uncertain, changeable color. When he is in a quiet mood they appear to be brown, and are soft and deep in their expression; but when he is engaged in animated conversation they change from a black to a dark grey, and are unusually bright and expressive. Like all true artists, he is evidently warm-hearted and impulsive, as was shown by the endearing way in which he fondled a diminutive Scotch-terrier pup, which was presented to him a few days ago, and which he every now and then talked to in "baby fashion" in his own language. He speaks English with a strong foreign accent but so as to be easily understood.

In reply to an enquiry about his present tour he said: "This is one of the most delightful tours I have ever made. The public is so kind to me, and so warm-hearted. Everywhere I appear I am treated in the same enthusiastic way. The people seem not to be able to show enough how much they think of me as an artist. It is unnecessary to say that I feel this kindness deeply."

REPORTER—Have you never failed in drawing a good house in any of the towns and cities of Ontario?

REMENYI—Never. Packed houses everywhere. Why, only last night in Port Hope—a town, I believe, not nearly a large as this—a hall holding seven or eight hundred people was packed to the doors; I never played to a more delightful and enthusiastic audience.

REPORTER—Do you find Canadian audiences as appreciative as American or European audiences?

REMENYI.—My dear sir, there should be no such word as "appreciative," in the sense of enjoying music. All audiences are appreciative. When an audience, whether Canadian, American, English, German, or any other nationality, does not enjoy music to which it is listening, the fault is not to be found in the audience, but in the artist or artists.

REPORTER.—Then do I understand you to say that the taste for music cannot be cultivated?

REMENYI.—Not nearly as much as most people think.

REPORTER.—Do you think your playing would be as highly appreciated by an audience composed of South Sea Islanders as by an audience composed of the cultured classes of Berlin, Paris or London?

REMENYI.—I do not think the music would be as well understood, but it would be as much enjoyed. Every man and woman loves music. Some pretend they don't, but they do. Others really think they don't, but they do all the same, without knowing it. A great many men who laugh at operatic trills and runs, will shed tears at the sound of a simple Scotch air. Tell me such men don't love music! I don't ask for "cultured" audiences or what are usually called "cultured" audiences. All I want is an audience of men and women of average intelligence. It don't need a great deal of culture to enjoy the sunlight and the perfume of flowers; then why should it need culture to enjoy sweet sound, or music? I never yet failed to hold an audience in my power, and I don't believe I ever will.

REPORTER—But don't you find differences in audiences?

REMENYI.—Very little. Some audiences may understand music better than others, but I never yet played to an audience that did not heartily enjoy it.

After some further conversation on this subject, the reporter referred to the presentation to Mr. Remenyi of his portrait by his admirers in Toronto, which event took place in Shaftsbury Hall last Tuesday evening.

REMENYI.—Yes, it was very kind of them, and I felt their kindness. The portrait is a very fine one. It is painted in oil, and is life size. The artist is a Mr. Hall, of Toronto. I gave him five sittings.

REPORTER.—How is it, Mr. Remenyi, that Wilhelmj fell so flat on the Canadian public? Is it because of the severely classical music which he plays?

REMENYI.—I do not think so. He is a cold, haughty man, and will not unbend himself to the public. If he does not show himself friendly to the public, he cannot expect the public to be friendly to him. I have often told him this myself, but he will not profit by my advice. He is a magnificent player.

REPORTER.—He excels in classic music, does he not? and is usually thought too cold and unsympathetic to play simple and popular melodies with effect?

REMENYI.—Nonsense! A man who can play classical music well, can play popular music well, and vice versa. Do you mean to say that the sonatas by Beethoven can be interpreted by a player who is too cold and unsympathetic to interpret a simple melody?

Total collapse of the reporter.

REPORTER—But does not the one class of music require more technique in its interpretation than the other?

REMENYI.—A simple melody, if it is played as it should be played, requires just as much technique as the most difficult selection from Chopin, Beethoven or Bach.

The conversation then turned on the little controversy in the Toronto Mail, with respect to the alleged weakness of Remenyi's playing in one of his duets with Joseffy, the great pianist, at Shaftesbury Hall—a correspondent being of the opinion that the violinist's playing lacked "breadth of tone." Mr. Remenyi laughed heartily at the idea of his playing lacking in this respect. He said that in the first duet M. Joseffy played rather too loud—the two artists never having practised together—but after an explanation that fault was remedied. M. Joseffy he pronounced as pianist without any living superior.

After a few minutes more interesting conversation, the reporter took leave of the great violinist, favorably impressed with his suavity and courtesy.

DRAIN OF GOLD FROM EUROPE.—The London Economist hints at the possibility of a suspension of specie payments in some of the leading European nations should the drain of gold to the United States continue. Both England and France, it says, will be embarrassed in making gold payments should their reserves fall much below their present standing. The prospect of the continued influx of the precious metal from Europe in payment for American supplies thus becomes a very significant one. The importations of gold into the United States for the week ending Friday last amounted to $6,348,300. An encouraging sign of American prosperity is that the metal does not go to swell the reserves of the banks, but passes into general circulation. Should the outflow of gold produce serious embarrassment in the money markets of the Old World—as it must if not speedily checked—British free-traders will perhaps begin to realize that there is something in the balance of trade theory after all. If Europe could pay for her supplies from America in goods the gold would not be exported.

CIVIC COMMITTEES

Meetings Last Night.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

FRIDAY, Oct. 29th.

The Committee met to night.

PRESENT.—Ald. Jollett (Chairman), Lingham, McIninch, Hambly, Niles, St. Charles, Petrie and the Mayor.

A petition was read from N. M. Ostrom, asking that taxes paid by him on a house be refunded. When he rented the house his arrangement was to pay no taxes, and he had been out of the house four years, during which time the Collector had asked him for the taxes, but he refused to pay them. This spring, while he was away, the Collector threatened to sell goods in the house and his wife paid the taxes.

Ald. Vandusen urged that the petition be granted.

Ald. Jollett said Mr. Ostrom was assessed for the property, and the Collector could not know of any arrangement with the landlord. The Collector must go to the person assessed.

Ald. Vandusen said that if the taxes had been collected at the proper time Mr. Ostrom would have had redress. It was great injustice.

Ald. Lingham thought Mr. Ostrom should not be followed for the taxes.

Ald. Hambly said the person in possession should pay the taxes.

Ald Petrie said Mr. Ostrom should not lose the money.

Ald. Hambly moved that the money be refunded.

Ald. McIninch supported the motion, as the money would not be lost to the city.

The motion was carried.

A communication was read asking for appointment as special constable for the market. It was referred to the Market Committee.

A petition from Alex. Robertson was read asking that the taxes on his property on Front Street on which his new block was built, for the time in which he was building the block, be refunded.

The Chairman said we have nothing to guide us as to amount.

Ald. Hambly thought it but reasonable that Mr. Robertson should be allowed something, but more information was necessary for action.

The petition was laid over to obtain further particulars.

A petition from J. W. Cronkwright asking the Council to make provision for clothing a child of his in the Deaf and Dumb Institute, was read.

A letter was read from Mr. Mathieson explaining some of the rules of the Institute.

The Chairman said that the Solicitor had given his opinion that the Council was not liable.

The Mayor thought that, according to the explanation given, they would be liable.

The petition was referred to the Poor and Sanitary Committee to make inquiries and report as soon as possible.

A petition was read from Thos. McGarry asking that the taxes on his house destroyed by fire be remitted.

Ald. McIninch said it would be an act of charity to grant the petition. He moved that the taxes for 1879 be remitted.—Carried.

A communication was read from the Clerk of the County of Hastings, asking the City Council to appoint a committee to confer with a committee appointed by the County Council with reference to the amount due the County.

The Chairman said this communication had been referred to this Commitee by the City Council.

The Mayor said he could see no advantage in delaying.

The following Committee was appointed: The Mayor, the Solicitor, Ald. Jellett, Dickson and St. Charles.

The following accounts were passed:

Gas Company's account.......$928.45
Wm. Connors, lighting lamps.. 145.66

Also the accounts from the Public Works and Poor and Sanitary Committees.

On the Cow Inspector's account for the quarter's salary being read,

Ald. Niles said there was no use in continuing this officer.

Ald. McIninch said no person could be got to do the work better for the salary.

The Chairman said to do away with the office the By-law would have to be changed.

The account was passed.

The Committee adjourned.

PUBLIC WORKS.

PRESENT. — Ald. Lingham (Chairman), Ostrom, Wallbridge, Vandusen, and the Mayor.

The following accounts were recommended to the Finance Committee for payment:

P. Weyms, gravel	$42.00
M. Kehoe, "	41.60
R. McCoy, jr. "	41.60
R. McCoy, sr. "	41.60
James Orr "	41.60
Jno. Connors, blacksmithing &c.	108.25
The Street pay list	184.59

Jno. Connors' account was for work done for the different departments, as follows:—Public Works, $64; Fire, $86.50; Market, $4; Water and Gas, $13.75.

Committee adjourned.

WATER AND GAS.

PRESENT—Ald. Hambly (Chairman), Petrie, McIninch, Vandusen, Ostrom, Niles, and the Mayor.

The Gas Co.'s account, $928.45, and W. Connors' account for lighting lamps, $145.66, were recommended to the Finance Committe for payment.

Ald. Petrie moved for the deepening of the well on George Street.—Lost.

Committee adjourned.

Marine.

The Folger arrived in tow of the tug Active on the 29th inst. She had been lying ashore on the south side of the Ducks since Monday night. Crow all safe.

The Kingston Whig says: "The survey of steamer Hastings has been completed. The damages are estimated at $2,500. During the coming winter the steamer will be thoroughly repaired. The upper part of her saloon will be taken off and the ladies' cabin extended to the guards. She will thus become a fine excursion boat.

The steamer Picton, with 4,000 barrels of apples on board, left the head of the bay on Thursday evening, and whilst coming eastward took refuge on the shoal at Nigger Island, where she remained until last night. All efforts of her own could not move her and assistance had to be sent for. The Armenia lighted her yesterday morning of part of her cargo, but without apparent benefit, and the Bonar was sent for. She worked at the Picton during the greater portion of yesterday and last evening succeeded in pulling her off, when she proceeded to Rednerville to complete her load. After leaving there she ran aground again and the tug was sent for, and at last she got off and went on to Montreal.

The D. Freeman, light, from Oswego, arrived last night.

The fog was so dense on the bay last night and this morning that navigation was seriously interfered with so; several vessels were obliged to come to anchor.

The Caledonia with lumber from Trenton, and two other vessels similarly laden, passed down this morning.

The Saxon is now doing quick work between this port and Oswego, and but little time is lost in making her trips. Only thirty-four hours were consumed in her last voyage, and her stay yesterday was but twelve hours. She left for Oswego last night with barley.

The schooner Delaware completed her load of barley last night, hauled down to the Grand Junction dock this morning, and left for Oswego, as did also the North Star.

The Carter, owing to adverse winds, was unable to leave yesterday, and after an all day rest at anchor, was enabled to continue her trip last night.

Hardly any one who has a large acquaintance or who read the obituary or death notices in the public prints, can fail to have noticed how fatal a disease Congestion on the Lungs is, especially in this City. It really seems sometimes as if it caused half of all the deaths that occur. Each fall it appears to grow more dangerous. This season it has been very virulent, owing, probably, to sudden changes. Congestion of the Lungs invariably begins with a cold, to which scarcely anybody attaches any importance, and the cold is neglected until it results in the painful, and always alarming disease. "Only a cold!" echoed the renowned ABERNETHY, "A cold is always to be feared. Colds have killed more men than battles have." There seems to be no way of guarding against Congestion of the Lungs. One person is as subject as another to it. Rugged constitution, vigorous health, general attention to hygienic laws have no power to prevent it. Congestion of the Lungs slays a giant as quickly as it slays a pigmy; an accomplished athlete as quickly as a puny invalid. One meets this morning a friend flushed with youth—energy. Within a few days he is dead. Congestion of the Lungs has cut him down. Persons who care to live—and the fact that they do live shows that they care to—cannot be too watchful of the beginnings of Congestion of the Lungs, which is one of the most insidious and formidable foes of human existence. Mr Fellows, the inventor of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, which is so deservedly popular everywhere, says: Without offering any argument to enforce my opinion, I most positively assert as fact so long as the patient continues to breathe no matter how languidly, though abandoned by the physician, the case is by no means hopeless. Fellows' Hypophosphites administered with Cod Liver Oil, as directed, will act beneficially and effectively. It excites the movement of the secretions, stimulates the nerves and muscles into action, and develops the process of expectoration, cleaning out the tubes and air passages, induces appetite, strengthens and restores the sufferer to health. Let the reader, whether physician or layman, reflect, that this is written not for mere mercenary considerations, the writer has known many cases, has witnessed many cases treated by his syrup, and has treated several himself with his syrup, in no single instance unsuccessfully, all were restored to health, and in several instances, they were pronounced beyond the possibility of recovery by attending physicians.

The Hunter.

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is also one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiast when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases yet known.

NEW BRUNSWICK RAILWAY.—The prospect of the early completion of the New Brunswick Railway is received with great satisfaction by the dwellers by the sea. The transfer of the undertaking to a new company they hold makes the continuation of the railway from the St. Lawrence to the Bay of Fundy a fixed fact. Some 70 miles will connect the road with the Intercolonial on the St. Lawrence, and with a bridge across the St. John river near Fredericton, St. John will become a winter port for the whole Dominion. The road opens three ports, St. Stephen, St. Andrews, and St. John, and the inhabitants of the last named city claim that they will then possess the shortest direct road through which to draw down the productions of the interior, of Quebec, Ontario, and the Northwest.

The Late Mr. Cawthra.

HIS ATTEMPT FORTY YEARS AGO TO BREAK THE BANK OF UPPER CANADA—BARROW-FULS OF COPPERS SHELVED AWAY.

The announcement of the death of Mr. William Cawthra at Toronto will call to the minds of the old inhabitants of that city an incident in the career of the deceased which at the time was of an all absorbing character. Mr. Cawthra was before the rebellion of 1837-8 a monied brewer in the city of Toronto, and had at that time the reputation of being the wealthiest man in Canada. He was a large stockholder in the late Bank of Upper Canada, and after "the troubles" that institution was somewhat cramped in its resources, having to provide funds for the payment of the men serving at the front. During this period Mr. Cawthra quarreled with the directors, of whom he was one, and threatened that if they didn't come to his views he would break the bank by withdrawing his deposits and purchasing and presenting their bills for redemption. The directors were inflexible, and the deceased carried out his threat by withdrawing his account. The bank officers at first laughed at the deceased's threat, imagining that the affair was a comfortable little joke, which could do the bank no harm and would perhaps please Mr. Cawthra. However, a few hours' experience convinced them that there was more than fun underlying the affair, and fearing that the bank would be burst, the officers began doling out silver in the quantities then permitted by law, and consulted the late Captain Hugh Richardson in reference to procuring assistance from the agencies at Niagara, Cobourg and other places. The steamer Transit was chartered and made a trip round by the places named, picking up the amounts which could be spared. In the meantime, however, Mr. Cawthra had exhausted all the gold and silver in the coffers of the bank, and the officers had commenced paying out coppers, which the deceased totted away in a whelbarrow. The last load had been reached—there was not coin enough for more than half a barrowful—when a cheer was heard in the direction of the Yonge street wharf, and the joyful news was conveyed to the officers of the bank that the Transit was rounding Gibraltar Point and would soon be at her moorings. Mr. Cawthra was beaten, and in a laughing and jovial manner acknowledged the fact, but claimed to have taught the bank officers a lesson, and he had, for they never forgot it, no matter in what part of the world they were afterwards located, although there are probably few or none of them in the land of the living now.

THE CANADA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY,

ORGANIZED UNDER THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Capital Stock, $500,000. - - Shares $1 each, full paid, and Unassessable.

This Company has been organized to purchase and work extensive and valuable Gold mines near Marmora, Ontario.

The veins have bee[n] extensively opened, and the ores thoroughly tested on a working scale.

The highest expert authorities having examined the mines, agree that they are among the most valuable on the continent, and that they can, within a short time, be in a position to yield from $20,000 to $25,000 a month net profit.

The net value of the reserves of ore "in sight" exceeds the entire capital of the Company and within a year will probably amount to several million dollars. This enterprise combine

EXTRA LARGE PROFITS AND EARLY DIVIDENDS.
PERMANENCY OF THE MINES.

More than one-half the capital has already been subscribed in the United States, and a considerable interest in the stock has been taken by several prominent men in Montreal, Toronto and Belleville.

A small amount of stock has been set aside for Canadian investors, and is now offered for sale in round blocks at bottom prices; and subscribers to this stock will be invited to name a representative on the Board of Directors.

Reports by mining engineers and experts, with the fullest information concerning the property and organization, can be obtained on application to

MR. D. LORN MACDOUGALL, No. 1 Hospital St., Montreal.
Or from the Company 27 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

Subscriptions are conditioned upon stock being sold on or before January 1st, 1881, to the amount necessary to complete the payments of purchase money on the property of the Company. Should this condition not be fulfilled, the money paid on account of this purchase is to be returned in full.

Payments can be made through the Bank of Montreal and its Agencies, and will be as follows:—10 per cent. on application and the balance, one-half when the stock now offered has been taken up, and the remainder March 1st, 1881. 141d6wks

Grandmother's Summer, Long Ago

BY M. D. BRINE.

Dear old Grandmother lifts her eyes
To where in the distance the mountains rise;
She sees the shadows so cold and gray
That are born of the drear November day;
She hears the rush of the mountain breeze,
As it brushes the leaves from the stately trees,
And she watches the sunshine, scant and cold,
With a vague regret for the year grown old.

The meadows are lying all still and brown,
Their summer's harvest at last cut down.
And Grandmother longs—though it be in vain—
For the breath of the summer-time again,
The scent of the clover and new-mown hay,
The meadows bespangled with daisies gay,
The hum of bees and the reaper's song,
And the brook that chattered its way along.

Dear old Grandmother! Long ago,
Ere time had sprinkled her head with snow,
The summer of youth for her was sweet,
And spread its treasures beneath her feet,
Till she forgot in her heart so gay
That summer must sometime pass away,
The merry season grow gray and cold,
And youth turn silent and sad and old.

And now she sits in her old armchair;
Wrinkled her cheek and white her hair.
Over the hills the clouds pass by,
Over the earth thin shadows lie,
In Grandmother's ear soft voices call,
On Grandmother's heart their echoes fall,
And the last faint beams of the setting sun
Warn hill and valley that day is done.

Patient Grandmother! Well she knows
That when stern winter shall lay his snows
Over the landscape, over the hill,
Her longing heart, grown calm and still,
Under the spotless drifts shall lie;
Never again to breathe a sigh
For the days of summer and youth now past,
Nor grieve for the skies now overcast.

The Wooden Hat.

Somewhere about the year 1780 a travelling millwright, footsore, and with the broadest Northern Doric accent, stopped at Soho, the engine factory of Boulton & Watt, and asked for work. His aspect was little better than one of beggary, and Boulton had bidden him Godspeed to some other shop, when, as he was turning away sorrowfully, Boulton suddenly called him back.

"What kind of a hat's you ye have on your head, me mon?"

"In's just timmer, sir."

"Timmer, me mon? Let's look at it. Where did ye get it?"

"I just made it, sir, me ain sel."

"How did you make it?"

"I just terned it in the lathie."

"But it's oval, mon, and the lathe turns thingt round."

"Aweel! I just gae'd the lathe gang anither grte, to please me. I'd a long journey afore me, and I thocht to have a hat to keep out water, and I hadna muckle siller to spare, and I made me ane."

By his inborn mechanicism the man had invented an oval lathe, and made his hat, and the hat made his fortune. Boulton was not the man to lose so va uable a help, and so the after famous William Murdock, the originator of locomotives and of lighting by gas, took suit and service under Boulton & Watt, and in 1784 made the first vehicle impelled by steam in England, and with the very hands and brain cunning that had before produced the "timmer hat."—*N. A Fecht in Kirk.

The other day there was a fight between two dogs in a church at Lochearnhead. A friend who was an eye-witness of the incident, sends the following description "in his native Doric" to the Border Advertiser, headed "A Fecht in a Kirk.":—

"I' the last week o' August I was steyin' a wee at the heid o' Loch Earn—jist as bonnie a place as in a 'Scotland. The loch lies in caum repose, like ony sleepin' beauty, on' weel girded on baith sides wi' grand hills maistly dressed in bonnie heather. Being harvest time, men had cam frae a' places for the shearin.' On the Sabbath mornin' when I got tae the kirk no mony miles frae the tap o' the loch, there were a lot o' folks aboot some staunin' aneath the bonnie fir an' pine trees around; some sittin' on the dyke, an' some restin' on the wee green hillocks—o' gettin' cule ofter a lang hot walk. Amang them were two queer-lookin' birkies; ane o' them, nae doot, a native o' the Isle o' Skye, wi' heavy shaggie eebroos, an' black een, starin' at o' things, an' a' folk; the ither ane looket hauf Lowlan' Hielan', wi' a restless glower and near-dae-weel air, lookin' naebody straicht i' the face; a'thegither, ane wadna expect tae see i' the house o' God. I couldna mak them oot ava; but thocht, as the place was just investit wi' tourists, thae micht be somethin' o' that sort. We went intae the kirk, an' whether it was that the twa dementst craturs didna like the op'nin' prayer, simple an' bonnie as it was, or whether the twa were owre near each ither, I canna tell; but a' at once ane o' them growled oot somethin'; then the ither—what it was I couldna understan'—it soonded like Gaelic. They then flew at ane anither, an' sic fitchin' i' ony kirk I ne'er saw a' the days o' my life—seizin' an' tearin' ane anither like dowgs. An elder grippit ane, an' a strong young chiel the ither, an' wha wi' an awfu' struggle got haud o' ane by the cuff o' the neck and liftit him bodily up; but the native frae Skye clung fast tae the Lowlander, an' baith were draggit oot o' the kirk. I aye had a kind o' belief that dowgs had sowls, for I hae seen the collies come tae the kirk wi' the shepherds an' behave themsels like ony gentlemen. But after seein' sic a fecht atween the twa i' the hoose o' God I'm wae for them, an think the puir brutes had better be left at hame.

It's Just So.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

"I can't see how men will make fools of themselves over politics," observed Col. Staker as he overtook his friend, Judge Smith, on his way to dinner yesterday.

"Nor I, either," replied the Judge. "I don't think much of a man who cannot discuss politics unbiased and with the same calmness he could speak of a sale of real estate. You are a Democrat and I am a Republican. I think I am right and you think you are. A little pleasant discussion is all right, but when it comes to flying mad and getting excited I think a man is an idiot."

"Just my idea, Judge. By the way, what do you think of that Garfield letter on the Chinese question?"

"I think it's a base forgery."

"Do you?" Why I think its a settler on him."

"Bosh? He never wrote it?

"But there is his own handwriting to prove it!"

"Prove nothing, I tell you it is one of the contemptible dodges your party is noted for."

"Contemptible dodges! I'd like to see a more contemptible dodge than your colonizing Indiana the way you did."

"Never colonized a voter there!"

"See here, Judge Smith, do you take me for a blind man who can't read?" demanded the Colonel as his chin began to shake.

"And do you think I'm an idiot!" demanded the Judge as he grew red in the face.

"I say that letter is a forgery!"

"And I say it isn't."

"It is!"

"It isn't!"

They halted.

They glared at each other.

Then the Colonel crossed the street in the mud to get away from such a man, and the Judge crossed a vacant lot rather than be on the same street with a falsifier.

A Rale Irish Letther.

DEER NIVUE—I haven't sint ye's a letther since the last time I wrote to ye's because we've moved from the former place of livin', an' I didngt know whether the letther wud reach ye's or not. I now wid pleahsure take up me pin to inform ye's of the death of ye'r oun livin uncle Kilpatrick, who died suddenly afther a lingerin illness of six months. The poor man was in violent conwulsions, lyin' perfectly quiet and spacchless, all the time talkin' incoharently an' callin' for wather. I had no opportunity to inform ye's of his death except I wrote to yes' the last posht which wint off two days before he died, and thin' ye's wud have posthage to pay. I am at a loss to tell what his death was occasioned at, but fear it was his lasht illness. He niver was well ten days together durin' the hull time of his confoinment. I am at a loss to tell what occasioned it, but I fear it was by atin too much pazo and gravy. Be that as it will, as soon as he breathed his lasht the doctors gave up all hope ov his recovery.

His property now revolves to the next in kin, who all died some time ago, so I expect it will be divided between us. You know the property was very considerable for he had a foine esthate, which went for his debts, and the remainder he losht that on a horse race; but it would have won the race if the horse he run against had not bin too fasht for him.

I never saw a man, and the doothers all say so, that tuk medicine betther nor he did. He would as lave take bither as swate if it only had a taste and appearance ov whisky punch, an' it would only put him in the humor for fightin; but, poor soul, he'll niver ate or dhrink any more—an' yez haven't a livin' relashun but fwat was killed in the lasht war.

But I can't dwell on this mournful subjic an sail me letther in black sail in wax an put on it yer uncles coat of arrums, so I beg ye's not to break the sail when ye's opin the letthe, til three or four days afthur ye's resaive it, by which ye's will have time to be prepared for the sorrowful tidins. Yer old swatcheart sinds her love to ye's unbeknowns to me. When Geray McGee arrives in Ameriky, ax him for this letther, and if he don't know it from the rest tell him its the wun that spakes of your uncle's death and is sailed in black. I remain yer ould grandmother.

North Carolina Marriage.

Soon after the close of the late war Captain X was appointed a justice of the Peace in a county place not far from Raleigh, North Carolina.

His father had been a planter in rather small way, and his son the captain had acquired considerable experience in the business of managing real estate, drawing up deeds, &c., during his father's lifetime, and then in settling the estate after his decease. Further than this he had no legal knowledge, and, indeed, his stock learning was small and poorly selected, but any lack in general information was fully made up for his use by self-assertion. Late one afternoon, as he was riding home from Raleigh, he met a young woman and two men, who hailed him and enquired if he was Captain X. The young woman and one of the men wanted to be married at once. The other had come as witness Shey had procured the necessary license, but an irate father was on their path and swore that they should never be married. It was considered bn all accounts safest to have the ceremony performed without delay and try pacification afterward.

Now the Capt. had never witnessed a marriage, and naturally had no very clear idea of what was usual in such cases. He remembered having seen a book about the house years before with a form for marriage in it, but what the book was and where it was he could not remember.

"Why," said he, when he told the story afterward, "I know the postles' Creed and Commandments, and at first thought I'd use 'em to begin on, but then I reckoned, on the whole, they was too durned solemn."

He asked the couple to come to his house, secretly hoping that he could find that book; but they declined, for the reason that the matter admitted of no delay.

A less assured man would have been sorely perplexed, but not he. He lost no time in removing his hat, and remarked. "Hats off in the presence of the court." All being uncovered, he said, "I'll swear you in fust off. Hold up yer right hands."

"Me, too?" asked a friend of the groom.

"Of course," said the captain, "all witnesses must be sworn. You and each of you solemnly swear that the evidence you shall give in this case shall be the truth, the' 'ole truth, an' nothin' but the truth, s'elp you God. You, John Marvin, do solemnly that to the best of your knowledge an' belief you take this yer woman ter have an' ter hold for yerself, yer heirs, exekyeters, administrators, and assigns, for your an' their use an' behoof forever?"

"I do," answered the groom.

"You, Alice Ewer, take this yer man for yer husband, ter have an' ter hold forever; and you do further swear that you are lawfully seized in fee-simple, are free from all incumbrances, and hev good right to sell, bargain and convey to the said grantee yerself, yer heirs, administrators and assigns?"

"I do," said the bride, rather doubtfully.

"Well, John," said the captain, "that'll be about a dollar'n fifty cents."

"Are we married?" asked the other.

"Not by a durned sight ye ain't," quoth the captain, with emphasis; but the fee comes in here." After some fumbling it was produced and handed to the "Court," who examined it to make sure that it was all right, and then pocketed it, and continued: "Know all men by these presents that I, Captain X, of Raleigh, North Carolina, being in good health and of sound and disposin' mind, in consideration of a dollar 'n fifty cents to me in hand paid, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, do and by these presents have declared you man and wife during good behaviour, and until otherwise ordered by the court."

The men put on their hats again, the young couple after shaking their benefactor's hand, went on to meet their destiny and the irate father, while the captain rode home richer in experience.—Harper's Magazine for November.

The Philadelphia Chronicle is doubtless correct when it asserts that the fair sex cares more for pickles than for politics.

Even the wisest is sometimes a fool. For example, the philosopher who wore his spectacles when asleep that he might recognize the friends he might see in his dreams.

"I think dear, the dew has commenced falling," he said, in his softest accents. "Yes," she yawned, "I've been hoping to hear adieu for some time." He didn't call the next evening.

"The book to be read," says Dr. McCosh, "is not the one which thinks for you, but the one that makes you think." A trader on the verge of bankruptcy is thus advised to look over the one labelled "Bills Payable."

Mamma—"Why, my dear Willie, what in the world is the matter with little Oscar's head?" Willie—"Well, we're playin' 'William Tell,' an' somehow my arrow won't hit the apple, but keeps pluggin' his eyes an' nose.

A couple of lovers went together from Ripon, Wis., to Fond du Lac, and telegraphed back to the girl's parents, "May we get married? please wire consent immediately, as ceremony will be performed this evening anyhow."

A meddlesome old woman was sneering at a young mother's awkwardness with her infant, and said: "I declare a woman never ought to have a baby unless she knows how to hold it." "Nor a tongue, either," was the quiet rejoinder.

Ugly barrister: "You use the word 'humbug,' madam. Tell me what you mean by it." Witness: "Well sir, I can't exactly give you precise meaning of the word, but if a lady was to say that you were handsome, I should say it was 'humbug.'"

"Any letter for me?" asked a young lady of the female postmaster in a country town. "No," was the reply. "Strange," said the young lady aloud to herself, as she turned away. "Nothing strange about it," cried the f. p. through the delivery wicket; "you ain't answered the last letter he writ ye."

"What; that coffee all gone?" "Yis, mam; there isn't a blessed drawin' left in the box." "What: four pounds of coffee used up in our small family in one week?" "Small family! Musha, thin, mam, there's two of yez and the maid, and there's me an' me foive admirers, who has aich a night to hisself, and how ye can make a small family out of tin of us is beyant me intirely. I don't know what ye'll do whin I come to fill in the other two nights o' the week wid young men who wants a sup o' hot coffee for to keep the chills away?"

EVERYBODY uses "Teaberry" to beautify and preserve the teeth. It sweetens and gives fragrance to the breath. Delightfully cooling and refreshing. Testimonials from ll over the country of its excellence. Price 50c. 134d&wly.

Is it possible.

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvellous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

ZOPESA.—I have secured the agency for this compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to me under most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acids and carrying off impurities of the Stomach and regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle, which sells at 10 cents, or large Eight ounce Bottle, 75 cents. L. W. YEOMANS, AGT.

Envied Beauty.

What is more handsome than a nice bright clear complexion, showing the beauties of perfect health? All can enjoy these advantages by using Electric Bitters. Impure blood, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are speedily cured. For nervousness and all attendant ailments, they are a never failing remedy, and positively cure where all others fail. Try the Electric Bitters and be convinced of their wonderful merits. For sale by Jas Clarke & Co at fifty cents per bottle.

A HOUSEHOLD PERFUME.—EVERY FAMILY ABLE to appreciate and enjoy the pleasure afforded by a really healthful and delicious perfume, should supply themselves with the genuine MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. It is the most delightful and most lasting of all fragrant Waters.

The Secret of Happiness.

How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Perhaps a cough has come upon us which threatens that dreaded of all diseases, consumption, and we feel that death is near With what joy should we feel then, when such a remedy as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is placed within our reach. It has cured thousands who were nearer the grave than ourselves and made their lives peaceful and happy. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Loss of voice, difficulty of breathing, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs are positively cured by this Wonderful Discovery. Now to give you satisfactory proof that DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will cure, if you call at Jas Clarke & Co. You will get a trial bottle free of charge.

The Montreal Exhibition.

A writer in the Canadian Spectator throws discredit on the exhibition of musical instruments at Montreal, ridicules the judges, sneers at the stately Weber piano for appearing in such company, and sarcastically asks why the pianos of Decker, Steinway and Chickering did not put in an appearance, whereupon an "exhibitor" goes for him and the pianos, whose absence he deplores, in the following lively style:

"EXHIBITION NOTES."

To the Musical Editor of the Canadian Spectator:

SIR,—Under the above heading a very severe, and to my mind, unjust criticism on the musical portion of our exhibition appears in the musical column of last week's Spectator. In this article an attempt is made, evidently by a non-exhibitor, to throw contempt and ridicule upon those of our Canadian manufacturers and dealers, in musical instruments, who, at great personal expense and sacrifice of time, did what they could to further the success of our national Exhibition. Nor is it the exhibitors alone who are the object of his uncalled-for and unjust attack. The judges (giving the names of each) are sneered at with impertinence. It did not occur to this critic that the task allotted to these gentlemen (the judges of musical instruments) was a very difficult one, undertaken with great reluctance, after repeated solicitation, and performed without remuneration. But, notwithstanding the evident desire of the writer to conceal his motive, his real object is quite apparent. The piano he wishes to puff is the Decker, the one he intends to ridicule is the Weber. The others are merely introduced to fill the picture. He would have us believe that because the pianos of Steinway, Decker and Chickering were not at the show, therefore, "so far as musical instruments are concerned, it has proved a gigantic farce." The New York Piano Company, as the largest exhibitor, and particularly the Weber pianos, which they represent, appear to receive the greatest share of his attention. He tells of the Weber coming in second, which was not the case, they have received first prize on grand, first on upright, and a diploma of the first-class on the square.

It is well known to the piano trade that two of the piano makers whose absence is thought to be so unfortunate for our exhibition, have, up to a few years ago, been the most constant and inveterate exhibitors, not only in this country, but in Europe. For the Decker piano it does not make much difference. Its agency was held here for many years without our ever having heard of its superlative qualities, and had Mr. Nordheimer not resumed the control of the Steinway and Chickering, we would not have heard of it to-day, but on the principle that "when all fruit fail we welcome haws," an attempt is now made to supply the place of these once popular instruments by offering a Decker in their stead, but surely if the task was so hard that the late popular agent retired from the struggle, I can hardly think this writer's efforts will be more successful. The public will not easily be persuaded that because the Decker piano is absent from our exhibitions they must necessarilly prove "a farce." Last year at the Toronto Exhibition, the Decker Grand did compete, but was so hard pressed by the square and upright Heintzman pianos that this year a trial with the new Heintzman Grand, both at Montreal and Toronto, was perhaps wisely declined.

Some four years ago was held in the city of Philadelphia an exhibition, at which all the giants of the piano trade met in competition, and there for the first time in the history of exhibitions, appeared Albert Weber, of New York. Hitherto his instruments had been known only as the Artistic Pianos, the favorite instrument of the leading musicians and vocalists, and of the New York aristocracy. He did not go to Philadelphia to contend with the pianos of Decker; he (Decker) was not even thought of, nor Chickering, nor Knabe, nor any other of that class. The one man that Weber went to meet at Philadelphia was Steinway. Proud, boastful, audacious, bearing all the honors of London, Paris and Vienna Exhibitions, they met on equal ground. The ribbons, decorations and medals of forty contests could not avail. Even prestige and the possession of popular favor failed to turn the scale. The little New York musician had infused into his pianos the soul of music; the other pianos might possess sound, they were laboring for power. His united strength with inimitable sweetness and purity of Tone, the majestic swells of his Grands, the sweet plaintive notes of his Squares and Uprights, were too much for his competitor, and Weber was crowned the victor. From that day his instruments became the established favorite of the musical world. Madam Rive-King, forgetting the certificate that in her girlhood she gave to Decker, and which their agents still publish, wrote to Weber that "his piano was the finest she ever placed her fingers on." Since then, the Deckers, the Knabes, and the Chickerings, with the hundred manufacturers of Europe and America, have quietly taken their allotted places in the ranks, while Steinway, the hero of many battles; now too old for active service, prefers retiring on half-pay to taking second place under his young and more vigorous leader.

The above are some of the reasons which may explain the absence of these once leading pianos, not only from exhibitions, but also from the concert halls and musical conservatories—for years past the leading musicians, as a rule, use only the Weber Pianos.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the un-qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,
